BASEBALL FOR PEABODY

Peabody's town team will play the Beverly, K. of P. team at Emerson Park tomorrow afternoon and on Memorial Day morning will play the strong Joyce Bros. team of Lynn here.

The Checkers will play the Polish A. C. team of Salem at Emerson Park Sunday afternoon and next Thursday will open the Twilight league.

BASEBALL LEAGUE

The grammar school baseball league has already got under way and several exciting games have been played.

The schedule this year has been arranged so that each school plays a home game and a visiting game with each of the other teams. Two games are played each week, Mondays and Thursdays, four diamonds being available. Emerson Park, East End, the Tan Beds and the South Peabody grounds.

The standing of the league to date follows:

	Won	Lost	P. C.
Carroll	3	0	1.000
Center	3	0	1.000
St. John's	2	1	.666
South	1	2	.333
Bowditch	0	3	.000
Wallis	0	3	.000

Schedules have been prepared and presented to the schools through the courtesy of Adin F. French, the druggist. These schedules may be obtained from any of the grammar school principals or at French's drug store.

LOOK OUT FOR WALLIS

The Wallis school baseball team defeated the South school yesterday afternoon. Score 11 to 8.

TO PLAY BENEFIT GAME

The fast Fort Strong artillery team will come here June 4 to play the town team at Emerson Park in a game to raise money for a former service man who is sick. The Eagles, A. O. H. and Legion boys are behind the venture.

SMALL FIRE

An alarm at 10.41 last night from box 42 was for a small fire in the kitchen at 20 Upton street, occupied by Charles Collins and owned by the Essex Tanning Co.

Frost's Purifying Qualities.

By its formation on trees and plants frost has an important beneficial effect, as its purifying quality is exercised on the air. Science tells us that the filtering of all the air that passes through foliage gathers the nitrogenous gases given off, which nitrogen, being returned again to the soil, acts as nutriment to vegetation, —S. K. Pearson Jr., Co-operative Observer, United States Weather Bureau, in New York Post.

Peabody Lodge of Elks, 1409 Will Initiate Class of 75 Leading Citizens On June 8

JOHN F. MALLEY
Prominent State Elk

DR. LAWRENCE K. KELLEY,
Exalted Ruler

Peabody Lodge No. 1409 will celebrate its first anniversary night on Thursday, June 8th, at Peabody high school auditorium, at which time the degree team of Haverhill Lodge No. 165 will initiate a class of 75 candidates, this being the second class this year, 30 candidates having been initiated by Peabody Lodge on May 8th.

The high school auditorium will comfortably seat, theatre fashion, about 900 on the floor and in the balcony, while the stage will hold some 400 people. The entire lodge will be upon the stage and the meeting should be one of the prettiest and most unique in the history of all Elkdom.

Brothers James R. Nicholson, P. G. E. R.; Judge James F. Duffy, G. E. Ldg. K.; and Edw. M. Hamlin, P. G. Esq., are among the prominent Elks invited to be guests. Brothers C. F. J. McCue, grand trustee, will be there with his smile and help radiate sunshine. D. D. G. E. R. Dr. Wm. D. McFee will positively be present to inspect the best little lodge in America, which happens to be in his district, and S. John Connolly, P. D. D. G. E. R., "Father of Peabody Lodge," will wear the smile that won't come off; also genial John P. Brennan, president of the State Elks Association, will positively be present at the festive board.

Each and every exalted ruler in the state has been invited to attend as a special guest of Peabody Lodge. All

$35 TAX RATE FOR PEABODY

A thirty-five dollar taxrate for Peabody appears to be certain this year, instead of a $40 or $45 rate which had been declared mandatory. This amount is held to be the outside figure with a possibility of a reduction from the $35 as soon as the assessors have official access to the supplementary budget which Mayor Shea will present to the City Council this month.

Chairman Patrick J. Sheehy of the board of assessors and Principal Assessor George R. Nelson declare they cannot talk officially yet. Their office is now waiting for the supplementary budget to be passed by the Council. It is understood that the forthcoming budget will not exceed $40,000 which, added to the original budget of $814,000, will determine the amount of the new taxrate.

Robinson Plans To Make Own Shoes In This City

Joseph Robinson, the first man to run a five and ten-cent store in Peabody, who is closing out his retail business on Main street, plans to manufacture children's shoes in this city. He has been engaged in a mail order shoe business for the past two years, which has grown to such proportions that it demands all of his time, and for this reason he is selling out his retail shoe business and his five and ten-cent store adjoining.

A. C. Lawrence Lea. Co. Getting Back To Normal

(By ENERGY)

The tariff on hides is occupying the attention of many tanners, particularly those who finish side leather and sole leather. I cannot see but what the consumer will pay the bills. Livestock dealers want a duty on hides to protect their product. Natural enough. They have lost millions by the drop in hides, but they made at least that amount on the rise of the market during the war. Therefore no one has heard of this class going to the wall financially.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter tells us "It should always be remembered that the proponents of free hides are not asking for special privilege. They are not demanding duties, but ask to be let alone. The history of tariff legislation shows that cattle hides came into our ports free for 91 years. They were only singled out by the Dingley law, for a duty. This law enacted in 1897 was the one and only measure to attempt to apply the doctrine of protection to cattle hides. Hides were again made free in 1909 by the Payne Aldrich bill and during the administration of President Taft. Hides on the free list are a natural, normal and Republican protectionist principle. Free traders should, if consistant, favor anything on the free list. In view of this, one wonders why there is an agitation on hides. He should look for the hidden cause, "the bug under the chip."

It is plain that senators pay little attention to measures which come up in congress only as affects their own constituency. Natural we will say. But what it means to this nation to have a few men bigger than politics. Men who will do their utmost for the country as a whole. Such a man I believe to be Senator Cabot Lodge. Political enemies will attack him from all angles, but he is broad enough to have enough followers to carry him over any political obstacle. Congress has had multitudinous duties to attend to for several years. Hides after all, whether free or dutiable, is small indeed.

I note retail shoe stores are advertising shoes from $7 to $10 a pair. Somebody is making big money on these prices, and I wish I was one of them. Big profits in shoes is kept up because the public seem to care little about it. In fact they appear to rather pay high prices than fight a bit for their rights. I do not believe the tanners can be accused at this time of profiteering. Their books if examined would make a sorry showing today. They live in hopes, as do all of us, and if the future follows the past, there will be bright streaks.

The A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. are working up to their war-time business. With two beamhouses busy, with a capacity of 3000 hides daily, it will take many a cattle funeral to meet this number. We are indeed a big country when we consider the cattle production alone. What hides come to Peabody to finish into leather represent only the light run. Sixty pounds and up go into sole leather. I presume up to sixty pounds are made into shoes, but they are the spready variety. The ordinary size factory in Peabody at the outside would care for 500 hides daily. The average would be far below that figure.

Thus we see what the Lawrence company means. I am told they have finished as high as 3000 dozen sheepskins daily. Think that over. Let 3000 cattle followed by 36,000 sheep parade our streets headed for the Lawrence plant. I figure the line would extend to Boston. Then add to this procession what other Peabody plants consume, and lengthen that line as far as you care to. I will not attempt to say how far, but individual steers will take up seven feet, a sheep three feet. Never mind the tails. One thousand dollars may be given the lucky man or woman who can give the correct answer. It must be remembered some cattle walk sideways, and many sheep fall by the wayside.

Think of it. Somebody is stealing leather from shoe factories. I wonder if they will keep the stuff for a better market. It is evident some one is cutting that leather. Do you suppose some long-headed tanner is doing this trick to start something? Honesty is the best policy they say, but some policies come high, particularly on automobiles. No, I cannot bring myself to think tanners would steal leather these times, for they have plenty to give away. It is some fellow who sees what is coming in leather and proposes to have some on hand.

President Harding in his address before the National Chamber of Commerce, said: "I say this because we are on the threshold of a new era. Undoubtedly there is more than a mere business revival in sight. Our country is finding itself again. We are fundamentally right and we do not intend ever to be discouraged for a long time."

Them's my sentiments. We of Peabody with 1300 automobiles to feed, evidently feel in good humor. It may be difficult to feed the family, but that auto must have gasolene.

College professors say success depends upon preparation, but many of our successful men are sure it depends upon perspiration. S. and L. Rep.

Not even a roof was shingled last year among the tanneries. No one had the courage to even talk building.

Patent leather shoes are still laughing at their relatives, and threaten to put shoe shine parlors out of business, unless they cut prices. Hair cuts have dropped to 25 cents, shoe shines are slated to go three for a quarter.

Calf leather has been away. With a long vacation, this prince of leathers will be there with both feet, shortly.

Firemen Will Place Wreaths On Loved Ones

The graves of 59 deceased firemen will be decorated on Sunday, June 11, when the Peabody Relief Association will hold its annual memorial Sunday. There are 21 veterans buried in Cedar Grove, 14 members in St. Mary's cemetery and 16 in Monumental. The graves of four deceased members in Harmony Grove, two in Greenlawn and two in Oak Grove, West Peabody, will be decorated by a special detail of firemen. Wreaths will be laid on the mounds of the deceased members, dirges will be played by Spence's band and taps will be sounded.

At St. Mary's cemetery, Rev. Thomas P. McGinn, pastor of St. John's church, will deliver an eulogy on the dead firemen.

The order for the exercises sent out by William C. Mahoney, secretary, call for the firemen to assemble at Central fire station at 1.30. The procession will march to Peabody square, where electric cars will be taken to Cedar Grove cemetery off Lynn street. At the conclusion of the exercises taps will be blown from the roof of the fire headquarters by three buglers.

Joseph A. Ryan, president of the City Council, who will be acting Mayor in the absence of Mayor Shea, and Councillors Sullivan, Eagan and Jones of the fire committee will be special guests.

Peabody Now Has Radio Store In Court Bldg.

Peabody's radio store opened yesterday in the court house building opposite the Central fire station, with Everett Wilson, war veteran, as the proprietor. The store is well appointed with office, stock rooms and a demonstration room set apart for the benefit of all beginners in the art of wireless telephone.

The equipment is the best on the market and there is no better radio store this side of Boston. This latter fact bids fair to bring much new business to Peabody, as the radio store here is one of the very few in all Essex County.

In addition to radio sets, the store will carry parts for all instruments even suitable for those who have home-made radio sets. The radio signs on the front windows are the handiwork of a clever sign painter and attract much attention.

Mr. Wilson is the son of J. Murray Wilson, and he has recently returned from a residence in Los Angeles.

EQUAL TO ALL DEMANDS

When your thoughts turn to spring wraps and you are distracted in trying to choose between the practicability of a coat and the graceful smartness of a cape, remember that it is easy to make a compromise. Some one has foreseen your difficulty in the choice of a wrap for all-round wear and solved it for you. The cape-coat is here in several delightful variations one of them shown in the illustration

Wool jersey or any of the soft, light weight wool coatings, make wraps of this kind. Their capes are lined with crepe or satin, usually in a quiet contrasting color. The model pictured is equal to all weather emergencies. It is fastened with two large buttons and they make, with buttonholes, a smart decorative feature on the cape portion.

MAYOR SHEA WILL GREET ROTARIANS IN HAVANA, CUBA

Mayor William A. Shea, Thomas F. Ryan of Plymouth, formerly of this city, and Frank W. Penniamn leave tomorrow on the San Bruno of the United Fruit line for Havana, sailing from Boston. They will be gone ten days, returning to Peabody on June 14. While in Havana they will visit the Havana Rotary Club. The Enterprise publisher was editor of the Havana Post in 1911, the newspaper being the only American daily on the island. It is now owned by John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, who also controls the big race track outside of Havana.

To meet the demands made on his mail order business, Mr. Robinson plans in the not distant future to manufacture his own shoes and he will locate his plant in Peabody, where he has been associated in business for the past 17 years.

He is looking around now for a suitable location to continue his mail order business. He requires a good-sized floor for his business. It is probable that factory space will be offered him through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, which is making an effort in his behalf.

Starting in the five and ten-cent store business 17 years ago, Mr. Robinson was for a number of years in the Thomas block prior to his moving to the Hickey block on Main street, where he divided his business into a shoe store for the retail trade and opened another store for his five and ten-cent goods. He enjoys a pleasing business and he has made many friends in this city.

He has represented shoe manufacturers for the past two years and by his own energy has built up a remarkable business, being one of the largest consignees through the Peabody post office. Announcement of his closing out sale is on page three of today's Enterprise. Read it.

Entirely Out
No More Orders Taken until after the strike is settled

This will be our reply to your inquiry regarding coal within THREE WEEKS if orders continue to be placed as they have been the last week.

TODAY we can sell you the best grade EGG, STOVE and NUT coal at $14.50 per ton for Cash, the lowest price in New England. WHY WAIT. The miners insist upon a wage increase of approximately 20%. This would add $3.00 to the cost of the coal at the mines as the domestic sizes would have to stand the entire increase. The operators demand a decrease which would save the consumer about 80c per ton. Up to date there is no sign of settlement. This strike may last one month or six months longer. We strongly advise your taking at least a part of your winter's supply NOW. We cannot forsee what the winter price will be but believe that any extra cost at the present time will be more than offset by the better quality of the coal and the feeling of safety in having it in your bins.

ROBINSON'S GOING OUT OF BUSINESS SALE IN FULL SWING

Clipping from Salem Evening News, March 9, 1922:

"One of the largest customers is Jon Robinson, who runs 5c and 10c Department Store on Main Street. He has agents in different parts of the country selling shoes for him as a side line to his regular business, and ships a great many shoes by Parcel Post. He is said to be the largest customer the Post Office has and pays more in Parcel Post tolls than any other concern during the year. It is no uncommon sight at the Post Office to see tables piled up high with bundles of shoes for shipment to all parts of the country."

TO THE PUBLIC

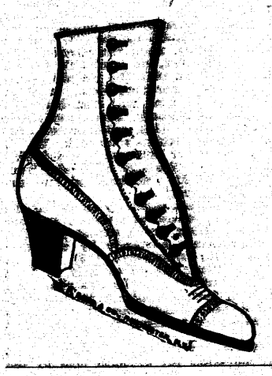
AS YOU ALL KNOW I AM DOING A LARGE MAIL ORDER BUSINESS SHIPPING SHOES TO EVERY PART OF THE COUNTRY. THIS IS TAKING UP ALL OF MY TIME, FOR THE LAST TWO YEARS I COULD NOT GIVE MY TIME TO THE RETAIL BUSINESS. SO, I FINALLY DECIDED TO GIVE UP MY RETAIL BUSINESS AND STICK TO THE WHOLESALE GAME. AS MY TIME IS WELL TAKEN UP I MUST MAKE A CLEAN SWEEP OF IT AND GET OUT AS SOON AS I CAN. SO PRICES WILL NOT STAND IN MY WAY AT THIS SALE, I AM GOING TO OFFER MY $20,000 STOCK OF MEN'S, LADIES' AND CHILDREN'S SHOES AT PRICES UNHEARD OF BEFORE.

Everything must go!! No matter at what price. Be in time to dig out the wonderful values while the digging is good.

This is the most sensational sale ever attempted! Your dollar at this sale will travel a long way.

Entire $20,000 stock of Men's, Women's, and Children's Shoes, must be converted into cash in a short time.

Your opportunity to stock with shoes at less than cost prices. Get in early and select your shoes. Prices no object.



We Cannot List Everything! Below are only a Few of Our Bargains. It Will Pay You to Visit Our Store

TO THE WOMEN FOLKS OF PEABODY

Here is the story in a "Nutshell", I am going out of the retail business. I am offering hundreds of pairs of Ladies' shoes at half and less than the regular prices. The high prices prevented you from buying good shoes. At this sale you get your chance to stock up with shoes for yourself and your family at prices which will certainly suit you. But don't wait until the best ones are gone. Come at the opening and get your share of the bargains.

LADIES' SHOES!

Ladies' one strap House Slippers, with rubber heel which sold regularly for $2.25 a pair. Selling Out Price, 98c pair

Hundreds of pairs of Ladies' shoes in lace and button in all makes—Tan, Black and Patent leather. These shoes have sold from $3.00 to $6.00 a pair. To clean them out we put them all out on the bargain counter at Selling Out Prices, $1.79 and $1.98 a pair

If you find your size in the above lot you will get one of the biggest bargains you ever bought in shoes. It is needless to remind you to come early before the best ones are picked as we know that they will go fast.

LADIES' OXFORDS!

We are offering all our Ladies' Oxfords, this season's goods at the following low prices:

Selling Out Price, $1.79 a pair

BOYS' SHOES AT SLASHED PRICES!

The space is too small to list all of our bargains we have in Boys' shoes. We want to impress you that this is not a money making sale. I am going out of the retail business and I must dispose of my stock and convert it into cash! I realize that the only way to do this is to cut the prices.

Profits and costs are not considered at this sale. We are offering Boy's shoes as low as ..... $1.79 a pair

COME! COME! COME!
You will not regret it.

SNEAKERS!

Our line of Sneakers which we have received this season are offered at less than cost. Everything must be sacrificed.

The Army Victorious

Their flying banners are the winds that blow;
Their martial music is the song of night;
For laurel garlands there are wreaths of stars;
The gleaming moon upon its westering flight
Pours out its golden flood across the fields
Where hosts illustrious, waiting, lie at rest;
Where crosses standing in long, whitened rows
Cast shadows of the cross on Calvary's crest.

On ruddy fields they gave their lives in faith,
As He who bore the cross, the crown of thorn;
Now silently they stand within God's house
Redeemed and through their sturdy faith reborn.
No baubles given by a king in pomp
Adorn their breasts, but on each hallowed head
A crown—the laurel of eternal life—
Marks these the victors, the triumphant dead.

—Whitelaw Saunders in the Kansas City Star.

MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day, the day of days when all pay special tribute to the loved ones who have passed on, was this year especially helpful by the beautiful weather. Nature surely asserted itself in bringing out the trees to bloom, the flowers to blossom. It gave those who visited their loved ones the courage to live on and make the best of this world of ours. Memorial Day has changed in the last ten years. Before that time the reverence for the day which commemorated so much of the past, was shown by attendance at church and at least a part of the day devoted to the ways of Sunday. There has been a change, however, a change to holiday garb, with sports taking up some of the time. We do not criticise that change, for it may be the best way. But a general recognition of what the day stands for, we contend should be made. As when the world war ended, a minute of prayer would impress all as being a day different than the others. We all forget, to a greater or less extent. It goes with living. Time is a healer of troubles and griefs, and it is well so, that we may live for others. But when one sees the Grand Army of the Republic march our streets, with tottering steps, followed by the Spanish War Veterans who are following their footsteps, and the American Legion with younger men in the prime of life, time will fly so fast as to make the American Legion of today soon the Grand Army of yesterday. No better example of life can be produced than this picture. Therefore, as one by one, more graves are decorated each year, it brings us to the thought that Memorial Day should be consecrated as the day when all should bow their heads for those who fought that our government should live, for those who gave their all when the call came to arms, and to the loved ones who have passed beyond the vale.

WEST PEABODY

Many times attempts have been made to extend water pipes to West Peabody, construct better roads in that section, and give that district what the rest of the city enjoys. Being in the minority little has been accomplished. West Peabody being a farming district, it is argued they can get along as they have since the town was organized. From that viewpoint, they can get along. But with betterments in that section, would not the city be the gainer? Would it not attract residents there, and after a start is made which we believe would be made, would not the city be the gainer with extra taxes? No one who contemplates purchasing a country home will be attracted by country roads and well water. It is not the sign of the times. Other places offer more, therefore it is not to be wondered at the population does not show the increase it should show. If we wish to see our city grow and West Peabody offers natural conditions that can be compared with any city, we first must show a desire to offer something more than natural conditions. Give them the water, put the roads in first class condition, and the answer will be new residents. We are aware such improvements cannot be attempted today, for the city treasury will not allow it. But there has been many times in the past and there are many to come in the future, when we can better West Peabody and pay the expense in tax returns on new property.

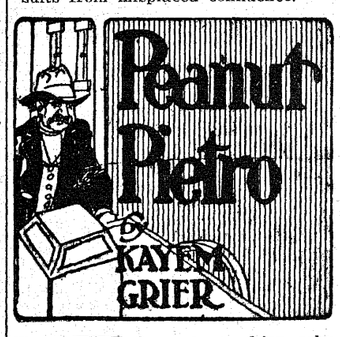
INVITATIONS

And I'll request your presence.—Shakespeare.

HERE is a nice little problem in etiquette that may perplex some of the brides who are making plans for spring weddings.

Suppose, for instance, that a woman of mature years and independent position in life who possessed no near relatives is about to be married, and suppose because of the fact that she is without family ties she herself must make all those arrangements for the wedding that would usually devolve upon the bride's mother or aunt or other woman relative. It may be that she is to be married at church and that she wants to invite her friends and her husband-elect's friends to the ceremony and to a wedding breakfast or supper following the ceremony at her own home where she has lived with no other companion save an old and trusted servant, or it may be that she and her bridegroom want to entertain their small wedding party at a hotel wedding breakfast following the ceremony. Who then should send out the invitations?

The old time idea was that a woman should never send out her own wedding invitations even though she had been married before and really possessed no one who stood to her in the place of a parent or guardian. But good usage now permits a woman to issue her own wedding invitations when there is no one who would conveniently do this for her. To be sure, a young woman would seldom do this, but the privilege is not restricted to women who have been married before. However, when this is done the bride does not have the invitations worded thus: "Miss Jane Smith requests the honor of your presence at her marriage to Mr. John Brown, but instead she uses this wording: "The honor of your presence is requested at the marriage of Miss Jane Smith to Mr. John Brown on the afternoon, etc."



In the event that the bride has both or either parents, their names would most emphatically be used either in the invitations or announcement of a marriage. If a bride is motherless, then the invitations or announcements are sent out in the name of the father. However, if a motherless bride is to be married at the home of an aunt, then the invitations are sent out in the name of the aunt and her husband. It would be perfectly correct for a father, if he had no convenient home of his own, to have his daughter married from a sister's home, when the invitations would run:

Mr. John Brown
requests the honor of your presence at the marrige of his daughter Jane Louise to
Mr. William Smith
Thursday afternoon April twenty-first at half past three at the residence of
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown
225 Fifth Avenue.

Argument for Order.

The importance of being orderly is shown in the trouble that generally results from misplaced confidence.

DA WIFE for one my frien aska me other day eef I know leetle girl wot used to serva da food een board house where I leeve. I say I know dat leetle girl but ees longa time I no see.

Well, da wife for my frien say dat leetle girl ees gonna getta married nexa mont. "Mary was fina girl, Pietro," my frien's wife say, "so we gonna geeva her shower nexa Friday night. Would you lika to geeva her somating for da shower?"

Now jusa between you and me and no for spreada round, I no lika idee ver mooch. I feegure she gonna taka bath een da tub Saturday night anyway.

But da wife for my frien say I gotta wronga idee. She say before every girl getta married een deesa country she hava plenta shower and all da frien geeva somating.

Mebbe ees alla right and mebbe ees wrong, I dunno, but Mary was fina girl when she worka een da board house, I dunno how she getta so dirty gotta hava tree, four shower before getta married. So I buy greata beega box of soap wot smella nice and one scrub brush and senda down to Mary. On leetle note I say, "Dear Mary: One gooda bath een da tub weeth deesa moocha soap weel maka you plenta clean and ees better as half-dozen showers."

I dunno wot's da matter, but lasa night da guy wot Mary ees gonna marry tella one my frien he gonna shoota me queeck for insulta hees girl.

Wot you tink?

ROUND ABOUT

Never have the several cemeteries shown to better advantage than this year. The thousands who visited them have nothing but praise for those in whose charge they are. With such a start, the flowers will thrive throughout the summer.

Andover and Lynn streets will require constant care from now on to keep them in shape. Automobiles have a way of wearing holes that is difficult to understand. Whether the process of filling these holes with tar and cement will prove right, remains to be seen. Cutting down appropriations will serve to hold back such repairs, but they should be done as a matter of economy. It is not always economy not to spend money.

Veterans of the Spanish and World wars must pay a two dollar poll tax this year. Bills for five dollars will be sent them and an abatement of three dollars will be made on application to the assessors. Discharge papers must accompany the application for the abatement. The law passed by the legislature this year reads, the application must be made within 90 days from the date of the tax bill, or no abatement will be allowed. Civil war veterans will receive tax bills, but will receive a five dollar abatement upon application. In order to have all war veterans attended to, Commissioner Andrew Fyfe of the Soldiers' aid department will assist those who will apply at his office in City Hall, his hours being from 6 to 9.30 p. m. The Assessors have office hours from 8.30 a. m. to 4.30 p. m.

There is a parcel of land on Driscoll street awaiting an owner. Some 20 years ago a man named Crowley held title to this land, but after his death no one can say as yet what happened. As this land is low and with water, plenty of bull frogs collect there and annoy the neighbors, the Board of Health is making strenuous efforts to abate the nuisance. This department proposes to fill this land as soon as the legal part is attended to. Lost—the heirs of this property.

At the regular meeting of Union Post G. A. R. last Saturday, 14 of the 33 members of the Post were present, this being the largest number at any regular meeting for several years. The ages ran from 74 to 82 years. Three of the Post members are enrolled at the Chelsea naval home. They are Charles E. Carr, William H. Hildreth and Daniel A. Small. The Post members were generously saluted all along the procession on Memorial Day.

The Essex Trap Rock Co. officials claim some old blast in connection with the new one caused the recent turmoil on Lowell street. However, it was a small earthquake and fortunately no one was injured by the flying stones. We will give the company with the long name the benefit of the doubt.

Nears do not count, so the property at the corner of Lowell and Chestnut streets has the same owner. Everything points to a change in ownership of this property in the near future. It is taxed for $10,000. They also tell us the Stockwell property on Main street is nearly sold. Several offers have been mare as announced by the real estate brokers.

There has been several complaints lately of the quality of the water from Spring pond. It is evident from the color and taste the other ponds have more to do with this condition than has Spring pond. It is rather difficult to trace this water through the pipes, but bog iron which is pronounced healthy by those who know, is in evidence. Are they saving Spring pond for a rainy day? A case in court recently by Watchman Michael Boyle told the story of some foreigners fishing in Spring pond. They tell us the fish there are so tame as to jump in the boat. A fine place for some of the fellows who catch 10 pound ones (in their dreams).

They even make hootch in South Peabody, as evidenced by the seizure on County street recently. We did not believe such things of this staid community. This hootch game covers acres and a multitude of sins.

There are several cases of shingles in the city. The doctors tell us this strange malady comes from a nerve, they do not say too much or too little. Shingles are high these times.

I hear many compliments for Mrs. Lucy Moran, owner of the New Essex House, under whose management the Salem hotel has proved a successful venture. Mrs. Moran makes an ideal hostess, as proven by the increasing patronage of her businessmen's luncheon.

With the removal of William H. Bushby to Hampton Falls, N. H., last week, there was removed from the city's prized relics, a sleigh that carried provisions from Peabody to Washington's army in Cambridge in 1775.

A woman's knitted scarf, on display at Jacobs' store on Main street, is the handiwork of Frank J. McCarthy, a war veteran, who is taking the treatment at the Middleton hospital. It will be given away in the contest to aid a disabled war veteran who belongs to Eagles, A. O. H., and Legion.

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules Relieved Obstinate Intestinal Indigestion

L. H. Phillips, of 268 West 128th street, New York City, is one of the hundreds who heartily praise Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules. He recently wrote: "I have been afflicted for many years with an obstinate case of intestinal indigestion and constipation for which I have used many remedies with little benefit. A friend suggested the use of Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules and I take pleasure in certifying that they have been beneficial from the very start, and I heartily recommend them to others similarly afflicted."

This is but one of many testimonials coming from those eager to do their part toward spreading the knowledge of the relief they have experienced. Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules are guaranteed to give satisfying relief in dyspepsia, flatulence, gas on the stomach, indigestion and constipation or money will be refunded. They enable you to eat what you like and enjoy it to the full without discomfort.

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules contain a number of reliable, standard medicines, acknowledged to be valuable in treating gastric and intestinal disturbances. Just one or two of the capsules and a swallow of water after each meal will aid in digesting your food properly without any disturbing effects. They will also improve your appetite, making the foods necessary to health appeal to your taste. If you have chronic dyspepsia, continue taking the capsules and they will tone up your stomach and assist in restoring health.

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules are quick, sure stomach relief without fuss or bother. Try them today.

Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Gould yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. H. A. Begg of Lowell is visiting her son, Foster Begg, on Lynn street.

Morris Ramsdell of Lynnfield street has opened a variety store and would be pleased to see his many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Newhall went to Nantasket and Plymouth last Sunday.

Miss Margaret Bakeman of Melrose has been visiting her brother, Rev. R. A. Bakeman, for a few days.

Mrs. Kate Francis is visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. W. Parker, Tucker's court.

The Sewso Club will meet with Miss Agnes Jordan next Monday evening.

The home games of the B. I. A. and Lake Shore Park will be played at Rockdale Park, being more centrally located.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings the South Peabody Dramatic Club will present the closing drama of the season, "The Convict's Daughter.". This is a play in four acts with Miss Louise Poeton and William Weld having the leading parts. This is to be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society and was given at Salem last week. Ice cream will be on sale each evening.

W. E. Weld is directing a play to be given in Lynn this month under the auspices of the Red Men.

Mr. and Mrs. James Quinlan and family, Mrs. C. E. Hobbs and daughters Hilma and Eleanor, motored to Concord, N. H., Memorial Day.

Miss Grace Needham of Lynn is at The Elmwood, Wolfboro, N. H., for the summer. Miss Needham is well known in South Peabody, where she formerly lived.

George Coleman, the Lynn street grocer, has sold his business to Ralph Richards of Salem, who will carry the same line of goods, with a greater variety of fresh meats. Mr. Coleman intends to return to his former home in Maine.

Miss Elizabeth Fogg of County street designed the poster on the church bulletin board, advertising the health talk at the South school. She shows considerable talent in this line and has received prizes for posters.

The eighth grade pupils of the Samuel Brown school made about $17 at the Indian lecture and food sale held last week. A large silk flag will be purchased for the school hall as a token from the class of '22.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Swan and youngest daughter spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swan, Lynn street. Mr. Swan started for Waterbury, Conn., Wednesday, and from there will go to New York City. Mrs. Swan and children will stay in South Peabody for a while.

A number of young ladies met with Elizabeth Fogg and organized a club, to be known as the Re-li-on-us Club. Marjorie Morrell was elected president; Elizabeth Fogg, treasurer; Eleanor Hobbs, secretary; Pauline Bakeman, Sadie Rosen, Dora Jordan, Doris Larrabee and Mildred Smith are other members of the club. They will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock with Sadie Rosen.

Mrs. Daniel Keegan of Bartholomew street sailed for Ireland Wednesday to visit her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Newhall, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Batchelder and family, Miss Hazel Hetherington and Earl Newhall are spending a few days at Camp Shawmut, Nahant.

A union meeting of the B. I. A. and Neighborhood Club was held Wednesday evening at Davis hall. A fine supper was served under the direction of Mrs. May Pearson, Mrs. Marion Pearson and Mrs. Elizabeth Hetherington. The men who play on the B. I. A. ball team were guests at the supper. They played with the Lake Shore Park team earlier in the evening—and lost.

Miss S. E. Wells of the faculty entertained a number of the teachers at her cottage at Asbury Grove over the holiday. These teachers have formed a reading club and meet during the winter to read many of the standardized books.

Florence McKinnon of the sub-freshman class spent the holiday at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

John Fogartin of the sub-freshman class was absent this week.

Leaders in the Spanish spelling match held in Miss Brodbine's class this week were Clara Melanson and Anthony Puska.

Friends of Elizabeth McHugh of room 4 are glad to see her sufficiently recovered from her recent illness to continue her studies at school. Miss McHugh has been ill with appendicitis for the last six weeks.

The leaders in the French spelling match held in Miss Brodbine's class were Bernard Ginsberg and Helen Wiggin.

Margaret McCarthy of room 10 visited the Salem Commercial school one day this week.

George Ballentine of the junior class spent the holiday in Providence, R. I.

Julia Fitzmorris of room 10 has been confined to her home with illness for the past week.

Miss Mary Barry substituted for Henry Higgins, Latin teacher, this week.

Elizabeth Moore of room 10 has been absent for the past week because of illness.

Dorothy Moffat of room 10 is employed in the office of the Boyd Chip Co., Lynn, after school.

Marea Johnson of room 1 has been confined to her home with a cold for the past week.

Mary Moynihan of room 10 spent the week-end with friends in Hamilton.

Friends of Mrs. Annie O'Connor, matron at the high school, are pleased to hear that her condition is somewhat improved.

Rev. C. Norman Bartlett was a visitor at the high school last Friday. Mr. Bartlett visited the classes and attended the memorial exercises after recess.

Harriet Graves of the class of '14 was called home from Washington, D. C., where she is employed, because of the death of her brother, Walter K. Graves, of P. H. S. '17.

Many of the pupils from the high school took part in the Memorial Day exercises held in City Hall Tuesday. The exercises opened with a selection by the band, the singing of America by the audience and chorus, prayer by Rev. C. Norman Bartlett, the Grand Army Orders by Joseph M. Horrigan of the school; Raymond Burlingham gave an outline of the life of Gideon Foster, and William Ratcliffe, as General Sutton, told of the spirit of the citizens of '76: Marea Johnson as Columbia introduced the speakers for the Civil war, and Catherine Canniff, of the senior class, as a Civil War girl, gave some of the incidents of the war, and told of the work of the citizens of Peabody during the war. Willis Moore as one of the heroes from Peabody, told of the bravery of the Peabody citizens who volunteered to serve their country in its moment of peril. Elbridge Tarbox, a senior, as Abraham Lincoln, delivered the Gettysburg address. This was followed by singing and a selection by the band, and Miss Johnson introduced the last great war of our country, the World War. Raymond F. Grady, as one of the heroes of Peabody, gave a review of the splendid work and the great sacrifices the Peabody boys made during the war. Marguerite M. Smith represented the Red Cross and told of the work of that great institution, and of the sufferings of the boys who made the great sacrifice. Elizabeth Gourley, as Peace, rendered a pleasing solo, and Rose Salkowitz, as the American flag, recited "Our Flag" and led the Flag salute. All those participating took their parts well and showed the results of long, hard study and practice. The chorus, from the grades, sang between numbers, and was a credit to Miss Anna F. Sullivan, who has worked with the children all year. Miss Margaret M. McCarthy was the accompanist. Miss R. Towne, Miss Annie Fairchild, Miss Katherine Logan and Miss Evelyn Van Dyke of the faculty directed the speakers.

At the close members of the Legion helped form an impressive tableau.

All those who took part in the senior play, "Line's Busy" had their pictures taken in front of the school Wednesday.

Miss Helen Brodbine, teacher of Spanish and French at the high school, will attend the University of Madrid, at Madrid, Spain, this summer.

The following pupils are candidates for Salem Normal school next fall. They will take examinations next Tuesday and Wednesday in all subjects in which they are not certified: Daniel Keegan, Elbridge Tarbox, Timothy McCarthy, Marea Johnson, James Connolly, Mary O'Neill, Evelyn Hall, Ruth Hayward, Thomas Gilmore, Arthur Doyle, Joseph X. Murphy, Joseph A. Murphy, George Richards, Arthur Flanagan.

A reception and dance will be held tonight in high school auditorium, under the auspices of the management of "Pep." All members of the faculty and student body are invited to attend. The patrons and patronesses will be: Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Woodman, Miss Grace Harlowe, Miss Grace E. Loud, Miss Alice E. Teague, Miss Margaret A. Beirne and Miss Helen H. Wollahan. Admission is 40 cents.

Spring, as interpreted in suits, finds charming expression in this beige-colored tricotine model, of utmost refinement. It has a plain, straight skirt with a narrow separate belt of the material. The short coat falls open down the front, having only one fastening place at the collar. There is a slit seam down the back and a novel decoration of silk embroidery in self color, which finishes an exquisite example of the tailor's art.

The lecture given by Mrs. Lindley on the life of the Indians was enjoyed by the pupils. She was accompanied by an Indian girl dressed in the Indian costume, and whom she said was an Indian princess. The girl addressed the children in her native tongue and Miss Lindley interpreted.

Memorial Day exercises were held in the large assembly hall of the high school Monday of this week. Recitations were given by a number of the pupils and patriotic songs were sung. The pupils were addressed by a member of the G. A. R.

The school team will play the Carroll school team Monday.

WALTER K. GRAVES' FUNERAL

The funeral of Walter K. Graves was held at his late home, 218 Andover street, on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. A. V. House of Danvers Highlands conducted the services at the house with words of comfort and sympathy, and also the committal service at Oakdale cemetery, Middleton. The flowers were numerous and beautiful, including a rope of roses from the neighbors, a pillow with "Our Boy," a spray with "Brother," a wreath with "Walter" and a spray of pink snapdragons from the teachers and scholars of the Felton school, of which he had been janitor until his recent illness.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

THE ECONOMIC LAW

I have been talking a good deal lately about the Economic Law. A friend has asked if I will not, once more, explain what that law is and what it means.

The Economic Law is the Law of Public Interest,the Law of Human necessity. This does not mean the necessity of an individual, or of a class, or even of a nation. Nations are so interrelated in necessity that the action of any one nation in defiance of the law of general interest may disturb the economic relations of other nations and may seriously affect the life and happiness of millions of people.

The Economic Law, therefore, is the law of the greatest good to the greatest number. It has been followed (so far as it is understood) all through the progress of society up to our present condition.

If we look back over the history of this or of any other nation, we see that whenever laws or regulations have been made that favored any certain class to the detriment of other classes, suffering has been the result—famine, sickness, distress, strife, and, at times, even wars.

Wise laws protect the interest of all the people. All laws must do this or they will fail and, in time, disappear. The Economic Law is inexorable; it controls all progress, all permanent changes in the lives of the people.

We do not understand this law of the greatest good. We make all sorts of experiments. Our method of distributing the rewards of our labors is one of these experiments.

How much shall be paid for brain power, for initiative, for management? How much for the use of capital? How much for labor of men's hands, for transportation, for the uses of government, for national progress and defense?

Great and searching questions! Impossible of solution until we understand that the Economic Law will not permit any solution except that which produces the greatest prosperity and happiness of all the peole. No group or class of society can permanently profit at the expense of the rest of us.

We are beginning to realize that if we are to progress as a whole, we must first progress as individuals; we must conform to the Economic Law as single units if we are all to go forward. Otherwise we begin to set up a class consciousness and then class wars against class, sect against sect, union against union; labor against capital; money oppresses the poor; greed and graft fill the seats of the mighty, and there is trouble all around.

In so much as you and I offend the Economic Law we are helping to stir up this kind of unrest, until, in time, it is possible that some class may demand that it alone shall rule the world, and millions fight and starve and die. The Economic Law is inexorable; in action it is slow and patient but absolutely just in working out the good of the whole people.

The basic principle of the Economic Law is Justice; the justice which knows that "my right" is the right of self-expression which shall contribute the greatest good to the greatest number, and not interfere with the "rights" of anyone else. Our standard of justice is the expression of the mass; "the common expression of the common conscience of the common people." We are changing our standard of justice every day, every year, every generation. We are growing bigger, better, more productive.

The Economic Law is based upon Co-operation—the co-operative industrial effort of the nation. We do not understand co-operation. When we read that in 1919 in the State of New York forty-eight centuries of work time were lost by industry because men did not know how to co-operate, we begin to think seriously. All that time was paid for—all that loss was made up. By whom? By you and me; by the whole people. The Economic Law was broken; there is no escape from the results of a breaking of that law.

We are learning co-operation by trial, by suffering, and once in a while by a success. There are on record nearly 4000 industrial establishments in this country that are trying,—by one method or another, to bring capital, labor, management and the public into a wise and profitable co-operation.

The Economic Law demands Service; the service of the individual to the community. It offers big rewards for big service. It guarantees that the man who is industrious, thrifty, just and fair, shall enjoy the greatest prosperity and happiness because, as he promotes his own interests, he promotes the interests of everyone else. But, when he "sells out the World's Series" for his personal profit, he "sells out" all of us, and some one—perhaps many—will suffer. The Economic Law is inexorable; it punishes as well as rewards.

It is in industry that the Economic Law is being worked out, especially in the industry of America, for in no other country in the world can such experiments be made in free expression, free speech, freedom of choice. The Economic Law must be worked out in industry, in our day's work; no other institution furnishes an equal opportunity.

Where do we learn to practice "A Square Deal?" Where do we learn to "Work Together?" Where do we learn the "Joy of Creation?" In Industry. In our daily tasks we are learning slowly—Justice, Co-operation, Service.

By some people the Economic Law is called the Golden Rule.

Raymond Hitchcock In "Beauty Shop" at the Strand Tonight

Inimitable on the stage, where his keen wit and droll humor have amused thousands, Raymond Hitchcock proves in "The Beauty Shop," which will head the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday, that he is equally as facile, entertaining and comical on the screen. Channing Pollock wrote "The Beauty Shop" as a musical comedy, and it had a successful run in New York and on the road. The picture boasts of a cast that has seldom been equalled. The list of stars includes Billy V. Van, comedian par excellence, and his partner, the polished and able James J. Corbett; Louise Fazenda, the beautiful Fairbanks twins—of Zeigfeld fame—and Montague Love, an established screen favorite.

It is difficult to imagine anything more diverting than the extraordinary adventures of Dr. Arbutus Budd, beauty doctor, in Bologonia, where he pretends to be the heir to the throne. But through all the rollicking fun there is a well sustained romance that no amount of joshing can dissipate. "The Beauty Shop" is, to say the least, novel entertainment. A Baby Peggy comedy and George Walsh in an exciting chapter of his serial play, "With Stanley in Africa," will be the other attractions for today and Saturday.

Mary Miles Minter in "Don't Call Me Little Girl" will be the main attraction on the fouble feature bill for Sunday evening. Bebe Daniels in "Two Weeks With Pay" will be the second feature for Sunday. Both pictures are good and combined they make an exceptionally fine Sunday bill.

Revealing a society marital mix-up of rare interest, Cecil B. DeMille's latest super-feature, "Saturday Night," will be shown at the local playhouse on Monday and Tuesday. The theme, which proves that men and women who marry out of their own environment frequently find time to repent their rashness is said to be admirably told in a typical DeMille's dressing. The plot revolves around a young man and woman of high social standing in life and another couple of humble origin and surroundings who by a peculiar twist of fate are led to the altar by a reversal of the usual scheme of things. The fashionable young man weds the daughter of a laundress and the aristocratic girl elopes with her chauffeur. The wealthy young man cannot bring himself to the level of his spouse, who delights in trips to Coney Island. On the other hand, the chauffeur cannot see any sense in taking a bath every day when he is not doing any work to speak of.

How they finally hit a happy medium and everything ends as most of us prefer it, is charmingly worked out by Mr. DeMille. The cast is a large one and includes Leatrice Joy, Conrad Nagle, Theodore Roberts, Edythe Chapman and Julia Faye. It is one of the big Paramount pictures of the season and should receive the same heart welcome here in Peabody that has been accorded it in all other cities where it has been shown.

SUITS EMPLOY CHECKS

Along with other causes for rejoicing that spring is here, comes this example of its offering in suits. The design is engagingly youthful and particularly neat looking, employing shepherd's check for the skirt and for embellishing the straight coat of plain cloth. It is shown in black and white, but is also made in colors and in either case it appeals to good taste.

Notice is hereby given that Bank Book No. 40,546, Warren Five Cents Savings Bank, Peabody, is lost and application for payment made. Chap. 171, Acts 1912.

AMERICAN LEGION

A proposal that the American Legion be given the sacred trust of caring for graves of Confederate veterans in the south has been made to General Julian S. Carr, Durham, N. C., commander of the United Confederate Veterans. National headquarters of the Legion, sponsoring the move, has also made the same request of the Grand Army of the Republic.

"We see your ranks growing very thin, and while there are a few of you yet with the living, the Legion has an ambition to prove its fidelity to you all by accepting as a sacred trust the privilege of caring for and decorating all of the graves of America's heroic dead, who fought on both sides of that struggle resulting in the re-birth of our nation," the Legion's request reads.

An ex-soldier living in Mississippi, becoming the proud father of triplets, all girls, asked the American Legion to suggest names for them. On his assertion that he was a "good hand at poker" and therefore willing to "take a chance on your pick," it was suggested that the "three queens" be named Annie, Maude and Kate.

More than 21,000 ex-soldiers asked the Americsan Legion of Minnesota to adjust their claims against the government during 1921. Of these claims, 42 per cent. were for disability, compensation, vocational training and medical treatment.

While examining an ex-soldier to find out why he couldn't hear, an Indianapolis doctor found a wad of paper in the doughboy's right ear, he reported to the American Legion. The man declared he had inserted the wad while going overseas in 1917, to keep from getting sea-sick.

To combat the robbery of Franklin, Tenn., residences, members of the American Legion have formed a vigilance committee. They have captured three burglars thus far.

"The opinion of expatriate Americans is not needed nor wanted on this question," Rep. A. B. Rossdale, New York, has replied to the statements of Lady Astor, member of the English parliament, that adjusted compensation for American service men is all wrong.

Following indorsement of the movement by an American Legion post at Schenectady, N. Y., which termed the ex-president a "disabled veteran of the World war," service men of the Empire State have contributed a large sum to the Woodrow Wilson foundation.

Eighteen Frenchmen were digging in a German cemetery this spring for ammunition, concealed by Germans contrary to terms of the armistice. They found it unexpectedly, according to what Enrico Piana, Italian consul, told the American Legion at Los Angeles, Cal. Five are still living.

Commander Hanford MacNider of the American Legion has received 700 invitations to date to speak in as many communities on Memorial Day. He will accept the invitation of the St. Paul, Minn., Memorial Day Association.

An automobile run of 1000 miles with a 25-cent repair bill is a record made by Nicholas Farnis, who made the trip to Newburg, N. Y., to attend an American Legion meeting. His 25-cent repairs were made to his wooden leg, damaged when it slipped off the foot-brake.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

A POUND cake is a favorite with everyone, but it makes quite a large cake for a small family. The following is a half-pound cake, and bakes in one hour. Take one cupful of butter, not packed but put in lightly into the cup, one and three-fourths cupfuls of sugar, two cupfuls of flour sifted three times, one-half teaspoonful of baking powder and five eggs. Cream the butter, add the sugar, add the eggs one at a time, beating well after each one. Bake in a slow oven.

Ginger Bread.

Take one cupful of New Orleans molasses, one-half cupful of melted lard, one cupful of brown sugar, one egg, one tablespoonful of ginger, three cupfuls of flour and one teaspoonful of soda added to one cupful of boiling water, added the very last. Bake in a large dripping pan forty to fifty minutes.

Jumbles.

Take one cupful of molasses, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda; beat well, add three well-beaten eggs, one cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of shortening, salt to taste, one-half tablespoonful of ginger, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon and four cupfuls of flour measured scantily. Drop like drop cookies.

Cornflake Macaroons.

Take one cupful each of cornflakes, coconut and sugar, two well-beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of flour, salt to taste, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a baking sheet. This makes twenty-five cakes.

Cream of Spinach Soup.

Take one pint of chicken broth, one-half peck of spinach well washed and cooked and put through sieve. Add the broth and one quart of milk. Two tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with a little of the milk added and well cooked binds the soup. Put all the ingredients together and cook for a few minutes until hot.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

UNSOUNDNESS OF MIND SHOWN IN THE HAND

ACCORDING to some authorities, unsoundness of mind (insanity), is shown by the sign of the moon, a crescent, on the mount of the moon, which lies on the outside of the hand toward the wrist. If the same sign is seen on the upper mount of Mars, violent insanity is to be dreaded. Other signs of weakness of mind in varying degrees are as follows:

The line of life tasseled at the end, one tassel going to the mount of the moon. The line of the head wavy and rising in a curve toward the line of the heart under the mount of the sun or Mercury. The line of the head sloping abruptly toward the mount of the moon, with a star on the first finger. The line of the head broken under the mount of Saturn, and sloping toward a very prominent mount of the moon. Broken or curved lines on a sloping line of the head. If there is danger of religious insanity, it is indicated, according to some authorities, by the line of the head forming a large cross with the line of health on the mount of the moon.

The Unknown

It is a common weakness of humanity to ask the questions that can never be answered in this life. Probably none to whom the drama of the Unknown Soldier has appealed has not wondered who, in the sunshine of earth, was the protagonist of the great ceremony. A logger from the Penobscot? An orchardist from the Pacific coast? A well driller from Texas? A machinist from Connecticut? A lad who left his hoe to rust among the Missouri corn? A longshoreman from Hell's Kitchen? Perhaps some youth from his own Virginia. All that the army tells us of him is that he died in battle. All that the heart tells is that some woman loved him. More than that no man shall learn. In this mystery, as in the riddle of the universe, the wise wonder but they would not know.

At his bier gathered the most remarkable group that America has seen. And the tomb which Fate reserved for him is, instead of the narrow cell on the village hillside, one as lasting as that of Rameses and as inspiring as Napoleon's.

CITY HALL NOTES

Joseph A. Ryan, president of the City Council, will take up the reins of Mayor of the city tomorrow morning with the opening of City Hall, and he will have ten days to learn the art of being the chief executive of the world's largest leather city. He will fill the dual role of Mayor and president of the Council next Thursday night at the meeting of the City Council. As a matter of fact, the acting Mayor will not be called on to give much time to the details of the Mayor's office for the even tenure of the sanctum sanctorum will be zealously attended to by Attorney Raymond E. Cummings, private secretary to His Honor, Mayor Shea, who is to shake hands with the Mayor of "Alcalde" of Havana, Cuba, next week.

Time—Monday next.

Place—Mayor's office, City Hall.

"Is this the Mayor's office?"

"Yes, sir. What can we do for you?"

(This of course from smiling Ray, the man at the outer station instructed to keep off all politicians, eavesdroppers and panhandlers.)

"Well, I see by the papers that Mayor Shea has gone to Cuba. I've been after him to get City Engineer up on my street and lay the dust for the past two weeks. I'm paying taxes on a home and a garage and I want something for my money."

"I will take it up with the Acting Mayor, Mr. Ryan," answered Secretary Ray. "You hold the line and I'll tell you what he says."

"Now Mr. Jones," starts off the secretary aforesaid, "I've taken that thing up with the Acting Mayor and he tells me a rainstorm is due next Wednesday afternoon and that if Jupiter Pluvius doesn't get on the job by that time he'll get the city engineer's office on the line and give them the merry ha-ha and then some. You see the city engineer has charge of the rainfall, despite opposition of Henry Duggan, who promises to fire Emerson if the citizens ever let him in on the Mayor's job."

"Sorry, Mr. Jones, we can't deliver the rain before Wednesday, but you can count on the Acting Mayor to do his best to help you."

P. S. Just before departing for Cuba, Mayor Shea Oked the city engineer's plan to spread oil on Peabody's dusty streets. That always brings the rain.

Peabody policemen will draw lots for their annual vacations in a few days now and get ready to pack their bags. The usual two weeks' vacation pay in advance will be given the bluecoats.

Former Selectman Frank L. Stickney of West Peabody nearly played the part of a successful detective last Wednesday night when a false alarm was rung in near his house, Lowell street and the Turnpike. He got out of his house in time to see an auto with dim lights driving down Lowell street. The alarm was pulled in by some adult person.

The tax rate for 1922 is virtually set and it won't bear out the early announcement, for it's very apt to be lower than many citizens anticipated.

Fort Strong To Play Peabody Next Sunday

Peabody's town team will have the Fort Strong, Boston, nine here Sunday afternoon at Emerson Park for a benefit game to aid a disabled war veteran. The game is arranged by the committee of Eagles, A. O. H. and Legion. The artillery team is one of the best in the government and a classy exhibition is carded.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

DO ROUGH WORK FIRST

THERE is nothing delightful about spading the earth to plant a garden. But it has to be done before you can enjoy the garden.

There is nothing pleasant, except to the mathematical mind, about studying geometry or algebra.

But even if you will never use these things in your business life they are necessary to teach you concentration, and the faculty of reasoning. You'll need both concentration and reasoning by and by.

Getting rich across lots is possible, but rare. Getting happiness across lots is impossible. There is no short cut to real success.

You have got to begin by doing vast amounts of hard, uninteresting work before your life shows any results at all.

As you advance, your work will become more interesting—fascinating by and by, if you are really making progress.

Then it will be easy to do. It will be hard for you to tear yourself away from it. But that is a stage that is far in the future.

In the beginning it is all like spading a garden—hard, wearisome drudgery, with nothing at the end of the day's work to reward you.

It must be done, just the same, and if you will apply to every day's task the rule that you must apply through life, of doing the rough part first, you will find that it makes for progress, and even ease.

If there is a certain amount of drudgery that must be got through today, tackle it right now, get it done, and you can turn with a clear conscience to something more interesting.

Don't be afraid of tiring yourself by the drudgery. Your brain can stand far more work than you are ever likely to give it without wearing out. And even if it is a little weary at the end of the day, a little relaxation and a good night's sleep will make it as fresh as ever in the morning.

Tackle the rough, dull job and get it out of the way. Leave the afternoon for pleasanter duties, and the afternoon of your life, which is meant for enjoyment, will be left also to more congenial and more satisfying tasks.

past exalted rulers, P. D. D. G. E. R.'s, etc., have also been invited.

"Hitch your heart to Peabody, Elkdom holds the key," is the slogan originated by Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley, exalted ruler of the Antler herd in this city, under whose few weeks of administration the lodge has taken a remarkable stride with almost one hundred new members added to the roster, including many leading citizens of Peabody.

The anniversary program for next week Thursday night will be a banner event in Elkdom in this state, for over 75 new members will be taken into the fold, the ceremony being witnessed by prominent Elks from all over the state.

John F. O'Malley of Springfield, formerly United States collector of internal revenue, will be among the notables present. S. John Connolly of Beverly Farms, who is the real father of Peabody's lodge because as district deputy he saw the wisdom of placing a lodge in Peabody, will be welcomed by the members and given a fine reception.

On Flag day, June 14, the Peabody lodge will hold appropriate exercises in eulogy of the greatest of all flags, and in the evening will entertain the wives, sisters and sweethearts of the members at a banquet. With the initiation next Thursday night the Peabody lodge will have a membership of 225, which is remarkable for its one year of activity.

$35 Tax Rate Looks Certain With New Budget of $40,000

The taxrate last year was $28.10. Valuations of 1921 will not be changed to any appreciable extent. Where the assessors have picked up $100,000 in new valuation they have been confronted with losses which help to keep the net new valuations about where they were last year.

That the Mayor's office has done its part through the Assessors' office to keep down the taxrate will be proven by the announcement, now confidently expected, of a $35 taxrate for 1922. Salem, Danvers and other places are confronted with a higher taxrate.

It is believed that the supplementary budget will allow some extra money for the City Engineer's office to permit of some street work. The school department will also benefit from the new budget.

Items in the supplementary budget call for $11,518 for the schools, $1000 for edgestones, $2000 for water extensions and renewals, $800 for water pipe, $100 to the Grand Army, $3700 for the fire department for new hose and other necessary expense, and a sum not yet determined to cover the work of the outside relief and mothers' aid from the poor department. The amount of this new budget may reach $42,000 much depending on what sum is needed for the poor department. Another item of expense is to make the payment for the repairs to the Allis-Chalmers pump at the pumping station of which more may be heard later.

The field Assessors have completed their work and the Poll list is being printed.

Fruit Thieves Will Be Dealt With Harshly

The greatest possible protection will be given Massachusetts farmers this year against theft of fruit, vegetables and other farm produce, according to assurances given by Captain Parker of the state police, to the secretary of the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation. The federation was largely responsible for securing the passage of the state police bill last year and for the bill authorizing an addition to the force this year, and it is keenly interested in the progress which is being made to save farmers from a loss which totaled thousands of dollars annually.

The state police were put in the field too late last year to curb effectually the theft of farm produce, especially by automobile parties, but this year all the men on the force are on the lookout for just such depredations, and it will go hard with any thief if they get on his trail. The thefts are committed largely at night, and in the height of the season the state police will be on the job, patrolling the roads during the night as well as by day.

With the present small force of 50 men, it will not be possible to cover fully all sections of the state, but the mere fact that these fearless, hard-riding men are out and may show up anywhere will have a good effect in stopping stealing from farmers. By another year, when the force will be increased to 140 men, a complete system of farm protection will be worked out. There will be no money available to put these additional men on the force until fall, and it will take some time to train them after that. At the present time, the headquarters of the state police are at Framingham, with a sub-station at Northampton. When the full force is in the field, many sub-stations will be established, and state policemen will be stationed every 25 miles throughout the state.

CATHOLIC TRUTHS ECHOED IN SQUARE

The Catholic Truth Van, a specially constructed automobile which travels all over this section of the country, and from which the truths of the Catholic religion are expounded by prominent men and women, was in Peabody square on Wednesday evening and was surrounded by hundreds of people who listened attentively to addresses given by three orators who were at one time non-Catholics. Owing to a throat affection, David Goldstein, former secretary of the Socialist party of America, was able to give only a short talk. The principal address of the evening was given by Mrs. Martha Moore Avery, also a former Socialist leader, who gave a forceful discourse on the chief social and religious evils of the day. William Kerrish, another convert to Catholicism, gave a short address, which was of great interest to his listeners. The speakers were introduced by Rev. T. P. McGinn, pastor of St. John's church.

Neath the Crust of the Old Apple Pie,
There is something for you and [for I.
It may be a pin, that the cook has [dropped in,
Or it may be a dead butterfly.
It may be an old rusty nail,
Or the end of a pussy cat's tail.
But what ever it be, its for you and [for me,
Neath the crust of the old apple [pie.

Portuguese In Procession On Pentecost Day

The annual observance of Pentecost Sunday by the Portuguese Society of this city will take place next Sunday morning. A parade which will be participated in by hundreds of Portuguese men, women and children will form in front of their hall on Northend street and proceed over the following route: Shamrock, Tremont, Fulton, Tremont, Central streets through the square, to St. John's church, where solemn high mass will be celebrated at 11 o'clock. Rev. T. P. McGinn, pastor, will preside and at the conclusion of the mass the annual ceremony of the crowning of the Holy Ghost will take place. On returning to the hall the procession will go by way of Main, Caller, Tracey, Driscoll and Northend streets.

Keefe School Lads Give Fine Show

The minstrel show given by the pupils of the Daniel Francis Keefe school last Friday night was an unqualified success and reflected great credit on the pupils who participated and on the teachers under whose direction the show was produced. The school hall was crowded with parents and friends of the pupils, who thoroughly enjoyed every number on the program, and enthusiastically applauded the efforts of the little ones. A substantial sum was realized which will be used for school decorations and for useful articles for the playground. The program was as follows:

Grand opening chorus by the entire company, introducing the ends; "How-dy-do," "Old Black Joe," "Swanee River," Watermelon song; end song, "The Sheik," Mary Chebator; "Nid-Nid-Nodding," pupils of first and second grades; end song, "Sunny Tennessee," Arthur Burke; recitation, Rose Sherry and John Stankus; harmonica solo, Stanislaw Kuyava; end song, "Old Fashioned Girl," Annie Balkus; backward drill; recitation, Jessie Lee, grade I; solo, Mary Eshtook; end song, "I Ain't Nobody's Darling," Russell Lake; mandolin solo, Mario Regis; recitation, Gertrude Peabody and Francis O'Shea; end song, "My Mammy," Valaga Malinchook; solo, Donald Smith, grade I; folk dance; solo, Rose Sherry; end song, "Boo Hoo Hoo," Rose Glass; grand finale, "I Ain't Nobody's Darling," "The Sheik," "Dixie Land."

PLAIDS AND FRINGES

Fashion still puts striped materials in the lead for sports skirts, but they have some competition in plaid and checked patterns in all skirt materials. Checks with fringed edges, are reminiscent of shawls and they make many of the smart new models in which the fringle is substituted for a hem at the bottom of the skirt and also finishes the patch pockets. A skirt of this kind appears in the picture above, cut on simple lines and having a separate belt of the material. These fringed materials are particularly smart in the new wrapped skirts with the fringed edge arranged to run from belt to hem.

Sport skirts and street skirts are a little longer than they were, the regulation length being from six to eight inches from the floor. Flannel in plain colors, in stripes and plaids, is a rival for prunella and other cloths.

Hygrade Lamp Writer Tells of Incandescent

INSIDE STORY OF THE INCANDESCENT LAMP

It is so easy to take things for granted that those of us whose lot is cast outside of the laboratory and model shop seldom realize the immense amount of time and effort spent in perfecting some of the appliances which surround us on every hand and make for our comfort and convenience. A case in point is the incandescent lamp.

At a casual glance this highly useful little article seems simple enough; offhand, it is merely a glass bulb fitted with a screw shell and end cap and enclosing a fine wire filament supported on a slender glass rod. Simple—yes, but it has taken millions of dollars in money and over 40 years of time to bring the lamp to its present state of development.

Working on something which was entirely new and with very little in the way of previous experience to guide him, Edison literally ransacked the earth in search of a suitable material for the filament of his lamp. Carbonized thread, paper and a host of other materials were tried before he decided that bamboo was the best for this purpose.—(Hygrade Lamp Magazine).

REID'S AUTO TRUCK

Angus Reid, the coal dealer, had his auto truck struck by a motorcycle early this morning on Lynn street. The motorcycle was driven by J. Wil-liams of 280 Lynnfield street. No one was injured and only slight damage was done to the motor car. Mr. Reid reported the accident at the police station.

MRS. DORGAN AND TWINS

The condition of Mrs. Timothy Dorgan and twin babies is reported today at her home on Tremont street as satisfactory, with the convalescent stage well advanced. Mrs. Dorgan and twins arrived home yesterday from the hospital.

PLAYGROUNDS

The playground commission met last night and voted to have some needed repairs made at the various playgrounds ready for the opening of the season on July 3. The grandstand at Emerson Park will be repaired to prevent vandals from injuring the property. Announcement of the assignment of instructors recently elected for the season will be made probably by another week.

The Patriot Dead

This scene of little Miss America decorating the graves of our heroes who sleep in the national cemetery at Arlington, Va., will be duplicated on Memorial day all over the country.

In Memory of Southern Women.

The Confederate memorial at Arlington is especially in memory of the women of the South and it symbolizes the deep reverence which the people of the South feel for those who at home during the long struggle bore so heavy a burden of sorrow and suffering and sacrifice. It embodies an inspiring sentiment which appeals to the national feeling regardless of the fact that the shaft is the product of the enterprise of the Confederate veterans.

CHILDREN'S NIGHT

Peabody Grange observed children's night last evening, a goodly number of little ones being present. After the regular meeting the children entertained by piano and violin selections, fancy dancing and playground games. A march was formed at the end to the banquet hall, where ice cream horns and cookies were enjoyed by old and young. General dancing followed.

Peabody Grange has been invited to visit Marblehead Grange next Thursday evening.

CLEVER WINDOW RUSE

One of the Hamblet Hardware Co. plate glass windows looks today as if someone had thrown a loaded paint can at it, cracking the glass and leaving the can stuck half way through the window. The spectacle caused much attention yesterday when it first appeared. As a matter of fact, the window is intact and the paint can is cleverly arranged with streaks of white paint representing the cracks in the glass that don't exist. It is one of the cleverest window display ruses seen in Peabody in many days.

800 AT ANNIVERSARY PEABODY LODGE ELKS

Peabody Lodge of Elks, No. 1409, was one year old yesterday and the celebration of its first birthday anniversary was one never to be forgotten by those who attended. A parade, participated in by about five hundred members of the antler herd, including Peabody Elks and their sister lodges, who sent representatives to help celebrate the event, started from the Elks' new home on Main street shortly after 7.30 and marched to the high school where festivities were held in the auditorium, which is admirably suited for an affair of that kind.

A class of 75 candidates was initiated by the degree team of Haverhill Lodge 165, and was one of the most impressive initiations ever held locally. The installing officers were: Exalted Ruler, James M. Smith, P. E. R.; Est. Leading Knight, Arthur T.

CITY COUNCIL ADOPTS NEW BOND ORDER

Rev. Robert A. Bakeman appeared before the City Council at its regular meeting, last evening, and spoke in favor of adding a motor cycle officer to the police department to assist in regulating auto traffic and preventing speeding on the main thoroughfares, especially in South Peabody. Several members of the Council spoke favorably on the proposition, but all thought that no extra man should be added to the force to operate the machine. It was voted to request the mayor to provide in his supplementary budget an amount sufficient to buy a motor cycle for use of the police.

Peabody Lodge of Elks was granted the use of City Hall for Flag day exercises on June 14. The claim of James F. Connor, amounting to $29.75, for expense incurred for repairing damage to sewer pipe on Central street, caused by a defect in the street, was reported favorably and voted. The new bond order for $60,000 was adopted. The usual number of licenses were granted, and Stanley Kuva, 122 Foster street, was given leave to withdraw on his application for a victualer's license, his wife having been convicted of violation of the liquor law. It was voted to reopen the claim of Frank Chennery, a former employe of the street department, for city compensation while in the service, and the same was referred to the claims committee. The chief of police was requested to allow the men on the force to wear dark blue alpaca coats while on duty during the hot weather, if they so desire.

Dangerous Practice Should be Stopped

Something should be done to stop the children of this city from playing ball in the streets. In every section of the city, playgrounds are provided for the children in which they may play with safety, and yet instead of going to the playgrounds they play in the middle of the streets, endangering their own lives with passing automobiles, and endangering the lives of passers-by with the balls with which they are playing. One day this week a woman resident of Ward 6 while walking down the street was struck in the right eye by a ball that had been batted by a boy playing in the street with his companions. The woman was stunned by the blow and later in the day her eye became so inflamed that she required the attention of a physician. Luckily she was not wearing glasses at the time or the accident would have resulted seriously.

The Manufacture Of Shoes For Year Almost Normal

(By ENERGY)

Each week the "Shoe and Leather Reporter" tells us of better business. They back up every statement with facts of selling many kinds of leather. Accepted with a grain of salt by many tanners, I believe such tanners are now ready to concede there is another chance to get enough to eat.

Packer hides and oak sole leather have advanced and naturally buyers are disposed to own leather. It is a fact that most shoe manufacturers for the last year, at least, have carried only leather enough for their immediate wants. Such being the case, what leather has been manufactured has been carried by tanners. No doubt this amount has been comparatively small, but it stands for all the leather. When prices begin to stiffen, the spirit of gambling which is in all of us to a great or greater extent comes in, and shoe manufacturers will own leather at present prices, gambling it will go higher rather than lower.

There has been a gamble in what the public buys. By that I mean shoe manufacturers figured that low price shoes would hit the public during the last year or more. So many of such shoes were made that an over-supply is on the market. Such being the case, the turn is toward better shoes. It is a fact the public buy everything of the better qualities. I believe the majority are that way, and just so long as the money is forthcoming, they will purchase the better shoes and clothing.

There are two ways to look at this buying. My experience convinces me that quality is cheaper than quantity. Cheap clothes are dear. Cheap shoes are dear. The best skilled labor, the best materials make shoes that outwear all others, two to one. They hold the shape far better, the soles wear thin without holes appearing after a month's wear. So far as the uppers go, there is more or less of a gamble, for no matter how expert the tanner is, he cannot alter the natural condition of a skin. If human hides were tanned, I would guess the hides from some people I know would be tougher than others I know. No doubt there are some I do not know, tougher still.

Upper leather has started in price but little. A better demand is about all there is to talk about. However, the fact that leather will not be a thing of the past is good news. When we get that censor to tell us whether this or that leather will pass, as do the movies, the one thought is whether he will be allowed to receive tips. It strikes me such a man or woman, (for why not women?) would do a better job on the credit end, and take away the worry which has been the bane of the tanner for some two years. However, such buyers were frank enough to tell the sellers they would not pay until they were ready. The tanners have been in positions and I make it plural, where it looked better to sell that way or not at all.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says: "For some weeks the export trade in leather has been better than is generally realized. Exporters have welcomed foreign orders, but were inclined to keep their own counsel and not arouse competition. The plain fact is that business has improved more than is generally understood. It is not claimed there is anything like a boom in leather. Indeed that would be unfortunate at this time. A gradual recovery from depression without the haste which tempts relapse is most desired."

There has been almost a normal amount of shoes manufactured this year. Such a statement may seem ridiculous when one looks around and finds so many tanneries idle or doing but little. But it must be taken into consideration that the surplus supplies have been consumed, and that a considerable number of tanners have been finishing normal supplies of leather. The shoe business is going to fewer hands, fast. When two concerns make 37 per cent of the shoes in this country, the question arises where will such a condition stop? It not only affects the shoe manufacturer but the tanner, for should such concerns grow still bigger, and I believe they will, prices of leather will be governed by these big shoemen.

Lynn shoemakers have finally woke up to the fact that a reduction in wages is the best way. If they had come out of their lethargy sooner, much business which was lost might be brought back. But it is difficult to bring back such business. Only the skill of Lynn shoemakers will do it. Here's to their skill.

The showing of leather manufacturers, as applied to their tax bills, will be felt by all. In Peabody there is at least a score of corporations whose taxes returned by the state to our city will show a drop of 50 per cent. This means nearly $3.00 on the tax rate, and all property owners share in that loss. After all we are an endless chain with the weak links causing trouble for the stronger ones. Politicians for years aim their language at corporations for the sake of votes. The ignorant absorb such propaganda. But they cannot see that when corporations do not thrive, it comes directly back to the public, and the public pays the bills. That endless chain of life is simply a part of our being, and when anyone tries to separate one class from another, the poorer the class the more they suffer.

Have you purchased your overalls and jumpers for the fall business? Those who have not the price can apply to the Poor department, for being ready is half the battle.

MICKIE SAYS—

Sent to Coventry.

The phrase "To send one to Coventry" means to take no notice of him. The story goes that the inhabitants of the city of Coventry, England, had, at one time, so great an aversion to soldiers that a woman seen speaking to one was at once tabooed. No intercourse whatever was allowed between the garrison and the town; hence when a soldier was sent to Coventry he was cut off from all social life outside barracks. Coventry, famous in the old days for watch-making, then silk weaving, then bicycle manufacturing, is now a center of the automobile industry.

Royal Bid for Popular Favor.

During the period of the French and Indian wars, George II made a striking bid for public favor by greatly increasing his Maundy Thursday dole. The poor who had the fortune to go to the palace were served with shoulders of mutton, bowls of ale, boiled beef, three fish each and four loaves of white bread. Shoes and stockings, woolen and linen cloth, and a purse stuffed full of coins were furnished. Royal records state that the coins were assorted, copper and silver, and amounted to £4 ($20) for each beggar.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm.

CARRIAGE OF THE HANDS

SOMETIMES a palmist or a student of palmistry is called upon to read the hand of a person who enters the room with his fists tightly clenched, the elbows bent and the arms carried in what one authority calls "bow-legged" fashion. This is typical of a person of pugnacious disposition, and one must be careful and diplomatic in reading the hand and telling one's conclusions therefrom.

Many of us have met the Uriah Heep type, who seems to be continually rubbing one hand on the other in a sort of washing motion. Here also one must be careful, for slyness, adroitness, and even hypocrisy and untruthfulness are seen.

The proud, stately person carries the left hand hanging at the side with the fingers held together, but loosely. Often the right arm is bent at the elbow, with the palm held upward and the fingers closing loosely over it. We have here a person who is impressed with, and values, his or her dignity.

Vend Still Spoken in Jugo-Slavia.

Hundreds of years ago, a band of Norse vikings forsook the sea and trekked overland into what is now Jugo-Slavia. Here they found a broad fertile valley, nearly 100 miles across, in the southern part of the present Jugo-Slav kingdom, and settled down, marrying native women, whose tribal tongue is the Slovenian of the present day. From that union of Norwegian and the Slav dialect a hybrid language grew, and today their descendants in that valley speak Vend.

Milky Way Fables.

The Chinese and Japanese in their fables regard the Milky way as a stream containing silvery fishes. African Bushmen and American Indians associate it with lights guiding the paths of wandering spirits.

Pope's Good-by to Cardinal Gibbons.

I cannot help recalling an instance where a lady, a guest at the White House at luncheon, asked the late Cardinal Gibbons whether he really believed that the pope was infallible in all he said. The cardinal smiled and answered: "I can only respond to that, madame, by saying that when the pope bade me good-by the last time he said, 'Addio, Cardinale Jibbones!'"—Maurice Francis Egan in the Review of Reviews.

No More Orders Taken until after the strike is settled

This will be our reply to your inquiry regarding coal within THREE WEEKS if orders continue to be placed as they have been the last week.

TODAY we can sell you the best grade EGG, STOVE and NUT coal at $14.50 per ton for Cash, the lowest price in New England. WHY WAIT. The miners insist upon a wage increase of approximately 20%. This would add $3.00 to the cost of the coal at the mines as the domestic sizes would have to stand the entire increase. The operators demand a decrease which would save the consumer about 80c per ton. Up to date there is no sign of settlement. This strike may last one month or six months longer. We strongly advise your taking at least a part of your winter's supply NOW. We cannot forsee what the winter price will be but believe that any extra cost at the present time will be more than offset by the better quality of the coal and the feeling of safety in having it in your bins.

Snowing.

There was no wind, so the flakes fell light as feathers, gray in the gathering dusk as the down that falls from wind-swept breasts of wild swans in their flight to or from the Polar seas. TRAVELING MAN HAS STOMACH RECONSTRUCTED

Fainting Spells and Distress Relieved by Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules

"Last October," writes Walter Furmin, traveling salesman of Richfield Springs, N. Y., "when I was in Plattsburg I was bothered a lot with indigestion, dyspepsia and a bloated feeling brought on by excess gas. Fainting spells would attack me suddenly, and I was in dire distress. In seeking relief, I was advised to try JAQUES' LITTLE WONDER CAPSULES. This I did and before reaching the hotel that night for retiring I had decided relief. I felt so much better the following morning that I purchased an additional box, and found that one capsule following each meal has since reconstructed my stomach and now feel remarkably well. My brother-in-law recently had an acute attack of indigestion, something that often troubled him, and within a few minutes after swallowing two of the capsules, he was relieved."

If you are one of the suffering ones you can still save your stomach by using Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules. Just swallow one or two capsules and you will find prompt relief. The pure gelatin covering dissolves within one or two minutes after reaching the stomach, releasing the finely powdered medicines to do their effective work. One capsule aids in digesting 5,000 grains of food.

If you are bothered with indigestion, dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach, sour stomach, dizziness after eating, gas, biliousness or constipation try this valuable prescription.

Twelve days' treatment costs but 60 cents. Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules are sold under a strict guarantee of satisfactory results or money refunded.

On sale at Lawrence Bros., Peabody, or 60 cents by mail postpaid for large package from Jaques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

Bear Island.

Midway between Norway and Spitzbergen, Bear island thrusts its head, known as Mount Misery, above the cold waters. The whole island, save for moss and lichens, is almost destitute of vegetation. Long ago it was joined with the Spitzenbergen archipelago; the continental shelf upon which the island sits shows a drowned valley deepening to 200 fathoms; this marks the course of an ancient river system that must have drained an area larger than the present basin of the Volga.

Should Have Understood.

When C. M. Bissell was in charge of the old Harlem railroad he issued an order that whenever a conductor collected a cash fare he must give a receipt, and enter the amount on a stub. Very soon a committee from the conductors called and asked for more pay. Bissell inquired: "Why, boys, why do you ask for that now?" There was some hesitation and then the oldest committeeman said: "Mr. Bissell, you used to be a conductor yourself."

SPRIGHTLY SILK FROCKS

Any number of sprightly, new taffeta frocks came trooping in, in advance of spring, and they were perfectly sure of a welcome. Along lines similar to those in the pretty model shown here designers have made them in very great variety, suited to gay youth and varied to please charming age. In a conspiracy to make them wholly irresistible to gentlewomen, lace is introduced in the sleeve or neck or both, and the silk is used in hand-made embellishments of flowers and ruchings, covered cord or straps.

The dress pictured here for afternoon, or informal wear, is a youthful model with full scalloped tunic over a plain skirt. Its elbow sleeves, of the taffeta, are lengthened by a puff of fine net ending in a band of silk at the wrist. Straps of the taffeta extend from the elbow to cuffs and roses of it are set about the tunic. The scalloped edge is finished with a silk-covered cord.

Henry Thomas, who recently arrived home from California, where he spent the winter, is ill at his mother's home on Park street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blaney are visiting Mr. Blaney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blaney of Central street.

Miss Lena Nagle of Basford's court, who has been ill all winter, is much improved in health.

George Poeton of Clement avenue has purchased a Ford touring car.

Horace Wilson of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. is enjoying the week in Middleton.

Henry Grimes of Whittier, Calif., is visiting his mother, Mrs. Marcelus Roach of Blaney's lane.

Mrs. Robert Chambers of Malden has returned home after spending the past week with her mother, Mrs. W. F. Dean of Sutton street.

Mr. and Mrs .Nathan Poor of Emerson street will spend the months of June and July in Ipswich.

Richard Bucksey, a former Peabody boy, was a visitor this week in the city.

Mrs. William Munroe of Orchard street is confined to her home with inflammatory rheumatism.

Friends of Mrs. Hiram McAlpin (Bessie Sinclair) of Rochester will be pleased to hear that she is convalescing rapidly from a recent serious operation.

William Grant of Springfield spent the week-end with Dr. and Mrs. Henry I. Yale.

Betty Compson in 'Green Temptation' Strand's Headliner for the Week End

"The Green Temptation," with Betty Compson heading the cast, will be the superlative attraction the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. Other popular players in the cast include Mahlon Hamilton, Theodore Kosloff, Mary Thurman and Neely Edwards. The story deals with the adventures of a Parisian dancer, member of a band of notorious Apaches, who joins the Red Cross during the war to escape arrest. Her experience as a nurse on the battlefields purify her soul and after the armistice she comes to America to begin life anew. At a house party she encounters one of her former companions posing as a Belgian diplomat, but whose real purpose in America is to steal a world-famous emerald owned by the hostess. To frustrate his plans the girl steals the emerald herself and secretes it on the person of her lover. The crook learns of the trick and attempts to recover the jewel but is shot by a detective who has been watching him. Miss Compson has a difficult role and her handling of it indicates that the critics who pronounced her one of the leading emotional actresses on the screen did not err in their judgment. In addition to acting, the star appears in three beautiful dance numbers, assisted by Theodore Kosloff. "The Green Temptation" comes to Peabody with the reputation of being one of the best pictures released by the Paramount company this year, which is saying considerable, as this concern produces over seventy per cent. of all the good pictures. Larry Semon in his latest comedy, "A Pair of Kings," and George Walsh in "With Stanley in Africa," will be the other attractions on the bill for today.

May Allison in "Are All Men Alike" will be the main attraction on the double feature bill for Sunday evening. This is an adaption of the story by Arthur Stringer. Will Rogers in "A Poor Relation" will be the other feature for Sunday evening.

"Turn to the Right," a Rex Ingram adaption of the famous stage play which ran 443 times in New York and 218 in Boston, will be shown at the local playhouse on Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Ingram has again demonstrated his skill displayed in "The Four Horsemen," with the manner in which he makes this play live again. The cast is particularly fine, including as it does Alice Terry, Jack Mulhall, George Cooper and Harry Myers, of "Connecticut Yankee" fame.

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the famous story, it portrays the ups and downs of a village youth, who is unjustly sentenced to a term in prison. While there he becomes acquainted with two crooks. When freed he determines to go back home and arrives to find the village skinflint about to foreclose the mortgage. With the aid of his two crook pals a way is found to beat out the miser, while the influence of the trusting, religious mother serves to turn the two crooks to the right and head them on a new road. The crooks as portrayed by Harry Myers and George Cooper are two of the most delightful characters ever shown on the screen. They do their stuff, and just try not to laugh at them.

Ants That Eat Flowers.

A new type of ant, large, vicious and prolific, is playing havoc with the flower industry of the Italian Riviera, says the Scientific American. Horticulturists are required to report the appearance of this pest immediately and to take prescribed steps for its destruction. The ants are supposed to have been introduced from the Argentine.

Engaged or Willing to Be.

In olden times if a girl were willing to marry, and not engaged, it was the custom for her to wear a ring on the first finger of the left hand. If she wanted to remain single, then she wore the ring on the little finger.

THE TAX RATE

With predictions from $35 to $45 a thousand, there appears to be considerable doubt what the true figures for the 1922 rate will be. With the sum already appropriated, and adding $40,000 more for the uses of the several departments, less receipts, a $35 tax rate could be announced. But it is claimed by those in a position to know, that $40,000 will not suffice, and also that there is a deficit of rising $100,000 to be taken care of. Should these figures be added to the budget, the rate will be over $40. So until the budget is completed, figuring counts for nothing. If the departments overran their appropriations $150,000, as is claimed, the new law which went into effect this year will stop that practice. From what can be gathered, little care has been taken in the past to keep within appropriations. Spending city money or one's own is an entirely different story. Politics when allowed to have full sway poison the machinery of government to the extent of partial destruction. The voters stand it for a time, and when taxes amount so high as to make serious inroads to the pocketbook they finally assert themselves. That must happen in all communities and Peabody is no exception. Whatever blame for what has happened can be laid wherever the voters wish. If analyzed, all concerned might assume part of the blame. What has happened cannot be helped. What will happen can be remedied, and it is in the hands of the voters to remedy it.

A large majority evidently do not realize the seriousness of the situation. Taxes have assumed such high rates as to make real esate owners ready to sell their holdings and if to invest in real estate again, it will be where the tax rate will warrant it.

THE ROGERS ESTATE

Several newspapers have announced that this beautiful country estate will pass into hands who will make it over into a golf course. We are pleased if such is the case. To cut this property into house lots would be a calamity from an artist's view. The stately trees on this estate are priceless. The faced walls are a thing of beauty. In fact, everything about the property speaks of riches and what it produces. The city of Peabody can get far better taxes from this property if converted into a golf course or its like. Such a course would attract hundreds from other cities and towns and add to the business of our city. There is no doubt, however, that something is being done to promote an organization with the means to take over this property. We sincerely hope and trust that some kind of an organization will purchase it, for it means much to Peabody.

THE COMMUNITY HOUSE

While it is not settled, there is a strong feeling that the Peabody Community House cannot carry all the property on Holten street and prosper. Some of the directors feel that to do so will hinder the good work of the organization, because of lack of funds. It has been suggested the dwelling house on Holten street, together with the land bordering on that street, be sold. By keeping the barn and the Pierpont street property as an entrance, much could be accomplished and the good work go on. With so many other organizations asking for money, it is difficult at this time to raise funds enough to carry on the work as the directors would like. The barn contains the gymnasium, and can be utilized for other purposes also. Hundreds of boys and girls have derived much benefit from the Community House, and its loss would be a direct loss to the city.

Papal Robes.

During the election of a new pope it is customary to prepare in advance three sets of white papal robes of different sizes, as no one can tell which of the candidates for papal honors will be chosen. On September 6, 1914, when Benedict XV entered the Sistine chapel arrayed in the papal robes of the smallest size, it was found that even these were far too large. The robes must be in readiness, as the pope on his election is immediately clad in his vestments and receives the homage of the assembled cardinals. It is not unusual for both the robes and the Fisherman's ring—the symbol of papal authority—to have to undergo alteration to fit the new pope.

Northern Lights.

The fact has long been recognized that the splendid phenomena of the Northern lights, or aurora borealis, are due to electric action producing luminosity in the upper regions of the atmosphere, perhaps 75 miles or more above the earth, where the density of the air is exceedingly slight. But the precise manner in which the electric energy acts in such a case remains to be explained.

IN THE STREET CAR

Travelers must be content.—Shakespeare.

DOES the well bred man always give his seat to a woman in the street car? This is a question that often comes up for discussion. Now although in New York and some other large northern cities a good many men who are considered to be well bred do not make a constant practice of getting up for a woman who is standing it is generally regarded as an essential of the well bred man, that is, unless because of age or infirmity he is not well able to do so. When a man does not perform this act of courtesy it is sometimes because he does not notice that women are standing or because in a crowded car he feels that he would inconvenience more persons by attracting the attention of the ones who are standing.

When you do give your seat to a woman you should invariably do so with an air of courtesy. You should raise the hat slightly and say: "Won't you take my seat, madam?" This is the conventional, formal thing to say and really the simple act of offering a woman your seat does not entitle you to any further comment than that.

In entering a car it is usual for men to permit women to precede them but in crowded cities where traffic congestions are intense it is usually conducive of less disturbance if you simply enter the car in the order of your position. In getting out of a crowded car, while a man precedes the woman he is accompanying so that he can help her to alight, he makes no effort to do this for the other women present. However if a feeble or aged woman is alighting from the car he does not hesitate to assist her in alighting. Having performed this little courtesy he raises his hat as she thanks him.

The courteous person does not go his way through the street cars and other public conveyances without keeping his eyes open, for if one attempts to go about entirely taken up with one's own thoughts one is sure to be a very annoying traveling companion.

If you have a wet umbrella you must take care that it does not drip against someone else. If you have a suitcase or other sort of luggage be sure that it is as little annoyance to others as is possible. If you see two persons enter the car when there is a vacant seat beside you and another somewhere else in the car it is courteous to change your seat so that the two friends may be seated next to each other. One woman would do that for two other women or possibly for a man and a woman together if they were obviously engaged in conversation. A man would always do it for two women or a man and a woman for two men. Usually, however, a woman would not thus change seats with two men.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

LUCRETIA

THOUGH Lucretia was the name borne by the notorious daughter of the Borgia, it is one of the quaintest and most old-fashioned of names in this country. It is a far cry from ancient Rome to modern New England, but the name has completed the transition with very few changes to mark the stages of its evolution.

There are two theories among etymologists in regard to the original source of Lucretia. Some contend that it comes from the Latin word lucrum, meaning "gain," and, for that reason, Lucretia is said to signify gain. On the other hand, there is much evidence to prove that its real source was in the Latin word for light, lux. Many feminine names have been derived from this root and the same word has supplied surnames without number.

It is believed, therefore, that the noted old gens Lucretius, from which Lucretia is directly descended, was only another of the derivatives of lux. "Lucrece, combing the fleece under the midnight lamp," the famous old Roman tale, inspired Shakespeare to write one of his earliest poems.

France has a Lucrece which is popular, and England imported Lucretia in the Eighteenth century.

Lucretia's talismanic stone is the red-hearted ruby. It has the power to bring her strength of body, an invincible spirit and success in every undertaking. Tuesday is her lucky day and 6 her lucky number.

Villon, French "Genius of Gutter."

Francois Villon is the name by which the great French "genius of the gutter" is known in literature. It is a name he adopted for more reasons than one, and was the one he used as a writer. He had very many others that he appropriated at various periods of his life, for he was of such a villainous character that he was almost continually in trouble and assumed one name after another to throw the authorities off his track.

ROUND ABOUT

Spring pond and Brown's pond are full. Suntaug Lake is within a foot and a fraction of being full. At one time in early spring a water famine seemed imminent, but the rainfall since that time has been above normal. If the water which runs to sea was conserved, there would be little to worry about in our water supply.

Engineer Emerson hears nothing from Salem relative to the sewer. A storm after a calm is the saying, and might work out in this case. The department is keeping close watch of the factory sewerage, which may come in handy if a law suit comes in the future.

Work on the annual Fourth of July bonfire in the East End has commenced. Barrels are worth money these times, but the celebration in that section of the city has been held so many years as to be a fixture. Those interested work like beavers building that stack.

All the land of the Rogers estate on the opposite side of the street from the mansion has been sold recently. The balance is centered around the mansion, about 190 acres. Angus Macdonald is caretaker there, and shows visitors around the property with his famous smile.

The Pike and Whipple property at the junction of Andover and Sylvan streets has been divided. One of the oldest carriage repair shops in this section, the auto gave it the knockout punch. Now auto repairing is in one part and auto and carriage painting in the other.

The property at the corner of Chestnut and Lowell streets came so near a sale, it is fair to believe a sale will be made before the summer is gone. One party went so far as to have both stores let and three offices of the proposed eight let also.

There is a demand for retail stores here. A restaurant, shoe store and department store are ready to come if the store is acceptable. The added stores the last two years have made better business on Main street. The more stores the more business.

On one of the recent raids made by the local police for distilled liquor, bottles were found labelled as is the imported article, same name and all. In other words there is much liquor sold today for the original article which never came farther than Boston.

The hot weather has driven many Peabodyites to their beach homes. Atlantic breezes are cooling and we who cannot get to the shore, sometimes get a second hand breeze which helps.

The death of William H. Joll last Saturday removes one well known here. He was one of the old-time firemen and a familiar figure in everything pertaining to the betterment of the fire department. He resided for many years in a house which stood on the southwest corner of the City Hall land. This house was moved away to make room for the present City Hall.

We note two of the young ladies who clerk in the Warren bank are to have a bank of their own by getting married. The employes of this institution are a happy family, as the two young women who are to be married will testify.

Again complaints of auto speeding are registered. We have many times advocated a motor-cycle policeman, and now comes a man who will give one to the department, only asking to have the machine kept in condition. Peabody has many good roads and the temptation to speed is catching. The Newburyport turnpike has been free from accidents this season, no doubt partly caused by a better road.

That bridge which collapsed was not in Peabody after all. It was located in North Reading. We note a sign on the Andover street bridge which reads heavy vehicles go slow.

The town baseball team is winning many games and attracting good crowds. With local boys much more interest is shown. The O'Connor family is in evidence this year as in many years past.

Edgar McKeen, foreman at the Peabody Electric Light plant, spends most of his spare time caring for the trees in his fruit orchard, which covers about seven and a half acres of land on Mount Pleasant. He has 345 fruit trees and included in the number is a two-year bartlett pear tree which will bear this year. Edgar says there is a fascination working close to nature, and we agree with him.

The "bobber" shops are certainly doing a thriving business, judging from the number of flappers apearing on the streets with bobbed hair. And it isn't confined to those of the flapper age either (but then, who knows just what the flapper age limit is anyway?) The style was probably brought about by some clever hairdresser who, seeing her business waning, started a new style—and the flappers fell. However, it must be a cool style of hairdress, and maybe we're jealous.

Figures in Wood.

Figure in wood has various sources. These may be grouped in those due to structure, those caused by color variations or pigmentation, and to combination of the two, says the American Forestry Magazine. These again may be classified as normal and abnormal or pathologic. By normal is meant the natural condition of the wood of a sound tree. In the abnormal or pathologic are to be found the peculiar distortions and colorations resulting from disease, the attacks of insects and the activities of various agencies not a part of the regular life processes of the trees.

St. Patrick's Birthday.

The late Sir Robert Ball, according to a recently published book of recollections was fond of telling how it came about that St. Patrick's day is celebrated on the 17th of March. "In ancient times," said Sir Robert, "there was a mighty discussion as to what was the day of St. Patrick's birth. Some would have 'twas on the 8th of March, others declared 'twas on the 9th, when one wise man said, 'Come, don't quarrel, let us add the two together and make it the 17th!"

An engagement party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Moore, Bartholomew street, last Friday evening, when the formal announcement was made of their daughter Marion's engagement to Clayton Groves, who is now in South America. About 100 friends of the couple were present. An enjoyable program was presented, consisting of readings by Miss Marion Wilkins; vocal solos by Mrs. Wallace Woods; fancy dancing by Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Groves; and an instrumental trio, composed of Miss Lois Crowley, Miss Irene Simpson and Miss Warren. Miss Moore and her brother Earle led the march to the dining room which was tastefully decorated with locust flowers and pink roses. Favors were presented from a Jack Horner pie, which was hidden beneath a mound of rose buds. A dainty lunch was served. In behalf of the neighbors and friends present. Miss Moore was presented with a china dinner set by Miss Frances Nottingham. The wedding will take place in December, when Mr. Groves will come to Lynn to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents.

"The Count's Daughter" was given at the Second Congregational church Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. The attendance was not as large as at previous dramas, due to the warm weather. However, those who attended were more than repaid by the clever acting and exciting plot of the play. Mr. Weld had a difficult role, taking four different parts with equal success. The cast of characters follow: Weary Willie, Robert Graham, (the false father), Convict No. 423, Jerry Weston, impersonated by W. E. Weld; Col. Matthew Lee (a Kentucky banker), Wright Gregson; James Blackburn (cashier at bank), Grafton Broughton; Jack Worthington (type of the new south), Arthur Tedford; Darby Jones (a New York detective), Holdsworth Gregson; Frances (Mrs. Lee's adopted daughter), Louise Poeton; Col. Little Talks Among Ourselves

AN OLD STORY

No firm can continue long in business without the most enthusiastic co-operation on the part of every one connected with it. Co-operation is not only necessary among the members of the firm, but on the part of all its employees, from the highest to the lowest. Intelligent criticism is always welcome, but knocking, just for the sake of knocking, is pretty bad practice.

Let me tell you a story—it is not original. I heard it, or read it, nearly twenty years ago,—they say there are no good stories now-a-days.

Satan was once a man. Later he became an angel and lived in Paradise. There must have been a time when he was worthy of trust or he never would have been permitted to enter Paradise. Satan had a peculiar disposition. He was a knocker and was moody, irritable and fault finding. Most of the time he was idle. Instead of trying to help remedy the weak points of Paradise he merely pointed them out and talked about them to anyone who would listen. He made a general nuisance of himself.

Satan talked so much he had no time for work. He would neither tune the harps, nor launder the robes, nor polish the pavement which was made of gold and precious stones.

It took a lot of work to set those stones, but while the workers were at it, Satan would sit on the curbstone and knock and say unkind things and kick about the severity of the rules.

Satan was warned from time to time to get busy, but his answer always was, "I am busy." True enough, but he was busy in the wrong way. He did not represent the policy of the management. He would not obey orders. He always knew a better way and would sneer at every plan he did not suggest himself, but precious few plans did he suggest and these were no good.

There was only one thing Satan was really interested in and that was "beating the anvil." When the angels began to sing, Satan would begin on his anvil chorus. He was only industrious when he was knocking.

Finally he got a lot of angels to believe that the anvil was really sweeter than the harp. Then the management lost patience and decided that they could get along without Satan and his crowd of knockers. So the word was passed along and the loyal angels tucked their robes under their belts, laid down their harps, and fired Satan and his gang outside the gates of Paradise.

He did not stop falling for two weeks, and when he reached the earth he changed his name, for fear some one had heard about him. He took the name of D'Evil.

He is among us now keeping up his old game of knocking. Whoever listens to him or follows after him gets into trouble, but we are not listening to him as much as we used to. He is no longer popular. Where he is or what he does is nothing to us. The devil is a "has-been."

Now why not be a co-operator? A co-operator is simply one who works for the establishment of which he is a part and does not work against it, by thought, word, or deed. He does not wear rubber gloves or stand on a glass plate when he gets orders. On the contrary he is a good conductor and permits the policy of the management to play through him. He is not part of the business; he is the business, and he never runs down his firm by knocking on its policy or its management.

Co-operators and knockers are two different sorts of persons. A co-operator prizes his health more than a good time and consequently has a good time all the time; but a knocker generally suffers from lack of pure air, loss of sleep, bad circulation and he has no knowledge of "The Value of Time."

A co-operator never says to himself or to anyone else, "I wasn't hired to do that" nor does he figure to work only just so much. He does not care what time it is by the clock; he works until his job is done.

If you want to be a good co-operator beware of the pool room habit. Likewise, poker. Keep away from the red liquor. Otherwise the fool-killer will get your name upon his list.

Above all, remember that "every knock is a boost,"—for the other fellow.

Parents of Columbus.

Domencio Colombo, a wool comber and weaver, and his wife Susannah Fontanarossa. His father was probably a native of Quinto, near Genoa, and his mother a native of Fontanarossa. They were Roman Catholics. The place of their burial does not appear on record, but Columbus' mother died in 1494 and his father in 1498.

American Legion

July 1 has been designated by National Commander Hanford MacNider of the American Legion as "Membership Day." To carry on the Legion's comprehensive program for the relief of service-men during the summer, Commander MacNider has urged a united front and an all-inclusive membership. By midnight of July 1, the Legion chief has requested each post shall have increased its membership by at least 25 per cent.

The absence of the old pre-Volstead corkscrew is not noted in Frisco. Jimmie Flexner of the American Legion of San Francisco couldn't find one of them when he wanted to open a bottle. He took a rifle and at a distance of 1000 feet, shot out the cork in one try. He now challenges the Pacific coast.

The war department has just written former Sergeant Jesse Kanady, Falls City, Neb., that he owes his Uncle two dollars. The war department alleges that somebody overpaid Kanady $2 on some payday some time in the army. In appealing to the American Legion for advice the sergeant declares his usual good memory fails him as he cannot recall ever having been overpaid while in the army.

Despite the fact that New Orleans, La., has been chosen as its 1922 convention city, the American Legion has received a $200,000 offer from Kansas City, Mo., which would be host to the ex-soldiers this year as it was in 1921. The offer followed questions by the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce, inquiring of Kansas City if the service men's gathering was a commercial asset.

MISS McCARTY'S PUPILS' RECITAL

Thirty pupils from the pianoforte classes of Miss Margaret M. McCarthy of this city will give a recital in Peabody Institute hall next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The program is a most attractive one and includes piano solos, duets and trios; vocal selections by Miss Mary L. McCarthy, and readings by Miss Marjorie Shepard of Lynn, who is considered one of the cleverest readers in this vicinity, and has attained an enviable reputation on the concert stage of greater Boston. The pupils who will participate are: Delia Yelverton, Louise McCarthy, Thelma O'Donnell, Nellie Horgan, Margaret Lane, Julia Lane, Doris Hayden, Frank Rambler, Ellie Luoto, Eleanor Wilson, Louise Bettencourt, Walter Birmingham, Theresa Doherty, Helen O'Rourke, Sylvia Williams, Edward McCarthy, Sarah Sylvester, William Weinstein, Margaret Monahan, Margaret Maney, Mary Hayes, Alice McCarthy, Agnes Maney, Gertrude Butler, Margaret Aplin, Cecil Levasseur, Bessie Carney, Jennie Conde, Dorothy Wiggin and Helen Wiggin.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE THEATRE NIGHT

The committee in charge of the Peabody table for the St. John's prep college field day to be held at the college grounds on Saturday, June 24th, will conduct a theatre night at the Strand theatre on Tuesday, June 20. "Her Husband's Trademark," starring Gloria Swanson, will be the feature picture on that evening and a number of attractive vaudeville acts will add to the program.

LODGE NOTES

RED MEN'S COUNCIL

Masconomo Tribe of Red Men will present one of their famous Indian and western dramas entitled Burley's Ranch, at City Hall tonight, with a cast of 14 people. The play has been staged several times during the winter and spring in different cities and towns and has been a decided success. Specialties will be presented between the acts and there will be dancing in Red Men's hall after the show.

It is the intention of the tribe to stage a first-class show each year and the dramas that they have put on have always been successful, as the tribe has a lot of good talent. The curtain rises tonight at 8.15.

LOYAL GEN. SUTTON LODGE

At the regular meeting of General Sutton Lodge, I. O. O. F. M. U., to be held in their hall next Monday night at 8 o'clock, Garden City Lodge of Beverly will present the lodge with the traveling gavels. The officers of the grand lodge of Massachusetts will be in attendance, also delegations from Witch City Lodge of Salem, Egg Rock Lodge of Lynn and Star of the Sea Lodge of Gloucester. Refreshments will be served at the close of the ceremonies.

GUESTS OF ALUMNAE

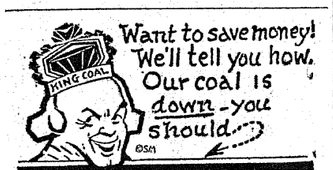
The members of this year's graduating class of St. John's high school will be the guests of the Notre Dame Alumnae of this city at the banquet to be held at the Copley Plaza hotel, Boston, on Saturday, June 24th, under the auspices of the State Federation of Notre Dame Alumnae.

JUNE WEDDINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST

The marriage of Miss Irene A. Dullea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Dullea of Swampscott avenue, and Charles J. Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Lawrence of Washington street, will be solemnized at St. John's church Wednesday evening, June 15, at 7 p. m. Miss Dullea is a graduate of St. John's high school and the Salem Commercial school, and has been employed as clerk at the Warren National bank for the past three years. Mr. Lawrence is a permanent fireman at the Central fire station.

The marriage of Miss Delia M. Conley, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Conley of Lowell, and Patrick L. Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Butler of this city, will be solemnized at St. Patrick's church, Lowell, on Wednesday, June 21. The nuptial mass will be celebrated by Rev. Michael Butler of Everett, brother of the groom-elect, and Rev. William Conley, brother of the bride-to-be, will perform the marriage ceremony.

ANNUAL SUMMER PARTY



The Father Mathew C. T. A. Society will conduct its annual summer party and dance at the Salem Willows Casino this evening. A large crowd is expected and a general good time assured.

Japanese Corner.

A Japanese corner in a room may be artistic if simplicity is carefully worked for. A Japanese screen of black satin gold embroidered, or printed china silk, makes a good beginning for this corner. Either a teakwood cabinet or stand continues the effect and a Japanese print for the wall with Japanese lotus plants in a shallow bowl placed either on top of the stand or cabinet completes it.

Peabody High School

A dance and reception was held in the high school auditorium and gymnasium last Friday evening, under the auspices of the management of "Pep." Mr. and Mrs. Woodman, Miss Grace Harlowe, Miss Grace E. Loud, Miss Alice Teague and Miss Nettie M. Willey acted as patron and patronesses. The upper classes were well represented and a number of the members of the faculty, and Miss Anna F. Sullivan, director of music, and Miss Margaret M. McCarthy, accompanist, attended. Invitations were sent out to the parents of the seniors and members of the editorial board, and some attended. The gymnasium stage was decorated with palms and Blaney's orchestra furnished music.

The senior class picture was taken in front of the new entrance last week, and the proofs have been received and have been posted in room 1 and on the bulletin board outside the room. Orders are being taken this week.

Howard Quint of the senior class has accepted a position with the Warren National bank.

Friends of Elizabeth Matheson of the junior class are glad to see her back again after her recent illness.

Sarah Horgan of the freshman class was absent this week because of the death of her uncle.

Robert Johnson of the class of '20 and at present attending Holy Cross, visited the high school Monday with a classmate, Mr. Hurley, a graduate of Portsmouth high school.

The teachers have begun reviewing for examinations which will be held in two weeks.

There was no session Tuesday because of the circus in Salem.

All material for "Pep" has been turned in and the final issue, which will be the commencement number, will be out on June 20.

The trophy shield, won by the football squad last fall, as champions of the North Shore League, is on display in the window of the Men's Style Shop.

Thomas Gilmore of the senior class took the examinations at State Normal school Tuesday of this week.

Clara Melanson and Anthony Puska were winners in the Spanish spelling match held in Miss Brodbine's class this week.

A senior class meeting was held in room 1 Monday noon, to choose a class motto, but nothing was accomplished and another meeting will be held this noon, to decide the motto.

Ethel Watts, graduate of the class of '18, and a graduate of the Secretarial course at Simmons' college, has accepted a position at the Warren National bank. Miss Watts has been employed as private secretary to a Harvard professor, but was forced to resign her position because of ill health.

Julia Fitzmorris of room 10 has been confined to her home with illness the last three weeks.

Bernard Ginsberg and Helen Wiggin were winners in the French spelling match held in Miss Brodbine's class last week.

The seniors have one more week of school.

Mary Moynihan of room 10 spent the week-end with friends in Lynn.

Elmer Durkee, the West Peabody farmer, sent to the school for boys to weed for him this week.

BOWDITCH SCHOOL NOTES

Nellie Horgan of the eighth grade was absent this week because of the death of her uncle.

The school team played the South school team last evening, and will play St. John's parochial school team Monday.

The Elks will hold flag day exercises in the new high school auditorium on Flag day, and a chorus from the seventh and eighth grades of the Bowditch, Carroll, Center and Wallis schools, under the direction of Miss Anna F. Sullivan, supervisor of music, will sing.

New Hotel On Andover Turnpike

"Ye Middleton Arms," a hotel situated in Middleton on the Andover Turnpike, will open for the season next Friday, June 16. An elaborate program has been arranged, which will make the opening day a delightful one. Bridge whist and dancing will be enjoyed, with music by a five-piece orchestra.

The policy of the hotel will be a liberal one. Chicken dinners, prepared by a first-class French chef, will be the specialty. In addition to the main dining room, private dining rooms are available and out-of-dobr dining in the "Rose Arbor" will be a feature. A business men's lunch will be served at noon each day, clubs will be given special attention and afternoon tea will be served in the "Rose Arbor." An interesting fact is that the chickens, milk, cream and fresh vegetables to be used at "Ye Middleton Arms" are products of the Middleton farm, which comprises 35 acres, and is owned and conducted by the proprietor of the hotel.

MICKIE SAYS—

Deserving of Gratitude.

An encyclopedia tells us the orange was brought to Europe by the Moors, and introduced into Italy during the Fourteenth century. It was unknown to the ancient Greeks and Romans, though they had both lemons and citrons. The Moors appear to have used it medicinally, especially the rind. We can understand that when it was once known it was not a very long step to its being cooked with sugar. Then, we may suppose, some traveling Englishman came across it, and having tasted and liked it took a sample and a recipe home with him, and so started the national taste for marmalade. Whoever he was, we owe him gratitude.—Montreal Family Herald.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

LOIS

LOIS is really a masculine name. It means "famous war" and comes from the Teutonic nomenclature through the Karling romances. Lois or Loiz, as it is sometimes spelled, is really Louis.

The French king whom the French knew as Louis de Debonnaire, was originally called Lludulcus. The Provencal promptly softened the name to Aloys, but so popular did Louis become that no member of the French royal family was christened without it. Finally the soft Aloys gained favor throughout France and the "a" was dropped, producing the musical Loys. The Bretons were already using the name of Lois, so the "y" in Loys disappeared and Lois appeared and remained permanent.

Loys was the only form of the innumerable versions of Louis that became applied as a feminine name. Spain's Lois has never wavered from its masculine interpretation, nor has the Luiz of Portugal. France formed an Heloise from Lois and Louise might possibly be called an equivalent for Lois if it were not for that strain of Provencal.

Lois has been given in baptism generally as a name of sentiment. It is a trifle difficult to pronounce but is undoubtedly beautiful and extraordinarily popular in this country.

The talismanic gem assigned to Lois is the onyx. It should be worn with care as it is inclined to cool affection, provoke discord and separate lovers, but worn by Lois it prevents these very misfortunes. Monday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

Secret of Brasses.

The Japanese are famed not only for their skill in making decorative articles, but for the beauty of the material used. It is said that the secret of the composition of some of their alloys of brass and copper has only lately been revealed. The finest Japanese brass, called "sinchu," consists of ten parts of copper and five of zinc. Another very beautiful alloy, named "Shadko," to which splendid hues are imparted by treatment with acids, is formed by mixing gold and copper, the proportion of gold varying from 1 to 10 per cent of the entire mass.

Undoubtedly.

A ghost which spends its time sitting on the edge of a bath has made its appearance in a large country house near Hitchin. Probably the spirit of a departed plumber who died waiting for his mate.—Passing Show, London.

Birds of a Feather.

"What are you cutting out of the paper?" asked Jones. "A story about a robbery." "What for?" "Well, it explains at length how a house was robbed on a Sunday while the husband was in church with his wife. You—" "I say," interrupted Jones, "have you got a duplicate of that paper?"

Popular Peabody Girls Charming June Brides

LeCain—Southwick

The marriage of Miss Helen M. Southwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Southwick of 36 Holten street, and Guy LeCain, son of Mrs. Hannah LeCain of Summit street, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. George V. Howes, pastor of the Universalist church, will officiate. The bride-to-be will be attended by her cousin, Mrs. Donald K. Woodard of Nashua, N. H., as matron of honor and Miss Mary A. Pierce of this city as bridesmaid. George E. LeCain, brother of the groom-elect, will be best man. Little Ruth LeCain will act as flower girl, and Master Marshall Gardner will be ring bearer. A reception will follow the ceremony.

Both Miss Southwick and Mr. LeCain are very popular in the city and have a host of friends who will wish them happiness. Miss Southwick is a graduate of P. H. S. class of 1917 and was valedictorian of her class. Since her graduation she has been employed in the office of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. Mr. LeCain is also a graduate of the P. H. S., class of 1915. He was one of the cleverest baseball players who ever attended the local institution, and was captain of the ball team during his senior year. He is a veteran of the World war.

Dolan—Tehaney

The marriage of Miss Ethel M. Tehaney, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Tehaney of 33 Highland Park, and John L. Dolan son of Thomas J. and the late Mary A. Dolan was solemnized at St. John's church on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Patrick J. Sullivan, who also united the young couple in the holy bondsof matrimony. Miss Margaret M. McCarthy presided at the organ and Henry W. D'Entremont sang Jules' "Ave Marie" and "O Promise Me" very effectively.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white satin trimmed with chantilly lace. Her tulle veil was caught coronet fashion with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Kathleen Tehaney, who wore a dress of pink satin with picture hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Killarney roses. The best man was Thomas Dolan, brother of the groom.

Owing to the recent death of the groom's mother, the reception which followed was confined to the immediate families. The newly weds were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. The bride is a graduate of St. John's high school, class of 1919, and has been employed at the A. B. & W. store in Salem. The groom is an employe of the B. E. Cox Leather Company. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dolan will reside at 55 Holten street.

McGrath—Moran

One of the prettiest of the early June weddings took place at St. John's church on Wednesday evening, when Miss Kathryn L. Moran, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Moran of 4 Beacon street, this city, was united in marriage to Robert L. McGrath, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McGrath of 83½ Proctor street, Salem. The bride was charmingly dressed in white Canton crepe trimmed with Spanish lace. She wore a veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Mildred G. Pendergast of Brockton, who wore a gown of apricot satin trimmed with lace, and picture hat to match, and carried Ophelia roses. The best man was Roger McGrath of 9 Beaver street, Salem, Eleanor and Marion Moran, neices of the bride, dressed in apricot and pink chiffon taffeta, were dainty little flower girls. The ushers were Michael Moran, brother of the bride, Edwin Morely of Swampscott, Frank Mulligan and F. E. Cross of Salem. Preceding the ceremony, "Oh, Promise Me" was sweetly sung by Miss Mildred N. Sullivan of this city.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's brother, John A. Moran of 40 Winthrop street, Salem, which was attended by a large number of friends. The house was tastefully decorated with palms, ferns and roses. The bridal party assisted by Mr. and Mrs. John McGrath, parents of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moran received in front of a bank of cut flowers.

Miss Mildred N. Sullivan had charge of the guest book. A substantial check from Helburn-Thompson, where the groom is employed as chemist, silver from the Turner Tanning Machinery Co., where the bride was employed, and a fine display of silver, cut glass and other gifts attested to the esteem in which the couple are held. Miss Beatrice A. Sullivan was in charge of the gift room. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls.

A buffet lunch was served by Caterer Crean of Salem. Miss Edith E. Hanson of Louisiana presided at the punch bowl.

The happy couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, New York City, Atlantic City and a trip up the Hudson, stopping at Albany and Buffalo, and upon their return will be at home to their many friends at 20 Winthrop street, Salem, after July 1st.

Kelly—Carroll

The marriage of Miss Helen Veronica Carroll of this city and John Leo Kelly of Dorchester was solemnized at St. John's church last Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The bride wore a becoming gown of white georgette crepe with tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary E. Carroll, whose dress was of pink georgette and satin, with a large hat of pink georgette, and her bouquet was of pink roses. The best man was Henry Kelly, brother of the groom.

A reception followed at the home of the bride, 23 Lynnfield street, which was attended only by members of the families on account of the recent death of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly have gone on a wedding trip to New York and on their return will reside at 23 Lynnfield street.

Peter Rooney has removed to Cambridge.

Death and Birth.

What a ridiculous thing it is to trouble and affect ourselves about taking the only step that is to deliver us from all misery and trouble. As our birth brought us the birth of all things, so in our death is the death of all things included. And, therefore, to lament and take on that we shall not be alive a hundred years hence is the same folly as to be sorry we were not alive a hundred years ago. Death is the beginning of another life.—Montaigne.

During the evening Harry Berken played several cornet solos which were greatly enjoyed, and the 11 o'clock toast was given by Exalted Ruler James M. Smith of Haverhill.

The initiation last night swelled the membership of Peabody Lodge to 225. E. R. Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley is directly responsible for the recent remarkable increase in membership and the local lodge is sure to have a most successful year under his leadership.

Peabody Lodge was instituted on June 8, 1921, in City Hall, by John Connolly of Beverly then District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler of Massachusetts North East assisted by numerous dignitaries of Elkdom including James R. Nicholson, Past Grand Exalted Ruler; Judge James F. Duffy, Esteemed Leading Knight; Chas. F. J. McCue, Grand Trustee; John F. Malley, member of the Judiciary Committee; and E. F. Hamlin, member of Committee on Social Welfare.

The first exalted ruler was Joseph A. Ryan, president of the City Council, and at present acting Mayor of the city, in the absence of Mayor William A. Shea, who is enjoying a trip to Cuba, and who by the way is now a member of Peabody Lodge, having received his demit from Salem Lodge at the last session. Under P. E. R. Ryan's guidance, the infant lodge made a splendid start and is indebted to him for his untiring efforts in its behalf. The officers the first year were: E. R., Joseph A. Ryan; E. L. K., Dr. L. K. Kelley; E. L. K., Thomas F Barrett; E. L. K., Frank W. Penniman; secretary, Henry I. Yale, treasurer, Frank H. Sanger; trustees, John E. Hayes, George S. Curtis, John L. McManus; inner guard, Philip C. O'Rourke; tyler, T. Henry Millea.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Campbell have been attending the annual convention of the Northeastern Dental Society at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, the past three days. Dr. Campbell was elected a director of the society and Dr. Henry I. Yale of this city was re-elected secretary.

WEEK-END BASEBALL

Two stellar attractions are booked for the baseball fans of this city for Saturday and Sunday this week and large crowds are expected both days. Manager John Devaney of the town team has signed up the Rose Croix, K. of C., team of Boston, who has for its battery Gill of Boston college and Marty O'Toole, formerly with the Pittsburg National League team.

On Sunday afternoon the Marblehead Catholic Club will play the local team. Both games will begin at 3.15.

OUTDOOR SUPPER

The Sunday school faculty of the South church enjoyed an outdoor supper on the spacious lawn surrounding the Moore estate on Liberty street last evening. Miss Sarah Moore of the faculty was hostess, and supper was served at 6.30, after which a business meeting was held. The children of the South church are urged to be at the church on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock to prepare for the children's day exercises.

CHECKERS PLAY SATURDAY

The Checkers will play the Derby A. C. team of Salem Saturday at 3 at the park. In the first game of the year for the Checkers the Derby A. C. defeated them 5-1. The Checkers will come out Saturday with their strongest line-up.

NOTICE

My tailor shop at 52 Lowell Street will be closed from June 10th to about September 1st.

Atty. E. A. Hershenson was a member of the committee that arranged the reception by the Jewish people of greater Boston tendered to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge at the Boston Opera house last Wednesday evening.

Dr. Henry I. Yale was elected secretary of the Northeastern Mass. Dental Association at their three days' convention at the Ocean House this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey Sinclair are entertaining their son Ramsey, Jr., of Seattle, Oregon, and their daughter, Mrs. Hiram McAlpine of Rochester, N. H.

Miss Annie Caden of Glue Hill left today for Alton Bay, N. H., where she will assist Miss Frances Carroll in the management of the Green Kettle gift shop and tea room.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Gifford (nee Alice Trask) are the proud parents of a second child, a girl, born this week at their home in Middleton.

A. Rodzyusky, the popular tailor of Lowell street, will close his establishment tomorrow for a period of six weeks and will make a business trip to his former home in Poland to settle an estate in which he is interested. His wife and daughter will make their home with friends in Lawrence during his absence. Upon Mr. Rodzyusky's return he plans upon making Peabody his permanent home and becoming an American citizen.

The beautiful floral decorations at the South church services last Sunday were in memory of the late Caroline, oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Arnold, who would have observed her 18th birthday this summer had she survived a childhood illness.

The examination for an electrician in the municipal electrical department, scheduled for last Friday, was postponed for some reason unknown and is to be held tomorrow, June 10, instead. The position pays $33 per week and includes within its duties the operation of the fire alarm system and police signal service, linesman, switch-board operator, inside and outside wiring, and operation of motor vehicles attached to the city electrician's department. Either licensed or unlicensed electricians are eligible for the tests.

John O. Ballentine returned this week from a stay at his camp at Jackson, N. H., where he has been busily engaged in arranging for the accommodation of a party of local boys who will enjoy its comforts over the coming holiday and week-end, including the 17th of June.

Patrick L. Butler, a member of the Butler Towel Supply Co., has purchased that portion of the Henry Briggs estate on Franklin street containing the residence and is remodeling the house for immediate occupancy. The new owner is to become a benedict on June 21st, when he weds a popular Lowell girl, and after a two weeks' sojourn in the White Mountains will return with his bride and make his future home in his newly acquired modernized property.

Alvah O. Moore, who has been seriously indisposed for several weeks, is so much improved in health that he left the city this week accompanied by Mrs. Moore for a sojourn in Virginia, whe he will make an extended stay with his son Charles, who is located there.

Cars driven by Mrs. S. C. Tucker, Mrs. Charles Poor and Mrs. A. E. Roome conveyed about twenty delegates from the South church to the South Essex missionary conference at Magnolia last Wednesday for an all day session. The speakers were representatives of both American and foreign fields and the meeting proved an interesting one.

Barbara Elwell, youngest child of W. P. Elwell, is a victim of the measles at her home on Franklin street.

Mrs. N. W. Penniman entertained the weekly bridge club at her home last Monday evening.

The Danvers Bleachery is starting the erection of a 1,000,000 gallon steel tank for water storage at its pumping plant in Poor's field. This new unit added to its present storage capacity will hold about a day's supply of water for the bleachery.

Henry J. Pushard and family leave by motor today to spend the week-end in opening up their summer camp at Camp Ellis, Maine, for the season. During his absence the usual geniality will be amply supplied by substitutes McNiff and Brannigan.

Miss Helen Tucker carried off the honors as the largest individual collector in Peabody for the North Shore Babies' Hospital. The fact that her father is vitally interested does not enter the case, as the members of his family are interested in any worthy cause and need no inspiration from the energetic M. D.

A Lowell street leather worker is displaying a letter recently received from a Russian relative literally more than covered with 30,000 rubles in Russian postage stamps, nominally worth $15,000, upon which he had to pay nineteen cents postage due upon its arrival in Peabody. "Emma Goldman please notice."

Mr. and Mrs. Herman. G. Barnes quietly observed the 28th anniversary of their marriage at their home on King street last Monday, June 5th.

Fourth of July In the East End

The committee in charge of the Fourth of July celebration in the East End will confine their efforts to the festivities of the "night before" this year and are not planning on any celebration on the day itself. The fact that owing to lack of funds they will be unable to have the fireworks demonstration on the holiday night is to be regretted, as the fireworks the last two years were really remarkable and drew hundreds of people here from out of town.

The barrel stack is being built and the boys are busy gathering material, for they say that this year's stack will be bigger and better than any previous one. Complaints have been received that people outside the city are collecting barrels presumably for the East End Society, and the committee wish it understood that anyone authorized to collect barrels or material for the society has a paper signed by the committee. They are anxious to get all the barrels possible and would appreciate it if anyone having any would notify them.

Mayor Shea Favors Adding One Lieutenant To Police Force

Peabody's police force may have a lieutenant, if the plans of Mayor Shea mature following his vacation trip to Havana. He believes that another commissioned officer should be added to the roster under Chief Michael H. Grady to make for a more efficient system. He has been giving the matter serious consideration for several weeks and he is pretty apt to take steps which will create the position and induce the civil service commission to call for a competitve test.

Friends of smiling "Jim" McMahon whose detective work has long been an outstanding feature of his service on the force, want to see him land the job of lientenant, and they are sanguine that if the position is created that he stands a fine chance of getting his shoulder straps.

That he will find some opposition goes without saying, for there are several men on the force who would insist on going to the front in hopes of landing among the three highest.

Policemen Martin J. Quinlan and William Hingston, not to omit fearless Fred Wiggin, might well be expected to take the examination. The fact that a lieutenantcy is in the making should be enough incentive for the coppers to brush off their test books and master again the abc's of the police manual.

Urges Girls To Become Nurses

Miss Muriel Thomas, the new assistant superintendent at the J. B. Thomas hospital, visited the Peabody high school yesterday morning and addressed the girl members of this year's graduating class, urging them to enter the local hospital training school and study the profession of nursing. It is only within the last year that Peabody girls would be allowed to train at the local institution, and the fact that they do not have to go outside the city for efficient training should be an incentive for them to train here. Miss Thomas' talk greatly interested the students and it would not be surprising to see a number of local girls take up this profession.

RAYMOND CUMMINGS TO RECEIVE DEGREE

Irene A. Dullea A June Bride

Miss Irene A. Dullea, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Dullea, and Charles J. Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Lawrence, both of this city, were united in marriage last evening at St. John's church at 7 o'clock by Rev. Charles D. McInnis. The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Mendelsohn's wedding march played by Miss Mary P. Clifford, organist. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white georgette trimmed with Spanish lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna M. Dullea, who was daintily gowned in shell pink georgette with black lace picture hat, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The best man was Frank Lawrence, brother of the groom. Preceding the ceremony 'O Promise Me" was effectively sung by James L. Eagan.

The reception which was later held at the home of the bride, 11 Swampscott avenue, was attended by about 100 relatives and friends. Schlehuber catered. The gift room in which a

On the Square for 90 Years

NEW FOOTBALL COACH WILL LEAD PEABODY AGAINST CHARLESTON

Plans for the reception of the Charleston, South Carolina, football team in Peabody next fall may soon be given an impetus with action by the special committee appointed to complete the details for the big event. There is no intention of cancelling the game, despite the rupture of athletics caused by the recent ousting of Coach Martin J. Donovan.

The advisory board is already scouting the field for a successor to the former coach and the name of the man who is most likely to come to Peabody with the opening of the fall term is now said to be agreed upon by the powers that be. The Enterprise is not at liberty to give his name at this time, but announcement is likely to be forthcoming within a few weeks.

Mayor Shea before his departure to Cuba on a brief holiday conferred with the committee and members of the advisory board, and it is understood here that he expressed himself very forcibly on the subject of entertaining the football delegation from the South as well as the citizens who will come North for the return game this year. Mayor Shea is strong for the return game being played in Peabody and he has let it be known that so far as he can act in his official position he will aid the plans to give the Carolinians a rousing reception on their appearance in the world's largest leather city.

The question of housing the visiting football players and fans from Charleston has already prompted the committee to discuss accommodations and it is said that an arrangement with a nearby golf club may lead to some club house being used by the visitors.

The housing problem is not held very serious, for while the golf club would prove a fine place especially for

GIRL SCOUTS TROOP I TO PRESENT SHOW TONIGHT

The Girl Scouts will make their last venture to earn money for the camping trip Friday evening, June 16, at 8 o'clock. They will present a two-act comedy, "The Scarlet Bonnet," in the Universalist church vestry.

The parts are taken by the following Scouts: Florence Haines, Lillian Aylward, Norma Jeffers, Florence McKinnon, Ruth Walker, Judith Barnes.

Mayor Shea Given Key To Cuban Capitol

Mayor Shea, who is due home from Havana, Cuba, on Sunday, exchanged greetings with Mayor Diaz de Villegas of the Cuban capitol last week Saturday and the two chief executives enjoyed a half hour's felicitation. The Havana mayor gave the Peabody mayor and party the "key" to the Cuban city, which is becoming more and more a mecca for Americans, some with a thirst and some without.

The Peabody mayor visited several tobacco plants, including the famous Henry Clay and Bock factory, which is across the street from the handsome palace of the president of Cuba. On June 8 the mayor attended the dinner of the Havana Rotary Club and

Eugene O'Brien In 'Chevalrous Charley' Film Star For Strand On Holiday

Eugene O'Brien comes to the Strand today and Saturday in the role of "Chivalrous Charlie," whose other name is Reilly, and whose pet diversion is to make hard-boiled New York understand that the Celtic temperament is mild and forgiving except when the ladies are involved. With such a combination as O'Brien and Reilly, it can be assumed that in "Chivalrous Charlie" things move. In fact, it is claimed that they never stop from the moment Charlie enters the train on his way home from the west, where he has spent some time at his uncle's expense among the "rough-necks" on a ranch, until he lands at his uncle's New York home in the lead of a squadron of motor cycle police, etc., bent on arresting him before having to call in the A. E. F. to help them. Assisting Mr. O'Brien in the good work are to be seen Nancy Deaver, as the diminutive vamp, who later becomes his bride, and George Fawcett, the favorite character actor, as the uncle. To those who fancy hair-breath escapes, perilous situations galore, romance and a generous background sprinkled with a lot of good old-fashioned exercise in the art of self defense will find in "Chivalrous Charlie" an invigorating evening's entertainment. A comedy film and George Walsh in his serial play "With Stanley in Africa" will be the other attractions for today.

Mary Miles Minter, the popular Paramount star, will head the double feature bill for Sunday evening, appearing in "The Little Clown," an adaption of Avery Hopwood's successful play. Alice Calhoun in "The Matrimonial Webb" will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

Audiences at the Strand next Monday and Tuesday will learn with satisfaction just what constitutes "Her Husband's Trademark," Gloria Swanson's new Paramount feature, which will be shown at the local playhouse at that time. In this case, the husband's trademark is a gorgeously dressed wife. The plot thickens when a friend of this husband and wife returns after gaining both wealth and greatness, falls in love with the wife, and the husband, to promote his selfish financial aims, rather encourages the romance. The outgrowth of this situation is a powerful climax showing the disillusionment of the wife. Later during a thrilling encounter with bandits in old Mexico, the scene of the friend's oil lands, occurs the death of the cowardly husband, who would not fight to save his own wife from the outlaws. Stuart Holmes plays the mean husband with all of his old-time finesse, while Richard Waynn portrays the friend. As the description indicates, Miss Swanson wears the greatest array of gowns in her history, and this star is noted for her fine clothes.

Conway Tearle in "After Midnight," a story of New York's Chinatown, will be the second feature on the bill for Monday and Tuesday.

Alice Joyce

At some time or another, a "movie" star reaches the very apex of her career. In the case of Alice Joyce, she is said by some to have attained her very best work in a recent popular production. Alice Joyce is said to have played a greater variety of roles than any other screen star. She began her career by telling a little untruth—that she could ride a horse. She could not—but she had to say she could to get the engagement. She found she could.

Founder of Yale College Held Auction.

One of the oldest methods of transacting business is the auction sale which, according to the early writers, was known among the Romans, and is specifically mentioned by Petronius Arbiter in 66 A. D. The first auction sale in England took place about 1700 and was conducted by Elli Yale, the founder of Yale college, who thus disposed of goods he had brought home from the East Indies. Such sales were first taxed in England in 1779.

Elephants Rip Up Pipes.

Wild elephants have caused considerable difficulty on the Island of Sumatra during oil development work, as these animals seem to have taken a special dislike to the pipe lines laid above ground through the jungles, and have repeatedly torn them up, so that gangs of men are kept busy repairing the damage.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

NOW is the time to go forth and pluck the early watercress, the wholesome dandelion, the dock and poke, the new shoots of milkweed and marsh marigold or cowslips, all giving the needed zest to the food of spring.

Fresh Dandelion Salad.

Those who appreciate the value of the tender bleached heart of dandelion like it with a bit of salt without any dressing. For a salad the bleached leaves are best, but the tender green shoots, cut and mixed with a small green onion and served with French dressing is a salad not to be despised. Cut the dandelion close to the root, with all the tender green buds. Wash carefully and slice the root from the base, buds and tender leaves for an inch above the root. These use for a fresh salad; the rest of the leaves may be cooked for greens. Another addition to this salad is a thinly sliced tomato, which adds a bit of acid and softens the bitter of the dandelion. Using mayonnaise on the fresh green dandelion is another appetizing method of serving it.

Cooked Dandelion Salad.

Cook the greens until tender, which will take two hours or more unless the greens are very young, then serve with the following salad dressing: Rub a small bowl with a cut clove of garlic, add one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of paprika, two tablespoonfuls of orange juice, and four to five tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Whip this dressing until it is creamy, then serve on the cooked dandelions.

Pigweed or Lambs' Quarter.

This is a good wholesome green and common enough to be generally well known as a weed, but not well known as a good food. Pull it up by the roots and strip off the green leaves, as the stalk is generally too tough to serve. Cook with pork or corned beef and serve hot.

Purslane is another good green, which grows in profusion. Pick the leaves and stalks, shake well and wash, then cook as any other greens.

Horseradish, pieplant and dandelion cooked together make a good flavored combination. Yellow dock when young and tender is good.

Cowslips are delicious when well cooked and seasoned. They are easy to clean and do not shrink as do the dandelions when cooking. A half peck of tender dandelion greens will shrink when cooked to a small vegetable dishful.

Mustard is grown for a green and makes a most tasty dish. The wild mustard is good, but the leaves are much smaller than those of the plant called Chinese mustard. A few leaves of the mustard cut in bits and added to the dish of lettuce improves it.

Watercress at this season is in its prime, fresh and green. It grows along the banks of brooks. One should use care in picking it where there is no fear of sewage contamination.

LEO GUILD WHIST PARTY

The home of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Shanahan, 69 Main street, was the scene of one of the prettiest and most enjoyable whist parties of the season last Monday evening, when a party was held there under the auspices of the Leo Guild. The hostesses of the evening were Mrs. Elizabeth Callahan, Mrs. Maria McElroy and Mrs. Anna Sweeney, and it was through their efforts that the affair was such a success. As a result, quite a sum will be added to the Guild treasury, which will enable it to continue its good work during the summer season.

About 100 people played whist and prizes were awarded to the following: Mrs. Daniel Donovan, Antine Jacques, Mrs. Cornelius Lyons, Mrs. Felix Carr. Mrs. Thomas Hayes, Mrs. Michael Bresnahan, Miss Mary Barry, Mrs. Charles Cassidy, Miss Ethel Grady, Dr. John Shanahan, Mrs. John Burke, Mrs. T. Henry Millea, Mrs. Frank Whalley.

A pleasing entertainment was given by Miss Margaret Griffin, vocalist; little Eileen Murphy, solo dancer, and Miss Mary P. Clifford, pianist. Refreshments were served by Misses Helen McElroy, Agnes Cody, Mary Flaherty and Mary Barry.

LODGE NOTES

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold the last meeting of the season, on Tuesday, June 20. On account of the number of people who are not in town during the hot weather, it was decided to discontinue meetings during July and August.

This does not mean that they are discontinuing their work. All calls for help or advice will be referred by the president, Mrs. Helen Bomer, to the executive committee, and acted upon at once.

The auxiliary plans to open the fall season with a strenuous campaign for membership. The Legion's drive for members succeeded in bringing many new members into the fold, and the auxiliary will endeavor to make a personal call on eligible persons and enlist their help in the work that they are carrying on.

The Girl Scout council will meet in the Universalist vestry on Monday evening, June 19, at 7.45. Important business will come before the meeting.

Eighty members of Ocean Lodge of Odd Fellows from Gloucester conferred the first degree on six candidates from Bass River Lodge, Beverly, and Holten Lodge, Peabody, at the local lodge rooms on Tuesday evening. About 200 members were present at the initiation, which proved one of the best ever held locally.

THE FINANCES OF PEABODY

Calamity howlers insist that Peabody financially is beyond redemption. While the tax rate this year will be a record one, there is little to worry about in the years to come. We have good roads, a high school which compares favorably with any in the State, a new school on Washington street, in fact we are equipped for years in most departments. Normal additions will come from year to year, and the tax rate will gradually be reduced. Many will say that it was a piece of extravagance to put so much money in the high school. Poor business judgment, perhaps, but what has been, cannot be helped, so we must all of us make the best of it. The tax rate has not been officially announced and will not be until the supplementary budget is passed. Valuations will not be raised, new buildings are few and far between. The state and county tax will show a material reduction. Tax rates throughout the country are high. The Swift interests have real estate in one western town where the valuation is $70.00 on a thousand. Newark, N. J., has a rate rising $40.00 and a 100 per cent. valuation. So down the line. Many times the remark is made that certain municipalities have a high tax rate and little to show for it. Not so with Peabody. When the leather business starts, as it will in the near future, there is nothing which can stop our city from going ahead, and our taxes will decrease. We are not in a serious condition financially, but are headed to lower taxes and financial conditions which are sound.

A MOTOR-CYCLE POLICEMAN

At last the demand for a motor-cycle to patrol our streets is bearing fruit. The Enterprise has presented facts as to conditions, time and again. Now that the public have taken the matter in hand, it must lead to results. It is evident 50 per cent. of the drivers of automobiles are either ignorant of traffic rules or care little for such rules. The consequence, over speeding is common. Admitting it is natural to speed along far above the limit, the fact there are others on the road, makes the practice dangerous. The State authorities are going so far as to take away the licenses from careless drivers. This idea will bring results, for taking away a chauffeur's license takes away his livelihood. Other ways such as fines had little effect, for the owner paid the bill. But the fact remains that the thoroughfares of Peabody offer an excuse to speed up. Lynn street, Newbury street, or better known as the turnpike, makes an ideal race track. It would not be 24 hours before most drivers of machines would know a motor-cycle policeman was on duty. It would be such a warning as to make all drivers careful. The Council has asked the Mayor to include the price of such a machine in his budget, and we are satisfied the Mayor will not hesitate to pave the way for protection to all residents, and auto drivers who keep within the law. There is no way so effective to keep autoists within the law as a motor cycle policeman.

BALL PLAYING IN THE STREETS

Many years ago, young America played ball in the streets with little danger to himself or teams. Some can remember when each night in summer, Peabody square was used by the boys to show their prowess as ball players. The sport has as many admirers then as now, in proportion to the population. But conditions have changed radically. Automobiles have made changes in living that is far reaching. Young America of today has the same ideas of what is fun as did the boys of years ago. They could play ball in the fields but the streets are handier. But with autos speeding by, such playing is out of reason. Lives have been lost in the past, and unless something is done to put an end to the practice, serious accidents will surely come. Boys are thoughtless. It is natural. Many parents are thoughtless also and that is not natural. The parents many times are at fault, and the only remedy we can see is to instruct the parents to help by keeping their children out of the streets. An ordnance whereby the police could help would appear feasible. But it matters not how it is stopped, for the benefit of all concerned a concerted effort should be made, and if not made more deaths will be recorded from this source.

Protector Taking Nap, Too.

Betty Ann had always been taught that no harm could come to her while sleeping because Jesus never sleeps, but watches over her at all times. One afternoon, while taking her nap, she rolled too near the edge of the bed and tumbled off onto the floor. Her mother hurried in, anxiously inquiring how the accident occurred, and Betty answered sleepily, "Oh, dear, I guesses Jesus was takin' a little nap, too."

The Friendly Path

By Walter I. Robinson

EVERYONE MUST PAY

EVERYONE must pay for what he gets.

There is a law of recompense which cannot be evaded or ignored.

If one prizes his happiness he must expect to pay. Eventually the bill collector will demand his toll. Unless payment is made a rough pathway lies directly ahead.

Many constantly fear the bill collector who comes and demands money toll. But he is the most harmless of all the collectors. The real collector to be feared is the one which takes the form of conscience. It is impossible to dodge this one or to frighten him off with a double-barreled gun.

Those who imagine they have ended the collector when in the form of conscience are foolishly deluded. But even though they may get some enjoyment out of life because they think they have satisfied themselves that their consciences were wrong, they can always expect another collector which takes the form of law to hound them until the debt is paid.

In this age when many fathers and mothers are worried concerning the future of their children, there is good reason to impress upon the young people the importance of being on the square—on the square with the world as well as with themselves. Too many start into their world's pathways bent on getting as much as they can—both in material value and pleasure—without paying for its worth. If parents allow boys and girls, when their characters are in the making, to get this false impression of the way best to get on, sorry days are likely to be ahead not alone for the sons and daughters and their children, but for the fathers and mothers as well.

"The law of compensation is inexorable."

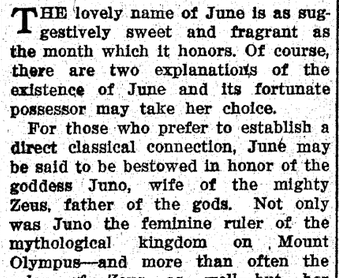
"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

JUNE

THE lovely name of June is as suggestively sweet and fragrant as the month which it honors. Of course, there are two explanations of the existence of June and its fortunate possessor may take her choice.



For those who prefer to establish a direct classical connection, June may be said to be bestowed in honor of the goddess Juno, wife of the mighty Zeus, father of the gods. Not only was Juno the feminine ruler of the mythological kingdom on Mount Olympus—and more than often the ruler of Zeus as well—but her splendid physical proportions have set her aside as an ideal of feminine womanhood. Her modern namesakes have a standard of beauty almost unattainable.

However appealing the classical legend may be, the simpler explanation for the bestowal of the name today points to the sixth month of the year. June is generally given to girls born in the "month of roses," though its adaptability to romance has given it tremendous vogue among the fanciful names.

June is, of course, purely English. It has no derivatives or contractions and no translations into other languages which may be said to preserve its identity. Junius, meaning "of Juno," is the only masculine form.

The agate is June's talismanic stone. It is said to give its wearer courage to guard her from danger and to bring her heart's desires. Monday is her lucky day and two her lucky number. The wild rose is her flower.

Miss Frog (coyly): Suppose I refuse you?

Mr. Frog (desperately): Then there is nothing left for me to do but "croak."

One big department store in St. Louis is equipped with a spacious garage, where customers may park their cars free of charge.

"Poor Richard."

"Poor Richard," or "Richard Saunders," was the pen name assumed by Benjamin Franklin (1706-1790), in a series of almanacs published from 1732 to 1737. These almanacs contained wise maxims and precepts on temperance, economy, cleanliness, perseverance and other homely virtues, and to several of the maxims were added the words: "As Poor Richard says."

ROUND ABOUT

Strawberries of the native variety are on the market, another indication of the earliness of the season. The rain this week has helped all vegetation, particularly of the early variety. Everything indicates a big crop of blueberries this year. Mosquitoes are plentiful also, which makes blueberry picking a lively game.

There are a few houses being erected throughout the city. Normal building is far away, judging by the costs. You read of profiteering in rents, but if an owner is not entitled to at least 10 per cent. gross on his investment or five per cent. net, he is not entitled to live. Small houses at $5000 each is more than the average man who works for a living can afford. Therefore the future is none too bright for houses which the city badly needs. The talk of new enterprise coming here brings up the question, where will new comers live?

This fall we presume the politicians will tell us what is the matter, and those who swallow it will vote likewise. Readjustment is going on slowly, perhaps too slow for most of us to realize it. It took five years for prices to get to the top, and presumably five more to return again.

A deer chased by two fox hounds was an unusual sight at the Homestead Golf Club last Saturday. They disappeared in the woods shortly, and it brings up the thought that one specie seeks to destroy other species, which is nature. Food for thought.

The McManus block on Main street next to the Strand theatre is much improved since the fire. The Elks have spacious rooms on the second floor, and a new drug store with attractive fittings on the street floor tends to improve that section of Main street.

Mayor Shea and party will return Sunday from their trip to Havana. Staying longer than was planned, we presume they are pleased with Cuba and its attractions.

We note the Porters are tearing down the land mark next to Rowe's garage. This building has been a lodging house for many a year and some of us can remember 1897 when the ground floor was utilized for a barroom.

The Peabody Club will meet June 24 to decide whether to stay in their present quarters on a long lease or move to their property next to the South church. There are several would-be tenants for this property, and its future will be governed by the action of the club.

It happened on one of those hot days. One of the day policemen after the day's work, hailed a foreigner who was driving a truck past the police station, asking him which way he was going. Evidently the truck driver thought he was hailed for another purpose, and perhaps had been hailed before. Anyway instead of stopping and taking the tired cop toward his home, he speeded up and the finest was left in the middle of the street with an expression which could be better appreciated to see than describe.

A good example of fast driving was shown on the Newburyport turnpike Saturday evening when a taxi from Boston run into a Ford car both going in the same direction. There must have been plenty of speed in the taxi to bump in that manner. It was a case of David and Goliah, for the taxi took the count. Come on with that motor-cycle.

Fourth of July is most here and barrels are disappearing from every known location for that bonfire in the East End. It will take much scurrying to get barrels this year, for beer kegs are extinct, and manufacturers' barrels are few and far between. But what barrels there are will be on that pile the night before Fourth, depend upon it.

The Elks with a membership of 225 ranks as one of the leading secret organizations here. It is evident this organization will soon be a leader in society circles. The Elks are famed for hospitality, which attracts many to its ranks. At the installation in the new high school hall the other evening, much praise was given the building and especially the audience hall. Some way of lighting should the local electric give out, offered the only comment.

Poll tax bills for Wards 1, 2, 3 and 4 have been sent out. Wards 5 and 6 will be out by July first. A cut in the help in the assessors' office has held back the work.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

MONEY IN THE HAND

IF THE line of the head, the lower of the two principal horizontal lines of the palm, is well branched at its beginning it is an indication of money made by one's own merit and exertions, probably in business. Much wealth gained in business is also shown by a strong, well-marked line of fortune, a line not seen in every hand, but which, when present, runs up the palm to or into the finger of Apollo, or third finger.

Other good signs of money gained in business are little lines going from the line of life to the line of the head, and also little lines leaving the line of life and running toward the wrist. Lines running upward from the line of fate, which ascends the palm about the middle, are also a fortunate indication in this respect.

These signs of acquisitiveness are seen more surely and frequently in what are known as the practical hands; that is, hands of the square or spatulate type, rather than the conic or artistic and psychic or pointed types.

SENATOR LODGE SAYS TARIFF BILL CERTAIN

(By ENERGY)

Prices of finished leather and shoes interests the industry more today than ever before. As we enter on a new era, an after-the-war era, and prices get to be staple, the question arises where will shoe prices be and what will leather sell for?

Some day congress will pass a tariff bill, and if Senator Lodge can be followed, this tariff will place all business on a paying basis. It matters not what that tariff will be, something called by that name if passed will give manufacturers a line as to how to fix prices. Congress with all that is put upon them has had its hands full, all will agree. But from the viewpoint of many whose opinions are respected, the tariff is the all important matter that will start business in the right direction. When one considers the personnel of the senate and house of representatives, and finds them composed in the majority of men who know law even if in some cases they do not follow it to the letter, or men with fortunes which helped to get them their position, their interests in tax on hides is as much as what happened in the Revolutionary war. There was ice in the Delaware river when George Washington crossed it, but why worry, for George later became the Father of his Country.

But Henry Cabot Lodge tells us the tariff bill will pass shortly and if so what will happen might have happened long ago with the tariff settled. So prices of manufacture together with cost of raw material will give a line on what to do. It is evident that when business starts, there will be little use to figure that shoes will be lower. They tell me they will be higher. Such being the case, labor will receive a healthy wage, and we in Peabody who get leather for breakfast, dinner and supper will benefit.

I continually watch the shoe market locally. The local retail stores carry good lines of shoes, and by adding them up, I find that prices remain as they have for some months. Shoes can be purchased as low as $2 a pair. Eight dollars will purchase the high-grade article, and of the two shoes the $8 ones are cheaper than those for $2.

It has been natural to suppose shoes would come down to $6 a pair before normalcy was reached. I heard an argument recently as to shoe value. A straw hat was taken as an example. The material in a straw hat is far less in value than leather in two shoes. The labor in that hat is still more less than the labor in two shoes. A high quality straw hat costs at least $5. Shoes of parallel quality $8. Which has the most value so far as material and labors enters into the subject? Why the shoes all will admit. So the point I make is that shoes have sold for less than their real value always. No doubt the low prices of shoes can be laid at the door of the United Shoe Machinery Co. Their machines have made it possible to produce shoes at least one-half of hand work. The public have received the benefit. Most people who know this shoe machinery corporation as well as they do China and care less, should appreciate them as a money saviour.

Leather measuring machines are in the limelight again. Massachusetts sent her experts to the annual meeting of sealers in Washington recently. There was general discussion of measuring machines and all came away with the same idea, such machines are not perfect. No one, however, came forward with any practical idea as to perfecting them. Theory will make a perfect measure to look at. Theory and horse sense will make a better one. But to produce one which is fool proof, one that will measure leather while the operator sleeps, one that will never wear out, such a machine was produced before the pyramids were thought of, and the model tucked away with the other lost arts.

But I am of the opinion a measuring machine will be produced in the future far better than those of today. I am a great admirer of the principle of the pin machine. Made aluminum and with changes which are needed, such a machine will fill the bill. Any leather which stretches cannot be measured accurately on the power machine. One operator stretches the leather more than another. Therefore the answer is a variance in measurement. All leather stretches more or less, and the shoe manufacturer demands it so that the lasting process will be right.

The great selling cry of measuring machine owners has always been, this or that machine gives the most measurement. It appeals to the tanner for more feetage is more profit. But the shoe manufacturer figures his vamps to cost so much money, and after all said and done, either type of machine when in perfect condition measures the surface and if more the marking up process is applied.

So year after year, there is a flurry about measuring machines. As far as I know nothing has been done to make a marked improvement except in the building of the machines. Operators must have a license to run them, which has raised the efficiency. But the same old ruts exist, and many tanners go along in the same old way, paying less attention to this machine than all the others in the plant. But for a sealer of weights and measures, or state inspectors, many would run measuring machines with some of the wheels running opposite the others. Strange but true.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says: "Business men and working men make all the money the politicians spend, but are not expected to express themselves in vigorous terms." Again—"Perhaps when ears come into fashion again, legs will go out."

P.H.S. Loving Cup Lost Or Stolen?

Does anybody know what happened to the loving cup presented to Captain Ralph Holden of the P. H. S, team by Captain "Teddy" Weeks of the Charleston, S. C., team last fall? Information is desired and if the cup is returned at once either to the high school or Captain Holden no embarassing questions wil lbe asked. It has not been seen since it was put on exhibition at City Hall after the return of the local team from South Carolina last December. Somebody evidently wanted a souvenir of the game and helped themselves. However, it belongs to the high school team and should be returned at once.

HOSPITAL AID

Ladies representing the various churches met on Wednesday evening at the Nurses' Home of the J. B. Thomas hospital and organized a Hospital Aid. All interested are urged to join. Dues are 50 cents and meetings will be held at the Nurses' Home the second Thursday of each month at 2.30.

Civil Service.

The word "civil," which has its origin in the Latin word "civis," is used to distinguish the service from the military or naval service of the government. The civil service is that branch of national service to which clerks and others required by various departments of the government belong.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

WHO MAKES THE PRICE?

A friend of mine, living in Boston, was complaining very bitterly the other day about the rise in rent he had suffered during the past three years. He moved into an apartment about ten years ago at quite a moderate rental, but rents went up and up and up until today he is paying more than double what he paid when he first moved in. He exclaimed against the outrageous profiteering of the landlords, declaring that there ought to be a law to prevent such extortion, or that they ought to be put in jail, as they were no better than robbers. He had a good deal to say and the more he said the madder he got.

When I could get a word in I asked him about the new automobile he had just bought. "I understand you made quite a bargain price on that machine." He changed his tune and told me how a fellow had lost his job and couldn't keep his auto and was glad to get $2000 for a $4000 car that had not been run four months.

"Suppose," said I, "that a man met you and liked your car. A man who wanted just that kind of a car and couldn't find one anywhere. Suppose that man offered you $5000 for your machine, spot cash. What would you say?" he replied, "I'd say, step right in. I'll walk home." "Why you outrageous profiteer," I said, "You ought to be in jail. What right have you to sell for $5000 what cost you $2000? Surely 10% profit is enough for you on a quick turn. You are as bad as any landlord I ever heard of. I would hate to pay rent for an apartment you owned."

Human nature is a queer thing. A man's point of view depends upon whether he is getting something for little or nothing, or whether it is the other fellow who is getting something out of him. Very few of us stop to think that the man who is selling something does not make the price. The customer makes the price and when the customer will only pay a small price, then that is all the thing is worth. When the customer is willing to pay a big price it is a very strange sort of man who will refuse that price and sell for less. The landlord does not set the price of the rent. He will rent for less whenever he finds he either must do so or have empty apartments. It is the man who wants the apartment who sets the price and if one man will not pay it some other man will. That is the reason rents are high.

A couple of years ago the best quality of calf leather sold easily at $1.50 a foot. Profits were big. Wages were big. Raw skins sold at a big price. Who set all these prices? These prices of skins, of profits, of wages, of leather. The customer did. The public wanted leather, must have leather; everybody who handled leather got a slice of the big selling price. Well,—bye and bye the public demand ceased. The price of finished leather dropped until today if a manufacturer can get 40 cents for better leather than he used to sell for $1.50, he is a lucky man. So,—following the same law,—skins are selling for less than prewar prices; profits melted away until they disappeared entirely; wages were reduced; finished leather piled up until the buyer could get it at almost any price he offered. Everybody who handled leather lost money. Just like the man who had to sell the $4000 automobile for $2000.

The farmers said they could beat that kind of a game. They raised the wheat and they didn't propose to sell it unless they could get $3.00 a bushel. So they stored it up. The banks loaned them money to pay their help and their storage charges and there the wheat lay and the public wouldn't buy. It didn't lay there long for one after another the banks failed by having their funds tied up in wheat the price of which was steadily falling, until twenty-six banks failed in the state of South Dakota. That finished the holdup and the customer bought wheat at the price he offered.

No class, no combination, no bunch of profiteers can for very long force the great purchasing public to pay exorbitant prices. Only when the public are willing to pay can this be done. Why does the Gillette Safety Razor sell at $5.00 when other Safety Razors sell for $1.00? Only because enough people like the Gillette and are willing to pay the price. The public may be relentless, even cruel, and it may take some time, but, the customers who use the goods will bye and bye fix the price. They are willing to pay. Whoever stands in the way of the public will have to yield, or, will have to suffer. The customers make the price because they always pay the bill.

P. H. S. SENIORS MAKE FINAL PLANS FOR GRADUATION

A meeting of the senior class was held in room 1 last Friday noon to choose a class motto. The committee chosen at the last meeting to bring in mottoes had a number of very good ones. Three were picked to vote on, and the class selected the following: "Knowledge in Youth Is Wisdom in Age." A committee was chosen to take care of the entertainments at the class day and banquet, which will be held on Thursday, June 29.

The date for the senior reception has been postponed from Tuesday, June 27, to Wednesday, June 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fielding Luscomb were visitors at the school Wednesday.

The seniors attended their last high school session today. Only those who are to take extra examinations will report next week.

Friends of Julia Fitzmorris of room 10 are glad to see her in school again after an absence of four weeks.

The high school orchestra furnished music at the Flag day exercises in City Hall Wednesday of this week, and Elbridge Tarbox of the senior class gave a declamation on "Patriotism."

The Elks had the use of the new auditorium last Thursday evening for their initiation meeting. The decorations of flowers were left until the next morning and were very beautiful.

Reception tickets were distributed this week on the payment of the class dues.

The class pictures are ready for distribution, and can be obtained from Miss Teague or Robert Hayes in room 1.

There was no chorus assembly this week. Miss Sullivan gave the entire period to the rehearsal of the senior class song.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Bradford visited the school last week. Mr. Bradford was formerly supervisor of the commercial department and penmanship teacher in the grades. He is at present located in Boston, where he has opened an office as expert accountant.

Miss Margaret Desmond of Somerville was a visitor at the school on Tuesday of this week.

Francis Blaney, graduate of the class of '21, was a visitor at the school last week.

Mildred Amor of room 28 has been confined to her home with illness for the last week.

The commencement number of "Pep" will be out Tuesday, June 20. This will be the last issue by the class of '22, and all are requested to make this issue more successful than the March one. The class rooms are urged to subscribe 100%, and it is hoped that every copy will be disposed of. There were some copies left over from the last issue. The management cleared over $100 in the first issue, and it is hoped to make this issue even more profitable.

Examinations will be held next week. There will be a short study period and one examination a day every day except Wednesday, when there will be two examinations. School will be dismissed at 12 o'clock every day except Wednesday, when it will not close until 12.35, because of the extra examinations. Pupils who have no examinations will not be obliged to report on that day.

"Mose" Harris was absent this week.

The cooking classes in domestic science made fudge and peanut brittle this week.

A number of the girls from room 1 motored to Topsfield last Friday afternoon, and spent a very pleasant afternoon and evening at the home of Mrs. Williams, formerly Miss Ursula Bailey, Latin instructor at the high school.

Miss Mary Barry substituted for her sister, Miss Alice Barry, last week.

Miss Alice Woodman substituted for Miss Beirne last Frida.

Bertha Guillmette, graduate of the class of '20, was a visitor at the school last week.

Following is the program to be presented at the graduation exercises at City Hall on Monday, June 26.

MINISTER'S CHRONIC INDIGESTION HELPED

Advises Stomach Sufferers to Use Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules

Rev. J. H. Watrous, Baptist pastor of Jamestown, N. Y., knows what it is to suffer the pains of chronic indigestion. He speaks from experience when he recommends to other stomach sufferers the sure means of relief which he found so helpful.

In an open letter addressed to "Fellow Sufferers from Indigestion" he writes: "I would advise and urge that any person suffering from the many sorts of indigestion proceed at once to give Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules a fair, thorough trial. I have had much personal and painful experience with what has come to be Chronic Gastric Indigestion. Very naturally have tried many different remedies. Am now using above named remedy with very pleasing results. Give them a trial."

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules are quick, sure relief for indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach, heartburn, gas and constipation. There is no fuss or bother. Simply take one or two capsules and a swallow of water and get prompt relief. They are sold under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

Physicians who have been told the formula for making Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules agree that the ingredients are of excellent medical value in relieving indigestion and dyspepsia. These capsules are superior to pills and tablets which often become hard and pass solidly through the digestive tract. Their pure gelatin covering dissolves within one or two minutes after entering the stomach, releasing the ingredients to begin their pain easing relief quickly. Try them if you have indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulence, catarrh of the stomach, dizziness after eating, gas or heartburn.

On sale at Lawrence Bros., Peabody, or 60 cents by mail postpaid for large package from Jaques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

No More Orders Taken until after the strike is settled

This will be our reply to your inquiry regarding coal within THREE WEEKS if orders continue to be placed as they have been the last week.

TODAY we can sell you the best grade EGG, STOVE and NUT coal at $14.50 per ton for Cash, the lowest price in New England. WHY WAIT. The miners insist upon a wage increase of approximately 20%. This would add $3.00 to the cost of the coal at the mines as the domestic sizes would have to stand the entire increase. The operators demand a decrease which would save the consumer about 80c per ton. Up to date there is no sign of settlement. This strike may last one month or six months longer. We strongly advise your taking at least a part of your winter's supply NOW. We cannot forsee what the winter price will be but believe that any extra cost at the present time will be more than offset by the better quality of the coal and the feeling of safety in having it in your bins.

New Aid Law Effective June 17

Commissioner of State and Military Aid Andrew Fyfe is in receipt of the following notice from Richard R. Flynn, commissioner of state aid for the commonwealth, which calls attention to the enactment by the legislature of a law reading: "Chapter 177, which becomes effective June 17, 1922, aims to give a military settlement to any person who was mustered into the military or naval service of the United States in this commonwealth in the city or town in which the soldier, sailor or marine had an actual residence at the time of acceptance in the service. Before the passage of the above law, it was necessary for the soldier, sailor or marine to have one year of service or receive a disability discharge for a disability or injury incurred in the line of duty to gain a military settlement. All the applicant will now have to prove is honorable discharge from the service without regard to time served and proof of actual residence in some city or town in this state when accepted in the service, in order to gain a military settlement under the new law to entitle him to consideration under the Military Aid and Soldiers' Relief laws."

Knows Not Happiness.

Some persons I know estimate happiness by fine houses, gardens and parlors—others by pictures, horses, money and various things wholly remote from their own species; but when I wish to ascertain the real felicity of any rational man, I always inquire whom he has to love. If I find he has nobody, or does not love those he has, even in the midst of all his profession of finery and grandeur, I pronounce him a being in deep adversity.—Mrs. Inchbald.

Thousands of inquiries concerning the national essay contest being conducted by the American Legion on the subject "How the American Legion Can Best Serve the Nation," and open to all school boys and girls between twelve and eighteen years of age, are pouring into Legion national headquarters. The number and tenor of the inquiries denote that the contest will be a decided success despite the fact that it is being held during the vacation period. Additional information concerning the contest may be obtained by addressing American Legion national headquarters, Indianapolis, Ind.

A tale of the sea that seemed almost incredible was brought to port by passengers on the shipping board steamship, American Legion, when that vessel arrived in New York from the tropics. As the liner was crossing the equator during the night, the passengers felt the ship suddenly recoil as though struck. The speed was decidedly diminished, but the ship seemed to ride easily. At daylight, officers started an investigation and found the mutilated carcass of a thirty-five foot shark clinging to the sharp prow.

Senators Walsh of Massachusetts and Jones of New Mexico have announced that they will offer an amendment to the American Legion's Adjusted Compensation bill to provide that heirs of soldiers who have died since the armistice shall be included among the beneficiaries of the measure.

The first out-door bed of American Legion roses has been planted in Hanscom Park, Omaha, Neb. The American Legion rose, similar to the American Beauty but more hardy, blooms freely during the summer months.

In order that the homes of many victims in the flood area of Louisiana may be saved from the sheriff's sale, the American Legion has petitioned Governor Parker to recommend that the time for the payment of taxes by those who were compelled to vacate their homes be extended.

Emulating the example of the American Legion member who gave a pint of his blood to save the life of a "buddy," fifty enlisted men of the regular army, stationed near Washington, have formed a "blood giving squad," volunteering to give a quart of blood each to any of their comrades who undergo major operations at the Walter Reed hospital and who would be benefited by the transfusion.

California American Legion men have won their fight to use a $10,000,000 state bond issue for those world war veterans who desire to work farms or settle on land.

Secret service men are investigating the reports that North Carolina sick and disabled world war veterans are being unduly influenced by a group of women to make members of the group the beneficiaries under the war risk insurance act. The American Legion has given authorities evidence in three cases which were brought to light at Oteen and Kenilworth public health hospitals.

John J. Tigert, U. S. commissioner of education, will select the three national judges of the American Legion's essay contest for school children, which opened June 2. Twenty state school superintendents have notified the Legion that they are cooperating to make the contest a success.

Middle western communities on the route of the southwest trail are being equipped with camping sites by the American Legion for the use of the thousands of motor tourists who each night escape hotel bills by pitching tents along the trail.

The Fox Hills hospital on Staten Island, N. Y., closed following charges of the American Legion that it was unfit to house sick and wounded service men, has been sold at auction for $61,000. In 1918 the hospital cost the government about $3,000,000.

CITY HALL NOTES

A new law has been passed recently which provides for the payment of $50 toward burial expenses of deceased world war veterans. This money is paid by the city and in November the city is reinbursed by the state.

The next meeting of the Council should settle the budget, as the Mayor will submit the supplementary budget for their inspection. Last year the Council was in the mood to cut appropriations.

The Council should take some action to prevent accidents at the junction of Andover and Prospects streets. The third serious accident occurred there this week. Cross street could be used, thus doing away with the steep hill, and make it safe for all concerned.

Collector Sherry is getting after the delinquents who owe personal taxes for 1920 and 1921. Under the law no abatement can be made by the assessors unless a claim is made within six months after the date of the bill.

The county tax shows a decrease of $13,000,000. The state tax has not been received as yet, but a reduction of more than the county tax is expected.

Sympathy and Business.

This is a tale of four Johns from Chauncey Depew's "Memories." When John King was general manager of the Baltimore & Ohio under John H. Garrett, Johns Hopkins died. Another John King was executor of the estate. At the funeral he received this telegram, which he read and then handed to the other John King, for whom it was intended: "Present my sympathies to the family and my high appreciation of Mr. Johns Hopkins, and borrow from the executor all you can at 5 per cent.—Garrett."

Leaves Large Family.

A microbe was born at 11:37 a. m. and died at 11:56 the same morning, leaving 107,358,649 descendants with no visible means of support. Just because you happen to be feeling strong and well today, do not snub the insurance agent.

Jarrah Wood Defies Decay.

The jarrah of western Australia produces the most indestructible wood grown. It is impervious alike to insect attacks and to decay, and boats built of it do not need to be copper-sheathed.

NEW FOOTBALL COACH WILL LEAD PEABODY THIS FALL

the practice work of the visiting players, it is believed that a nearer location will be selected. The new Foster hotel in this city and the Essex House at Salem would offer ample accommodations. Charleston expects to send 75 players and fans to Peabody.

With the recent rupture of athletics in Peabody high, due to the unhappy dispute between the former coach and the advisory board, there has been a feeling growing that no plans would be made to invite Charleston high here this fall. The committee, however, believe that there is a moral obligation on the part of the city of Peabody to entertain the southern visitors and the Donovan incident is sure to be forgotten by the opening of school again in September.

Charleston citizens did everything possible to make the visit of the Tanners delegation last fall a success, and they went over handsomely, as every Peabody player and fan who partook of their hospitality will agree. The friendly relations established between Peabody and Charleston finds many citizens expressing the hope that the return game will be played as per schedule and the mutual regards be fostered by the gridiron exhibition.

Mayor Shea may have some interesting announcement to make regarding the Charleston game when he returns from the pride of the Antilles. He is due to reach home Sunday from Havana.

Mayor Shea Given Key To Cuban Capitol

was introduced to 135 leading business and professional men.

The beautiful parks of Havana were visited by Mayor Shea, who in his week in the Cuban metropolis became a great booster for Havana. Playgrounds are very common in Havana and the city officials apparently are eager to promote the welfare of the children.

Mayor Shea, Thomas F. Ryan and Frank W. Penniman, editor of the Enterprise, sailed on the Morro Castle of the Ward line from Havana Tuesday, and their boat is due in New York tomorrow.

WESLEY CLASS GO TO N. H.

About 30 men from the Wesley class at the Washington street Methodist church will leave this afternoon for camp Ballentine, Jackson, N. H., to spend the week-end, returning Sunday evening. Dr. J. O. Martin of Dorchester will be a guest of the class and will speak to the men on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Noyes have returned from a motor trip to Poland Springs and Dixville Notch.

Peabody Grange held a home economics night last evening, when a talk and demonstration on "Short Cuts in Housekeeping" was given. The members voted to donate $25 to the J. B. Thomas hospital for the purchase of medical books.

MISS DULLEA JUNE BRIDE

wealth of beautiful presents were displayed was presided over by Miss Anne Kiernan, aunt of the groom. Among the gifts was a handsome floor lamp from the employes at the Warren National bank where the bride was employed as clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence have gone on a trip to New Hampshire and on their return will reside at 11 Swampscott avenue, where they will be at home to their friends after July 15th.

STRAND NIGHT NEXT TUESDAY

One thousand tickets for the Strand theatre have been purchased by the local committee of St. John's preparatory field day for next Tuesday evening, June 20, when the stellar attraction will be the glorious Gloria Swanson in "Her Husband's Trademark." In addition to this picture, which is listed as one of the best in which Gloria has ever been starred, an exceptionally good vaudeville bill will be presented, including the four Creedon brothers of Danvers, clever comedians and gifted singers; Miss Victoria Blanchette, who has a pleasing personality and a voice of rare charm, and little Claire Murphy, who will delight the young folks as well as grownups with her readings.

The local committee under whose direction the theatre night is being held is Mrs. B. J. Foley, chairman; Mrs. A. T. Millea, treasurer; Miss Mary Barry, secretary; Mrs. Alice Fennessey and Mrs. Florence Howe.

Tickets are selling rapidly and a large attendance is anticipated.

Lowell Street

Mrs. Frank T. Arnold entertained Friendship Circle of King's Daughters at her Hampton, N. H., home last Thursday, the party leaving early in the day by automobile.

Mrs. Warren Peabody (nee Effie Foss) entertained a number of Peabody friends at her home in Danvers last Sunday, the occasion being a birthday anniversary.

Dr. Roger I. Lee of the Harvard faculty, son of William T. Lee, formerly of School street, has been selected by the Mass. Medical Society to deliver before them the Shattuck lecture at their 142d anniversary.

Thomas Ray, son of Michael T. Ray, is one of the graduates of Boston college this month.

The Rev. Dr. Francis L. Beal is considering an unanimous call to the pulpit at St. James' church in Somerville. Dr. Beal has made a host of friends during his four years in Peabody, and he would be deeply missed in the city should he decide to accept the Somerville rectorship.

Graduate nurses Cahill and Hurd have severed their connection with the J. B. Thomas hospital to take up private practice.

Mrs. Josephine Sanborn, who recently purchased a lot of land from James Donovan, is understood to have abandoned the idea of building thereon and has placed the property again on the market. Building restrictions would prevent her from locating the proposed residence and garage as was intended.

Capt. Edith V. Howe's troop of Girl Scouts will present this evening in the Universalist vestry the two-act comedy, "Scarlet Bonnet," for the benefit of the organization. Mrs. Howes deserves great credit for the results she has achieved with her girls. Upon the success of this show depends largely the ability of the members of the troop to attend the scout camp at Dunstable this summer, and at the small price of 25 cents per ticket the auditorium should be more than filled, both as a tribute to the work of Capt. Howes and Lt. Merrill and as an endorsement of the splendid scout spirit which these sterling workers have instilled into their charges.

Elliott L. Macdonald, accompanied by a party of friends, left Peabody this morning for a week-end sojourn at Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Dodge of Fay avenue have removed to their summer home at North Beverly for the season.

The Peabody Club will hold its annual outing at Ipswich Bluffs on Sunday, June 25th. The members will leave by automobile for Ipswich, where launches will convey the party to the island. A special meeting of importance for the members will be held at the club rooms on Saturday evening, June 24, at 8 o'clock.

LAST REGULAR MEETING

The last regular meeting of the Mother-Teacher Association was held Tuesday evening in the form of a business meeting. Delegates were chosen to attend the convention of the Parent Teacher Association, which occurs the first week in October at Gloucester. The following nominating committee was elected to bring in names of the officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. Charles Bowman, Miss Mercedes Torr, Miss Walsh, Mrs. Frank McKeen and Mrs. Chester Twiss. A play under the direction of Miss Hearn was reported in progress and will be given at a later date.

Y. M. H. A. BASEBALL TEAM

The Peabody Y. M. H. A. baseball team will journey to Lynn for its opening game against the fast Lynn Y. M. H. A. team on Meadow Park, Sunday p. m., June 18th. Manager Bernstein has had his team out for practice and they have made a fine showing. A schedule is being completed for games with Chelsea, Malden, Boston, Manchester and Newburyport Y. M. H. A's.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Miss Margaret Giles of Lynn street, who will become the bride of William A. Walsh of this city on Wednesday, June 28, was given a miscellaneous shower by the class of '18, P. H. S. Club last evening at the home of Mrs. D. B. Lord, 5 Andover street, when she was presented with many beautiful gifts.

17 INSTRUCTORS ON PLAYGROUNDS

Peabody's playgrounds will open for the summer season on Monday, July 3, with a force of 17 instructors in charge of the several hundred children. Six new instructors appointed and registered by the civil service are Thomas G. Ray, Thomas F. McCarthy, William Munroe, Ruth P. Bagley, Beatrice J. Reid and William Jones. The instructors will be placed as follows:

Emerson Park: Thomas G. Ray and Alice I. Woodman. East End: Herbert Lawrence and Helen E. McElroy. South Peabody: C. Ralph Holden and Ella E. Reed. Bleachery: Thomas F. McCarthy and Grace O'Keefe. High school: William H. Crean and Helen R. Coyle. Wallis school: William Munroe and Ruth P. Bagley. Sutton Park: Beatrice J. Reid. Samuel Brown school: Cecelia D. Lynch. West Peabody: William Jones and Virginia Carten. Supervisor: Henry A. King.

Mayor Probing Outside Poor

Mayor Shea is probing the list of "pensioners" of the poor department with a pretty good notion that some names can be omitted and the wolf kept from the door just the same. It is understood that in some cases aid has been given where a thorough investigation of the facts would have prevented the "pensioner" from drawing cash from the city.

It is also said that politicians have been much interested in getting sundry names onto the public list for cash donations and free groceries. Mayor Shea is determined to cut off any leaks that show up in his investigation.

Agent James J. Ray is believed to have been a victim of false information regarding some "pensioners" and it is said some of this has come from politicians.

H. S. Graduation Monday Night

The graduation exercises of Peabody high school will be held in City Hall next Monday evening, when a class of 77 students will receive their diplomas from his honor, Mayor William A. Shea. An interesting program will be presented, including the valedictory essay by Marguerite M. Smith, the salutatory essay by Betty King, and four other essays on timely subjects by Ida M. Keniston, Evelyn P. Hall, Bertha H. Stone and Marea M. Johnson. A patriotic oration will be delivered by Elbridge A. Tarbox. The class poem will be read by its composer, Mary L. O'Neill. A feature of the program will be the singing of the cantata "Columbus" by the graduates.

CO-OPERATIVE BANKS

The address on Co-operative Banks given by Patrick H. O'Conor at the Rotary Club dinner last Tuesday evening was most interesting. Mr. O'Conor traced the progress of the co-operative banks and pointed out that the Peabody bank stood 15th on the list of similar banks in this state. He was warmly congratulated on his address.

NEW BUDGET OF $70,569 MAY FIX TAXRATE AT $35

Mayor Shea submitted his supplementary budget to the City Council last night calling for $70,569, giving additional appropriations to the various departments. In his communication the Mayor pointed out the grave financial condition of the city and declared he had provided only for necessary expenses. The new budget may be pruned to some extent by the finance committee. The sum of nearly $24,000 is allotted the city engineers department and $11,518 to the school department to cover its deficit.

With the new budget in hand it is still probable that the taxrate will be $35, as exclusively announced in the Enterprise, according to those in a position to talk in City Hall.

On motion of Councillor Eagan the sum of $1000 was voted to the family of the late Henry A. Eager, who was knocked down and killed by a fire department vehicle three years ago on Main street, and $500 was voted to Thomas Doyle, the expressman, who was struck by a piece of fire kit some weeks ago.

Claims for damages due to the brook flooding his land at 1 Sutton street was filed by James Murphy, who asks $100. A claim for damage was also filed by Arthur Hartshorn of Lynn whose auto was overturned on Lynn street last Sunday due, he alleged, to a defect in the street.

Two Sunday licenses were denied at 62 and 64 Lowell street on request of Chief Grady because of liquor raids.

City Solicitor Farnham reported that Mayor Shea and he had conferred with the public utilities board regarding the Russell street crossing and that the railroad might install swinging arms and a louder gong. It was at this crossing last Sunday that four Boston men were killed when their auto was struck by a freight train.

City Collector Sherry was given permission to abate taxes on two pieces of property, at 11 Pierpont street and 6 Holten street.

Sacred Heart Feast

The feast of the Sacred Heart, one of the most important feasts in the Catholic church calendar, is being observed today. A triduum, or three days' prayer, in preparation of the feast has been in progress at St. John's church since Wednesday evening, when services were held and an eloquent sermon preached by Rev. C. D. McInnis. Last evening an interesting sermon given by Rev. P. J. Sullivan told of the significance of the words "Come to me all ye that labor and are heavy burdened and I will refresh you." Tonight at the closing services the pastor, Rev. T. P. McGinn, will speak on the love of the Sacred Heart. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will conclude the services.

LEATHER OUTING

The Mass. Leather Association, of which H. V. Hunt and E. L. Macdonald are directors, held their first summer outing at Ferncroft last Tuesday and despite the unfavorable weather, had an enjoyable day.

Frisco Paper Has Praise For Sally Osborn

Miss Sally Osborn, Peabody high graduate, and one of the most popular girls of this city in other years, is achieving no little renown on the Pacific coast for her pianoforte ability. She is a member of the faculty at the Manning School of Music in San Francisco and critics on the newspapers in that city have had much to say in eulogy of her clever performances.

Her playing of Lizst's "Rhapsodie" at a musicale on June 11 was hailed as a pleasing feature of the occasion. Miss Osborn accompanied Antoine de Vally, a lyric tenor of Belgium, at the musicale.

Where He Was

The minister met Tom, the village ne'er-do-well, and, much to the latter's surprise, shook him heartily by the hand. "I'm so glad you've turned over a new leaf, Thomas," said the good man.

"Me?" returned Tom, looking at him dubiously.

"Yes, I was so pleased to see you at the prayer meeting last night."

"Oh," said Tom, light breaking in on him, "so that's where I was, is it?"—Tit-Bits.

Some Car

"How do you like your new car?" asked the Lizzie driver.

"Great," replied the Big Six driver. "It runs so smoothly you can't feel it. Not a bit of noise, you can't hear it. Perfect ignition, you can't smell a thing. And speed—why it whizzes! You can't see it."

"Must be some car," ventured the Lizzie driver. "Can't feel it, can't smell it, can't hear it, can't see it! How do you know it is there?"—Cincinnati Inquirer.

High St. Team And All Stars Lead Twilight

The Twilight League is on its fifth week and crowds of 300 fans are recorded on hand to witness the exhibitions after sundown. Last Tuesday's game between the All Stars and Lake Shore Park was a major league card with the former winning out 3 to 2. Marrs, who pitched for the winners, allowed but three hits, and fanned 11. Mathews for the losers had four hits registered off his delivery. White and Doulette featured with a double play for Lake Shore.

The High Streets and the All Stars are neck and neck in the pennant chase with only one defeat. The Armistice Club has come to the front this past week and is likely to upset some fond hopes of the contenders.

P.H.S. Pep Has Toasts For All 1922 Graduates

The high school "Pep" commencement number was distributed yesterday, and its entire edition was quickly consumed. The June number was of 40 pages with cover, and is one of the best numbers issued in point of interesting material.

The magazine reflects great credit on its board of editors under the direction of Albert Hosman, editor-in-chief, who in his college career is bound to add fame as a college paper editor.

Walter Van Dyke, the manager of "Pep," has proved the cleverest advertising manager the "Pep" has ever had, and if he elects to follow this department of newspaper work, it is certain he will make good.

One of the big features of the "Pep" this number was its senior chit chat, dedicated to the graduating class, setting forth their favorite saying or habit, their disposition and ambition in life. These pages caused much enthusiasm among the grads. The "Pep" was printed this year by the Peabody Press Co.

4TH DEGREE FIELD DAY

Many Peabody members of the Knights of Columbus will atend the field day of the Fr. Gabriel Druillette Assembly of Essex County at St. John's Prep college next Sunday afternoon. The committee has arranged for a gala day with plenty of interesting sports and entertainment for the women.

Does Anyone Believe This?

While in the locker room the other day "Gil" Andrews told this one. He said: "While out walking on Memorial Day I saw an auto with four wheels on the rear of the machine." Somebody said—well, you can guess what they said.

A. O. H. FIELD DAY SET FOR AUGUST 10

Division 11, A. O. H., are making preparations for the annual lawn party of the society which is to take place on Thursday evening, Aug. 10, at the O'Shea grounds. An energetic committee has taken charge and the following sub-committees are appointed: Entertainment committee, Eugene O'Neil, chairman; grounds, lighting and transportation, Edward J. Sullivan; midway, William F. Carlin; refreshments Michael W. Walsh; tickets, John Donovan; publicity, J. J. O'Riordan. John Donovan is secretary of the committee. Arrangements are being made to give away free at the lawn party to the lucky ticket holder a free trip to Ireland or its equivalent in cash.

South Peabody

There was no meeting of the Sewso Club this week on account of the rainy weather. They will meet with Mrs. Esther Walker next Monday evening for election of officers.

The Ship Rock Sewing Club have discontinued their meetings until next fall.

Mrs. Sarah Swett of Lynnfield street is ill at the home of her brother in Natick.

Rev. Lewis Malvern of Bartholomew street preached at the East Baptist church, Lynn, last Sunday. Rev. A. E. Harriman, the pastor, is in Indianapolis.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church will meet with Mrs. Templin, Lynn street, next Thursday afternoon.

The Neighborhood Club met at Davis hall Tuesday evening. Plans were made for the children's party to be given this evening at the hall.

The baked bean supper given at the Lake Shore Park church under the auspices of the Boy Scouts was well attended Wednesday evening.

Charles King of Dexter street took an auto trip to Tamworth, N. H., last week.

Russell Walker of Brown street has been sick for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Brown, accompanied by friends from Danvers, motored to Exeter, N. H., last Sunday.

A number of residents attended a meeting of Chebacco Pomona at Topsfield Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Jennie Brown of Lynn street, who has been quite ill with erysipelas, is improving.

The bad weather on the holiday and Sunday disappointed a great many people who had planned auto trips and picnics. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Newhall of Lynn street, with friends, defied the weather and took a trip to the mountains, visiting friends at Conway, N. H.

Sylvester Perkins of Lynn street returned from the Thomas hospital on Sunday.

The three months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cameron (Etta Elliott) died at their home in Lake Shore Park Saturday afternoon, after an illness of heart trouble. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon and burial was at Cedar Grove cemetery.

At the recent canoe carnival and dance held at Sluice pond, Miss Thelma Peabody and Joseph LaCroix, both of Lake Shore Park, received the first prize for the best dressed country couple. Miss Peabody received a silk umbrella and Mr. LaCroix a straw hat.

Tuesday afternoon the motor travel through Lynn street was extremely heavy. Autos and trucks of every description from Lawrence rushed by to witness the ball game at Lynn. The state championship was at stake. Soon after this excitement the Salem merchants went through South Peabody with flying colors, advertising their dollar day. When the Lawrence fans came back their speed was even faster. No one dared to cross the street.

John Clift of Bartholomew street will deliver a lecture on coal mining, illustrated by drawings, next Monday evening at 7.30. This is to be given to the Boy Scouts and they extend an invitation to all to attend. Mr. Clift has had personal experience in the coal mines of England.

The ball game scheduled for last night between the Camp Fire Girls and Boy Scouts has been postponed until next week. This is to be given in aid of the community picnic July 11.

Most of the children's faces are wreathed in smiles today, as they close their books for the summer vacation. The eighth grade pupils of the Samuel Brown school held a closing party at the school hall Wednesday evening. There are 18 pupils in this grade and all but one girl were present, and she was remembered with a box of goodies. Games and music were enjoyed and ice cream, cake and homemade candy served. The class has given a silk flag for the hall and also purchased flowers and plants for the school yard. The graduates are: Gladys Perkins, Alice Coleman, Ola Davis, Grace Batchelder, Delia Langlois, Rhoda Brown, Gertrude Smallwood, Dorothy Roberts, Thelma Stanton, Marjorie Smith, Irene Herron, Burrill Earp, Donald Rich, Will Lefavour, George Dorr, Herbert Webster, Melvin Lord and Roy McIntire.

Lake Shore Park Church

Ralph Templin, pastor. Morning worship at 10.45. Sermon, "Seed by the Wayside." Sunday school at 12.15. Evening service at 7 o'clock. The pastor will discuss the much-debated question, "Is National Prohibition a Failure?" Ater the address an open forum will be held in which an opportunity will be given to ask questions on the topic.

Prayer meeting this evening at 7.45. In our service we will take up the first of a series of prayer and its place in the Christian life. Subject for this evening, "Why Do Men Pray?"

The Majority of Men

Who graduate from high school and college follow a business career, but many of them go about it wrongly. They start without proper equipment, and are outdistanced by those who have fitted themselves to do some one thing particularly well. This is the age of the specialist. The apprenticeship system is too slow for the modern pace in business.

The most important thing to consider is not the particular line of business you desire to enter, but whether or not you are qualified for anything more than the duties of an office boy. Academic knowledge alone will not suffice. It must be supplemented with specialized training.

The most notable successes in business have been made by men who specialized in some one branch of business administration, and the best positions in business are filled by department heads who are specialists in their line. Business is so highly organized and complex that it is folly for one to attempt to become proficient in all branches of business administration.

Decide whether you prefer the merchandising end of business (buying, advertising and selling), or the financial end (credits, financial, and accounting). The latter offers excellent opportunities for men properly trained for the duties of office manager, cost accountant, auditor, credit manager, assistant treasurer, or treasurer.

The Bentley School of Accounting and Finance is the largest professional school of college grade in the United States that is devoted exclusively to training men for such positions as those just mentioned, and for public accounting practice. The enrollment of over 2100 students attests its popularity.

To Be Bentley-Trained Carries Prestige in Business.

Day courses require two years for completion of prescribed courses in accounting, business law, business English, economics, corporation finance, commercial and bank credits, and business mathematics. Yearly tuition $190, or $200 if paid in monthly instalments of $20 each.

Evening courses require four years. Yearly tuition $81, payable in monthly instalments of $9 each.

Students range in age from 18 to 45.

Send for our catalogue; it will interest you. State whether interested in day or evening courses.

Peabody High School

The resignation of Miss Annie J. Fairchilds was received with deep regret by her many friends and associates at the school. Miss Fairchilds has taught at the high school for ten years, and during that time gained many friends among the pupils whom she tutored. Miss Fairchilds has worked diligently and conscientiously during her association with the Peabody high school and her resignation is considered as a distinct loss to the school.

Mrs. Susan L. Ferguson, former music instructor in the Peabody schools, was present at the rehearsal of the senior song for graduation last Friday.

Katherine Bresnahan and Helen O'Keefe, graduates of the class of '21, were visitors at the school last Friday. Miss Bresnahan is attending the Boston Conservatory of Music.

Superintendent Bemis of the Salem schools and Alfred Putnam, also of Salem, were visitors at the high school Monday of this week.

The last issue of "Pep," the school paper, made its apearance this week as a graduation number.

Miss Marguerite Carrol of Cambridge was a visitor at the school on Monday of this week.

Willis Moore and William Ratcliffe of the junior class took the preliminary college board examinations on Monday of this week.

The winners in the French spelling match held in Miss Brodbine's class last week were John Hallahan and "Terry" Nolan.

The senior class has introduced a novelty in the way of reception invitations. The invitations are in the form of dance orders, which are very pretty. The class shield is engraved on each dance order and they are decorated in blue and gold, the class colors.

Friends of Evelyn Hall of the senior class are glad to see her able to be about after a week's illness.

The seniors held rehearsals on Monday and Thursday of this week in City Hall. Wednesday they were given tickets for graduation and were given their pllaces on the stage.

The following pupils will continue their studies further next fall: Salem Normal school—Elbridge A. Tarbox, Timothy F. McCarthy, Marea M. Johnson, James F. Connolly, Mary L. O'Neil, Evelyn P. Hall, Ruth E. Hayward, Thomas A. Gilmore, Arthur E. Doyle, Joseph X. Murphy, Joseph A. Murphy, Bertha H. Stone, Eleanor R. Long. Bridgewater Normal school—Betty King. Tufts College—Walter H. Van Dyke, Joseph F. Powers. Boston University—Marguerite M. Smith, Benjamin Salata. Holy Cross—Robert E. Hayes. Brown University—Charles R. Holden, Edward M. Munroe, William J. Dee. Wentworth Institute—Bernard Boisclair. Sargent School for Prysical Education—Lucia Upton. Northeastern University—Donald A. MacCharles. Boston College—John Donohue, John Connelly, William Crean, William Duffey.

Miss Wallahan and Miss Logan of the faculty will attend the N. E. A. convention in Boston the week of July 2 to 8.

Miss Mary P. Brodbine is taking the place of her sister, Miss Helen Brodbine, who sailed for Europe last Saturday.

Miss Wallahan of the faculty will attend the Harvard summer school.

McDERMOTT—SOUCY

Antonia Frances Soucy of Danvers and Roger Vincent McDermott of this city were united in marriage at the Annunciation church, Danvers, Monday evening, by Rev. Father Chipeau, after which a reception to the immediate families was held at the home of the bride.

The bride was attractively gowned in a henna dress with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of roses. The matron of honor was Mrs. Charles Simpson, sister of the bride, and she wore a charming gown of blue canton crepe, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The best man was Frank L. McDermott, brother of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. McDermott will be home to their friends at 11 Meade street, Danvers.

Leather Manufacturers Will Take Advantage Of Foreign Trade Boom

(By ENERGY)

Tariff revision is the all absorbing topic in general business. There has been an agitation as cited by the Shoe and Leather Reporter, to induce congress to postpone revision of the tariff, and that agitation is growing day by day. Naturally the Republicans being in power, figured that a tariff had built up business many times in the past, and turned to tariff revision when they assumed the reins. But it is evident they figured on normalcy, and not after the greatest war the world has ever known. Such being the case, it remained for some of the far-seeing members of the party to kick over the traces to the extent that there is some doubt what will happen in congress.

Recent events in several states are strong indications of the trend of the times. The Shoe and Leather Reporter goes on to say: "The old guard is gradually coming around to the position that this is no time to make tariff changes. The conditions upon which the schedules should be based, are not fixed, and are not likely to be for some time. The argument pro and con regarding American and foreign valuation might have been accepted as an indication that it is not possible to draft clauses based upon the cost of labor at home and abroad when the fact is that the industrial situation in Europe is certain to change for better or worse."

Frequent revisions of the tariff is a serious evil. Business and taking the leather business as an example, must have something staple to stand on. It is not purchasing hides today and selling them tomorrow, but from one to four months intervenes before money comes to the tanner. Should duty be placed on hides and skins, again the shoe manufacturer will be troubled for he is making shoes at a certain price. Indeed it makes a mix-up from every angle. Making this mix-up makes the tanner or shoe manufacturer hesitate to make contracts not knowing where he will land.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota comes up for re-election soon. This state has been going away from our ways of doing, but finding their mistake is attempting to get back again. The question arises will it come back enough to re-elect Senator McCumber again. Those who should know conditions in that state say it is doubtful. But why this senator is taken up is that he is in charge of the tariff bill in the senate. Living or coming from a state of cattle, he should be interested in farming and somewhat in the price of hides. But it is evident he is a stand patter, and such fellows these times stand and let the progressive element go by and get the dough. In other words, he is behind the times.

Perhaps it would be the best if defeated. I say perahaps, for I am delving into a subject far deeper than I should and be safe. But the fact remains that the tariff is just beginning to fight for its existence. Public sentiment appears to be against a tariff which places 50 per cent. duty on silk stockings, and as much or more on what few clothes the women wear. If 25 years ago it would make a big dent in the old man's pocketbook, but today the material for a dress would not be 10 per cent. of the dresses with trails and halyards attached. Lucky I say.

To finish the tariff question at least for a week, Shoe and Leather tells us when everything and everybody is normal, a tariff framed right, whatever that is, will make us all happy. Thanks for those kind words.

The leather market improves each week. One of the largest manufacturers of fine leather tells me the orders have come in so fast as to be oversold on many grades. Sounds funny. I looked him over when he dared to make this statement and he appeared normal, which means he is waiting for the rest to follow suit.

Market reports tell us sole leather is in better demand, goat and its offspring kid is selling in larger lots, and that sheepskins have perked up and wish to be recognized as a part of the word leather.

I note that foreign trade is better, decidedly so. England is taking more of our cheap leather much of in the rough. Should this business continue, our tanners will have an opportunity to get rid of the splits which has been a black mark on their books since the war commenced. Whatever England does with split leather, she consumes it in such quantities ordinarily as to keep our market cleaned up. Once it was we made many split shoes. Today they are few and far between. The W. I. Douglas Co. made a shoe from a flesh split that was a big seller. That business went out and has not returned. Presumably it took a steamer for England.

Practically all fair-sized and larger concerns incorporate. It matters not whether a Massachusetts or foreign corporation, the city cannot assess the stock in trade. This maens that $10,000,000 valuation is taken from the total in Peabody. It also means that the state takes one-sixth of the amount collected and pays us the rest when they get good and ready. Losing this one-sixth means $20,000 from foreign corporations, and as much more from the Massachusetts variety. By and by they will do all the assessing and it may be the best way. It is evident the state would like to run the cities and towns, and in many cases they could do a better job. I do not include Peabody in this category, however.

PREDICTS BOOM FOR LEATHER

Willis R. Fisher, vice-president of the National Leather Co., predicts better progress in the leather business.

In the June "A. C. L." he is quoted as follows:

"Sales have tended to gradually increase and spread over more lines. The sole leather market has begun to show some line. Calf leather which has been neglected for months and forced to a ruinous price basis is now being picked up by a few long-headed shoe manufacturers, while it looks as if patent leather might run for a while yet.

"We have been fortunate in having the ability to turn out large quantities of this line and are fortunate all round in being well established with sales branches and agencies in all quarters so that although the flow of our tanning operations has been much less than we would all like to see it, it has been much better than it might have been, and whatever we have done we have been able to maintain pretty steadily.

"Tanners still hold big stocks of leather which have been gradually decreasing in some lines but increasing in others, right up to date, but taking the good with the bad, the balance is better today than it has been for a long time."

TREASURY NOTES

Postmaster William F. Searle reports increasing business in the sale of treasury savings certificates and the interest of citizens i nthis investment security is shown by the fact that his sales for the month of May amounted to $580, which gives his office one of the largest months it has had this year.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Automobile accidents in Peabody occur at frequent intervals. Peabody is so situated that such accidents are partly due to natural conditions and partly to carelessness of drivers of automobiles, who speed regardless of precaution. West Peabody has two long stretches of railroad where there are many crossings all of which are dangerous to travel. Flagmen are stationed at the crossings on the Newburyport turnpike, and on Lowell street. It may be that the railroad will have flagmen at all the crossings in the future, but where few trains run daily it can hardly be expected. On the Salem and Lowell branch that crosses Russell street, where the terrible accident occurred Sunday morning, one freight each way and a few passenger trains cover the schedule. Not all accidents of this kind can be laid at the door of railroad crossings. The Newburyport turnpike has been the scene of many serious accidents. At the junction of this thoroughfare and Andover street, there have been several collisions which maimed people. At Lowell street and the turnpike there have been several more. All of these were caused by reckless driving. We have another place where collisions of automobiles have been many. Prospect street hill, one of the steepest grades in the city, starts at Andover street. Since Andover street has been made a state road, the attraction for automobiles has increased the traffic there several hundred per cent. Houses shut off the view for drivers on either street. So while drivers speed beyond the limit, and there is little effort to stop them, Peabody offers many chances for accidents.

PROSPECT STREET

One of the oldest thoroughfares in the city and one which was traveled over in the past much more than the present, Prospect street at the junction of Andover street can be classed as dangerous to travel. Because of its elevation, machines coming toward Andover street naturally gain speed and the proper timing of cars on Andover street does the rest. One way out of the difficulty is the use of Cross street. The distance while longer, is not enough to think about from an automobile standpoint. The grade is not as steep, and in fact many who know conditions use Cross street in preference to the steep hill on Prospect street. To close the hill to travel would no doubt receive many protests. But proper signs placed to the best advantage would go a long way to prevent trouble. Something should be done at this place and done quickly. We hear protests against the railroad for not employing flagmen at all crossings, why not also protest that Peabody does not take proper precaution and help to stop accidents? The excuse of the cost cannot enter into the argument. The amount required to help make this spot safer is too small to argue it. Let us do our part in this controversy.

LIEUTENANT OF POLICE

In our issue of last week, we prophesied that a police lieutenant for Peabody was one of the new possibilities in the near future. There are so many other essentials we need far more than this officer, we do not hesitate to say wait, until our financial condition is improved. We hear many suggestions as to what we need, and they are no doubt in order. But we are facing years when economy must be the watchword. We must spend money where actually needed, but to create new departments, new officers, in fact anything new, can be likened to a poor man purchasing a high price car with nothing left to run it. Tax payers are expecting a high rate this year. To increase expenses that are not necessary at this time would endanger aspirations to future political plums. So we again say keep city expenses down. Show the tax payers that earnest efforts are being made in that direction. A lieutenant of police may be a fact in the years to come. As the city grows, additions to all departments may be in order. But this year or next year is no time to add to the trials of the tax payer, for it takes all the big majority can earn to meet ordinary expenses.

Great Variety of Bananas.

There are over 60 varieties of the banana, with as great, or greater, variations in character as to the different kinds of apples. Hawaii is said to have something over 40 distinct varieties of the fruit, most of which have been introduced by the whites. Some of these are extremely delicious in flavor, while other kinds are used, if at all, only when cooked in various ways. There is scarcely a city house lot or country homestead which does not have a clump or two of bananas, which grow with practically no care, new plants or suckers shooting up to replace the ones which have fruited and been removed.

Lafayette's Last Visit to America

Lafayette's last visit to this country was in 1724-25. When the time which he had allotted for his tour had expired, after he had visited every one of the 24 states of the Union, Lafayette repaired to Washington to pay his parting respects to the chief magistrate of the nation, John Quincy Adams. This took place at the Presidential mansion September 6, 1825, 98 years ago, and on the sixty-eighth anniversary of Lafayette's birth.

The farewell address of President Adams in behalf of the whole American people was a most affecting tribute to the lofty character and patriotic services of Lafayette during his long and eventful career, and closed with the following words:

"You are ours by that unshaken sentiment of gratitude for your services which is a precious portion of our inheritance; ours by that tie of love and stronger than death which has linked your name for the endless ages of time with the name of Washington.

"At the painful moment of parting with you we take comfort in the thought that, wherever you may be, to the last pulsation of your heart, our country will ever be present to your affections; and a cheerful consolation assured us that we are not called to sorrow; most of all, that we shall see your face no more, for we shall indulge the pleasing anticipation of beholding our friend again.

"In the name of the whole people of the United States I bid you a reluctant and affectionate farewell."

To this parting address from President Adams, Lafayette replied in a strain of patriotic and impassioned eloquence.

On the same day Lafayette embarked for France on board the Brandywine, a new frigate named in compliment to him, who on the banks of that river was wounded in his first battle for American freedom.

These were the main incidents of New York's reception to Lafayette:

Aquatic procession from Staten island to the Battery. General Lafayette on board the Chancellor Livingston.

Marching salute of troops before City hall.

Formally received by the mayor and common council.

Escorted to the portrait room in City hall, which had been fitted up as his reception quarters during his stay in New York.

Reception by his old comrades-in-arms of the Revolution.

Special theatrical performance at the Park theater as a compliment to the general.

American Spirit.

The spirit of 1776 is the spirit of men who are willing to look forward. It is the spirit of men who realize that human institutions must change with changing times. It is the spirit of those men today who dare to devise new methods to remedy the failures of the present social and economic order. They are the proof that the spirit of America still lives. They are the true descendants of the experimenters of 1776.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

ROUND ABOUT

We have not registered the rainfall since Friday, but rest assured this storm which the Boston papers backed by 'Old Probability" did not predict, emptied enough water from the heavens to suit even the ducks. Watching weather predictions, it is seldom the weather bureau is wrong. The rain this week was a southern storm, and one of the freaks of nature.

It looks as though Mayor Shea was set on having the Charleston delegation here this fall. After all that is said and done, it appears to us proper to entertain our southern friends. A new football coach is all that is needed to settle the question.

Peabody has as many baseball teams this year as the total of the previous five years. Now it has become necessary to make dates for them, at the park on Franklin hill. South Peabody is playing their games on the Rockdale race track. Many of the old-timers have come out of their shell, with Had Sawyer as the leader. "Had" has been in many a baseball battle and when he connected with the ball it required another one to play the game out.

Should Mayor Shea decide to make a new office of lieutenant of police, there will be a merry fight for the position. There are several on the force who would not say no to the offer, and as always, politics will enter into the question. When a town, there was many a political scrap for appointments on the force. One of the hardest fought contests was between Officer Noonan and Inspector Pierce with Noonan pronounced a winner. A former selectman who resides in West Peabody could tell of the many friends he had at that time, but not afterward.

Have you had any West Peabody strawberries this year? The strawberry crop in that section is far less in quantity than some years ago, but the quality remains. The old time berries four in a box are scarce these days.

The street department have several extra days' work this week filling the gullies by the heavy rain. In the rear of City Hall, the gravel washes into Chestnut street across the sidewalk about every rain.

Barnet Raskin, who now owns the property at the corner of Lowell and Endicott streets, has cut the vacant land into house lots which are for sale. There are now five three deckers on the land, all either brick or concrete, with the exception of the original house which was moved near the railroad track on Endicott street. It is proposed to cut a street through from Lowell street, thus making seven available lots.

* * *

Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley and Thomas A. O'Keefe with their wives went to Havana to take up the trail where the Mayor's party left off. It has been hot there, but there is no hurry in that country. The sea voyage is worth the price, particularly if your digestive organs are working normal. Those who cannot hold their meals, care little what happens.

If there are any people who complain of Peabody roads, they should journey from Danvers to Salem by way of Margin street, and find the only good road in that distance in Peabody. Some of Danvers' roads are almost impassable, also Salem.

We note John O. Ballentine, the contractor, entertains many friends at his camp in Jackson, N. H., The boys can testify to the good times in the Ballantine camp.

Building about the city is far below normal. Many stick to it that building materials will drop in price, therefore will not build until that drop comes. Should business start, however, everything points to higher rather than lower prices.

Next Sunday the Peabody Club members will journey to Ipswich Bluffs for their annual outing. At least 100 will attend this outing, which is one of the big times of the club for the year.

The steamship Lenape sailing between New York and Florida has a live editor of its Radiogram daily news to whom the Enterprise is indebted for a copy dated June 7, which contained the following paragraph dedicated to Dr. S. Chase Tucker, the well-known Peabody surgeon, who was enroute to St. Petersburg, Florida, for fishing and golf. The paragraph is as follows: "Dr. S. C. Tucker of Peabody, Mass., and his brother, Attorney Charles P. Tucker of Hudson, Mass., are starting south, where they intend to put up at the best fishing grounds and fish until the tide comes in. The doctor's brother is a prominent lawyer in his home city. All the difference between the doctor and his brother is—one attends the case—the other settles it—we are informed." Postcards received from the doctor tell of visits to Tampa and other Florida resorts. There were three bridal couples on the Lenape who were the objects of much mirth making among the 75 passengers.

This is not a particularly modest age, but if there are any young ladies in Boston who hesitate to ask for a certain article outright, these young ladies might follow the example of the Altoona girl who said to the store clerk: "I want a set of elastic apparatus capable of being elongated and adjusted at pleasure, such as is worn by the feminine portion of mankind on their locomotive members, to keep in proper position and at the required altitude habiliments of the tibia."—Boston Transcript.

STRAND SHOW FOR ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE

One of the most successful shows of the season was presented at the Strand last Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Peabody table of the St. John's field day. The program consisted of dances by the Gardner sisters of Lynn, who walked away with the honors of the evening, and solo dances by Victoria Tersolo, the toe dancer. Both of the above acts are pupils of Prof. J. O'Brien and Miss Bessie Fouhey of Lynn. Miss May Mitchell acted as accompanist. "The Creedon boys" of Danvers, singers of note, Claire Murphy, a reader, and Victoria Blanchette, soloist, were the other numbers on the bill which was most enthusiastically received by an audience that completely filled the local playhouse. Miss Ethel Lynch was the accompanist for the last named acts.

Lawn Party To Aid Hospital Next Friday

The recently organized J. B. Thomas Hospital Aid Association will conduct a lawn party in and about the Nurses' Home on the afternoon and evening of Friday, June 30th. An entertainment for the children and a bridge party for the adults are to be the features of the afternoon. Refreshment booths are to be conducted by the ladies of the various churches and societies of the city. Music by an orchestra will be furnished both in the afternoon and for a dance in the evening which will be held in a spacious room in the Nurses' Home. It is hoped that the people of Peabody will give the affair their hearty support.

The officers and directors of the Hospital Aid are: President, Mrs. Walter Williams; vice president, Mrs. Robert Little; vice president, Mrs. Lewis Felt; secretary, Miss Amy Merrill; treasurer, Mrs. Daniel B. Lord; directors, Mrs. Ralph Raymond, Mrs. Fred Osborn, Mrs. Charles Cassidy, Mrs. Aaron Strauss, Mrs. T. A. Martin, Mrs. John Carten, Miss Rachel Foster, Mrs. Jesse Barrett, Mrs. E. C. Armstrong, Mrs. R. A. Bakeman, Mrs. Prokos Kutrubes, Mrs. George Millett, Mrs. Adin French, Mrs. John Meagher, Mrs. Leland Page.

An important meeting of all officers, directors and chairmen of all committees for the lawn party of the Hospital Aid board is called at the Nurses' Home, Monday, June 26, at 3 p. m.

WHIST PARTY

A whist party in aid of the East End table for the St. John's parish field day will be held tonight at the home of Mrs. John Cuddire, 7 Shamrock street. The party will not begin until after the services of the triduum at St. John's church. Several attractive prizes will be offered and a large attendance is anticipated. The chairlady of the East End table is Miss Mary E. Riordan of Driscoll street, and she has the assistance of a large and efficient committee.

WHY ?

DO WE WAKE UP IN THE MORNING

THE human body "goes to sleep" in order that the heart and the brain have time to build up the portions of the body which have been used up during the day, by exertion of one kind or another.

Generally speaking, the brain acts as sort of an alarm clock which wakens us when the process of rebuilding has been completed and it is for this reason that persons who have been unduly fatigued sleep longer than those who have taken but little exercise. The process of awakening is principally due to two factors—the necessary amount of rest and habit. The former being the stronger of the two, persons who are quite tired when they retire find it difficult to wake up at their accustomed time, though an equal amount of fatigue upon going to bed each night will soon enable one to acquire the habit of arising at the same hour, no matter how early or late this may be. The process of natural awakening, therefore, is merely the result of being completely rested in all parts of the body—even though certain muscles may appear fatigued through unusual exertion on the preceding day.

MAYOR SHEA LENDS APPROVAL TO HAVANA, PRIDE OF ANTILLES

BY FRANK W. PENNIMAN

With the Mayor of Peabody in Havana, Cuba, might well be the caption of this story of a vacation trip to the Antilles, which His Honor Mayor William A. Shea concluded a few days ago. The Peabody Chief Executive is still talking about his vacation in the tropics and he declares he had a wonderful trip. The only thing he found wrong with Havana was the hot sun and that was terrific for the northerner, made the more so by the absence of the customary June shower.

Sailing on the steamer San Bruno of the United Fruit line from Boston on June 3, Mayor Shea and party found themselves three of the five New Englanders aboard. In all there were ten passengers, including a Beachmont mother and infant going to join her husband in Havana. It might have been a private yacht so far as passengers were concerned and the Peabody party voted the five days' sail on this steamer one of the happiest features of the vacation.

Captain Edward J. Minister, a Welchman, and master for over 25 years, enjoys the unique record of having been in command of the first British steamer captured by the German raiders in the late war. His steamer, the Cetriana, was overtaken in the Pacific on August 4, 1914, an hour after England had declared war against Germany. The German captain left Minister barely enough coal to make the nearest port in California and because of their former acquaintance refused to sink the captured craft. This Welchman skipper won a decoration for rescuing a dozen or more Americans in Salina Cruz, Mexico, while American troops were invading Mexico in quest of Villa. Minister bluffed the Mexicans by threatening to call a British warship to blow up Salina Cruz unless the Americans were handed over to him. They had been taken from a steamer flying the American flag. He entertained the Peabody passengers with many interesting anecdotes of his war experiences.

The five days' sail to Havana found the ocean almost as smooth as Wenham lake and the day before reaching Morro Castle the Florida coast line, with Palm Beach and Miami looming large on the shore line, made the day doubly interesting.

One of the ship's stewards going south hailed from Salem and recognized Mayor Shea when he went aboard at Boston. Among the crew of the San Bruno was a Boston University sophomore seeking a vacation trip and having it by oiling the deck of the San Bruno and doing it with a smile, although his hands looked blistered.

The San Bruno poked her nose into the narrows of Havana harbor late in the morning of June 8 and after running the gauntlet of the health and customs officials the Peabody party went to the Plaza hotel in time to join the Havana Rotary Club at their

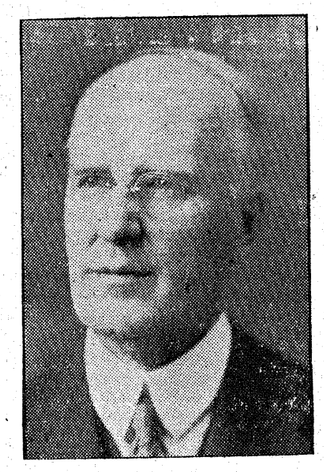
Candidates For County Treas.--- Mitchell Appeals To Voters

Candidates for County Treasurer of old Essex are making their announcement this week to the voters. They are William S. Nichols of Salem, a well-known figure in banking circles, and Charles O. Bailey of Newbury, who has been for the past 15 years disbursing officer for the department of conservation in the forestry bureau at the state house. Mr. Bailey is a former senator and also served as a representative.

Salem will make a strong bid to land one of her citizens in the county office and John D. H. Gauss is one of the leading supporters for the Salem son. Mr. Nichols may be said to have a keen understanding as to county finances. Mr. Bailey if elected promises to see that Essex County banks become the depositaries for Essex County funds.

County Commissioner Robert H. Mitchell of Haverhill will be a candidate to succeed himself this fall. He was chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Benjamin Gilman. He is the father of the Haverhill stadium and for a long period of years was building inspector in his home city. He has given his best efforts to the office of county commissioner and his friends are working hard to perfect his campaign. His announcement follows:

To the People of Essex County:



In announcing my candidacy for county commissioner at the coming election, I desire to make the following statement:

In the month of January last I was appointed county commissioner to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Benjamin B. Gilman of Haverhill.

Since my appointment it has been my earnest endeavor to discharge the duties imposed on me in such manner as seemed most conducive to the best interests of the county.

I trust I may be pardoned if I express the belief that my experience both in business and in positions of public trust that I have held in the past adequately equip me for the position which I am again seeking.

For thirteen years I served as building inspector for the city of Haverhill, during five years of which time I was president of the Mass.

ROBERT H. MITCHELL

State Association of Local Building Ispectors.

I was appointed by Governor Foss and reappointed by Governor Walsh a member of the Mass. State Elevator Commission, an unpaid body created to study and revise the elevator laws of the state for the purpose of increasing public safety. I have served four years on the Haverhill high school stadium commission, the accomplishments of which commission have been the subject of favorable comment from all parts of New England.

May I assure you that if I am continued in the important position of county commissioner I shall strive to perform my duties in such a way as to justify your confidence.

ROBERT H. MITCHELL.

PUPILS NAMES OMITTED

weekly dinner. Mayor Shea and party were thus introduced to 135 business men of the city.

It was hot in Havana with the sun's rays beating down on the alabaster buildings in Cuba's metropolis with fiendish glee to welcome the Peabody travelers. The Cuban dodges the sun and the Peabody party followed suit whenever it was possible.

A motor tour of four hours through the Havana parks, which compare with the most elaborate anywhere, a glimpse of the fashionable Casino where the stakes in the winter season rival Monte Carlo, the Country Club, where the American colony and leading Cubans enjoy the 18-golf course, the bathing beach at Marianao, and a visit to Camp Columbia, the army headquarters, occupied our second day in Cuba.

There is no prohibition in Havana or anywhere in Cuba and "wet" goods were in great abundance as they lined the shelves of the hundreds of cafes and stores. In the five days the Mayor's party spent in Havana but two English speaking men were noticed intoxicated and they had come off a tramp steamer and were making up for lost time. The Cuban never gets drunk nor is he given to libation. When the Cuban asks his friend to have a drink it is coffee or some pineapple or lemon juice beverage. Liquor and the tropical sunshine don't mix, and health comes first to the intelligent Cuban.

Clarence L. Marine, an American lawyer in Havana, who is now a member of the Banking Commission appointed by President Zayas to liquidate the defunct banks which collapsed following the drop in sugar prices, was host at a sumptuous Cuban breakfast at noon on June 10, at which rice and chicken, the favorite Cuban dish, was the piece de resistance. Through Atty. Marine we were furnished passes to Cabanas fortress and Morro Castle, across Havana harbor, and under the direction of Lieut. S. Cubria of the Coast Artillery we were shown over these two ancient forts, the scenes of wholesale slaughter of Cuban patriots under the yoke of Spanish tyranny that was ended when Uncle Sam sent his volunteer army to free the Cubans in 1898.

Lieut. Cubria spoke English fluently and the three-hour tour in his company was well worth the trip to the Antilles. Morro Castle was built by prisoners who had been exiled from Spain, and is nearly 150 years old. The wall against which hundreds of unfortunate Cubans had been stood and despatched by gunfire was shown us, and the subterranean passages in Morro Castle which carried their dead bodies to the sea below for the sharks to devour was disclosed.

From the ocean the first bit of Morro Castle is discerned in the shape of the lighthouse, across which in brass letters is the name "O'Donnell 1844." It was named after a former Spanish govenor general of Cuba whose paternal ancestors had immigrated to Spain from Ireland early in the 18th century.

O'Reilly street is one of the shopping thoroughfares in Havana and was also named for a former Spanish dignitary. The width of O'Reilly and Obispo (or Bishop) streets running parallel would permit of two Ford cars passing with only an inch to spare, and the danger has been eliminated by making each street a one-way thoroughfare for the hundreds of taxicabs which ply the city on 20-cent fares. The taxicab in Havana is a Ford touring car. Despite the number of autos, the electric railway system in Havana does a big business on a five-cent fare and its system is admittedly one of the most efficient in the world.

Docks have been built in Havana harbor in the last ten years and more are underway. Back in 1911, when the editor of the Enterprise was engaged in newspaper work in Havana, every steamer anchored in the harbor and passengers were transferred to a smaller vessel and landed at the customs house wharf.

Havana has gone ahead by leaps and bounds in the past ten years with many new office buildings and palatial homes. Motor cars are extremely numerous and of the most expensive makes, including the Rolls Royce. The usual parade of autos late in the afternoon gives the visitor a chance to see the Cuban families at their best as they circle the prado boulevard for an hour or more before dinner.

Mayor Shea visited the American tobacco plant, the government buildings, including City Hall, and has returned home with a good word for Cuba.

The trip home was by the Ward line to New York, on the steamer Morro Castle, which stopped at Havana envoyage from Mexican ports. The captain of the Morro was James Blackadder and he was born in East Lynn 60 years ago. He removed to the home of relatives in New York when a youth on the death of his parents in Lynn. He entertained the Mayor and party on several evenings and did everything possible to make the Peabody travelers enjoy the trip.

For the traveler who does not enjoy the ocean voyage, Havana is accessible from Key West, Florida, by a steamer which takes about six hours to cross over the Gulf of Mexico. By this rail and water route it takes 56 hours to reach New York City. The Ward line boats sailing Saturday from Havana dock in New York early the following Tuesday morning. The nautical mileage is about 1140 miles.

Mayor Shea was presented with a handsomely carved cane bearing insignia of Mexico by a fellow passenger on the Morro Castle, which he will long cherish as one of his souvenirs of his trip to the tropics.

Harry Carey In Western Film Strand Headliner For Tonight

From the depths of degradation on the beach at Tiva-Tiva to the side of the prettiest girl in Arizona in a blue roadster, goes the hero of "Man to Man," Jackson Gregory's widely read novel, which stars Harry Carey, and which will be the big attraction the Strand will offer for today to Saturday.

The story is of the type which has given Carey his popularity. "Man to Man" recounts the struggles of a young man who fights his way back from a South Sea derelict to respectability in his home country—the cattle lands of the west. It provides the star with a he-man role which fairly bristles with stirring action. Mr. Gregory's story called for a cattle stampede which required the use of five thousand head of cattle. To secure this number Universal hired the Agoure ranch in California. Lester Agoure, the owner, is the last of his family who received their land from the king of Spain when California was a Spanish colony. Twenty cameras were used in filming the stampede scenes. Some of the shots are startling in their thrills. Supporting Mr. Carey are to be seen Irene Rich, Harold Goodwin and Charles LeMoyne, the latter being the greatest western "heavy" on the screen. A Mack Sennett comedy and George Walsh in "With Stanley in Africa," will be the other attractions on the bill for today.

Alice Joyce, an old-time favorite, will head the double feature bill for Sunday evening, when she will present in the feature "Her Lord and Master." This marks Miss Joyce's first appearance at the local playhouse for months. Wanda Hawley in "The Outside Woman" will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

Elaine Hammerstein in "Why Announce Your Marriage" is announced as the feature attraction on Monday and Tuesday. "Why Announce Your Marriage" is a serio-comedy which deals with the ultra-modern method of separately maintained establishments by the contracting parties in marriage. The star plays the part of a successful artist, who refuses to give up her career to be merely a wife. But she's in love. So she marries the man but swears him to secrecy.

Now there are many young couples who have kept their marriages secret, but only because someone would disapprove. In this instance, all their friends are urging them to marry when they are married already. But the newlyweds get careless and the gossips get busy. And embarrassing situations come fast and furious until a burglar spills the well-known beans. It is a sparkling affair well shaded with comedy touches and charmingly acted by the star and her assistants, who are Niles Welsh and Arthur Housman.

Eugene O'Brien in "Clay Dollars" will be the second feature for Monday and Tuesday.

West Peabody

Miss Evelina Martin, having finished her first year at Jackson College, will spend the summer months at her home on Pine street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. White and son Henry H. White, with his wife and two children, are spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. White of Ellsworth, Maine.

The West Peabody baseball team played the Lynnfield baseball team last Saturday. West Peabody won, the score beink five to four.

It is hoped that the West Peabody playgrounds will soon be put into order so that the tennis court, ball field and other amusements can be planned.

The West Peabody Canning Club will meet in the vestry of the church Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Stickney and two children of Peabody have moved into their summer home on Lowell street, which was completed recently.

Miss Lizzie Roberts of Lexington is spending a few days with Mrs. Perley oGdale.

Joseph Brooks is building a new home on Newbury street.

The Ladies' Aid Society met with Mrs. Augusta Alger on Winona street Wednesday afternoon.

New York Woman Warmly Praises Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules

"I have taken your Little Wonder Capsules and want to express my appreciation to you for the wonderful results that I have so far obtained. I have been suffering from indigestion of the bowels for a long time. Since taking these wonderful capsules, my appetite has increased and assimilation of the food that I take seems to be perfect."

This is an exact copy of a letter written by Miss Louise M. Brunning, of 255 W. 52d St., New York City, praising Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules.

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules contain a number of standard medicines acknowledged to be correctives in treating certain gastric and intestinal disturbances. A single capsule goes direct to the spot and gives prompt and beneficial results in mild and acute cases of indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation.

On sale at Lawrence Bros., Peabody, or 60 cents by mail postpaid for large package from Jaques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

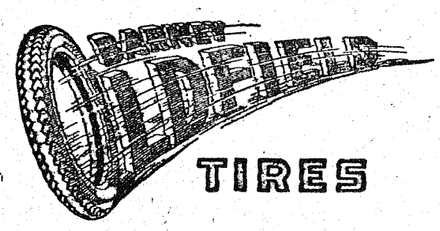
Help You Choose Tires

500 miles at 94.48 miles an hour—a relentless grind over a rough-finished, sun-baked concrete and brick pavement at record-breaking speed—that is the gruelling test Oldfield Cord Tires underwent successfully at Indianapolis Speedway May 30th. They were on the winner's car for the third successive year and on eight of the ten finishing in the money, upholding the confidence successful race drivers have in the trustworthiness and ability of these tires to meet the greatest demands of speed, endurance and safety. Their records in every other important race have been equally as good.



Consider this achievement along with another test of Oldfield quality made at Wichita, Kansas, this past winter and early spring.

34,525 miles on rutted, icy Kansas roads, running day and night on a Studebaker stock car without a single tire change. This test was made by a group of Wichita automotive dealers in a tire, oil and gasoline economy run. Mayor Kemp of Wichita was official observer and made affidavit to the mileage and service given by Oldfield tires.

You may never subject your tires to the gruelling experience of Indianapolis nor the steady grind of bad winter roads, but it is good to know you can get such safety and mileage economy by buying Oldfield tires. Ask your nearest dealer.

165% Increased Business

The buying public is the surest barometer of the value of any article. Their approval of Oldfield value has been demonstrated by the increase of 165% in business for the first five months of 1922 over the corresponding period of 1921.

Agents Everywhere

Oldfield Tires are distributed through 73 branches and distributing warehouses in all parts of the United States. More dealers are constantly becoming Oldfield agencies and Oldfield Tires are now available in your community.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
State Department of Public Health
RULES AND REGULATIONS
for the

Purpose of Preventing the Pollution and Securing the Sanitary Protection of the Waters of the Reservoir, Brown's Pond, Spring Pond and Suntaug Lake and their Tributaries, used by the City of Peabody as Sources of Water Supply.

The State Department of Public Health, acting under the authority of Section 160 of Chapter 111 of the General Laws, and every other act thereto enabling, hereby makes the following rules and regulations for the purpose of preventing the pollution and securing the sanitary protection of the waters of the reservoir, Brown's Pond, Spring Pond and Suntaug Lake and their tributaries, used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, which shall remain in force until further order, and which may be hereafter from time to time amended or added to by the State Department of Public Health.

The provisions of the following rules and regulations so far as they are the same as those of the existing rules and regulations shall be construed as a continuation thereof and not as new provisions.

The rules and regulations adopted by the State Board of Health under date of December 3, 1903, and of July 11, 1912, are hereby repealed.

1. No cesspool, privy or other place for the reception, deposit or storage of human excrement, and no urinal or water-closet not discharging into a sewer, shall be located, constructed or maintained within fifty feet of high-water mark of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or within fifty feet of high-water mark of any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

2. No human excrement shall be deposited or discharged in or into the reservoir or in or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or in or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or in or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds; and no human excrement shall be kept in, or deposited or discharged in or into, any cesspool, privy or other receptacle situated within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, or within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of any open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, unless such cesspool, privy or other receptacle is so constructed that no portion of its contents can escape or be washed into any such waters.

3. No human excrement, or compost containing human excrement, or contents of any privy or cesspool or sewer, or other receptacle for the reception or storage of human excrement, shall be deposited or discharged upon or into the ground at any place from which any such excrement, compost or contents, or particles thereof, may flow or be washed or carried into the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

4. No house slops, sink waste, water which has been used for washing or cooking, or other polluted water, shall be discharged into the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds; and no house slops, sink waste, water which has been used for washing or cooking, or other polluted water, shall be discharged into the ground within fifty feet, or upon the ground within two hundred and fifty feet, of high-water mark of said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, or into the ground within fifty feet, or upon the ground within two hundred and fifty feet, of high-water mark of any open waters flowing as aforesaid into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

5. No garbage, manure or putrescible matter whatsoever, shall be put into the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds; and no garbage, manure or putrescible matter whatsoever, shall, except in the cultivation and use of the soil in the ordinary methods of agriculture, be put upon the ground within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, or within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of any open waters flowing as aforesaid into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

6. No stable, pig-sty, hen-house, barn-yard, hog-yard, hitching or standing place for horses, cattle or other animals, or other place where animal manure is deposited or accumulates, shall be located, constructed or maintained, any part of which is within fifty feet of high-water mark of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or within fifty feet of high-water mark of any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds. No stable or other place, as above enumerated, shall be located, constructed or maintained within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of said reservoir, said lake, or either of said ponds, or within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of any open waters flowing as aforesaid into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, unless suitable and adequate provision is made to prevent any manure or other polluting matter from flowing or being washed into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds or such open waters.

7. No lands, which were not under the control of cemetery authorities and used for cemetery purposes on June 13, 1922, from which the natural drainage flows into the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, shall be taken or used for cemetery purposes until a plan and description of the lands which it is proposed to use for such purposes, sufficient for their identification, shall be presented to the State Department of Public Health, and until such taking or use shall be approved in writing by said State Department of Public Health.

8. No manufacturing refuse or waste product or polluting liquid, or other substance of a nature poisonous or injurious either to human beings or animals, or other putrescible matter whatsoever, shall be discharged directly into, or at any place from which it may flow or be washed or carried into, the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

9. No system of sewers or other works for the collection, conveyance, disposal or purification of domestic or manufacturing sewage or drainage, or any other putrescible matter whatsoever, shall, except in accordance with plans first approved in writing by the State Department of Public Health, be constructed or maintained at any place within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

10. No public or private hospital, or other place intended for the reception or treatment of persons afflicted with a contagious or infectious disease, shall, until the location and construction thereof have been approved in writing by the State Department of Public Health, be located or constructed at any place within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply. No public or private hospital, or other place intended for the reception or treatment of persons afflicted with a contagious or infectious disease, shall be maintained at any place within such watersheds, unless all the provisions required by the State Department of Public Health for the purification or disposal of sewage, drainage or other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, have been complied with, and unless all orders issued from time to time by said State Department of Public Health in relation to the purification and disposal of sewage, drainage and other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, are fully complied with.

11. No tannery, currying shop, or other establishment or place where the skin, wool, hair or fur of any animal is treated, shall, until the location and construction thereof have been approved in writing by the State Department of Public Health, be located or constructed at any place within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply. No tannery, currying shop, or other establishment or place where the skin, wool, hair or fur of any animal is treated, shall be maintained at any place within such watersheds, unless all the provisions required by the State Department of Public Health for the purification or disposal of sewage, drainage or other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, are fully complied with.

12. No slaughter house or other building for carrying on the business of slaughtering cattle, sheep or other animals, and no melting or rendering establishment, shall, until the location and construction thereof have been approved in writing by the State Department of Public Health, be located or constructed at any place within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply. No slaughter house or other building for carrying on the business of slaughtering cattle, sheep or other animals, and no melting or rendering establishment, shall be maintained at any place within such watersheds, unless all the provisions required by the State Department of Public Health for the purification or disposal of sewage, drainage or other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, have been complied with, and unless all orders issued from time to time by said State Department of Public Health in relation to the purification and disposal of sewage, drainage and other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, are fully complied with.

13. No person shall bathe in, and no person shall, unless permitted by a special regulation or by a written permit of the City Engineer of the city of Peabody, fish in, or send, drive or put any animal into, the reservoir or in or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or in or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or in or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or bathe or fish in, or send, drive or put any animal into, any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds. No person other than said City Engineer, his officers, agents or employees, or public officer whose duties may so require, shall, unless so permitted by regulation or permit of said City Engineer, enter or go, in any boat, skiff, raft or other contrivance, on or upon the water of said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, or on or upon the water of any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, nor shall enter upon, or drive any animal upon, the ice of any of said waters.

14. No person shall enter upon the reservoir or upon Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or upon Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or upon Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, for the purpose of cutting or taking ice, or cut or take ice from said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, without a written permit, signed by the City Engineer of the city of Peabody, stating the time and place for which such permission is given.

The granting and witholding of permits required by rules 13 and 14 are hereby delegated by the State Department of Public Health to the City Engineer of the city of Peabody.

15. All reports which may be made to any board of health, or to any health officer, of any city or town, of cases of contagious or infectious disease occuring within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, shall be open to the inspection at all reasonable times of the City Engineer of the city of Peabody, his officers or agents.

By order of the State Department of Public Health,

EUGENE R. KELLEY,
Commissioner of Public Health.

Above rules and regulations accepted by the City Engineer, City of Peabody, June 21, 1922.

FRANK EMERSON,
City Engineer.

Funny How Things Grow

Three men, an Irishman, a Swede and a Hebrew, were brought to court. The Hebrew was arrested for stealing a cow; the Swede for stealing a horse, and the Irishman for stealing a wagon.

"Well," said the judge, turning to the Hebrew, "where did you get the cow?"

"I've had it since it was a calf," was the reply.

"Where did you get the horse?" he asked the Swede.

"I've had it since it was a colt," replied the Swede.

"And, Patrick," where did you get the wagon?"

"Oh, your Honor, I've had it since it was a wheelbarrow."—Ex.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ferguson of Putnam street spent the week-end at a Maine beach.

Miss Mary Roberts, bookkeeper for the T. H. O'Shea estate, enjoyed a boat trip to Portland, Me., over the week-end.

The condition of Arthur H. Bodge, who has been ill at his home on Andover street for the past two weeks, is reported today as much improved. His many friends will be glad to see him out again.

Miss Margaret Cotter, bookkeeper at the local office of the Salem Gas Light Co., spent the week-end at Hull, the guest of Mrs. Frank Sullivan (Isabel M. O'Keefe), formerly of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Trask motored over the Mohawk Trail over the week-end.

Edward Holleran, clerk at Trask's market, spent the week-end with friends in North Adams.

Ex-Congressman Michael F. Phelan attended the 25th anniversary of graduation at Harvard college last Saturday with the class of 1897, which comprised many prominent public men of today. It is said that the former congressman will soon announce his candidacy for the national house.

Miss Madeline O'Keefe of Northend street is enjoying the week visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Sullivan, at her summer home at Hull.

Mrs. Edward Ward of Buxton street returned from Salem hospital yesterday convalescing from a recent operation.

Mrs. Henry Kelley of Main street left this week to visit her mother, Mrs. C. J. Howe, in the adirondacks.

Years of Discretion

"I asked you to send me young lettuce."

"Yes ma'am. Wasn't it young you got?"

"Young? It's almost old enough to wash and dress itself."

Blub: "I hear you are working in the shirt factory now."

Glub: "Yes."

Blub: "Why aren't you working today?"

Glub: "We're making nightshirts this week."

—Humbug.

CITY HALL

City Engineer Emerson is determined to drive miscreants from the city's water basins, and instructions have been given to Caretaker Michael Boyle to arrest any trespassers seen about Spring or Brown ponds. The state board of health has issued a decree which is published in today's Enterprise and violation of this order will cause offenders to be hailed to court.

One of the men in City Hall that does the most with the least noise is Michael J. Murphy, foreman of the sewer division. He has a gang of men who work by night when they clean out the trunk sewer and their efforts go far to lessening the sewer troubles in Peabody. If Salem cleaned out her trunk line sewers as well as Peabody does there would be little cause for complaint.

Henry Duggan, one of the Councillors, is working for a Lynn paper and is greatly enjoying his efforts. He may decide to give up politics and enter the employ of a metropolitan daily.

Raymond L. Cummings, secretary to Mayor Shea, is sporting a handsome cigarette holder brought him from Cuba by the city's chief executive last week.

City Collector Michael J. Sherry unearthed in his vault a silver coin bearing the inscription of the "Danvers-Salem Aqueduct 1797." It was as large as an old silver dollar. A check for $100 payable to the Danvers-Salem Aqueduct Corporation was also found.

Commissioner Andrew J. Fyfe, in charge of military aid, declares that not a single war veteran who really wants to work and can is unable to find a job. He has slashed the payroll as a result, which will be good news to the taxpayers.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

CHARLES H. EGLEE

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

The June monthly reviews of business all show a decided improvement in general conditions. Everyone of 20 different manufacturing groups increased in production and sales except leather and shoes. This condition is principally due to the slack business between seasons and to a lessened export trade. The tanning industry is still very slow in all sections of the country, as there are considerable stocks of unsold leather and the strange condition of rising prices of hides and falling prices of finished leather still continues. But some show is made of export leather and some shoe factories are beginning to buy. It is likely that July and August will see the leather industry beginning to improve in the same proportion as other manufactures.

The building trades are advancing most rapidly. A strong demand for dwelling houses has developed. This situation was necessary as the country is very much behind in housing accommodations in every section. It has been expected that building operations would be a strong factor in our general recovery. The Boston firm of Monks & Johnson, architects and engineers, says: "As nearly as we can tell, the average level of wages in the building trades is about 50% above the level of 1913. This means that the cost of building material and building labor has come down to the general level of all commodities which are about 50% above pre-war figures. In our opinion this is as far down as they will go until railroad wages and coal mining wages are in line with wages paid in other industries."

A man who paid $100 toward a building in 1913 would have paid $226 in July, 1920, for the same amount of work. Today he would pay $150, which shows a reduction somewhat more than the reduction in the general cost of living.

A man who paid $100 in the living costs of his family in 1913 would have paid for the same living $204.80 in July, 1920, whereas today he would pay $154.90. Almost all the prices of goods a family uses in its living are determined by the cost of production of which 80% is wages. Consequently as wages are adjusted to a uniform level downward, the cost of living is reduced about the same. Today freight, rents, and coal, have not been adjusted and the cost of living is therefore not as low as it should be, or as it will be.

The most hopeful sign of increasing business is the fact that the farmer is selling his produce at higher prices and is able to cultivate his crop at much lower costs, and in consequence has more money to put in circulation. Farm labor is plenty; many of the younger men who were laid off in the cities, being employed on the farms just at a time when they were most needed and with their board and lodging furnished they were willing to work at low wages. This has been a great help to relieve unemployment, which is today not at all serious except in a few cities, or, where strikes are in progress. Meantime, wheat, corn, cotton, and hogs, our four big crops, are selling decidedly above their lowest figures. Europe has been backward in growing crops owing to bad weather, and the outlook is not good excepting in Poland, which will harvest more grain than last year.

The textile strike is holding back the business of New England, but the situation seems to be clearing up. Without action on the part of anyone the old Economic Law of supply and demand is working all alone by itself. Many of the mill hands are able to find work in the building trades at better wages. Consequently they are moving up and are improving their condition. At the same time men who never worked in mills before are taking their places. It is a rather curious condition, but the mills are increasing production slowly in all the mill cities and there is more employment. It is possible that the living conditions of many people may be improved by this changing of jobs.

CHARLES H. EGLEE

Foreign trade is better. The South American countries are finding better markets for their raw materials and are beginning to buy in substantial amounts. All foreign money except German money gaining in value in relation to the American dollar shows that the people are getting back to earnest work. This is especially true of the English pound which was worth $4.87 before the war; went down to something like $3.50, and is now worth $4.45 (May 26). The German mark was worth .238 in 1913; .016 in 1921 and today is worth only .003.

We are getting back to normal business. Adjusting here a little, there a little, until bye and bye all our adjustments will be made. It is not a pleasant operation, but nothing can stop this process. If wages are lower, prices are lower, and the dollar will buy more; but, all our industries must be on the same general level, for if they are not so those who are favored above the rest will cause the rest unnecessary suffering, which condition will not last for very long.

Keep Off the Grass

A farmer had a board put up on a part of his land, on which was written: "I will give this field to anyone who is really contented," and when an applicant came, he said: "Are you contented?"

The general answer was: "I am."

"Then," rejoined he, "what do you want with my field?"

MANUFACTURERS

If you own or lease a steam plant you are thinking about your coal bill, wear and tear of your machinery.

Do you know if you are getting all the benefit from your coal? Do you know if your engine is lined or levelled?

Do you know if the valves, piston and cylinder are leaking or scored?

Do you know if you are throwing your steam through the exhaust pipe to the atmosphere and not getting the benefit from it?

It doesn't matter if it is a single valve, two valve, or four valve engine, simple or automatic they can act the same way.

Do you know that we can make your engine do the same work with less coal, or more work with the same amount of coal that you are using today?

We have done engine work for some one of your neighbors. They know the kind of work we do. We guarantee everything that we turn out.

Your work will receive the personal supervision of Mr. Steven M. Voymas, a man highly trained in the Steam & Electrical Engineering with eighteen years of experience in both branches. He is a member of the American Institute of Steam Boiler Inspectors of the City of Boston.

We will be only too glad to have you call, write or telephone to our works and tell us your needs. It will be up to us to prove to you what we have done for others.

SALLY OSBORN

The musical critic of the Examiner in San Francisco paid the former Peabody girl this splendid tribute:

"Another feature of today's program will be a piano solo by Miss Sally Osborn, a brilliant young pianist, who is also the official accompanist of De Vally. Miss Osborn is one of the assistant teachers in the Manning School of Music of San Francisco, and is a graduate of the Faelton Pianoforte school of Boston. Her masterful technique and pleasing interpretations have won her a host of friends. She will play Lizst's 'Rhapsodie'."

Miss Osborn is the daughter of Mrs. Alice C. Osborn of Dorchester, and a sister of Dr. Stanley Osborn of Hartford, Conn. She was a fine athlete during her high school days and could play baseball as cleverly as many boys. She is remembered here for her good nature and her many Peabody friends and admirers will be glad to know of her success.

CENTER SCHOOL WON

Principal Stephen Stickney has reason to be proud of the record of the Center school ball team which he coached this spring, as his nine went their schedule without a defeat and captured the grammar school championship and the trophy which goes with it.

BASEBALL

The Peabody Orientals will play the Witch City A. A. Saturday at Mack Park. The Orientals will put in their strongest line-up and Sweeney or McCusker will do the pitching and Wiggin catching. The Orientals will also play the fast Derby Eagles Sunday at Rowell's field.

The Peabody Orientals would like a return game with the Bosco Club for next week.

BALL GAME AT IDLEWOOD

Afeature of the South church Sunday school picnic to be held at Idlewood tomorrow will be the ball game with the Kingcroft A. A.

LYMAN P. OSBORN,
Secretary.

K. C. FIELD DAY

Entries for the athletic features of the St. John's Prep school-Knights of Columbus field day, to be held at the college grounds tomorrow, are complete. About 25 runners are entered in the marathon.

Babe Ruth has confirmed his letter by a telegram to the effect that he will be at St. John's as soon as he can drive out after the Red Sox-Yankee game, providing Ban Johnson doesn't put him in solitary confinement.

A thousand dollars' display of fireworks will be set off between 9 and 10 o'clock in the evening. Moving pictures will be screened afternoon and evening.

PERSONAL

Leland H. Taylor, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor, received his degree of doctor of science yesterday at Harvard college. He graduated from Amherst college and then entered the Buzzey Institute at Harvard. His studies were interrupted during the war, when he went into the service of the state. He later returned to Harvard and his efforts were rewarded by the coveted degree.

Fred W. Poor, who left Peabody some ten years ago and located in Los Angeles, Cal., is home on his first visit and brought with him Mrs. Poor, who is a western girl. They are staying with Mrs. Elmer H. Stevens of Emerson street. Those who marched in former days with Col. Farrington's Peabody Rifles will remember Fred as the star standard bearer of them all.

Night Officers Bernard Gill and Richard Dullea and Day Officer Timothy O'Conor start on their vacations July 5.

Special Issue of Enterprise To Deal With Anniversaries

To commemorate the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Peabody Enterprise, and the fifth anniversary of Peabody becoming a city, the Enterprise will soon publish an illustrated historical number devoted to the interests of the city. A brief historical sketch of the city up to the time it began its development, a more extended reference to the important changes which have taken place during the last quarter of a century, and biographical sketches of "Peabody Men of Merit" will be included. These sketches will be simple statements of the leading incidents in the lives of those citizens who by their public services, by their business interests and reputation, by their character and enterprise in many fields of endeavor and usefulness have made up the life of our city.

It is intended to show the advantages of Peabody, both residential and industrial, and a special feature will be the proper recognition of those representative corporations, firms and indviduals whose achievements have aided in placing and maintaining Peabody as one of the most important of modern industrial and residential cities.

The full resources of the Enterprise will be devoted to making this anniversary history of Peabody a notable success. In so ambitious a project the cordial support and co-operation of our public spirited citizens is necessary and the Enterprise ventures to hope that the plan will be heartily supported.

The anniversary number will be printed on special paper and profusely illustrated. The number of pages can not at this time even be estimated, but it is expected that the mechanical facilities of the office will be taxed to the limit in getting it out.

While many historical and other appropriate contributions have been promised, the publisher would extend an invitation to any one in possession of interesting data, anecdotes or reminiscences to add their contributions to those already arranged for. Contributions will be very welcome from any source.

The compilation of this issue will be in the hands of our assistant manager, W. W. Colson, who is now calling on the prominent firms and individuals whom it is desired to have represented in this number, and the Enterprise bespeaks for him the attention and co-

PLAYLOTS TO OPEN ON MONDAY NEXT

The city playgrounds will open on Monday and the beginning of the season is being eagerly awaited by the hundreds of kiddies who gather daily at the various parks and enjoy outdoor exercises under the supervision of capable instructors, who this year had to pass civil service exams in order to qualify for the position.

PARTITION FIRE

Two pony chemicals stifled a partition fire at the C. P. Osborne Co. leather plant on Foster street late yesterday afternoon. Fire is believed to have been caused by buffing dust combustion on the top floor of the factory. Damage was slight.

BALL GAME TONIGHT

The Peabody Orientals will play the West Peabody All Stars tonight at 6.15 at the West Peabody grounds. Russell or McCusker will do the serving for the Orientals. Sunday the Orientals will play some fast team at the East End grounds.

NATIONAL CALFSKIN MEN VOTE FOR SHOP LEADERS

The National Calfskin Company desires to provide means whereby in the future its employes may co-operate more closely with the regular plant authorities and may meet freely and as a matter of right with the management to discuss any matters affecting their mutual relations. The employes have intimated that they want to know about the company and its business, and the company wants to have a better understanding of the problems and difficulties of its employes.

The aim of both is to secure frank discussions in the plant itself of all differences which have not been settled through the foremen and ordinary supervisors and settlement of these wherever possible through joint conference.

The employes have entered heartily into the arrangement, having held primaries in the eight divisions of the plant, balloted by elections under secret ballot, supervised by the employes themselves. Eighty-five to ninety per cent. of all the employes exercised their privilege to vote, with the result that after an interesting contest eight elected employe representatives now meet with eight appointed management representatives in joint conference and constitute the assembly of the plant which discusses and make resolutions on questions raised in it relating to the joint interests of the employes and the company in regard to working conditions, wages, hours, safety, sanitation and related matters.

The assembly is now engaged upon the formulation of its rules of procedure which will permit of no favor or prejudice being shown either by the company or employes toward any employe in the matter of voting or in any other matter by reason of an employe's race, religious creed, political belief, membership or non-membership in any labor union or other organization.

Gala Fourth Celebration In East End

The biggest time in this vicinity on Fourth of July will be the celebration in the East End, under the direction of the East End Improvement Society. It was the original intention to confine all efforts this year to the Night Before activities, but the organization has expanded the program to include a schedule of events for the holiday, consisting of a ball game at 2 o'clock, soccer game at 3 o'clock, concert by the Cambridge Civic band from 3 to 5 in the afternoon, and from 7.30 to 9.30 in the evening, at which hour will be seen the best display of fireworks ever attempted locally. The playground commission has given to the Improve-

CLASS '22 DINE AT WARDHURST

The banquet of the class of '22, P. H. S., was held at Wardhurst yesterday. The afternoon was devoted to sports and dancing in the dining room, which was attractively decorated in pink and green. Dinner was served at 6 o'clock and dancing was enjoyed afterwards. Wardhurst is particularly beautiful at this time of the year. The class prophecy was read after dinner.

DONNELL TO STUMP BAY STATE

HON. S. HOWARD DONNELL
Candidate for Atty.-General

Dist. Atty. S. Howard Donnell, ex-Mayor of Peabody, will open his statewide campaign next Wednesday for Attorney General. He will start in the Berkshires, and he proposes to visit every city in the commonwealth. His Peabody friends know that he will make a big impression on the voters. The Peabody man looks the most powerful candidate for the Republican nomination, and with the terrific vote of Essex County behind him, his chances of garnering the mantle of his party for the office made famous by Atty. General Allen, are held doubly promising. He has a strong campaign committee already at work in his behalf and the people of Massachusetts are going to hear about the District Attorney of Essex County. Mr. Donnell will conduct a strenuous campaign from the stump.

William G. Clark of Gloucester, who has been first assistant district attorney of Essex County under ex-Mayor Donnell of this city, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for district attorney. He has proved a valuable ally in the office, personally handling many cases, and in the preparation of much legal business has had an excellent training, which his friends believe qualifies him for the office. He has many friends in Peabody who will be with him strong.

BOWLING

Pat Randall of Wakefield, one of the champion bowlers of New England, will be at the Victor alleys some night after the 4th, and show Henry D'Entremont, the manager of the alleys, how to bowl.

Rev. Rivington D. Lord of Brooklyn, N. Y., has arrived at his summer home on Lynnfield street for the season.

Mrs. Elmer Durkee and two children, Harlan and Ruth, motored with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley MacGregor to Alton Bay, N. H., the past week. After a short visit at Alton Bay, they will motor the White Mountains.

Dr. N. H. Scott of Wolfboro, N. H., spent Tuesday with his son, Natt Scott on West street.

Mrs. Richard Stocker and son James spent Thursday with Mrs. Ernest Condon on Bachelor street, Lynn.

Mrs. N. H. Scott spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Cotton, at East Wolfboro, N. H.

A twilight game of baseball will be played Friday evening at the playgrounds between the Y. M. S. C. and the Orientals of Peabody.

A game of baseball will be played Saturday afternoon at the playgrounds between West Peabody's team and the Ferncroft A. A.

Monday, July 3, all roads will lead to the Community field, where the midway will be in full swing. There will be dancing in the schoolhouse hall until 12 o'clock. At midnight the bonfire will be touched off.

Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock there will be sports of all kinds for young and old, followed by the annual "tug of war" in the afternoon between the married and single men. This will be followed by a ball game between Lynnfield Center and the Y. M. S. C. at 2.30 p. m.

The committee in charge suggest that all parents and friends in this community bring basket lunches and spend the day at the field.

Don't forget to send your "kiddies" to the opening of the playgrounds July 3. Remember that you have competent instructors and that they deserve your support.

Miss Dorothy Bixby of Lynn will sing at the lawn party given at the Nurses' Home of the J. B. Thomas hospital this evening.

B. P. Danforth, the genial R. F. D. carrier, recently lost his cow that drank a pail of paint in the yard.

E. N. Snow, who worked at the B. & M. station, is now working on the east end of the new bridge at Newburyport as night telegrapher.

Mrs. Lawrence Durkee and daughters Irene and Mildred, spent Tuesday with friends in Belmont.

Lawrence Leach is building a new bungalow on Lowell street near B. P. Danforth's farm.

Bob Fischer may play Had Sawyer a game of cow boy pool for the championship of West Peabody.

Next Sunday the usual Sunday train for York Beach will be put on. This gives one a good opportunity to go to Hampton Beach or York and get home the same day.

Charles Whitehouse has leased the Brown property on Pine street and has already moved in.

John L. Carten of Crystal Lake farm has returned from Syracuse, N. Y., where he bought three cars of fine cows. One car has just been unloaded at West Peabody. Mr. Carten met a traffic cop in Fayetteville, N. Y.

The many friends of Miss Clara Morey are glad to see her out again after her recent illness.

Lewis Felt and H. C. Rankin are working at the Crystal Spring Bottling Works for the summer.

I note that there are many farmerettes in the fields along Lowell street. One can get a good coat of tan.

John Halloran and family of Lynn are spending the summer at Joyce's camp.

The B. & M. railroad will prosecute parties caught tampering with crossing signals. Much trouble has been experienced lately by boys pulling up wires.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Partridge of Parsons street will be registered at the Hotel Randall, North Conway, N. H., over the holiday.

The Misses Lillian Madison and Evelyn Pyne will spend the coming week at Whalom Park, Fitchburg.

Atty. Louis F. O'Keefe, member of the school board, has joined the forces of Col. William A. Gaston's campaign for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator and intends to carry on a spirited contest in behalf of Colonel Gaston in this city.

Mrs. J. Murray Wilson and Mrs. Guyer are stopping at the Amoskeag recreation park in Manchester, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. John Meagher and daughter Ethelwyn have removed to their summer home at Bradstreet Point.

Mrs. George W. Bradley of Calgary, Alberta, a sister of Archibald A. Mackinnon of Peabody, has been awarded a widow's pension by the Canadian government. Her husband whom she married as he was called to the colors in 1914 for four years overseas was drowned in the Saskatchewan river on July 23, 1921, while serving as a forest ranger. The case in behalf of the widow was waged by the Canadian Veterans' Association.

Lauds Music At Graduation Of Class 1922

Editor Enterprise:

It was my pleasure to attend the enjoyable and very interesting graduation exercises of the Peabody high school class last Monday evening. In this delightful connection I beg the indulgence of a little space in your excellent newspaper to pay tribute to the splendid music played and sung upon that evening. Under the able leadership of the director and musician, John W. Crowley, the high school orchestra rendered in a musicianly manner several numbers on the program.

Their performance of the music of the "Desert Caravan" was remarkably realistic and a worthy exhibition not only of ensemble playing, but also of the fine interpretative skill of their director. The orchestra's accompanying to the singing of the cantata "Columbus" was admirable. This cantata, the words of which were written by Joaquin Miller, was directed by the instructor of music at the high school, Miss Anna Sullivan. Her directing was enthusiastic, inspiring and a masterful exhibit of the art. Every move of her hands was obeyed with absolute precision by the chorus and orchestra. Every crescendo and diminuendo were executed with fine graduation of tone; in both pianissimo and fortissimo parts the expression of sound was beautifully identical to the musical requirements of the various phrases of the cantata. The rendering of this familiar work by the senior class chorus was excellent throughout. And I am sure that had it not been for the capable instruction and leadership of the accomplished director and for the willingness upon the part of the chorus itself to follow her musicianly instructions, such a beautiful song-exhibition would not have been given. The chorus, the orchestra, Miss Sullivan and John W. Crowley, richly merited the hearty applause which they all received.

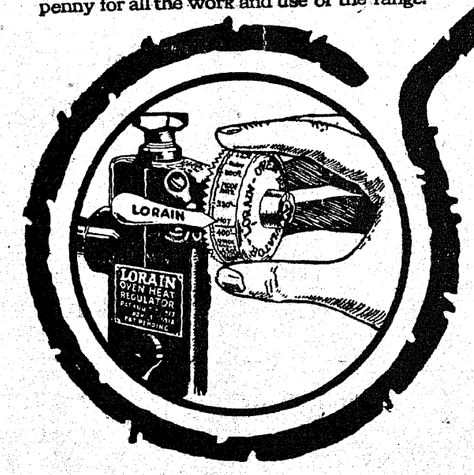
Greatest Stove Offer Ever Made

We will deliver into your kitchen this wonderful gas range equipped with a "Lorain" Oven Heat Regulator — give you a free home-demonstration, and let you use the range for thirty days—



FREE

We make this remarkable offer to prove to you conclusively that this wonderful invention will do all that we and the manufacturers claim it will do. We realize that this stove does so many things in a new and better way—does so many things that other stoves can't do—does everything so easily, perfectly, pleasingly—that housewives just won't believe until they actually try out the stove in their own kitchen.

Here's The Offer: Just come to our store. Pick out the gas range you like the best. Pick out the one that fits the space in your kitchen. Tell us your name and address. Tell us the day and time you want it delivered. Now—we'll deliver the range you select. We'll disconnect your old range, and move it out of your way. We'll connect the new range. Then we'll send to your home a trained expert to show you the new and wonderful things you can do with a stove that's equipped with a "Lorain" Oven Heat Regulator. Then for four weeks you can use it any way you please.

Now—if at the end of thirty days you are not thoroughly convinced that it's the best stove you ever used; or if you haven't been able to do more things with it than you were ever able to do before—and do them easier and better; or if for ANY reason you do not want the stove—just call us up. We'll replace your old stove just as it was. We'll take the new stove back to the store—and we'll not charge you a single penny for all the work and use of the range.

Just an Idea

To give you just an idea of what a "Lorain-Equipped" stove will do:

First—You can cook a whole meal in the oven at one time—soup, fish, meat, vegetables, dessert.

Second—You can put the meal in the oven at noon, and return at four, five, six, or seven o'clock. Nothing will be burned or overdone. The foods will be hot, brown, delicious.

Third—You can exactly duplicate every cooking success—the same flavor, the same brown, the same flakiness, crispness, fluffyness—whatever you will, and exactly as you will it.

Fourth—You can take fresh fruits or vegetables, peel them, wash them, place them in glass jars, then place the jars in the oven for an hour or so. A year afterward you can eat from those same jars the most delicious canned fruit, or vegetables, you ever tasted.

Now you KNOW you want to try out this wonderful range, so why delay? It is now possible for you to try it in your own kitchen, free of charge.

GYPSY MOTH HAS STATE IN GRASP

Extension of the federal quarantine in New England to prevent the spread of the gypsy moth, effective July 1, is announced by the Federal Horticultural Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. At the same time more than 2300 square miles in the part of this area that is quarantined against the brown-tail moth will be freed from quarantine, making a total reduction of more than 50 per cent. since 1914. Under the new regulation of the board, the quarantine against the gypsy moth is extended to include the whole of the state of Massachusetts.

Bodge Rescued Drowning Boy

The training received while a member of the Boy Scouts of this city enabled Newell Bodge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bodge of 31 Andover street, to lead in the work of resuscitating Harry Dist of Forest street, who with David McNeiley of Farm avenue were saved from drowning in the quarry off Lynnfield street last Sunday evening by Yelmar Matson of 2 Walcott street. Dist was unconscious when brought ashore. Young Bodge immediately began to administer first aid and with the help of his companions, succeeded in bringing him to.

FARMERS TO FIGHT DAYLIGHT SAVING

Plans for a determined fight against daylight saving next year are being made by the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation. The leaders realize that a last minute effort is not likely to convince the legislature that daylight saving is really a serious damage to the farmers, and they are starting in good season to get information of a convincing character to be used next year. A special committee has been appointed to secure this information and to take such other steps as are necessary to get the objections to daylight saving presented in an orderly and convincing way. The committee consists of William P. Wharton of Groton, who is chairman of the State Federation legislative committee; Josiah Parsons of Northampton, president of the Hampshire County Farm Bureau, and John Clark of Hardwick, chairman of the Worcester County Farm Bureau legislative committee. This committee plans to get information for its use when the question of daylight saving repeal comes up the next time, and to assist in getting a proper presentaton of the facts to the special committee authorized by the legislature to study the effects of daylight saving throughout New England and in other places and to report at the next general session.

Duffy Led In History

WILLIAM A. DUFFY
Best History Scholar

William A. Duffy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Duffy of 7 Clement avenue, who won the coveted prize for the ranking honors in United States history at Peabody high this year, will enter Boston College next fall. He scored an unusually high mark for his work in history and from the first of his high school studies has shown marked excellence in this subject. He took the classical course and has always been a diligent student. He is only 18 years old.

The Mass. Society Sons of American Revolution offer a medal each year for the high school boy or girl achieving highest honors in American history. The token is known as the Washington and Franklin medal.

To improve his health by outdoor life, young Duffy has enrolled for a month's military duty at Camp Devens and will spend August there, learning the arts of soldiering. He is looking forward keenly to the camp work.

William F. Duffy, the father of this prize-winning student, is a member of the firm Ronan and Duffy, leather manufacturers. Mr. Duffy is a trustee of the Peabody Institute, former grand knight of Leo Council, K. of C., and a prominent Elk in Peabody Lodge.

Rotarians To Play Baseball With The Kids

Members of the Peabody Rotary Club will leave Curtis' drug store next Wednesday afternoon for a visit to the boys' camp at Rowley where 20 Peabody boys are being helped to a vacation through the assistance of the Rotary Club. Last year 14 Rotarians went down to the camp and staged a ball game in which the boys won out against the "Daddies." There will be autos waiting to take all members of the club. A lobster dinner at Parker River will be enjoyed following the visit to the camp.

The Peabody Rotary Club will be represented strong at the fall conclave at New London and many of the members will take their wives. New London has made elaborate arrangements for the entertainment and a good time in assured. A committee composed of Frank Sanger, Phil O'Rourke, John Power and Vice President George A. Blaney will shape the details for the local club's visit to the conclave.

Rotarian Arthur P. Bodge, confined to his home by illness, is receiving frequent visits from members of the club. He is improving rapidly, although he will be compelled to reserve all of his strength for the balance of the summer. He hopes to go to San Francisco in August to the national convention of fire chiefs.

Leather Trade Brisker At All Peabody Plants

(By ENERGY)

The leather situation is slowly improving. Any one doubtful should visit the A. C. Lawrence beamhouse and the impression would be that enough was being done there to supply this world and part of the next.

This world has many wonders, but the thought struck me that if a stranger came to Peabody and entered this beamhouse, or that one if you may, he would be impressed and so much so as to pronounce it one of the wonders of the seven. I can see this person entering a place of this kind. Without question his nose would rise without any efforts, and being a stranger, he would refrain from expressing an opinion of the odor. At least, there, he might refrain, but on meeting friends it would seem he or she would talk about the wonders of leather making, particularly the smell. If the friends were seen within a few hours, there would be little need of explaining what happened, for his clothes would tell the story.

Perhaps I am not used to the present odor of beamhouses. I became initiated years ago, but with additions of chemicals that odor has changed. Then the tan house is far different. I know that hemlock bark, ground and wet with hot water, emits a smell that will rival anything in the air. I do not know that any diseases were cured from this smell, but I am positive that if consumptives gain health in pine groves, this old smell would help. In the old days many people desisted from smelling this bark, for they could not feed the appetite derived from it.

So Peabody has been dubbed the city of smells as Cologne was called likewise, only different. But please remember all such smells are healthy, as proven by our low death rate. We hope to continue to smell leathery, and much more so this fall. The rumblings of distant business are frequently heard, particularly foreign business. It is evident that while the politicians are trying to settle matters in Europe with the hot air system, the masses are plugging to get good things to eat and that is all they hope to get. A decided effort in that direction will do more to place Europe right than all the meetings from Hague to Haig and Haig.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says: "Each month the government publishes a new report purporting to give the stocks of leather on hand throughout the country. While perhaps theoretically in the interests of buyers the statistics are misleading and work serious hardship to tanners as well as to buyers, who are led to suppose that leather is in larger supply than it actually is. The fact of the matter is there are accumulations of undesirable leather which cannot be sold, as long as better stock is available. This flotsom leather is counted over and over again in every monthly census and no explanation is made to inform innocent buyers and the general public. Theoretically, this stock looms large in the official statistics and leads to the assumption that leather is in such plentiful supply that prices should be lower. When buyers proceed upon this hypothesis, they discover that stock of undesirable leather tends to advance rather than to decrease the prices of desirable leather."

Now this poor leather is what foreign buyers will take. When certain English buyers are ready, he will make a clean up of this stock and what will

FOURTH OF JULY

This date in the calendar stands for the day of days from our national standpoint. July fourth is looked forward to by the youths of today as pointing to a celebration which this day calls its own. But the celebrating has departed from the old customs radically. Twenty-five years ago, cannons were fired at intervals the day long, and cannon crackers large and small were allowed to be fired in the main thoroughfares and everybody accepted the noise and danger as being a part of the day. Even the older people slept little the night before, but murmured little. The boy who could not stay out all night was looked upon by his companions in disgust. Since that time celebrating this day has changed so radically that hardly a vestige of the old day remains. True, we have bonfires in a few places, but only a few. Cap pistols can hardly be heard across the street. Prohibition has done away with the proverbial fourth of July punch. The question arises are we letting this day of days become an ordinary holiday so that in a few years it will pass with the rest of them as just holidays? We hope not. With the many foreigners who elect to come here and make it their adopted country, the fourth of July should appeal to them because they see it means much to Americans. It is important they get Americanism instilled into their systems to make them what they should be, and help keep the nation on the plane it now stands. Fourth of July is the day to do just this, and all of us who believe we have the best country on God's footstool to live in, should teach our children what it means and what it has meant since 1775. We cannot have the cannon crackers, we cannot have the fourth of July punch, but we should have whatever will keep this day as it has been kept so long, a day of reminder that the Declaration of Independence on which stands our whole mode of living, was proclaimed on July fourth. It is for the youth, it is for the foreigner, who comes here, that we make this plea.

MILK DEPOTS

It has been brought to the attention of the Enterprise that Peabody is not having regular inspections of milk on the various teams on the highways and also of the sources of the milk supply. It is also said that some of the milk depots where the milk is bottled present unsanitary conditions, some being in very poor condition, with utter disregard for ordinary sanitary laws. This is a serious situation and one that the Mayor and city authorities responsible cannot shut their eyes to. The Enterprise is creditably informed. The source of our milk suply cannot be too rigidly overseered and owners of milk barns should be made to conform with the strictest health regulations. The outbreak of an epidemic in Peabody may be traced to milk supply and the comeback is on the city of Peabody. A milk dealer supplying an institution in this city is said to have a cow barn in a very unsanitary condition. Some milk dealers say they are never held up for samples. Wednesday of this week Agent Ray and Inspector McHugh were reported on the trail of sundry milk peddlers. It might be well for the authorities to drop into the various stores and take samples of milk being dispensed over the counters. Innocent children are not concerned about "hootch" or home brews, but their health depends most emphatically on the brand of milk they are drinking.

ATTORNEY-GENERALSHIP

There are several men before the public ambitious to become the next attorney-general. We of Peabody are to be called on to support our neighbor, District-Attorney and ex-Mayor Samuel Howard Donnell. He has thrown his hat in the ring, and all who know him know that means something. It is early to predict, it is early to make any comment on a campaign several months away. But we believe our ex-Mayor will make his opponents on the ticket know a political battle is on. We consider one of his biggest political assets is his untiring energy during a political fight. We predict that every part of Massachusetts will know who District Attorney Donnell is, and he will tell them personally where he stands. Such qualities have won many an election and will win many in the future. Voters in many states where elections have taken place have shown an inclination to vote independently. If so in Massachusetts this fall, our ex-Mayor stands a good chance of being the next attorney general. We of Peabody back him and pride for local talent will serve to make us go the limit.

CONSERVE THE WATER

The copious rains of late have filled the ponds and brooks to the limit. The shallow ones could have been filled twice over. All this surplus water has emptied into the Atlantic ocean. Ipswich river runs on Peabody land but a short distance near the Middleton paper mills. This river, according to residents who have passed their lives in that section, has not been higher in 25 years. It may be we will have plenty of water without bothering to save the surplus, but those who have studied the question insist in saying we will have dry spells which will more than tax our present water supply. It is evident that no move will be made at this time or in the near future to "lay up rain for a rainy day," but when the drouth stays long enough to pinch our factories, when men cannot work and thousands of dollars are lost in wages, because we did not provide for the water shortage, most of us will wonder why provision was not made for just such an emergency, but such wondering amounts to nothing. Conserve the water which runs to waste down the North river to the sea, by building basins along the brooks where the land is low, and the big users of water will do the rest. The cost is small, and our water supply will be at least partially protected. Private corporations are doing just this and the city could afford to copy.

ROUND ABOUT

"Mollie," hailed for years as one of the most intelligent fire steeds to do duty for Peabody, was sent to the happy hunting ground last week when an ill turn seized the faithful equine at fire headquarters. It was mercy to end "Mollie's" troubles, yet the incident cast a gloom over the older firemen who had cherished the pet animal. Former superintendent of fire alarms, Charles H. Smart, drove "Mollie" for years, and it was harder for him parting with "Mollie" than it was the department when he retired.

The departure of Rev. Dr. Francis L. Beal, rector of St. Paul's church, is being noted with much sorrow among his Peabody friends. He has proved a very popular church leader, and as a citizen has made many friends outside of his parish who regret that he is to remove from the city. He has been one of the most popular Episcopalian rectors ever to function here, sharing that honor with the Rev. Mr. Partridge. He will take a church in Somerville and he will carry with him the best wishes of a host of admirers.

It was a sight not to be forgotten to see the volume of water in Ipswich river this week as it passed the paper mills, so called, just beyond the Peabody line in Middleton. The Haywood house is close to the river at this point, and a well, noted for its pure water near by, could be reached only with hip boots.

Spaulding's meadow, which is on Russell street just beyond where the recent accident took place, overflowed to the extent of making the street impassable.

A word for West Peabody streets at this time. Country roads after a heavy rain are muddy. Passing through the streets in this section showed little or no mud and a road bed that the big flow of water failed to gully. A red gravel obtained in that section is most ideal for packing and making a solid road bed.

I cannot leave this subject without saying that William Sheen has looked after West Peabody streets for many years and his work shows markings of one who knows his business. A small appropriation serves to keep the roads in condition and is in decided contrast with such roads in neighboring towns.

The pile of barrels in the East End is now of fourth of July proportions, and the thousands who will visit the spot the night before the holiday will witness a fire of the usual magnitude.

Those ambitious young men who build such a stack are entitled to the thanks of those who look on, and it is evident that fourth of July spirit is not waning in that section of the city. Keep up the good work.

By a new ruling, motor-cycle policemen will ride side cars in future. They are claimed to be safer for the driver, but how about the other fellow in the baby carriage? So when we get our mounted cop, we wonder if he will need company. He certainly will not be lonesome on the turnpike or Lynn street. Now will the autoists behave?

Two old residents passed away recently. Lawrence Wallace and Simon Hayes. The former was a crossing tender for years at the Central street crossing, and the latter a well-known and popular policeman. Both lived well beyond the allotted three score and ten.

Last Sunday two of the policemen after some trial, rode the two motorcycles to the municipal garage for safe keeping until the Turks, their owners, were tried for offences against auto laws. It will take some grooming to get results and style combined on those motor machines.

We hear reports that the Oak Hill Golf Club, to be, is making real progress in gathering in funds. By the way golf clubs fill their membership, there is room in plenty for another course in this vicinity and the other clubs will not suffer by this addition. Big membership in many courses has tempted many members to join other clubs, hoping by so doing that there will be fewer playing. Crowded courses takes the fun from the game.

Danvers is again furnishing water to Mount Pleasant residents for the summer. Residents there are much pleased that Danvers will do this, for our supply there amounts to little. A slight change in the law would make this a permanent move, for Danvers has plenty of water, if not good roads.

Have you guessed what the tax rate will be? The Enterprise has predicted $35 a thousand, the News claims it will be $40 or more. We will not go back on our prediction, and will take a few more bets, if we lose. The state and county taxes are far below last year, which was entirely unexpected. State House tells us we reached the pinnacle last year, and that the state tax will be lower for some years, owing to the five million drop in valuation, occasioned by taking away the foreign corporation personal valuation.

The Peabody Club have voted to give the committee appointed for the purpose, power to negotiate a five-year lease in their present quarters.

"Tom" Carr, senior member of the Carr Bros. leather concern, has two hobbies, his son and leather. I've been trying to get something about him for weeks for this column, and I received this information this week, which was amusing. It appears that a few nights ago "Tom" when about to retire, recalled that housebreakers were abroad and a brand new fifty dollar bill looked like tempting bait for the midnight prowler should he select the Carr house for his perambulations. "Tom" viewed the bill and gave a few minutes' thought as to where he would place it for safe keeping, and finally hit on putting it beneath a rug in his room. This left 14 cents in change in his trousers pocket and he chuckled to himself that the intruder if he came could keep the change. In his hurried departure for his office the next morning he quite forgot the fifty dollar bill and arrived in Peabody with his 14 cents. He was headed for his noon luncheon when he remembered that he was practically "broke." The joke was on him, so he admitted, as he related the story to a friend who told it to a pesky sparrow that flew into our office with a message tied to its leg and that's how we have the story.

The Town team will go up against a strong nine, the Cornets of Lynn, this week. Teams of this calibre will test the metal of our boys, and a line on their playing ability will be obtained.

Much favorable comment is heard for the graduation exercises of Peabody high Monday evening. All performed their parts well, the singing showing careful training by a competent head.

I am told that "Bill" Arnold, one of the Peabody summer colony residents at Hampton Beach, N. H., has a garden that is the marvel of his neighbors and much envied. The rows are straight and the budding green shows careful attention, so I am informed. I have not seen "Bill's" garden but he sends out invitations occasionally for veranda parties, and it is possible that some garden experts may be included who can verify the fact of his garden.

Fred W. Poor, Peabody born and bred, and now a resident of Los Angeles, held a record in this city the past ten days, that of being the tallest man in our vicinity. He measures six feet seven inches and the easiest way to converse with him is to give him a chair, for one's neck chords begin to ache if you stand talking to him. He has been in California since 1911 and is an executive in the office of the sheriff. He declares that storage warehouses are filled with furniture owned by people waiting for homes to be built. His brother Ben is also located in Los Angeles, being in the automobile business. Both have made good in the Pacific coast city. Fred leaves Monday enroute to Los Angeles.

After the most successful season in its history, the Peabody Training School of Domestic Science closed for the season yesterday and will not reopen until early fall. Four different classes, consisting of from 10 to 16 pupils each, have received at the hands of Mrs. Charles F. Petraske, the founder and teacher of the school, a most thorough and efficient training in the art of cooking and domestic science. The course covered a period of seven weeks and as each class completed its course a banquet and social time was enjoyed. A number of private pupils also recently finished their course.

Editor Enterprise:
Dear Sir:

Those of us who were at the graduation of the high school Monday evening, in addition to hearing essays of unusual rank, got some idea of what Miss Sullivan is doing for the music in our schools. Her choise of the cantata "Columbus" was a very happy one and the chorus performed like veterans.

ROBERT A. BAKEMAN.

South Peabody

A meeting of those interested in the celebration of July Fourth in Ward One was held on Wednesday evening, and the following committee was appointed: President, Frank McKean; treasurer, Rev. R. A. Bakeman; secretary, Eleanor I. Hanscom; chairman of grounds, Frank Tucker; chairman of sports, Eugene Beaulieu; chairman of refreshments, Wright Gregson; chairman of parade, Emma F. Barnard. The exercises of the day will begin with the horrible parade, which will start from the corner of Brown and Maple streets at 8 o'clock, and all who can are urged to enter and make a success of it. After the return to the grounds a ball game wil lbe played between the West Peabody team and a picked team from the Twilight League.

The sports and races will begin at 1 p. m., and suitable prizes will be given the winners, also to the most horrible people in the parade. Refreshments will be served free to all, and it is hoped all people in this ward will attend and show their interest and appreciation of the appropriation which makes it possible to celebrate in this manner.

Miss Rachel Walker of Holbrook is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Russell Walker of Brown street. Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Walker were in South Peabody Saturday for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Quinlan and son, Miss Eleanor Hobbs and Rodney Hobbs motored to Old Orchard, Me., last Sunday.

Anna Carpenter, the three months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carpenter, died last Friday at the Babies' hospital in Salem after a short illness. Private services were held at Brown street Sunday afternoon, Rev. Robert Bakeman officiating.

Miss Pauline Bakeman and brother Robert started Wednesday morning for East Alstead, N. H., where they will spend the next two weeks with friends. They will go to Alton from there and stay all summer.

The eighth grade pupils of the Samuel Brown school enjoyed an outing at Lynn beach Tuesday afternoon and evening. Some of the young people went in bathing, while others played games on the sand. A sunset lunch was enjoyed. There were 14 pupils in the party with Miss Annie McCarthy and Miss Helen Coyle as chaperones.

Mrs. C. E. Hobbs, Miss Eleanor Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. John Quinlan and son, all of Lynn street, start tomorrow for Rockland, Me., where they have a summer cottage. They expect to be gone for a month.

Miss Ella Reed is to give part of the pageant "Cinderella in Flower Land" at the lawn party held this afternoon at the Thomas hospital.

The community playground seems to be a great social center. Every night about 300 people gather to see the ball games and these people have never had the opportunity of getting together and knowing one another. Let the good work continue.

Wednesday night the Boy Scouts defeated the Camp Fire Girls in a game of baseball with a score of 22 to 6. Tags were sold and a refreshment booth with candy and cake was looked after by Miss Beatrice Keith, assisted by Mrs. Bakeman. Over $20 was realized for the community picnic fund.

The Gentleman's Driving Club will have horse races at Rockdale Park next Tuesday afternoon (4th of July).

Next Tuesday, the Fourth of July, the usual sports will be carried out on the community playground. The details of the day have not been completed, but a ball game will be played in the morning between a picked team from the six clubs and West Peabody.

Rev. Robert Bakeman entertained Arthur Cressy, a 12-year-old lad from the New England Wanderers' Home, last Sunday. He was found at the station early Sunday morning and taken to the police station for the rest of the night. Mr. Bakeman heard of it and did not like the surroundings, so he took the lad home with him, keeping him Sunday night. Monday he took him to Boston. His home is in Portland, Me., and he has a mother and step-father, but they had sent him to the home at Boston.

The many friends of Mrs. Sarah Swett will be pleased to know that It is said that Fred Wiggin has two of the finest cherry trees in the community.

she has returned to South Peabody. She has not fully regained her health.

The playgrounds open next week Monday. Miss Ella Reed and Ralph Holden will continue at the South and Miss Cecelia Lynch at the Samuel Brown.

Miss Alice Darling of Woburn is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Archer L. Twiss, Lynn street.

Mrs. J. Q. Adams of Lynnfield street entertained a number of relatives Thursday afternoon and evening. A family reunion is held every year at this time.

The heirs of Samuel Brown have given a beautiful oil painting of this distinguished gentleman to the school named for him. It has been placed in the school hall. Samuel Brown lived in South Peabody. He was a lieutenant in the Civil war and was killed in a battle.

Mrs. Jane Ambrose of Beverly died at her home Sunday and funeral services were held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Whitworth, Lynn street, Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting of the Sewso Club will be omitted next week, on account of the holiday.

Mrs. Ray Newhall has charge of the South Peabody church booth at the hospital lawn party today. A South Peabody firm is to furnish potato chips for the booth.

Miss Helen Stone of Overlea has gone to New York to visit friends.

Miss Maud Thompson of Newport, R. I., has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Alex Smith of Lynnfield street.

Some 25 friends assembled at the home of Miss Sadie Merchant, Lynnfield street, last Thursday evening to give her a linen shower, in honor of her engagement to Francis Cusick of Lynn. Friends were present from Boston and Everett, as well as Lynn and Peabody. Miss Ella La Voine of Everett entertained with violin selections, accompanied by Miss Edna Raddin, pianist. Miss Merchant is a member of the Ship Rock Sewing Club. A dainty lunch was served.

Camp Fire Girls of the Lake Shore Park church held a lawn party at the home of Mrs. Bowman, Broadway, last night. The proceeds are to be used for a camping trip this summer.

The Boy Scouts of the Lake Shore Park church will start on a camping trip next Monday. Scoutmaster Ed Doten is to have charge of the boys, and they intend to camp at Marblehead for a week.

A union meeting of the B. I. A. and Neighborhood Club was held at Davis' hall Tuesday evening. A fine supper consisting of cold meat, salad and pie was served under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schaab, Mr and Mrs. Frank Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith. The members are planning a barn dance for July 25, with Henniker Foster as chairman.

At a baby show recently conducted in Lynn, Robert King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard King, was given a cash prize for the baby nearest the average weight.

Arthur Jordan went to New Preston, Conn., Wednesday, where he will remain all summer. He has accepted a position as chauffeur at the Loomerwick hotel.

Miss Irene Herrow, Miss Helen Hudson and Fred Osgood, all of Lake Shore Park, took active part in a piano recital given by Mrs. Lillian Hayes Monday evening.

Miss Florence Holden, Miss Florence Hollingsworth and Miss Mildred Stanton are among a party of girls who are going on a hike with Miss Grace Harlow, a former high school teacher. They are to go by auto to New Hampshire Monday and will take mountain trips, sleeping in the huts at night.

At the evening service of the Lake Shore Park church next Sunday the pageant, "The Road to Happiness," will be repeated. Rev. Ralph Templin, the pastor, will also install the officers of the Epworth League.

Eugene Jordan has gone to the Summit House, Mt. Washington, for the summer.

The campers at Bartholomew grove are planning for the usual celebration of the Fourth. The day will be ushered in by a horrible parade. A ball game between the married and single men will be played in the forenoon, followed by children's sports in the afternoon. Dancing and fireworks are scheduled for the evening and Carl Schaab and his assistants promise a lively day.

Miss Eleanor Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Woods of Bartholomew street, celebrated her fifth birthday Saturday afternoon. There were 34 children present to enjoy the festivities. A lunch was served by Mrs. Woods and games played. Miss Eleanor received many birthday gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Savage of Melrose spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Cook, County street.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

RAILROADS AND COAL MINES

The prosperity of our country is so dependent upon the transportation of goods and people, and also so dependent upon coal for power in our factories and in our transportation, that any disturbance of either of these two important industries has the effect of lessening production, of raising the cost of our living, and of using up the wealth of the nation. Today both of these industries are greatly disturbed; so greatly that hundreds of thousands of coal miners have stopped work, and millions of railroad workers are talking of doing the same thing. The great mass of the people are looking to the officials of the government to devise some plan whereby the matters in dispute can be settled harmoniously and for the good of the whole people.

The government cannot do this. No government can satisfy everybody. No government based upon the votes of the people can frame laws that will please all the people. We elect politicians who are looking for popularity and for votes. As a general rule they are not statesmen, nor do they study the laws of business, or the good of the whole nation. They study to please the people who elected them. The government cannot justly decide the coal situation or the railroad situation.

The public is clamoring for a lower freight rate. Our cost of living is high because freights, rents, and coal are high in price. The country without doubt needs lower freight rates, but not nearly so much as it needs new railroad equipment, increased terminal facilities, and all kinds of improvements that will be wanted as our business increases. We cannot get any of these without fair treatment for the people who invest their money in the railways. Suppose you had $100 to invest somewhere. Would you buy a bond or share of stock of some railroad until you were sure you would be paid your interest regularly? Certainly you would not; neither would anyone else.

The Railroad Labor Board has given several decisions which cut the rates of pay of the workers. The workers object, but the whole country demands this reduction because everybody in the country has had his income cut and they think it only fair that the railroad men should do the same. We cannot in this country have any favored class of workers. It is neither just nor right, and when the railroads can save money by closing their shops and contracting for their repairs without outside parties, it shows at once that shop wages are too high. The railroads are perfectly willing to reduce freight rates if they can reduce wages also. This must be done and will be done, for it is not either the government or the railroads who settle this question. It is the people, and the people are demanding that their cost of living must be lower. The demand of the people must be and will be met.

The same is true in the mining situation. There are too many mines and too many miners. The public is tired of supporting mines by a full year's pay which only work 215 days and loaf 93, which is the average of the past thirty years. They are tired of paying profits on mines which are idle one-third of the time. The royalties paid to men who own coal lands are too high. They have gone up from 20 cents a ton on the average to $1.25 on the average, in some cases to $1.40 a ton. Freight is too high on coal. The rate to New England inland cities by rail was $3.00 a ton. It was a year ago $8.00 a ton, but is slightly less now. Coal cost to mine $1.80 a ton in 1913; now it is somewhere about $4.50. All this has loaded up the public with an expense it will not stand. The public demands cheaper coal. Some day it will either get cheaper coal or will have to use something else for power and heat.

The mines and railroads cannot be controlled by any class or group of men be they workers, owners, operators, capitalists or whatever they may be, unless they are controlled for the greatest good to the whole people and not the greatest good to some one class. We are learning by hardship and by suffering some great lessons these days. We are learning that co-operation and "getting together" is not only good for some of us, but is good for all of us.

Neighborhood Club

A very enjoyable children's party was given by the Neighborhood Club last Friday evening, when all the members' children were entertained at Davis hall. The children all came in costume and prizes were given as follows: Under one year, Harvey Court, Jr., as a Kewpie doll; one year to six, Richard Samuelson, as an owl; Eleanor Woods as a wild rose; six years to ten, Myrtle Smith, fairy; Gilmore Nottingham, clown; ten years to fourteen, Bessie Hannaford, dancer; Eddie Hetherington, scout. All of the costumes were very pretty and showed the interest taken in the party. The judges were Mrs. Sadie Rainford and Mrs. Wilson. Ice cream, cookies and candy were given the children, also favors. The children entertained by giving a drill and singing. Miss Evelyn Fuller gave an exhibition of toe dancing and Myrtle Smith sang selections. Credit should be given to Mrs. Frank Smith, who had charge of the party.

DANCE TONIGHT

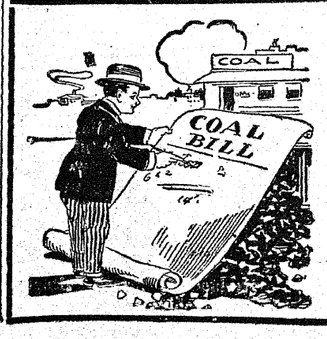
The novelty dancing party to be held in the Portuguese hall, Northend street, this evening, under the auspices of the East End table of the St. John's parish field day, is sure to be well attended and an enjoyable time is in store for all. A five piece orchestra will furnish music for dancing and favors will be distributed.

Lake Shore Park Church

Rev. Ralph Templin, pastor. Morning worship at 10.45. Sermon topic, "Responsibility and Opportunity" or "The Greatest 'Therefore' in the Bible." Sunday school at 12.15. The children's day concert is to be repeated at 7 o'clock, because of the stormy weather on children's day. Everyone is welcome.

Prayer meeting this evening at 7.45. Subject, "Controlling the Instinct of Prayer." This is the people's service and everyone is invited to come and take part.

TOOK COLLEGE EXAMS



Among the pupils from P. H. S. who took the college exams at Beverly last week was Charles A. Southwick, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Southwick of Endicott street. He is a member of the junior class.

Honor Patriots of Concord

British and American veterans, in accordance with their annual custom, on Sunday last, joined in paying tribute to those of both sides who fell at Concord, Massachusetts, in 1775, the Christian Science Monitor relates.

After exercises in honor of the British soldiers on the east side of the bridge, similar tribute was paid at the American Minute Men's monument across the river where Lieut.-Col. George W. Bentley, commander of the British Naval and Military Veterans association of Boston, pronounced this invocation: "With this tribute to the immortal heroes of the United States of America, we British veterans join in fervent prayer to Almighty God that the sacred ties that now bind our nations in friendship may never again be broken, but ever grow stronger in unity of purpose for the preservation of true liberty, humanity, law and order!"

A detachment of Lexington Minute Men, a company of state guard, the Old Concord post of the G. A. R. and Spanish War Veterans and the British veterans unite in all these exercises, which include also a decorating of the monuments of the other organizations At the conclusion, all joined in the singing of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" and "God Save the King." A number of the Twenty-sixth division veterans present in service uniforms were sons or relatives of the British veterans.

Flag of Lexington and Concord.

The farmers of Lexington carried the cornet or standard of the three county troop. This banner was devised for a local company of cavalry raised in the counties of Essex, Suffolk and Middlesex, Mass., in 1659. The office of color bearer of this troop was a sort of inheritance in the Page family. The standard was carried in King Philip's war in 1676. When the Minute Men were organized Nathaniel Page 3d of Bedford took the old flag for use at drill. At the midnight alarm Captain Page snatched up the standard and carried it with him to Concord, where it "waved above the smoke of that battle."

Flag Carefully Preserved.

The flag is now preserved under glass in a fireproof safe at the public library at Bedford, Mass., and can be seen by arrangement with the librarian, according to Peleg D. Harrison, in whose volume, "The Stars and Stripes and Other American Flags," the history of the banner is related.

The ground is maroon or crimson colored satin damask emblazoned with an outstretched arm, in the hand of which is an uplifted sword. This representation is the color of silver, as are three circular figures that are probably intended to represent cannon balls. Upon a gold colored scroll are the words, "Vince aut Moriture" ("Conquer or Die").

Pearse Lea. Co. Scoring Heavy In Fancy Colors

A Peabody leather concern that has forged to the front rank in colors is the Pearse Leather Corporation, of which Edward Pearse is president and treasurer and Harris Goldberg, vice president. The firm makes a specialty of fancy colors in Inda goat and sheepskin for the pocketbook and novelty trade and also furnishes large quantities of colored linings and suedes for the shoe business. Mr. Pearse, just back from the New York market, brought home pleasing orders for new business. The firm handles embossed skins and ooze leathers as well.

This is one of the overtime shops in Peabody. The firm employs 60 men and has an organization that comprises many experts. The Pearse leathers have an enviable reputation in the leather markets and the pressure of business warrants the plans of the concern to enlarge its plant on Walnut and Wallis streets.

Mr. Goldberg, the vice president, is a director in the Warren National bank, and is an expert buyer of skins. He was for many years foreman for the late A. B. Clark, leather manufacturer.

Mr. Pearse has come to the front as an expert in colors. He started in the leather trade with the Helburn Thompson Co., later went to the Budgell Leather Co. and then started in for himself.

happen? It does not need algebra or trigonometry, just grammar school sense tells us prices will go higher. Just such a condition has existed time and again in the leather market. A wave of buying comes along and with this accumulation taken up, the market is left bare. Tanners have little leather, comparatively speaking. These times little leather has been piled up. No such chances have been taken. So I am bullish on hide and leather prices. It may come so fast as to be disastrous. But it will take but a little start in shoe purchasing to give this business an impetus that will carry for a long period.

GOODRICH TIRES

"Motorists today take their tire service and mileage for granted," says Roger H. Smith, the local Goodrich representative, who has seen the growth of the tire industry from its inception. STUTTERING

At the meeting of the N. E. A., which is scheduled for Boston for July 3-8, one of the chief features is kindergarten work in its modern form. A very elaborate program for the development of speech in very young children is to be presented. By attending this meeting, which is free, the teacher can find how to develop speech in her kindergarten class, and the mothers will know how to develop speech in their children before they go to the kindergarten.

"WORKED LIKE MIRACLE" SAYS SYRACUSE MAN

Praises Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules for Dyspepsia

"I have suffered considerably with dyspepsia for the past four years until I heard of and was advised to try your LITTLE WONDER CAPSULES, and they worked like a miracle, as I am now able to eat everything without any bad effects. I am recommending your LITTLE WONDERS to all my friends."

This is an exact copy of a letter written by E. Manning, of 954 Lancaster avenue, Syracuse, N. Y., to the Jaques Capsule Co., Inc.

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules were originated by W. B. Jaques, a prominent druggist of Plattsburg, N. Y., nearly 20 years ago. He at that time suffered with severe stomach trouble and tried many remedies without relief. After making an exhaustive study of the causes of dyspepsia and indigestion Mr. Jaques compounded this formula and secured prompt relief. Then he began to sell the capsules in his drug store. The results were so uniformly satisfactory, and the demand grew so large that the capsules are being manufactured and sold on a large scale to relieve the stomach ills of the general public.

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules are quick, sure relief for indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, heartburn, sour stomach, flatulence, dizziness after eating, and biliousness. There is no fuss or bother, you simply take one or two capsules and a swallow of water. Prompt, satisfying results are guaranteed or money refunded.

On sale at Lawrence Bros., Peabody or 60 cents by mail postpaid for large package from Jaques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

Lynn Cornets Here Sunday Against Peabody Tanners

Peabody baseball fans will have a chance to see the champion Cornets of Lynn in action at Emerson Park next Sunday afternoon against Manager Jack Devaney's Town Team, and a battle royal is in the making, for the Tanners are out to trim the sails of the Shoemakers. Manager Devaney is strengthening his team where it is needed, but the local favorites will be seen in action. The Cornets have helped to put baseball on the map in Lynn for the past several years, and are rated one of the leading semi-pro teams in the Bay State. They will bring over their first string pitchers.

The Peabody team has played 14 games so far this season and have been turned back but once and that by the Riversides of Cambridge with the score 4 to 3 in a game in which the Tanners tripped on easy chances and lost what should have been a victory.

Ernie Gourley and Tubber Holden have made a great showing as the battery for the Tanners. Ernie lacks only weight, for he has everything a ball needs to fool a batter, and is a Babe Ruth with the extra base hits. Holden is easily one of the classiest backstops any Essex County school league has developed. He is heavy enough and makes an ideal catcher.

Bill Meade is holding down first bag for the locals with much of the ease with which Fred Tenney used to cavort, and he saves bad throws. Bill Crean on the pivot station is a Jack Barry, covering oceans of ground and adding pep to the slick infield which has for its other two members, Art Maguire at short and Frank O'Keefe at third.

The outfielders who are giving the pitching corps sensational support are Hubby Lawrence, Eddie O'Connor, Frankie Lawrence and Ben King. They cover lots of ground and are up there with the batting honors.

Manager Devaney has shaped into a veteran leader for the Town Team, as the long string of wins shows, and he is deserving of all possible support. Peabody has an excellent team and it is this fact which has resulted in the Cornets coming here Sunday.

O'CONNOR WITH SALEM

Joey O'Connor, premier pitcher and outfielder, has joined the Salem team again for the summer season. He will relieve Chick Davies and play the sunfield. Joe has proved himself a good sticker and Salem is fortunate in getting him signed up.

Cyrus Tenney has purchased a Ford service car.

Purpose of Preventing the Pollution and Securing the Sanitary Protection of the Waters of the Reservoir, Brown's Pond, Spring Pond and Suntaug Lake and their Tributaries, used by the City of Peabody as Sources of Water Supply.

The State Department of Public Health, acting under the authority of Section 160 of Chapter 111 of the General Laws, and every other act thereto enabling, hereby makes the following rules and regulations for the purpose of preventing the pollution and securing the sanitary protection of the waters of the reservoir, Brown's Pond, Spring Pond and Suntaug Lake and their tributaries, used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, which shall remain in force until further order, and which may be hereafter from time to time amended or added to by the State Department of Public Health.

The provisions of the following rules and regulations so far as they are the same as those of the existing rules and regulations shall be construed as a continuation thereof and not as new provisions.

The rules and regulations adopted by the State Board of Health under date of December 3, 1903, and of July 11, 1912, are hereby repealed.

1. No cesspool, privy or other place for the reception, deposit or storage of human excrement, and no urinal or water-closet not discharging into a sewer, shall be located, constructed or maintained within fifty feet of high-water mark of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or within fifty feet of high-water mark of any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

2. No human excrement shall be deposited or discharged in or into the reservoir or in or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or in or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or in or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds; and no human excrement shall be kept in, or deposited or discharged in or into, any cesspool, privy or other receptacle situated within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, or within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of any open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, unless such cesspool, privy or other receptacle is so constructed that no portion of its contents can escape or be washed into any such waters.

3. No human excrement, or compost containing human excrement, or contents of any privy or cesspool or sewer, or other receptacle for the reception or storage of human excrement, shall be deposited or discharged upon or into the ground at any place from which any such excrement, compost or contents, or particles thereof, may flow or be washed or carried into the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

4. No house slops, sink waste, water which has been used for washing or cooking, or other polluted water, shall be discharged into the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds; and no house slops, sink waste, water which has been used for washing or cooking, or other polluted water, shall be discharged into the ground within fifty feet, or upon the ground within two hundred and fifty feet, of high-water mark of said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, or into the ground within fifty feet, or upon the ground within two hundred and fifty feet, of high-water mark of any open waters flowing as aforesaid into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

5. No garbage, manure or putrescible matter whatsoever, shall be put into the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds; and no garbage, manure or putrescible matter whatsoever, shall, except in the cultivation and use of the soil in the ordinary methods of agriculture, be put upon the ground within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, or within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of any open waters flowing as aforesaid into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

6. No stable, pig-sty, hen-house, barn-yard, hog-yard, hitching or standing place for horses, cattle or other animals, or other place where animal manure is deposited or accumulates, shall be located, constructed or maintained, any part of which is within fifty feet of high-water mark of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or within fifty feet of high-water mark of any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds. No stable or other place, as above enumerated, shall be located, constructed or maintained within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of said reservoir, said lake, or either of said ponds, or within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of any open waters flowing as aforesaid into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, unless suitable and adequate provision is made to prevent any manure or other polluting matter from flowing or being washed into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds or such open waters.

7. No lands, which were not under the control of cemetery authorities and used for cemetery purposes on June 13, 1922, from which the natural drainage flows into the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, shall be taken or used for cemetery purposes until a plan and description of the lands which it is proposed to use for such purposes, sufficient for their identification, shall be presented to the State Department of Public Health, and until such taking or use shall be approved in writing by said State Department of Public Health.

8. No manufacturing refuse or waste product or polluting liquid, or other substance of a nature poisonous or injurious either to human beings or animals, or other putrescible matter whatsoever, shall be discharged directly into, or at any place from which it may flow or be washed or carried into, the reservoir or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

9. No system of sewers or other works for the collection, conveyance, disposal or purification of domestic or manufacturing sewage or drainage, or any other putrescible matter whatsoever, shall, except in accordance with plans first approved in writing by the State Department of Public Health, be constructed or maintained at any place within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or into any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, or upon the ground within two hundred and fifty feet of high-water mark of any open waters flowing as aforesaid into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds.

10. No public or private hospital, or other place intended for the reception or treatment of persons afflicted with a contagious or infectious disease, shall, until the location and construction thereof have been approved in writing by the State Department of Public Health, be located or constructed at any place within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply. No public or private hospital, or other place intended for the reception or treatment of persons afflicted with a contagious or infectious disease, shall be maintained at any place within such watersheds, unless all the provisions required by the State Department of Public Health for the purification or disposal of sewage, drainage or other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, have been complied with, and unless all orders issued from time to time by said State Department of Public Health in relation to the purification and disposal of sewage, drainage and other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, are fully complied with.

11. No tannery, currying shop, or other establishment or place where the skin, wool, hair or fur of any animal is treated, shall, until the location and construction thereof have been approved in writing by the State Department of Public Health, be located or constructed at any place within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply. No tannery, currying shop, or other establishment or place where the skin, wool, hair or fur of any animal is treated, shall be maintained at any place within such watersheds, unless all the provisions required by the State Department of Public Health for the purification or disposal of sewage, drainage or other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, have been complied with, and unless all orders issued from time to time by said State Department of Public Health in relation to the purification and disposal of sewage, drainage and other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, are fully complied with.

12. No slaughter house or other building for carrying on the business of slaughtering cattle, sheep or other animals, and no melting or rendering establishment, shall, until the location and construction thereof have been approved in writing by the State Department of Public Health, be located or constructed at any place within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply. No slaughter house or other building for carrying on the business of slaughtering cattle, sheep or other animals, and no melting or rendering establishment, shall be maintained at any place within such watersheds, unless all the provisions required by the State Department of Public Health for the purification or disposal of sewage, drainage or other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, have been complied with, and unless all orders issued from time to time by said State Department of Public Health in relation to the purification and disposal of sewage, drainage and other polluting or organic matter, which may be discharged therefrom, are fully complied with.

13. No person shall bathe in, and no person shall, unless permitted by a special regulation or by a written permit of the City Engineer of the city of Peabody, fish in, or send, drive or put any animal into, the reservoir or in or into Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or in or into Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or in or into Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, or bathe or fish in, or send, drive or put any animal into, any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds. No person other than said City Engineer, his officers, agents or employees, or public officer whose duties may so require, shall, unless so permitted by regulation or permit of said City Engineer, enter or go, in any boat, skiff, raft or other contrivance, on or upon the water of said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, or on or upon the water of any reservoir, lake, pond, stream, ditch, water course or other open waters, the water of which flows directly or ultimately into said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, nor shall enter upon, or drive any animal upon, the ice of any of said waters.

14. No person shall enter upon the reservoir or upon Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or upon Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or upon Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, for the purpose of cutting or taking ice, or cut or take ice from said reservoir, said lake or either of said ponds, without a written permit, signed by the City Engineer of the city of Peabody, stating the time and place for which such permission is given.

The granting and witholding of permits required by rules 13 and 14 are hereby delegated by the State Department of Public Health to the City Engineer of the city of Peabody.

15. All reports which may be made to any board of health, or to any health officer, of any city or town, of cases of contagious or infectious disease occuring within the watershed of the reservoir or of Brown's Pond, so called, in the city of Peabody, or of Spring Pond, so called, in the cities of Peabody, Salem and Lynn, or of Suntaug Lake, so called, in the city of Peabody and the town of Lynnfield, said reservoir, lake and ponds being used by the city of Peabody as sources of water supply, shall be open to the inspection at all reasonable times of the City Engineer of the city of Peabody, his officers or agents.

By order of the State Department of Public Health,

EUGENE R. KELLEY,
Commissioner of Public Health.

Above rules and regulations accepted by the City Engineer, City of Peabody, June 21, 1922.

FRANK EMERSON,
City Engineer.

WELCH—GILES

One of the prettiest of the June weddings was solemnized at St. John's church Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, when Miss Margaret M. Giles, daughter of ex-Councillor and Mrs. Cornelius A. Giles of 155 Lynn street, became the bride of William A. Welch, son of Mrs. Catherine A. Welch of 6 Bartholomew street. Rev. Patrick J. Sullivan performed the ceremony before a large company of relatives and friends.

The bride was becomingly attired in white satin with trimmings of Spanish lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Giles, who was gowned in peach canton crepe with lace overdress, and carried Ophelia roses. The best man was Frederick D. Welch, brother of the groom. As the bridal party entered and left the church, Mendelsohn's and Lohengren's wedding marches were played by Miss Margaret M. McCarthy. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents on Lynn street.

Mr. and Mrs. Welch have gone on an extended wedding trip and on their return will reside in this city. They were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts.

LAWN PARTY

The lawn party to be held this afternoon and evening on the grounds of the Nurses' Home of the J. B. Thomas hospital will be a most delightful affair. During the afternoon a pretty entertainment by the children will be given on the lawn and bridge will be enjoyed by the ladies in the living room of the Nurses' Home.

Attractively decorated booths have been arranged out of doors and will be presided over by ladies representing the various churches in the city. Ice cream, tonics, home-cooked food, sandwiches, frankforts, chips and pop corn, as well as balloons and grabs for the children will be sold. This evening dancing will be enjoyed in the Nurses' Home; those who prefer may play cards; there will be fortune-telling and an entertainment. This is the first affair to be conducted under the direction of the recently organized Hospital Aid and is sure to be successful.

PERSONALS

Miss Clara T. Ritchings, teacher at the Warren school, and Miss Pauline Riley, teacher at the South school, attended the graduation exercises at Petersham this week and will remain for a vacation of two weeks.

Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley and Thomas A. O'Keefe, accompanied by their wives, are due to reach New York tomorrow enroute home from Havana, Cuba.

Alphonse J. Gaynor underwent an operation for hernia at the J. B. Thomas hospital this week.

Miss Mary P. Clifford and Mrs. J. Henry Lyons returned yesterday from a motor trip to New London, Ct.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hershenson and sons, Sol and Elihu, attended the wedding of Miss Minnie Viner in Chelsea last Tuesday night. It was one of the most fashionable weddings in Chelsea in years. The bride is a niece of Mrs. Hershenson.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie R. Porter of Andover street have left for Old Orchard, Me., where they will spend the summer.

William Burns of Haverhill has been named as the new manager for the Parke Snow store in Peabody, and will take charge here on Monday. He comes to Peabody with a long experience in the business of merchandising. He is married and has three children. He will move his family to Peabody as soon as he can find a desirable home.

No Trouble at All.

The footpad's victim looked nervously down the barrel of the footpad's gun. "Be c-careful w-with that," he gibbered. "It might go off." "Ah, well," said the footpad, "I can easily reload."

An Opportunity Discovered.

The offense of tampering with a jury is known to the law as embracery. The announcement is said to have made many young women quite anxious to be empaneled.—Passing Show, London.

Tom Thumb In Vaudeville Act At The Strand For This Evening

Major Howard Knowles, Tom Thumb the second, will appear at the Strand today and Saturday, assisted in his vaudeville act by his partner, Peter Murray, a well-known entertainer. Major Knowles is a trifle over two feet in height and has traveled all over the world appearing before the royal families of all the European countries. He is the smallest comedian in the world and has a big time act that pleases. Major Knowles has agreed to meet the children after each matinee performance and shake them by the hand.

Richard Dix and Helene Chadwick, a pair that are rapidly reaching the top crest of scre en popularity, will be presented in the pictorial attraction for today, "Yellow and Gold," a rousing adventure story written by Gouverneur Morris. It has every ingredient of the thrilling story that sets the blood to coursing rapidly through one's veins. The person who can sit back and relax while this picture is being shown is closely related to an iceberg. The action starts in Los Angeles, shifts to two rival ships sailing for a South Sea island, off which a Spanish galleon, laden with treasure, was sunk three hundred years ago, and comes to a powerfully exciting climax on the island itself where the rival factions clash over possession of the treasure. A wholesome, refreshing love story runs through the picture. The final scenes take place in Los Angeles and give a novel and unexpected twist to the plot. Mr. Dix and Miss Chadwick are assisted by Rosemary Theby and Richard Tucker. A comedy film and George Walsh in "With Stanley in Africa" will be the other attractions on this big bargain bill which will be presented at the regular scale of prices.

May Allison in "Big Game" will head the double feature bill for Sunday evening. Constance Binney in Channing Pollock's stage success,

"Such a Little Queen," will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

"Come On Over," from the gifted pen of Rupert Hughes, will head the bill for next Monday and Tuesday. Collen Moore and Ralph Graves head the cast. Its story is simple, but has all the freshness and breeziness of a sunrise over one of Ireland's greenest hills. The story opens in Ireland and deals with the romance of Shane O'Melia, who leaves his sweetheart Moyna behind, and comes to America. It's Irish, it's American and it's funny, with a dancing finish that will go straight to the heart of anybody who sees it. Mr. Hughes has combined the laughs of "Scratch My Back" with the heart tug of "The Old Nest" and the result is a truly excellent picture. Alice Lake in "Kisses" will be the second feature on the bill for Monday.

ment Society the exclusive use of the East End playgrounds for the third and fourth. The decorating of the grounds is under the supervision of Manuel Foster, and will be a feature of the celebration, being arranged in a more extensive manner than formerly.

The barrel stack is a massive structure, measuring 90 feet in height, and is so constructed that the barrels will not hold any rain water, so that this year the great pyre will be set off at the stroke of twelve.

An additional feature this year will be fireworks on the night before, while the fire is burning, and other novelties which will make the celebration of the National holiday a continuous series of attractions.

The program for both days is as follows:

Night Before—8 p. m., parade from Peabody Square to grounds. 8.30 to 12, band concert by Spence's band. 12 o'clock, bon-fire. 8 to 12.30, midway.

The Fourth—3 to 5 and 7.30 to 9.30 p. m., concert by the Cambridge Civic League band. 2 p. m., ball game. 3 p. m., soccer game. 9.30, feature display of fireworks.

The officers of the society are: President, Caleb Kirby; treasurer, A. J. Foster; secretary, A. J. Flynn.

ROSWELL E. HAGAR

The funeral of Roswell E. Hagar, for many years in the leather business, will be from his late home, 2 Calumet street, tomorrow, at 2.30, and will be largely attended by his many friends. He passed away Thursday morning at an early hour, following a brief illness, at the age of 63 years. He was a member of Holten Lodge of Odd Fellows, who will send a delegation to the funeral.

WIG-WAG SYSTEM COMPLETED

The wig-wag system at the Russell street crossing, where the four young men met their death on June 18, is practically completed and will be in operation within a day or so. The prompt installation of the system is due to the efforts of his honor, Mayor Shea, who with City Solicitor Farnham held a conference with the B. & M. railroad officials.

Firemen William Costello and Albert Larrabee are on their annual vacations.

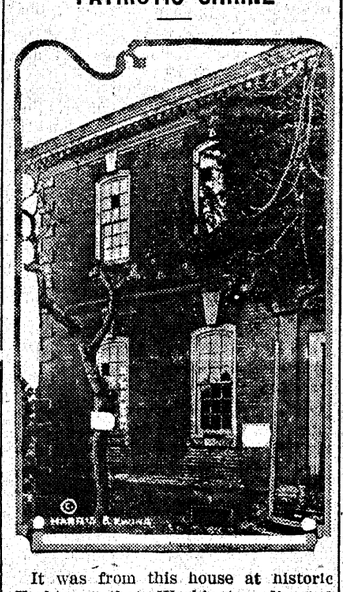
operation of the local manufacturers and merchants in this high character enterprise.

Work on the new publishing plant for the Peabody Enterprise and Press Co. is being rapidly pushed on Foster street by the E. H. Porter Construction Co. Our business in both publishing and printing has grown to such an extent that our present quarters opposite City Hall are far inadequate, and a building 30 by 80 with added land for future growth will be available late in the summer. The plant will be a model printing establishment with plenty of skylights to make daylight composing and press rooms. The Enterprise has plans for a seven-column newspaper to be issued on our new press which will be installed in the new plant. A more frequent issue than once a week is in contemplation.



THE DECLARATION

The men who wrote the solemn Declaration
That told the world our nation must be free
Were men of brains for thoughtful contemplation,
Such men as patriots ever ought to be.
It was a document whose simple diction
Revealed the beauty of its honest thought;
No elegance of fable or of fiction
Was ever with such wondrous meaning fraught.

If in that day when hot July was glowing
The telegraph had waited for the news,
With journalists assembled to be knowing,
The action taken, with no time to lose;
If telephones had rung out to the nation
Each step of progress that the work disclosed,
I wonder if that splendid Declaration
Could possibly have been so well composed.

Dr. and Mrs. Elton N. Varney leave today for a motor trip to Quebec and other Canadian points on a two weeks' holiday.

CITY HALL

Chief Barrett of the fire department is opposed to having a bell alarm sounded for every still alarm telephoned to fire headquarters on the ground that the presence of only one man at the various fire stations outside of headquarters is not enough to properly man the fire apparatus which would go to the scene of fire. The call members of the fire department are a unit with Chief Barrett in this stand.

City Electrician Vincent O'Keefe, in his eagerness to comply with the regulations prescribed by the Underwriters Board, favors the bell alarm being sounded for every still. A loss of 36 points is scored against the department and 20 points against the fire alarm office. This fact is held insignificant by Chief Barrett because a limit of 4000 points is allowed.

Up to Saturday one of the permanent firemen at headquarters has sat at the switchboard in the fire alarm office to handle all calls for still or bell alarms. Since Saturday the fire alarm office personnel has manipulated the switchboard and some kind of a controversy is on. Chief Barrett is the head of the fire department. His orders are supreme.

An inspection of the fire department is soon to be made by the Underwriters, at which time the water pressure will also be tested. Chief Barrett may order the fire engines tested and hose also. The Underwriters allow points where the fire apparatus is tested twice a year. Chief Barrett thinks that once is sufficient.

A fireman stands watch at the telephone in the fire station, the watch being relieved every two hours. This order is still in effect as at all fire houses in other cities where permanent firemen make the rule possible.

That the Underwriters should feel pretty well satisfied with the Peabody fire department is shown by the infrequent fires here and also the lack of heavy fire losses. Mayor Shea does not want to expend any money on the department this year except what is absolutely necessary. In this particular Peabody is on a par with most other cities in the state which are only now getting back onto their financial feet.

Supt. Thomas Gilroy of the City Farm is hopeful of banner crops again this year. He has proved a valuable man in his position and is held in popular regard by the guests under his charge. Visitors are welcomed at the farm inspection any day.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of PATRICK J. COSTELLO late of Peabody, in said County, deceased, intestate.

WHEREAS, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to John W. Costello of Peabody, in the County of Essex, without giving a surety on his bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Salem in said County of Essex, on the seventeenth day of July, A. D. 1922, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in Peabody the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-eighth day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

Lowell Street

One of the Sunday papers carried striking likenesses of Mrs. Albert Robinson, president of the local Smith college endowment fund, and Mrs. John Reid, another alumnae, at the garden party last week.

Wililam P. Elwell, the Lowell street electrician, passed another milestone last Wednesday and observed the occasion quietly.

Monday, July third, is to be generally a quiet day in the tanning industry of Peabody. Very few of the leather plants are to open for manufacturing, although a number of the large ones will use skeleton crews for inventory purposes.

Miss Gladys Lane of Swampscott was a guest of Nancy Barnes for the high school dance on Wednesday evening. Miss Lane entertained her hostess at the Swampscott reception last week.

Mrs. Claude Cross, (nee Jeannette Macdonald) is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Macdonald, of upper Lowell street. She attended the high school reception Wednesday evening.

Ray Porter of Lowell street, paired with P. F. Murphy of the Salem Golf Club, finished but two strokes behind the winners in the amateur-professional golf tournament at the Nashua, N. H., Country Club last Monday. Ray is driving them a mile this season, and is evidently preparing through early and careful practice to seek revenge for the loss of his crown at the Homestead last fall, after he had reigned supreme for several years. With Thomas H. Mulherin as a partner, Mr. Porter is to represent the Peabody Rotary Club at Rotary tournament at the Mt. Tom course in Holyoke today.

Helen Tucker, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. Chase Tucker, left Peabody Wednesday morning for a season at Aloha Camp, Fairlee, Vt.

Miss Elizabeth Ingraham is entertaining Miss Nancy Barnes at the Ingraham summer home at Conomo Point, Essex, over the week-end.

MRS. SANBORN TO BUILD

It was erroneously stated in our issue of June 23 that Mrs. Josephine Sanborn, who recently purchased a lot of land on Lowell street from James J. Donovan, had abandoned the idea of building and the property was again for sale. Mrs. Sanborn says the property is not for sale and that she hopes to build in the near future.

A. C. L. TWILIGHT LEAGUE

A six-team twilight baseball league was organized yesterday by baseball enthusiasts at the big plant, the following departments being represented by teams: National, Sheepskin, Hide, Japan, Cutstock and Office. There is a lot of excellent material at the A. C. L. plants from which to select six good teams, and it is possible that from this year's twilight league a shop team of high calibre might be recruited for another season. Rodney Seeley has been the chief promoter of the new league. Jim Cullen, William Birmingham, Joseph Clothey, Henry Moore and David Holleran will act as umpires for the league.

CHECKERS TO PLAY

The Checkers A. C. will meet the Palmer A. C. of Salem at Emerson Park tomorrow afternoon. Dennis and Hammond will be the battery for the locals.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of THOMAS H. O'CONNELL late of Peabody in said County, deceased, intestate,

WHEREAS, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to Mary E. O'Connor of Peabody in the County of Essex or to some other suitable person.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem in said County of Essex, on the seventeenth day of July A. D. 1922, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in Peabody the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-ninth day of June in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

HORACE H. ATHERTON, JR., Register.

(J-30-July-7-14)

Fifty members of the Finnish Temperance Society, largely from the King street colony, accompanied by a 30-piece boys' band, attended the annual outing of the state societies in Fitchburg last Saturday. The trip was made by autos.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Poor of Lowell street have taken a cottage at Old Orchard, Me., for the coming month.

Thomas Kouris, who has conducted the Peabody Candy Kitchen, near Linehan's court, for several years, has found it impossible to negotiate a satisfactory lease of his present quarters and will remove shortly after the Fourth of July to the store now occupied by the Duggan Motor Co. The Duggan concern will have a new office in the garage building in the rear, finding that arrangement more convenient than the existing one.

George A. Blaney spent a portion of the week in attending a convention of insurance representatives at the Profile House, in the White Mountains.

Arthur L. Hayes of 7 Emerson street has enrolled at Camp Marquette, Spofford Lake, N. H., for the summer vacation.

Michael F. Higgins of 23 Perkins street has left this week to take a position with the Northampton Commercial College for the summer.

Now is the Time to Buy that Radio Set

DON'T TAKE OUR WORD FOR THE ABOVE STATEMENT BUT ASK ANY REPUTABLE RADIO DEALER

It is an open secret in the Radio World that Radio apparatus will be very scarce this Fall. It is claimed that the demand will be at least three times as great as it was last year. Even at the present time manufacturers of Radio Apparatus are months behind in their deliveries.

There are two things that we would like to impress upon your mind:

1st. Radio Sets will not be cheaper for some time to come.

2nd. There are no improvements being made in the Receiving Set of today. The Set that you see today is the same set of several years ago. Radio Engineers are concentrating their efforts on Broadcasting Equipment.

We cordially invite you to visit our store and demonstrating room at any time whether you are interested in purchasing a Radio Set or not.

MOTHER AND SON APART 12 YEARS

Nicholas Pappas tonic manufacturer has gone to New York to greet his mother Mrs. Thespina Pappas of Samos, Greece due in the American metropolis tomorrow on the steamship Acropolus. She is coming to the States to spend the summer with her son in this city. Mother and son have not met for over 12 years. Mr. Pappas is a world war veteran having served overseas and saw action on the front line trenches. He is a member of Peabody lodge of Elks and is held in popular regard. He has made good as a business man in Peabody.

HUNT-RANKIN PLAN OUTING

Employes of the Hunt-Rankin Leather Co. are planning an outing to be held in the near future, and arrangements are under way to make this a banner event. There will be an attractive program of field sports with games for the children.

The employes of this factory have successfully launched their shop's crew committees to handle all matters regarding output and harmony is the watchword. A benefit organization similar to those in effect in other manufacturing plants has been in practice at the Hunt-Rankin plant for some months and has done much to cement the employes.

NOT ABSENT IN 25 YEARS

Miss Nettie Willey, teacher of chemistry in the Peabody high school, has just completed her 25th year of public service in this city, and she enjoys the unique record of never having missed a single day of school during the quarter of a century. Miss Willey is easily one of the most popular members of the faculty and her hosts of friends among the student body will wish her a happy vacation. Her home is on Park street, Dorchester.

FLAMES LICK WOODS HOME

Fire destroyed a two room structure of recent origin off Farm avenue early yesterday afternoon causing a loss of nearly $1000 to dwelling and furniture. The structure was a quarter of a mile in the rear of the Tanners Products Co. on Lynnfield street and was too far removed to permit the firemen laying a hose.

The blaze had made such a headway before help could reach the place that all the firemen from hose 2 and 5 and headquarters could do was to save an adjoining dwelling occupied by Manuel C. Sousa, an employe of the Tanners Product Co.

Sousa was soon to pass papers purchasing the structure which was destroyed. He rented it to some Russian lodgers who occupied the place.

DONNELL OPENS FIGHT FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL

SAMUEL HOWARD DONNELL

Charging one of his opponents with defrauding the United States government by sending out first-class mail matter under third class postal rates and another candidate with being a paid lobbyist, ex-Mayor of Peabody, Samuel Howard Donnell, now District Attorney of Essex County, opened his campaign for the Republican nomination for Attorney General of Massachusetts in his home city last night before a crowd of nearly 800 men and women.

His opening speech of a state-wide campaign on which he starts next Monday in Fitchburg, carried all of his old-time vigor as he declared his record of public service as the first Mayor of the city of Peabody, and for the last three years as District

Horace Wilson Has Proved Ability As A. C. L. Co. Employment Man

Horace A. Wilson, employment manager at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. for the past several years, has proved the right man in one of the most responsible jobs under General Manager Charles P. Kelley. Some weeks ago the A. C. L. carried a splendid tribute to "Hod," as he is familiarly known, and the Enterprise reproduces the story herewith:

"He knows everybody," someone once said of "Hod" Wilson, our employment manager. And to those who spend a little time in the employment office and observe him at work the statement seems a true one. Ninety-nine out of a hundred applicants who cross the threshold of the employment office are mentally cataloged by Mr. Wilson, if not by name at least by occupation and experience. Of the hundredth man the chances are that he will remark, "That fellow is a stranger around here," and the subsequent interview will prove that he is correct.

It is not surprising that Mr. Wilson has a wide acquaintanceship in Peabody and surrounding towns, for practically all his life has been spent in positions where he came into contact with all sorts of people, and born and brought up in Peabody as he was, he knows every family, house, street and alley in the city.

His early business experience was with the American Express Company in Boston, where in seven years he worked up to a responsible position, only leaving to take a position nearer home. For seventeen years he was right hand man for J. C. Linehan, who conducted a livery stable, sales stable, teaming and general contracting business throughout Essex County. Here he had a wonderful opportunity to make acquaintances, as the day of the automobile had not arrived, and buggy-riding was the popular pastime. He knew all the young people who were "courting" and many happily married couples today rode to their wedding in a carriage driven by Mr. Wilson at their special request. His services were also in demand at funerals, so that in many intimate ways he became familiar with the people in every walk of life in this vicinity.

Much of his time after leaving Mr. Linehan was spent in the contracting business, with which he is very familiar, and through which he gained much knowledge of labor and handling men. He had charge of several big jobs, both above and below ground, and would be equally at home out on a contracting job today as he is hiring men.

Mr. Wilson has been with us for seven years and in his present position for four and one-half years, in which time he has hired literally hundreds of people annually. His was a tremendous task during the World war, when four hundred of our men were called into military service and our business was booming so that the demand for labor was never so great. As evidence of his alertness in taking advantage of every conceivable situation in order to secure the much wanted help, we might mention his coup of Nov. 12, 1918, immediately following the fire that wiped out the Burgess Airplane plant at Marblehead. As soon as he learned of the fire, he sent out word through Marbleheaders at the plant that he would take on all who applied at once. As a result, in face of a big demand in every local industry of every description for labor, he signed up over 150 of the Burgess employees, many of whom are still with us.

When asked "How on earth do you decide who to hire these days, when there are so many applicants for every job, and every applicant wants first chance, on account of either being an old employee, an ex-service man, American citizen or a family man?" Mr. Wilson replied "We try and give fair play to everybody. Our first duty we feel is to our former employees, men we have been obliged to lay off on account of dull business. A former employee has first chance at every job. We try to keep all of our men continuously employed, and are constantly on the lookout for opportunities to transfer men who are to be laid off rather than to let one man go and hire another. Ex-service men have the preference today on jobs that we have no former employees in line for. We are happy to say that we reemployed every one of our ex-service men who applied to us for work, as well as six or seven hundred other ex-service men. We feel that by using our old employees right we are building up an organization of men who do not have to be in constant fear of losing their jobs, but rather feel they are sure of a position with us as long as it is in our power to offer them one."

It is this spirit of fair play that makes up the employment policy of the company as carried out by Mr. Wilson. "We'll be glad to give you a job when the opportunity offers, but we owe it to our old men to give them the first chance," is the daily reply to requests for work from skilled leather workers who have never been employed here. Their names and qualifications are listed, and when they can be placed without interfering with the chances of former employees with good records they are sent for.

"Labor Turnover" is the bugbear of many large companies. Our company has the reputation of having a very low turnover, due to a great extent to the "fair play" policy as administered by Mr. Wilson. Records of many of our employees prove that this policy has kept them continuously employed for long periods, if not on one job then on another. These men are numbered among our best help, according to Mr. Wilson, as they give the best that is in them, knowing from experience that the company will do its best by them in return. Several hundred of our present force have been with us more than five years, showing that there is more than mere words to "fair play."

Mr. Wilson's job is to pick the right men for the right places, and we might add that whoever picked Mr. Wilson for the position of employment manager was considerable of an employment expert himself.

CITY HALL NOTES

Some very natural queries have arisen in the minds of those graduates of the High School whose names were on the honor list, but who did not receive the George Peabody medal. The names of the ten pupils receiving the highest rank were sent to the school department but the funds available for medals would permit the purchase of only seven. Therefore three pupils did not receive medals. Under the circumstances no misunderstanding would have occurred if the names of the seven to whom medals were presented had been printed in the graduation program as medal pupils and the names of the other three had been given honorable mention.

No definite rule regarding the number of medals to be awarded or the rank that a student should attain in order to be entitled to it, has ever been adopted. Some regulation in regard to the matter would remove any cause of misunderstanding in the future.

The tax rate cannot be announced until such time that all the items have passed the Council. There are several of these items which are doubtful so far as the assessors are concerned and must be ironed out before a rate is made.

The police are busy as the bees both large and small. The money from court fees which at the rate now, will reach $10,000 and the city needs the money. It works out as well as a license fees.

Judging from what is heard about town, a lieutenant of police will meet with opposition, at this time. Let's quit creating new offices, cut expenses of the present ones to the minimum, and we will grope out of financial troubles. Easy if done.

* * *

Mrs. Jessie Newhall of the City Clerk's office is taking her vacation. She did not tell the Enterprise where the two weeks will be spent, but we assume helping to wear out the roads in that flier.

It is planned to take care of a large part of the deficit of last year in this year's tax rate. With the prospect of receipts being more than last year, it is figured wise not to care for the total amount this year. Again the corporation tax will be more than anticipated by the Tax Commissioner, this fact coming from the best of authority.

Poll taxes this year will be over 5600 as against 5160 last year. This increase is occasioned by the fact that world war veterans are assessed this year and were not in 1921. The city gets the benefit of the $2.00 paid by the veterans.

* * *

Personal property this year will drop over $100,000 in valuation because of several concerns and individuals leaving the city together with autos dropping in price at least one half. Among these are the Rosenthal Bros. dealers in pickled sheepskins, and the late Mrs. Jacob C. Rogers whose personal tax is far below that of other years.

Mother's Cook Book

Today may be all that is mournful!—
Our paths cannot always be bright,
But tomorrow we'll somehow take courage,
And trustingly enter the fight.

EVERY DAY DISHES

WE WELCOME foods that give variety without adding to the expense of living, which is high enough with the best of management.

Date Surprise Cookies.

Stone dates and stuff with whole almonds blanched. Roll out the cookie mixture very thin, cut in rounds and place a stuffed date in the center; sprinkle with sugar and lemon rind mixed; fold over the cookie and pinch the edges together. Bake in a hot oven.

Pear Bread Pudding.

Slice canned pears in very small pieces; add lemon rind and juice and place half of them in a pudding dish. Mix one tablespoonful of butter with one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of water and a pint of bread crumbs; spread all but a tablespoonful over the pears. Put more pears in the dish; add grated nutmeg and sprinkle with the tablespoonful of crumbs. Bake with a cover for an hour and a half, then remove the cover and brown. Serve with a hot sauce.

Fruit Meringue.

Beat the halves of canned fruit with a bit of lemon peel or candied ginger in the centers; cool and place on each a tablespoonful of meringue. Use the whites of two eggs and one-third of a cupful of sugar for the meringue.

Sandwich Piquant.

Take one cupful of new cabbage or cucumber chopped, one-half cupful of onion chopped, four tablespoonfuls of green pepper chopped, drain, add cayenne and seasonings and use on buttered bread.

Care of Machine.

Keep a small stiff brush on hand for cleaning the under work of the sewing machine. It is important that this part of the machine be clean if it is to run well, and going over it with a brush will not injure any of the mechanism.

What we may expect to hear next: "I am returning your coin. The air is busy," or perhaps, "Say, operator, you gave me the wrong wave length."

St. John's Field Day July 15th

Final plans for the annual field day of St. John's parish which will be held on the grounds of the O'Shea estate, Washington street next Saturday afternoon and evening, July 15th, are now complete and the field day this year will be the biggest and best ever. Energetic committees in each section of the city have been busy for the past several weeks with the preliminary arrangements and every detail has been attended to that will make the day a memorable one in the history of St. John's parish. The affair is under the personal direction of the three curates. Rev. W. F. Shaughnessy is in charge of the Lowell street district; Rev. P. J. Sullivan, East End and Rev. C. D. McInnis the Bleachery section.

Attractive booths will be arranged on the grounds for the sale of fancy articles, home-cooked food, dolls, ice cream, tonic, etc., and will be presided over by a bevy of Peabody's most popular women and young ladies, while the midway will provide the very latest in novel ideas. A special program of children's games and sports has been arranged for the afternoon, so that the kiddies may have their full share of enjoyment in the day's festivities. A concert by the Salem Cadet Band, dancing and fireworks will be features of the evening's program.

DIZZY MOTORIST SAVED BY CAPSULE

Dangerous Stomach Gas Relieved by Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules

Many motorists know what a harrowing experience it is to have a sudden attack of dizziness, brought on by indigestion. Everything goes black, control of the car is lost and unless driving is stopped until relief can be had a dangerous accident may follow.

F. H. Foster, of Dorchester, Mass., tells how a motoring friend overcame this trouble. He writes: "The Little Wonder Capsules received and they have been doing wonders not only in my family but with a couple of friends, one of them, who had to stop his auto on account of dizziness from gas on the stomach, has found that one capsule a day gives the needed relief. Personally, they give me relief from starchy indigestion, and I have never found anything work as well."

If you suffer from dyspepsia, indigestion or constipation get this quick relief today.

William G. Clark Will Have Solid North Shore Support In Race For Dist. Attorney

Gloucester is solidly behind her native son, William G. Clark, candidate for district attorney, as evidenced by the following editorial in the Gloucester Times:

ATTORNEY CLARK'S CANDIDACY

William G. Clark of this city is a candidate for district attorney in the county fall elections. The present able incumbent of this office, S. Howard Donnell, has decided to run for attorney-general of the commonwealth following the announcement of Attorney-General Allen not to be a candidate.

Mr. Clark's announcement will no doubt incite the heartiest approval of the voters from one end of the county to the other. His popularity throughout the district is unique. It may fairly be said that never in the history of this office has a candidate possessed to a greater degree the qualities of personal appeal than does Mr. Clark. Bench, bar and general observers alike are agreed that his ability as a lawyer and his efficiency, experience and fairness as an administrative officer have won for him a deserved position in public affairs, and qualified him for the office of chief prosecuting officer for this county.

Mr. Clark is 42 years old, is married and has three children. He received his early education in the public schools of Gloucester, and is a graduate of the Boston University Law School of the class of 1905 with a degree of LL. B., after which he entered upon active practice of the law in his native city. In 1920, he was appointed by Mr. Donnell, first assistant district attorney, and in the light of the severe scrutiny to which the administration of justice has lately been subjected, may we say that it is refreshing to reflect upon the high standard to which our own district attorney's office has attained under the leadership and policy of Mr. Donnell.

For efficiency, high-mindedness and accomplishment, the record of this office under Mr. Donnell is second to none in the commonwealth, and it is conceded by the district attorney and by general observers as well, that the contribution to these results by the first assistant, Mr. Clark, has been conspicuous.

We also know that Mr. Clark's decision promises an elected district attorney from Gloucester for the first time in its history. Gloucester would like this honor, and we would like to receive it through the election of Mr. Clark to the office.

WILLIAM G. CLARK
Running for Dist. Atty.

For years we have watched him with pride in his career and public advancement. We recall his good work for several terms in both branches of our city council some 20 years ago; his work as a member of the Republican state committee; his energy and resource as chairman of our local city committee; his work as a member of the State Guard during the influenza in our city, and during the dark days of the war how unstintingly he gave of himself and his time in one service or another for the general good. We feel that our intimate knowledge of Mr. Clark and his ability qualifies us to pass judgment upon his fitness for the office of district attorney for this county, and our unqualified judgment is that as a lawyer and as a man he is eminently fitted for this high position.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

ANOTHER STORY

Here is another story written by my friend, Elbert Hubbard, fourteen years ago and good to think about today. Some of us may remember that Elbert Hubbard, with his wife, went down with the Lusitania when the ship was torpedoed by the Germans. This is his story:

"Some years ago the general superintendent of the Wabash railroad was one A. A. Talmage. Talmage had the bark on like an old oak tree.

"As a railroad man he wanted the thing done and done right; and a training as captain on a Mississippi steam boat had fixed upon him a pleasant knockdown and drag-out habit of speech.

"Talmage was what Boston people call 'western,' and so it happened that while going over the road on a tour of inspection, he stopped at the little town of Peru, Indiana. The station agent there was a new man, a young fellow, Alexander Robertson by name. He had never seen Talmage nor had Talmage seen him.

"Talmage came rooting through the office asking forty questions and not waiting for an answer to any. At last he growled, 'Are you the agent?' 'Yes,' said the young man. 'Well, where's your desk?' demanded Talmage. 'I haven't any—I don't work—I just see that others work,' was the answer given with a touch of sarcasm. The truth was that the desk had been sent to the furniture man for repairs.

"'No desk!' roared Talmage, 'well by the great hellity, devilty dam, you are the only man with brains I've seen since I shaved this morning. I'll make you a division superintendent, that's what I'll do, by the great jumping jehosaphet! Here I pay men superintendent's pay and they do agent's work, and I pay men agent's pay and they do office boy work. A man who has no desk and makes others do all the work is a great man. I'll make you a division superintendent.' And Talmage rushed out to his private car.

"Robertson didn't know whether he was to be discharged or promoted, but in a few days when he received a sane and sober letter from Talmage's secretary making a few criticisms and suggestions and approving the order of his office, he felt relieved. The more Robertson thought over what Talmage had said, the more he believed Talmage was right; the valuable man is the one who can successfully direct the efforts of others. Robertson began to train himself to the job of doing nothing where he could get someone else to do it just as well. This gave him leisure to plan and think and devise. His work never chased him—he chased the work. His promotion came by sure and safe steps and Talmage did just what he had promised and not because it was a promise either. Robertson created things. He built up a system. He was a thinker as well as a doer."

"I sat in the cab of No. 602 waiting for the Continental Express from St. Louis. We were to pick up this 'dandy' train and carry it on to Danville, seventy-four miles. Marion Davis, the little clean-shaven, grizzled engineer, had climbed down and gone around his engine twice and now sat in his place watch in hand. 'She's fifteen minutes late,' he said. Just then came the whistle of the 'Continental' and she slowed down and stopped just eighteen minutes behind time. The little man looked back and scowled. 'What kind of man is Aleck Robertson?' I asked. But Davis did not answer—the conductor had signalled to start. We moved away easily and gently and surely. The dignity of No. 602 was magnificent.

"Soon the town lay behind and I saw a smile creep over the face of Davis. One hand was on the throttle and the other seemed to play with the air brake. We passed a freight on a siding where a brakeman stood at the switch and motioned 'all right.' I held my watch on the mile posts and was astonished to see we were running over a mile a minute.

"Through the towns and villages we flew and everywhere we seemed to be expected. Men stood at switches and crossings and platforms of stations, motioned that all was well as on we sped.

"We slowed down at Danville and I saw by the grin on the face of the little man that he had made up the lost time. As we stopped he leaned over and said, 'He wants the thing done right and he wants the thing done now. And if you ever hear a fellow calling him names, depend upon it he's wrong, not Aleck.'

"And that was the reply to my question asked seventy-six minutes before. 'Oh,' I smiled, 'You must be a favorite of Aleck's.' 'Aleck Robertson has no favorites,' said Davis. 'He works for the Wabash.'"

Peabody Plants Making Purchases of Raw Stock

(By ENERGY)

The labor situation in Peabody looks bright. I have great faith in shop committees that they work out many problems for the benefit of all. Again the emn feel that to have matters handled by their own representatives, gives them a place in the success of the organization. By getting that feeling throughout the factory, much more is accomplished, and the drones who will not be fair are driven to cover. Had a shop committee been in vogue before the strike, no strike would have taken place. A broad statement, true, but I stand by it.

That shiney leather is still going like the dickens. But if the fellows who want that leather continue on their mad career, I can guarantee the leather will be supplied by A. C. Lawrence Co., Essex Tanning Co. and Thayer Foss & Co., all of Peabody, and all live ones. What the splits are doing these times I do not know, but between now and another week I hope to get in touch with England about this matter. I am aware our English neighbors, if I may call them so, are buying and buying raw material or more properly leather in the rough, and that Germany takes it over to finish. Thus the debt is being cut down. Such procedure helps England, and incidentally ourselves. We can sit down and hate everybody for what has happened, but to get along in this world, we must swallow our likes and dislikes for the sake of living. Germany may have been the most barbarous nation ever, but she is also the nation to recover by the work of its people. The man who waits when his neighbor hustles has as much chance of succeeding as fourth of July in February.

Trade Tabloids are something you cannot buy in a apothecary shop, but come through the Shoe and Leather Reporter. The following appealed to me as being near true, and afford some amusement to those who wish to smile but do not know how to go about it.

PROVE IT at our expense

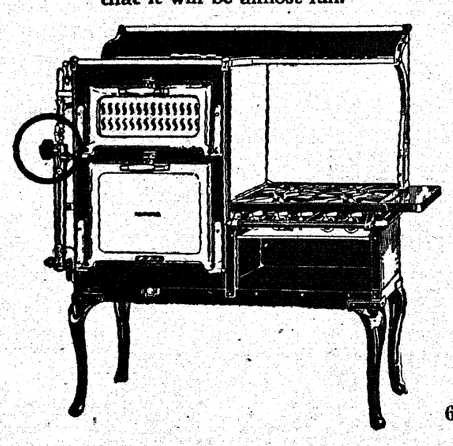
WE doubt that you were ever before offered a gas range on this basis. Then why do we make the offer? Because it's the only way we can convince you that a "Lorain-equipped" stove does all that we know it will do.

And there's another reason. Just as soon as your friends learn how superbly delicious your meals are—how perfectly, and evenly brown your roasts and pastries always appear—and envy the many spare hours you have for pleasure and other household duties, then they, too, will want a "Lorain-equipped" gas range.

Wherever "Lorain-equipped" stoves are sold many more stoves of the same type are soon sold in the same neighborhood. Women have read about them, heard about them, want them—because, you see, they're different.

NEW PROCESS GAS RANGES WITH

LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR



Why is a "Lorain-Equipped" Stove Different?

It's different because it does all the things that other stoves do, and does many things that no other stove can do. It cooks a whole meal in the oven at one time. You can boil, stew, roast and bake in the one oven, at one time. It cooks without watching. You can sweep, wash, go shopping, or visiting for two, three, four, five or six hours while the meal is cooking. You can preserve fruits and vegetables (right in the glass jars placed in this wonderful oven) so easily and quickly that it will be almost-fun.

Surely This Is The Stove You Want

At least a third of your time, more than a third of your labor, at present is spent preparing things for your family to eat. Backaches, hot flashes, red, rough complexion, sweating, burned and soiled hands—these are the things you'll earn if you linger on with an old-style stove that requires "pot-watching".

But this stove equipped with the "Lorain" Oven Heat Regulator never must be watched. Never burns the food if you tell it not to. Obeys more easily and surely than a motor car, because you can leave it and it continues to operate surely, perfectly, indefinitely.

A Free 30 Day Trial and Demonstration in Your Own Kitchen

And to think, you can now prove these almost unbelievable statements at no expense. Prove them right in your own kitchen for four whole weeks. Prove them, or send the range back and the whole transaction will not cost you one cent. Your time of acceptance is limited. The number of stoves we can sell on this basis is limited. You've been wanting a new gas range ever since you moved into your home—but you just hated to take a chance on a new one that you couldn't be sure of. We will take the chance. You take the pleasure and the profit.

THE TAX RATE

It will be some time before the tax rate for 1922 will be announced. It is due to some of the departments neglecting to bring in their wants at the proper time. When the second budget was sent to the Council, Mayor Shea believed it to be the final one. But more money is wanted and such wants are not brought forward until this late day. It is certain that a tax rate cannot be announced until such time as each department gets its quota of needed funds. Mayor Shea has fought consistently to keep down appropriations. It has been a fight, for some departments ask for at least as much money as last year, when all should co-operate to hold down the rate. It appears that many city officials care little only to get the usual amount, and are not helping the Mayor in his fight for retrenchment. Perhaps if the voters knew conditions they would reciprocate at the polls later. Every tax payer realizes that retrenchment must come or the tax rate will amount to ngures beyond all expectations. No one man can nope to lower the rate without co-operation from all who are employed by the city. If conditions do not appear to open the eyes of many citizens, the tax bill when received will serve as an awakening. Mayor Shea should take the public into his confidence and hold up to the public gaze the kind of obstacles he has had to face in giving the desired economical administration. The citizens are with the Mayor. It might be a good thing for him to call a spade a spade.

JOSIAH B. THOMAS HOSPITAL

A hospital in a city the size of Peabody is a necessity. Josiah B. Thomas in his will left a sum of money to build and equip a hospital and it has proved to be a great benefit. As the amount left was inadequate to carry on the work, the city has appropriated a sum each year to care for the deficit. As with all institutions and business enterprises, the expense has grown, thus a shortage has been the answer. The hundreds who have had occasion to deal with this hospital, are enthusiastic in their praise of what has been done for them, and not only locally but surrounding cities and towns voice their sentiments along the same lines. All hospitals have been short of nurses during and since the World war. Young women have chosen other walks of life rather than tackle the duties of a nurse. These conditions are gradually changing, and it appears that in another year former conditions will return and nurses will be more plentiful. The recent lawn party showed a spirit which speaks well for the future of this institution. It showed that hundreds of enthusiastic women are ever ready to lend their efforts that this hospital may continue its good work. The few who have taken the stand that conditions were not what they should be, will gain little. The great majority who believe otherwise will back the Josiah B. Thomas to the limit, thus affording the community a place where sickness will be handled right, and make a safeguard for the future ills of our citizenship.

EMPLOYERS VERSUS EMPLOYES

When the National Calfskin Co. of the National Leather Co. allowed its employes to elect a so-called shop committee to confer with the manageemnt when disputes of all kinds came up, this company established a rule, the first of its kind in Peabody. Such committees hold forth in many large corporations elsewhere. It has been a successful way to stop strikes, therefore it will be a happy way to keep business from worry in that direction. Only corporations of size have tackled this problem, therefore it appears that after the National Calfskin Co. has worked out the proper way, the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. will follow. The strike last year left many sores which are healing slowly. But when the officials make a bid for harmony by trying out what seems to be an established way to create harmony, it appears to us a move, most important, in the right direction. We have always insisted that the majority of workmen are fair. It has been the unfortunate part of labor unions as we have seen them, that the minority radically inclined, attended the meetings, while many of the others did not register their attendance. Why it has been that way we find it difficult to answer. But being so, many unions made the mistake of overestimating their importance. Thus trouble. Under the shop committee plan all grievances can be ironed out and in the past have been adjusted equitably. With always two sides to the question, neither can or will get everything which appears right from their standpoint. Therefore, we believe a move in the right direction in this all important controversy has been made. That it will work out for the benefit of all concerned seems assured. It will spread to other large corporations here, and Peabody should benefit.

SCHOOL DAYS

NEW ARLINGTON PAPER

The Arlington Independent, a new paper which aims to boost the town of Arlington, made its initial appearance last week and is receiving many encniums on its fine tone. Edward A. Geary, a life-long citizen of Arlington, is the publisher and he has associated with him Norman Talcott, a former Boston newspaper man and later publisher in Greenwich, Conn. Mr. Talcott is the editor of the new paper and his long experience in producing an interesting paper shows itself plainly in the columns of the Independent. A copy of the new paper was received by the Enterprise this week. Mr. Talcott was for a number of years employed on the Boston American. He was editor of his high school paper at Concord, Mass.

ROUND ABOUT

I observe that Rev. John Reid, pastor of the South Congregational church, is secretary of the Isles of Shoals summer conference, and is engaged in getting out his publicity for the conclave which will be held the week of from August 12 to Aug. 31. An attractive program of speakers rivalling the best Chautauqua in the country is scheduled for the conference. Peabody will be well represented this year at the rendezvous.

* * *

"Cal" Martin, former Peabody printer and inventor, and now located in Walden, N. Y., as plan manager for the Rider-Ericsson Co., was a caller last week at the Enterprise office. He exhibited the skin of a Dick-Dick, a diminutive specie of the deer family, which is found in Arabia. The tanned skin passes for a chamois. He says the skins may be landed in New York for 23 cents a foot and will easily demand $2. on the market.

Harry F. Whidden, senior member of the W. H. Whidden & Son, now shares with George S. Curtis the distinction of being one of the two local Rotarians who have braved a flight in an airship. He is sure to be congratulated on his courage at the meeting of the Rotary Club next Tuesday, and may be persuaded to tell of his flight of 110 miles in the air. He was accompanied on the air voyage by his son Donald. Both enjoyed their experience.

The New England insurance interests have sent their representative to Peabody and he has looked over the fire department. From what we can glean he found matters not to his liking. The authority appeared to be divided, which did not work well for the best interests of the department. Therefore, it is predicted within a year that a permanent chief will be appointed and the insurance interests will insist that a man capable of placing the department on a stable basis be appointed. We believe the material is there for a fire department second to none in the state. But if stories are true that today the head is only nominal, that discipline is not what it should be, the permanent chief is needed.

Employes in leather factories are starting on a new mode of working. With the many problems that arise in a leather factory the shop committee will help at least many understandings. We look to see this plan adopted by others when proven right. A bright future ahead, boys.

We note Rev. Dr. Beal will stay with us until September at least. This worthy clergyman and others of his stamp are a help to any community, and what we lose Somerville will gain. To his successor, whoever he will be, we wish success.

* * *

There will be an interesting political contest for representative this fall with Councillors Sullivan and Jones fighting for the Democratic nomination and Representative McVann the Republican standard bearer. With the others promising vigorous campaigning, we expect to witness spellbinding in plenty. After the state comes the city election with more fireworks. What a lot of friends all of us will have.

* * *

We note A. C. Lawrence employees have organized a twilight league. Baseball has struck Peabody with a bang this year, no doubt due to daylight saving.

Awnings on public and business buildings are always a fire menace. The one in Superintendent King's office the night of the high school graduation, might have caused plenty of trouble had it been discoverd by those present in the hall. Pushard's awning on Peabody square has caught fire many times from cigarettes or matches thrown from windows higher up.

The days of the silent cop are numbered. The round, square and other Indian signs have come, therefore that silent gentleman is no longer needed. Other cities and towns appear to have found a paint which will not erace, and Engineer Emerson is working out the local problem. The new way is right in many places and far better than the deposed silent cop.

"Bill" Arnold's garden at Hampton has received a washing this week and several weeks which threatens to make watermelons of his potatoes. There are many hard luck farmers this year, one George C. Farrington, using a launch to do his weeding. The ways of the farmer are hard this year.

Councillor Francis L. Poor, who served as a commissioned officer in the aviation corps during the World war, made his first appearance in Peabody Square for 15 months last Monday, driving down by auto from the Parker Hill hospital in Roxbury. He is a patient at the government hospital, and has made a wonderful fight following a severe case of pneumonia. He was greeted by all of the City Hall attaches. He was taken ill in April, 1921.

Louis F. O'Keefe, member of the school board, will manage William A. Gaston's campaign, it is announced. He is sure to poll a big Peabody vote for his candidate.

A good example of what a motor cycle policeman can do is at Ipswich, where autoists have been hailed into court for fast driving. Now the machines crawl along not over 20 miles an hour in that section. So it will be in Peabody when the new cop gets to work.

We understand the new Oak Hill golf course to be is receiving much encouragement from those who know another course is needed in this section. Would-be golfers are coming fast, both in numbers and playing ability. Ray Porter did not qualify at Kernwood, but there were many others of his class in the same box. Ray is hitting them long and straight.

The field day for the benefit of the Thomas hospital was a success from all angles. The many ready women workers raised more than enough money to pay for the much-wanted bed linen and blankets.

We note neighboring cities and towns are telling of the many auto accidents we are having in Peabody. Conditions have much to do with it, while many times Providence takes a hand. No one so far has told us why.

* * *

Ponds full, brooks full, some cellars and a few Fourth of July celebrants. The bonfire was a success and the fireworks though belated were a good sample of the Fourth.

Vastly More So.

The man who improves the live stock of a community or gives it a better variety of corn is as deserving of praise as he who "plucks glory from the cannon's mouth."—W. A. Lloyd.

Crows Are Lazy Fliers.

Have you ever watched a crow fly and then watched a swallow? The crow, who is notoriously the wisest of birds, usually loafs along on the wing at about twenty-five miles an hour. The swallow speeds at ninety.

British Use Seven Languages.

There are seven distinct languages spoken in the British isles. In addition to English there are Welsh in Wales, Erse in Ireland, Manx in the Isle of Man, Gaelic in Scotland, French in the Channel islands and Cornish in Cornwall.

Great General's Foible.

Some of the greatest men have the simplest habits. The Duke of Wellington, known as the "Iron Duke," always slept on a hard cot without springs, and did not rest easily when he was forced to use a luxurious bed.

The Ward One celebration at the Community Field was carried out as planned, in spite of the threatening weather and a large crowd was present to enjoy the program. The day started at midnight when a party of 50 people climbed Lookout rock to witness the different bon-fires at surrounding cities. The horrible parade was all that the word implies. It started at 8 o'clock and Frank Needham led with a horse and wagon containing a large jug, decorated with crepe and placard "Gone but not forgotten". Mrs. Emma Barnard was marshal of the parade, followed by a drum corp composed of the following men, John Brown, Edward Larrabee, Frank Tucker and Charles Parker. About 50 people followed all in costumes. The judges, Mrs. June Bakeman, Mrs. Eleanor Adams and George Barker announced the following prize winners: men's first, Wright Gregson as "Happy Hooligan"; men's second, Henry Lord, in a very unique skeleton costume; ladies' first, Mrs. Ivy Hanscom, as an old fashioned girl; ladies' second, Mrs. Emma Barnard as a "1925 flapper"; boy's: Howard Beaulieu; girls' first, Dora Jordan; girls' second, Rosella Murphy. A ball game followed between West Peabody and South Peabody. Leslie Matthews pitched for South Peabody team up to the fifth inning and Marrs for the last inning. The score was 9-5 in favor of West Peabody. Kelly of the West Peabody team pitched a fine game. Joe Murphy got the home run and William Kelley of South Peabody team did some fine batting. Had Sawyer the up-to-the-minute manager of the West Peabody team has promised to bring his team to South Peabody for a twilight game later in the season, Horace Farnham and Lester Matthews acted as umpires. At noon chips and tonic were served to all in the church vestry. At 1 o'clock the sports started. All the prizes were certificates which were good at any store in Peabody for the amount named. 15 yd. dash:—boys under 7 years, first, Jack Murphy; second, Raymond Kelly; third, Michel Fresco. 25 yd. dash:—boys 7-10 years, first, Roger LeCain; second, Harvey Wilson; third, Charles Donahue. 50 yd. dash:—boys 10-12 years, first, Alphonse Cherwik; second, Howard Beaulieu; third, George Twiss. 75 yd. dash:—boys 12-15 years, first, John Fogarty; second, Wilber Perkins; third, Howard Beaulieu. Shoe race, under 12 years:—first, John Novak; second, Daniel Mahoney; third, George Hodgdon. Shoe race for girls, first, Lillian Stewart; second, Florence Matheison. 15 yd. dash, girls under 7 years, first, Ruth Hyde; second, Madeline Spence; third, Elizabeth Foster. 25 yd. dash, girls from 7-10 years, first, Mary Murphy; second, Charlotte Matheison; third, Helen McKean, 50 yd. dash, girls from 10-12 years:—first, Thelma MacGreggor; second, Celia Stillman; third, Florence Kelly. 50 yd. dash, girls from 12-15 years:—first, Gladys LeCain; second, Dorothy Skinner; third, Anna MacGreggor. 50 yd. dash for ladies:—first, Bessie Thompson; second, Rosella Murphy. 75 yd. dash for men:—first, Richard Collins; second, William Kelly. A hay pile containing 150 pennies was attacked by several children, the prizes being the number of pennies found. A marathon race was next, twice around Maple, County, Lynn and Brown streets being the course. The winners were Oscar Savageau, Robert MacGreggor, Robert Boyd and Ralph Innis. During the afternoon ice cream and pop corn were served to all present. At 6 o'clock the married men played baseball against the single men. On account of not having any family cares the single men won. This concluded the day's program and every one present seemed to enjoy the celebration. Frank McKean was chairman; refreshments, Wright Gregson; sports, Eugene Beaulieu; parade, Mrs. Emma Barnard; grounds, Frank Tucker; secretary, Mrs. Ivy Hanscom; treasurer, Robert Bakeman.

The celebration at Bartholomew Grove started at 9 o'clock "the night before" and there was something doing every minute until the day closed. The horrible parade started Monday evening at 9 o'clock and four prizes were given. Ladies' best costume, Mrs. Laurice Wood; ladies' worst costume, Miss Alice Barnard; men's best costume, Carston Samuelson; men's worst, Herbert Webster. Dancing started after this and lasted all night. On the morning of the Fourth a ball game was played between the married and single men, the score being 10-6 in favor of the men with family cares, Herbert Webster acted as umpire and was complimented on his fine work. At 2 o'clock a costume parade was announced and Doris Schaab received first prize and Albert Fuller second. This was for children up to five years. Anna Fuller received a special prize and consolation prizes were awarded Carol Schaab and Walter Samuelson. The sports followed with prizes as follows:—3-legged race won by Frank Rossi and Tony Cavino; pie eat, Herbert Webster, Jr., who had his fill of blueberry pie; Herbert Webster, Jr. also won the swimming race with Arthur Moore as second. 50 yd. dash for boys, a visitor whose name could not be procured; potato race for girls, Wilberta Smith; 50 yd. dash for girls, Marjorie Smith; button sewing contest, Florence Kennedy; spoon race, Annie Crowley; doughnut chew, Irene Ross; 100 yd. dash for men, Clarence Cummings; fat men's race, Wallace Woods; nail driving contest, Mrs. John Miller; flour pile contest for pennies, Raymond Randall. The prize for the best camp decorations was awarded to Charles Annis who had the complete naval signals. Dancing was enjoyed in the evening, music being furnished by Lucier's orchestra of Lynn. Each child of school age was given a ticket good for 15 cents worth of merchandise at the store. Favors were also distributed to the children. The fireworks were postponed, on account of the rain. The committee in charge was as follows: chairman, Charles Annis; Ernest Farwell, Robert Lonfi, Earl Fuller, Leon Dion, Herbert Webster, Nathaniel Moore, Charles Ayotte. Advisory board, Clarence Cummings, Harvey Court and Carl Schaab. This celebration has been in existence for about 15 years and proves a success. Private subscriptions are pledged by the residents.

Miss May Tolman of Portland, Me., has been a guest of Mrs. Robert Bakeman. She was a college chum and is attending the National Teachers' convention at Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Parker and Mr. and Mrs. David Coombs and family motored to Gloucester on Sunday.

Now that the excitement of the Fourth is over the attraction centres around the community picnic which is to take place next Tuesday, if the weather man permits. At 8 o'clock there will be three special cars start as follows, one car to leave Samuel Brown school, one at Henry Cawley's store and the third at County street. Two busses will leave County street at 8.30. Any one in the community that is not a member of the Sunday school is welcome, by paying a fare of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for all under 14 years. The picnic is to be held at Idlewood Lake, Wenham.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tucker of Beverly spent the Fourth with Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Newhall, Lynn st.

Mrs. Parker Smith (nee Marguerite Young) of Auburn, Me., has been spending a week with her parents. She returned to her home Saturday accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bergstrom of Rutland, Vt., have been spending the Fourth in South Peabody.

Miss Irene Skinner and Miss Helen Hollingsworth have returned from their trip to Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore French and daughter, Nina spent Monday and Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Brown.

Mrs. Jessie Gates and Clarence Dennett of Danvers spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Peckham and son Charlie of Overlea started Saturday for an auto trip to New York state to visit Mrs. Peckham's sister. They are planning on a side trip to Niagara Falls before they return. They expect to be gone about two weeks.

Rev. Ralph Templen and family spent the Fourth with his brother, who is pastor of a Hingham church.

The Philathea class held a snipping party at the Lake Shore Park church last night.

The horse races at Rockdale Park were not held, on account of the rain. They were postponed until to-morrow afternoon.

Miss Rose Balduc of Overlea and Thomas Niland of Lynn were married Monday evening. The brde has been employed at the General Electric Co. and her associates at that place gave her a shower last week. Mr. Niland is employed by W. E. Hetherington. They will reside on Spring Pond road.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Newhall and family motored to Kennebunk, Me. and surrounding towns last Sunday, and returned Tuesday night. They report the roads in that vicinity in poor condition, on account of the rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles King and son motored to Farnworth, N. H. Saturday and returned Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Leslie Swan and two children are spending a week with friends at Ashland.

Sewso Club will meet with Miss Beatrice Keith, Lynn street next Monday. Each member is asked to make an effort to attend this meeting for election of officers as it has already been postponed twice.

Mr. and Mrs. John Maynard of Dorchester spent the Fourth with Fred Batchelder.

Mrs. Mary, widow of Charles A. Larrabee, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Pyne on Beacon Boulevard last Sunday morning. She retired Saturday night in her usual health. She would have celebrated her 69th birthday this week. Prayers were held at her home Wednesday afternoon followed by services at St. Paul's church, Dr. Beal officiating.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Elizabeth Hetherington yesterday afternoon. The ladies are planning for a lawn party next Wednesday afternoon and evening and all that is needed to make it a success is the co-operation of the weather man. A costume party and doll carriage parade will be held in the afternoon under the direction of Miss Mildred Platts. Suitable prizes will be given for the best costumes and doll carriages. A salad supper will be served with Mrs. Sadie Rainford in charge.

Mrs. Hattie Evans has charge of the apron table; Mrs. Lillian Winslow, fancy work; Mrs. Edith Platts, ice cream and tonic; Mrs. Cora Woods, candy. Miss Eunice Hetherington and Miss Edna Newhall will have charge of games and community singing for the evening.

Miss Alice Peckham of Overlea is at Centre Harbor, N. H.

B. I. A. will meet at Davis hall next Monday evening. The election of officers will take place.

Mrs. Harold Newhall of Lynn street found a gold watch at the East End bonfire Monday night.

A great injustice has been done to Edward Hetherington and George MacGreggor when their names were given considerable publicity in connection with a disgraceful act, which happened on Lynn street last week. The lady who gave these names did so, not knowing these boys. These boys were not in that vicinity. One boy attended a scout meeting and the other was in the house before the mischief was done.

The Boy Scouts of the Lake Shore Park church returned home Wednesday evening, after having three days of continual rain. They intended to stay a week but the tents were thoroughly soaked.

porter. Sole cutters are buying all weights and tannages. Heavy backs are sold up to receipts. The wholesale leather finding business is improving. Sole leather dealers are showing more interest in the market and several sizable lots have been bought by dealers to be sold again. Upper leather tanners are making more sales to the shoe manufacturers. Finished calf leather is on a better basis. Makers of the better grades of glazed kid report improved conditions.

Teachers and preachers who never have much money invariably caution young men not to get into debt, but rich folks say the only way to become wealthy is to use your credit and keep in debt all the time. The answer to this paradox is that it all depends upon what you do with the money after you borrow it. The man who mortgages his home to buy a car and smashes it and kills his mother-in-law the first time he steps on the gas has profane ideas about debt after he has paid off the garage and the undertaker. On the other hand the business man who borrows money at six per cent and loans it at eight can afford to engage a driver and a mechanic.

The difference between a financier and a criminal is that one borrows and gets away with it while the other borrows and runs away with it. The difficult lesson to learn is never to ask for a loan when you must have it, but always negotiate a big note at the bank when you are flush and don't need the money to buy prunes or gasolene. Years ago debtors were sent to prison until they could pay; today the sanatoriums are full of creditors who loaned not wisely but too well.

One can easily distinguish debtors and creditors by their facial expression. Debtors dress in the latest style, eat the most expensive dishes, play the best golf game, infest the swell hotels and are weary of automobiles and ready for hydro-aeroplanes. On the other hand creditors carry an expression of congealed woe and have been expelled from the Rotarians and called crepe-hangers.

The only way to be a good fellow and still keep out of the poor house is to get on both sides of the fence and play both ends against the middle by borrowing and lending simultaneously.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

When one reads the trade papers he cannot but feel something is going on to make a real business of leather. All will tell you there has not been a real leather business for so long as to forget what has happened. But surely today anybody with a think-tank large enough to allow motion, must admit we are on the eve of a good solid, substantial, sure, leather business which will buy gasolene in plenty. I do not advise buying that gasolene until the child is born. Besides it may be cheaper or of a better quality, which will give us 10 more miles to the gallon.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says:

An improvement is noticed all along the line in the upper leather markets. Sales are still below normal, but the average buyer is beginning to realize that holding off is dangerous and leather in his factory is better than the uncertainty of waiting for prices to drop. Leather is as cheap today as it will be and the factories in country locations have used good judgment in placing orders for immediate and future deliveries.

Large sales have been made on calfskins, glazed kid and patent leather on medium and lower grades to New England manufacturers. The market is cleaned out on many lower grades and by the time some hesitating buyers are ready to trade it is doubtful if they will be able to obtain leather at prices they have estimated upon.

Everything now points to firm prices on all grades of upper leather and some authorities predict higher prices, which of course will be developed by supply and demand. Sole leather and offal as well as the better grades of cut soles have advanced.

A well known upper leather merchant declares that if he had $50,000 available he would purchase leather in preference to the soundest securities. Many lots of upper leather in the market today can be bought at the buyer's own offer on finishes not called for by the trade. What will happen within the next few months is something of a gamble and these lots of leather may bring nice profits to the lucky holders.

For many long months buyers have held the whip hand as far as prices are concerned, but from now on conditions may be radically different. On certain grades of upper leather tanners are firm on their stand for quotations. Some small lots here and there even on top grade leather are offered at ridiculous prices, but if quantity and quality are desired it is a different matter. Manufacturers making good lines in a large way cannot afford to gamble on job lots.

This paragraph tells the story far better than I can do it, therefore I am indebted to this trade paper, as I have been many times in the past. I have had the pleasure of meeting the owner of this sheet, and to hear him talk tells it all in a nutshell—he is there.

Peabody Bidder Gets Contract For Danvers Rd.

Antonio Magavero, the Peabody contractor, started work this week on rebuilding Elm street, Danvers, with a bituminous construction for nearly a mile. He was the lowest bidder. Mr. Magavero has long been connected with road and sewer building and general contracting and his friends are sanguine that his work in Danvers will reflect great credit. He is a member of Peabody Lodge of Elks.

Popular Thomas Meighan In Newest Role of Bachelor Daddy

A picture which radiates happiness and which will undoubtedly help many to see the truer and finer side of life, is "The Bachelor Daddy," with Thomas Meighan starred, which will be the main attraction on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. It is a picture which demonstrates the power of child love and no better selection for the starring role therein could have been made than Thomas Meighan.

The story is of a man who unselfishly adopts the five motherless children of his dying pal, despite the fact that his own wedding day is but a week distant. He does not know it at the time, but the little ones bring him to the realization of a greater love than he thought was possible. The work of the star in this Paramount picture is wonderful, while Leatrice Joy as leading woman acts her part with warmth and charm. Of the five kiddies—Charlotte (Peaches) Jackson, Barbara Maher, Bruce Guerin and the famous De Briac Twins—too much cannot be said. The choice of locations, photography and performances of the remaining members of the cast all deserve praise, and in its entirety the picture is one of the happiest and most wholesome productions of the year. A Larry Semon comedy and George Walsh in "With Stanley in Africa" will be the other numbers on the program for today.

Justine Johnstone, the Follies star, will head the double feature bill for Sunday evening, when she will be presented in her new picture, "A Heart To Let." Violet Mesereau in "Out of the Depths" will be the other attraction for Sunday evening.

A western picture and not a "movie" cowboy in it. This is the distinction given "North of the Rio Grande," starring Jack Holt and Bebe Daniels, which will head the bill for Monday and Tuesday. For instead of recruiting his cowboys in Hollywood, Director Rollin Sturgeon waited until he arrived at his Arizona "location"—and then employed twenty-five from bona-fide cow ranches. Remarkable rugged scenery, "shot" in places where it is said no cameras ever before found lodgment, form a background for a story which carries its action swiftly back and forth across the great border and involves the two popular co-stars in a tale which combines thrills, romance and pathos in equal parts. This is the first appearance of Miss Daniels and Mr. Holt as co-stars, and their work in this production would seem to indicate that the Paramount company made no mistake in selecting them for starring honors.

Corrine Griffith in "Moral Fibre," a romantic drama with the opening scenes laid in the country and the climax in the mansions of the idle rich of the city. Catherine Calvert and William Parks are to be seen in the supporting roles.

Marie Prevost

The smiles of Marie Prevost, the handsome "movie" star, are known to patrons of the motion picture houses. She has shown her acting ability in some of the more recent big productions which have been shown. This is one of her latest pictures.

WHITE PINE BLISTER GRIPS COUNTY

The present status of the white pine blister rust throughout the eastern white pine region has brought about the adoption of a new plan for the control of this serious plant disease. The plan really results from an appreciation of the fact that the public in general and the pine owner in particular, is entirely unfamiliar with the nature of this disease, the damage it may do, and the methods by which it can be controlled.

Introduced into this country some twenty years ago on young white pines imported from Europe, the disease has now become generally distributed throughout New England, and in northeastern New York. It is also present in Wisconsin and Minnesota, and has recently been reported in the forests of the Pacific northwest in the state of Washington. The present distribution of the disease indicates conclusively that it must be taken into most serious account in any consideration of future forest production in the white pine regions.

The disease is peculiar in that it cannot pass directly from one pine to another pine, but must pass through intermediate stages of development upon the leaves of currant or gooseberry bushes. This characteristic is of the greatest importance, for it means that, if currant and gooseberry bushes can be eliminated from pine growing districts, the disease cannot spread.

In Essex County the plan is already in operation and splendid co-operation has been received in the town of Boxford. Wm. T. Roop, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been assigned to conduct the work in Essex County, and through the courtesy of the director of the Agricultural school at Hathorne, quarters have been provided for him at that institution. Mr. Roop can be reached there by letter and will be available to render any service to pine owners within the county. Massachusetts has already lost one of its most important forest trees, the chestnut, and action must be taken now to forestall a similar fate to the most valuable of all our Massachusetts trees, the white pine.

The greatest depth which has been found safe for a diver of experience and good physique to descend in a diving dress is 204 feet, at which there is a water pressure of 91½ pounds per square inch. S. J. Dreilishak of the United States navy made a record of 274 feet by the use of a high-pressure tank, in Long Island sound.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

ENCOURAGING WORDS

TO FORM a pleasant background or a pleasing accompaniment to the drudgery of every day life, pass around among the hordes of weary mortals whose backs are bent under heavy loads a few encouraging words and observe, while you are doing it, the happy change that comes over their stoical countenances.

It takes but little kindness and manifestation of interest to brighten dull eyes and move sad faces to a smile.

As the lips curl at the corners, you comprehend with a new understanding the value of cheering words spoken in a kindly voice whose ring is sincere.

Whatever opinion you may entertain as to the influence helpful acts and speech have upon others, you will find upon intimate observation that it is always acceptable, uplifting and productive of friendship.

Encouraging smiles and words are like bright lights on a dark highway, guiding the tired traveler to his destination, who but a little while ago had lost his way and fallen into the "slough of despond."

Reason as you may, the tongue plays the leading role in the great drama of life, permitting itself libtrties that make for peace or war an enmity or love, often forgetting in an unguarded moment its great responsibility.

No man or woman who indulges in gross speech can expect to get anything in return except that which arouses resentment.

If you should incline to prove this for yourself, scold your pet dog. If the opposite you would verify, fill your purse tomorrow morning with kind words of encouragement, crisp as new bills, and pass them around as you wend your way to business.

Give one to the old newsman on the corner, and see his face light up as the sun of happiness touches his heart and suddenly warms his whole being.

Hand them out all along the way until you are ready to assume your duties of the day.

You may marvel as you begin at the ease and gladness with which you take up your work.

The troublesome perplexities of yesterday have vanished, and there is a goodly spirit hovering over you, whose presence you have not felt for months, and all because you started the day by cheering others and thus unconsciously cheered yourself.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

"NERVES," A LUXURY

IF YOU have an inherited fortune, which some one else is taking care of for you, you can afford to have "nerves."

You can afford to be sensitive, to be easily irritated, to be extravagantly disturbed at small annoyances.

You will not enjoy this, but it may be some comfort to know that you can afford it.

But if you have your way to make, and are anxious to get as far as is possible with your particular mental equipment, you will find that "nerves" are too big a load to carry.

As you no doubt have discovered by this time, the world in which we have our being is not altogether a pleasant one.

In it there are loud and raucous noises, offensive sights, and displeasing people.

There is also a thing called labor, which viewed from the standpoint of the busy man is a good deal of a burden.

But this happens to be the only world you are in, for the present at least.

And if you permit all its unpleasant features to get on your nerves, you are going to be so busy with your unhappiness and your self-pity that you will have very little time to improve your natural gifts.

If you are nervous and touchy and sensitive, and always looking for offense, you might as well go directly to the poor house and give yourself up. You will get there in the end, and it will only be a waste of time to delay your arrival.

A good many cases of "nerves" were cured by the great war, permanently.

Young gentlemen who thought they could not eat, save from a nice mahogany table, spread with the best food, and who fancied they could not sleep if a trolley car was rattling by, discovered that they were mistaken.

After they had slept for a few days within the sound of exploding shells, they saw that they hadn't had much to worry about back in peace times.

Get rid of your nerves if you want to get along. Take the world as you find it, and put up with it. You may be able to improve it just the least bit later on, but you will have to become very able, and very great, before you can do so.

AMERICAN LEGION

Plans are being made to entertain more than 20,000 former members of the Eightieth (Blue Ridge) Division of the American Expeditionary Force at the third annual reunion and convention at Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 2-4.

The cause of stripes and wounds on the back of Vernie Pierce, a shell-shocked World war veteran of Evansville, Indiana, is being investigated by the American Legion to determine whether these were inflicted while Pierce was a patient in a hospital for the insane.

More evidence that World war veterans have the "never-say-die" spirit was shown when Leonard T. Paulu of Grinnell college, Iowa, with a leg badly maimed by shrapnel wounds broke the 100 and 220-yard dash records in an intercollegiate track meet held in Chicago. Many days of strenuous training with his comrades of the American Legion put Paulu in trim for the event. His stride with his left leg is four inches longer than with his right.

Although their fair city is a long way from the native haunts of alligators, the residents of Ware, Mass., stoutly maintain that they have seen a huge 'gator in a swamp nearby. American Legion men are making a search through the swamp land.

Both Democratic and Republican representatives in congress from New York have joined in the investigation of charges made by the Staten Island American Legion that eleven World war veterans were buried "practically in a public dump" in Whitlock, Staten Island.

Remembering how they shined up camps during army days with brushes and buckets of whitewash, the American Legionnaires at Osgood, Indiana, whitewashed all the shade trees and hitching posts in the little city, thereby starting a movement which resulted in making Osgood one of the cleanest and most sanitary towns in the country.

The first thing Charles Ogle, wounded World war veteran, who had been in a plaster cast in an Omaha, Neb., hospital for many weeks, did when the cast was removed was to dictate a letter to the American Legion Auxiliary, thanking the organization for the kind treatment of its members during his confinement.

Of the 7088 postmasters appointed by President Harding since March, 1921, 900 served in some branch of the military service during the war, according to an announcement of the American Legion.

* * *

Rumors that state prison labor is being employed to compete with private industrial concerns has caused an investigation by the Seattle, Wash., American eLgion.

Any information concerning government homesteads in Wyoming will be furnished to members of the American Legion free of charge by J. W. Dillrance, Box 295, Gillette, Wyo., an ex-soldier, who has taken a claim himself. Relinquishment may be had from $150 to $400 and time spent in service counts.

In an effort to regain the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, which he lost last winter, Joe Stecher, the Nebraska grappler, met Charlie Hanson in Omaha, Nebraska, July 4. The match was staged by the Douglas County Post of the American Legion at Omaha.

Proof Wanted

A colored sergeant on his way up to the front, met a dusky private coming away from the same place with much speed and eclat.

"Wh' yo' mean, boy, runnin' away like dat fo'?" demanded the non-com.

"Runnin' away? Who say runnin' away?" demanded the buck, halting.

"Ah ain't runnin' away. Nossuh. But Ah done heard dem Germans was shootin' dumdum bullets an' Ah was chasin' one fo' evidence."

BUGLER COLEMAN WEDDING

An attractive wedding of more than local interest was solemnized at St. John's church yesterday morning at 9.30 when Miss Mary Esther Coleman, daughter of Mrs. Hannah M. and the late Philip H. Coleman became the bride of Dr. Andrew Philip Bugler, the well known dentist of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George P. O'Conor of the Cathedral, Boston, a cousin of the bride and was immediately followed by a nuptial mass celebrated by Rev. Patrick Bugler of Brooklyn, N. Y. a brother of the groom. During the mass "O Promise Me" and Ganss' "O Salutaris" were rendered by Miss Mary L. McCarthy. Miss Mary P. Clifford, presided at the organ, and Dr. Joseph W. P. Murphy, Arthur V. Marrs and Edward F. McHugh acted as ushers.

The bride was charming in a gown of white satin with overdress of Spanish lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Her cousin Miss Agnes McAuliffe of Gratiot, Wis. was bridesmaid. She was becomingly gowned in orchid satin with oriental lace overdress and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Russell Mannix of Quincy, Brown '18, a cousin of the groom was best man. A reception was held at their new home 5 Perkins street which was attended by about 50 relatives and intimate friends of the couple.

The popularity of the doctor and his bride was attested by the wealth of beautiful and costly gifts displayed in a room presided over by Miss Alice M. Flynn. Schleuber of Lynn catered and the Belmont orchestra furnished music throughout the reception.

Dr. and Mrs. Bugler left Boston last night by boat for New York and will sail tomorrow on the S. S. President Harding for Europe where they will spend the next three months touring England, Ireland and France.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

BERNICE

BERNICE is an auspicious name. It means "bringing victory" and is one of the many names derived from the Greek "nike," signifying victory. Nike was the goddess of victory and named the images which adorned the prows of the warships of Greece. The famous Winged Victory is the largest of the Nikes.

Feminine names ending in "nike" were very popular with the Greeks. Berenike was used in early times in Macedonia and was sometimes spelled Pherenike. The princesses of the two Greek kingdoms of Syria and Egypt favored Berenike and there are innumerable instances of its use by them in early Greek history.

It was from these royal patrons Bernice came to be adopted by the family of Herod. The name occurs frequently in the history of Christianity and it was borne by that Bernice who heard the defense of St. Paul.

France liked the name, though it seems to lack all trace of French influence. The peasants of Normandy created Berenice and bestowed it upon their daughters. The French Veronique and the English Veronica are said to be corrupt forms of the name, but much doubt is cast upon such a contention.

The moonstone is the gem of Bernice. It is said to protect her from all danger and to bring her true love. It is believed that one can note the waxing and waning of the moon in its depths and that lovers can read the future therein. Monday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number.

DONNELL

Attorney, would bear the most searching examination. He promised the citizens of Peabody to conduct a clean campaign that would meet with the approval of every honest man and woman. He said his was a fight against the moneyed interests whom he charged were arrayed against him and behind a man whom they felt sure they could depend on to promote their selfish interests.

He declared his campaign would merit the approbation of every Peabody citizen regardless of party affiliation, and he hurled a challenge to his opponents to openly meet the issue of the campaign.

The biggest issue in the campaign he declared was the need of getting a law on the statute books which would carry a jail sentence for profiteerers who now control the principal commodities in this state. He charged big business with being responsible for the high cost of a June cucumber selling at 25 cents and told his audience that this kind of profiteering had a firm clutch on the foodstuffs and coal supply in this state. He said if elected his first act as Attorney General would be to ask the legislature to enact a law to check the profiteers.

It was an old-time Donnell rally, the kind that brings out voters and sends them home with something to think about, and judging from his initial appearance in his latest contest for the popular vote, the ex-Mayor of Peabody is going to let the men and women of Massachusetts know that he is in the fight for Attorney General and what is more, there is every reason to expect him to win.

Mr. Donnell showed his proof of his charge that one of the rival candidates against him was responsible for defrauding the U. S. government out of postage by sending nomination papers under third class rates. He intimated very clearly that he may ask the federal district attorney to indict this candidate for defrauding the mails.

"I will give my opponents no quarter," declared Mr. Donnell, "and I will ask none from them. I've always fought my fights in the open and never stuck a knife in anybody's back. I may have stuck it in front with my opponent's eyes on me. They may search my public record and I defy them to find one single thing that would cause me or mine to blush. I do not intend to buy my way into office. I had a little money when I took the office of District Attorney and I shall leave that office not a richer but a poorer man.

"I am told that my rivals will tell the people of this state that I was opposed to the effort to take from the District Attorney's office the power of nol pros, but if the nol pros was good enough for John Hancock and Samuel Adams, then it is good enough for me. I'll meet that issue. In the interests of the people the District Attorney who is honestly conducting his office should have this power to use with the approval of the court.'

"Ninety per cent. of the working men of today cannot raise a family by honest methods because of the greed with which the profiteers are bleeding the small dealers and making prices remain high for foodstuffs. It is true we have a state commission which can point out overcharges, but there is no law which will check these combines from levying a tribute upon the consumers.

"Coal interests who control the output at the mines refuse to sell coal to small dealers who dare disregard the orders to maintain certain prices. The moneyed interests don't want any man in the office of Attorney General whom they cannot feel safe with. The work in that office calls for a man unafraid of combines. I don't expect any machine to be with me, and I don't want any that hopes to rule my office. The Essex County Republican machine didn't want me as District Attorney and did everything they could to beat me, but the people rule.

"The office of Attorney General requires a man who is familiar with the courts of this state. He can't be a chair warmer at the state house with no record of service in our tribunals, and it isn't going to do him any good to have nothing better for an asset than a powerful machine. I have faith in the people that they will support a man who by experience is capable of filling the high position.

"I am the first Peabody man ever to aspire for a high office in this state and I propose on my campaign of the state to emphasize the fact that Peabody is the world's largest leather city. I ask Peabody voters to assist me in winning this office by urging their friends and relatives in other parts of the state to vote for me. I want the help of all Peabody people."

Angus J. MacDonald, chairman of the Republican City Committee, who played no small part in electing the ex-Mayor as District Attorney, presided at the rally last night and introduced the speakers. In his opening, he called on Peabody citizens to get solidly behind the local man who had put Peabody on the map as its first Mayor and who had brought added lustre to this city by his able conduct in the office of District Attorney. He urged the personal solicitation of votes by Peabody citizens writing to their friends throughout the state.

William G. Clark, first assistant District Attorney, of Gloucester, the first speaker called on, told of the great volume of business handled by District Atty. Donnell and how for the first time in the history of the state he had been able to get a double session of the criminal court to dispatch business of his office last month. He dwelt on the humane qualities of his chief, whom he declared was the essence of fidelity and honesty, and gave specific instances of how efforts to reach Donnell had failed at the hands of powerful interests. It was a fine tribute to the zeal and honesty of Donnell in his high office as county prosecutor.

Mayor Harland McPhetres of Lynn, chairman of the Donnell campaign committee, was the next speaker. He declared the time ripe today for the plain people to unmask the politicians who wore camouflage and to install in office men who would conduct the state business in the interests of all the voters.

He praised the ability of District Attorney Donnell as evidenced by his record of public service and declared Peabody people could do much to help the candidate to a successful campaign by co-operation in whatever way possible. The Lynn Mayor got a big hand when he concluded his remarks, by declaring that Donnell had put Peabody on the map and also Essex County by his honest methods of fulfilling a public trust.

The next speaker was Attorney William H. McSweeney of Salem, former Assistant District Attorney, who eulogized Donnell for his loyalty and sense of gratitude. He told how superior court judges had openly complimented Mr. Donnell on his zeal in office, quoting one who said he believed Mr. Donnell was the most capable man ever to fill the office of District Attorney of Essex County. He declared a search of the public record of the candidate would disclose only honesty and a high sense of duty. This popular Salem man has many warm friends in Peabody, and as to be expected he received a vigorous applause for his remarks. Attorney McSweeney will tour the state with Mr. Donnell.

Eugene B. Fraser, prominent Lynn business man, who will be elected member of the Governor's council from this district to succeed James F. Ingraham, said he had come over to Peabody to pledge allegiance to "Howy" Donnell and promised to advance his candidacy in every way possible. He called on Peabody people to get squarely and vigorously behind the candidate.

HELLO CENTRAL!

Who's number One in the Peabody telephone exchange? You've asked yourself that question and probably started to find it listed among the 2500 odd subscribers who keep the local phone exchange on the qui vive doing their best to give good service. Number One is in the office of the J. S. Crehore & Son leather factory on Howley street, and when it isn't being used on plant business of taking orders for India goat and fancy leathers, it is being used to remind Roger M. Crehore, leading member of the concern established by his lamented father, that "Rog" is the best secretary the Peabody Rotary Club has ever had.

DON'T TAKE OUR WORD FOR THE ABOVE STATEMENT BUT ASK ANY REPUTABLE RADIO DEALER

It is an open secret in the Radio World that Radio apparatus will be very scarce this Fall. It is claimed that the demand will be at least three times as great as it was last year. Even at the present time manufacturers of Radio Apparatus are months behind in their deliveries.

There are two things that we would like to impress upon your mind:

1st. Radio Sets will not be cheaper for some time to come.

2nd. There are no improvements being made in the Receiving Set of today. The Set that you see today is the same set of several years ago. Radio Engineers are concentrating their efforts on Broadcasting Equipment.

We cordially invite you to visit our store and demonstrating room at any time whether you are interested in purchasing a Radio Set or not.

Firestone

GUM-DIPPED CORDS

-and Their High Mileage Records

The high mileage records of Firestone Cords continue to emphasize the fact that Firestone methods are different and better. These records, steadily increasing in number and in mileage totals, justify the Firestone contention that there is one best way to build tires.

Among the primary sources of Firestone extra mileage is double gum-dipping—the saturation of the cord plies in a vat of liquid gum—thus coating each cord and virtually eliminating internal heat and friction.

Another is Firestone air bag curing, with its 200 pound pressure, which places every cord accurately and equalizes the tension.

By blending the rubbers of different plantations and types, and by tampering it before mixing, Firestone men add still more mileage.

Many cord tires are good—a few are better—Firestone users say one is best.

Those who have already experienced Firestone mileage, have stopped shopping and experimenting—they have made these cords standard equipment. Investigate your friends' success with Firestone Cords—and buy your next tire accordingly. Come in and get your share of extra mileage.

Survivor of Libby Prison Pen Observes 55th Wedding Date

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Peirce of 64 Pierpont street observed the 55th anniversary of their marriage yesterday, quietly passing the day surrounded by their three daughters and two sons, and also receiving the best wishes of their friends. Mr. Peirce, who lost his eyesight eight years ago, is confined to his bed following a broken hip received in a fall several months ago at his home. He will be 85 years old Sunday, while Mrs. Peirce reached her 77th milestone last Wednesday.

Mr. Peirce is a Civil war veteran, having refused to allow a friend to pay the $300 required for him to dodge military service in defense of the Union, and he nearly lost his life in both Libby and Andersonville prisons, where he endured nine terrible months. From Andersonville he was sent north to Annapolis in exchange for southern prisoners, and when he was finally shipped home to Peabody he was weighing 75 pounds and was obliged to crawl on his hands and knees. He was one of several Peabody men to experience this terrible treatment and is believed to be the only living veteran in this city who came out of Andersonville.

The South Danvers Wizard, published by Charles D. Howard, contained in its issue of December 28, 1864, the following editorial concerning Mr. Peirce:

"Paroled Union prisoners state that Mr. Charles P. Peirce, son of David Peirce of this town, a member of the 18th Mass. regiment, and taken a prisoner in one of the battles of the Wilderness, is now in one of the Rebel prison pens waiting to be exchanged. When taken prisoner he was lodged in the Libby and was immediately stripped of his clothing even to his shirt, in fact all he had to cover his nakedness was a

Berkshires Pledge Aid To Donnell

S. Howard Donnell, District Attorney and ex-Mayor of Peabody, has met with pleasing receptions on his campaign this week in the Berkshires in his effort to secure the Republican nomination for Attorney General. He concludes the week's campaign at Pittsfield and will arrive home Sunday. His candidacy has attracted many leading Republicans who are pledged to promote his campaign and his stump speeches have won him many supporters.

Groups of citizens' committees in Peabody are organizing to advance his interest for the party nomination for chief law officer and an effective program of publicity is being mapped otu to cover the state. Personal letters will be sent to hundreds of people in the state urging them to get behind the Donnell campaign.

Mayor Shea was one of the signers on the nomination papers for Mr. Donnell. Peabody is solidly behind her favorite son and first Mayor, and every citizen will do his best to insure the nomination coming to Peabody.

Protest New Filling Depot On Central St.

Most of the time consumed by the City Council in regular meeting last night was given over tothe hearing on the application of a filling station sought by Simon L. Rossen on the vacant land beyond the Samson House on Central st. James Murphy owner of the Samson House and J. Karelitz, whose property adjoins the vacant land strenuously opposed the granting of the permit which would allow installation of two 1000 gallon tanks. The meat of the opposition was based on traffic in and out of the proposed station thereby crossing the sidewalk in two places. This was held a menace to travel.

The expert counsel was by J. L. Fowler, manager of the Standard Oil in this district, who minimized any fire hazard aspect of the case. Fire Chief Barrett who represents the state fire marshall evidently did not think the permit any fire hazard for he did not appear in opposition. Manager Fowler declared no gasoline tank was touched by the Salem fire. When the question came on granting the permit Councillor Barry moved tabling it for two weeks to allow expert counsel to be heard.

The rest of the time went largely to adopting the supplementary budgets sent in by Mayor Shea and these went through without debate on recommendation of the astute chairman of the finance committee David A. Barry. The total of the budgets now is $897,454.89. The sum of $74,919

Mr. Bartlett will preach his farewell sermon Sunday, July 23.

REV. ROBT. BAKEMAN WILL RUN FOR MAYOR-- TO RESIGN HIS PULPIT

Rev. Robert A. Bakeman, member of the Peabody school board and minister at the South Peabody church, will be a candidate for Mayor at the coming city primaries. He is out with a statement to that effect today, in which he says he will resign his pulpit at the proper time to devote his energies to a campaign for the office of chief executive of the city. He is on his second year as a member of the school committee and has given much of his time to the work.

He enters the fight with a strong labor support, having given freely of his efforts to aid the leather workers' union of Peabody and the district.

He says that he will make his promises to the voters on the stump and in his announcement today declares he will strive, if elected, to bring about the economies which will give all possible relief to the city.

Rev. Mr. Bakeman has been in Peabody for the past three years and has been identified with about every civic movement in the interest of the people. He has done much good among the poor and his efforts to assist service men into jobs has won him many friends. He served with the Y. M. C. A. overseas. He will not be a joke candidate and if he holds anything like the big vote he secured for the school mommittee he becomes a dangerous rival against Mayor Shea, who will seek a re-election. He is a member of the Peabody Rotary Club, as is Mayor Shea.

Hereis his announcement:

To the Citizens of Peabody:

I have decided to be a candidate for Mayor at the coming election.

For months people have been urging me to take this action, and the sentiment has become so strong as to demand a definite statement from me at this time.

I shall make all my promises to the people themselves out in the open so that, if I am elected, I shall be in a position to face every issue squarely and to bring about the economies that will give all possible relief to the city.

At the proper time I shall resign from my pulpit in order to be free to pursue an independent campaign.

ROBERT A. BAKEMAN.

St. John's Parish Field Day At O'Shea Grounds Tomorrow

If the weather man is kindly disposed tomorrow it is safe to assume that the annual field day of St. John's parish to be held on the grounds of the O'Shea estate, Washington street, will be an unparalleled success. Every detail has been attended to and with a pleasant day the grounds will be thronged with people who look forward each year to the field day as sort of a parish reunion, when the old parishioners and the young gather together to renew acquaintances and have an ejoyable time. Handsomely decorated booths have been arranged on the grounds, from which cake, home-cooked food, candy, ice cream, tonics, aprons, dolls and fancy articles will be sold, and the committee in charge of the midway has arranged for the very latest novelties in that line.

In the afternoon there will be a special program of sports for children, and in the evening a concert will be given by the Salem Cadet band of 25 pieces. Dancing will be enjoyed on the A. O. H. dance floor which has been erected near the band stand. The committee in charge are as follows:

East End Table—Rev. P. J. Sullivan, director; Miss Mary Riordan, chairman; Miss Alice Pendar, secretary. Mrs. John Cudidre, Mrs. William Kirby, Mrs. Bartholomew Foley, Mrs. John Cowan, Mrs. Michael Moynahan, Mrs. Dennis Pendar, Mrs. Timothy Bradley, Mrs. Mary Doody, Mrs. Timothy Sweeney, Miss May Doody, Mrs. John Hayden, Mrs. Peter Doucette, Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, Miss Josephine Hayden, Miss Julia Sweeney, Miss Mary Welch, Mrs. David Brown.

Two million American club women pledged themselves to assist the American Legion in obtaining adequate hospital treatment for disabled world war veterans and to help rehabilitated veterans find employment through their representatives at the meeting of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Chautauqua, N. Y.

Missouri and Kansas state officials of the American Legion have contracted for one of the most important projects yet attempted by the Legion in the great 300-mile sweepstake automobile race to be held in the new half million dollar speedway at Kansas City September 16. The two departments are in a fair way of making a handsome sum which will be used for the care of disabled and otherwise needy veterans.

An official welcome from the French government is awaiting the delegation of American Legionnaires who will revis the scenes of their A. E. F. activities this August, according to Ambassador Jusserand, speaking in behalf of his government. The party of Legion men and their wives will sail from New York, August 5, to visit France, Belgium and England.

By a unanimous vote the house of representatives has passed a bill proposed by the American Legion to increase the allowance for attendants to blind and totally disabled world war veterans from $20 to $50 a month.

If torpedoes or other contraband were being carried on the Lusitania when the vessel was sunk by a German submarine, the fact will be known to the world, a Philadelphia concern which is organizing an expedition to salvage the $5,000,000 in gold known to have been on board, has told the Ameircan Legion.

With the prospect of winning a $10,000 wager, Monte Smith, American Legionnaire from Dallas, Texas, is making speed in an effort to hike from Dallas to New York City in 300 days.

The flag that waved over the national capitol at Washington, while the body of America's unknown soldier lay in state in the rotunda, has been presented by a member of the capitol guard to the Covington, Ind., post of the American Legion.

With beef at six cents a pound and pork at five cents and fruit "yours for the asking," a heavy "chow" is promised to all former A. E. F. members who will visit one "Dad" Painter, an enthusiastic American Legionnaire in Guatemala.

With only one disesnting vote, the senate of the Louisiana legislature has passed a bill appropriating $25,000 to entertain distinguished guests at the national convention of the American Legion in New Orleans next October. The bill had passed the house.

Two coyote pups will travel by airplane to the American Legion national convention in New Orleans in October from Miles City, Montana. The animals will be chaperoned by the adjutant of the Legion post at Miles City.

NEW WET WASH CONCERN HUSTLING

The West Peabody wet wash laundry owned by Charles E. Leach and Byron B. Bishop is branching out its business to include the entire city, and already has many patrons down town. The business was opened on Winona street about three years ago, catering to West Peabody and Lynnfield families. The firm members have built up a pleasing business and have a model plant.

He Got the Point.

A teacher was explaining proper and improper fractions to her pupils. To impress them she said a proper fraction was like a proper person, allowing the smaller number to be on top; while the improper fraction, like an improper person, is rude and puts the heavy or larger number on top. Thinking she had used an apt simile, she asked the class next morning what kind of fractions there were. "I know," piped up a youngster, "polite and impolite."

GOODRICH TIRES

"Did you ever reflect," said a Goodrich representative the other day, "that the motorist no longer asks for a guarantee on his tires? And do you realize that this fact proves beyond a shadow of doubt that tire making has passed the experimental stage" In the old days (and not long ago, either) we heard a great deal of talk about guarantee and adjustments, but now the buyer does not even think of these things when he buys a standard make of tire.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD

After the terrible accident on Russell street, West Peabody, where four young men were killed and another seriously injured, Mayor Shea visited railroad headquarters in Boston for an interview with the officials. He reports that the best of feeling existed at that meeting, and contrary to his expectations, he was given to understand that the Boston & Maine Railroad wishes to meet the citizens half way and better conditions at that crossing. Work was begun the next day, and the crossing today has a signal system which is claimed to be more effective than a crossing tender. It has always been customary for most people to cry down a public service corporation. It has long been a custom. No doubt, grievances of some commuters are just and should be cared for. But a big corporation of this kind has so many cases of this class before them at all times that it is impossible to adjust them promptly, if at all. It has seemed many times as if they were lax in such matters, but a close analysis will place the subject in a different light. The railroad has co-operated with Mayor Shea in the Russell street case, and His Honor has nothing but good words for the way the officials went about the matter. There are at least two ways to present a case, one by bulldozing, which gets little, another by pleasantry which accomplishes much. Results tell the story.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS

There can be no doubt but what business in general and the leather business in particular is much improved. Reports from over the nation taken by bureaus organized for the purpose, show the general trend is upward. It has been a long and hard pull for the business man for at least three years. In leather with large stocks on hand, the losses in many cases have been staggering, and but for the banks carrying along many tanners, failures would have resulted. But there is every reason now to predict a business which will place the financially weak ones on their feet, and no one will benefit more than the employes who have been out of work for many months. To those on the outside, little appeared to show dull business. But those in position to know could tell of many families helped by the city and charitable organizations. After a long period of depression, coming out of the mist, as it were, brings fresh hope in life, and gives the impetus which brings success. All cannot be rich, some are destined to be poor, for such has been the history of the world. The great middle class, much larger than the others combined, have had their lesson. Those hardest hit should profit by past experience and lay aside a part of their earnings for the proverbial rainy day. The others whom fate smiled on more freely would do well to follow the same example.

HOUSING POSSIBILITIES

One of the great problems which is facing Peabody today is the housing of workmen who elect to labor in the leather factories. For some years business has been dull and there has been no pressing need of more dwellings. But as business is better and the future looks bright for a busy fall and winter, added help will more than fill the tenements which are idle. People who own houses several years old, which were built when prices were one-half or more of today, have refused to raise rents to tenants who have occupied those houses for many years. But any new houses built as cheaply as possible, which are for rent, the price must be so comparatively high that the owner can get a fair interest on his investment. No fair-minded person will deny him a fair return on his money. But the possibilities of any one building houses today for an investment are such as not to be attractive. Other ways of investment are far better. So the chances of Peabody adding to dwellings to any great extent for some time to come, are remote. True, individuals through the banks will take chances, but for investment, no. If our city will increase its population, dwellings must be added. It is a well-known fact that hundreds of leather workers here live in surrounding cities and towns. It is certain if the houses were here they would occupy them. Corporations such as the United United Shoe Machinery Co. have built scores of houses for their employes, and Peabody corporations should and must copy eventually, just so long as all pertaining to dwellings remains at the present cost of construction. This subject opens a new feature in Peabody's industry, and one which must be worked out for the good of the leather manufacturer, the employe and the city.

KIDDIES SIX
By Will M. Maupin

THE DAY AFTER

"LICKED to a frazzle!" But, say,
What is the use of repining?
Home at the close of the day—
Arms of our loved ones entwining.
Out of the fret and the worry,
Out of the din and the strife;
Out of the battle and worry—
Home and the joytime of life.

Downed in the battle! But, say,
What is the profit in sorrow?
Love is still lighting the way
On to a glorious morrow.
Out of the turmoil and fuming,
Out of the worry and wiles,
Love with its welcome is looming,
Beckoning on with its smiles.

Whipped to a standstill! But, say,
Still there is joy in the losing
If love binds the wounds of the fray
After the battle's confusing.
Out of the smoke and the rattle,
After the heat of the fray;
After the din of the battle,
Love lights the close of the day.

The Friendly Path
By Walter I. Robinson

READJUSTMENT

"MONEY grows or money goes." But it will neither grow nor leave one of its own accord.

Many persons have had these facts brought home to them with a jolt. Unfortunately, however, they did not recognize the value of what they obtained when it came in fast.

Harsh lessons are usually well learned. The man who foolishly trusts a rotten plank to carry him across a whirling stream and then pays for his folly by a stiff fight for life, always is more cautious when he must walk another plank to follow his pathway on the other side of a stream.

The same logic may justly be applied to every walk of life. If one spends all he earns, the money naturally goes; but, if he is wise and saves something, what he saves is certain to grow if properly invested. And it is surprising how fast it will grow and what an assistance it will become when the source of supply becomes weak or slow in producing.

Whatever the difficulties one has faced during the period of depression incident to readjustment of economic conditions, he still has much for which to offer thanks. Long faces and grumbling are inclined to increase the world's pessimism and hamper the progress back toward normalcy. It is far better to be a good sport—if we be permitted to use gaming language—then one is more likely to see the brighter side.

Out of the struggles [illegible] encouragements the country at [illegible] at large have been experiencing, common sense will eventually rise to a higher plane than it has occupied for several years. And, though many may have foolishly spent all they earned when prosperity was with them and since have been finding it difficult to make both ends meet, when the tide turns back to normal, greater value will be placed on incomes, more caution will be exercised in spending, more money will be saved, simple and healthful pleasures will be appreciated and there will be wider appreciation of the privilege of earning fair wages or making fair profits on business done.

Painful though the lesson of readjustment is, it was necessary to assure honesty and happiness in the years to come.

ROUND ABOUT

William E. Sheen, the West Peabody road surveyor, was down Monday and told us he was enjoying his 75th birthday. Brown as a berry, spry as a cricket, he did look 60. Bill has long been a raiser of Hopedales, a specie of animal little known at the present time. This animal is of the kangaroo specie, or one thinks so, after the application.

We note ex-Mayor Donnell, the next Attorney General, said in his speech that cucumbers at 25 cents each was due to a trust of some kind. We allow that this vegetable has sold for that money, but why lay it to a trust, for when they tackle the cucumber, it will be sold by the yard. No, Your Honor, do not call our farmers by that name or the Bloc will get after you.

* * *

It was an old-time gathering at the foot or head of Chestnut street, and our ex-Mayor has the same old pep with a few added gestures. We insist he will make a formidable showing, and if his opponents do not keep going, he will early leave them at the homestretch. The people like a hustler, and he is what that name is derived from.

Angus McDonald looked and appeared natural as the introducer, and we understand he will follow the bandwagon over the state and lend his presence to make the occasions more binding.

The Trimount Leather Co. on Spring street is building an addition to its plant, which will afford needed room for its rapidly growing business under the management of John Martin.

Men and women of Peabody who want to assist the Rotary Club in giving 200 poor children a holiday by a motor trip will be urged to lend their machines to the committee. The owners are expected to furnish a driver and if the owners themselves go a more enjoyable day will be assured the kiddies.

My "Bud" came into my office as I was writing this column and reminded me to say a word about his twin brother Junior, who allowed himself to be put to sleep long enough this week to permit the surgeon ridding him of his tonsils. "Bud" wanted me to say Junior was getting along all right.

Reference was recently made in this column to the fact that George S. Curtis and Harry F. Whidden, members of the Rotary Club, were the only ones in the club to brave a flight in airships. T. Henry Millea should have been added to the honor list, for he, too, has gone up in an aeroplane.

Chet Bent, manager at the Strand, Peabody's popular picture theatre, is sojourning still in the land of Evangeline. In a souvenir postcard to me this week he wrote: "No paper here, Frank. They don't need one. Everyone knows what the next fellow does and tells his neighbors."

An elderly woman, a patient in the ward at the hospital, is convalescing thanks to the careful attention of the nurses. She is wondering why none of her relatives and friends call to cheer her on the way to recovery.

I understand that Troop 2, Boy Scouts, are looking forward to a camping tour of two weeks at Lanesville, down on Cape Ann, the last two weeks in August. Roger Trask is scoutmaster and he plans to take 25 boys with him for the vacation. This troop recently won the cup offered for the best appearing body of boy scouts in the line of parade.

I observed Frank Lynch, war veteran, the first high school boy to enlist in the world war, stop a runaway horse last Monday on Lowell street, and his deed reflected the training he had in Uncle Sam's cavalry. The horse was attached to one of Wilson's meat packers teams.

The fire alarm is now back to the old way. Call firemen were placed at a disadvantage, but now will make the regulars hustle to get there first.

The management have cause for satisfaction by the results of the Community House lawn party. It showed this commendable institution has a strong backing in recognition of the good it has done the young boys and girls. They get a training there entirely different than schooling, a start which fits them in some of the ways of future life.

The Peabody baseball team is now a factor in all games played. A new pitcher has added strength. With the Boston teams down in the list, many fans will follow the home team. Probably later they will tackle the Salems, and the fir will fly.

No coach has been elected for the football team and fall is coming on fast. There must be coaches galore, and perhaps it would be well to get one away from this section, who has no interest in any faction. Otherwise, all will be trouble.

The police continue after hooch offenders, and the cell room is full of barrels, wash boilers and stills. There is everything there but fancy drinks, but some off in quality. But the still is not still, and the mash is still mashing. Walking down Main street recently, two individuals were seen drinking from a bottle and it was daylight. It seemed like old times.

Automobiles were out in full force last Sunday. Lizzie and all her relations were there, and Henry Ford with an output of 5000 daily, promises to meet the demand. The Harper garage of Beverly has sold 80 tractors of the Ford vintage in this vicinity, to farmers.

This start of the politicians has caused uneasiness, as shown by others ambitious to be in the limelight and serve their state and city. They all will sacrifice their feelings for the sake of the good people, and promise everything for the peoples' suffrage. The spirit of '76 is obscured by such patriotism.

Wanted—a paint which refuses to be washed away. Apply to Frank Emerson, City Hall, anytime. We wonder why those round dots and some square ones keep so white most everywhere but in Peabody.

Still there are no signs warning autoists of the danger at Andover and Prospect streets. Are the powers that be, waiting for another accident there to make it binding? It cannot be this department is short of help.

We note the old Felton house at the junction of Andover and Prospect streets has been turned into a tea room. One of the oldest houses hereabouts, and well located for autoists, it should be a popular resort for tea drinkers.

A memorial highway extending from the Atlantic coast to the western boundary line of Virginia, passing through that state's principal cities, has been suggested by the Virginia American Legion as a memorial to the state's world war heroes. The sugestion, which takes the form of a set of resolutions, will be acted on at the next session of the state assembly.

Because it was the only place he knew of where he could get food and shelter and a fighting chance to regain his health, he told the American Legion, Soloman Harper, a disabled negro veteran of the world war, pleaded to be sentenced for a number of months to the Auburn, New York, prison. There being no charge against him, the veteran was not sentenced.

Protection Through State Supervision

The Co-operative Bank idea is sound. Also Massachusetts banking laws are thorough and efficient.

The share holder in this bank is not dependent on the voluntary honesty of its officers. His savings, when placed here are safeguarded by state regulations that make assurance doubly sure.

If you are not a share holder you ought to be. Investigate now.

South Peabody

There were over 400 people at the community picnic Tuesday, the largest and most successful ever held. Four special cars and two busses left County street for Idlewood Lake. There were many private outos arriving at different intervals of the day. A ball game was played between the South Peabody team and the Kodaks, a party of campers. The South Peabody won, 10-0. C. E. Holden acted as umpire and also traffc cop. The sports for children included running races, potato balancing races, three-legged races and a game of quoits for the men. Evans Griffin, Raymond Coombs and Holdsworth Gregson had charge of the sports. Dancing was enjoyed. Wright Gregson, superintendent of the Sunday school had charge of the picnic, and he was looking after the comforts of the party every minute.

The lawn party held by the Lake Shore Park church was well attended, the weather being all that could be desired. The costume and doll carriage parade started at 4 o'clock and was very pretty with the bright-hued paper and dainty costumes. The judges, Mrs. Lawrence Rainford of Lynn, Miss McLean of Philadelphia and Rev. Robert Bakeman, awarded prizes as follows: Prettiest costume 10-14 years, Hazel Hetherington as Priscilla; 6-10 years, Myrtle Smith, fairy; 1-6 years, Gretchen McMillan as a flower girl; under 1 year, Harvey Court, Jr., Kewpie doll. Doll carriages: 1-6 years, Marion Newhall, with pale blue and pink, and pink roses, carriage to correspond; 6-10, Georgia Smith, dressed as a rose bud, with carriage decorated with pink. Supper was served at 6 o'clock and the different tables did a thriving business during the afternoon and evening. The surprise of the evening came when the pastor present Miss Dorothy Rainford with a handsome gold wrist watch in behalf of her friends at the church. Miss Rainford has just completed two years of faithful services as organist and has only been absent twice in that time.

The Sewso Club met with Miss Beatrice Keith, Lynn street, Monday evening, and the following officers were elected for a year: President, Beatrice Keith; vice president, Marion Newhall; treasurer, Agnes Ripley; secretary, Annie Annis. The members will meet with Mrs. Agnes Ripley, Tucker's court, next Monday evening.

Ernest Tedford of Lynnfield street has been confined to his home for the past three weeks with an injured knee. He is an ex-service man and the trouble started while he was in the service.

Mrs. Arthur Mumford of Carlton street has gone on an extended trip to Cincinnati, O., to visit a brother. Her brother accompanied her and they planned to stop at Niagara Falls.

Russell Walker of Brown street, who had an ill turn last week, has resumed work.

Mr. and Mrs. Leander Joy of Lynn street motored to Portsmouth Sunday with a party of friends.

Miss Marjorie Ricker and her father Guy Ricker of Winnegance avenue, have been confined to their home with illness.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Newhall and Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Newhall and family enjoyed an auto trip to Old Orchard beach Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Bakeman has gone to East Alton, N. H., for the summer. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Brown. Mr. Brown returned Sunday, while Mrs. Brown is planning to stay for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGee (Eva Byron) of Maheffey, Pa., ara receiving congratulations from their many friends upon the arrival of Charles McGee, Jr., born July 6. Mrs. McGee is well known in Peabody and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Watkins, Lake Shore Park.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Draper of Lynn street have just returned from Vassalboro, Me., where they have spent the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith and family of Lynnfield street will start tomorrow on an auto trip to the Provinces.

Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church will meet with Mrs. Gertrude Smith next Thursday afternoon.

The monthly meting of the Bartholomew Building Association will be held next Tuesday evening at Davis hall. Officers will be elected for the year.

Harry Mellow of Meredith, N. H., visited his daughter, Mrs. Fred Batchelder, Monday. Miss Grace Batchelder returned with him yesterday for a visit.

Miss Mabel Chen-Fong, a prominent Chinese girl, died at her summer home on Bartholomew street July 6, aged 25. She was taken to the Thomas hospital about a week ago for treatment, but there was no hope of recovery. She was a very ambitious girl, graduating from Boston University. The family lives in oston during the winter. Besides her parents she leaves five sisters and two brothers. Funeral services were held at the Mt. Vernon Congregational church in Boston July 9.

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Jordan motored to Holbrook, Sunday, and attended services at the church where Rev. Herbert Walker is pastor. Last Saturday was the 25th anniversary of Rev. Mr. Walker's ordination in the ministry and the King's Daughters connected with the church presented him with a bouquet of 25 roses as a remembrance.

Gerald Gully, who was burned by the high tension wires, is convalescing at the Thomas hospital.

Arthur A. Larrabee and family of Lynn street are spending the month at Lovell's Lake, Sanbornville, N. H.

Master Earl Larrabee spent the previous week as the guest of Philip Lefavour at Rial Side, Beverly.

Lake Shore Park Church

Ralph Templin, pastor. Morning worship at 10.45. Sermon by the pastor. Sunday school at 12.15. Evening service at 7 o'clock.

Rev. Ralph Templin and family will start Monday for East Gloucester to spend two weeks with Rev. A. R. King, a former college chum. He expects to learn the art of fishing while on the trip.

Marion Davies In Beauty Film Here Monday

May McAvoy in "Morals," an adaption of William J. Locke's novel, "The Morals of Marcus," will be the main attraction on the double bill for Sunday evening. It is the story of an American girl reared in a Turkish harem, and suddenly, at eighteen, transplanted into the heart of London society. Mary Anderson in "Too Much Married" will be the second feature on the program for Sunday evening.

Youth's judgments are often harsh and its standards narrow. That is why a young man so often looks for the smartly dressed among women, fondly believing that therein lies charm and personality. Never has this fallacy been more vividly delineated than in Marion Davies' new picture, "Beauty's Worth," which will top the double feature bill for Monday and Tuesday.

In this Sophie Kerr story Miss Davies, ever good to look upon, has the part of Prudence Cole, a young Quakeress. Dressed always in the demure gray of her sect, Prudence is oblivious to the fact that her clothes cause young men to pass her by in favor of some smartly dressed flapper, without a grain of depth or feeling. She feels it keenly that Harry Garrisoon, whom she fancies, shuns her. He does more than—he scorns her. Then when she is "made over" by a famous artist, into one of the smartest looking girls, Henry is the first to call. But it is her gown, not her, that he loves. So Henry gets the well known gate and is forced to sit back and watch the little Quaker girl while she picks the man of her choice. The settings in the picture are by Urban and are magnificent. Forrest Stanley heads the cast. Conway Tearle in "Shadows of the Sea" will be the other feature for Monday and Tuesday.

SAVING YOUR GAS

"To obtain full economy from the use of gas," says Manager Locke of the Peabody office, "keep careful watch of your gas flame. The correct flame is blue. If the flame is white or yellow, the mixture of gas and air entering the burner is imperfect. This can be remedied by adjusting the air shutter on the mixing tube, or, in extreme cases, by adjusting the size of the gas orofice."

Peabody Leather Going To European Markets

(By ENERGY)

The leather business is beter from all angles. This was admitted to me by one who has been pessimistic so long there is a great question if his face ever returns to normal. One of the outstanding features of better business is the way foreign trade has increased. For instance from U. S. figures, the exports in June as compared with same month 1921 increased in sole leather to $411,768 from $172,772. Upper leather goes these figures better, or an average of four times in value over last year. Total leather exports are three times larger.

Now these figures do not mean big business. They do mean, however, there is a steady increase in both domestic and foreign business. Considering conditions of finance in Europe, it shows that were conditions there one-half normal, we would be getting big business. So throughout the country. Each month is better than the month preceding, and this gradual increase is healthy to the extreme.

After so long depression, it is natural for the tanner who is black and blue with business bumps, to want a change and have it come quickly. But like poker playing, the man who waits for them is generally the winner.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says: "Many of us are prone to forget that our troubles were all due to the war and that the world conflict is over and that no matter what happens there cannot be another such tremendous outbreak without many years of military and financial preparation. We have survived the post war depression and are safely and sanely headed in the right direction. We have not given enough consideration to the tremendously important fact that no matter how much we have suffered industrially and financially, our losses pale into insignificance when compared with the sufferings of the old world. Indeed the United States continues the favored child of fortune in the family of nations."

Continuing it says: "The day of repining, hesitating and taking counsel of our fears has passed. We should look hopefully into the future with courage, confidence and enterprise. It is time that the big men in our industry reassert themselves. The United States and our associates in the great war for a time appeared to have been lilke Napoleon, defeated by their own victories, but everywhere prospects are brightening. There are still sore spots on the map of the world, but most of the important countries are making progress towards recovery and rehabilitation. The time has come when American business must be in the hands of the creators and builders, instead of the bankers.

The strikes of coal workers together with the smaller one of railroad workers has created thought as to how they will end. Few people felt the coal strike would last until now, but as it is still on, and coal must be mined or industries cease, that bull must be taken by the horns and treated rough. It is useless for me to discuss the ifs and ands of this strike, and if I did it might put my readers to sleep. But coal must be mined and it will be mined by some body or bodies. Some of us could get along with wood if we could get our neighbors to saw and split it. But generally those neighbors are inviting us to help them, so what can we do? But if more of us did saw wood, our digestive organs would be far better, provided we could get enough to eat.

Making boots for lumberjacks has developed into quite an industry on Walnut street. Rubber bottoms with split leather tops as high as ordinary rubber boots and laced up as are sporting boots, they make a shoe that is waterproof. Perhaps those with tender feet might complain, but lumberjacks are born with feet caloused one quarter inch thick, and even do not mind the nails which come through from the bottom. I am told this business is ever on the increase and has a ready market for the output. If this could only be the beginning of a shoe business in Peabody of larger proportions, it would indeed be a present worth having. Max Korn has developed a split leather which leads the procession I am told. He is producing split leather in large quantities, and during the long dull spell has kept busy.

The National Shoe and Leather Exposition which opened this week has several local exhibitors. The A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. has a miniature tannery in operation. They take the skins in the hair and beam and tan them on to be finished. Lester Peabody is the boss tanner, and whether he will impart all his knowledge to visitors remain to be seen. But to be the information bureau as well, will give Lester a happy holiday.

About the dullest article in the leather line today is the pigskin. Used for counters and innersoles, the Lawrence Co. have sold millions of them to the shoe trade. At this time sole leather which can be purchased at prices which warrant using it rather than the pigskin, puts the pigskin trade on the hog, as it were. But pigs always had a way of rooting their way out of trouble, and so it will come about later. I have seen more pigskins at the Lawrence factory than there were pigs. It beats all where they came from.

New Policy at Parke Show's

William Burns, the new manager at the Parke-Snow Co. women's store on Main street, comes to Peabody from Haverhill, where he was for some years a buyer for Simonds-Adams department store, one of the leading dry goods stores in that city. He was for a number of years a resident of Malden and he has had a long experience in his vocation. He takes up his work in this city prepared to give his best effort to make his establishment the mecca for women shoppers, and judging from his start will make good. He is married and is the proud father of three children.

LYNN MAN WILL OPPOSE DONNELL

Attorney Earl C. Jacobs who has announced himself candidate for district attorney, was born in Lynn, where his people have lived for one hundred and fifty years. The family is well known in Lynn and throughout Essex County and has always been more or less actively connected with Republican politics.

Attorney Jacobs is at present one of the three members of the Mayor's arbitration board, and is representing the shoe workers upon this board which is deciding the differences existing between the amnufacturers and shoe workers of Lynn.

Mayor McPhetres of Lynn will take the stump for Attorney Jacobs throughout the county. Attorney Jacobs was the Mayor's chief sponsor last fall and conducted an active campaign for him. Mr. Jacobs was city solicitor of Lynn, succeeding Arthur G. Wardleigh.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

OPPORTUNITY

Once upon a time,—and this time must have been a long time ago,—some man, who thought he was a wise man, said, "Once in every man's life opportunity knocks at his door." It was such a smooth saying that since then we have twisted it to mean that once, and once only, does opportunity knock upon a man's door and if he neglects this one opportunity he never gets another chance.

This saying is an easy alibi for so many men that we rather like it. We can say "my opportunity came to me once and like a fool I let it slip; it will never come again." But the world has grown tired of the "alibi shooter." He is in a class with the has-been and the slacker. He is in the discard. The sales manager says to him, "we want orders and more orders, not excuses and alibis and expense accounts."

For the gospel truth is that every day and all the time opportunity is knocking, knocking at the door of every man's life, trying to wake him up to something better, something higher and bigger. Once in awhile some one hears that knocking and wakes up to the fact that he can be bigger and better and he begins to ask himself, "How?" Then that man begins to get ready for the next opportunity. His eyes are open for the chance. That chance will surely come and his opportunity will be upon him sooner than he realizes.

Men say to me, "Mr. Eglee, you are all the time telling us what other men have done, or are doing, but you never tell me what I can do for myself." But the readers of these "Little Talks" must remember that they are not meant as rules or guides or instructions. They can only try to make men think—for themselves. No one can dictate what another man shall do with his life. Each of us must work it out for himself. These "Little Talks" are an endeavor to tell the truth as one man sees it and let everyone who reads it just think it over. Perhaps he can think something better, straighter, and more useful for himself, than I can. They are meant for manufacturer, superintendent, foreman, worker, clerk, school teacher, stenographer, in fact for the people who usually read a newspaper. Of course, they talk more about the leather industry because Peabody is a leather city. If you find an idea here, use it; if you don't why throw it in the waste basket. Ideas that we make our own become a part of our lives. The truth is what we all need. Very few people really think; we only think we think, and in these "Little Talks" we are tring to think things out together. Among ourselves.

So let's get back to our subject of "Opportunity." There are many people who are constantly complaining that there are fewer opportunities than there were twenty or thirty years ago. These are the people who don't stop to think. They cannot seem to realize that opportunities in business today are more numerous than they were ever before. As new inventions are developed men become more intelligent, they see more, their vision broadens.

And it is in the simple things of life that men see their opportunity. A salesman in the United Shoe Machinery Company is bothered by his stiff collar; he wants a soft collar that is not like a bandage around his throat. He thinks out the Van Heusen collar and not only give thousands of people an opportunity to work but he makes a fortune at the same time.

The job we have, whatever it may be, is, for you and me, only an "opportunity to work;" nothing else. That's all. An "opportunity to work" and when we begin to realize that work is the greatest blessing that comes to man and idleness the greatest curse, then we'll begin to use that "opportunity" that is with us every day. We don't need some wonderful thing to come to us. We couldn't stand it if it did come. We start from where we are,—now; there is no other starting point and every day means a new start.

We think that during these days of depression, unrest, strikes, worry and warfare, that we can do little or nothing; but do you realize that these very days are an opportunity? During these troubled times the leather industry right here in Peabody has learned more about efficiency in production, economy in processes, improvement in quality, co-operation in manufacture, methods of salesmanship, and general uplift of the whole industry, than was learned during the preceding ten years. Our very troubles are often our opportunities. We are forced to improve, and, believe me, if our leather people, manufacturers and men alike, had not done this very thing, there would have been very little leather and perhaps no leather at all made in Peabody today. It would be made in Germany, or in the West, and we would be out of business.

Oh, yes! Opportunities are coming to all of us all of the time. Let's get together and use them whenever we are wise enough to see them.

Labor Back to 75% Normal

That the industries of Massachusetts are now operating on the average at 77½ per cent. of their normal capacity is indicated by information received through a canvass made by the Associated Industries during the month of June. The normal basis assumed is neither the pre-war level nor the high peak reached in 1919, but allows for a reasonable yearly growth in production from that of the year 1913 to the present time.

This canvass was undertaken because of frequent inquiry at this office regarding the actual present status of labor conditions in Massachusetts. Impressions have been current in many instances that wages are in process of adjustment upward, while other observers have been equally certain that the trend is definitely downward. Some concerns have commented upon the noticeable decrease in employment and others have reported an actual scarcity of labor.

In order to secure an intelligent appraisal of the situation a survey was made of conditions in such representative trade groups as the metal, paper, rubber, shoes, foodstuffs, textile and confectionery.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Wedded 30 Years

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hayes of 29 Sutton street observed their 30th anniversary of marriage yesterday, having been wedded in Salem on July 14, 1892. Their observance of their happy milestone had to be deferred until today, for the "groom" was called over to New York on the midnight train last Wednesday night on urgent business with the firm of which he is Boston manager, and he reached Boston early this morning. They planned a quiet observance of the day. Mrs. Ralph O. Russell of Sutton street is a daughter of Mr. Hayes.

GENERAL SUTTON LODGE

The members of General Sutton Lodge, I. O. O. F. M. U., will pay a visit to Egg Rock Lodge of Lynn this evening and present the traveling gavels. Members will leave Peabody square on the 7.05 electric car.

Geo. H. Jacobs Opened Store 40 Years Ago

Forty years and over in business on Main street is the record of the George H. Jacobs Co., leading clothiers, whose model establilshment in Peabody ranks as one of the best in Essex County. The business was established by the late George H. Jacobs, who died three years ago this month, and whose memory will long be cherished by a host of friends and patrons who recognized his sterling qualities. The firm was incorporated following Mr. Jacobs' passing and John F. Duffy and Lucien G. Lewis, who had long been associated with Mr. Jacobs, are the sole owners today. They are following closely the lines laid down by their former business associate. Elsewhere in today's issue is the announcement of their annual clearance sale, and many remarkable bargains are offered in their efforts to clear their summer stock in making ready for the first fall goods.

Books on Radio At the Library

The Peabody Institute Library has added a number of new books on radio as follows:

"How to Use, Make and Install Wireless Telephone and Telegraph Instruments," by A. Hyatt Verrill, author of "The Boys' Out Door Vacation Book," etc. The author has endeavored to make his descriptions and explanations simple, concise and easily understood; he has taken types rather than definite makes and designs of the various instruments as subjects for discussion, and he has tried to make the diagrams so simple and plain that any boy can understand them and work from them.

"Radio for Everybody." Being a popular guide to practical radio phone reception and transmission and and to the dot-and-dash reception and transmission of the radio telegraph, for the layman who wants to apply radio for his pleasure and profit without going into the special theories and intricacies of the art. By Austin C. Lescarboura, managing editor, scientific American. Fully illustrated. A complete and authentic book by an authority on radio. It guides the reader with simple explanation and photographic diagrams throughout radio, from the aerial set up to the final steps in adjusting and listening-in. It is radio's A B C, backed by the authority and reputation of Scientific American.

"The Home Radio, How to Make and Use It." By A. Hyatt Verrill. Illustrated with full-page drawings. Intended and designed particularly for the use of amateurs, young and old, and those who wish to know how to make, use, or adjust wireless telephone instruments. The author has purposely avoided all technical terms and dissertations, and has aimed to make his directions and explanations plain and simple, illustrated by purely diagramatic figures.

"Radio Receiving for Beginners." By R. T. Snodgrass and Victor F. Camp, A. I. R. E. Tells in few simple words how to select, install and operate radio receivers. Describes the equipment, ranging from the simplest and cheapest to the most efficient. To the beginner the book is valuable, not only for what it contains, but also for what is left out as not actually necessary for satisfactory receiving.

PERSONALS

Miss Elizabeth McGlone of King street has entirely recovered from the effects of having her tonsils removed at the Salem hospital last week.

Mrs. John McKay of Proctor street has as her guest this week, Miss Mary LeClair of Waltham.

Miss Evelyn Cross is convalescing rapidly following an operation for appendicitis at the J. B. Thomas hospital.

Chester Carlin and James Dee, popular firemen, start this week on their annual two weeks' vacation.

Miss Annie Draper has entered the employ of the Pearse Leather Co. as bookkeeper.

Mrs. Lucy A. Shackley, who has been living in Marblehead, has returned to Peabody and is residing at 32 Clement avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Marrs and family of Perkins Park are occupying a cottage at Hampton Beach for the summer.

Miss Mary L. McCarthy of the Peabody Enterprise, has been enjoying a vacation this week.

Arthur P. Bodge has so far recovered his strength as to be able to sit on his veranda and will be glad to see any of his friends.

Daniel J. Maning, restaurant owner, recently operated on at the J. B. Thomas hospital, was greeted this this week in Peabody square.

Mrs. George Nickerson and family of Northend street are at their cottage at Asbury Grove for the summer.

John Hanlon and daughter, Ulie, of Andover street leave today on a trip to New York.

Mrs. John E. Sullivan and baby son arrived home this week Wednesday from the J. B. Thomas hospital.

Miss Louise Ellis of Franklin street and Miss Frances Fitzgerald of Perkins street are spending the week at Provincetown.

George Billings, janitor at the Wallis school, leaves Wednesday for Atlantic City, where he will enjoy a two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Eliza Walsh of Prospect street, Salem, formerly of this city, has returned from a trip to Chicago.

Mrs. Annie E. Spurr, mother of Francis A. Spurr, both formerly of Peabody, and now of Lynn, is spending a few weeks at Meredith, N. H.

Michael McDermott, a well-known East End man, who held the record of being the fastest typist at Burdett college, is home for a month's vacation from his government duties in Washington. He served as a commissioned officer in France, being military aide to Gen. Bliss at the peace conference.

Peabody dentists joined with members of the Essex County Dental Society Wednesday at Wardhurst for their annual outing, and Rotarian "Doc" Henry Yale as captain of the married men's ball team brought home laurels, winning 8 to 7 over the bachelors in the gathering. "Doc" pitched a humdinger of a five-inning game. Drs. Maguire, Callahan and Leavitt of this city attended the outing.

A number of prominent Peabody men and women attended the meeting held at La Franche Chateau, Bass Point, Nahant, last Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Massachusetts Women's Democratic Club. It was a notable gathering and practically every Democrat of distinction throughout the state was present. After a delicious luncheon, addresses were given by Hon. John F. Fitzgerald of Boston and Joseph E. Ely of Westfield, candidates for the nomination for governor, and Sherman L. Whipple, John Jackson Walsh, Dallas L. Sharpe and Col. William A. Gaston, aspirants for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Atty. Louis F. O'Keefe of this city is local campaign manager for Col. Gaston, and plans to begin a vigorous campaign shortly.

William Poor is suffering from a severe case of blood poisoning, caused by a scratch received while opening a can at his bakery on Walnut street.

TIME'S COURSE

OLD Father Time's a swift old boy
Who brings us stores of woe and joy,
And never fails to stand close by
E'en though he runs with speed so high.
In early days he gives us Youth,
With all its searching after Truth,
Then through a somewhat mellower stage
He leads us gently on to Age
To find in ports beyond life's sea
The quiet of Eternity.

HUGH FLEMING

Hugh Fleming, winner of a four-year scholarship at the hands of Rev. Thomas P. McGinn, pastor of St. John's church, for ranking highest in his studies among the graduates of St. John's grammar school, will enter Boston college high school next fall. Last Wednesday Hughie passed his 13th birthday anniversary.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh E. Fleming of 25 Winter street, and is one of seven children in the family. The children are John 14, a freshman at P. H. S.; Hugh, James 10, Austin 8, Mary 6, Helen 3 and William, the baby. Mr. Fleming is a well-known employe at the A. C. Lawrence Leather plant.

Hugh has been one of the newsboys carrying Enterprises each week for the past few years. He is courteous and attentive to his work, as attested by his securing the prize scholarship which will be given each year by Rev. Fr. McGinn.

PEABODY METHODISTS

Peabody Methodists will be well represented at the 64th camp meetings at Asbury Grove from Aug. 27 to Sept. 4. Rev. Robert M. Pierce, former pastor of Peabody church, is represented of the association, and will act as camp chaplain.

WHAT THE PEABODY KIDDIES ARE DOING ON PLAYGROUNDS

Owing to the wet weather last week the playgrouids did not open until Thursday afternoon, July 6, much to the disappointment of the children.

More than 250 boys and girls awaited the arrival of apparatus at the Emerson Park grounds anxious to have first swing or slide on the popular shutes.

South and West Peabody both have spacious grounds this season. With the assistance of Mayor Shea, the commission aided by local committees, was able to secure most ideal lots for the "kiddies."

A baseball league has been organized consisting of six teams representing as many playgrounds: Emerson Park, East End, So. Peabody, Bleachery, Wallis School, Samuel Brown School.

William Crean, formerly instructor at the high school playground, has been transferred to the East End playground to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Herbert Lawrence.

"Tom" Ray, the new instructor at Emerson Park, has instilled a lot of pepper in the boys at this ground, as evidenced by their winning three straight baseball games from the East End, Bleachery and Wallis School to the tune of 5-2, 2-1 and 10-1, respectively.

Beside the fancy work, the lay instructors report that many girls are making dresses.

July Baseball Schedule

Friday, July 14—Emerson-So. Peabody at Emerson Park; Bleachery-East End at Emerson Park; Wallis-Samuel Brown at So. Peabody.

Tuesday, July 18—Wallis-Bleachery at Emerson Park; Emerson Park-Samuel Brown at So. Peabody.

Wednesday, July 19—(All playgrounds at Emerson Park); So. Peabody-East End at Emerson Park.

Friday, July 21—Emerson Park-Bleachery at Emerson Park; So. Peabody-Samuel Brown at So. Peabody: East End-Wallis at East End.

Monday, July 24—Emerson Park-East End at Emerson Park; So. Peabody-Wallis at So. Peabody, p. m.; Samuel Brown-Bleachery at So. Peabody, a. m.

Wednesday July 26—Emerson Park-Wallis at Emerson Park, a. m.; Samuel Brown-East End at Emerson Park,, p. m.; So. Peabody-Bleachery at So. Peabody.

Friday, July 28—Emerson Park-Samuel Brown at Emerson Park; Bleachery-East End at East End; Wallis-So. Peabody at So. Peabody.

Postponed games played next pleasant day. Cup offered to the winning team.

CITY HALL NOTES

The kiddies have a great friend in Mayor Shea. He believes every cent paid for the playgrounds is an investment of which the taxpayers should be proud. It was the Mayor who fathered the motion to have the Rotary Club give 200 poor children an auto ride to the beach this summer and plans are now underway to make it a banner event.

The sooner the city gets rid of foremen who ignore orders of departmental heads the better. How long would any leather factory owner stand to have a foreman ridicule his super? Business is business and Mayor Shea will probably support his chiefs.

City Engineer Emerson will proceed to make arrests of men who are said to go bathing in Peabody's ponds used for drinking water.

Chief Barrett of the fire department is making his plans to go to the national convention of fire chiefs next month in San Francisco.

There is a dirty game of politics being waged right now over a football coach for Peabody high. It is so rotten that it needs chloride of lime, and the men who are playing the game are for themselves first and Peabody sometime in the future. They should be driven from our political playground. Down south they would be ridden out of the town on greased poles.

* * *

City Electrician Vincent P. O'Keefe has been giving the fire alarm boxes a coat of red paint this week.

A. O. H. LAWN PARTY

The committee in charge of the A. O. H. lawn party which is to be held on Aug. 10th are working hard perfecting arrangements for the most successful event of this kind ever undertaken by the Division. Several novel features are to be introduced and will be aired at the meeting of the committee which will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. The free trip to Ireland is causing considerable interest throughout the city and vicinity and will be enjoyed by some lucky person after Aug. 10th in time to see the Olympic games in Dublin.

With the radiophone in receptive mood, all the family quarrels may be enjoyed by the neighbors without putting ears to the walls or opening the windows.—"Topics of the Day" Films.

FILLING DEPOT

was appropriated last night in the added budgets.

After Councillors Craig, Barry and Jones had declined the nomination of Acting President, City Clerk Dowd called Councillor Duggan to the chair in the absence of President Ryan, who is at Atlantic City at the Elks' convention.

On motion of Councillor McKeen a claim of $2000 on the contract by Antonio Magavero for laying water-pipe on Lynn st. was referred to the Mayor for settlement by a communication to the Council asking for an appropriation. City Engineer Emerson held back a sum to cover the expense of repairing the disturbed bituminous paving and Magavero has had to wait. His attorney, Messrs. Sherry and Tumelty sent in their claim to the Council. Councillor McKeen went on record as favoring no work being done on Lynn st.

Because the bond issue called for $60,000 for school purposes recently passed did not meet the demands of the First National Bank of Boston a new order was voted and the old one rescinded. The new order is advertised in today's Enterprise.

The Council voted to request the Mayor to direct the City Engineer to repair the washouts on the Tremont st. tracks and also on Washington st. and suggested that the tarffic post formerly between the monument and the South church be restored with a lantern for night duty.

It was also suggested that Wallis st. from Main to Mill st. be made a one way street. Councillor Duggan introduced this last motion, calling Councillor Jones to act as President. The overseas war veteran filled the bill.

ROTARY CLUB

plete the list of members on their classifications with an occasional outside speaker during the next two months.

Chet Bent, manager at the Strand theatre, will also be a speaker to give the Peabody Rotarians some idea of his discoveries in the land of Evangeline, where he has been giving the movie kings some expert advice the past ten days. Chet will also tell of his joys and troubles as personal representative of Will Hays, dictator of the film industry. Maybe Chet will tell some stories of the real truth about Hollywood. He knows the truth.

* * *

District Governor Judge Robert W. Hill of Salem isto make his appearance before the local Rotarians in the near future to outlay his plans for a bigger year in New England Rotary.

HERMAN'S STORE

The D. Herman & Sons, successors to Joseph Robinson, open their new shoe store and five and ten-cent store tomorrow with new stocks for each and prepared to give the former Robinson service. Harry Herman will be manager of both stores, having associated with him his father, who is familiar with the shoe business, and another brother, Max.

Harry has been identified with the Robinson store for the past ten years and has many friends in this city. He graduated from Peabody high three years ago and then entered Boston University, where he will begin his junior year in the college of business administration. He has earned his way so far in college byhis attention to duties at the local stores.

Libby Prison

piece of cloth bound around his loins. Mr. Peirce was one of three who when drafted a year ago last summer did not avail themselves of the $300 commutation although in Mr. Peirce's case a friend stood ready to let him have the money in case he needed it; but young Peirce declined this kind offer, saying he was undoubtedly fairly drafted, that the government wanted all the men it could get and that he should go and do his duty. We think this is a case of pure, unadulterated patriotism. He had no big bounty to tempt him, but if anyone is deserving of it, it is he."

It required some months for Mr. Peirce to regain his health after he returned to his home and only the motherly care put him back on his feet a useful citizen in the town in which he had been born and lived. He learned the leather trade, being identified with it for many years.

Liberty, Maine, was the birthplace of Mrs. Peirce and she came to Salem while a young girl to reside with relatives, and so she met Mr. Peirce and they were married by Rev. N. M. Williams, pastor of the Baptist church in Peabody. Here they have lived ever since. Mrs. Peirce was Miss Sarah P. Dodge.

Five children blessed their union. The daughters are Mrs. S. Everett Knapp of Sutton street, Mrs. J. Murray Wilson of Wallis street and Mrs. G. Freeman Woodbury of Osborne street. Two sons, Edward Peirce, who makes his home with his parents, and Herbert, connected with the Danvers postoffice, and a resident in that town.

Mrs. Knapp, one of the daughters, observed her 31st wedding day anniversary yesterday, her marriage taking place on the 24th anniversary of her parents. Mr. Knapp is the well-known leather manufacturer in Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Peirce have 14 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

Mr. Peirce although confined to his bed for the past eight months enjoys his pipe, delights in hearing the news of the day and seldom complains.

LOWELL STREET

Thomas Walton and his two daughters of Glue Hill have spent the past two weeks at Middleton.

Friendship Circle, King's Daughters, of the South church to the number of 26, motored last Tuesday to Lanesville, where they were the all-day guests of Mrs. Herman Barnes at her summer cottage.

CITY OF PEABODY

Be it ordered by the city council of the city of Peabody as follows:

That pursuant to the Act of 1922, Chapter 469, entitled "An Act to authorize the City of Peabody to incur indebtedness for school purposes", the city treasurer is hereby authorized to issue and sell bonds of the City to the aggregate principal sum of Sixty Thousand Dollars ($60,000), bearing interest at a rate of not over five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually such bonds being paid in installments of Three Thousand ($3000) Dollars per annum for the years 1923-1942 inclusive, first payment to be made one year from the date of bonds, both principal and interest being payable at the office of the First National Bank of Boston, Mass. Said bonds shall be signed by the City Treasurer, countersigned by the Mayor and certified as to genuineness by the First National Bank of Boston, Mass. and shall bear on their face "Peabody School Loan Act of 1922".

True Copy Attest,
EDWARD J. DOWD, City Clerk. (J-14-21-28)

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

Essex, ss. Salem, July 10, A. D. 1922.

Taken on Execution and will be sold at Public Auction on Thursday, the 17th day of August, A. D. 1922, at 11 o'clock A. M., at my office, Room 3, No. 81 Washington Street, in Salem in said County of Essex, all the right title and interest which Afanasy Manyshew, of Peabody, in said County had (not exempt by law from attachment or levy on execution) on the thirteenth day of June, A. D. 1921, at 45 minutes past 8 o'clock, A. M., (being the time the same was attached on Mesne process) in and to the following described real estate:

The land in said Peabody, with the buildings thereon, situated on Berry Street and shown on a plan entitled "Land of Mary Hogan, Peabody, Mass., March 1912, Thomas A. Appleton, C. E." recorded with Essex, (South District) Registry of Deeds, Book 2197, Page 311, March 17th 1913, and bounded and described as follows, viz:

Beginning on Berry Street at land now or formerly of Perkins, and running Southwesterly by said Perkins' land, fifty-two and eight-tenths (52.8) feet; thence running Southeasterly by land now or formerly of Hogan, sixty-four and ninety-five one-hundredths (64.95) feet; thence running Northerly but slightly Easterly by Berry Street, fifty-two and ninety-six one-hundredths (52.96) feet to an iron pin shown on said Plan; thence running Northwesterly by Berry Street, forty-five and sixty-seven one-hundredths (45.67) feet to the point of beginning.

Besse-System July Mark-Down Sale

Of Men's and Young Men's Suits

Weights, Colors and New Models Suitable For This Coming Fall and Winter

This season we did not have a large accumulation of odd lots and left-overs that wouldn't sell to mark down for the July sale. Our stocks have been kept fresh as a mountain stream by the continual flow of good merchandise, exceptional values, from America's best mills, acquired at sacrifice prices and made up under our own supervision, together with surplus stocks in undreamed of quantities favorably purchased from known manufacturers, retailing at prices so enticing that men from an extended area, even Boston, have been buying two and three suits at a time in anticipation of coming needs.

—MEN WHO HAVE WAITED FOR OUR ANNUAL JULY MARK-DOWN SALE

to buy their suits at a saving shall not be dissapointed. With our stocks kept clear all season by an unprecedented volume of business we were in a position to go into the open market and make heavy cash purchases of fresh, new merchandise at a peculiarly advantageous time. We secured for this sale fine woolens in year-round weights and colors from well known American mills.

SAD FUNERAL OF MRS. AUEN

EMANUEL J. AUEN

MRS. EMANUEL AUEN

The funeral of Mrs. Frances Auen, aged 26, the two months ' bride of Emanuel Auen, foreman at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. was held from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren P. Blake on Wallis street yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. There were nearly 50 floral pieces, attesting the grief of her many friends and former associates. Rev. Dr. Francis L. Beal, rector of St. Paul's church, conducted the service. There was no music. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery. The pall bearers were Irving Blake, Horace Bodge, Harold Powell, Harold Jones, Edward Bates of Danvers and William Abbott of Indiana.

The sudden death of this splendid young woman which occurred at the J. B. Thomas hospital early Wednesday morning following an operation for intestinal trouble was a severe shock and called for the universal sympathy

Peabody Man Loses Life In Rescuing Boy

Word was received in Peabody today of the death by drowning of Peter McNeil, a former Peabody musician, which occurred at Seaside Beach, Oregon, on July 3. McNeil had gone into the water to rescue a boy from drowning and is believed to have been pulled under the water by the frantic boy. He formerly lived in Little's Lane and was well known as a piano player and soloist. He was about 35 years old and married. His body was recovered.

City Engineer Discharges Pumping Station Fireman

Trouble which has been brewing at the city pumping station off Lynn street resulted today in City Engineer Frank Emerson discharging William H. O'Connell, for a number of years employed as a fireman on charges of being absent from duty without leave and also insubordination. It is probable that O'Connell who is under civil service will ask for a hearing on the three charges.

It has been an open secret that trouble was existing at the pumping station with friction between the City Engineer, by law responsible for the safe conduct of the plant, and the engineer, Patrick Conroy, who have disagreed on several issues.. Mayor Shea has done his best to straighten out the situation but apparently has failed to end the disputes.

Under the charter City Engineer Emerson is in complete authority and his orders should be obeyed, he insists, and as a departmental head this would seem only the ordinary precedure. That there has been an open sore is no longer a secret and the suspension today of the fireman above mentioned will probably result in the dirty linen being washed in public. City Engineer Emerson says he will welcome a probe of the pumping station affairs.

At the time of the big fire at the A. P. Ames' grain plant on Central street last spring, it is said that engineer Conroy refused to put the pumps into operation on Sunday to refill the depleted reservoir despite the fact that Chief Barrett, foreman of the water department, had urged this being done.

"Billy" Smith Prisoner In Andersonville

Sixty years ago last Wednesday, Wililam Abbott Smith, one of the oldest, if not the very oldest Grand Army veteran in Peabody, enlisted in the 1st Mass. Heavy Artillery and prepared to fight for the cause of the Union. In a few months he was at the front as an infantryman. On his second enlistment on March 10, 1864, he got into action around Petersburg and there fell prisoner with hundreds of other Northern men and was hustled off to Andersonville prison at Florence, S. C., where he endured and survived the seven months of barbarous treatment.

A. C. L. Co. Baseball League Sees Six Teams Fighting For Flag

The A. C. L. Twilight league with six teams composing 90 players from the various departments of this big leather concern is on its second week of a schedule which will continue up to Sept. 12.

Tonight the National and Sheep dept. will stage a battle royal with the Lester Peabody crew bent on landing on the big end to square their defeat last week when the Hide dept. rang their bell 11 to 4. The Sheep shut out the office team last week 3 to 0 in a classy game.

Monday night the Japan and the Hide department will meet and another good contest is assured. The Japan nine has some clever artists in their lineup and are already claiming the championship honors. The Cutstock dept. tasted defeat at the hands of the Japan boys in the opening game last week

General Manager Charles P. Kelley and other officials of the big plant have offered prizes for the best showing made by individual players in hitting and fielding honors and also for team honors. These prizes have put a lot of enthusiasm into the league and good crowds of fans are following the sport.

Here is the list of the teams and players:

Cutstock Team

Wirling, Pushard, West, Sullivan, McGinn, Johnson, Dzernewski, Rennicks, Graham, Boynton, Massey, Slipovitch, Taylor, Coombs.

National Team

Drago, Claffey, MacDermott, Cassola, Cohance, Lang, Dragon, Blake, Hayes, Hartnett, Dervin, Ellis, Cronin, Harding, Coffey, Masterson, Barbrick, Dumont.

Sheepskin Team

Healey, D. Flynn, W. Flynn, Morrison, Sullivan, Collins, Daniels, LaFreniere, Newbold, Raimo, Murphy, Paul, Nies, Fleming. McDonald.

Office Team

Gourley, Welch, Woodhouse, Roundy, Munroe, J. Munroe, Hallowell, Hill, Farnham, Blake, Brown, Nafis St. Pierre, Watts. Haynes, Begg.

Hide Team

Martinack, Viles, Coleman, McCarthy, Murphy, Gillis, Dragon, Hill, Dempsey, Foley, Collins, Jermyn, Finnegan, Hughes, Seeley.

Japan Team

Daley, Glass, Fossa, Allen, Lawrence, Gourley, Caulfield, Barrett, Zinkavich, Meyers, Sirois, Korkatti, Tarnowski, Sobysinski, McCarthy.

CITY HALL NOTES

Somebody is eating crow as a result of the official announcement this week of the $36 tax rate instead of a $45 rate and it isn't the Enterprise which predicted a $35 rate some weeks ago.

Mrs. Jesse Newhall, back from her vacation, was paid $45 for services in the auditor's office. Mrs. Newhall is assistant city clerk and a very efficient young woman. She is an excellent typist and penman and has proved her value many times. City Clerk Dowd is fortunate in having her assistance.

The City Engineers department will start work resurfacing Franklin st. from Chestnut to School, Perkins st. from Lowell to Franklin and also Warren st. extension. The Essex Trap Rock Co. whose trucks use the Warren st. extension the most will furnish free of charge the crushed rock for the new roadbed. The surface will be treated with a penetration binder which will do away with the clouds of dust that now annoy the residents.

Patchwork of tarbinders is being used on various streets where car tracks have protruded and the improvement is being commented on.

The last budget gives the city engineer's department needed funds to keep the workmen busy and allow some needed street improvements as well as new water connections.

Flash light traffic posts will be erected at dangerous corners this coming week.

A newswriter paid compliments to the city engineer a few days ago apropros of the white dots on the streets. The article insinuated that the orders of the City Council are not followed by the city engineer. The charter does not permit the Council to give orders to any departmental head but instead send requests to the Mayor to have certain work done. As a matter of fact, the 1921 Council did request the city engineer to paint the white spots. The present Council has not voted to request anything but a conference with the Mayor leading to traffic posts being reestablished and this comes after the Mayor and city engineer had contracted for lighted traffic posts of the most modern type —a flashing light. The criticism against the city engineer's department is purely personal and as such should be taken with several grains of salt.

Oldest G. A. R. Veteran Saw Andersonville

st. he is the only other Peabody G. A. R. veteran who underwent the tortures of Andersonville. For four days one week he never tasted food in Andersonville and hundreds of his comrades answered the final roll call as a result. Blessed with a strong constitution he withstood the ordeal of the prison pen well enough to come out alive on parole and within a few months he was able to report for more war service. His final duty was participating in the great review before President Lincoln in Washington in 1865, just before being sent home to be mustered out.

An Enterprise reporter called this week on this venerable Civil War veteran who observed his 89th birthday on June 1 last, at his home 9 Dalton's Court. Save for halted footsteps, due largely to a rupture he suffers with, this grand old man is keen of eyesight and hearing and relishes his meals with much of his oldtime vigor. A bad fall he received last year has kept him confined to his home but he appreciates a visit from his friends and can entertain with stories and anecdotes much as he used to do in the years gone by.

For 40 years his name was favorably linked with a tonsorial shop in Peabody that bore his name and his pet diversion was making stump speeches on the vaudeville platform and "Bill" was no mean actor. George Seaman the monologue artist of professional fame is "Billy's" nephew and owes much of his success to the friendly interest by the Peabody man.

Born in North Salem on June 1, 1833, "Billy" was a shoemaker in his younger years and being the oldest of eight children he had to go to work without any schooling. Despite the absence of a book education, "Billy" mastered the English language and won much fame as an entertainer.

He believes we are creatures of destiny and never complains at his fate.

He occupies a tenement in the same house with Mrs. Catherine Allen who takes care of him and makes his passing days filled with all possible comfort. Mrs. Allen promised "Billy's" wife that she would do whatever she could to help the war veteran. Mrs. Smith passed away in 1899. Up to within a few years "Billy" was able to get down to the Square and was one of the "jurors" who dole out justice at "Judge" Gardner's harness-shop. "Billy" was always a good dresser, careful of his appearance and white linen.

His wife was the widow of a Charles Sheldon, a Danvers man who served with "Billy" in the war and it fell to the latter to give Sheldon, a fellow prisoner at Andersonville, the last drink of water before he died. Sheldon's last plea to "Billy" was to comfort his widow soon to be and "Billy" after the proper time made good his promise by making her his wife. They were devoted and her loss was a great grief to him. When he spoke of her to the Enterprise reporter tears came to his eyes as he praised her sterling worth. They had no children.

"Billy's" favorite nephew is Foster Begg of Lynn st., a son of his sister, and Mr. Begg is a weekly visitor to his uncle, bringing him goodies and many added comforts which are helping this fine old veteran to enjoy his final days. "Billy" looks forward to the visits from Mr. Begg.

DONNELL SPEAKS IN MIDDLESEX

District Attorney S. Howard Donnell candidate for Attorney General on the Republican ticket spoke in Wakefield, Stoneham and Woburn last night holding three big rallies before large crowds. He has some prominent committeemen in each of the places who are doing effective work for the Essex County man in Middlesex County.

To night the Peabody ex-Mayor will hold rallies in Malden and Melrose and tomorrow night he will speak at two rallies in Somerville.

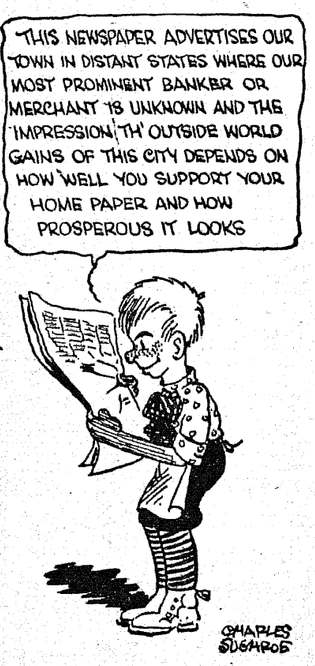
Monday he will go to Holyoke for a raly that night and will visit Springfield, Ware, Palmler, Chicopee and other cities and towns enroute to Worcester where he will speak next week Saturday night.



His tour of the cities and towns in the Berkshires last week found him the first candidate for the office to which he aspires to invade that district and the reception he and his campaign orators received was enough to warrant the statement that the Essex County man has the jump on his rivals. Donnell is advertising Peabody, giving mention of his home city at every rally.

A citizens' committee organized in Peabody this week is furnishing labels "Donnell of Peabody for Attorney General," and these are to be given to businessmen and plants to place on their letters to all parts of the state.

The fact that Mirdlesex County has three candidates against Mr. Donnell is helping the Peabody man in his fight and he is already sure of a surprising vote in that district.

Atty. E. A. Hershenson returned last Sunday from a trip through the extreme western part of the state with Dist. Atty. Donnell's campaigning party. He reports encouraging signs of enthusiasm for the local candidate.

Glorious Stars and Stripes

The flag is the emblem of our unity, our power, our purpose as a nation. It speaks to us of the past. It has witnessed a great history. Since its official adoption on June 14, 1777, it has been associated with whatever patriotic idea we worship and is the symbol of the great faith to which we are born.

"As long as men are men that flag chosen on June 14, 1777, is well chosen. It has a meaning, a message, a command," says Rev. William Norman Guthrie, who has written a book, "The Religion of Old Glory," to explain the meaning and message of America's flag to the nations of the world.

The flag of the United States came into being more deliberately and consciously than other flags, such as that of England, or France, or Spain. It was chosen after many popular experiments had been made, officially and unofficially, on sea and land.

Inception of the Flag.

The story of the actual making of the first American flag as we know it is not touched on by Mr. Guthrie. Omitting all minor particulars, the main points are these:

Washington, accompanied by two gentlemen, called one day in 1776 at the little upholstery shop in Arch street, Philadelphia, where Mrs. Betsy Ross was carrying on business, and asked her if she could make a flag. She said that she had never made one, but that she could try. They thereupon produced a design rather roughly drawn. She examined the design and, noticing that the stars were six-pointed, suggested that they be made with five points, showing them how a five-pointed star could be made with a single clip of the scissors.

Design Approved by Congress.

General Washington then and there changed the sketch, and soon after a colored design by a painter named William Barrett was sent to Mrs. Ross as a sample, whereupon she set to work and completed a flag which was approved. This was the flag that was finally adopted by congress, and on June 14, 1777, congress entered on its journal an official indorsement of the Stars and Stripes in a resolution worded as follows:

"Resolved, That the flag of the United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white, and that the union be 13 stars white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

The resolution says nothing about the arrangement of the stars in the field.

The ensign of the United States remained the same as fixed by the resolution of June 14, 1777, until 1795, when Vermont and Kentucky had been admitted to the Union, and on January 13, 1794, congress passed the following act:

"That from and after the first day of May, 1795, the flag of the United States be 15 stripes alternate red and white; that the union be 15 stars white in a blue field."

In 1818, at the suggestion of Samuel C. Reid, the original 13 stripes were restored and congress voted to add a new star on the Fourth of July succeeding the admission of each new state.

Significance of Symbols.

"When a white flag staff or pole is set up on a village green," says Mr. Guthrie, "it will doubtless show at the top on a golden ball the American eagle, also golden, flapping his wide wings, as if just alighting or about to exult in heavenward flight. This eagle is the very prime symbol of our defensive and aspiring Union. It is the bird or angel of our peace, our winged Victory, our Phoenix, the point of contact and the vehicle of grace in our intercourse with heaven. Embroidered on a blue field, star strewn, it is the emblem of the executive head of the nation."

In his right talon our eagle clutches the olive branch, with 13 green leaves and 13 berries, the leaves that are the show of life and the berries that are the fruit—that symbol itself carrying us back to the olive twig borne by the dove of Noah. This olive branch proclaims our constant purpose—a positive creative peace.

Now, in the left talon of our heraldic eagle are clutched the 13 arrows which signify the threatening thunderbolts. As Mr. Guthrie explains it the 13 lightning bolts are ready to be shot out of the heaven and to establish with whatever violence may be needed against the tiger and ape, stampeding herds or howling wolf packs, the peace of perfect athletic humanity.

"Flag and eagle they are ours; they are historically one," says Mr. Guthrie. "Our flag flies to the winds, as we lift our eyes to it reverently we can and do swear fealty to it with whatever abides vitally innocent in us, white hot for the strife unto a better world."

Residents of Franklin and Perkins streets are rejoicing over the appropriations for resurfacing these thoroughfares included in the recent supplementary budget of Mayor Shea. This work will be done this season but none too soon for the comfort of those compelled to travel these highways.

Apple Pudding.

Cook one-half dozen apples until nearly done, unless of a variety which cooks quickly; place in a deep baking dish and cover with a rich biscuit dough made like a drop batter, leaving spaces for the steam to escape. A little seasoning may be added, such as sugar, nutmeg and butter. Serve with a lemon sauce or with thickened apple juice or cider seasoned to taste.

Fried Apples.

Core good flavored apples and slice in half-inch slices. Into a frying pan put two tablespoonfuls of bacon fat, lay in the apples after sprinkling lightly with salt and sugar and brown on both sides. Serve with pork chops.

Rice and Asparagus Soup.

Wash the asparagus and cut off the tougher portions. Put the tips into a quart of well-seasoned broth and one cupful of water and cook until tender Add one-half cupful of rice as soon as the broth and asparagus are boiling hot. Cook until very tender. This soup may be put through a sieve and is then ready to serve. Pass grated cheese with the soup.

Leather Plants To Boom With Demand For Fall

(By ENERGY)

Continued good reports of the leather business are heard from local tanners and with the fall business soon to be here, everything points to a busy winter in the local leather factories.

The coal and railroad strikes appear to be on their way for a settlement. Reports from Washington this week tell us the government will protect workers in the coal mines be they union or non-union workers. Officials of many railroads claim to have men who are taking the places of the strikers, while the unions claim that such is not a fact.

Violence has reigned in the coal regions, no doubt owing to the fact that these bodies are made up largely of foreigners who have brought their foreign ideas to these shores. I am not in touch with the exact conditions in the coal and railroad industries, but I have no doubt there are grievances which are just on both sides. Radical cuts in wages seem to me to be radical, and not called for at this time. Wages in practically all branches of industry have been cut to some extent, but not radically. It is far better for people to receive good wages at this time, for war prices are not forgotten. We are far from getting away from high prices, and in fact many commodities are rising in price, the drop having stopped.

Manufacture of summer footwear for 1922 is over. Shoe manufacturers are now working on fall and winter samples, and the preparations show that a large volume of business is expected. The National Shoe Show recently in Boston brought together the tanner and shoe manufacturer and good results are sure to follow. Letter writing starts something, but to meet and talk, covers the multitude of short comings in the business, and all return to their factories satisfied the tanner is trying to meet the demands of the shoemaker.

What an immense number of white shoes are seen this year, particularly worn by women. Cloth uppers are seen everywhere. Then other fabrics appear in fancy shoes and for summer wear. They have evidently come to stay. Rainy weather raises the dickens with such shoes, but why go out in the rain?

But with all the cloth shoes in existence, the leather shoes must be in the closet for future reference.

Trade tabloids are a medicine for sick tanners that are, or were. "Questionnaire is merely a name for passing the buck. One of the curious things in connection with this matter is that anyone from Edison down propounds a series of riddles, the average reader thinks the fellow who did the asking, knows the answers. The average good citizen who makes a fine living for his family and is an expert in dodging fool fads, hasn't the remotest idea who killed cock robin, struck Billy Patterson or stole Charley Ross. He does not care who made the first mouse trap, ate the first oyster or discovered the immortal truth that it is not a sin to steal an umbrella. We are willing to admit that we do not know the names of the rivers in China or whether they flow up hill or down. It is a sad reflection on our educational system that a man is compelled to spend the second half of his life in trying to forget the inconsequential things crammed into him the first half. We do not know why a chicken crosses the road, or who first told Henry Ford he had a Chinaman's chance to be elected president. There are so many queries which lack answers that the easiest job in the world is asking questions. During many weary months the only live interrogatory has been "How is business" but no one could make a satisfactory answer if the women folks or the parson were hanging around." Shoe and Leather Reporter.

I note that many Republican representatives in Congress have come around and announce they are ready to vote on the tariff bill. Fine. They could have been around long ago, and told by their vote that high tariff at this time is not wanted by the business world. In the leather business the tariff on hides has caused all the natural shocks that leather is heir to. Western states that raise cattle want a tariff no doubt. Little they care what becomes of the hide so long as it brings war prices or near to them. But if this high duty on hides is forced through Congress, leather and shoes wil ladvance in price and we will again purchase one shoe at a time. By we I mean the ordinary every day man who digs for a living. We could go barefooted this weather.

Hunt Rankin Leather Co. are building a new beamhouse. They propose to have one which is the latest in everything pertaining to soaking, liming, unhairing and drenching skins. Labor saving devices will be installed, and while some men will be employed in that beamhouse, the most they will have to do is to watch, that the machinery does the work. This concern thoroughly believes in up-to-date methods which do the work better and cheaper. Making high grade calf leather is an art today, and only a few arrive at that point. To be better than the other fellow today requires all the science of the chemist together with auto sense which is one above the old horse article.

Elliot L. Macdonald, general manager of the L. B. Southwick Co. has purchased the Commodore Club property in the wilds of Maine. There is good fishing, and a golf course is planned. He figures this spot a fine place to rest up for that fall business which he predicts is coming.

BACK TO PRE-WAR NUMBERS
North Shore Colony Greater Than Since 1917

That the North Shore colony is back to pre-war days, with practically every house on the entire North Shore occupied, is indicated by the 1922 edition of Who's Who Along the North Shore, which the editors claim to be the most complete book of information ever published concerning the thousands of people who make up the North Shore colony.

Nearly 11,000 names are listed, of which 4500 are married couples or heads of families, or sons or daughters past the teen age. Children are listed under the names of parents. Persons who are abroad or are away from the North Shore for the whole or part of summer are listed as such.

Names of estates and cottages are sometimes confusing, especially when a family is known only by their name and the name of their estate, with no definite information as to the locality. Who's Who helps solve this situation by listing every estate and cottage by its name, in so far as it has been possible to obtain this information. Fourteen pages of the 340-page book are devoted to this feature.

A general index is also printed in the front of the book which lists everybody in alphabetical order, giving direct reference to the exact page on which their name and information may be found.

The book is published at the North Shore Breeze office in Manchester.

THE NEXT MAYOR

Mayor William A. Shea and Rev. Robert A. Bakeman are officially candidates for election as the Mayor of Peabody next fall. Other candidates may be forthcoming and a dark horse may be placed in the field. Some candidates are jocosely mentioned. The candidacy of the South Peabody clergyman has injected added interest to the coming city primaries and it is certain that he will be a dangerous rival of Mayor Shea who seeks a re-election on his two years of an honest effort to safeguard the interests of the citizens. The flattering vote which Rev. Mr. Bakeman received when he was elected to the school board makes him a potent candidate and his counsel and aid to the members of the Leather Workers Union and efforts to alleviate the distress of many poor people rightly won him supporters where gratitude records itself. The Enterprise has not always agreed with the aggressiveness of Mr. Bakeman but we have a high respect for his bigness of heart and his sincerity. He has been honest in his mistakes and always straightforward. He will add spice to the campaign. Mayor Shea will stand on his record with his old campaign slogan of "short on oratory and long on votes." The custom of reelecting a Mayor will add many votes to the Shea campaign. It ought to be a reasonably close fight between these two candidates and may the "best" man win.

FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL S. HOWARD DONNELL

Our ex-Mayor, District Attorney and fellow towns man, S. Howard Donnell is a candidate for attorney-general. We in Peabody know it, state politicians know it, and those cities and towns in the western part of the state know it, for Howard Donnell has been there and told them something. On his first trip west, large crowds have heard him, and in that part of the state where he is little known. He is arranging another trip in the near future, and a different section will be visited. By fall, he will have covered the state, and we predict the impression made will gain him votes enough to land at the state house. This year the people will evidently choose their candidates in many cases regardless of party. It is one of the years such as we have witnessed in the past, where political unrest upsets predictions. That is why we prophesy that our ex-Mayor will receive votes from both of the big political parties. Knowing his capacity as a campaigner, we know his opponents cannot endure the campaign he will make, for few have that capacity. Coming from Peabody, he will tell of his native city, he will tell of his record, and the way he has, is most convincing. So we feel his chances to be the next attorney-general are of the best. If elected, he will register as a worthy successor to the many able men before him and our city will be benefited.

NEW FOOTBALL COACH

Now that the School Committee has settled on a football coach, we offer our congratulations and predict a bright future for football at Peabody High. Edward N. Brawley of Medford who has been chosen to guide the athletic destinies at Peabody High, comes here with an enviable reputation among high school coaches as a star player on Jim Thorpe's professional eleven, and successful as a coach at New Haven and Brighton, it remains for the boys who are ambitious to play this game to give their best efforts which means Peabody High will have a team able to fight its way to the top of the ladder. Citizens interested in school athletics have in the past contributed liberally toward paying the expenses which naturally are high. We believe the public will stand behind our new coach which means success. When our Charleston friends visit us this fall, we hope and trust they will receive a royal welcome both by hospitality and by a local team which will reverse the result of last fall. We have the coach and we are satisfied the boys will do their part.

WHO'S LOONEY?

One of our main plant men recently bought a small farm in the outskirts of the city, and has been pretty busily engaged in fixing it up. He tells us that he has had to spend all of his time outside of working hours on the place, working evenings until nine and ten o'clock by moonlight at times. One of his little stunts was to dig a well and pipe the water 175 feet into his house, through land so rocky that he often had to bend the pipe in order to get over, under or around a big boulder. "Honest," he told us, "I feel much better now that I have so much work to do than I used to when I did nothing evenings but sit around a smoky lodge room and kick about the way things were going to the dogs. I am happier, healthier and better off in every way."

We don't know but what he's right. Who are the chronic kickers, anyway? Usually those with the most idle time. Busy men have too little to kick about. They are up and doing while the "sidewalk parliament" talk about their "hard luck."—A. C. L., July 15.

Lord God of land and sea,
An ancient faith renew,
That still our stand may be
The trust our fathers knew;
We of the Legion pray, Lord God,
To follow in the way they trod.

What Freedom gave they shared—
The shores that made them free—
With true men brave who dared
The seas for Liberty;
We of the Legion, Lord, would share
Our heritage with them who dare.

In duty done, they wrought
That peace might still abide;
In fear of none, they fought
With right upon their side;
We of the Legion plead for light,
So we be upright in Thy sight.

Not theirs with gyve and chain
To bind the vanquished foe;
Not theirs to strive for gain
From out a people's woe:
We of the Legion under Thee
Would champion Democracy.

One Flag alone they flew,
Nor vain to them its call,
That we might own it true,
The bravest flag of all;
We of the Legion swear to hold
The Flag unsullied, fold and fold.
—Thomas G. Devine, in Kansas City Star.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

FOR THE CHAPERON

Air and manner are more expressive than words.—Richardson.

IF YOU were asked to act as chaperon for a party of young girls and boys would you know just what you ought to do if you undertook that responsibility?

A chaperon need not be married—but when an unmarried chaperon is chosen she should be a person of dignified appearance and of mature years. If the chaperon is married, she need not be accompanied by her husband, even when the party is in the evening; though if you are asking a married woman to perform this service for you you should, of course, include an invitation to her husband also.

If it is a theater party, she should be given the best place. If the guests are seated in a box then she sits in one of the front seats. At a dance a chaperon may dance a few dances, but it would be rather out of keeping with her responsibility to dance all or even the majority of the dances. She need not, of course, watch the young women in the party as if she were a duenna, but she should make a point to be in evidence all through the party. At a small dance the guests who know her should make it a point to present the other young people to her. If she is chaperoning a certain young woman at a larger dance then they should emphatically present their escorts to her. Needless to say, the chaperon always remains until the last guest or dancer has gone. If you do not feel like remaining until the "wee sma' hours" do not accept an invitation to chaperon a dance, for since the war is over dances are continued much later than they have been, and unless the chaperon has been especially enjoined by the parents of her charges, or unless they are very young, she should not object to this late dancing.

One of the most difficult tasks that any chaperon ever has to perform is that of "calling down" one of her charges. Occasionally, of course, some daring young person will indulge in one of the dance steps that are looked upon askance by proper folks. But if the chaperon herself has not danced for a decade or so she must make allowances for the changes that have taken place in the way young persons dance. It is extremely ill-bred to call a dancer down conspicuously. In most cases it is better to wait until the dance is through and the dancers have left the floor and then to make the request for a change in mode of dancing quite confidentially.

THE OPEN DOOR

There is a draughty spot in the Japan
Which would give a cold to any man,
It's beenlike that for many a year,
Tho' the "Safety First"" with vision clear,
They make their rounds and go their way,
And send in their report that it's all O. K.,
But take it from me—Iought to know,
Through "the hole in the wall" the wind doth blow,
And sooner or later—WHO CAN TELL—
We all may dieand go to ——
JAMES C. WALSH.

ROUND ABOUT

The George H. Jacobs Co. are observing their 40th anniversary. No more popular or better storekeeper existed than was George H. Jacobs, who served his Peabody patrons well and often. He had a way of keeping his store and wares always attractive, and his successors long trained by this man keeps the store as ever. George H. Jacobs had many other stores during his long life as a store keeper, but his home store received a large part of his attention.

We note that labor is now 75 per cent employed. From all we can glean that percentage is higher in Peabody. The leather business has taken a decided change for the better.

* * *

St. John's field day was a big success in every way. The O'Shea grounds are well fitted for an occasion of this kind, and all connected with this outing are deserving of much credit.

We note Dennis D. O'Connor has returned from Ireland, where he has spent several weeks visiting relatives. Coming here a poor boy, he has climbed the ladder of success, being one of the trusted foremen at the L. B. Southwick Co. plant. We do not know whether Dennis was athletic when younger, but we do know his sons carry fame to the family from this source.

A copy of the South Wizard in our possession gives Peabody as it was in 1864. There is so much interesting from a historical standpoint that space will not care for it. Charles D. Howard who built the house recently sold, but was occupied by the Universalist minister, was editor of this paper for many years. It has changed many times until today the Enterprise holds forth as its successor. This paper dated December 28, 1864, is quaint as to advertisements, but store keepers advertised then fully as much as today, but in a smaller way.

One ad caught the eye as follows—John Maguire requests all persons having ale casks from his establishment to return them immediately to his store No. 8 Derby Square, Salem. Expressmen and carriers will please take notice. Ale casks are worth more than diamonds, and some one is blamed.

Some of us may imagine that the income tax is something invented recently but in 1864 in the Wizard is published a list of incomes after living expenses, taxes and insurance are taken out. Eben Sutton heads the list with $24,000, followed by Stephen Blaney, Abel Proctor, Rufus Brown, John Pindar and a score of others.

Advertising obituary from the Wizard. Died on the 11 instant at his shop 20 Greenwich street, Edward Jones, much respected by all who knew and dealt with him. As a man he was amiable; as a hatter, upright and moderate. His virtues were beyond all price and his beaver hats were only three dollars each. He has left a widow to deplore his loss, and a large stock to be sold cheap for the benefit of the family. He was snatched to the other world in the prime of life just as he had concluded an extensive purchase of felt which he got so cheap that his widow can supply hats at a more reasonable rate than any other house in the city. His disconsolate family will carry on the business with punctuality.

William F. Carlin is to improve the property at Lowell and Church streets by stores on the ground floor and tenements above. This will complete the line of stores to the court house, and help to make this part of Lowell street a business district.

The blueberries are being coraled by Assessors Pat Sheehy and Frank Bomer in immense quantities. Mr. Bomer recently brought back three bushels of blue berries many the size of marbles. This is the banner year for blueberries, with Bomer and Sheehy leading the procession.

Peabody has salt water on its borders at the Salem Golf Club and in the rear of Andover street. A fine place for a public swimming pool.

Registrar of Probate, Horace H. Atherton has issued another edition of a "hand book of information" relating to probate court matters, a copy of which was gratefully received by the Enterprise this week. It is filled with data of interest to the layman and bound to be a valuable guide. Atty. Atherton's newspaper training has made him an excellent official in his present position which he can have just as long as he elects to hold the job. Mr. Atherton is fortunate in having such a capable ally with him in Clarence Brown of Danvers, who knows probate procedure backwards. This pair of executives make an ideal team.

The authorities will make a test case of money recipts at Sunday base ball games. In most of the games in the larger cities the players are through playing baseball for fun, years ago. Therefore if the public want the talent some way must be provided to pay the bills.

Protection Through State Supervision

The Co-operative Bank idea is sound. Also Massachusetts banking laws are thorough and efficient.

The share holder in this bank is not dependent on the voluntary honesty of its officers. His savings, when placed here are safeguarded by state regulations that make assurance doubly sure.

If you are not a share holder you ought to be. Investigate now.

AFTERMATH OF THE WAR

Back in 1914 a group of ten Russians left the Pigskin tannery in order to join the Russian army, and one of them, Stephen Mitulinsky, was shortly after heard from as being a prisoner in the Austrian camp. For five years nothing was heard from him, and his brother Mike of the Pigskin department had the company start tracing him through Congressman Phelan and the Red Cross without any success. Mike had just about given his brother up for lost when the other day he received a letter from him, in which he stated among other things that since leaving the army he had been married and become a family man, with one child already. We are glad to hear that our old employe is safe, sound and happy.

Miss Ellen Robert of South Weymouth has been visiting Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Templin of Lynn street, for the past two weeks.

The Bartholomew Building association held a business meeting Tuesday evening at Davis hall. The following officers were elected: President, Albert Hardy; vice president, Wilbur Smith; secretary, Mrs. Jennie Court; treasurer, Mrs. May Smith.

A. C. Davis and family of Bartholomew street have gone to Northwood, N. H., for the summer.

Mrs. Leslie Swan and two children are at Ossipee, N. H., at the Foss summer cottage.

Miss Eileen Tucker of Beverly is spending a week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tucker, of County street.

Norman Hughes of Meredith, N. H., is visiting his cousin, Howard Batchelder, for a few weeks.

Pearce Francis of Portland, Me., spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. Charles Parker.

The Camp Fire Girls of the Lake Shore Park church held a lawn party at Mrs. Bowman's on Broadway, Monday night. The grounds had been decorated with Japanese lanterns and bunting. The night was ideal for an occasion of this kind and the booths were well partonized. Ice cream, tonic, candy and frankfurts were sold, and a fortune teller told the future for a small piece of silver. A pleasing entertainment was given. The party netted around $50 for their vacation trip. Miss Gladys Kennedy is guardian.

Rev. Thomas Burns, a former pastor of the Lake Shore Park church started Tuesday for a trip to England. He was accompanied by two other brothers, Rev. Mr. Burns has not been to his former home for 13 years and he expects to be gone until September 1.

The E. R. C. held a cobweb party at the Lake Shore Park church, Wednesday evening. The proceeds are to be used for a proposed camping trip this summer.

A barn dance is to be held at Davis' barn on Barthlomew street next Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Bartholomew Improvement association. An orchestra will furnish music for dancing and suitable prizes will be given for the best costumes.

Rev. Gustave Stanley of Lynn will supply the Lake Shore Park church pulpit Sunday morning and also at the evening service. Wm. Duestrom will have charge of the prayer meeting this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Newhall and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith took a 350 mile auto trip around the White Mountains last Saturday and Sunday, camping at Newfound Lake Saturday night.

Mrs. George Driscoll and twin daughters of Jamaica Plain have been visiting friends in South Peabody.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eade and children start tomorrow for a two weeks' vacation at Yarmouth, Me.

W. C. Nichols, Sr., of Lowell spent Sunday with his son, W. C. Nichols, Jr., of Winnegance avenue.

Sewso club met with Mrs. Agnes Ripley, Tucker's Court, Monday evening. The meeting proved to be a surprise party on Mrs. Ripley. As it was her birthday the members all remembered her with birthday gifts. Next Monday the members are planning a trip to Lynn beach to enjoy the bathing and Miss Marion Newhall has offered to take any of the members in her auto.

Residents along Lynnfield street appreciate the late car which leaves the Square at 10.40 every evening. Before this week the people had to walk from the junction of Lynn and Lynnfield streets, except Saturday night. This is one step toward better service.

The Ship Rock Sewing club met with Mrs. Mabel Begg, Lynn street, last Thursday night, in honor of her birthday. A dainty lunch was served during the evening. Mrs. Begg was presented with a bouquet of pinks. The meetings will be discontinued until September.

The past ministers of the South Peabody church certainly have a desire to visit old acquaintances here as three ministers have been visiting friends within the past week. Rev. Israel Ainsworth, who preached here about 30 years ago visited one day. He is at Beachmont at the present time. Rev. William Warren took part in the Sunday morning services. He is 82 years old and drove his auto from Beverly all alone. He was pastor at Dighton until recently, when he resigned on account of Mrs. Warren's failing health. He lives with his daughter in Beverly. Rev. Herbert Walker of Holbrook also made a few calls here last Saturday.

Miss Evelyn Brown, Jack Cooley and Jonathan Brown motored to East Alton, N. H., Saturday. They visited Rev. Robert Bakeman's summer home, where Mrs. Brown has been visiting for the past week. As it was Miss Evelyn's birthday, a party was enjoyed. A large birthday cake adorned the table with a "few" lighted candles, in her honor. They returned Sunday night.

The local baseball fans are anticipating a great game tonight on the Community field. This will be the championship of the season. High street vs. All Stars, who have the highest scores in the Twilight league. The league has been very successful and has given the people in this community a great many evenings of enjoyment.

Rotary Will Give 200 Kids Auto Picnic

Chester Bent, manager of the Strand theatre will be the speaker before the Peabody Rotary club next Tuesday noon on his classification of "Movies," and the George Cohan of Peabody is expected to give intimate glimpses behind the scenes of the great film industry. Chet is recently back from Nova Scotia where he spent his vacation in Anapolic valley.

Vice- president George A. Blaney will have as his guest Charles O. Bailey of Groveland, executive of the state board and he is down for a few remarks also. Vice-president Blaney is to preside at the meeting Tuesday in the absence of president Joseph E. Noyes, who with the secretary Rogers Crehore will attend the District Governor's conference in Salem that day. Judge Hill the chief of the 31st district which takes in Maine, New Hampshire and most of this state will outline his year's program. The attendance contest shows the "Catchus" team in the lead with almost 90 per cent. Phil O'Rourke is captain of this team and Mark Kelley is leader of the "Gogetters" team.

Chairman T. Henry Millea of the committee in charge of the auto ride and picnic for 200 poor children has called a meeting tonight at the Elks' home to perfect plans. A number of women have been invited to assist in the plans and citizens are urged to donate their autos on August 9 for the transportation and outing of the kiddies.

Already a large number of autos have been pledged. The playground instructors, officers of charitable organizations will be asked to supply the list of children for the outing.

It is planned to take children from five years to 10 on the trip and there will be a chance for mothers to go also.

Philadelphia, Pa. — An orphans' home for children of world war veterans will be built by the Pennsylvania American Legion. A survey is now being made to ascertain the number of children for whom accommodations must be made.

The "Kid Corporal," John Shoemaker, of Phoenix, Arizona, has put over another knock out. This time the lad who enlisted in the army at the age of 14 and served months with the A. E. F., has received a presidential appointment to West Point. A school boy when the world war started, Shoemaker, somehow, evaded the sharp questionings of a recruiting officer and enlisted as a member of a machine gun company, 54th Infantry, and with the outfit two years. His home was in New Jersey before the war. His West Point appointment followed a campaign by the Pheonix American Legion and Major Claude Decatur Jones, under whom Shoemaker took special courses in military tactics.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The S. S. "President Pierce" will carry 200 members of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary to France, sailing from New York, August 5. The party of former service men, their wives, sisters and mothers will tour France, England and Belgium, returning September 8, via Montreal. A few receptions and public affairs have been arranged in the chief cities to be visited but these will not in any way interfere with the personal business or pleasure of any member of the party. Detailed information concerning the trip may be obtained from "Second Annual Eupropean Pilgrimage," c-o The American Legion Weekly, 627 W. 43rd St., New York City.

Albany, N. Y.—Only 2,500 of the 5,000 world war veterans believed to be eligible for aid have applied for it under the recently passed New York state law which sets aside $1,000,000 for disabled and unemployed veterans. The state authorities have asked the American Legion to bring the act to the attention of its members in order that as many needy men as possible may benefit.

* * *

Washington, D. C.—Declaring his claim for disability was disregarded by the U. S. Veterans Bureau, Garland E. Carr, colored world war veteran at Washington, D. C., bored a hole through a wall of the building in which the Washington bureau is housed, stuffed paper into the room and then touched a match to it. He wanted to destroy the bureau's records, he said. He is being held for mental examination.

Washington, D. C.—For the first time since the United States declared war, the flag of the German Republic was displayed from the German Embassy at Washington, July 4.

Omaha, Neb. — Forty Nebraska world war veterans, decorated by the American and allied governments for extraordinary heroism, will be the guests of honor at the convention of the state American Legion posts to be held in York, Neb., Sept. 18-20.

New York City.—Under a modification of the New York Veterans' Relief Act, dependents of disabled ex-service men in hospitals are eligible to $15 a month benefit if the veteran is being maintained in the hospital by the Government.

St. Paul, Minn.—Disabled world war veterans who have taken up homesteads on a 3,500 acre tract of land in Minnesota have refused to accept the Government's suggestion that the various plots be named for the great battles of the world war. "Our wounds and ailments are sufficient to remind us of our experiences," they say.

New Orleans, La.—Several thousand Iowa Legionnaires will come to the national American Legion convention next October in five special trains, according to a representative of the Iowa department, who visited New Orleans to make arrangements for parking fifty-seven Pullman cars in which the Iowans will live while in the Southern city.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Former service men in Pennsylvania have received $40,000 in claims from the Government during the last month through the efforts of the Pennsylvania American Legion.

New York City.—A special board of inquiry has proclaimed Julian N. Stahischmidt, a hero. He was killed when he tried to stop a runaway tank during the American Legion's Memorial Day parade in New York. A medal in recognition of his valor has been presented to his mother.

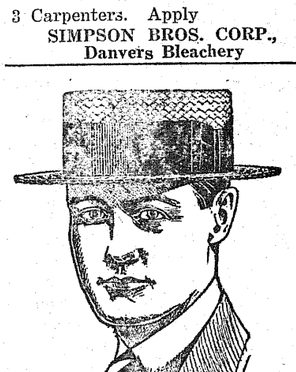
Philadelphia, Pa.—A hero of the world war, five times wounded at Chateau Thierry, but without work and with no prospect of Government compensation to which he was entitled, Daniel Webster of Philadelphia, Pa., committed suicide and would have been buried in Potter's field had not the American Legion given him a decent burial.

BIG MIDWAY FOR A. O. H. FIELD DAY

The A. O. H. lawn party committee are perfecting arrangements for the annual event of the divison which is to be held at the O'Shea grounds on Thursday evening, August 10th.

The Ladies' Auxiliary have taken hold and are assisting the committee in their usual capable manner.

William F. Carlin speaks for the midway attractions and he promises a large and varied line of amusements for young and old.



The trip to Ireland which will be given away on the grounds will be enjoyed by some party who probably is longing to see the "old sod" once again and who will thank the A. O. H. while enjoying the cool breezes of the Atlantic.

The music committee have made arrangements with Gove's band of Lynn, who have promised to give the best music ever heard in this city. The next meeting o fthe committee will be held on Sunday at 10.30. All members are requested to attend.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

JUSTICE SERVICE CO-OPERATION

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

THE NATION'S SAVINGS

Last week in New York I was invited to lunch at a downtown club on the forty-second story of a sky-scraper. We were above most of the other tall buildings. Only the Woolworth Building and the Singer Tower were higher than we were, and the top of Trinity Church spire seemed far below.

As I looked down upon the accumulation of money, time, labor, invention, represented by the thousands of buildings spread out like a map below me, and then thought of the hundreds of other cities in these United States, the thousands of miles of railroads, the docks and shipping, the farms and factories, I couldn't help wondering at the tremendous thrift of our people. Al lthis wealth saved up in about 150 years. $350,000,000,000 worth of capital which is being used by the people. A wonderful result accomplished by a wonderful nation.

For our capital is nothing but stored up energy. The savings of the nation beyond what we have used up in our living. The real capital of a nation is the united spirit and energy of its manhood and womanhood. A great war, or fire, or earthquake may destroy our cities, even entirely destroy a big city like New York, but so long as the energy of its people remains uncrushed its material capital will be rebuilt.

See Belgium today. She was invaded, despoiled, her capital in large part swept away, worse than all with her population reduced and the remnant worn out; but the uncrushed spirit of Belgium has been used to such advantage that her industries are now restored, her credit is the best in Europe, her people are prospering again. The spirit and the "will to work" of a nation is it spiritual capital.

As I write these lines my capital is at work. It is the stored up energy of certain years of thought, of training, of study, of experience and experiment. It is a tool I use in my trade as I use my fountain pen. The brain and power and the pen are both stored up energy which is perfectly useless without labor,—the labor of writing. The stored up thought of a man is his mental savings. His mental capital.

Capital is not always money. It is very seldom money. The savings of many, many people have built up the capital used in our industries. This is in buildings, raw materials, machinery, partly finished goods, railroads, docks, harbors, ships. All things we can see. Besides these are some things we cannot see; credit, patent rights, amounts due for goods sold, goodwill, reputation, management. All these are more valuable than money.

Capital that we see is the stored up energy of the labor of body and the labor of brain of human beings. Of multitudes of men and women daily storing up through the years some part of their labors. Then it is true that multitudes should enjoy the results of that labor. Certainly. They do. Look around you and see. Schools, roads, railroads trolley lines, the Post Office, banks,—all used and enjoyed by all the people. The saved energy in a factory gives an "opportunity to work" to thousands and thousands. Many lives are supported by the savings of the nation properly used. The Indians who roamed this country before the white man came had all the opportunity to set up a civilization and accumulate capital that we have. Why didn't they? They were ignorant. They lived from day to day. They never learned how to save.

The beginnings of this storing up are always very small. You remember how Robinson Crusoe on his desert island began to store up some of his food. As soon as he did this he had time to build for himself a hut or house as a shelter from the weather. This was the beginning of his capital. Stored up labor. Stored up brain work and body work. Then he soon made a boat, a garden, a whole lot of capital.

Now some people think that when there is trouble, when a war, or a fire, or a strike occurs and property is destroyed that more work is made for more people. Not so. It is as though Robinson Crusoe's house had been burned. Capital is lost. The work has all to be done over again. Progress is stopped. Civilization is put back. A factory burned in Peabody is a loss to everybody. It is as though every person's savings bank account had been cut down a little. Everybody loses something. Every mine shut down today is a direct loss to you and me. The work which should be going on must go on bye and bye. The Nation's savings are stopped. Civilization is put back.

We are no longer thinking of capital with a big C. We are thinking of capital as an expression of civilization that we are all using and enjoying. The trouble we are trying to correct in our readjustment today does not come from capital; it comes in distributing among ourselves the rewards of our daily work. How can we do this with Justice? Think it over. We are trying to learn how to think straight. Capitalist, Worker, Manager. We are trying to learn Co-operation and Service. We are. We shall learn some day. Meantime it depends upon the individual. Who is this individual? You. And me.

WHY? IS THE SKY BLUE

AFTER astronomers and scientists of various kinds had puzzled over this apparently simple question for many hundreds of years, Prof. John Tyndall, a famous scholar of the last century, solved the mystery with the following explanation:

Sunlight is pure white light, made up of rays of the seven primary colors which are seen in the rainbow—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet. The sky, which is really the air which surrounds the earth, is filled with myriads of tiny specks or particles of matter which absorb some of the colors in the rays of sunlight and reflect others—forming the combination which we have come to know as "sky blue." The variations in shade of this blue is due to the fact that the atmosphere is filled with different densities of these dust-particles at different times and also to the varying angles at which the sunlight strikes upon them. After a rain, however, the air is washed comparatively clear and the sky then appears at its true blue which we are accustomed to associate with it. If one could penetrate outside the shell of air which surrounds the earth, the "sky," instead of being blue, would appear to be pure white because there would be nothing to impede the direct rays of the white sunlight.

"SHALL I TRAVEL?"

SOMETIMES the mount of the moon, or Luna, bears a large number of horizontal lines, in addition to the vertical lines of travel. If these horizontal lines cross the face of the mount and reach the line of fate, the journeys undertaken by the subject have been or will be longer and more important than those indicated by the short, heavy, vertical lines on the same mount. But the travels, in this case, may be within the subject's own country and not outside its boundaries.

When the horizontal lines enter the line of fate and travel upward with it, they show voyages that will benefit the subject materially. But when the end of any of these horizontal lines droops or curves downward toward the wrist, the voyage has been or will be unsuccessful. Lines that ascend, no matter how short a distance, indicate successful voyages. When one of these horizontal lines crosses another, the voyage will be repeated, for some important reason. If such a line bears a square, danger is indicated, but the subject is protected from misfortune.

Library Has Added Many New Books

Some of the worth while books added to the Library are:

The Friendly Artic. The story of five years in Polar regions. By Vilhjalmur Stefansson, author of "My Life With the Eskimo." Illustrated with maps and full-page plates, chiefly reproductions of photographs. A story of exploration, of geographic and scientific discovery, of human skill and endurance in unforeseen situations; of the thrill of strange places; the beauty and interest and friendliness of the far North.

Letters and Journals of Thomas Wentworth Higginson, 1846-1906. Edited by Mary Thacher Higginson. With a frontispiece portrait. In these letters and journals Col. Higginson tells his own life-story in a way that will ensure for the book a prominent place among notable American autobiographical literature.

Aspects and Impressions. By Edmund Gosse, C.B., author of "Father and Son," etc. A new volume of essays, estimates, and appreciations by Mr. Gosse is a literary event. In these delightful papers the English Sainte-Beuve is at his best. He covers a wide range of subjects. George Eliot, Henry James, Swinburne, "Erewhon" Butler—such is the diversity of the English topics he has chosen from the last century alone.

The Way to Will-Power. By Henry Hazlitt, author of "Thinking As a Science," etc. This a book dealing with the plain man's problems in a realistic, straightforward manner. It is a straightforward, direct and helpful little book along the same lines as the author's previous volume, "Thinking As a Science."

The New Heavens. By George Ellery Hale, Director of Mt. Wilson Observatory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. With illustrations. Dr. Hale has written a summary of the latest achievements in astronomy in clear, unscientific language for the general reader. The new one-hundred inch telescope at Mt. Wilson and the application of the spectroscope have brought many new factors into the determination of the dimensions and composition of celestial bodies.

GIRLS HANDICRAFTS

A Hundred Things a Girl Can Make. By Bonnie E. Snow and Hugo B. Froehlich. Profusely illustrated. The average girl is bound to do something with her fingers. These Hundred Things a Girl Can Make will suggest new fields for her activity and will bring to the youthful worker some realization of the meaning of "joy in the doing." With this book at hand many attractive articles for use and decoration can be easily made. Nor will they be like the products created by anyone else. Articles of felt, cardboard, paper, wood, as well as painted things, and needle work, are clearly described in the making, with illustrations of the finished product, and diagrams showing the various steps of the operation.

Medical Etiquette.

"Stay at home with your cold," says a physician. But, doctor, it is such infernally disagreeable company.—Boston Transcript.

Suckers, Swindlers, Detectives.

The funny part of it is that a mere sucker can locate a swindler when the most skilled detectives are baffled.—Erie Times.

Wallace Reid, Headliner At Strand This Evening

WALLACE REID

ANITA STEWART

How a racing car, speeding over the highway at lightning pace, is thrown from the road and ditched, or otherwise hampered, blockaded or held up in its race for victory, is shown in several sequences in Wallace Reid's new Paramount auto race picture "Across the Continent," which will be the main attraction on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday.

Walter Long, Lucien Littlefield, and Betty Francisco, play a family of villians,—father, son and daughter, in this picture. They compose the rival faction in a cross-continental race wherein Wallace Reid, as Jimmie Dent, drives a much ridiculed "flivver" manufactured by his father, played by popular Theodore Roberts, to victory, finishing ahead of all contestants. Seeing the progress of the little car, the unscrupulous rival manufacturer, through his agents, resorts to all sorts of trickery to stop the little car in its dash to victory.

One of the stunts employed consists of setting fire to a long stretch of straw on a sandy roadway. Another is to dig deep ruts in the road and curve them so that they will land the wheels of a fast car off into the ditch at the side. Another is the seemingly accidental blockade of a highway tunnel by a huge truck from which a wheel has been taken.

This was intended, in the story, to hold up and delay the winning car until the car entered by the rival faction could catch up. But Wally Reid driving the "flivver" racer, thwarts the plans of the villians by turning off and driving through the railway tunnel, emerging therefrom just in time to escape the fast mail which pursues him through the tunnel. Mary MacLaren is the leading woman, while Theodore Roberts is great in his role. Another big attraction for the today is Ben Turpin's new comedy "Bright Eyes." Mr. Turpin, the cross-eyed comedian, has gotten together a number of new gags which are laugh producers. George Walsh in "With Stanley in Africa" rounds out the program for today.

Bebe Daniels in "The Speed Girl" will top the double feature bill Manager Chet Pent will offer for Sunday evening. Miss Daniels ability to handle a car has been the means of getting her into considerable trouble. The story is taken from her experiences in the Court room for speeding. Alice Calhoun in "Peggy Puts It Over" will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

Johnnie Hines in "Burn 'Em Up Barnes" and "Spanish Jade," a Paramount production starring David Powell, Evelyn Brent and Marc McDermott, will be the double feature bill for Monday and Tuesday. In order to get the proper atmosphere for "Spanish Jade," Paramount sent a special company of players and directors over to Spain. The settings are beautiful and mark the first time a picture has been taken by an Americna company on Spanish soil.

The SANDMAN STORY

MR. FOX SPOILS PARTY

OLD Mr. Drake waddled down to the pond one morning, and seeing a boat nearby, made up his mind that as he had been swimming for a long time he would take life easy; so he hopped into the boat and called to the Ducks on the pond to come along.

"I will be the captain," explained old Mr. Drake, "and you youngsters can be the crew. I do not mean to work any more, for why should I swim when I can sail about the pond in a boat?"

He hopped into the boat

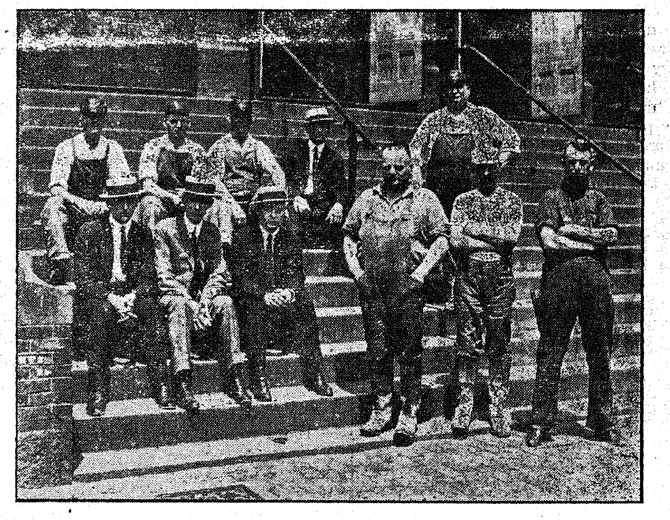
In a few minutes he had all the Ducklings on the pond in the boat, and a stiff breeze sprang up just then, and away he went, bobbing over the pond as the wind waves hit the boat.

Now, it happened that Mr. Fox was hidden among the bushes by the bank on the opposite side of the pond, watching for the Ducks that he was sure would be swimming about, and when the wind blew the boat, with the captain and his crew, to that side Mr. Fox could hardly wait quietly, so sure was he of having a feast.

"A whole boatload of young Ducklings!" thought hungry Mr. Fox. "Whoever was in such luck before? I would not bother with old Mr. Drake, but how I wish I had a dozen mouths and paws! I could have Ducklings for dinner for a week!"

Mr. Fox grew hungrier every second, and when the boat touched the bank, without waiting to find out if the Ducks were going to get out of it, he made a spring for the boat, expecting to land right in the midst of the Ducklings.

But alas and alack for all well-laid plans!—they often go awry; and so it was with the well-laid plan which Mr. Fox had, for when he struck the boat, out flew all the Ducks, and even old Captain Drake was as spry as the others. Fright made him forget his old age, and he flapped his wings and away he swam.



And where do you think Mr. Fox was all this time? Under the boat, trying to get free, for he hit the side and over it went, with him under it. After a while he managed to swim out, and there, far off in the distance, Mr. Fox saw his dreamed-of dinners.

It was no use to swim after them, for they were close to the bank, and he knew that the farmer's gun might put an end to his ever again being hungry if he was seen near the farm, so he swam for the bank and sadly walked toward home, a hungrier but a wiser fellow.

"A duck on land is worth more than a boatful," thought Mr. Fox, "and if I should meet one this minute here in the woods, even if it was tough old Mr. Drake, I would like to see it get away."

National Leather Crew Biggest Hit By Exhibit

THE MEN WHO SHOWED 'EM HOW LEATHER IS MADE:

Lower row—Clarence Long, ironer and utility man; John Church, Asst. Supt., National Calfskin Co.; John Wilkins, soaks, liming and raw stock; Urgel Archambeault, fleshing machine operator and short hair beamster; Alfred Dragon, long hair beamster and cheeking machine operator; Maurice Quinn, mechanic and electrician.

The A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. was very much in evidence at the big Shoe & Leather Exposition held in Mechanics Building, Boston last week, two separate exhibits being entered. One of these displays was of finished leather, with A. C. L. salesmen in attendance, and was right at the main entrace to the big hall, where it received 100 per cent. attention from the big crowds in attendance. The other exhibit was one of the most novel and instructive demonstrations at the exposition, and consisted of a model tannery in operation, nearly every process of manufacture being carried on under the eyes of the spectators by employes of the National Calfskin Co., under the direction of Assistant Supt. Lester F. Peabody and Dana Harding. The exhibit was planned, constructed and demonstrated from start to finish by Peabody people who deserve all kinds of praise for the manner in which they carried out the idea of showing the public the processes of leather making.

WHAT THE PEABODY KIDDIES ARE DOING ON PLAYGROUNDS

The East End baseball team coached by Instructor Crean is leading in the playground league with the Wallis a close second.

Wednesday afternoon of this week the children from six of the eight playgrounds met at Emerson Park and enjoyed games and contests with their playmates from other parts of the city on this visiting day. The feature of the afternoon was the exhibition ball game between the East End and the South Peabody baseball teams. The game was closely contested and interesting throughout, the East End boys winning 5-0. Tony Wabliski was the star at the bat and in the field for the Tast End, while MasGregor of the South Peabody team on the mound gave a fine exhibition of pitching.

Instructor McCarthy of the Bleachery is ill with a cold and will be absent for a few days. The Bleachery will play their game on Friday under the leadership of their captain.

Marion Gill and Katherine Dolski have ddone some fine embroidery work and Catherine McCarthy has completed a sweater under the supervision of Miss Grace O'Keefe.

Marjorie Smith, Hazel Hetherington, Ruth Rich, Ruth Evans and Marjorie MacGregor of the Samuel Brown playground are making a creditable showing in dressmaking.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

WHO WANTS TO KNOW

IF YOU are sincere in your desire to know how to achieve, how to make yourself worthy of the highest confidence and thus become competent to hold a place above the ordinary, you will lose no time in acquiring the necessary knowledge.

You will not waste a single hour in idleness or unproductive effort, the basic cause of disappointments and failure.

You will go to your task seriously with unyielding determination to win.

In your pursuit, which in a little while will have become an exhilarating pleasure, you will discover that all the men and women who are holding the prominent places did in the beginning of their careers just what you are doing.

They squandered no time in the foolish chase of rainbows, choosing instead the companionship of wise counsellors and the perusal in their spare time of instructive books, seeking truths and principles upon which they could build a substantial foundation for the erection of their life-work.

They tossed the chaff to the winds and stored with utmost prudence the golden grain.

The greatest men of today, the conspicuous leaders in the professions, the arts and the crafts, struggled hard in their youth to get a foothold upon the hills. They knew what they were seeking and never relinquished their high purpose or slackened their pace, though they often slipped and went to bed hungry.

Their experiences with the world gave them an understanding of men and affairs with a fullness impossible otherwise.

Their present wealth, power and influence are envied by the thoughtless, who sneeringly talk among themselves of "chance" and "luck," those misnomers for work and pluck.

Being envied is a high distinction.

And this is especially true when it is obvious that the real cause of envy is based on the admitted ignorance and regret of men and women who covet distinction but invariably lack courage to take a place in the front and bear the brunt of battle.

The youths of the present who want to know, who are brushing aside obstacles, who are exerting every effort to learn, will in the future be found among the foremost workers and thinkers in the world's great activities, simply because they have with their resolute hearts the spirit and faith, without which no man or woman can hope to win a glorious name.

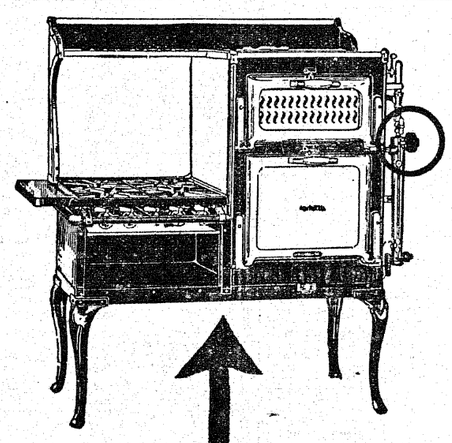
WAKEFIELD PLAYS HERE ON SUNDAY



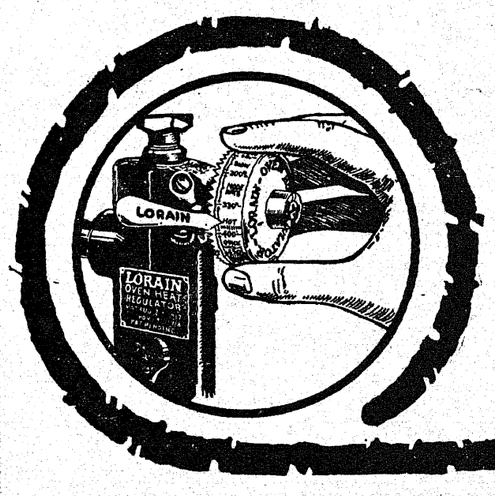
Manager Jack Devaney of Peabody's fast going town team will exhibit his warriors at Marblehead tomorrow afternoon against the crack Headers, and Ernie Gourley the southpaw twirler is expected to bring home the bacon. Ernie has been giving the best kind of ball and with the team playing a unit behind him the contest tomorrow ought to be the best show the Head team has given the fans.

The Sunday bill here at Emerson Park will be the Wakefield K. of C. team which has been counting victories and is capable of putting up a stiff argument. Peabody will probably pitch Davidson, and with the Tanners in back of him hitting 'em free the Peabody team ought to nail another game to its long list of triumphs.

Twilight League

South Peabody ball fans will have the contest of the season tonight when the High Streets and the All Stars come together at the Community playground. Both teams are in first place for the championship and inside baseball will probably count the winner tonight.

Use this beautiful new "Lorain-equipped" Gas Range in Your Own Kitchen for Thirty Days Free of Charge



REMEMBER that this 30 day FREE Trial and Home Demonstration is the Greatest Stove-Offer Ever Made

This Is Your LAST CHANCE

WE'VE got to call a halt sometime on this remarkable stove offer. So we've decided to make this the last week. Where can there be a housewife who doesn't want a stove that will cook without watching—that will make her canning so easy that it becomes a near-pleasure—a gas range that will bake her bread, biscuits, roast, cake, or pudding more delicious than ever, while she's upstairs, downstairs—or cook a whole meal while she's miles away?.

Don't Let This Chance Go By

And now, you can try this wonderful new invention in your own kitchen for thirty days free of charge. It will cost you nothing to have your old stove disconnected—to have the "Lorain-equipped" range you select connected—to have a trained expert call and demonstrate the new and wonderful things that can be done on this range. And, it will cost you nothing to have your old stove replaced if you don't want the new one after using it for four whole weeks.

WHY do we do this? Why has no other stove manufacturer ever made a similar offer? Why? Just because a "Lorain-equipped" gas range is the only kind ever invented that enables the housewife to keep the gas at a selected fixed temperature for ANY length of time.

This Stove Can't Go Wrong

You might buy any other make of stove—the best that money can purchase. But, if it didn't have a heat regulator on it you never could control the oven heat. If not hot enough, or too hot, that favorite cake your husband and the kiddies like so well just wouldn't be good—couldn't be good. And that's the reason stoves without heat regulators have never been sold on trial. You had "lucky" days, and "unlucky" days, all because your oven heat was never twice alike. Therefore, no stove manufacturer dared to issue an assurance against baking troubles.

New Process Stoves With
LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR

Just One More Week

Just one more week to get one of these wonderful stoves into your own kitchen for four weeks' free trial. Our stock is fast being depleted, but if we haven't the exact size and type you want, we'll accept your order anyway (if received this week), and have a range sent direct from the factory. You can't afford to miss this opportunity. Plan your shopping trip for tomorrow—and put this store at the top of your list.

West Peabody Has Strong Team With Deke Kelley On the Mound

Peabody's premier ball game for tomorrow afternoon will be that of the West Peabody team and Harris Prep. of Salem and a big crowd of fans will go uptown to see the big show. The West Peabody team has for its battery Deke Kelley and Bill Osgood. Kelley was second edition of Davies in his high school days and he's a better pitcher by far today. Ralph Barr is on first base, Gib Clothey at short, Frank Skinner 3b, and Bob Millbury at the pivot station. In the outfield are such world beaters as Roy Gourley, Frank Dennis and Cecil Young.

Had Sawyer who delivered the goods while coach for Peabody High at practically no salary has the West Peabody lads in tow and he has made a wonderful team out of them. They have dropped just one game so far this season and that 2 to 1 to the Mack Park Stars. Kelley held the Macks hitelss for seven innings when he had to retire. The game will start at 3 sharp.

Rum Runners Held Active On Turnpike

ed what the lighted office in City Hall building was and when told it was the police station wanted to know if the "cops" were very brave?

The man at the wheel was a second edition of "Gyp the Blood," according to Manager Hogan and his fellow companion, dressed in the fashion of Broadway appeared equally skilled in the lore of banditry or rum-running. Their car was a Lozier.

Shortly after the New Jersey car departed from the local garage another automobile drove up in quest of gas and the driver of this machine told Manager Hogan that he had witnessed what he believed were two hold ups on the Turnpike. He declared he was so sure that two men were in the act of robbing a man whose machine appeared close by that he stepped on his gas and tore away from the scene. He was certain he saw shining revolvers. This man known to Manager Hogan asked the latter to lend him a gun.

Report of the holdups got to the local police and the night officers are said to have been on the lookout for suspicious auto drivers. No arrests resulted however. There is a report today that a strange two masted schooner anchored close to Salem late last night and it is believed to have been a rum-running vessel loaded with wet good from the West Indies. Instead of holdups a suspicion attaches that the rum runners are making free access to Peabody highways and the presence of the New Jersey machine and the strange actions of its occupants is additional suspicion that they were engaged in the illegal rum traffis. The New Jersey machine went back in the direction of West Peabody.

Hunt Rankin Outing July 29 At Centennial

Employes of the Hunt-Rankin factory will hold their annual outing at Centennial Grove next week Saturday with an interesting program of sports. The committee is headed by Joseph P. Sousa, as chairman; Malcolm Shaw and Joseph Sullivan. The feature of the outing will be a ball game for blood between the factory team and one made up from the employes at the Boston office of the big leather concern. Guy LeCain, former stellar P. H. S. pitcher, will be on the mound for the factory nine and will captain the team. There will be a three legged race, tug-of-war and running races. Prizes will be awarded the winners of the sports.

Colored Rookie: "I'd lahk to have a new pair o' shoes, suh!"

Sergeant: "Are your shoes worn out?"

Funeral of Mrs. Auen

for the husband, parents and family of the deceased. Mrs. Auen was rushed to the hospital last Monday following a brief illness and the operation was Tuesday morning. The couple were married on May 4 last and had established a pretty home in Danvers.

Mr. Auen, the husband, is one of the best known employes of the A. C. L. Co. He served overseas and had the distinction during the war service of being the only Peabody man who had ever seen the Kaiser. He had seen the deposed war lord in Norway a few years before the great conflict. Mr. Auen is a 32d degree Mason and an officer of Jerdan lodge.

Irving Blake, brother of the dead girl, was the first Peabody boy to reach France in the war, being a member of the division that accompanied Gen. Pershing. There are four brothers and five sisters left to mourn the loss of their oldest sister, who was an altogether charming girl, sweet mannered and deservedly popular among all her many friends. She was for some years employed at the main office of the A. C. L. Co. of which her father is fire marshal.

Would Tear Up Wash St. Tracks

Peabody, July 20, 1922.

Editor, Peabody Enterprise.

It is a disgrace to our city to see such a beautiful street as Washington street with a deserted railroad track in the middle of it sunk down and full of holes, a terror to all autoists and teamsters of all kinds. It is about time for the City Council to make the railroad company put back the Lynn cars on that route or make them tear up their tracks. It seems too bad to have such a beautiful street in such a condition. I would favor making the railroad tear up their tracks on Foster street and make all cars go through Washington street and leave Foster street to traffic as it is very narrow between the car track and surbstone, and as everyone knows that there is heavy traffic on that street with auto trucks and heavy teams.

Hoping that you will give this space in your paper.

I remain, your truly,
A Taxpayer and Auto Driver.

KIDDIES SIX

By Will M. Maupin

JUNE TIME

SINGIN' o' June, when the roses blow;
Liltin' a song when the sun hangs low;
Whistlin' away
Through th' livelong day—
Singin' an' whistlin' a merry tune
To the rosiest month of them all—that's June.

Watchin' the clouds as they hasten by,
Catchin' the gleam of the bright blue sky;
Lazyin' 'round
On th' sun-kissed ground—
Hearin' th' wind through the woodland croon
Her songs to the rarest of months—that's June.

Off through th' meadows cool an' sweet,
Where th' violets bloom in their dim retreat;
Dreamin' dreams
By the purlin' streams,
As they hasten by with their rythmic rune
To the rosiest, fairest month—that's June.

Home at eve when the moon hangs low
And the sky gleams bright with a silver glow;
Just lazyin' there
In the old arm chair
A watchin' th' man who lives in the moon
And laughs at th' fairest of months—that's June.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

CANNOT HOARD TIME

IN A certain time you can make a certain amount of money. You can put the money away for years later, but you can't put the time away.

Money, called by the economists frozen labor, might also be called frozen time.

But time is more than money. It can be turned into many things that can be stored away—education, cultivated taste, pleasant and profitable memories. But time itself you cannot hoard. You must use it as it passes, or it is gone forever.

Time spent in recreation is not wasted, unless you spend more than a due allowance for recreation.

But time spent in absolute idleness, or in activities that are worse than idle, is sheer criminal waste.

If you could go back over your life and gather back the hours that have never been improved, you would still have enough time to do great things.

But those hours are gone.

You can only, as Shakespeare says, "regret your dear time's waste" and resolve to waste less of it in the future.

Many men whose time had never been turned to account until they were past forty have still had enough left to accomplish great things in the world.

But these are the most sincere mourners for the years that might have been utilized.

If you will begin today to bear in mind that time cannot be hoarded, and if every hour of it is converted into something that can be hoarded, you may lay the foundation for a furtune. You will certainly lay the foundation for happiness by and by.

Count your hours, and allot each one to some task or to some profitable recreation. See that none of them slip by. They are as water through a mill, which if sent over the wheel creates valuable energy, but which spilled over the dam is gone forever.

Teachers Meet At Essex Aggie

The annual summer conference of the agricultural teachers of Massachusetts will be held at the School, Hathorne, August 1st to 4th. This convention is arranged under the direction of the State Department of Education. Director Smith, ably assisted by the full staff, is preparing an excellent plan of entertainment for the teachers while guests at the school. The programmes will occupy the mornings and the afternoons will be given over to visits to the school farm and also to study the projects of students at their homes. An attempt will be made to show the visitors some of the fine farms, market gardens and greenhouses, of the County. Every effort will be made to make the visit of this group of teachers a most valuable one.

Slaughterers May Ask For 2 Inspectors

It is reported that Peabody slaughtering house owners will petition the authorities to appoint more inspectors to allow more slaughtering being done by the four concerns now engaged in that business in this city.

But one inspector is said to be on the job now in the person of Edward Holden, who was recently reappointed following his pleading guilty of allowing his son to inspect slaughtering at Kotarski's place in South Peabody.

It is said that each slaughtering house is allowed but 12 hours a week in which to have the services of the inspector who is paid $1200 a year. It is said that two other qualified inspectors are ready to serve at $600 a year. The law demands that the inspector be present at the slaughtering of all livestock before, during and after the killing. It is reported that tuberculosis cattle and cholera afflicted hogs are repeatedly found in Peabody slaughtering houses and that these diseased animals are not always sent to the rendering works for their fat.

The state board of animal industry is said to be alert to some conditions in Peabody and there may be some interesting developments. Any animal inspector who allows his stamp to be used on diseased livestock that reaches the public markets ought to be sent to jail.

ESPINDLE MOVES INTO NEW PLANT

The new factory just built by the F. Espindle Innersole Company at 14 Collins street will be opened next Monday, July 31. This company which manufactures innersoles, pancake heeling, fibre board and counters, has made rapid strides since they started in business one year ago, in a small shop on Munroe street. After a short time, on account of increased business they were obliged to secure larger quarters and removed to 37 Webster street. The new factory will allow them to double their production.

CHARLIE SMILEY HAS FISH STORY

Charles Smiley, manager of the Densten Hair Co. is just back from the Pine Tree state fishing ground with a wonderful tale of deep sea fishing. On his first day off the Rockland coast he and another man reaped 90 tinker mackerel and on their second try hauled aboard 47 good sized cod. The pair had to quit for fear of rocking the boat. Charlie vouches for the veracity of the statement. He had been ordered by his physician to take a rest and accompanied by his wife he journeyed to Tucks Point, Me., for a week fishing. He has come back full of "pep" and a few good yarns.

Councillors Jones and Sullivan are getting their nomination papers signed for the Representative contest in the Democrat party.

A food sale will be held tomorrow at Parke-Snow's, the proceeds of which will be given to a worthy person. The sale will be conducted by a number of well known Peabody women.

Councillor Francis Poor Back With City Fathers

Councillor Francis L. Poor occupied his seat in the City Council meeting last night for the first time since April 1, 1921, and he was given a pleasing welcome by his colleagues. He was heard on several questions before the body and apparently has regained much of his former vigor. He is under treatment at the Parker Hill hospital but is permitted to spend a night away from the hospital occasionally. He hopes to attend the next meeting of the Council. His wife attended the meeting last night. He has made a great fight but still carries a tube in one of his lungs.

It was a short session last night

Pumping Plant To Get Airing

The hearing requested by William H. O'Connell discharged fireman at the pumping station will be held Monday morning next before City Engineer Emerson. Eminent counsel will be heard. O'Connell was discharged last week for alleged absence from duty without leave and insubordination. He is entitled to a hearing.

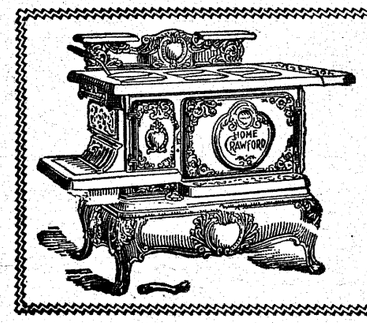
It is reported that the hearing is incidental to further official investigation of the affairs at the city's pumping station. It is reported also that the probe will be of short duration. The hearing may throw some light on conditions which no business house would tolerate.

FIRE RAZES BARN

Fire of a mysterious origin destroyed the barn of Joseph F. Smith, the spring water man in Lynnfield near the Peabody line late yesterday afternoon. It took an hour and a half to lay the structure flat and several hundred dollars worth of hay and farming implements went up in smoke. The Lynnfield fire department had to stand by and witness the flames lick their way to destruction of the barn. Mr. Smith the owner was in Peabody when notified that his barn was afire.

Gas Station Ready To Buy Stockwell Est.

Papers of agreement are signed which may record the sale of the Stockwell estate, Main and Washington streets to the Colonial Filling Station, Inc., a concern owned by the Alden Speare's Sons Co. of Cambridge, provided the City Council grants a permit to the concern to erect one of its elaborate gas filling stations on this valuable corner. Its application for the permit went before the City Council last night and a hearing is set for August 24. The papers were made out by William F. Carlin the real estate dealer.



Another prospective purchaser of this valuable property containing 20,000 feet of land and a 15 room dwelling is waiting the outcome of the hearing above mentioned and if he acquires the property a number of stores will be erected on the land facing both streets.

The Colonial Filling Co. is erecting the most artistic stations in the state with exhibits at Brookline, Newton, Mystic avenue and Fellsway, Somerville, Revere Beach Parkway and Broadway, Everett. Their plans call for a most ornamental station and rest rooms. The approach would be planted with shrubbery.

CLUBHOUSE PLANNED FOR W. PEABODY

Plans for a clubhouse as a community center for West Peabody are in the making at the hands of the Young Men's Social Club of that district and with a fair nestegg in its treasury and a live committee acting under the direction of the officers, there is an excellent chance of the object being carried through.

The members, numbering 80 of the leading citizens of the district, are a unit for a clubhouse and already plans are being drawn. There has long been a need of a more suitable hall than the West school offers the citizens and the Young Men's Club hopes to solve this problem by erecting its home near the junction of Lowell and West sts.

Organized two years ago last March the club has played a leading part in the social and civic progress of the western section of the city. It has secured more lights and fire alarm boxes and has taken a lively interest in everything pertaining to the benefit of the residents. It has promoted one of the best semi-professional ball teams in Essex County with a number of favorite sons under the direction of T. Hadley Sawyer.

The officers are: President, Cyrus W. Tenney; vice-president, Lawrence Durkee; secretary, Fred Roberts; treasurer, Charles Whitehouse. The club has a capable advisory board in Harry W. Rankin, Benj. P. Danforth, Arthur Belleville, Neal Shannon, Edward Durkee and Joseph Cobb.

Its meetings, held every Wednesday evening, bring out a 65 per cent attendance showing the interest.

Last Sunday the club staged a free clam chowder at an all day outing on Russell field at which 100 were entertained. The club has done much to aid the citizens of West Peabody and is bound to continue its good work. Officers of the club are grateful to Mayor Shea and Supt. King of the electric light plant for their cooperation in getting added facilities from the city.

The Father Mathew C. T. A. Society will conduct their annual lawn party this evening at the O'Shea field. The advance sale of tickets indicate a large attendance.

Many new attractions will be put on, one of which will be a radio concert installed by Everett Wilson of the local radio store, and all those who attend will have the pleasure of listening to a radio concert; also an Overland Touring car will be awarded to the holder of the lucky ticket. Each admission entitles the holder to a chance on the car.

The committee has secured the best outdoor dance floor in Essex County. Music will be furnished by the Belmont All Star orchestra.

CLARICE

WHILE Clarice has its origin in the same root as Clare or Clara, its evolution progressed in a far different manner. The Latin adjective clarus, meaning bright or famous, is of course responsible for both names, but where Clare followed the English and French, Clarice is the product of Italy.

The old Latin feminine of words ending in "or" to signify the doer, was "ix"; in modern Italian this becomes "ice." Clarice, therefore, was the feminine name so evolved and meant "to make famous." It proved popular throughout Italy, its famous bearer probably being the wife of Lorenzo de Medici.

Though France already had a Claire, she adopted Clarice, giving a soft "ss" sound to the "c." This explains the Clarissa which sprang up in England and was given extraordinary vogue by Richardson in his novel wherein he made Clarissa his heroine. The popularity of this book in France brought forth Clarisse. It is not the first instance of one language adopting the change made upon one of its own words by another tongue.

Clarinda and Clairmond are two other fanciful interpretations of the original Clarice.

The diamond is Clarice's talismanic gem. It's potency is best expressed in the old rhyme:

The Evil Eye shall have no power to harm,
Her that shall wear the diamond as a charm.
No monarch shall attempt to thwart her will,
And e'en the gods her wishes shall fulfill.

Friday is Clarice's lucky day and 1 her lucky number.

WHAT THE PEABODY KIDDIES ARE DOING ON PLAYGROUNDS

The attendance at the playgrounds was not as large this week owing to the wet weather.

Several of the postponed ball games have been played off during the past two days. The East End team has increased their lead in the league with Emerson Park in second place.

William Jones, instructor at West Peabody is priming his team to play the Emerson Park nine. The game will be played on Wednesday of next week.

Miss Carten in charge of the girls at the West End reports that they have done some very clever work in bead making. Dorothy Danforth, Irene Durkee and Mildred Tenney have fashioned some very pretty pendants mounted on strings of varigated wax beads.

The girls baseball team has challenged the boys team to a game if the latter will allow Miss Carten to play the back-stop position.

Thomas McCarthy is recovering from his recent illness. It is expected that he will be back on the grounds in a day or two.

The Commission has finally surmounted all obstacles and installed drinking fountains at the East End and Bleachery playgrounds.

NUKEY ABBOTT TO FACE GOURLEY IN A.C.L. CO. LEAGUE

Some real baseball is being staged at Emerson Park by the six teams composing the A. C. L. Twilight League, and the best of the series thus far is expected tonight when the Japan shop meets the Sheepskin department. These teams are tied for first place, and have not lost a game thus far. "Nukie" Abbott has been warming up noontimes and it is rumored that he may pitch for the Sheepskin tanners, while Ernie Gourley will probably be the choice of the Japan manager. "Hubby" Lawrence will be prominent in the Japan lineup, as will Billy Sullivan, star shortstop of the Sheep team. A big crowd is expected for this battle, and the entire main plant are interested in the outcome, as the Hide and Office teams are right behind the leaders and hoping to land on top.

Standing to Date

	Won	Lost	%
Japan	2	0	1000
Sheepskin	2	0	1000
Office	2	1	.667
Hide	2	1	.667
National	0	3	.000
Cutstock	0	3	.000

League Laconics

"Coop" Hallowell captured a box of smokes for his homer in Wednesday's game. The cigars were offered by Office Manager Batchelder for the office man making the first home run and "Coop" pasted the pill a mile.

The Hide team has used a different pitcher in every game thus far, and have had good luck with all of them. They are trying to find the best man to use against the Sheepskin department August 11.

It will be a case of brother against brother if "Red" Murphy and Joe Murphy work in the Hide-Sheep game. Both boys are twirlers and have won games for their teams.

The Cutstock team looks good after the shaking up they had in the first game or two. They will make the rest of the league travel some this next month.

Dana Harding is drilling the Nationalites at the East End playgrounds, and they showed up well against the office this week, nearly winning the agme. They expect to be out of the cellar next week.

Leather Prices Better With Stock In Demand

(By ENERGY)

Following the lead of the hide and skin markets all kinds of leather are advancing in price. This is a welcome feature in view of the fact that buyers will not operate with consistency until they fear they will have to pay more money if they delay.

The price situation has changed radically and almost everything going into shoes or other manufactures of leather are affected. There is some disposition to fight this state of affairs, but the feeling is that opposition will only serve to stimulate the logical movement toward higher prices. Here and there persons have been influenced by the widespread publication of articles insisting on pre-war prices.

If anyone will take the time to investigate the matter he will see that there cannot be pre-war prices in any of the basic commodities for many years to come. The war is over to be sure, but rents, and taxes are still on a war basis. Apart from Germany and Russia where paper money circulates like air and water, all the leading countries have tremendously inflated their currencies. One of the primary postulates in finance is that cheaper money means dearer merchandise, unless it is measured in gold.

During the long depression in our industry, prices were forced down below the possibility of making legitimate profits. It is high time there should be a better understanding of the fact that business without adequate profits would in the long run Russianize the United States.

Calfskins, sideleather and sheepskins have been advanced the past week on the better selections. Patent leather continues strong and the leaders are behind on their orders on most selections. Tanners of glazed kid advise that business is active and more buyers are calling for top grade leather. This is encouraging because the medium and lower grades as a rule sell in all seasons.

With a firm and advancing market we are certain to see a good run on upper leather. For some time buyers have been waiting to see how much lower leather could be bought the next time they were ready to trade. Raw stock is higher and tanners are compelled to advance their prices on the finished product. The shoe manufacturer with orders on his books will naturally be forced to cover and buy leather instead of trading on a hand to mouth basis.

Many large orders were booked at the shoe style show and we may expect a steady run on fancy styles. Concerns making staples however, anticipate a good business as these lines have been abnormally quiet for some time.

There is a better feeling throughout all branches of the industry and tanners and shoe manufacturers are optomistic regarding future business. Tanneries are operating on a larger scale, running strongly on patent leather and calfskins. Other finishes are also on the mend.

So says the Shoe and Leather Reporter, the above paragraphs giving the best and clearest idea of the leather and shoe situation in many issues. I understand that black kid leather is selling as never before. Some Philadelphia kid manufacturers have received more orders for this class of stock than ever before in their history. Another concern who have their leather finished here, told me this week, their business is better than even before the war (leaving out war conditions). This concern manufacture a high grade sheep and cabaretta. When asked where the leather is going, the answer was New Hampshire and Maine. Lynn and Haverhill are doing some business but the volume is comparatively small. The trouble with these two cities is plain. Labor has dominated too far, so elsewhere goes the manufacturer. Some day there will be an awakening, for most shoe workers can realize conditions and will govern themselves accordingly.

It is evident that leather piled up during the long depression has been made into shoes, and there is but little of such leather available. Such being the case, I can see no way for prices only to be higher. A runaway market is not expected, but often times markets like mobs do stringent things.

Collecting is far from satisfactory in the trade. It went with the times, and from now on this essential part of business will improve. Foreign buying is spot cash however, and the domestic market is expected to return to the 30 day basis.

Light calf of the Russia variety is slow to sell. Coming on to the winter this appears natural, but the tanner must make these grades for he cannot alter the skins in thickness to any extent. There has been many times in the past when such leather was the best seller. So goes the world.

If someone could knock the tar out of tariff as is being fought out in Congress, thanks of thousands would follow. Politics however pays little attention to results only in votes. If the tariff on hides and wool is placed at such figures as in the original bill, we shall have to walk in barrels on one foot, saving the other shoe for the future. The tariff has always been the cause of more rights and wrongs than war. It treads on all toes but many do not know it. In fact some people have to be told they are hungry. Such people need no ether or hootch to put them away. They are away and don't know it.

So protection or free trade will be talked this fall and falls to come as of yore, politicians claiming both are right from their standpoint, and never claiming that half way between would do the trick, for the party platform will not allow it. A great game if one does not weaken, but the weakeners are the people at large. Laws are passed presumably to regulate life, and life is passed before they are regulated. 'Twas ever thus.

Peabody got back the Wetan Leather Co. which removed from this city to locate in Danvers only to have its plant burned flat some weeks ago. It is now located in the old Pepper candy factory on Central street and under the direction of Mr. Steinharddt is doing nice business again. It runs novelty splits for the slipper trade.

Y. M. H. A. Will Hold Outing On Sunday Aug. 13

Peabody Young Men's Hebrew Association will cooperate with chapters in Salem, Lynn and Winthrop for a joint outing on Sunday, August 13, when an attractive program of entertainment will be carried out. The first meeting of delegates was held last week in Lynn with another meeting last night in Salem when plans were completed for the big event. Harry Levine and Miss Rose Altshuler of Peabody were named in charge of the sports. It is planned to hold the outing at Centennial Grove.

GOODRICH TIRES

The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company has cut its prices 10 to 15 per cent, so the concern announces. The new prices bring the cost of Goodrich Tires to the lowest cost mileage ever known. This revised price list affords motorists a definite guide to tire prices as Goodrich Tires are the definite standard of Tire quality.

This tremendous saving to the entire automobile industry is made in the face of a determined effort by British and Dutch merchants to control the rubber markets of the world. Cotton, which is the biggest element in tire cost, is materially rising in price, and in the face of increasing world consumption; with one of the smallest hold-over crops in years and with only a normal crop in prospect it is bound to go much higher, but the Goodrich price reduction is made in spite of these increased costs.

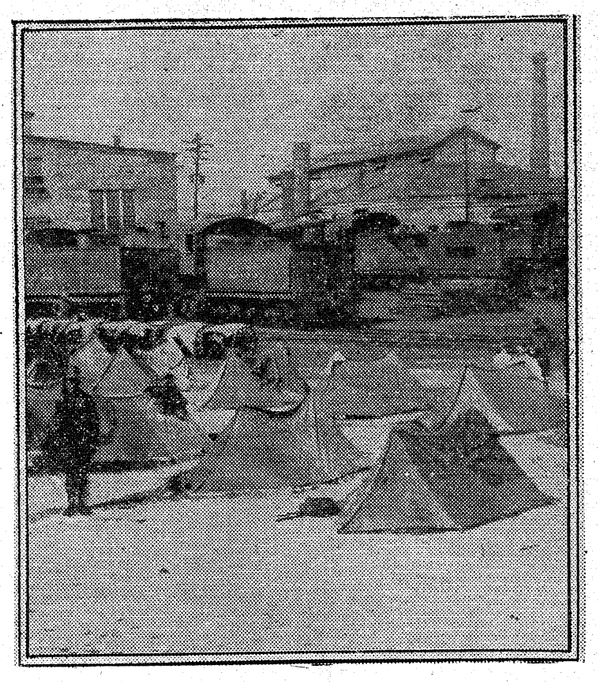
THE NEW COUNCIL

While early for predictions on the future of politics in Peabody, this year, beside a mayor, councillors-at-lalrge will be elected. Next to the mayor, councillors have much to say for the well being of the city. We presume al lche present councilors will be candidates to succeed themselves, with the exception of Henry F. Duggan, who announces he will be a candidate for mayor. There will be no doubt others who wil laspire for the positions, and should they be of the right calibre, will be factors in the race. Citizens interested in the betterment of the city should well consider candidates for the council. Never since we became a city should the best qualified be elected as this year. With the finances at a low ebb, it will require the united efforts of the mayor and council to keep the city headed in the right direction. The financial condition of the city is far from what some would make it, and retrenchment properly administered will bring us safely over the troubled waters. Politicians only are far from what is needed in these positions, and tax payers have the power to remedy evil conditions, by registering their votes for men who have something more than political debts to pay. Those who will not grasp the situation as it is, and allow the coming election go to those not qualified, will continue to pay the high tax bills of the present year. On the other hand, the calibre of the council can be such as to help lower the tax rate eventually to pre-war levels.

OUTING FOR 250 CHILDREN



On August 16, the Peabody Rotary Club and the local lodge of Elks will father an outing to 250 children, who will journey to Centennial Grove in Essex. This outing is for the benefit of children whose parents have not the means to give entertainment of this kind. The Rotary Club has done much in the past for poor children, and the Elks heartily join on this occasion to give the children a joyful time which they will long remember. The public is asked to furnish automobiles to convey the children down to the grove and return, and it is hoped all who have machines will do their bit to make the occasion a happy one. A picnic of this kind gives those boys and girls who have few of the good things of life a chance to see and do what comes to them seldom, and the committee in charge feel the public will respond to the extent of furnishing autos. It is proposed to start at noon for the grove and return in the early evening.

SCHOOL ATHLETICS

The School Committee have done away with the Advisory Board and now two of the committee and another have charge of athletics in the schools. No doubt this change is due to the recent trouble with former coach Donovan. Being unbiased, we believed a smaller committee will accomplish more than a large one. It is so in all committees, for the more on such committees, the more opinions. Therefore the two members of the School Board with Principal Woodman of Peabody High will attempt to please the boys, the coach and the public which is no sinecure. Everything appears clear for football this fall, and this year with Charleston visitors, the game will take on added interest. No doubt there will be criticism of the School Board's action, and some go so far as to predict the former support by those who have given time and money to keep athletics to the front, will not be forthcoming. Time will tell the story as whether the change is for the best and again we say small committees produce the best results.

TEACHERS COULD HELP

Peabody school teachers could help along the work of preventing forest fires if a short talk was given by them to their class sometime during each week. The idea is one which the state bureau of forestry advocates and a bill making it compulsory may be passed by the next legislature. Automobile drivers are held largely responsible for forest fires according to Charles O. Bailey of the state bureau, speaking before the Peabody Rotary Club this week. Mr. Bailey is a resident of Groveland and his work in saving the forests has been very effective. He calls on businessmen to mould sentiment to save our forests. With the large tracts of woodland in South and West Peabody there is urgent necessity of this city aiding through its schools and other channels the desired object.

RAILROAD STRIKE SLOWS TRAFFIC AS HOPE OF SETTLEMENT FADES

Photo shows Company D of the 130th Infantry, a machine gun outfit camped in the yards of the Chicago and Alton R. R. at Bloomington, Ill., where disorders were reported. The round houses are shown in the rear and are heavily guarded.

ROUND ABOUT

The recent discharge of a fireman at the municipal pumping station brings out the fact that friction has existed between those high in authority at that most important part of the city's business. If the stories circulated are true, an investigation should be made, and if not made, fire insurance interests may take a hand.

Ex-Mayor Donnell we call him, as he is best known by that name in Peabody, is waging a spirited campaign for attorney-general throughout the state. Such a campaign is bound to attract the attention of the masses and when the votes are counted, results will follow. Campaigning today and in former years is different to the extent that formerly more fireworks and less oratory were in order. Not that former aspirants for office did not have oratory, for the records show statesmen of old delivered orations which have gone down in history. Personally, we do not believe abuse of opponents gets a candidate anything. But opinions differ.

Insurance representatives have been testing pumps at the pumping station for fire purposes probably with the idea of making further recommendations. We have at the present time a new pump which has met requirements and later with a new hook and ladder, everything will be satisfactory.

We note the Boston Herald comments on our tax rate for this year. We admit $36.00 a thousand looms up formidable, but there are others in the same boat and the boat is still above water. Figures show that the Assessors have reduced the receipts to a normal figure, have allowed for the deficit and interest on temporary loans, which, with a budget believed to be adequate to care for the departments, the year will end without a deficit of any proportions.

Valuations of Peabody homes will average 60 percent of their value. In the states of New Jersey, New York and others, the law requires a 100 percent valuation, but in Massachusetts a full and fair valuation is the way the law reads. Values may go back to pre-war times, but there is little indication of it at the present time. In fact, values are raising instead of lowering.

* * *

In the absence of Chief Barrett, who goes to San Francisco next week to attend the national firemen's association, Charles G. Crump water inspector will have charge of the water division. Mr. Crump is a former plumber and will fill the bill in every particular.

With 176 liquor raids to the credit of the police department, those who aspire to sell hootch, moonshine or what ever, are having a merry time. We note U. S. officials with the help of local authorities, are busy seizing offenders throughout Essex county. The ways of the liquor transgressor are certainly hard in Peabody. The city will benefit by the fines imposed, therefore it is good business.

When the Hunt-Rankin employes meet at Centennial Grove tomorrow, the ball game will be a merry battle. The factory nine is made up from 80 odd employes while the Boston store will furnish what is available and may add some better players from outside. Whoever is umpire should be well fortified for his life may be worth something to himself if not to the players. A merry time is predicted.

The Grand Army headquarters will be shifted to the Carlin building on Lowell street when ready. Also E. E. Gray and Co. will occupy one of the stores in the Carlin block. Such changes makes the store map far different.

As the Peabody Club has leased their present quarters for three years, their building on Lowell street will be held for future reference. Property on Peabody Square is fast growing in value, and a club house there, outside of this property is out of the question because of the cost.

Charles E. Holden has been appointed inspector of slaughtering, having been recommended by the State Board of Health. There are four concerns slaughtering in Peabody, and the law requiring the inspector to be present when animals are killed keeps him busy The dean of the slaughter-house men is James B. Eaton, who has followed that vocation for two score years. Like all business, time has changed conditions, with few butchers left to tell the tale.

* * *

When we get the new flashing beacons Peabody Square, Wilson Square and last but far from least, the junction of Andover and Prospect streets will be cared for. If this new contrivance is all they tell us, a big improvement is due.

We note Chief Jesse F. Barrett of the fire department will journey to California together with Mrs. Barrett. Jesse has had few vacations in the last 40 years.

I walked down Oak street last Tuesday behind a fish vendor who carried a basket filled with mackerel. The man was not making any calls to dispose of his fish and I wondered how fresh the specimens were. The itinerant fish dealer of this type ought to be made to carry his wares covered with ice.

I understand it has been customary for some Massachusetts cities and towns to allow a ten per cent discount on poll taxes. In proof I saw a receipted poll tax bill from North Adams for the years 1895 and 1896 held by a Peabody man who formerly resided in that Berkshire town.

The late Benjamin Beckett, war veteran, was another Peabody son who survived the hardships of Andersonville prison, so one of my older readers informs me following the stories of Charles Peirce and William Smith who shared a similar fate in the Civil War. The last two men are believed to be the only living veterans in Peabody who suffered the terrible privations of the southern stockade.

An attempted case of deliberate extortion was brought to the attention of the police this week when the parents of a young boy demanded damages from a Peabody factory alleged to have been responsible for injuring a suit of clothes worn by the lad and which it was claimed had become damaged when dye material was thrown upon him as he passed the factory. What had happened was this: The boy had passed the factory and some clean water had splashed on his suit. He hustled home to confront the mother. Then someone used ink on the wet spots on the suit and mother and son went back to the factory to demand damages. The foreman knew that no such colored dye was being used and under pressure the extortion plot was bared. Under ordinary circumstances a new suit might have been secured.

To Maintain Soldiers.

At the present rate of exchange it costs $2,000 to maintain an American soldier for one year, $1,300 for an English soldier and $375 for a French soldier.

The Testimony of a Father

"The Co-operative Bank is something every young man should know about and connect with,"—he told us.

"I wanted my boy to save regularly and your shares are ideal. Besides, the high earnings are a great incentive to make a fellow stick with it and increase his holdings as his earning power increases."

"When the boy is ready for a home, he is already in close touch with an institution that can be a great help to him."

SOME OF THE NEWEST BOOKS ADDED TO THE LIBRARY

Books for Boys and Girls

Spotted Deer. By Elmer R. Gregor, author of "The White Wolf," etc. This is one of the author's Eastern Indian tales and it shows to a remarkable degree his ability to give the boy reader a splendid amount of real Indian lore and custom, woven into a story which is the liveliest of reading.

Peggy Pretend. By Milicent Evison, author of "Rainbow Gold," etc. Illustrated. Here is a book of love and laughter, for its charming little heroine is a veritable joy girl whose quaint fairy wisdom enables her to make life a wonderful game of "Let's Pretend," and justifies her whimsical nickname, "Peggy Pretend." It is a book that will give life a "Joy Treatment" for girls of all ages, grown-ups and growing- ups.

The Little People of the Garden. By Ruth O. Dyer. Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman. The author has given her best efforts to acquaint young readers of the real lives of little creatures near at hand, and at the same time to teach kindness. Every suggestion of dryness is avoided by having bright but thoughtless little Jasper Nichols change for a time into an insect under the protection of a fairy The information given is scientifically accurate. It is written for children from six to ten.

Debating for Boys. By Wm. H. Foster. Boys like to debate, and debates will do them good. This is a simple manual, designed to enable them to debate efficiently, to get from debating all the pleasures and profit it has to offer. A list of debate subjects brought up to date is also given.

Bob's Hill Trails. By Charles P. Burton. The author, in this latest volume of his widely popular "Bob's Hill" Series, will enlarge his circle of enthusiastic young followers. An excellent feature of his stories, according to the New York Evening Post, is the art with which he mixes in a judicious amount of historical matter.

The Wreck-Hunters. By Francis-Rolt Wheeler. With 40 illustrations from photographs. "Sunken treasure has been a lure to man ever since oar first dipped into water or wind swelled a sail." This quotation gives the key to the most absorbing book for boys that can be imagined, and almost equally interesting to those older. One leaves it with greatly increased knowledge and more respect for the mighty deep and skill and endurance of those who brave it.

'Pon-a-Time Tales. By Richard A. Clarke. With illustrations by Clara A. Fitts. A collection of whimsical stories about some of the ordinary things in life with which every child is familiar. A dozen or more of these everyday things are made the subjects of engaging little stories that will amuse all imaginative children under ten.

Ted and the Telephone. By Sara Ware Bassett. The third volume in "The Invention Series." There is plenty of life and dramatic incident in this story of two thoroughly human and likeable youths, and it is without doubt the most exciting and interesting tale Miss Bassett has written for the Invention Series.

Catty Atkins Sailorman. By Clarence B. Kelland, author of "Catty Atkins Riverman," etc. Buried treasure —not the usual piece-of-eight and gold moidores on the shores of the Caribbean, but a new kind of treasure, its hidden place, Nantucket. The book will remind fathers of today of their boyhood devotion to the tales of Castlemon, Optic and Alger. It has the same kind of thrill, combined with an original and delightful humor.

The Other Miller Girl. By Joslyn Gray. "Miss Gray is now established as the leading writer of girls stories. She is without a peer in a field which has been singularly barren since the death of Louisa Alcott."

"Bought and Paid For" at Strand

Should a wife accept lavish gifts from her husband as a peace offering after misbehavior on his part? Can a husband, addicted to dring, hope to retain his wife's love after charging that he bought her and paid for her and that she is his by virtue of such procedure? Can a wife's love and self-respect be bought by a man as one may buy a dog?

These questions constitute several of the vital problems in "Bought and Paid For," featuring Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt, which will be the main attraction on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. The picture is a faithful adaption of the famous drama by George Broadhurst which has been playing in Boston the past few weeks.

In this story, the husband, a millionaire, marries a working girl and lavishes upon her costly gifts. For a while they are very happy, then the husband repeatedly comes home drunk. His wife, a woman of fine sensibilities is horrified. At last, the climax comes, and when she refuses to kiss him, he insults her by saying that he has bought her and paid for her, and, therefore, owns her. This causes a breach. The ensuing events from one of the most dramatic pictures ever filmed. Both Miss Ayres and Jack Holt do excellent work in the leading roles. A comedy film and George Walsh in "With Stanley in Africa," will be the other numbers on the bill for today.

Mary Miles Minter in "Her Winning Way," will be the headline attraction on the double bill for Sunday evening. Constance Binney in "Room and Board," will be the second feature for Sunday. Manager Chet Bent announces that this is one of the best balanced Sunday bills in months.

Agnes Ayres in the William de Mille Production "Bought and Paid For" A Paramount Picture

"Fascination," the new Mae Murray special feature, which will be the extraordinary attraction the Strand will offer on Monday and Tuesday, reveals this popular star in the most ambitious of her roles. No other character she has portrayed requires as much difficult emotional acting as "Fascination." Altogether it marks a new step in Miss Murray's career.

"Fascination" is by Edmund Goulding, who wrote Miss Murray's sensationally successful "Peacock Alley." Most of the scenes of the production are laid in Spain. Miss Murray appears as Dolores De Lisa, the daughter of a Spanish father and an American mother. She combines Latin fire with Yankee pep. The combination leads her to bolt from the rigid restrictions of her Spanish home to join the crowds going to the Easter Day bull fight. There she becomes entangled in an amazing series of adventures. The whole production is on a par with "Peacock Alley," as one of the outstanding film successes of the year. A comedy film and the News Weekly will be the other numbers on the bill for Monday.

GIRL SCOUTS AT DUNSTABLE CAMP

Peabody Girl Scouts are well represented at the Camp Low, Massapoag Lake, Dunctable with another delegation leaving this week for a two weeks stay. The girls who left Wednesday were Helen Potter, Florence E. Mackinnon, Norman Jeffers, Charlotte Rich, Ruth Walker, Elizabeth Matheson, Sally Lord and Dorothy Lord. Other Peabody girls at the camp are Florence Haines, Lillian Aylward, Nathalie Lane and Judith Barnes. The last two will remain in camp for the entire summer and the other girls plaln to return home on August 6.

Champ Sprinter Preaches Here

"Hal" Cutbill, "the Flying Parson" who recently won the National 1000-yard championship, defeated Joie W. Ray of Chicago, and who covered 1000 yards faster than human legs ever have before will speak Sunday morning and evening at the Peabody M. E. church in the absence of the pastor, J. West Thompson.

In the morning Mr. Cutbill will preach on the subject: "Spiritual Exile," an analogy from "The Man Without a Country." At the evening service he will deliver his famous lecture "The Lure of the Cinder Path." In the latter, Mr. Cutbill will relate some of his experiences in athletic competition and point out the intimate relation which exists between athletics and religion.

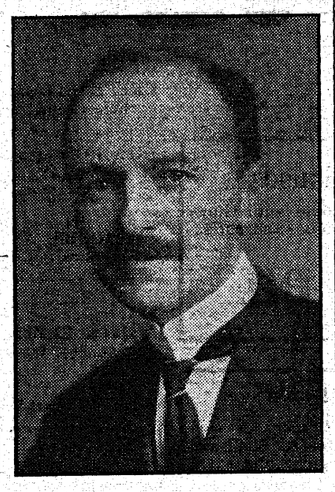
During the past year besides running the fastest indoor mile and successfully defending his 1000-yard title he has been the assistant pastor with Rev. Frank Kingdon at the old Tremont street M. E. church in Boston. He comes with a special message for boys and young men.

Senator Wadleigh Has Proved Self Able Champion of 4th Essex On First Term In Upper Branch

Raymond L. Mansfield, political reporter on the Haverhill Gazette, in an article on Senator Wadleight of the Fourth Essex district which includes Peabody shows that the Senator secured or defeated more legislation in his first term than some legislators do in years. His great achievement was interesting the federal government in sharing the expense of the new tuberculosis hospital. Mr. Mansfield, a former Lynn and Worcester newspaper man of ability pays Senator Wadleigh the following tribute:

(By Raymond L. Mansfield)

During the last legislative session when the committee work was nearly completed, one of the western representatives was conducting a party of his constituents throgh the State House, showing them the historic points of interest in which Massachusetts excels.



He took them into the senate chamber, which is said to be one of the finest in the country, went through the usual precedure of pointing out the seat in which their senator sat, and explained to them the relation of the senate to the state government.

One of the party said to their representative, "Who is that senator?" to which the western representative replied, "That is Senator Wadleigh of the Fourth Essex district, probably one of the hardest workers in the general court. I want to tell you one thing about him and that is he never gets up in the senate to say anything unless he knows what he is talking about and when he does, although he is not endowed with a very strong voice, members of the senate listen, and he is probably been instrumental in either securing or defeating legislation to a greater degree in his first term in the senate than some members have in a service covering a long period of years."

To those who know Senator Wadleigh it is a source of satisfaction to feel that this tirbute was not undeserved, During this, his first term of two years in the senate, Senator Wadleigh has never missed a legislature day, has never ducked a roll call, having always been recorded yes or no with but one exception on a minor matter when he was unable to reach the senate chamber from a committee room in time to be recorded.

Members of the 101st and 104th infantry presented a request for legislation, and were very insistent that the legislature erect a memorial in honor of the services of the 101st and 105th. Senator Wadleigh, as chairman of the committee, took the position that, inasmuch as over 2000 Massachusetts men lost their lives in the World War, if the state ereceted a memorial it should erect a composite memorial which would give equal recognition to all those who lost their lives in the service of their country from Massachusetts irrespective of the regiment with which they served.

As ranking member of the committee on counties his work has been commented upon at considerable length in the press of the state because he worked unceasingly to accomplish certain definite aims which he stated that he believed involved the fundamental of good government. Probably the most absorbing topic of discussion in the last six months in Essex county has been the tuberculosis hospital at Middleton, the cost of its construction and administration and to what extent cities and towns in the hospital district affected will be obliged to pay in connection with this institution.

At the beginning of the session when it was shown that the tuberculosis hospital was not even paying its maintenance costs, cities and towns in the district being obliged to meet the $37,000 deficit in the way of a big assessment by tax levy, Senator Wadleigh arranged through Congressman Andrew for a conference with Dr. McBride of the federal veteran war bureau of the Massachusetts district to ascertain if the federal government would be interested in the acquisition of the tuberculosis hospital upon which at that time nearly $1,300,000 had been spent in construction costs.

Senator Wadleigh also spoke before the committee on municipal finance in favor of a bill for the City of Peabody for a $60,000 school loan outside the debt limit. It passed the senate in record time and was later enacted.

A large number of the citizens of the city of Salem attempted to force the city of Peabody to establish a trunk sewer separate from that now maintained by the cities of Peabody and Salem which would involve a number of hundred thousand dollars expenditure upon the city of Peabody if passed. The senator attended the hearing both at the state house and at Salem and argued for a compromise proposition whereby the state department of health would make an investigation of the whole subject as to the necessity of such a course at a cost not to exceed $10,000 to be paid by the cities of Salem and Peabody in such proportion as the state department of health might prescribe.

The original bill was set aside and the resolve as stated passed which appeared to meet with the apparent sanction of both citizens of Salem and Peabody.

Senator Wadleigh gave his earnest efforts to secure the passage of the firemen's bills and these included the special act of the legislature to make the chief's engineer's driver a member of the fire department, which established a precedent in the state.

Peabody Elks Plan Clambake On August 27

Peabody lodge of Elks clam bake at Centennial Grove on Sunday, August 27, will be a big event. The committee appointed by Exalted Ruler Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley has for its chairman Charles P. Cooney and plans are completed for an old fashioned clambake and lobster dinner. A fleet of autos will take the members to the grove leaving Peabody Square at 10 o'clock. The committee in charge include Michael Hennessey, John Ellis, John Callahan and Frank Penniman.

Why They're Whiskerless

Little Boy: "Mother, are there any men angels in heaven?"

Mother: "Why certainly, dear."

Little Boy: "But, mother, I never saw any picture of angels with whiskers."

Mother: "No, dear, the men all get in with a close shave."

It's the Hidden Part that Hurts

Every spring and summer there would be a red, scaly rash on my arms and legs. Itch? I'll tell the world it did! I took a lot of different blood medicines without any relief. WEST PEABODY CLUB

A social club with a new building to house it, appears to be an assured fact in West Peabody section of the city. Last year a building was hired and residents in that section enjoyed many evenings of entertainment. As the interest increased it became apparent a new building properly arranged was needed, and a committee of three has prepared plans which will no doubt be accepted, and by next winter, The West Peabody Club will be added to the list of clubs in the city in a flourishing condition. West Peabody, a farming district, needs a club of this kind far more than in the thickly settled parts. Not only will it yield enjoyment, but the get-together spirit which helps all communities will serve to aid that section in many ways. The opportunities for new residents is one of the big problems and organized efforts will bring results that cannot be obtained in any other way. We predict a bright future for this new organization.

Peace Leader In Seven Wars

Robert Bruce MacGregor of Seattle, Wash., soldier of fortune who has spent the greater part of his 48 years drifting around the world looking for chances to fight, recently obtained jobs for 236 former soldiers. In MacGregor's career he found wars seven different times and jumped into them all. His last war was the one where the Allies won from the Germans.

He served with the original Princess Pat regiment which numbered 1,093 men in 1914. Eleven of those 1,093 are now alive. Two of the eleven can walk. One of them is MacGregor. Before the World War MacGregor fought in the Philippines as his bit in the Spanish-American War. The Boxers started mixing it up in China and he was off to that fracas. The Natal Rebellion croped up in South Africa. MacGregor made the jump from China and landed in the middle of that war. The Matabele Uprising and the Jamieson Raid followed.

Twelve medals, four decorations and wounds which kept him constantly under the doctor's care are his spoils. Despite his disabilities he still fights. Just now he is giving the unemployment problem battle in his home city, Seattle. Besides that he has adopted and is educating a fifteen year old boy.

The entire issue of The Western Kansas News of June 29 was turned over to the Goodland, Kansas, post of the American Legion to use as the post saw fit. T. A. McCants, editor of the News, who is an enthusiastic Legion booster, said that the "American Legion Editor" was a decided success and added that the columns of his paper are always open to whatever the Legion may want to get before the public.

Because it represents the defenders of right and justice, the American Legion was asked to lay the cornerstone of the Rapillion, Neb., county court house, which will cost over a half million dollars.

"There will be no adjournment of Cngress until the soldiers compensation bill has been made a law. It will be taken up and disposed of under a special agreement as soon as the tariff bill is passed," says a statement made by Senator McCumber of North Dakota, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, to Mrs. H. R. Smith of Whitman, Mass. Mrs. Smith, accompanied by scores of American Legionnaires and twenty wounded veterans from the Walter Reed hospital, carried a petition bearing a million signatures to Congress, urging the passage of the bill.

More than 100,000 former soldiers will attend the New York state American Legion convention and soldier reunion to be held in Syracuse, according to Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the Navy and chairman of the convention and reunion committee. General Pershing, Admiral Sims and Admiral Wilson will be among the guests of honor.

The Pinedale, Wyo., American Legion baseball team has its nine regulars and three bench warmers from twelve different states of the Union. When the team takes the road it does not travel in Pullmans for the very good reason that Pinedale is 106 miles from the nearest railroad.

ACUTE INDIGESTION ATTACKS SALESMAN

No Doctor to Be Had. Fellow Traveler Comes to Rescue.

David T. Brown, of 7 Main street, North Plymouth, Mass., salesman representing the Gillette Safety Razor Company, was suddenly stricken with acute indigestion. But for the quick assistance of a brother traveler his attack might have had serious consequences. Mr. Brown writes: "No doubt you have heard many good reports from your wonderful remedy, Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules. Being a traveling man, eating very irregularly and in all kinds of places, I was taken with a severe attack of acute indigestion. Not able to get a doctor, a brother traveler who learned of my attack from the hotel proprietor came up to the room and gave me some of your capsules, and after a short time I was on my feet and resumed my travels."

When you travel carry a package of Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules for indigestion and dyspepsia.

On sale at Lawrence Bros., Peabody, or 60 cents by mail postpaid for large package from Jaques Capsule Co., Plattsburg, N. Y.

Goodrich
announces new tire prices
—lowest cost mileage ever known

Effective July 20th, Goodrich establishes a revised price list that is a base line of tire value. It gives the motorist the buying advantage of knowing that whatever size tire he selects is of the same quality — the Goodrich one-quality standard. It gives him the longest mileage, the most satisfactory service and the highest quality his money can buy. Results will prove that it is impossible to buy tire mileage at lower cost.

Think of being able to buy

Silvertown Cords
at such prices as these:

SIZE	BASE LINE PRICE	SIZE	BASE LINE PRICE
30 x 3½ Cl.	$13.50	34 x 4 S. B.	$30.85
31 x 3.85 Cl.	15.95	32 x 4½ S. B.	37.70
30 x 3½ S. B.	15.95	33 x 4½ S. B.	38.55
32 x 3½ S. B.	22.95	34 x 4½ S. B.	39.50

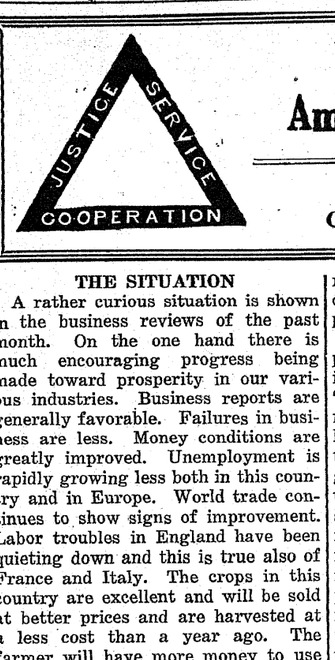
Herbert Tucker and family of Beverly spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tucker.

The B. I. A. barn dance was held Tuesday evening at Davis hall and a large crowd was present. Miss Ida Vallencourt received first prize for costume and Mrs. Ruby Samuelson second. Ice cream, tonic and candy were sold under the direction of Hennilser Foster, chairman.

Alonzo Raddin, the well known shoe man, and daughter, Eva, of Lynn st. have gone to Saco, Maine, for three weeks.

Miss Bertha Punchard of 144 Lynn street is spending the summer at Rumford Falls, Me. Miss Punchard is a student at the Essex Aggie College.



Miss Alice Coombs of Lynnfield street broke her collar bone at the play grounds last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Read of Lynnfield street have a new arrival, a son, born Tuesday.

The Epworth League of the Lake Shore Park church held a business meeting at the church Tuesday evening. Miss Edna Newhall, the newly elected president had charge of the meeting. Arrangements were made for an all day outing to Nantasket, Saturday, August 12, for the members and friends. Each member also agreed to take a dime and see how much money they could earn on that capital before the church lawn party, to be held the last of August.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

THE SITUATION

A rather curious situation is shown in the business reviews of the past month. On the one hand there is much encouraging progress being made toward prosperity in our various industries. Business reports are generally favorable. Failures in business are less. Money conditions are greatly improved. Unemployment is rapidly growing less both in this country and in Europe. World trade continues to show signs of improvement. Labor troubles in England have been quieting down and this is true also of France and Italy. The crops in this country are excellent and will be sold at better prices and are harvested at a less cost than a year ago. The farmer will have more money to use next fall. In fact a restoration of confidence is so general that the outlook for nearly normal business would be good, were it not for the coal strike and the railroad troubles.

On the other side of the picture we see that men are not yet able to work together for the general good and that distrust, suspicion and human perversity are the worst obstacles to our prosperity. Perhaps it is not too much to say they are the only obstacles. The general public however is beginning to see that when such conditions become too bad to be longer endured, they will be corrected. All the strikes at their very worst put together cannot stop the welfare of our country for very long. We are learning that these strike difficulties are only temporary and are without power to stop the rising tide of prosperity. Even the very conservative Harvard Economic Service says in its survey that "recovery is now well advanced" and that "general business prosperity may be looked for."

Nevertheless we are much disturbed by the railroad and coal troubles. Very few of us know what it is all about. Most of us think the shop men are striking against a cut in wages, but railroad wage rates are relatively higher than any other of our industries. Railroad labor gained 132 per cent increase since 1914 against 113 per cent for the average of other industrial wages. They have not been reduced as much as the average reductions to others even under the present cut.

There are other reasons for the present strike. The principal one being the modification of the so-called "shop rules." Mr. Jewell of the shop men's union says that the workers have fought for thirty years for better working conditions, and will not give up their guns at the demand of the Labor Board, which has modified seven of the worst of these rules. Shop rules instituted during the war have made repair work so costly, that it is much cheaper to have repairs made in private shops where there are no such rules, than it is in railroad shops. Efficient railroad management is seriously interfered with by these rules, some shops declaring that any efficiency at all is impossible. Meantime the travelling public and "the man who pays the freight" are demanding more and more efficiency at lower costs. It must be done and no union, no shop rules, no strikes, can change that public demand which will be respected. The good old Economic Law of "the greatest good to the greatest number" is at work.

The President of the United States has made a proclamation which ought to be carefully studied by every one of us. He says that any man or group of men has a right to stop working any time. But,—if they don't like their job they have no right to prevent any other man or group of men from taking that job. He means that when I give up "my job" it is no longer "my job." It belongs to any man who wants it.

The President goes much further than this. He says it is the duty of the government to protect every man on his job and calls upon the Governors of the States to do their duty and protect every man. He says if the State cannot do this to call upon the United States of America which will send its troops or its army, if necessary. For what? To protect the railroad, the mine, the owner, the capitalist? No. To protect any and every working man who wants to work, on the job he wishes to work on, so that no one can prevent him from working.

This is a very wonderful proclamation. Such a proclamation has never been made before in any country. A proclamation which tells you and me that we are to be considered under the care of our government. That we,—you and me,—are protected as individuals in our daily work and must be permitted to go on with that work in peace. When the full meaning of this proclamation is felt by the people, when we learn, each one of us, what it is to live in a country where we have our individual liberty, then we will search out and will find a way,—among ourselves,—how to arrange to live together and work together in harmony for the "greatest good to the greatest number," which means the greatest good to each one of us.

These lessons are hard to learn. War is a terrible thing whether between nations or among our own people. War brings much trouble and suffering. The better way is through the practice of Justice, of Co-operation, and of Service. It is the way of Peace.

MRS. HARRINGTON'S PET DOG KILLED

Mrs. Herbert A. Harrington, member of the school committee is mourning the loss of her pet white dog which was run over and killed by an automobile in front of the Harrington home on Andover street last Tuesday. The owner of the machine was Michael Lucey of Ipswich. Mrs. Harrington witnessed the accident from her yard.

PLAN CLAMBAKE FOR SERVICEMEN

Peabody businessmen will cooperate with Peabody ex-service men for an old-fashioned clambake and outing in West Peabody on Sunday, August 20. The purpose of the outing is to get better acquainted and the committee on good fellowship will be the principal hosts. Commander Leo Sullivan and committee have the assurances of hearty support. Chowder will be served all day and the clambake will come in the afternoon at 4.30.

AIR FLIVVER MAKES HIT IN SWEDEN

The latest novelty in aeroplanes is the Swedish air-flivver. It folds its wings when resting on terra firma so that it almost looks like a tent on wheels. The air-flivver was invented by Riesler and Bendels, two young Swedish engineers who are shown here with their craft. Riesler is standng and Bendels is astride a motorcycle.

with no fireworks and but little business of interest before the city fathers.

The Peabody Cycle Co. was given leave to withdraw its application to erect a gas filling station at 19 Central street near the Samson house. Messrs. Barnes, Poor and McKeen voted in favor of the permit.

Another application for a gas filling station was received from the Colonial Filling Station, Inc., of Cambridge which if granted will erect an elaborate station on the Stockwell estate Main and Washington streets. This aplication was set for a hearing on August 24.

At the Mayor's suggestion the Council referred back to the claims committee the claim of Antonio Magavero, contractor, for money due him on laying water pipe on Lynn street. City Engineer Emerson says that $1250 is due the contractor.

The Council voted $50 to B. J. McCarthy of 18 Shamrock street for damage to his land by water from a broken hydrant and $25 to Elliott Ward of Calumet street for water damages to his garden.

Leave to withdraw on the application of Albert Talbot of 49 Lowell street for a victualler's license was voted following the liquor raid at his place and a conviction this week.

Joseph Dullea, formerly employed in the street division who was discharged two months ago petitioned the Council for the two weeks vacation money allowed street employes. The claim was given to the committee for a report at the next meeting.

The Council adopted the order for a $60,000 school loan.

POLITICAL SQUIBS

Nomination papers for ex-Gov. Eugene Foss who is seeking the mantle again from the Democrats of the state were passed around in Peabody this week by Michael J. Dullea the former expressman and obtained ready signatures. Mr. Dullea has been picked as the Foss manager in this city.

Referendum papers are being signed petitioning the legislature to undo its action on prohibition. Councillor Duggan has charge of the papers.

Mat Meehan Youngest G.A.R. Moves To Lynn

Mathew Meehan, Peabody's youngest Grand Army veteran reached his 75th birthday anniversary last Sunday, July 23, still a young man in spirit and limb. He is spending his last week in Peabody for next week he will move to Lynn where he will reside with his sister, Mrs. Bridget Scanlon on Essex street, that city.

Mat's civil war history makes him stand out among the real heroes for he figured in many battles, being at Gettysburg and in Sherman's march to the sea. He escaped with slight wounds and was able to march in the great review in 1865 before President Lincoln.

He joined Co. G of the 17th Mass. Infantry on July 10, 1861, at Salem Willows when he was 15 years, lacking six weeks. His brother Capt. Dennis Meehan had enlisted and Mat wanted to do likewise to be with his brother. His age prevented him from being classed as a private but Capt. George W. Kenney of Danvers liked his spirit and made him a Captain's boy and Mat marched off to war. Inside of two months, Mat had been made a private and was doing his big bit like any of the older soldiers.

The regiment drilled at Lynnfield and later was sent to Baltimore enroute for the battlefields of the south. Mat was in the battles of Kingston, Whitehall, Goldsboro, Trenton, Cove's Creek and a half dozen others. He served three years and then anxious to join his brother who had been raised to a Captain he joined the latter's company and marched with Sherman to the sea. His regiment received the surrender of the last southern troops.

Mat was born in Ireland but his parents came to this country when he was a mere lad. Both his parents died while Mat was still running errands the baby of the family.

He is one of the best known G. A. R. veterans in Peabody always congenial and brim full of good nature. Mat promises to pay occasional visits to Peabody to greet his many friends.

DON'T WORRY!

WHEN the sun is blazing hot,
Don't worry!
When the breezes bloweth not,
Don't worry!
Think how it affects the corn;
Bumper crop, as sure's you're born—
Get up smiling every morn.
Don't worry!

When the iceman brings his bill,
Don't worry!
Keep your tongue and temper still.
Don't worry!
Pay his huge outrageous toll,
For they've got you in a hole—
If not ice, then it's for coal—
Don't worry!

Things look bad the country through?
Don't worry!
Can't help things by looking blue.
Don't worry!
Smile and just keep on your way,
Things will work out right some day,
So let nothing you dismay—
Don't worry!

Every dark cloud in your sight—
Don't worry!
Has a silver lining bright.
Don't worry!
Don't let trouble trouble you;
Just refuse to fret and stew;
To your own good sense prove true—
Don't worry!

Hot, of course, but what of that?
Don't worry!
It will make the harvest fat.
Don't worry!
Toil today—tomorrow rest;
Brace your nerves to stand each test,
For whatever is, is best—
Don't worry!

Lawrence Club Here On Sunday

The Town team will play the fast Buffalo club of Lawrence at the Park Sunday in what should prove the best game of the year. These two teams met in Lawrence recently in a hair-raising game, Peabody scoring 2 runs in the last inning, winning by the score of 3 to 2. Manager Devaney is not satisfied with the playing of some of the locals and a change will be made in the infield.

ORIENTALS

The Peabody Orientals will play the East Lynn Pioneers Sunday at Little River Park at 3.15. The lineup for the Orientals will be Beres ss, Anderson 2b, Welch rf, Sweeney p, McCusker 3b, Massey 1b, Russell lf, Wiggin c, Butler cf.

The Orientals have yet to be beaten and are out to win this game and make it eleven straight.

Tuesday in a twilight game the Orientals will play the Mohawk B. B. C. at Connolly Park, East End at 6.15.

How The Master Driver Became Master Tire Builder

IN 1903, driving the "999" racing car, Barney Oldfield started his career of victories that later earned him the title of "Master Driver of The World." To overcome the tire weaknesses that made racing difficult and dangerous, he studied tires—specified materials—supervised construction.

Today, Barney Oldfield is known as the "Master Tire Builder." Starting with the crude tires which carried the "999" one mile in sixty seconds, Oldfield gradually developed his famous Cords—a set of which covered 500 miles at eighty-eight miles an hour without a change.

In three years Oldfield tires have won every important race on American speedways. They are the only American tires that have ever taken first place in the French Grand Prix. They have won for three consecutive years in the 500-mile Indianapolis Sweepstakes. So far in 1922, Oldfields have lowered four World's Records and seven track records.

The Wichita Test Run gave evidence of Oldfield superiority in touring—when a set of four Cords covered 34,525 miles over rutted, frozen, winter roads—a performance attested by the Mayor of Wichita.

See your dealer and get a set of these rugged tires that Barney Oldfield has developed and perfected through a lifetime of practical tire experience. Their performance will convince you that they are "The Most Trustworthy Tires Built."

DONNELL TO TOUR BRISTOL COUNTY

Ex-Mayor Donnell, candidate for Attorney-General stopped his campaigning long enough to attend the outing of the Aleppo Shrine at Whalom Park, Fitchburg, and he was assured of a cordial reception by his friends in that Masonic body. He will renew his speaking on the stump tomorrow night with two street rallies in Lowell.

Monday Mr. Donnell will begin a campaign in Norfolk and Bristol counties, opening at South Braintree. He will cover all of the cities and larger towns, making Taunton, Fall River and New Bedford in which latter city he will speak next Saturday night. He has been putting up a spirited campaign and has been accorded pleasing receptions.

POLICEMAN TAKES PLEDGE

A Peabody policeman took the pledge this week and as a result will in the future probably ring in to headquarters at the regular interval. Because he has a family his name is withheld. His failure to ring in headquarters last Saturday night and absence at one of the fires was responsible for the notice which Chief Grady posted threatening to put the next offender before the City Council.

A report has it that the civil service board will be informed that some employes of the department under Chief Grady are not observing the regulation regarding their services.

MAYOR SHEA WILL SEEK REELECTION ON RECORD

Mayor Shea in a letter to the citizens of Peabody today announces his intention of being a candidate for reelection, thereby nailing the propaganda which has been started by some of his critics that he would not ask the endorsement of the citizens. He pays his respects to those who have opposed his efforts in the city government and declares that only a careful economy allowed a $36 tax rate rather than $45 as persistently predicted. He declares the city finances will be in good condition by Jan. 1 and that a lower tax rate is assured next year. His letter:

TO THE CITIZENS OF PEABODY

"I wish to announce my candidacy for reelection to the office of Mayor of the City of Peabody. Upon assuming the duties of my office as Mayor almost two years ago I realized the great responsibilities that rested upon me. I asked for and accepted the cooperation of those men who occupied official positions in the City. Failing to receive it in some notable instances and meeting with unwarranted and unexpected oppositions to the policies of my administration, I soon realized

PARCEL POST CARRIER CRONIN GIVING CITY FINE SERVICE

JAMES A. CRONIN, PEABODY'S PARCEL POST CARRIER

The above illustration shows Peabody's parcel post carrier and his motor vehicle which hustles mail packages to all parts of the city and who is giving excellent satisfaction and making many friends for the local postal service under Postmaster William F. Searle.

Cronin is the youngest regular letter carrier on the local force and one of the youngest regulars in the whole state. He was born in Peabody on Jan. 19, 1894, and so is 28 years old. He was given a regular appointment on the retirement of Arthur Elliott, one of the oldest veterans in the service who resigned in November, 1920. had first been given an appointment as a substitute carrier in August, 1917, and his work was of such a high order that he was promptly picked by former Postmaster Dullea when the vacancy occurred.

Cronin's family moved over the line into Salem when he was a young boy and he went through the schools in that city. A few hundred yards separated him from Peabody and many of his friends are in this city.

When the World's War called men into the service, Cronin entered the ordinance department on June 28, 1918, and for two months was at the Wentworth Institute in Boston. Then he was sent to Camp Hancock for the army had learned he was a letter carrier and they needed his services in the post office at the Georgia camp. He was denied the opportunity of going overseas because he was trained in the postal service and was kept in the Southern camp post office.

When former carrier Arthur Elliott resigned, Thomas P. Hanley was filling the job of the parcel post man and he was assigned to the Elliott route and Cronin was offered the motor carrier position which he has since filled with credit to himself and the local post office. He purchased a Dodge business car shown in the illustration and he is allowed $1100 a year for its upkeep. He makes no money on the uto being able to break about even.

He covers a district as far as Lynnfield and Proctor's Crossing and his motor vehicle is seen daily on most of the city's streets.

Mr. Cronin is married, having taken for his bride Miss Mary McCarthy a Danvers girl in June, 1919, and they are now residing in Danvers, but they plan to take up their residence in Peabody in the near future. Cronin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cronin of Belleview Ave., Salem. Frank Cronin a popular employe at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. is his brother d he has four sisters who are Mrs. Arthur Flatchbart of Salem, Mrs. Alice Foley and the Misses Nellie and Emily Cronin, the last three sisters living with their parents.

"Jim" has a smile that attests his good nature. He is courteous and painstaking and, as stated above, he is filling his government berth for Uncle Sam with fine credit.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

DO YOU LIKE TO TALK?

FRANKLY ask yourself the question: "Do you like to talk?" And if you have to admit that you do then bear in mind that certain pitfalls of bad manners lie in your path that do not beset the person who has no such fondness for the sound of his own voice.

Very often the person who likes to talk is the person who actually does talk cleverly. He likes to talk because he can see that people are interested by what he says and their show of interest is gratifying to his vanity. It is very pleasant to see a group of keenly interested faces around you when you are letting your tongue wag and when you tell a droll story it is gratifying, indeed, to hear the peals of hearty laughter. The person who sees readily that his listeners are bored can get no pleasure from talking. And usually, though not always, people who talk too much are persons who have naturally a gift in that direction. But they are wise if they do not abuse it.

The hostess especially should never monopolize the conversation. She should remember even if her women guests are extremely poor conversationalists, even if they are young and shy and timid, that good breeding demands that she bring them out and give them a chance to express their view and tell their funny anecdotes rather than that she should seize every opportunity to show her own wit and fluency.

Don't make the mistake of thinking so intently about what you are going to say when you can get a loophole in the conversation that you do not know what the others are talking about. Do not expect to gain their attention if you do not give them your attention when they are talking.

CITY HALL NOTES

Friends of Michael F. Conway, who came near being elected a Councillor-at-large two years ago want him to run again and he is making up his mind, declaring it is a bit early to worry much about politics and men who make their living off the game.

Councillor Francis L. Poor who made his first appearance before the Council last week in 15 months expects to attend the Council meeting again next Thursday. He will probably be a candidate to succeed himself and will undoubtedly be reelected.

* * *

Reserve officer John Keane, the only policeman who rides a motorcycle in the city, will probably rank high when it comes to picking out a man for that regular berth and Peabody should have a motor cop. There is a report going the rounds that one of the mayoralty candidates has promised to appoint Keane to the job of a motorcycle cop. Keane has had no direct promise, he avers, so its probably campaign bunk and we sure are getting lots of that right now. Some of this latter is that Mayor Shea will not seek reelection. The present Mayor apparently has the "pols" worried.

Getting back to Keane, he says he was ordered by Capt. McCarthy last week Saturday night to take out one of the motor vehicles assigned to police work and respond to a hurry call from officer Philip McGinn in Wilson Square. Keane obeyed orders and brought back a drunk. The other police vehicle was at one of the two fires at the time. According to Keane he was called down pretty hard by two of the police chauffeurs and warned not to touch either police vehicle again. That's going some, and if true, is a direct slap at Capt. McCarthy in charge of the night police force. Keane was obeying orders from his superior officer.

There is no danger of the taxrate being made an issue of the mayorality campaign this year except that instead of a $45 rate Mayor Shea and his advisers were able to keep it down to $36. The state bureau of accounting through Mr. Waddell has oked the Peabody figures.

The cost of new school houses contracted for in 1920 had much to do in boosting the taxrate this year.

Apropos of a campaign issue about the best one the "pols" have to date is that "I want the job" of leading the people and spending the people's money. The voters will decide.

Attorney William H. McSweeney of Salem counsel for William O'Connell fireman at the pumping station who was given a hearing this week before city engineer Emerson will take the case before Judge Manning. Under the charter City Engineer Emerson was jury and judge which is not quite according to Hoyle in providing the impartial deal to the man facing charges. There ought to be complete harmony in the city engineer's office. This much the taxpayers have a right to demand and will demand.

Mayor Shea believes the City Council should rehearse the contract between the City and Antonio Magavero the contractor who laid the new water mains on Lynn st. There is a claim for back pay and this claim, the Mayor feels, should be examined by the claims committee since the work was contracted for under the previous administration.

Charles F. Burns, of the city electrician's department was called back from his first week's vacation Sunday owing to the illness of his chief and he will take a week sometime in September.

Without an ordinance the city has no redress in court in any case that might follow where a one way street is named. The ordinance must be passed before the court would inflict a penalty for violation. There are pros and cons on making Wallis st. at Main a one way street and the vote is questioned.

The fact that under the statutes a permit for a gas tank is not revocable had much to do in influencing the Council last week in denying the application for a filling station on Central st. What action the Council will take on the application for a gas filling station at the Stockwell estate, Washington and Main streets will be recorded on August 24 when a hearing will be given. The chances are the permit will be denied, according to reports.

Mayor Shea received yesterday a copy of the year book of the city of Charleston, S. C., sent him by Mayor John P. Grace and among the reports of city departments the one made by the Commissioners of Public Works which handles the same departments as the city engineer in Peabody is the announcement that the profit and loss account of the water department showed a fine profit from its operations.

This profit and loss account showed a total of $249,869.74 against which was deducted all fixed charges amounting to $97,241.42 as follows: Interest-bonds, $63,986.25; Interest loans, $1,470.04; Sinking Fund reserve, $15,785.16; Depreciation reserve, $15,000; Special insurance, $999.97.

The net profit for the year was $152,628.32. In 1919 the net profit was only $136,581.01 and for the year 1918 it was $90,438.41. The increased profit during the peak of all prices due to the world war was most gratifying.

Supt. of schools Albert Robinson who is on his annual vacation at Tennant's Harbor, Me., returned to Peabody this week to attend the meeting of the school committee. He will spend the next two weeks with Mrs. Robinson at the Maine resort.

Lee Declined Command.

On April 18, 1861, President Lincoln, through Francis Preston Blair, tendered General Lee the command of the army of the United States, which was declined. Of this action Lee said: "I declined the offer he made me to take command of the army that was to be brought into the field, stating as candidly as I could, that though opposed to secession and deprecating war, I could take no part in the invasion of the southern states."

The Difference.

"The main difference 'twixt me an' my boy Jim," explained the farmer, "is that when I put in a day at work I don't feel like runnin' 'round nights, and when Jim puts in a night runnin' 'round he don't feel like workin' days."

Nursery Rhymes On Exhibition at Public Library

The exhibition of H. Willebeck Le-Mair's illustrations of "Old Nursery Rhymes" at the Peabody Institute Library is attracting a great deal of attention. Not only do the young children of kindergarten age enjoy the daintily colored illustrations of "Little Boy Blue" and "Little Miss Muffet," etc., but older folks as well. There are forty-five pictures in all and Librarian John E. Keefe has had them hung where they may be easily seen. The pictures are published by the Library Art club with which the Peabody Library is affiliated, and different sets are exhibited every three weeks.

Many Leather Plants Adopt New Processes

(By ENERGY)

For three years tanners have been in the slough as it were. Little or no business, therefore time was the long item on the books. The cry has always been when business was good, there was little time for new ideas. In these three years there has been ample opportunity for pacticing new ideas. I wonder if many tanners have done this. There is no question some of the more progressive have tried new ways in tanning, yes and finishing. It is a fact that many processes used before the war are relegated to the rear for all time. It came about in most cases because of labor scarcity which made it imperative to cut corners. When the corners were cut, it showed that a drift in the wrong direction had gradually taken place, a drift which cost money and gave no results. Thus eliminating such processes has caused the tanner to ask himself the question, are there not other processes which could not be done away with and hold the quality of the leather?

Any one who has had experience in manufacturing leather knows that when everything is going well, it is the poorest of policies to make changes. There has been many tanners pushed to the wall by taking chances on new ideas, because they did not take the precaution to test well before using. Thus the tanner of today remembering such failures, is loth to change any process when all is well. But in up-to-date factories today, there is apparatus for experimenting, miniature tanneries which carry a small amount of stock through and produce results good or bad.

So this fall I am expecting new lines of leather which are improved over leather formerly made. The great improvement will be in the tanning process, and being different will require changes in finishing. Chemistry is king in tanneries today. One must know chemicals and their results or Mr. Trouble steps in. I believe we are to step fast on the improvement train, and the fellows who will not get aboard better buy or steal a pick and shovel.

Cracky leather is little seen today. The beginning of chrome tanning gave the consumer a variety of shoes which cracked all over or in places. The process of elminating the acid was not then perfected. Acid works while you sleep. I do not wish to get too far into this subject for ignorance would protrude. It is enough to say that the leather of today is an improved article over 10 years ago, and in the next 10 years the same proportion of improvement will be shown. It will not do to have shoes wear too long. It makes the wearer tired of his shoes, and the manufacturer tired waiting for more orders. In other words, when the public buys cheap shoes, cheap quality will be the company. So in shoe leather. Pay the price and get the wear. It is fast coming to just this state of affairs. If a tanner can produce leather which brings back good reports from consumers, he need not fear competition. The shoe manufacturer will not take the chance of some other fellow's leather. His trade calls for Lawrence, Hunt-Rankin, Creese and Cook, and so down the line.

From far off Germany, an inventor of a measuring machine connected with the Turner Tanning Machine Co. in their German plant, is in Peabody. He came over to tune up his invention and I am told is showing the natives something. I wish him success. I wish any one success who is striving to better tanning machinery, for it means much to the industry. Whatever I could say for or against this machine would amount to little or nothing. I have no ax to grind no particular measuring machine to promote. But having dubbed around such machines a part of my natural life, I believe we are due for a big improvement in that important part of leather making. There appeared to me to be some faults in this German machine, but we have been so used to finding fault with Germany, it is not surprising. This machine will measure, I am told, anything but liquids. It matters little whether liquids enter into the subject, for there has been a big drop in liquids. Not down but out.

Leather for automobiles is on the increase. Closed bodies have been made of wood, top and all. Now many bodies show a leather top which is coming back to first principles. Peabody has made about all kinds of leather. Carriage leather is foreign to this burg. Newark has been the home of carriage and automobile leather since Columbus time. They handle hides which measure 60 feet and upwards with the same grace we do sheepskins. Leather has had the call for carriage trimmings always, but when the auto manufacturer had to use leather in such large quantities he balked at the expense, and imitations together with cloth was substituted. They are gradually coming back to leather particularly in the high priced cars.

We of Ford variety cannot expect it. The leather would cost more than the machine, and Henry could not afford to spill 5000 machines daily with real leather for cushions. No sir. Leave it to Henry.

For short runs up to 25 miles, railroads are meeting stiff competition with auto trucks. Much money has been lost with trucks. The trouble appears to have been that wrong makes and sizes of these trucks would not produce results. Using a six ton truck for two ton loads is worse than carrying your watch in a wheelbarrow. But when the truck fits the work, all is well.

Cancellations of orders has been one of the great troubles of tanners for many moons. It was always so in dull times. Many tanners have tried to get used to cancellations, but like the small pox it takes time to do so.

Foreign business is gaining each week. Our leather has gained a foothold in many foreign countries which will be difficult to eliminate.

Much is said about weather affecting leather making. Such weather as Mexico produces might make this statement appear true. Outside of sheepskins there is little to worry about in leather making. They make straw hats under water, much leather is made in the most important processes under water mixed with ——, and if fish could be procured to do the work, I am not sure but what all could be done except the final finishing. The shoe manufacturer dampens the leather to last it I am told, but do not take such a statement from me. However, forget weather conditions these days.

29 Babies Are Being Nursed At Ropes' Point

At the present time the North Shore Babies' hospital has 29 patients. These babies range in age from a few weeks up to two years, and represent the following ten towns: Marblehead, Lynn, Salem, Beverly, Danvers, Gloucester, Peabody, Essex, Cambridge, and South Boston. Babies are taken from outside of Essex County only when there are no Essex County babies on the waiting list. At present, the outside babies have been recommended by Boston hospitals, who are always ready to take any babies we may have, not in condition to go home at the end of the season.

BENTLEY SCHOOL

The Bentley School of Accounting and Finance will move this month into its new home, a large building at 915-921 Boylston St., Boston, which has been remodelled to meet the growing requirements of the institution. This latest step in the growth of the Bentley Schools calls attention to the fact that this institution has now become the largest professional school of collegiate grade in the world devoted exclusively to the training of accountants. Its remarkably rapid growth is a tribute to the judgment of Harry C. Bentley, C. P. A., that there was need of a school restricted to the teaching of accounting.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Our Chamber of Cemmerce is functioning again. Already steps are being taken to get this organization on its feet again, and by fall it is planned to keep the work moving as before the reorganization. Peabody must have a Chamber of Commerce which is alive to everything which pertains to the betterment of the city. Mistakes in the past will serve to help in the future, for all of us profit by the mistakes we make. The field is so broad, this organization has no limit for its work. What has been accomplished in the past is a lesson for future doings. So by enlisting house holders to subscribe annually a small sum, together with those who can and will give larger amounts, it is hoped a new lease of life will be given this Chamber of Commerce, and givers will appreciate the efforts of its officers. With all said and done, we must have an organization of this kind, for its efforts are far reaching.

SLAUGHTERING CATTLE

In last week's edition of the Enterprise, we referred to the possibility of more than one inspector of slaughtering, as being necessary. We also dwelt on the fact that this work should be done legally, for the health of the community must be protected. We again say that diseased animals must be cared for in other ways than helping to furnish food for human beings. We do not know but what conditions of this kind are cared for as they should be. We do not know but what one inspector can care for all the slaughtering in Peabody. If so well and good. If not so, health must be protected. Any butchers who will not respect the law to the letter, should be given the limit of the law. So as we have no feeling in the matter for or against any or all individuals interested, we stand as always, ready to see that the public gets a square deal. If there are any who would evade the law, the inspector, whoever he may be, should be held responsible. It is a part of his stock in trade.

TRAFFIC POLICEMEN

The time has arrived for Peabody to have more traffic policemen on duty Sunday and the busy hours during the week. Every pleasant Sunday an unbroken line of automobiles can be seen on Andover and Central streets, and other main thoroughfares are practically the same. Go where you will in cities as large or larger than Peabody, traffic police are in evidence at cross roads and congested districts. It may be said the city cannot take on more expense this year, but another year is coming, and any one who will visit Central and Andover streets of a Sunday afternoon will bear us out in our statement. There are many ways in the running of a city where economy can be pracitced without doing harm. But protecting auto drivers has become a necessity, for one fool driver can discomode scores of others. Let us wake up to the fact we are a city, and as such keep in the front rank in the future as we have in the past.

EMERSON PARK

Emerson Park has been a mecca for young America for some years. This year more than any before, for base ball has taken a hold which tests the park to its capacity. Other organizations would like the park for fairs. Householders in the vicinity, with past experiences object to these gatherings on the ground of the noise late at night, and damage done to property. The Park Commissioners who have the authority to govern conditions, must decide what is best. Whichever way they decide, will leave sores. To deprive the youth and young men of base ball will meet objection. To pay no attention to property owners would be unfair. A compromise may please all concerned.

One and Same Stone.

"Few realize," said a jeweler, who was discussing the increasing popularity in stones of the semi-precious varieties, "that the garnet and the carbuncle are one and the same stone. They are varieties of garnets, but the term carbuncle may be applied to any of them. The trade generally understands 'carbuncle' to mean a garnet which has been cut cabochon—that is with a smooth half round or domed top without almost any faceting. For large garnets this is the favorite cutting. This is almost exclusively used in jewelry for men."

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

TEN YEARS

TO THE boy of eight, ten years is an eternity. Ten years ago he had no existence. Ten years more and he will be a man in stature—a size that seems to him far beyond attainment.

To the boy of twenty-one, ten years, while not a lifetime, is a long stretch ahead.

At the end of the coming ten years he will be well on his way to wherever he is going, success or failure.

If he could understand just how much those ten years mean, just what can be done with them, just what they will yield if rightly cultivated, there would be far less trouble and distress in the world.

To the man of forty, ten years are ten years which must not be wasted. The next ten years are his best, as far as productivity is concerned. If he has not made the last ten years count, he still has a chance with the next ten.

After that, unless he is a phenomenon, the chance will be gone. He can progress after fifty, go farther than he has ever gone, but rarely unless he is going strong on his fiftieth birthday.

Look at your remaining years as an asset. Examine the next ten of them for opportunity, and see if you can allot to each enough work to carry you at a better pace into the next decade.

Ten years wisely employed at any time after twenty ought to make a man either a success or a failure.

They may not be enough to bring a fortune, but they ought to bring habits and methods which later will insure independence.

Compare the next ten years with the last, and determine that these stretches of time, now empty and unimproved, shall be filled with achievement that is worth while.

You can put into them almost anything you choose—work, effort, thought, or idling, and time wasting.

Almost any man can be made or broken in ten years. You have at least that time before you if you are the age of the average newspaper reader.

Make up your mind that even if the last ten years counted for nothing the next ten will count for much. Make that purpose, and stick to it. And these coming ten years will be the best you have ever known.

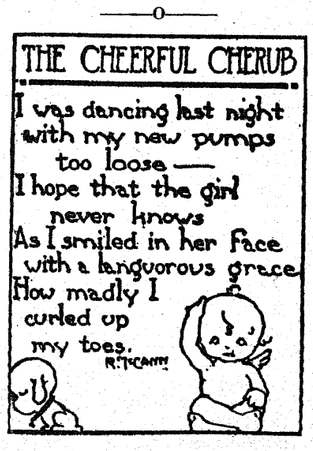
THE ROMANCE OF WORDS



"VILLAIN"

HISTORY, which has a habit of repeating itself, runs true to form in a number of words, as may be seen by the comparison of the changes undergone by "pagan" and "villain." The former, as we have seen, first meant a dweller in a village (pagus), then a heathen villager and then a heathen.

Similarly, "villain" was originally applied to the serf or peasant, known as "villanus" because he was attached to the villa or farm. In this sense it had no opprobrious meaning whatever, being practically a synonym for our word "countryman" or "rustic." Then, because it was taken for granted that the peasant would be churlish, selfish, dishonest, and generally of evil moral conditions—referring, of course, only to the peasants of other days—the word began to take on these secondary characteristics, and, at the third step, nothing of the meaning which the etymology suggests survives. The peasant is entirely lost, and the evil moral conditions of him who is called by this name alone remain, for, in its final stage, the epithet may be as freely applied to the peer as to the pauper. In fact, thanks to popular fiction and the even more popular screen, the current visualization of a villain is that of a well-dressed, black-mustached, cigarette-smoking person, bred within the morally cramped confines of the big city rather than raised in the theoretically pure atmosphere of the farm. Thus do words swing around until their meaning points in a direction precisely opposite to that in which they started.

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

ROUND ABOUT

I observed William C. Hayward, the provision dealer who tips the beam close to 268 pounds cavorting on the tennis court on Washington st. one day this week opposing one of his daughters at this popular net game. Judging from the way he was kept hustling to return the service of his daughter he was in a good way to lose some of his avoirdupois. He was using a racket he purchased 25 years ago and which is still fit for duty.

Norman C. Crane, civil engineer, who has recently gone into business for himself in Boston and Peabody is being kept busy checking fire losses for Boston concerns. Mr. Crane is also doing much surveying work in Peabody. He has some fine prospects and undoubtedly will build up a pleasing business.

There is no denying the fact that Chick Davies is a big drawing card for Salem in twilight baseball. At the game against the House of David bearded "ladies" last Monday night I observed hundreds of Peabody fans among the throng that caused ground rules. Chick was in fine form and had the visiting players entirely at his mercy. Salem relies much on Peabody to make its baseball a success. Joe O'Connor, the relief pitcher, is another Peabody player who counts heavily in action.

Peabody Congregationalists and Unitarians who visited the conferences of their churches at the Isle of Shoals recently, report almost winter weather at this summer resort. Getting the breeze from every quarter, and a cool breeze with the past weather, "makes us rather bear those ills we have than go to others we know not of."

* * *

The blocks on Main street formerly the Sutton and Pevear estate, have had more than their share of fire trouble. With families overhead, such fires make a menace which causes food for thought.

* * *

Dopesters are busy figuring out the chances for those who aspire to be Peabody's next mayor. Some are ready to give their idea of what will be, but as there are many opinions, it weakens the prophesier.

At the Hunt-Rankin outing last Saturday, Harold Gardner proved to be an athlete of no mean ability. He captured the fat men's race (over 200 pounds to eligible), was afterward challenged by Mr. Rankin, and trimmed his boss easily. He is also some man on a tug-of-war team.

The South Church steeple has been lassoed. A rope is now drawn tightly about its neck so to speak, and later some fellow, with climb for a middle name, will ascend to the top. While there a little oil on the weather vane would help. It now takes a heavy wind to turn the vane about.

* * *

Dr. Henry C. Doyle who passed away recently, was a familiar character on our streets for over 40 years. At least one man will miss Doctor, for his ice box often contained a pheasant or other birds of the kind, and brook trout, for no man knew better where they were. It was his way to leave them in the ice box without announcing his coming. Life in the open was his best enjoyment.

It was a pleasure to see Francis L. Poor back in his seat in the Council. He has fought a brave battle against disease, and is winning. His wife has been with him which means much.

* * *

The Rotary Club outing is rounded into shape, and automobiles galore will be in attendance to take the youngsters to the grove and home again. An occasion of this kind is a novelty here, and shows the calibre of the Rotary Club and its members. The greatest of these is charity.

* * *

Another new candidate for golf honors. Dr. Yale is practicing daily in his back yard, preliminary to hitting them out at the Homestead Club. A good ball player, we predict he will make all of them travel to win.

Attorney-General Donnell to be is campaigning throughout the state, and has a big staff of workers helping his cause. When the real fight begins, there will be little need of fireworks.

Michael J. Sherry having announced he will not be a candidate to succeed himself as collector, aspirants will have a merry battle for the position. Anybody who thinks this position is a sinecure, would do well to get acquainted with its duties. A good collector is valuable and a poor one will cost the city big money. Michael has filled the bill.

It appears as though rents on Peabody Square have reached their limit. While high, in comparison with other cities, they are not excessive. Property owners there are not getting a big return for their money, in fact less than on many other investments.

* * *

There are several factory buildings to rent or for sale about the city, the result of dull business. Their worth in dull times as compared with good times is far different. To replace them gives one some idea of their worth.

Margin st. and Gardner park near by, is fast becoming one of the best localities for dwellings in the city. A fine place for golf bugs, for they can get in a round before breakfast, dinner and supper, at the Salem Golf Club near by. A golf course situated in two cities, Salem and Peabody, and a town, Danvers, is some out of the usual, but such is the Salem Golf Club.

The inhabitants in most Maine cities must be law abiding. Gardner has but one policeman, Pittsfield has one on duty evenings only. This official rides over his beat, a matter of 200 yards, in a Hudson touring car. Pretty soft. The sheriff in Maine counties attends to all the criminal work, thus the few cops.

* * *

The Rowe Motor Co. on Foster st. needs more room, so plans are being formulated to add to the building they now occupy, either in the rear, or on the street where the old building was recently torn down. A hustling concern.

* * *

It is said the reason the Howard Clock Co. did not come to Peabody was because help was not available. It might mean the help was but dwellings, no.

The Testimony of a Father

"The Co-operative Bank is something every young man should know about and connect with,"—he told us.

"I wanted my boy to save regularly and your shares are ideal. Besides, the high earnings are a great incentive to make a fellow stick with it and increase his holdings as his earning power increases."

"When the boy is ready for a home, he is already in close touch with an institution that can be a great help to him."

We Are Building A Reputation

We are convinced, that day by day, the folks of Peabody are realizing that the best values in furniture or home furnishings may be found at "Tompkins."

Logically, it is reasonable that you should trade with us. Isn't our store straight ahead from the cars in Town House Square, just "seven steps from City Hall"?

Our prices, too, compare very advantageously with the prices of goods in other places. Of course, quality must be considered.

If we told you how our customers in Peabody have increased during the last few months, you would hardly believe us. There is only one reason, and that is our policy of figuring correct values.

Very likely a great many of the folks right on your street are customers of ours. They will speak well of us if you ask them, because they call our store, their store.

Goodrich new tire prices

—lowest cost mileage ever known

The new base line tire prices established by Goodrich, effective July 20th, give motorists a definite guide to tire prices as Goodrich Tires are the definite standard of Tire quality. They know now they can buy the very best tire—the one quality Silvertown—the tire that has always held its leadership because—it wears longer, looks better, and because, mileage considered, it costs less than any other tire at any price. Dealers have been quick to point out to their customers the big advantage and economy of buying

SOME OF THE LATEST BOOKS ADDED TO THE LIBRARY

Mexico on the Verge. By E. J. Dillon, author of "The Eclipse of Russia, etc." A resume, and an analysis of Mexico and the Mexican situation of today, done by a man who probably knows more of what is behind the scenes in international relations than any other living writer.

Grey Riders. The Story of New York State Troopers. By Frederic F. Van De Water. Illustrated. A book of true adventure which tells the story of New York's state police, of what they do and how they do it. Punctuated with humor, it is as readable as the best fiction and it has the added value of historical accuracy.

A Jewish Chaplain in France. By Rabbi Lee J. Levinger, M. A., Executive Director Young Men's Hebrew Association, New York City. With a foreword by Cyrus Adler, Ph.D. With frontispiece group portrait. "This is the first account of the work of a Jewish chaplain with the American Expeditionary Forces. He tells of his experiences in camp, in the hospitals, and under fire with the twenty-seventh Division, of how he led the dying Jewish soldiers in the traditional confession of their faith, read a psalm for the dying protestants, borrowed a surgeon's rosary and held the cross to the lips of a dying Catholic."

Mounted Justice. True Stories of the Pennsylvania State Police. By Katherine Mayo, author of "Justice to All," etc. This is the third of Miss Mayo's notable books devoted to the Pennsylvania State Police. Here she tells nine tales of the actual achievements of that fine body of men. She is not weaving romances, but recording actual events, yet the adventures of Sherlock Holmes himself never surpassed in thrilling interest these true stories.

The Iron Man in Industry. An Outline of the Social Significance of Automatic Machinery. By Arthur Pound. Here is a refreshingly modern argument for such education of our industrial workers that they may be equipped profitably to enjoy leisure that the automatic machine now provides them.

Home Making Simplified. A Book for the bride, as well as for the experienced housekeeper who is still confronted with unsolved problems. By Bertha Streeter.

MOONLIGHT RIDE

The First Baptist Church will hold a moonlight motor boat sail next Tuesday. A truck leaving the church at 7.30 will convey the party to Salem Willows where the boat will be taken for Gloucester. All those desiring to go should notify Miss Evelyn Pitman before next Monday.

Mother's Cook Book

"Worry and optimism cannot travel the same road, to say nothing of going in the same company. A real good worrier is not generally sought after, either in business or social life."

FOR THE FAMILY MEAL

TO MAKE hot lunch sandwiches, chop remnants of ham fine; season and moisten with cream or melted butter and put on buttered slices of bread. Press the slices firmly together and trim them in oblongs or squares. Beat one egg, add from a cupful to a pint of milk, according to the number of sandwiches; add a little pepper and salt and dip each sandwich in the mixture, turning once or twice until well saturated. Brown delicately on both sides in a hot frying pan with a little butter. Serve at once on a hot platter, garnished with parsley or nasturtium leaves and blossoms. Sandwiches filled with jelly may be fried the same way, dusted with powdered sugar and served as dessert.

Apple Salad.

Slice tender apples thinly, leaving the skin remain if bright red. Mix with half as much finely-cut celery, chopped onion or cabbage. Add enough thick cooked salad dressing to hold the mixture together. Peanut butter may be used in place of the dressing if desired; season with salt, pepper and thin with a little vinegar and water. Serve on lettuce or in apple cups.

Strawberry Cake.

Make a one-egg cake mixture and bake in two layers. Take the whites of two eggs beaten stiff and dry, then add one cupful of crushed strawberries mixed with one cupful of sugar. Add gradually, beating all the while until stiff enough to hold its shape. Place on the cake and cover with the other layer.

"Way Down East" at Strand Next Monday Night---Betty Compson Tonight's Feature

Betty Compson, Paramount star of "The Green Temptation," and "The Miracle Man," and Tom Moore, whose smile has delighted millions, will appear together in "Over the Border," which will be the main attraction on the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday.

"Over the Border," is the story of the love of Sergeant Flaherty, of the "Royal Mounted," for Jen, daughter of a bootlegging tavern keeper. It has many moments of high drama and Miss Compson, as Jen, misses none of its opportunities. Produced as a Paramount picture, superbly cast and filmed among mountain settings which thrill with their beauty, the creation is one that rightfully bears the hallmark of excellence. It is an adaptation of Sir Gilbert Parker's notable short story, "She of the Triple Chevron," and has retained all the power and force with which this famous author invested his work, and has enhanced the history of the celebrated R. N. W. M. Police. Larry Semon in one of his inimitable comedies and George Walsh in "With Stanley in Africa," are the other attractions listed for showing today.

Mary Miles Minter in "The Heart Specialist," and May McAvoy in "A Viriginia Courtship," will be the double feature bill for Sunday evening. The Strand's Sunday evening concerts are always a bit better than those offered in other cities and this bill will prove no exception.

The most important announcement coming from the local playhouse in months is the news that D. W. Griffith's wonder spectacle "Way Down East," will open for a three day engagement starting on Monday.

"Way Down East" is the greatest of all motion picture attractions. Millions have seen it, many having paid a dollar for the privilege. Now, however, it will be shown at the Strand at the regular scale of prices.

The screen version of this great play is based upon the simple tale of plain people revolving around the love of David Bartlett and Anna Moore in a New England rural community. Griffith has embellished it with those rare touches that he brings to everything he does for a motion picture narrative but upon such a scale that he has literally evolved a new art. It possesses scenes of such sweetness and charm that they are pronounced worthy to hang in art galleries and has added a thrilling climax showing the rescue of Anna by David after a battle through the night with the storm and the great ice pam which is universally proclaimed the greatest scene ever seen within a theater in the world's history.

Lillian Gish and Richard Barthelness are the stars of the production. Mary Hay, Lowell Sherman Burr McIntosh and Mrs. Morgan Belmont are be seen in the supporting roles.

Starting next Thursday the Strand will offer for a three day run Douglas Fairbanks in "The Three Musketeers."

A. O. H. Lawn Party August 10 Will Give Free Trip to Ireland

Next Thursday evening the annual lawn party of Div. 11 A. O. H will be held on the O'Shea grounds on Washington St. and indications point to its being the most interesting affair of the season as the large and energetic committee are doing everything possible to make it interesting for young and old. "Plenty of fun for everyone", is the motto of the committee and they are at all times on the alert for new and novel features of entertainment.

The 12th Regiment band will furnish the music for the occasion and a concert will be given on Peabody Sq. from 7.30 to 8 P. M. and then march to the grounds where thousands can enjoy themselves for the evening. Dancing will be free on the large and up-to-date dance floor which is owned by the A. O. H. This floor has been newly waxed and made up so as to equal the floor of any dance hall in New England.

The free trip ticket to Ireland which will be given away on that evening is causing a great deal of interest among the members of the division who have charge of the tickets. Many ticket holders are anxious to make the trip at the expense of the A. O. H.

William F. Carlin, Chairman of the Midway has secured for the evening the Whit Mait trio of Boston who are noted singers and entertainers. This trio are engaged for the summer at the band stand at Nahant and will be sure to make a hit here.

GRANGE OUTING AT ESSEX AGGIE

Peabody Grange members will attend the Grange field day at the Essex Agricultural School next week Wednesday and some of the prizes offered in the all day events may be brought back to this city. There will be a program of sports for the children and young folk. A sewing race for both men and women contestants should prove one of the features. In the afternoon there will be numerous farming and household contests. A. H. Harrington of Peabody is a member of the executive committee having the event in charge.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

A YEAR AGO

One year ago we began the publication of these "Little Talks." It was an experiment, the result of which we could not see. Perhaps we were wasting time and valuable space in this paper. What is the use of such an attempt?

Well, we don't know yet, but the following little story is an illustration of what is meant and shows the appreciation of one man. A Tacker in one of the leather factories told me that every Saturday evening his son with his wife came over to the house and as the father and son smoked their pipes, mother read the "Little Talk" of that week, aloud, and they spent the evening talking about it. "We do not always understand all of it," he said, "But after reading a whole lot we came to the conclusion that they all told the same story, first in one way and then in another."

"What is the story they tell to you?" I asked him. He replied, "I think it is the story of the Golden Rule."

I hope this tacker was right; for I have said the same things over and over again; in the hope that my readers may absorb into their thoughts the story of the Golden Rule and the truth of the Economic Law, just as the children absorb the mulitplication table in their schools, by saying it over and over many times. The first "Little Talk" written in August, 1921, so nearly applies to the thought of today that I am going to write some part of it over again,—here it is.

A Square Deal

Justice, — Co-operation, — Service, —the three great principles. Justice comes first because all civilization has grown through the wish and effort of men for a Square Deal between one man and another. We cannot live together in peace unless that peace is based upon Justice. The nation or country that comes nearest to the practice of a Square Deal is the most prosperous and is the best to live in. The United States is ahead of every other country in the world in trying to give a Square Deal to everybody.

But the United States is a long way from being perfect. Why? Because so many men don't want a Square Deal; they want all they can get without regard to anyone else. Not everybody, of course, for if everybody was like that we would have no peace, but enough of us are grabbing all we can grab and are making a lot of trouble for the rest of us. Look around you in Peabody and you will find that 90 per cent of the people are fair and square and honest. If it were not so we would have no schools, no water works, no banks or factories,—in fact, no civilization. Most of the people are honest and just or the factories and stores couldn't trust them and business would stop.

The other 10 per cent make all the trouble. They lie and cheat, beat their bills, get the best of the other fellow, talk against the government, stir up discontent, try in some way to get a living without doing an honest day's work. These people have to be watched. Laws have to be made for them by the other 90 per cent and courts and jails are built for them. It is about the same all over the United States and is about the same among all classes of men, rich or poor, about one person in ten making trouble for the other nine. No, we are not perfect yet,—anywhere.

But we must understand that men don't know what a Square Deal is; we are learning more and more about it every day. What we thought fifty years ago we do not think today. That is why our laws are changing. Fifty years ago little children worked in factories and in mines. The Justice of today will not permit this. One hundred years ago the law said a man could beat his wife all he wished if he didn't use a stick thicker than his thumb. Today we put such a man in jail. Twenty years ago women were not allowed to vote; this was not a Square Deal; we changed the law; they vote now. We have in all these years learned more about Justice.

Where do we learn most about Justice? Think it over, it's very simple We learn more about a Square Deal on our job whatever that job may be. Doctor, lawyer, storekeeper, manufacturer, wroking man, working woman, all together in one big mass learning the lesson of a Square Deal, each on his own job. Day by day; year by year; generation after generation growing better, bigger, thinking more, studying more, learning hard lessons together, a little, a very little, every day.

It is only through learning these lessons that progress is made and civilization is built up. Yes, but what use is it to me to learn these lessons? Because it pays,—that's why; because it makes you and me more prosperous and more happy,—that's why, and that's reason enough.

There is a better way to build up the leather industry in Peabody than by fighting over it like dogs fighting over a bone. The better way is to build up a Square Deal between man and man. Who builds this up? You do. Each man by himself and every man together. Manufacturer, manager, superintendent, foreman salesman, clerk, working man, working woman. Whichever you are, this means YOU.

In thousands of factories all over this country "A New Idea" is being worked out. We are trying to bring harmony into our daily job, in some factories by one method, in other factories by other methods. We are on our way. Let's think it over among ourselves.

Shedding Weight by Work.

On the track, a loss of eight pounds in an hour is very common, even when men are in the pink of condition. So in the sea, where the best trained swimmers lose weight rapidly. One of them, in attempting to swim the Channel, is reported to have left the water ten pounds lighter than when he entered it, notwithstanding that he took a good deal of food, liquid and other, meanwhile. It is really absurd, therefore, to become apprehensive because of a slight loss of bodily weight. Of course, a continuous loss over a reasonable period should be attended to. But small variations, being natural and consistent with perfect health, need not worry anybody.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

THE TELEPHONE

REMEMBER the telephone!

For what is the use of our wonderful modern civilization if we don't take advantage of all its conveniences? And that is just what the telephone is—a convenience.

Yet for the sake of saving five or ten or twenty cents, sometimes, some of us ignore the existence of the telephone, and cause thereby untold worry to our family and our friends.

For instance, you have told your family that you will be home at four o'clock to take a little motor trip before dinner. You are delayed at the office, and know you won't be able to get home until seven. Telephone them, and put their minds at rest about the change of your plans. Or you are delayed by a block on the subway or street car line on the way to a friend's house for a luncheon engagement. Telephone her, instead of arriving three-quarters of an hour late, full of apologies. Or perhaps you take a taxi to the station to catch a train to a friend's house for a week-end visit. The taxi is caught in a traffic jam and you miss the train. Telephone, so that the friend who is expecting you won't wait anxiously for your train to arrive.

It is a far better thing to use the telephone to explain away worries and doubts and misunderstandings than to use it as a means of disseminating neighborhood gossip.

WHY?

DO SERVANTS WEAR LIVERY

AS MIGHT be deduced from the fact that the word "livery" is of French origin—derived from the verb "livrer," "to deliver"—the custom of clothing servants in a uniform started in France where it was the habit of the early French kings to give clothes to their servants. Because these outfits were given or delivered free of charge, the uniforms were spoken of as "liveres" and the custom gradually spread until all of the nobility and even some of the gentry were clothing their servants. As a means of differentiating between the servants of various houses, the uniforms were made of contrasting colors and varying styles, and the French verb, when translated into English, became "livery."

In England, however, the term has had a number of meanings. During the reign of Edward IV, for example, it appears to have been synonymous with "badge," because this mark of service consisted of a crest or coat-of-arms worn upon the left sleeve—much as the men of the American expeditionary force wore an arm-badge or insignia to designate the regiment to which they belonged. Like other uniforms, the servants' livery gradually became standardized and today there is far less latitude in the choice of servants' clothing of this kind than there was in the Middle ages.

American Legion

After spending two years in acquiring funds for a clubhouse, the American Legion post in Mangum, Okla., decided the children of the town needed a playground worse than the former service men did a club house. Accordingly, the Legionnaires obtained an eight year lease on a plot of ground and used the fund they had been so long in collecting to purchase playground equipment.

In his series of articles "The Truth About Bergdoll," Charles R. Fehrlin of Philadelphia, describes the present appearance of America's arch slacker as that of a "fat middle-class German with a hatred of everything American." Fehrlin was one of the party of army intelligence operatives who recently tried to kidnap Bergdoll in Germany. It was the purpose of the United States Government to return Bergdoll to this country to serve the sentence imposed for the violation of the selective draft act.

A Pacific Arlington is planned by the American Legion posts in Los Angeles County, California. A large plot, with space for 11,000 graves, has been acquired in Glendale cemetery. A fund has been set aside for a large monument and for the upkeep of this burying ground of the West coast's soldier dead.

Because the mayor of Summer, Wash., could give no legitimate reason why the Summer American Legion should not give a dance on the Main street of the city, after he had strictly forbidden such frivolity, Legionnaires obtained a court writ restraining the mayor from interferring with the celebration. Citizens of the community and visitors from many nearby towns danced up and down Main street in response to the Legion's invitation which read: "Dance with the Lewis-Guill post, No. 53, of the American Legion by order of the court."

Mayor Shea Announces Candidacy

that my task of carrying out a business administration was even greater than I had anticipated.

My administration was confronted with great financial difficulties, a stupendous debt, which had been increased by over $800,000 during the year previous to my assuming office, a great loss of revenue from the State caused by the great business depression through which the whole country had been passing; expenditures necessary to provide equipment for our new High School and to provide additional teachers for the same; a substantial loss of revenue from the sale of water due to a decrease in consumption by our factories.

These conditions contrasted to those of the most prosperous years during the late war made it evident to me that all the energy at my disposal and all my time regardless of my own personal business must be devoted to the City's interest in order to keep the tax rate within reasonable bounds.

A tax rate of $45.00 for the current year has been persistently predicted but by practicing strict economy in making up the budget I succeeded in fixing the rate at $36.00. The advance in rate over the uncalled for low rate during the first years of our existence as a City was caused principally by the payments of debts contracted by the previous administration. I do not wish to be-little the great improvements that those debts represent, but I do wish to impress upon the public that the taxpayers must settle in full for those lavish improvements.

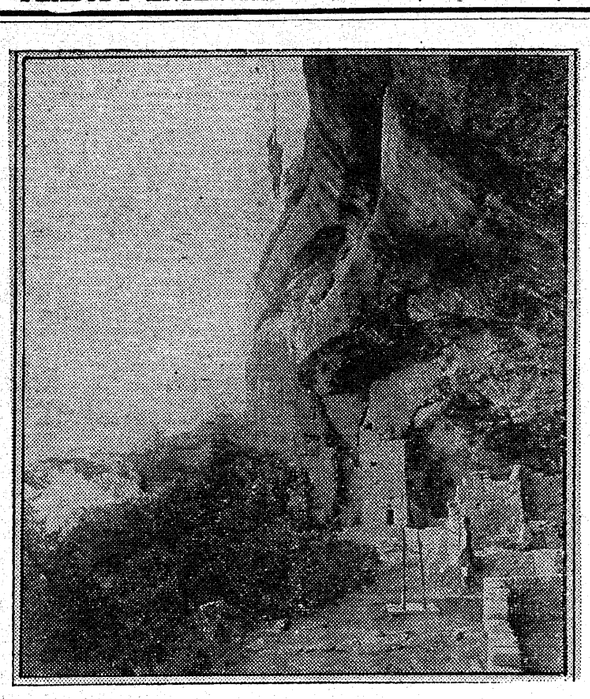
The City will be placed by the end of this year in a sound financial condition with ability to meet it's obligations and with proper management we will have a decrease in our tax rate beginning next year and the affairs of the City will gradually assume a normal condition.

I have endeavored to be patient under the most violent criticism of those who sought to discredit me. I have never sought the limelight. I have given my time and attention strictly to my duties as Mayor as befits a servant of the people with the interest of the tax payers always at heart. I feel I have succeeded in keeping faith with the citizens of Peabody.

Having passed through two most trying years and by the practice of the most rigid economy, having surmounted all obstacles, and having placed the City on a firm financial basis, I now stand firmly on my record and respectfully solicit the suffrage of the voters of the City of Peabody."

William A. Shea.

Promote Prosperity.



"I have ever considered it as the indispensable duty of every member of society to promote, as far as in him lies, the prosperity of every individual, but more especially the community in which he belongs."—John Hancock.

DROPPING ON A COLORADO CLIFF DWELLING

Dropping in is literal as well as figurative when you go calling in the ancient dwellings of the prehistoric cliff dwellers. It takes a hardy adventurer to go calling in that part of the Mesa Verdo National Park, Colorado.

Sheepskin Plant Team Leads A. C. L. Twilight Baseball League

The triple tie for second place in the A. C. L. Twilight League was broken last evening when the Office team vanquished the crack Hide Department outfit 8-4 at Emerson Park. At the same time the National Calf boys were handed a defeat by the Japanners 8-1 at Connelly Park, leaving only the Office and Japan tied for second honors. If the Cutstock is fortunate enough to trim the Sheepskin crew tonight, a triple tie will exist for first place between the Sheep, Office and Japan. The league standing to date:

	Won	Lost	%
Sheepskin	3	0	1000
Japan	3	1	750
Office	3	1	750
Hide	2	2	500
Cutstock	0	3	000
National	0	4	000

Hubby Lawrence had the edge on the National batters at Connelly Park last night, while his team mates piled up 8 runs behind him. The game was closely contested however until the latter part of the evening when the breaks began to favor Bert Reed's patent leather men. The enthusiasm of the players and spectators over the battle was so great that it is planned to have these teams meet again this evening and play for a box of cigars.

At Emerson Park, the Office nine sprung a surprise by taking the Hide tanners into camp easily by the score of 8-4. The game was never in doubt from the start, even the skill of Myron Dempsey, hailed as the league's speediest pitcher, couldn't stop the pen pushers. Charlie Brown, on the mound for the Office, held the Hide hitters helpless and received excellent support. Phil Threshie, Dartmouth star, held down first base for the Hide.

A good sized crowd is expected at Emerson Park tonight to see the Cutstock team attempt to pull down the crack Sheepskin team from first place. The Cutstock have had hard luck so far, losing by narrow margins. They have strengthened their team for tonight's game, and should give the Sheepskin team a tough battle.

League Notes

The plant superintendents and foremen are prominent in attendance at the A. C. L. games and their backing goes a long ways toward keeping the interest in the league alive.

The Office seems to have the heaviest batting club in the league, and the Sheepskin department the speediest fielding aggregation.

In spite of three reverses, the Cutstock outfit will bear watching. They have all kinds of spirit, as have the National lads, who are very much in the game yet.

The Hide team are not living up to expectations. Looked upon at the start as the team to be most feared in the race, they have met two reverses in four starts.

Next week: Office vs Japan, Cutstock vs National, Sheepskin vs Hide. All games between close rivals. The league standing will be upset after these three games.

Out of the 100 ball players listed in the A. C. L. league, a nice A. C. L. team could be picked good enough to face most any of the local clubs.

FORD CONTEST

A novel contest is being conducted by the Ford concern to stimulate interest in "The Dearborn Independent," the newspaper published by Henry Ford. The first prize for the contestant bringing in the largest number of subscriptions for the paper is a fully equipped Ford touring car. Other prizes are $100, $50 and ten $10 in cash. The advertisement of the Rowe Motor Co. on page 1 of this issue gives the details.

The Gold Ridge.

Johannesburg, South Africa, is almost the crest on "the Rand," a 50-mile ridge of gold bearing conglomerate. The world's greatest stream of gold has flowed from this region since 1906, when production passed that of all North America.

NOTICE

Ticket number 6162 which drew the Overland touring car at our lawn party held Monday evening, July 31, 1922, is still unclaimed. Unless the holder of this ticket presents the same at our home 74 Main street, Peabody, on or before August 11, 1922, at 7.30 p. m., another drawing will be held at the above mentioned time and place.

Brawley Will Come Here

B. Donnellan, a Medford man and representative of the Goodrich Tire Co. in an interview with the Enterprise. "We have watched his success as a coach and he has everything that will make him both popular and an efficient leader for school athletics. He was the greatest center ever turned out by Medford high school. He comes of a family of athletes, two of his brothers being star players in the Boston twilight baseball league now.

"At Holy Cross he was captain of his football team which is his favorite sport. Later he went to New Haven high as teacher-coach and last year was in Boston in a similar position. His Medford friends are confident that he will prove a successful man for Peabody."

Coach Brawley comes to Peabody at $2500 salary and his services will be divided between teaching and directing the athletics of the school.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sullivan and daughter, Miss Mary B. Sullivan of Lynnfield st., and Miss Catherine N. McBride of Proctor's Crossing are at York Beach for two weeks.

Thomas F. and Joseph I. Butler of this city and their brother, Rev. Michael Butler of Everett, have returned from a delightful auto trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip N. Smith and family of Andover st. are at their camp at Ipswich for the month.

Rotary Outing For Children

T. Henry Millea, chairman of the children's outing to be run by the Peabody Rotary Club is being promised more automobiles which will be needed to convey the little folk to Gloucester Park on August 16. A meeting of the committee is called for 8.15 tonight at the Elks' lodge rooms when details will be perfected for the big event which will see the Rotary Club host for 50 boys and girls on the outing. Merchants will be asked to donate prizes for the field sports. Two trained nurses will accompany the children. A fleet of over 60 autos will leave Peabody Square. More autos are needed.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

LOSS OF MONEY

AS WE may read by various signs in the hand that the fortunate subject has acquired, or is to acquire, wealth through inheritance or through his or her own exertions, so we may read also, in the hand, the loss of wealth, after it has been possessed and enjoyed.

Inspect carefully the finger of Saturn, the middle or ring finger, near the top, for a star. If it appears plainly near the edge of the finger, it indicates loss of position and money. See also the Mount of Samoney. See also the mount of Saturn, which lies at the base of the base or beginning of the mount, a zigzag line, the same loss is indicated.

Naturally, it must be understood that these signs, as so many others in the hand, are not always perfectly clear and well-marked, and great care must be exercised in reading them, in conjunction with the other marks and signs in the hand.

When Washington Prayed.

New Jersey was a camp and a battlefield during the greater part of the Revolutionary war, and the inhabitants learned to know Washington and his men. Traditions of Washington are treasured and handed down in many families, whose ancestors had homes about Morristown when Washington was encamped there and living in the Ford mansion, now "Washington's Headquarters." Washington's prayer in the woods of the Short hills at a dark and critical period of American history is one of these local traditions.

NEW DRAWING

The Father Mathew C. T. A. S. announces that unless ticket 6162, which drew the Overland touring car at their recent lawn party is presented at their home 74 Main st., on or before Friday, August 11, at 7.30 p. m. another ticket will be drawn at that time.

The Peabody Police Relief Association will hold a meeting at 6.45 next Tuesday evening to discuss sick and death benefits. Chief Grady, president, will preside.

ENTERPRISE NEW PLANT NEARLY READY

The new home of the Peabody Enterprise and Peabody Press Co. being erected on Foster street is nearing completion at the hands of the Edward H. Porter Co., contractors. The interior work of laying a concrete floor at the rear of the building and a mill constructed and reinforced floor started today, having been held up pending the arrival of cement tied up in the freight service.

The office should be completed within the next two weeks and the whole building which has been designed with a view to securing a daylight printing establishment should be ready for occupancy not later than Sept. 15.

A new cylinder press to permit of a seven or eight-column newspaper will be installed. The anniversary edition which the Peabody Enterprise is now preparing will be printed on this new press.

Among the guests of the Enterprise at the opening of its new building will be a dozen former newsboys who sold the Enterprise when it first started ten years ago last May. These boys, now young men, will be especial guests.

NEW CITY TEAM HAS GLOUCESTER HERE ON SUNDAY

Peabody has a new baseball team to take the place of the former city club. John Devaney is the new president, with Michael F. Conway vice president. Eddie O'Connor will captain the team. Their first game will be Sunday at Emerson Park with the fast Gloucester city nine. The Fish City team is captained by Stuffy McGinnis' brother, once in the big league. A strong battery is engaged for the Peabody club for this game. Peabody baseball talent in the city is invited to try out for positions on the local club.

WHAT'S YOUR NUMBER?

Is 2311, the smallest auto number held by a Peabody man? George H. Poor, member of the Nathan H. Poor & Co., is the owner of the auto bearing this license number. Who has the highest number in Peabody? It is believed number 295,587 is the highest shown in this city. Who owns the car bearing that number?

Sons of Israel To Laud British

The Congregation Sons of Israel will hold a special service next Monday night in recognition of the British government mandate guaranteeing the Jewish homeland in Palestine. The service will begin at 7 o'clock. Dr. G. H. Shobet and A. Alpert, both of Boston, will address the meeting.

BANK CLERKS IN AUTO TURNOVER

John Fitzpatrick and Lionel Keith, clerks at the Warren National bank, figured in an auto accident last Tuesday night near the City Farm, when a machine driven by the former turned turtle, throwing them to the ground. Fitzpatrick is nursing an injured eye and Keith several bruises on his face. Both men were fortunate to have escaped with no more serious injuries.

DISABLED VETS

Sick and disabled soldiers from the Danvers and Middleton hospitals and the sailors from the Chelsea Naval hospital are enjoying an outing today at Centennial Grove. The affair is being conducted by the American Legion posts of Essex County and will be a gala event, as everything that will add to the comfort and entertainment of the disabled boys has been carefully planned. The manager of the grove has very kindly donated the use of this famous picnic grove for the event and will provide all the tonic the boys can drink, free of charge.

Council Gives Mormons Verbal Permit To Hold Street Meetings In City

Peabody's City Council was in session less than 30 minutes last night and most of this time was given over to hearing representatives of the Mormon church who sought a permit to hold street meetings in this city. In the end the Council withheld the permit on the grounds that it would establish a precedent, but suggested that the Mormons go ahead and conduct their meetings.

Chief Grady, to whom the representatives of the Utah church first appealed, referred them to the Council, and Paul Otters, spokesman for the religious sect known as the church of the Latter Day Saints, appeared before the Council with two women and a man and addressed the City Fathers. He declared the Mormon church had been misrepresented in the east and that the open-air meetings were to correct this impression. He said his church stood for the teaching the word of Jesus Christ.

When the petition was first read Councillor Craig moved the permit be granted. Mr. Otters was then given a chance to be heard. Councillor Barry asked the speaker why Wallis street would not be acceptable as against Peabody square, but Mr. Otters thought it was too far removed to insure a good sized crowd.

Councillor Duggan suggested the speaker and party go ahead and hold their meetings without a permit. Mr. Barry thought this the solution because if a special permit was granted there might be interference with political rallies. Councillor Sullivan did not think a permit necessary. Councillor Jones amended to refer the petition to Chief Grady, but his motion was defeated and the amendment made by Mr. Duggan that the petition be laid on the table with the understanding that the meetings be held without a permit was carried.

The Mormons have permits to hold street meetings in many cities in this state.

MRS. ROCHE WINS TRIP TO IRELAND

Mrs. Mary Roche, aged 60, of 4 Nichols lane, was awarded the free trip to Ireland at the lawn party of the A. O. H. held on the O'Shea field last night. Mrs. Roche is the wife of Benjamin Roche, a well-known tacker. The lawn fete was a big success and hundreds of people filled the grounds. Gove's band of Lynn gave a concert in Peabody square between 7 and 8.

300 Gals. Mash Taken In Raid

Armed with a John Doe search warrant, a police detail visited Cedar Heights in South Peabody yesterday and captured a good-sized still, together with two gallons of moonshine and 300 gallons of mash. Officers O'Conor, Murphy, Coakley and Cooke were the raiding party. The still was the property of a Russian, who will be brought into court.

Peabody Democrats Solid With Connery For Congress

The fight for the Democratic nomination for congressman from the Seventh district will find Peabody solidly behind the candidacy of William P. Connery, Jr., of Lynn, son of the ex-Mayor of that city, and one of the most popular and best known YD veterans of the World's war. "Billy," who carried on with his entertaining proclivities over in France, thereby aiding men to brave the enemies' bullets up over the trenches, has everything in his favor in the contest within his party, and Peabody friends who are legion will work hard for his victory.

WILLIAM P. CONNERY, JR.
Candidate for Congress

He has a powerful machine already at work in Peabody, numbering as he does several cousins in the city, and a host of friends who have followed his career. He is the man largely responsible for the election of Mayor McPheatres of Lynn, whose private secretary he is at a personal sacrifice. He had built up a pleasing business in the candy trade and this business is being conducted largely by his brother.

"Billy" campaigned for the nomination against Congressman Phelan some four years ago and put up a creditable contest without money to aid him.

Over in France he served as a sergeant, having enlisted at the call for volunteers, for he felt that his knowledge of French might be of some assistance for overseas duty. They made him a sergeant at the start and he might have come home with a commission had he asked for the honor. As a former professional on the vaudeville stage, he organized a company of entertainers and many a poor wounded and homesick soldier is home today with his family because of the cheer given him by Connery Junior of Lynn.

"Billy" has all of his father's good qualities. He's a good campaigner and he's been a worker for everything that would aid the cause of the war veterans. His friends urged him to tackle the job of getting the nomination and he's been out on the firing line for some months now doing effective work.

His opponent will be Hon. John P. Kane, former Mayor of Lawrence, who will conduct a stiff campaign and who undoubtedly will come out of his home city with a handsome vote.

Still Connery is not dismayed and he numbers many loyal friends and "buddies" in Lawrence who are up there shouting for Sergt. Billy, the man with the funny stories and musical voice, who did his great big bit "over there" in the war. He is married and was when he discussed his volunteering for overseas duty in the war. His wife consented and the first train to Boston found Billy asking Col. Logan to make him a soldier in the ranks. He will hold one or more rallies in Peabody and is assured of a rousing reception.

CITY HALL NOTES

Chief Engineer Patrick Conroy of the pumping station says not 1000 citizens out of the 20,000 in Peabody know what the city's pumping station looks like inside. He thinks a tea room sign at the corner of Pumping station road and Lynn street might help to advertise the place. He may have a joker in that paragraph, but it's too deep for us.

* * *

Engineer Conroy also says he is the only foreman of a Peabody city department who puts in an eight-hour day. He says he can prove it. He also wants to know why his employes and himself as well do not get a vacation. How can the city make fowls out of one department and goats out of the other? Employes of the city's water station are surely entitled to a vacation as much as any other city employe. How about this, City Engineer Emerson?

* * *

Some outlay is called for at the pumping station, so runs the "Sailor" as press agent for the place. He says a few windows should be set and some extra parts for the new pump should be installed.

Some day the City Council may adopt traffic rules for Peabody and when that is done speeding in Peabody square, Warner square (Aborn and Sutton streets), and the Bleachery district, or Quinlan square, may be checked. Signs should be posted warning autoists not to exceed ten miles near approaches to Quinlan square, owing to the many children who pass in that district every day.

* * *

Out of town truck drivers and other speed maniacs generally ignore the traffic post at Sutton and Aborn streets, according to nearby residents. Motor vehicles going in the direction of Salem take the left of the turn and some day a head-on smash is going to be recorded.

Speaking of traffic regulations, there is one which precludes an auto being left near a hydrant. The one in front of the Warren National bank is generally hidden by some auto left unguarded. A traffic cop should be stationed in Peabody square from 11 to 1.30 every day to guide traffic.

* * *

A big bread truck came crashing through Peabody square shortly before noon last Wednesday headed for Lowell street. It tore by the monument on the side nearest Manning's restaurant and nearly hit an electric car making the crossing of the Reading branch. Until the Council gives the police department a code of traffic laws Peabody will remain a joke when it comes to enforcing safety from the passing autoists.

FORESTERS WILL HOLD OUTING AT MAPLEWOOD INN

The Foresters of America will hold their annual outing and get-together on Sunday, August 13, at Maplewood Inn, Middleton. A chicken dinner will be served and sports of all kinds will be held, for which suitable prizes will be offered. Busses will leave the headquarters of the organization at 10 a. m. All members who plan on attending this affair are requested to make known their intentions not later than Friday evening.

The following committee have the affair in charge and are striving to make it a grand success: Dennis J. Moroney, chairman; Michael F. Mahoney, Arthur Calvert, David J. Hallinan, Jere Callahan, Charles M. Boyle, Thomas Sheehan, John J. Horrigan, William Mulvaney, William Larkin.

Ho, Hum!

"In $20 gold pieces $1,000,000,000, if laid flat, would form a line 1,000 miles long," says a statistical note. We'd like to see them demonstrate this and then let us go along and pick up the gold pieces until we got tired. We think we could go the full distance.—Brooklyn Eagle.

400 Kiddies To Have Auto Trip Aug. 16

Over 400 boys and girls ranging from 5 to 10 years will be guests of the Peabody Rotary Club next weew Wednesday for an automobile ride to Gloucester, where a picnic and sports will be held for the little tots. A procession of over 75 cars will leave City Hall at 1 o'clock for the trip down Cape Ann, going by way of the shore and returning inland through Essex and North Beverly.

The Rotary Club has co-operated with the Playground Commission, which has been obliged to eliminate the annual playground parade for the children, and the auto trip will be appreciated by the kiddies. The plan has awakened much enthusiasm among the citizens and the event promises to become a yearly affair if plans now under way carry through.

The kiddies will be given plenty of ice cream and milk. Two trained nurses will accompany the children and the playground instructors, men and women, will have charge of the little folk. A dozen more autos are needed and citizens are appealed to to send in their names to T. Henry Millea, chairman, C. C. Hills, Dr. L. K. Kelley, Mayor Shea or F. W. Penniman of the committee.

Ten Peabody Rotarians will go to New London next month for the fall conclave of New England clubs at the Hotel Griswold. The Peabody delegation will include President Joseph E. Noyes and wife, George A. Blaney, vice president, Mrs. Clark and daughter, Miss Helen Clark, John W. Power and wife, Frank H. Sanger and wife, Mayor Shea, Max Korn and wife, A. P. Ames and wife, Phil O'Rourke, Ernest Woelfel and Secretary Penniman.

George A. Barnaby will have charge of the meeting next Tuesday noon and his visit to Boston this week presages some real talent for the occasion.

We know a man who is an honest crook. That is, he is a crook and frankly proud of it. As a crook he rather excels. He invents crooked things, while others follow the ruts. But the point is, he is a crook, says so himself and does not blush. We also know a deacon who plays poker on Thursday, gets drunk on Friday, bawls out his family on Saturday and goes to church three times on Sunday. Between the two, we have our choice.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Peabody may become interested in plans for forming a state-wide organization of twilight baseball teams, with leagues in various sections of the state and with post-season series to determine the state championship. The Boston Twilight Baseball League is interested in the project. Its officers believe that the public interest shown this year in the games of the local league, as well as the twilight games throughout the state, is sufficient to assure success for a state-wide organiation. Claude B. Davidson, former second baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, is president of the Boston Twilight Baseball League. His headquarters are the Quincy House, Boston.

"The THREE MUSKETEERS"

Adaption, Costuming, Research under Edward Knoblock
Direction under Fred Niblo
Photography under Arthur Edeson

This newest of "Doug's" productions, this most enchanting of all Dumas' vivid stories, this marvelous visualization of "The Three Musketeers" is truly a picture for everyone—for your family and every family. From it, the young can learn frankness, kindness, valor and generosity. The old can find forgetfulness of trouble and taste its antidote for sorrow. And all of us who believe in Life's drama, with its chapters of gaiety and wit, owe to Dumas a debt of gratitude.

NEW FIRM IN WOOD WORKING

Dawe and Williams, who have recently opened a wood working business at 9 Washington street, are two well-known Peabody men who have given their lives to their trade of making tanks, wheels and beams for the leather business. Mr. Dawe is a resident of 123 Lynn street and has been employed by the leading wood-working shops of this vicinity for the past 28 years. His partner, Otis L. Williams, now living at 11½ Federal street, Salem, was born in Peabody. At the age of 16 he entered the employ of the late Franklin Osborn, Jr., and spent 20 years with that firm. Later he was with the Turner Tanning Machinery Co. and A. F. Clark Co. Mr. Dawe was also recently with the Glark Lumber Co.

CLAMBAKE FOR LEGION MEN

The outing and clambake to be held at Ellis' field, Sunday, August 20, under the auspices of the service and business men of Peabody, ought to be one of the largest attended outings of the season. SALEM LAUNDRY

MORE SHEETS REQUIRED AT BABIES' HAVEN

The North Shore Babies' Hospital at Salem has had a very busy season, although the admissions to date are 16 short of a year ago this time, and the nurses have been very much occupied with their 42 patients.

Owing to the fact that it has been a cooler summer than usual in this vicinity, the babies have not been as sick, on an average, as in other years, and there have been few intestinal cases.

Three sets of twins have graced the hospital this year, and they are always the center of attraction. Many visitors come to the hospital and ask to have a peek at the youngsters. One set of twins, from Lynn, arrived June 1, weighing five pounds each. They have now gone to their home, one gaining five pounds and six ounces, the other gaining five pounds. In two months' time they gained as much weight as they had in nearly five months' time.

Another interesting case at the hospital is a little tot six months old, whose trouble has been diagnosed as spina-bifiba, a cleft in the spine, which has paralyzed its little legs. This way from birth, the child is always in need of special care because it cannot lie on its back and cannot help itself. Bringing the baby to the hospital has probably meant the saving of its life, since the mother must work each day. An operation is to be performed soon to relieve the child as much as possible. In this case alone the hospital has proved its worth.

The hospital is in need of more sheets, and Miss Smith, the superintendent, would gladly welcome a group of ladies or individuals who would come to the hospital and sew on the sheets or would take them away to sew on, in order that the supply may be replenished. The sheets are all cut out and ready for some kindly person to work on. If you are planning on having a porch party this summer, why not sew on the sheets instead of playing bridge, and thus help fill the linen closet of the hospital.

There is a supply, also, of pink yarn on hand, if some knitter would like an opportunity of giving little time to the matter of knitting a sweater or two for the infants. These, too, are much needed, as the cooler fall weather comes on. Just call up Miss Smith at the hospital and she will tell you all about it.

Europe Calling Leather

(By ENERGY)

It is evident that foreign trade is perking up. The largest English buyer has been in the Boston and New York markets this week, and while he has been looking for special colors and weights, he purchased largely.

* * *

The English trade is far different than all others. Many attempts have been made in the past to get English shoe manufacturers to change their ideas and systems of manufacture. The answer has always been and judging from the stubborn character of our English neighbors, will continue to be, that well enough should be let alone. So while repeated efforts have been made, nothing has been accomplished. It is heavy leather in England. Strange to say they will not use snuffed leather, but must have the natural grain. Why you ask, and the answer is that Englishmen black their own shoes or they are blacked by servants. There has never been a shoe shine parlor in England. None of our blackings are used there. The leather must clean with a piece of cloth and perhaps a little finish.

Inquiry as to whether splits were consumed in England as before the war, the answer was no. It seems all want better shoes. The split shoe, the best wearing of them all, does not look the money. And so the Englishman must have grain shoes, rich, poor and indifferent. Why, because the World war has even turned England, which is some stunt.

* * *

Loyalty is England's best asset. When the war started, men from all walks of life joined the colors. Large jobbing houses in leather closed their doors and all went to war. They not only sacrificed their business, but the flower of many families never returned. It was grim work and grimly did they tackle it.

There is a scarcity of many grades of leather. Then some other grades are plentiful, which makes a mixture of good and bad business. Cleaning up lots makes money, but carrying the undesirables takes away the profit. It is hard to decipher the why and wherefore of taste. A certain shade will have the call for a season never to return again. Then a new shade becomes popular and the others get the go by.

* * *

The question was recently asked who uses the most shoes, men or women? Women, of course. The percentage is something like 60 to 40. You ask why, and the answer is extravagance pure and simple. Admitting women's extremities are more attractive than are the men, it will not do to wear shoes with the slightest imperfection in sight. Then to match the dress it requires several pairs. Thus many foxy shoe manufacturers who formerly made only men's shoes, are turning their attention to the ladies' wants. A new field with likes and dislikes more clearly drawn. But all required is the right kind of a salesman, and all is well. We men want some wear for our money, but I am told in many cases women almost prefer poor wearing qualities, for the excuse for new ones paves the way.

So the successful shoe manufacturer today must have an eye for beauty. He must produce shoes that attract the eye, and in women's shoes the eye is generally critical. If one looks about for who is who, in the shoe trade, the manufacturer of taste and style is busy. It may take all kinds to make the shoe world, but some kinds get the money.

* * *

There is quite a flurry in the measuring machine trade. Turner with its new German made machine has attracted all the experts from Washington and Boston. Then Woburn Machine Co. have a new idea in measuring machines which is being inspected. The new Turner machine

NEW FOOTBALL COACH

Now that Peabody High has a new coach in the person of Edward Brawley, all interested should do all possible to assist him, which can be done in many ways. He comes here with the reputation of being an All-American football player and an experienced coach. Everything points to his success in athletics. No man can build a winning football team without proper material. It always happens that boys fitted for positions on a football team are more numerous one year than another year, and it often happens one or more boys stand out more prominently than their companions. A team is indeed fortunate to have stars on their line-up, but it always cannot be. To make the most of material on hand is all that can be expected, so while we offer no apologies for the future, as we do not know the calibre of the material available, we are ready to assume Peabody High will have a team this fall worth while. If a thorough knowledge of football is necessary, Mr. Brawley comes to us well equipped. We are positive the boys will co-operate with him to the extent of doing their part, we believe the public will back both the coach and boys to the extent of aiding financially, and such being the case, all will be well.

AID THE DONNELL CAMPAIGN

While politics for 1922 is in its infancy, our Ex-Mayor and District Attorney already has awakened enough interest in his campaign for Attorney General to attract widespread attention throughout the State. When Howard Donnell entered the race for this office, it was assured there would be plenty of action. There must be plenty of action where this man is, therefore he already has the ears of the Massachusetts voters and in his appearance through the western and middle parts of the State, the interest in his campaign has steadily grown. Thousands have listened to him and his helpers, and to draw such crowds at this early stage of the campaign is nothing less than phenomenal. We do not hear of other candidates for this office doing much as yet. Perhaps they figure it too early. But as the early bird catches the worm, so our ex-Mayor will get a lap on the opposition. If the primary election proves close, his early work may have turned the tables. Hearing such encouraging reports we are more than convinced that Donnell will win the fight. We predict his success in the primaries.

ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE

There is a crying need for an Animal Rescue League in Peabody. All cities need an organization of this kind, and many have one. A great movement is on in New York City to protect animals from cruelty, and has become so effective as to cause the Boston Herald in last Sunday's issue to picture a scene in that city where children are feeding horses with hay collected near by. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals does much in extreme cases of cruelty. But with dogs, cats and rabbits which are pets, little or nothing is done to feed or otherwise care for such of those animals that stray away or have no home. Peabody square contains scores of cats that wander about picking up food as they may. Many of such animals have mange, and carry this disease to other cats. It creates an unhealthy state which might affect people. If an official of the Animal Rescue League held sway here, most of such trouble could be eliminated in a short time by doing away with the undesirables and caring for the balance. We note in Salem small containers holding water are set on the edge of the sidewalks in the center of the city, where dogs can quench their thirst. Such a move here would be appreciated and no doubt the Rotary Club may take the matter in hand. Children can be brought up to be kind to animals, and all of us should help to protect the dumb animal, for they are put here as are all of us. Let Peabody help the animals the same as other municipalities.

Finch a Musician.

The purple finch, a bird of glistening, deep carmine plumage, is an excellent musician, singing a rich, rolling, well sustained song, says the American Forestry Magazine. This species has a decided fondness for buds of various kinds, and may often be seen eating the catkins of the poplars.

The Friendly Path

By Walter I. Robinson

CITY MANAGER PLAN

WILL the city manager plan solve all the problems of municipal government?

Enthusiastic supporters of placing city management in the hands of one man, chosen to direct all affairs just as the president or managing director of corporations has charge of the business of these private enterprises, contend that this comparatively new method of administering municipal affairs would be more efficient than anything tried heretofore.

But experience thus far has not provided proof that the contention is sound. Since the method of choosing the city manager is to have him elected by the council or commission and not by the public, it is found that friction often develops between the man so chosen and those naming him. Instead of eliminating the evils of political control or political influences, as supporters of the plan argue it will, we find that councils are more inclined to "play politics" or to try to do so than when the chief executive of a city is answerable to the people direct. It certainly is much easier to oust a city manager who doesn't happen to fall in line with the wishes of a few councilmen than to remove a mayor from office by the recall—which might be a point in favor of the newest system of governing cities, were it not for the fact that, as most people know from actual experience if they have had anything to do with councilmen, the legislative body doesn't incline always to follow the wishes of those who pay the bills.

If citizens of any community desire to increase the beauty of their town and efficiency of its officials so that their happiness may be increased and costs of management decreased, it's pretty poor policy for them to experiment with new methods of conducting municipal affairs. Certainly one would not be wise in objecting to experiments when there were possibilities of the experiments resulting in better government. But where voters work and vote intelligently for honest, efficient officials, including the mayor, one finds good government, and faults which may be found with the administering of municipal affairs in most cases may be directly traced to the indifference of those making up the so-called best citizenship in the choosing and electing of candidates for public office.

Far better to arouse voters to efficiently exercise their right of suffrage, than to worry about trying something new on a chance.

Superstition About Sneezing.

Sneezing was the subject of much superstition in the ancient world, and almost always endowed with sinister import. Jewish folk lore has it that in the first ages of the world sneezing was always a presage of death until the coming of Jacob. That astute patriarch, anxious lest he himself should perish from such an insignificant cause, besought the Almighty to endow sneezing with more beneficent attributes, and since then it has been lucky to sneeze between noon and midnight.

All departments must have a head or a poor showing is the answer. What should have been a hearing of perhaps two hours' duration occupied the whole day. Hearings are hearings.

Jesse F. Barrett takes the first real vacation of his career as a seryant of the people. His whole life has been spent fire fighting and looking after our water supply. A story of his life-work would be interesting. As they have fires in Frisco, we wonder what Jesse will do when the alarm rings in? It is a bet he will be there.

The interest in the baseball games at the A. C. Lawrence plant is at fever heat. A strong team could be chosen from the many shop teams, which would make all hustle. It brings one back 25 years when the A. C. L. team was the boss in this vicinity.

Our police continue to raid the booze merchants night and day. They are bringing in much money from the offenders, who in many cases continue to do business. We note many drunks brought to the station. In most cases these unfortunates are dead to the world. Where there is a will there is a way, which was always so in the liquor question.

An unusual accident took place recently in West Peabody. A man sitting in his car while being supplied with gasoline was severely burned by an explosion of the gasoline. What made the explosion we know not, but due care is necessary where this liquid is exposed, and this accident offers an example for care.

I observed Charles H. Goodridge, prominent G. O. P. leader of Lynn, in Peabody this week passing out pamphlets on Senator Henry Cabot Lodge. According to the Lynn Republican, many Democrats will cast their vote for the Nahant man this fall. Mr. Goodridge used to be a stockholder in the Lynn News Corporation, and has a wide acquaintance among Essex County newspapermen.

SCHOOL DAYS

The Scream of the Pipes.

It is claimed for the bagpipes, by some admirers that it is among the oldest of musical instruments. Whether or not the oldest, it is certainly the loudest of all instruments. The duke of Sutherland owns a bagpipe which figured at Prestonpans, and must, therefore, be nearly 200 years old, yet it can still be heard at a distance of eight miles.

Marriage in Poland.

The average man isn't overjoyed to learn that with his wife he is acquiring a large following of in-laws. But in Poland it is different. In the marriage contract the man does not inquire what a girl's portion is, but how many relatives she has, as each one is relied upon for a gift. It is not unusual for the woman to propose a match, through her parents.

Told of Victor Hugo.

Of Victor Hugo it is told that once when a word used in one of his poems was criticized as "not French," he calmly replied: "It is now." The story may not be true, but it might have been, for no doubt, if occasion had arisen, Victor Hugo was quite capable of saying just that, and of believing it, too. Moreover, his confidence in his power was not without excuse, or even reason, for in his day his right to increase the French vocabulary was about as good as that of anybody else.—New York Times.

Fire in Forests.

Destruction by fire of mature forests and areas of second growth remains our most serious problem, says the American Forestry Magazine. If we can only make every man, woman and child appreciate the danger of fire and eliminate it to the degree that European nations have done, we will soon find ourselves well on the road to realize that perpetual forest dream, and insure for all time a steady and constant supply of the wood and paper upon which we all depend.

SOME OF THE LATEST BOOKS ADDED TO THE LIBRARY

Practical Tanning, by Allen Rogers, Ph. D. A handbook of modern practice and processes as applied in the manufacture of leather and allied products. Partly based on the third edition of "Practical Tanning" by Louis A. Flemming. Illustrated by one hundred and twenty-four engravings. (Two copies.)

Animal Proteins, by Hugh Garner Bennett, M. Sc. The leather, glue and kindred trades have been for many years recognized as chemical industries, but the great development of celloid chemistry in the last few years has given these trades a more definite status as such, and they can now be placed in the category of applied physical chemistry. The time is not far distant when some knowledge of pure physical chemistry will be a first essential to students, chemists, chemical engineers, and to all engaged in these industries in supervision, adminstration, or control. It is hoped that this volume will stimulate the study of these industries from that standpoint.

AUTOMOBILES LED IN VOLUME

A recent report of the United States Employment Service gives some indication of the amazing recuperative energy of the automotive industry according to a letter sent to all its branches by the Firestone Company.

New motor vehicles led by far the manufacture, in its ratio, of any other means of transportation during the spring, while the industry far exceeded others in the number of men and women added to pay rolls.

In May, for example, automobile plants had over 25,000 more men at work than in 1921 and in Detroit alone, according to the Firestone report, nearly 20,000 more men were at work in all its factories than in the previous year.

Akron, of course, leads easily in the number of men added to employment lists in the rubber industry and while there are not as many men on the payroll as in 1919 and 1920 it is actually making more tires than during most of that period. Increased efficiency and reduced waste accounts for this seeming paradox. At the same time the Akron City Employment Bureau reports more calls for experienced help than it is able to care for.

Fairbanks Tonight In Musketeers

Again Douglas Fairbanks has triumphed. In his latest film, "The Three Musketeers," which opened a three day run at the Strand yesterday, Mr. Fairbanks proved that he is every inch an actor. Fairbanks' new production is without question one of the best pictures of the year. For photographic beauty, marvelous costuming and stupendous settings, there have been probably few pictures that equal it and none that excels it.

Featuring the costumes of the seventeenth century, this film stands as one of the most impressive and gorgeous photoplays in the history of the silent art. It is thrilling, romantic, and reveals Mr. Fairbanks in a type of work which is in some respects similar to his past performances, but on the whole quite different.

"The Three Musketeers" are as convincing as if they had stepped right out of the pages of Dumas' book. Douglas Fairbanks in the part of D'Artagnan, greatest swordsman in all France, gives an interpretation that forever establishes him as one of the greatest actors of all time. While he does many hazardous stunts in this picture, he is by no means merely a fence-leaping jumping-jack. His duel with Bernajoux, the Cardinal's famous swordsman, is one of the most intense pieces of action recorded on the screen. George Seigmann as Porthos has all the Herculean strength attributed to that character and proves it by holding up a broken bridge while the other two musketeers and their inseparable companion, D'Artagnan the Gascon, ride across it on horseback. As Athos, Leon Barry is remarkably true to type and Jean Pallette is just as convincing as Aramis. Others playing important parts in the story are Nigel de Brulier as Cardinal Richelieu; Mary MacLaren as Queen Anne; Adolph Menjou as King Louis XIII., and Marguerite De La Motte as Constance.

The millions of readers of Frances Hodgson Burnett's world-loved story, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," will be delighted to know that Mary Pickford in reproducing the story for the screen has preserved all its quaintness and charm. As a vehicle for the lovely Mary, this story is ideal, running as it does the entire gamut of emotional drama and riotous comedy. It gives her the finest opportunity she ever had for the display of that brilliant genius which has endeared her to the hearts of all the world. In this play which starts a three-day run at the Strand on Sunday, Mary Pickford lets her public see her as a mature woman and also as a boy of seven. Not only in the same play, but in the same scenes does this great screen artist appear. Through the medium of double exposure Miss Pickford is able to appear as two characters in the same scene. The fact that she kisses herself is quite startling.

Miss Pickford's new picture will be shown on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—three times daily, except Sunday, when it will be shown twice in the evening.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

A NEW-OLD QUESTION

We hear a good deal said about Labor being a commodity, but we use so many words without knowing what they mean and have so many meanings for the same word, that people are confused by a lot of loose talk they don't understand.

What is a commodity? The distionary says it is "something that is bought and sold." What then is labor? The work of men's hands or of men's brains is labor. The work of a horse, of an ox or any other kind of animal that is a helper to man, is labor also. But when you write labor with a big letter,—like this, Labor,—then nobody knows what you mean.

So labor is work and when any thing is made 80% of the manufacturing cost of that article has been paid for labor. Paid to the men who produced the raw material from the mine, from the sea, from the farm, or the forest; paid to the men who transported the raw material by rail or by boat to the factory where it was used; paid the men and women in the factories who by the work of their hands or brains made that raw material useful to mankind, giving their daily service for the good of the whole people. When that article (say a pair of shoes or a suit of clothes) is sold to the retail store four-fifths of the amount received has already been spent for labor. The other one-fifth, or 20%, pays interest on the invested capital, taxes to the government, maintenance, repairs, upkeep and profits.

The amount paid for labor has entered into the cost of the article which is bought and sold The articl is a commodity and the labor that entered into its value is also a commodity because as the article is bought and sold all that went into the value was also bought and sold. The labor of men's hands and brains is certainly a commodity. BUT—The men who labored with hand and brain are not bought and sold. Those men are not commodities likes horses or oxen. Years ago we fought a long and bitter war because men and women were bought and sold in one part of this country. To be sure they were colored men, but they were no less men because their skins were dark. Since that day men are not bought and sold in this country They are not commodities.

Men are free in this country. Free to work or not. Free to work for a boss they like or to quit their job when they don't like the boss. Slaves cannot be free like this; they must work for the boss who owns them whether they like him or not. There are no slaves in these United States except the men who enslave themselves by hate and fear and suspicion and distrust; these, too, may be free men if they will only believe in their job and their future and their country and their God.

It is when we begin to spell the word labor with a big L that we get mixed in our ideas. We set up a class apart and call it "Labor" and another class we call "Capital" and never stop to think what either word means. For instance, every man who has a deposit in a savings bank is a capitalist. Every man who owns a house has capital of his own. Everyone who has his life insured or owns a stock of godos in a store or who owns a horse and cart or even a pushcart, that man is a capitalist. The people of Massachusetts have put over a billion of dollars in the Savings Banks of this state,—there are over 2,000,000 of these people,—every single one of them is a capitalist and a laborer at the same time. I don't like to see Capital and Labor written this way.

Suppose we write them like this,—employer and employee; it would sound different if we said "s the employee a commodity?" Sound a bit foolish, but no more foolish than to say "Is the employer a commodity?" Why not? His labor of brain and hand and muscle and thought has gone into the cost of the article and is just as much a commodity as the labor of the employee.

And when all is said the employer and employee have the same object in their work; to give service to the public They are working together in that service. They are co-operating, and when they begin to understand that they must give each to the other "A Square Deal" in their co-operative service, then they will know they are partners, each doing his part of the work. When that day comes (and it is on the way) we won't write the word labor with a big L, for we'll know that we all labor.

Neither will any one ask such a foolish question again. "s Labor a Commodity?"

MOOSE LODGE OUTING SUNDAY

Peabody Moose Lodge will hold its regular summer outing at Haswell Park, Middleton, on Sunday, with a big dinner and plenty of sports for the afternoon The committee is headed by Patrick McDonald, one of the leading workers in the order, as chairman, N. The new submarine is equipped with two Diesel engines that develop 1800 H.P. The ship is 240 feet long, can travel 15 knots on the surface, submerges in 58 seconds, carries a 4-inch gun shown above, three periscopes, 5 torpedo tubes and a crew of 37 and cost over $2,000,000.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

RAGGED PRACTICE

FRIENDSHIP, the most sacred of all moral bonds, is never appreciated at its full worth until by some unlooked for snap of its golden moorings it takes fright and flies away.

In the excitement of the moment, the loss may not be keenly felt, but as the years ride by in their swift chariots, lines mark the face and strands of silver streak the hair, there comes to the loser an inexpressible sense of loneliness which sharply reminds him or her of the glorious sun that has set behind the purple hills.

A friendship which multiplied joys and divided sorrows is gone forever.

As you repeat this word "gone" in the night when you are alone, and again in the morning and at intervals through the day, it comes upon you with a new and terrible meaning.

How gladly you would erase it, but in spite of your oft boasted strength of will, you find in your grief that you cannot do it.

Pride scores as dictator.

Like a beggar you sup on its dry crusts, and go to bed night after night with an ache in your heart and a sting in your conscience.

Yet you keep going crookedly about the byways and highways of life and continue year after year the ragged practice of unbending your neck or curving your lips with a friendly smile.

It no longer matters so much how your behavior appears to the glaring eyes of the world, so you persist stubbornly to air your pride and flout it in public places, dropping daily a little lower from the high ideals so sacred to you in the peaceful, hallowed days of friendship.

In the background of every picture depicting human unhappiness you will find an ugly blur of color quite at variance with the rules of harmony, caused by a slip of the tongue or a spurt of passionate anger between two persons, communities or nations.

If you will study the blur intently, you will find that it is the evil thing that destroys peace and strews battlefields with rivulets of blood.

If you have a true friend, give him or her the best of which pure friendship is capable of giving; or, if you have quarreled, break the truce and heaven will bless you!

LEATHER

looks good to me. A good working out may show defects, but as this machine has been used in Europe for nearly 10 years, defects are remote. I am always skeptical about new machines. Any one is who has handled them. But the principle of this machine looks good for wearing qualities, and as for measuring it will show more tricks than a sleight-of-hand artist. When a machine of this kind will measure the thickest and thinest leather correctly, without tuning up, such a machine has all others beaten. This machine will do just that. Government officials were there to pick this machine to pieces, or in other words to try and discover faults. I do not know whether they found anything wrong. I am sure they found the best bet in a measuring machine, in captivity.

Faults there may be. But they do not stick out and minor faults are easily remedied. We have plenty of laws to cover leather measuring, but I have never heard of anybody hailed into court for a measuring offence. In Germany when caught going wrong, a fine in court is the first process. So I say if this type of machine does the work in Germany, here in U. S., where many laws are not lived up to, it should be easy picking.

Trade Tabloids this week tells us about truth. Following leather measuring it appeared to be logical. "To be strictly truthful, one would have to be dumb, and unable to write or manipulate a typewriter. But this must not be accepted as an alibi for lying like a gas meter when the truth would answer just as well. They say children and fools tell the truth, but as a matter of fact some champion liars may be found on both of these classes. As a rule men do not lie; it is only that they have elastic consciences. We have found good husbands and fathers whose word in business was as good as their bond who invariably underestimate the number of strokes in going over an 18-hole course. Truth is one of the virtues which cannot be taught in a correspondence course, or utilized in a horse trade."

So there you are. Elastic consciences are needed to make a good leather measurer, and the boss must forget he has a conscience to keep up with the procession.

According to the Shoe and Leather Reporter, sole leather and offal markets more active at advanced prices. Heavy sole oversold on better tannages. Little more interest shown in medium weights as a result. Offal improving steadily. Prices gradually climbing to higher levels. Belting butts stronger. Number 1 heavies apparently short in supply and premiums obtainable. All weights now quoted 66-67c. inside realized. Upper leather demand not so brisk. Buyers still fighting shy of paying radical advances made necessary because of strong raw stock markets. Calf demand centered on men's weight leather. Firm prices obtainable on heavy while light weights appear in buyers' favor. Kid business holding up well. Buyers are still purchasing good sized jags of medium to low grade stock. Apparent scarcity of bargain buys in kid reflected in better call for sheepskins for lining purposes. Patent in steady demand. Advances talked on better grades, stocks of which are small.

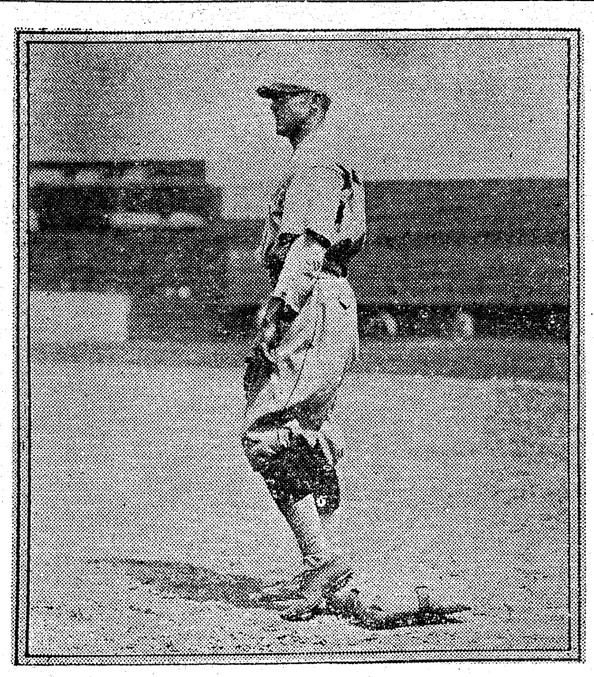
STOMACH GAS CAUSED BAD FAINTING SPELLS



"I was bothered a lot with indigestion, dyspepsia, and a bloated feeling brought on by excess gas. Fainting spells would attack me suddenly, and I was in dire distress. I tried Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules and quickly had decided relief."—Walter Furmin, Richfield Springs, N. Y. Gas in the stomach brings on dizziness and fainting spells. In acute or chronic indigestion it often stops the heart action. Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules break up the dangerous gas and give prompt relief.

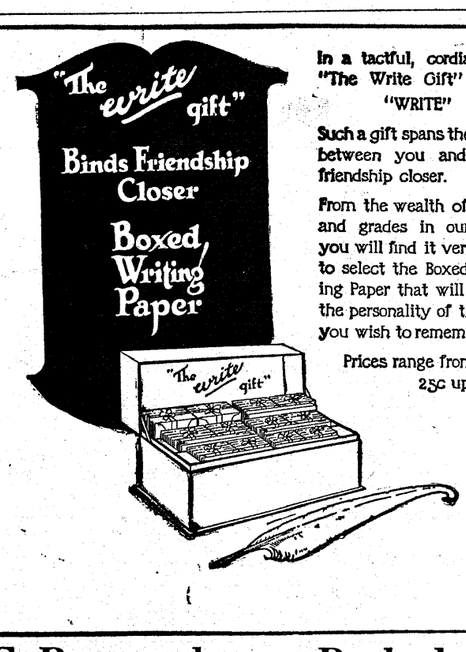
Song Heard a Mile.

The nightingale's song may be heard at a distance of a mile on a calm night.

Dissipation for a Peon.



On Sunday the whole family in Costa Rica visits the nearest village to put in a gala day. Perhaps there is a religious festival in the morning; at any rate, there is a mass to be attended. Afternoon is given over to visits, which women and children usually make alone, while the man of the house hangs around the general store or post office, as the center of interest. If he is feeling "flush," he treats himself to a can of evaporated milk, a great luxury, which he drains off through a nail-hole, just as if it were champagne.

To Wash Jewelry.

Good jewelry with stones in them should be washed in warm suds, with several drops of ammonia added. This thoroughly cleans and shines them.

When to Go Home.

Mr. Meek and his wife had just settled themselves in their seats at the "movie" when three large, buxom women took seats in front of them, cutting off their view of the screen. "If you had the soul of a worm," declared Mrs. Meek angrily to her spouse, "you'd do something." "Hush, my dear," replied Mr. Meek. "There's one thing anyway—when everybody gets up, we'll know it is time to go home."—From the American Legion Weekly.

MADAM CROW; MR. FOX

MADAM CROW was on the limb of a tree by the cornfield trying to make out whether the raggedty-looking figure in the field was a real man or a scarecrow.

She was well hidden by the leaves of the tree, and her bright eyes and quick twisting head took in everything for some distance around.

Now, it happened that Mr. Fox had been foolish enough to come that way in broad daylight, and was running along the top of the stone wall not far from where Madam Crow was perched in the tree.

There was no reason for her to give anyone warning that Mr. Fox was around, for there was no one in sight but Madam Crow, who had rather a bad disposition and a sharp tongue, so when she saw Mr. Fox she gave the call which means to all who hear it, "Look out, Mr. Fox is nearby."

Mr. Fox heard it, for his sharp ears hear things that his eyes often fail to see, and he knew that his plan for reaching the stray hen that he was sure to find in the field beyond was spoiled.

He knew that the farmer would hear it and run for his gun or call to Mr. Dog, and they would be on the lookout.

So he dropped to the ground on the side of the cornfield and hid under some bushes, but he kept his eyes open to see where the call came from.

He had not long to wait, for presently down flew Madam Crow, satisfied that the figure was only a scarecrow, and to show her scorn she alighted right on its old, battered hat.

"You gossiping old tell-tale," said Mr. Fox, poking out his nose far enough to let Madam Crow see him, "why did you interefere in my affairs? I never harm your family."

"I don't care if you do not," cawed Madam, "you are a bad fellow, and I feel that it is my duty to give warning when I see you. I do not steal the farmer's chickens."

"Oh, dear, no; of course you don't. You do not like them, but you steal the farmer's corn."

Madam did not answer. She flew down, picked up some corn, and away she went with loud caws at Mr. Fox's anger.

But Mr. Fox was not through with Madam Crow. He watched her fly straight to her home near the top of a tree, where she had made a nest lined with wool and hair, and Mr. Fox smiled to himself as he trotted off to the home of his friend Coon.

Mr. Fox did not want that nest, but he was sure Mr. Coon would be interested, and that was why he smiled, for Mr. Coon has a trick of taking the nest of a crow or a hawk if he feels disposed to take a nap when he is prowling about among the trees, and he is such a good and careful climber that a nest high up among the slender branches is no bother for him to reach.

When Mr. Coon heard about Madam's nest he smiled, too. "That is just where I am planning to roam about tonight," he said, "and if I find Madam at home it will not matter, for I shall sleep there just the same."

Poor Madam Crow sat on a low bough of the tree the next morning in the early dawn, and Mr. Fox, who was passing, called out, "Good morning, Madam Crow, you look as if you did not rest well last night. I wonder if my friend, Mr. Coon, routed you out of your nest."

Madam stretched out her neck, she opened her bill and spread her wings in a threatening manner, then she thought better of it and flew away with loud caws to the cornfield to forget her wrongs and her anger by eating a good breakfast.

But Mr. Fox did not feel any happier for havng made Madam Crow uncomfortable; in fact, he was feeling cross as he trotted off home, and that is usually the way when one tries to get revenge.

CITY COLLECTOR SHERRY NOT TO RESIGN HIS OFFICE

City Collector Michael J. Sherry has no intention of resigning his official berth under Mayor William A. Shea, and with the re-election of the present Mayor his friends expect to see him continue in the office.

The Enterprise was in error last week when it hinted Attorney Sherry would resign. Enemies of the administration seized upon the paragraph to mean that Mr. Sherry was dissatisfied and might become a candidate for Mayor. This is not so, for Mr. Sherry will be found loyally supporting Mayor Shea in the latter's campaign for re-election.

During his two years in the office of City Collector, Attorney Sherry has labored faithfully to make a creditable showing and his record compares with any former town or city collector. As a former town accountant or auditor, Mr. Sherry took the office with considerable understanding of the duties involved and he has diligently pursued the work.

As a member of the law firm Sherry & Tumelty, Mr. Sherry has left much of the law business to his partner, and he spends the major portion of his time at his desk in City Hall attending strictly to the affairs of the city which come through his office.

He has done everything he could to advance the interests of the administration and his loyalty has never been questioned.

Berea College Doing Country Real Service In Educating Sons of Mountaineer Folks

With the hope that some of our readers may become interested in giving financial aid to the young men and women of the southern mountains, the Enterprise presents today some facts about Berea College, Kentucky. (Editor's Note.)

Berea College exists primarily for the benefit of the people of the southern mountains. The institution is organized to meet the needs of the young people of the region who seek a practical education that will fit them for citizens, breadwinners and homemakers on their native soil. It does not exist to crowd out the work of any other institution. It is not a charity school; it is an opportunity for thousands of young folk who do not have the means to secure a thorough education at most other schools.

Men like Andrew Johnson, John Sevier, Isaac Shelby, Cyrus H. McCormick, George Truett, David G. Farragut, Andrew Jackson, James D. Black, James I. Vance, Charles Alexander and Homer Rhodeheaver, George Harben, Woodrow Wilson, numerous other leaders in the affairs of the nation, have come from the fine Anglo-Saxon blood of the mountains which exists in larger and purer quantities there than anywhere else in America. The majority of these leaders came from the ranks of the respectable poor. If this class of people has produced great leaders in the past, there is every reason to believe it will do so in the future.

Not all schools offer favorable advantages to the ambitious poor. In spite of the fact that there are numerous excellent schools of many kinds in or near the mountains, there must remain a very large number of young people among the valleys and coves who cannot afford thorough college training because the price is beyond their means. The trustees and faculty of Berea College are determined that there shall always be at least one institution that won't raise its prices beyond the reach of the poorest ambitious boy and girl. In other words, Berea exists for the great army of mountain boys and girls whom most other institutions pass by. To the splendid young folk of the Highlands who are looking for an opportunity of this kind we extend our invitation.

Religious Work

The school is non-sectarian. It represents no special sect, and no particular denomination has the lion's share in management. At least a dozen different church bodies are represented on the faculty. But the Bible is taught to every student as a part of his regular schedule, and every student is required to attend chapels, one preaching service on Sunday, and Sunday school. To provide Bible lessons on Sunday a huge Sunday school is run that averaged 1156 in weekly attendance in its 66 classes during the past year. There are strong religious organizations among the students, one being the largest Christian Endeavor Society in America. A dean of religious education has general supervision of the religious teaching. No special ism is taught, no special creed is emphasized. There are students connected with many different denominational groups, and their church relations are not interfered with in any way. There were over 800 Baptists, over 400 Methodists, more than 250 Presbyterians, and hundreds from other church bodies in the school last year.

One of the finest things done by the school is the bringing of young people from many different church bodies into one group where all study the Bible together, and no one becomes excited about the church relationship of his neighbor. They learn how to work together even in religious matters—a thing that many people never learn to do.

Everybody works. No student is wanted who is unwilling to do manual work, and no one is kept in school who refuses to work when he is needed. A number is given to each boy and girl when entering, and this number may be drawn at any time for some special work which no regular worker has been assigned to. The faculty believes that no necessary work is menial, and it believes that precious few people should be excused from toil while the world's work needs to be done. The primary object of labor on the campus and farm is to enable students to earn part of their expenses. It is also made a part of their training for everyday life. They work on the farm, in the garden, in shoe shop, hotel, laundry, hospital, printing office, woodshops, broom factory, dairy, bakery, kitchens, offices, teach classes, wash dishes, do repair work, paint houses, weave valuable fabrics, do a hundred other things, and get paid for it. The amount paid by the college last year for student labor reached beyond $50,000. That goes a long way towards meeting current expenses.

Various vocational courses are offered. Carpentry, sloyd, weaving, agriculture, fruit culture, printing, nursing, business, broom-making, dairying, home arts, sewing, home-making, many other things are taught, and much practical experience is gained by the students. Special training is now being given to about a hundred Federal Board men.

Health Work

Every student who enters has a medical examination. Three doctors and two chief nurses are employed, and a group of nurses are always in training. A college dentist looks after teeth, and one of the doctors makes all bad eyes see straight. An excellent hospital is on the campus furnished with X-ray machine and complete surgical and other equipment. Students pay a small hospital fee when they enter school, and have free treatment during any illness. Numerous operations for appendicitis, mastoid, trachoma, other ailments are performed by the head physician every year. Health lectures are given to all the students and courses in practical sanitation are offered to large numbers.

The simple life is encouraged and enforced. No student is wanted who expects to spend large sums of money. There are too many here who have to count dimes to have even one to set a pace for spending.

Support

The annual budget is about $250,000. Of this amount, something like $115,000 was yielded last year by invested funds; the balance had to be raised through solicitation. This means that the president and his assistants must raise about $140,000 a year to meet current expenses.

This is no light task, but the president undertakes it willingly. That amount must be obtained every year in order that more than 2500 young folks may be cared for. It must be done in order that an army of boys and girls from poor homes may have a chance which poverty has long denied them. It must be done in order that hundreds of young folks from the mountains, America's greatest reservoir of pure native stock, may be trained for active participation in the affairs of the nation.

Everyone who contributes to this fund enlightens the great burden on the president's shoulders, and helps some poor fellow long denied the opportunity for educational development to carry on.

A mountain camp on Big Tupper Lake has just been purchased by the New York Department of the American Legion. The camp will be used as a vacation resort by the service men. The Legion paid $85,000 for the property.

Approximately 10,000 acres of land in New Mexico may be taken over by veterans of the World war, according to an announcement by the land office of the United States Department of Interior. The land which was formerly withdrawn under the reclamation act for reservoir sites has been restored and will be subject to entry at the land office at Las Cruses, N.M. The American Legion advises prospective homesteaders to write immediately to the office at Las Cruses for information.

A stranger member of the American Legion, out of work and with no money, found a gold necklace while walking down the street in Aberdeen, S. D. Instead of "hocking" the jewelry for a meal or two, he turned it over to the local Legion headquarters, asking that they find the owner.

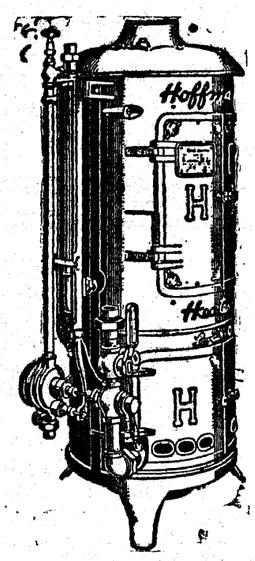
Persons who have suddenly acquired World war records, wound stripes and a desire to help other disabled veterans by soliciting subscriptions to equally bogus magazines have so aroused the American Legion and municipal authorities at Syracuse, N. Y., that the two forces have combined against such fake soliciting. Anyone seeking a license to sell magazines is turned over to the Legion for investigation.

* * *

A tent colony, composed entirely of jobless ex-service men, has sprung up in the South Dakota wheat regions, near Aberdeen. The colony which has been going some months is part of the American Legion's plan to provide farms with labor and at the same time do away with veteran unemployment.

* * *

The mill workers' strike at Manchester, N. H., reached such proportions that the American Legion threw open its club house to them and established soup kitchens.



* * *

Canned vegetables, jams, potatoes, other food, and all sorts of camp equipment is requested by the New York American Legion which has recently opened its Adirondack camp for tubercular World war veterans. The service men paid $85,000 for the site and have expended many more thousands on equipment in an effort to make inroads into the rapidly increasing ranks of veterans who are suffering with the disease.

Judge Robert W. Hill of Salem, district governor of the Rotary Clubs, is due back from Chicago tomorrow. He has been attending a conference of Rotary officials.

Rogers M. Crehore is spending a few weeks in New Hampshire.

A. J. Tomasello & Co., the contractors, are engaged in several big contracts of street and sewer construction.

Charles J. McGillick, alderman of the 24th district in New York City, where each of the 54 aldermen receive $3000 per annum, and Max Linderman, manager of one of New York's leading chain stores, are guests this week of Fred Oelcher of West Peabody. They are accompanied by Mrs. McGillick, Mrs. Linderman and Mrs. Lucy Stroube. The party is en route to Canada by auto.

Miss Beatrice Long of Woburn was the guest the past week of Miss Theresa Doherty of Elm street.

Miss Elizabeth Shea of the John J. Ryan Shoe Co.'s office is enjoying a two weeks' vacation at Old Orchard Beach.

Mrs. M. J. Driscoll and daughter Katherine of Mount Vernon street will spend the next week at Nantasket Beach.

The moonlight motor boat ride held by the First Baptist church on Wednesday evening was a delightful affair and was enjoyed by a party of sixty-five. The arrangements were under the direction of Miss Evelyn Pitman, who deserves much credit for the success of the affair.

Miss Evelyn Pitman has resumed her work at Bell Bros. Co., after a two weeks' vacation.

Frank L. Pitman has as his guest his sister, Miss Annie Pitman of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Miss Bessie Cody, bookkeeper for M. P. Stone Coal Co., and Miss Norah Cody of the Essex Gelatine Co. office will spend the next two weeks at Pelham, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore of Washington Heights, New York City, were the guests this week of Mrs. Philip H. Coleman of Perkins street.

Miss Mary Hills, the Misses Gertrude and Bessie Mahoney, Miss Lucy Reynolds and the latter's brother, George Reynolds, are enjoying an auto trip to Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Thomas Quinn of New York has been visiting her father, Frank L. Conway of Main street.

Peabody Girl Scouts who have been camping at Dunstable are expected home next Wednesday.

Alonzo Tyler of Andover street is suffering with a severe attack of neuritis.

Sheehan in New Job

Andrew J. Sheehan, for the past 17 years the popular manager of the local store of E. E. Gray Company, has resigned his position and on Monday will assume the management of the Cloverdale store on Main street.

GOING TO DETROIT

Joseph Levine, son of Joseph Levine, the tailor, leaves Sunday for Detroit, where he will resume his duties on the Michigan Central railroad. He has been spending a month's vacation with his parents.

PEABODY RUBBER CO.

The Peabody Rubber Co., Walnut street, has on exhibition a silver loving cup, similar to those to be awarded by John W. Donovan of this store to the teams winning the championships in the South Peabody Twilight League and the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. Twilight League. The cup is very handsome, standing 13 inches in height, on the cover being a winged official baseball and on the front of the cup a shield with appropriate lettering. Two large handles on the sides add much to the cup's appearance. The inside of the cup is of gold. It is indeed a very handsome affair. One such cup is to be given to each league.

Mormons To Hold Forth In Peabody Square

filed a claim for damages through his counsel, Charles R. O'Connell, alleging surface water had flooded his store recently.

Albert E. Talbot, the fish dealer on Lowell street, who was given leave to withdraw on his petition for a victualler's license, sent in another petition last night and it was referred to the license committee.

Daniel J. Conroy was given permission to move a two and a half story house from Upton street to Harris street. He bought the house for investment.

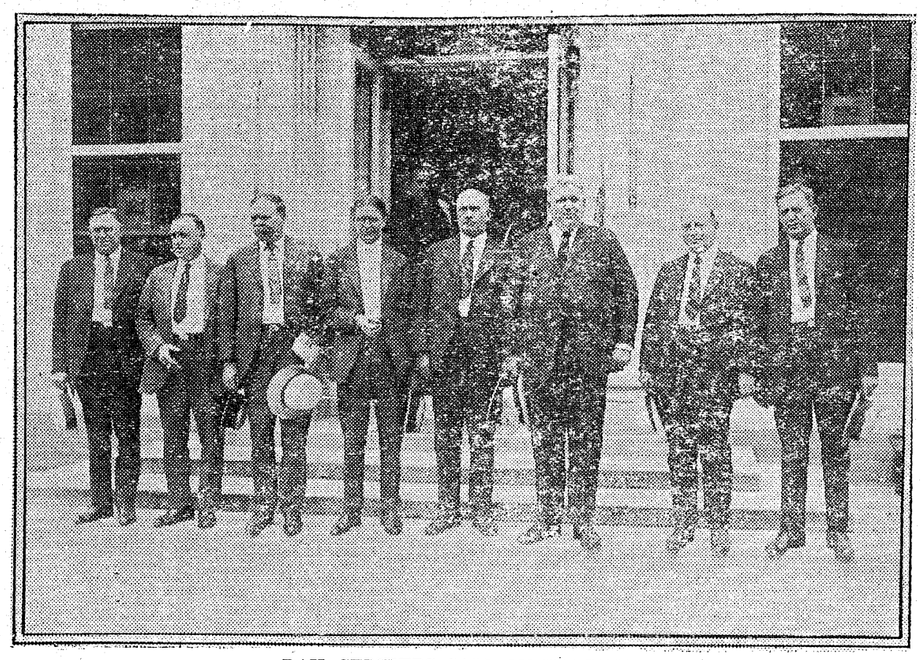
Councillor McKeen, chairman of the claims committee, reported no liability on the claim of Joseph Dullea for two weeks' vacation money. According to McKeen the petitioner was discharged from the sewer division last May. The Council sustained the committee.

A letter from Mayor Shea asking the Council to authorize the transfer of $1500 to the fire alarm appropriation, taking the money from the maturing debt funds, was sent to finance committee. The Mayor stated in his letter that City Electrician O'Keefe had failed to include the bills for December, 1921, in his budget.

GARDEN PARTY AT MRS PETRASKES

The grounds surrounding the home of Mrs. Margaret E. Petraske on Chestnut street will be the scene of a mid-summer garden fete on Thursday afternoon, August 24, the proceeds of which will be given to the Leo Guild to enable it to carry on its great amount of charity work. Whist will be played from 2.30 to 5, and a cake sale will be held during the afternoon. Mrs. Petraske is hostess of the affair and she has a large committee of energetic workers to assist her, of which Mrs. Margaret M. Conroy is secretary and Mrs. Katherine M. Sheehan is treasurer.

ASBURY GROVE SERVICES



The Sunday afternoon services at the Asbury Grove camp ground this summer are being conducted by the Rev. Robert M. Peirce, a former pastor of the Peabody Methodist church, and are very interesting and well attended. A number of Mr. Peirce's Peabody friends are planning to attend next Sunday's service, leaving the Methodist church at 2 o'clock in one of Earl Warman's trucks, returning in the evening. Basket lunches will be taken. Any of Mr. Peirce's former friends are invited to go.

WHY? DOES SALT MAKE US THIRSTY

ANYONE who has suffered from nose-bleed or who has tasted human blood knows that it contains a considerable proportion of salt—approximately the same amount as is present in sea water. This is only natural, because salt is one of the essentials of the body and is carried through it by means of the veins and arteries which feed the different parts of this intricate mechanism.

When an unusual amount of salt is taken into the stomach, it reacts in two ways. In the first place, the blood, being already supplied with all the salt that it cares to handle, declines to take on any more and the saline solution remains in the stomach—"uncalled for," as it were. Then, too, salt rapidly absorbs water and its presence in the stomach causes that organ to send out a hurry call for some means of flushing out the excess which cannot be utilized by the body. The sensation of being "thirsty" is, therefore, merely the manifestation that the stomach needs something with which to dilute the unusual amount of salt—just as when we feel thirsty from other causes it is a sign that the body needs some kind of a liquid to assist it in its usual functions.

RAIL STRIKERS CALL ON HARDING

Representatives of Labor in the great rail strike called on Harding for a conference lasting a long while. Left to right the men are, J. A. Franklin (Boilermakers), J. M. Burns (Sheet Metal), T. Healy (Fireworkers), Bert M. Jewell (Chairman), James Kline (Blacksmiths), Martin Ryan (Carmen), W. H. Johnstone (Machinists) and Ed. J. Evans (Electrician).

'Hubby' Holds A.C.L. Office To Four Lone Hits

The Office team had an off night last evening, and after holding the Japan even for four innings began to weaken and lost 9-2. The heavy hitters of the Japan shop got 11 hits off Charlie Brown's delivery, while Hubby Lawrence held the pen pushers to four bingles. Lawrence boosted his strikeout record by 9. McCarthy of the Japan led at bat with three hits.

Tonight the Hide team will attempt to stop the Sheepskin lads. The Hide expects to start Myron Dempsey, and claim that he can hold the league leaders helpless, while they expect to have a bunch of heavy hitters to gather enough runs to humiliate the chesty bunch from the Sheep. E. Farmer may play first for the Hide. The Sheep will stand pat on their lineup claiming their infield will suffice to win against the best the Hide can show. A good crowd is expected.

League Standing

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Sheep	4	0	1000
Japan	4	1	800
Office	3	2	600
Hide	2	2	500
Cutstock	1	4	200
National	0	5	000

Notes of the Teams

The game tonight will mark the turning point of the season, as it will wind up the first half of the schedule. If the Sheep team wins, it will be hard to head them off in the next five games.

Several new umpires have been tried out during the past two weeks, and have done well. It is a thankless task to attempt to call decisions when you only act as umpire once or twice a year, but the umps so far have done splendid work.

There was more real snap in the game Wednesday between the two tail end teams than we have seen thus far among any of them. They were on their toes all through the game. Great spirit.

The teams begin meeting for the second time next week. Here's what they did before. Cutstock 20, Japan 1. Hide 11, National 4. Sheep 3, Office 0. The losers of last time will attempt to wipe out these defeats next week.

It is rumored around the shop that some of the Boston officials of the Company are planning to take in an A. C. L. game soon. They are showing a lot of interest in the league.

Talk of a post-season game between an All-star A. C. L. team and the Peabody Town team is beginning to be heard. It would be a good game.

NEW WIRE CHIEF

William Walsh, lineman at the Peabody telephone office, has been named wire chief in this city to succeed Adam Foulkes, who has been transferred to a higher position in Salem. Walsh resides on Harris street and has been with the company for a long time.

Rev. Dr. Francis L. Beal and family remove to West Somerville this week, where Dr. Beal will become rector of St. James' Episcopal parish.

Enterprise Will Give Cash For Essays on the Value Of High School Education

In the effort to help along the slogan "Back to School," the Enterprise announces today a contest for Peabody boys and girls ranging from 12 to 16 years of age who are invited to write an essay of not more than 500 words on the subject of "The value of a High School Education." Prizes of $5, $3 and $2 will be awarded for the three best essays.

The essay must be written on one side of the paper and care must be exercised to keep the article within the limit of 500 words. No essay of less than 350 words will be acceptable. The boy or girl entering the contest should set forth the value of an education. The essays must be in the hands of the editor of the Enterprise not later than Monday, August 28, and the three prize winning papers will be published in our issue of Sept. 1.

To judge the merits of the essays and select the prize winning papers, the Enterprise will request Superintendent of Schools Albert Robinson and two other citizens to review the papers. The names of the other two judges will be announced in next week's Enterprise.

Each essay should be signed by the author, together with the name of his parents, his age and residence.

Cobb Deposed As State Police

Joseph F. Cobb, building inspector under Col. Foote of the state police, has been dropped from the service. He is a resident of West Peabody, where he has made many friends. Family troubles are said to be the cause of his being dropped from the state service. He was appointed in 1909 and formerly was assigned to the Berkshire district. He took the position vacated by Angus McDonald of Lynn in 1919. He has been a resident of Peabody for the past two years.

AUTO NO. 64

The honor of holding the smallest automobile registration number in Peabody goes to William H. Hill of Franklin street, whose machine carries the number of 64. Mr. Hill has had this number for several years. Two other numbers lower than 2311 mentioned in last week's Enterprise are those of Charles P. Kelley, general manager of the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. plants in this city. They are 1314 and 1315. Who holds the highest registration number in Peabody? Reporters for the Enterprise are scouring the horizon for the number.

George Hayes Not To Serve As Fuel Chief

George E. Hayes, who was appointed fuel administrator for Peabody by James J. Storrow, federal agent in this state, has declined to serve, owing to business demands. He is Boston manager for Tupman, Thurlow Co., international packers, and is necessarily away from the city during the day. His declination is now in the hands of Mr. Storrow, who is looking about for a new appointee. Mr. Hayes served as Peabody fuel administrator during the war and rendered high class service to the public.

Mayor Shea will recommend Ernest J. Porter, the insurance man, for the position.

MISS MARY GILROY NEAR DEAD OF FRIGHT AS BLAST HURLS ROCKS

Miss Mary Gilroy, aged 33, was prostrated at her home on Warren street extension yesterday morning as a result of a shower of rocks which fell about her house, following an explosion of dynamite at the Essex Trap Rock Co. 200 yards away. One of the rocks broke the parlor window of the Gilroy home.

John Coyle, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Coyle, also of Warren street extension, who was swinging in a hammock under a grape arbor in his yard, just missed being struck by one of the flying rocks. Another stone measuring six inches in diameter and ten inches long buried itself in the lawn of the Peabody Electric Light plant on Endicott street.

The blast occurred about 9 o'clock and startled the nearby residents by its unusual propensity. The shock was felt for some distance.

William Distin, crossing tender on Endicott street, picked up several rocks near his shanty.

The condition of Miss Coyle became so acute that Dr. J. W. P. Murphy, her family physician, was hastily called and remained with the patient for some time. It was believed she could not survive the shock.

Miss Gilroy was sitting in the kitchen when the blast occurred and the rock smashed against the window pane in the parlor. She collapsed from fright and not until late in the day did her condition hold out hope that she could live.

Adin French, the druggist, was in his home on Lowell street with his pet parrot perched on his shoulder when the explosion took place and the bird was so frightened by the blast that it fastened its claws into the clothing of Mr. French and trembled for several

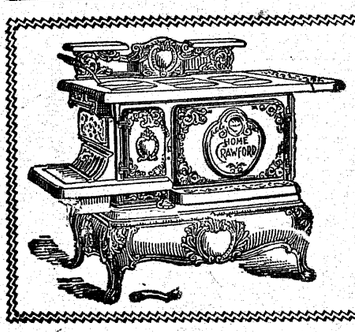
Boy Scouts Off For Camp Tour

Twenty-one Boy Scouts of Troop 2 leave tomorrow morning for a two weeks' camping tour at Lanesville. They will be in charge of Scout Master Roger Trask. Peabody friends are invited to visit the camp on Aug. 27, when an exhibition of scout work will be given during the afternoon.

The Scouts who will answer roll call for the two weeks are: John Munroe, Willis Moore, Raymond Viles, Wendall Wiley, Palmer Watkins, Jerome Aldrich, Newell Bodge, Harry Roberts, Bertram Putnam, F. Wiggin, Wilbur Jackman, Joseph Vernon, Ray Wilkinson, Donald Jeffers, Lloyd Grover, Allan Roome, Charles Stewart, Kendall Hanson, Percy Robinson, William Dunn and Francis Blaney.



Larrabee Pays First 1922 Tax

The honor of being the first Peabody citizen to pay his real estate tax for 1922 goes to Franklin Larabee of 32 County street, who called at the collector's office this week and asked for his bill. He is commander of Union Post, G. A. R. of this city and starts Monday for a sojourn in California. The tax bills will shortly be sent out to all citizens.

CITY HALL NOTES

Joy riding in city autos has been tabooed in Peabody by order of Mayor Shea, and no municipal machine is seen outside of the city excepting permission is obtained from the Mayor, and it must be strictly on city business. Mayor Shea does not intend to have any such item regarding Peabody municipal machines appear in out-of-town papers as appeared in the Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, Patriot, on August 7 last: "A large seven passenger car, attractively finished in red, the property of the wire division of the Boston fire department, is in the city with a party of excursionists."

* * *

Attorney Louis F. O'Keefe, who is looking out for the interests of William Gaston, candidate for senator on the Democratic ticket, is being urged to throw his hat in the ring for Mayor, and it is reported today that he is an avowed candidate. Efforts to get him to turn a deaf ear to the call are said to have been unavailing. He is a member of the school committee at the present time. He is a brother of City Electrician O'Keefe. It is said that Atty. O'Keefe had his mind on being city solicitor under Mayor Shea.

* * *

A vicious attempt to belittle the efforts of the Peabody Rotary Club members in putting over the children's outing last Wednesday has come to light, showing the contemptible resort some "politicians" adopt to throw mud. A certain "pol" who hasn't the nerve to announce himself a candidate for pound keeper or some other job at the expense of the tax-payers has uttered propaganda to the effect that Mayor Shea was "hogging" the credit for the big event. As a matter of fact the 33 members of the Rotary Club sponsored the outing with the aid of 90 automobile owners who donated their cars. William Harvie of Lynnfield street, who first made the suggestion to members of the club, knows how much the Rotary members appreciate his efforts. Mayor Shea did his part the same as 25 other club members who gave their time to the affair. The Rotary Club is not engaged in fostering missions of any politician.

* * *

A bad water break on English street kept acting Foreman Charles Crump on the job all night Wednesday with four leaks in addition to the main break. Crump is now holding the honors for working the longest hours of any city employe.

* * *

The Mass. Electric Street railway will replace the pavement on Main street as soon as the welding of the rails is completed. The road will restore the paving at all of the breaks on Main street.

* * *

Engineer Patrick Conroy of the pumping station started something last week when he claimed that he was the only head of a municipal division that did a full eight-hour a day shift. We supposed he would arouse the ire of some other city officer and he has, for Foreman Charles J. Crump of the water meter division, and who is now looking after the water supply division in the absence of Chief Barrett, declares he hasn't had less than a ten-hour day for months. He has plenty of evidence to back up his contention also.

Then there's Supt. Wyman of the street division. He is a glutton for work and from 7 a. m. until 6 p. m. are his regular hours. Foreman Michael J. Murphy of the sewer division is another overworked officer.

So. Peabody To See Big Game Tomorrow

A big game is carded in the Twilight League for tomorrow afternoon at the South Peabody playground when the Armistice team will go against the newly organized Washington A. A. nine. Guy LeCain and Bob Millbury, one of the crack batteries of the city, will be in the points for the Armistice boys and either Ralph Cunningham or Billy Murphy will be on the slab for the new club. Both of the latter pitchers are shining in the A. C. L. League.

The Washington Club takes the place of the B. I. A. deposed team and is made up of such clever men as Morrissey, another A. C. L. boy, Timo McCarthy, Luke McHugh, Dannie Murphy, John Donovan and Jim Sweeney. Murphy and Donovan are popular High street A. C. men.

The pennant race finds the All Stars and High Streets leading in first place with the Armistice Club in second position, and going hot after the leaders. Bosco are third, Lake Shore Park fourth on the list, with the Washington team bound to break into the win column.

A high grade of baseball is being exhibited in this league, and the teams reserve the support of the fans for keeping South Peabody furnished with the national sport right at home. The game gets away at 3 o'clock sharp.

Alderney Is Tax Exempt.

ROTARY CLUB OF PEABODY
Card of Thanks

The members of the Peabody Rotary Club wish to convey their sincere thanks and gratitude to the owners of automobiles who gave the use of their machines for the children's outing on August 16, 1922, and to those men and women whose services went far to make the event a success. We wish also to thank the housewives and others who contributed cake, cookies and the prizes.

Signed
JOSEPH E. NOYES,
President.

W. PEABODY GIRL IS B. U. STUDENT

Miss Frances R. Russell of West Peabody has registered for special courses at the summer session of Boston university. Miss Russell is specializing in finance and shorthand. This year's registration of 922 students studying under the auspices of the various departments of the university is not only the largest ever enrolled in the summer, but it is also the most cosmopolitan. Students from China, France, Siam, Portugal, Porto Rico, Canada and the Philippine Islands, and from practically every state in the Union are taking work. A number of teachers from the west and south who stayed on for the National Education Association convention are enrolled in the courses in education and sociology.

Plans were made for the annual outing of the Sunday school class to be held on Saturday, Aug. 19, at Salem Willows. Cars will leave the church at 10 a. m. and members wishing to go are requested to notify the transportation committee at once.

A number of members of the Bartholomew Improvement Association motored to Northwood, N. H., and spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Davis at their summer home there.

Miss Alice Doyle, who has been seriously ill with bronchial pneumonia, is able to be out.

Oysters Grow on Trees.

In the Faranta harbor of Italy the sight of oysters growing on trees may be seen. This does not mean that the oysters grow like apples and such fruit, but it is the custom there, where the oysters are cultivated, to put trees into the water for the young oysters to cling to. This scheme is said to save innumerable baby oysters which would otherwise be devoured by fish before they had a chance to develop. The trees are placed in the water with the trunks up and when it comes time to transplant the oysters the trees are taken up bodily and carried to the new grounds, saving much labor.

West Peabody

Master William Croughwell is spending the week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Fawsett on Lowell street.

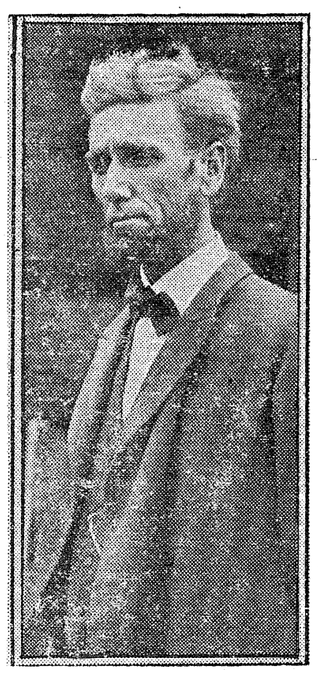
ROTARY CLUBS

Rotary Clubs by their educational and charitable work throughout the country, are firmly established as being an institution which does much in every community. We have many other organizations whose work has been recognized as a necessity. But with so many charities to care for, there is always room for one more. The local Rotary Club has always done much for the needy. Their ways of doing are unique. Their way which combines educational with charitable work, has been mainly for the children, the future men and women of our country. Such work is bound to leave an impression which will tend for future good. Some one has said we do not need a Chamber of Commerce for the Rotary Club is doing such work more effectively. Such is not the case. Both organizations are needed in every community, and we believe both will function in their line of work.

VACATIONS



Vacations are now enjoyed by all. In all lines of work, it has become a part of the work to take a vacation. This new feature, and we say new, for only a few years back only a few enjoyed that privilege, has become part and parcel of living. Vacations are planned today months ahead. The banks help by having a special department which cares for the savings which will finance the vacation. To have something of this kind to look forward to, helps one keep the "punch" which the employer looks for. The Enterprise last week printed nearly two columns of vacationists, and scores of others were not registered. We all need vacations. The pessimists will tell you there was no such thing as vacations in the days gone by. If conditions were the same today they would not now be needed. But the continual activity which marks business today demands that play should be a part of living. Added zeal is added to the employe, and the employer benefits when the January balance is completed.

BACK TO SCHOOL

In a short time boys and girls will be called upon to return to school. After weeks of vacation, all feel it a burden to take up work again. That goes with life. But when school opens, and the daily grind commences, vacation is forgotten and the traveling on the road to Education is taken up and the big majority reap the harvest which in after years stands them well. Practically all grammar school children complete their course. It is to be regretted that all do not continue through the High school. No doubt there are extreme cases where parents need their children to keep the wolf from the door. Once was the time when the percentage of boys and girls who completed the High school course was small. Today we are satisfied it is much larger. Times have changed. Education is needed today more than ever before. Manual labor needs it, for brains added to muscle is a winner. Those who aspire to clerical positions must have a special training or the employer will not listen to applications for work. So the tendency in all business is to demand education as the prominent element for employment. Thus to take advantage of the privileges offered by Peabody's educational institutions should be an asset which every youth should consider seriously, for later in life it will be well appreciated. The schools of Peabody offer the best in education. It has become necessary that young men and women should be equipped, at least to that extent. So we urge that parents will think well before taking their children from school until they have completed the High school course. The times demand it. By so doing, the future is far more bright and living much easier to conquer.

SAMUEL W. KING

Athletics today attracts the attention of thousands, and the most popular sport is baseball. Fifty years ago baseball was the most popular sport. It has always been the national game. Samuel W. King began his career as a baseball player in the early seventy's. His playing attracted attention throughout the baseball world. It was in the days of the Red Sox of Boston with Harry Wright as manager that Sam King was called to become a member of this famous organization. Parental objections only kept him away. His prowess as a ball player has been a good example for the youth of today. Without training, wearing no gloves, his plays stood out as do the plays of today. Our departed friend lived in Peabody all of his life of three score years and ten. He saw his birthplace change from year to year and the changes have been most pronounced. As a ball player, the changes were many, the curve ball coming in in the latter part of his playing. Probably his playing with the Live Oaks of Lynn covered the better part of his record as a ball player. This organization was composed of players from Danvers and Peabody with others from Lynn and Grafton. They met all comers and few defeats were registered against them. Such records has stimulated the youth of today. We all cannot shine as ball players. Few of us can be prominent in anything in this world. But the satisfaction of excellence in any one thing in life is worth while, and in athletics which today is recognized as worth striving for, Samuel W. King excelled, in the days when preparation was a small part.

MEET LINCOLN'S DOUBLE

Tall and gaunt, a figure looking for all the world like Abraham Lincoln, is this man—Judge Charles E. Bull of Reno, Nev. The Judge is smooth shaven and besides his remarkable facial resemblance, is almost an exact counterpart for Lincoln in physique—six feet four inches, and 190 pounds. He was asked to pose in surroundings that would bring out his remarkable likeness to Lincoln and he "made up" in the beard shown above.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

HOW TO EAT

CORN—Pick up the ear of boiled corn with one hand and eat it from the ear. This is in perfectly good form and is better than cutting the kernels from the ear at table.

Cherries—Lift the cherry by the stem to the mouth, and discard the pit into the right hand. Then lay it on the plate.

Baked Potatoes—Cut them lengthwise or crosswise on the dinner plate if they have not already been opened in the kitchen. Take the morsels of potato from the open skin with the fork. Do not expedite this by squeezing the skin with the fingers. If you like to eat the skin cut the potato with the skin on with the knife and fork. Never scrape the skin with the side of the fork to get the last morsel.

Berries—All should be eaten with a fork or spoon excepting strawberries which, if they are served with the hulls on, are raised to the mouth by means of the hull and bitten off.

Lobster in the Shell—It is necessary and quite all right to pull such sea food apart with the fingers and such things as shrimps may even be separated and peeled with the fingers. However great daintiness should be exercised in doing this and one should take care not to put the fingers to the mouth or to eat the fish with the fingers. The fork should be used to convey it to the mouth though the fingers may be used in separating the parts of the fish.

THE GUIDE

WHEN on some darkened street
My pathway I pursue
'Tis rather Faith than Feet
That holds my courses true,
So too in puzzled days,
The Light obscured by Doubt,
'Tis Faith that finds the ways
To lead me safely out.

ROUND ABOUT

At last we have encountered summer weather. Some would lead us to believe that such weather would not come to us this year, for the summer months are more than half gone. But we have always had summer in summer, and why the exception this year?

* * *

It is not our intention to criticise surrounding communities, but an example of road repairing was called to our attention in the neighboring town of Danvers. Most of us know that ordinary gravel roads are not fitted for automobiles. But on the road leading to the Homestead Golf Club repairing was done last week with a road roller and a little gravel. When completed the road looked well. In two days with the help of rain and autos, it became as bad as before repairing. Thus labor thrown away.

* * *

Peabody roads stand the traffic well. Even in West Peabody there are few holes and gullies and how our friend Bill Sheen does the trick is a mystery to us. We care not how, but our neighbors in Danvers might well take a few lessons from Bill.

* * *

Another example of matches and gasolene took place the other evening when a match was lighted near gasolene. Result—burns on the person, and the machine made as fine a bonfire as a fourth of July celebration. It took our fire department but a short time to restore order, but another lesson for all to exercise care when gasolene is near.

* * *

Dr. Beal departed this week to his new pastorate in Somerville. We take this occasion to again say we regret his departure. His many friends in Somerville will welcome him back again, and we are the losers.

* * *

Baseball interest in Peabody is at fever heat, and the finish in the A. C. L. league will be watched by hundreds of the followers. Then, again, our town team is showing the way, and all in all baseball lovers get their full without journeying elsewhere.

* * *

It is gratifying to witness the many new buildings being built about town. It is evident most of us have come to the conclusion that prices of commodities will not go lower to any extent for years to come.

* * *

The first meeting of the Board of Registrars was held Monday of this week and 28 new names were added to the voting lists. Candidates are working hard to register all available, and everything points to a big vote this fall with the chances in favor of the dead horse. All are trained to the limit.

* * *

That permit for oil tanks on the Stockwell estate will bring out an interesting audience. While it might appear such tanks would be a nuisance at this spot, there are many good things which might be said in favor. It is assured the danger is nil, then comes the question how will the neighbors fare? We leave it to the good judgment of the Council.

* * *

Stickers, "Donnell of Peabody for Attorney General" are being used by hundreds of his local friends in aid of his candidacy for the Republican nomination. These stickers are being placed on letters to all parts of the state. A plea for a vote for the Peabody man is also being made in letters. Middlesex county, the largest in the state which now has several candidates for the G. O. P. title, is showing keen interest in the Donnell campaign, and he is already assured of a good sized vote in that county.

We have had cause to regret the passing of such property into house lots, but time and tide care for no man. Everywhere such estates are becoming a drug on the market, for the simple reason the young generation want more life than is offered in the country. High life is in the air.

* * *

Every year farmers tell us the weather is not right. Either too much or too little rain. This year is no exception. But riding through the country in West Peabody, Andover street and elsewhere, the crops appear to our unpracticed eye as being large. Green corn may be the exception. Anyway the farmer has good prospects.

* * *

The West Peabody Club is on its way to a new club house. Already money has been pledged, and everything points to a real club house in that section, and a general benefit to the community. A site near the school building in that section belonging to the Boston & Maine railroad is well thought of.

* * *

Had Sawyer manager of the West Peabody baseball team, is winning many games from crack teams in this vicinity. Experience, discretion and a knowledge of the fine points of the game go to make a successful manager and Had has all of these qualifications.

Flexible English.

I have no sympathy with the criticism which would treat English as a dead language—a thing crystallized at an arbitrarily selected stage of its existence, and bidden to forget that it has a past and deny that it has a future. Purism, whether in grammar or vocabulary, almost always means ignorance. Language was made before grammar, not grammar before language.—Thomas Hardy.

WHICH WAS QUEEN?

MISS CORNSTALK grew very proud as the days went by and her silky hair floated over her pale green dress in the breeze.

"It is plain to me that I am the queen of the field," she said to the Pumpkin Vine, crawling on the ground nearby. "I feel sure that I was intended to be queen, else why should I be so much above all others around here?"

"We each play our part, I think," replied the lowly Pumpkin Vine. "My day has not come yet. I am sure when you behold me in my glory you will see that I am quite your equal, though I do not think I was made to be queen."

"I should say you were not," haughtily replied Miss Cornstalk, looking on Pumpkin Vine with scorn, Pumpkin Vine Had a Pumpkin.

"and now that I think of it I wonder I even so far forgot my high station as to speak to you.

"A queen should speak only to her equals, and I wish you would not address me again, for I really cannot notice one so far beneath me."

Pumpkin Vine said something about kindness being the greatest virtue a queen could have, but Miss Cornstalk only shook her silken locks that they might glisten in the sunlight and held her head higher than ever as her green sash fluttered in the breeze.

But one day when Pumpkin Vine had forgotten all about the unkindness of haughty Miss Cornstalk, down fell something close beside her.

Pumpkin Vine now had a large yellow pumpkin of which any vine should have been proud, but she did not brag about its gold. She knew that other vines had golden pumpkins and that it was not the only beautiful thing in the world.

But what was it that lay on the ground beside her? Pumpkin Vine looked and there was Miss Cornstalk, proud and haughty no more, for her silken tresses were gone and her green sash and all that was left of her former glory was a long stalk with husks withered and dry.

Now was the time, you think, for Pumpkin Vine to have revenge; but not in the way you may think did she take it. Very softly she spoke to poor, fallen Miss Cornstalk. "The sun is nice and warm, even if the nights are cool," she said, "and it will not be long before you will be taken into a nice warm barn, so do not feel so sad.

"You are very fortunate to be able to see so much of the world, for from your lofty place you must have seen many things I have missed and I am sure you will see many things down here that will make you glad you came."

Miss Cornstalk looked at Pumpkin Vine and saw the big golden pumpkin. "You were right. Your day of glory has come and you are my equal," she sighed, "and you should have been queen of the field instead of me, for you know how to be kind to those who have been unkind to you, and the real queen is the one who rules herself first."

Poor, foolish Miss Cornstalk; while she was beautiful she had no time for wise thoughts, but when her beauty was gone she found out that beautiful deeds count for more than silken tresses and haughty manners.

Save by Schedule

If you plan in advance and set a savings mark for yourself, you will not find it hard to do.

On the other hand, without a schedule, you will find it very easy to let all your earnings slip through your fingers each week. All it takes is a plan,—and the Resolve and Will to Save.

Now is the only time you can save anything or do anything. Don't wait for New Year's to make a resolve to save money. Do it now.

Insects Use Tools.

In intelligence the insect world ranks next to humankind. Two naturalists tell of seeing a wasp closing a hole in the ground leading to a food cache by tamping the earth with a small pebble it had seized in its mandibles. Heretofore man was supposed to be the only tool user. Out at Grays Harbor, Wash., bandit wild bees have invaded the tame hives and carried away the honey to their hives in the forest. They have stolen more than one-third of the domestic honey gathered in this district. Insect civilization seems right up-to-date.

BLIND, SHE TAKES 80 WORDS A MINUTE BY STENOGRAPHY

Miss Grace E. Keator, of the New York Association For Blind is not letting the loss of her sight handicap her. She takes dictation at the rate of 80 words a minute on the Braille Shorthand Machine which has six keys, that operate a lever, which indents a paper ribbon with small raised bumps, that can be transcribed by passing the finger over them.

ROTARY CLUB HOST FOR 800 CHILDREN ON AUTO OUTING

serve special mention, both volunteering their services.

Chief Grady attended the outing and aided in the work of seeing to it that no child was run down by the auto traffic. His presence had a good effect and the Rotary Club owes him a debt of gratitude for his fine co-operation.

A card of thanks to automobile owners and all others who assisted appears today in the Salem News and elsewhere in the Enterprise.

The list of sports were run off under the direction of Henry A. King, chairman of the playground commission, assisted by Chet Bent, Dr. Yale, John Power and Phil O'Rourke.

Peabody women who came forward to help feed the hundreds of children worked in the blazing sun and saw to it that every kiddie got his share. These women included Mrs. Lawrence K. Kelley, Mrs. Frank H. Sanger, Mrs. William H. Fay and Miss O'Keefe of the playgrounds.

Mary Murphy, a 12-year-old girl living in Basford's court, was one of the Peabody girls to go in bathing. When she returned to the spot where she had left her clothes they were gone.

Chairman T. Henry Millea was in charge of the committee and he was everywhere looking after the details which helped to make the outing the big success it was.

A little girl's sweater was found in one of the cars and the owner may have same by calling at the Enterprise office.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

BUSINESS

The word "business" is a short way of speaking the old English saying "Busy-ness," meaning that a man was busy in doing something to earn his living.

Today "Business" is in some way a part of every man's life—there are no longer Dukes and Lords who can tax the workmen who live on their vast estates so that the rulers can live without any business whatever, but have the power to force others to earn their living for them. The Day of the Duke and the Lord is over and every man, especially in this country,—works, either with his brain or with his hands, to earn his living. He must do so no matter how much money he may have from his dead father, for if he doesn't his money will soon get away from him. I knew personally a young man, thirty years of age, who inherited $300,000 from his father. In ten years he had not one dollar left. He didn't have brains enough either to use it or keep it. His father, who built up a big business, had all the brains of the family and if he had only had enough more brains to teach his son to earn a living for himself the son would have known how to use all that money and would have kept thousands of men and women at work earning an honest living.

That is what capital is for,—to pay wages to the people who need wages. It is wrong to believe that men who earn wages are employed by capital and that the purpose of such employment is for the benefit of capital and not for the benefit of the wage earner.

The truth of the matter is that both the capitalist and the wage earner are employed by the same master and the name of that master is "Business." Business exists because the people want things; food, clothing, houses, schools, amusements, churches and a great many things that the people didn't have fifty years ago, and that they didn't want nor did they think about, fifty years ago; trolley cars, movies, automobiles, seashore pleasures, department stores, telephones, etc., etc. Business brought all these things to the people and made their lives more comfortable. Farmers' wives in Kansas thirty years ago went crazy because of loneliness,—today the telephone and automobile have taken away this loneliness and farmers' wives don't go crazy in Kansas, or anywhere else. Business does that sort of thing.

Business must have capital, and it hires capital and pays it wages. We call the wages of capital by the name of "Interest." When capital is scarce interest is high; when capital is plenty its wages are low. Capital has never been known to strike for higher wages because if it did the people would suffer so dreadfully that they would scrape together their savings and offer them to Business to use. Think of the capitalists in this Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Over 2,000,000 accounts in the Savings Banks. Every man with a Savings Bank account is a capitalist. Over $1,000,000,000 in the one State of Massachusetts in the Savings Banks alone.

The workingman and woman are also employed by Business, for capital is of no use without labor. Just like capital the wages of labor are higher when labor is scarce and lower when labor is plentiful. Neither capital nor labor will work for Business unless the wages paid are enough to attract them both. Interest for capital and wages for labor must have a proper value in relation to the rate they can get by working somewhere else.

Whenever Business reduces the wages (interest) of capital below a proper amount, then capital refuses to work in that Business, and that particular business must stop. Whenever this happens labor must stop, too, and as a result we have hard times. It is quite useless to condemn the management of Business for paying proper interest to capital, because capital will not work without reasonable (interest) any more than labor will work unless it is paid reasonable wages.

No matter how we look at this matter it is quite plain that the proper relation of capital and labor is the relation of co-operators, each working for Business, each being paid a proper and reasonable wage for the work they do in making something the people need and that the people will pay for.

Who fixes this proper and reasonable rate of wages for labor and for capital? The people do. The great mass of people who want things and will pay for them. The people fix the price of everything. When times are good the people will buy because they are all at work earning money. Then prices go up, wages go up, interest goes up. When prices get too high the people stop buying. Business gets slack, prices go down, wages go down, interest goes down, there is unemployment.

We are all working for Business and Business is making things the people want. When we all learn this and learn that we are co-operating,—all of us,—then there will be no unemployment, no hard times, no strikes, but a proper and just payment of wages and of interest because the people will insist upon justice.

URGE FARMERS TO HAVE COWS TESTED

Farm Bureau members are being urged by the State Federation to take advantage of the new bovine tuberculosis control law and have their herds tested this year. Only a limited amount of money is available for this work through the remainder of this year, and it will without doubt run out before all the applications are filled. The State Federation secretary has information that at the present time the applications have not come in as fast as anticipated and that a considerably larger number of herds could be inspected if immediate application is made. The law went into effect only August 1st. When farmers wake up to the fact that it is actually in operation and that they can receive a materially larger compensation for slaughtered animals than could formerly be received, there will be, in the opinion of the state secretary, a flood of applications which will more than exhaust the $15,000 available for the balance of this year.

The State Federation worked hard for the passage of this bovine tuberculosis bill and believes that it is for the benefit of progressive dairymen of the state. At the same time, the Federation points out that it is purely a voluntary matter whether a farmer has his herd tested or not.

Is Matrimouy a Failure? Title Of All Star Film Monday

Richard Barthlemess in "The Seventh Day," adapted from the story of the same name by Porter Emerson Brown, will head the bill the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. The picture promises an entirely different characterization from the Virginia mountain boy in "Tol'able David." In the "Seventh Day" he appears as the youthful captain of a fishing craft in a town on the Maine coast, far removed from railroad and modern civilization.

A yacht loaded with young society flappers on pleasure bent is temporarily stranded in the port and confusion results. The isolated town had never known such goings on and young John Alder, portrayed by Richard Barthlemess, taken up by the party to furnish amusement, takes the game of flirtation to heart. Patrica Vane, the object of his heart, is witty, attractive and the last word in social deportment. The boy quite naturally imagines she is honestly in love with him and she allows the deception to continue.

The realization of this deception brings a climax of surpassing strength. Mr. Barthlemess endows his role with all of the simplicity and sincerity that has marked his former screen productions, and it is this note of genuineness that is always the outstanding appeal in a picture featuring this star. Louise Huff heads the supporting cast. A Mack Sennett comedy "Gymnasium Jim" and the last episode but one of George Walsh's serial "With Stanley in Africa" will be the other attractions shown today.

Earle Williams in "Diamonds Adrift" will head the double feature bill the local playhouse will offer for Sunday evening. Clara Kimball Young in her latest release, "Charge It," will be the second feature for Sunday.

"Is Matrimony a Failure," a Paramount special feature with a wonderful cast that includes Lila Lee, T. Roy Barnes, Lois Wilson, Walter Hiers, Tully Marshall, Sylvia Ashton and Charles Ogle, will be the main feature for next Monday and Tuesday. This picture is off the beaten path. It relates the funny experiences of a young couple who marry on the quiet. Their friends soon find out that they are married so they decide to take a honeymoon. One of their friends discovers that they have made a mistake in their marriage papers and are in reality not legally wed. Then begins a wild chase to stop them. The kind friends send a telegram to the mountain resort to which the couple are headed to the effect that they are not man and wife. Naturally when they arrive and attempt to register as such they are politely told to leave. Unfortunately the bride has lost the marriage license which adds to their difficulties. The picture hits on all six throughout and is one of the most refreshing attractions in months. William Duncan in "Steel-Heart" will be the other feature for Monday and Tuesday.

Less Mothers Dependent On City For Aid

The number of child wards of Massachusetts is lower than it has been in many years, according to the annual report of the Department of Public Welfare, now on the press. The past two "dry" years have shown a marked decrease from the average number of delinquent, wayward, neglected and dependent children for whom the state had to care under the former "wet" conditions.

The total number of children received in custody in the state in the past year was 834. In 1917, 1087 children were state wards. The figures for 1919 were 1073, which in 1920 dropped, with prohibition's advent, to 845. Of these state wards, in 1917, 174 of those received during the year were classed as delinquent, 191 in 1918, 190 in 1919, while the latest figures compiled show only 98 delinquent children received during the twelve month period. Only eight wayward children were received.

Neglected children fell from 433 in 1917 and 452 in 1918, steadily with the advent of prohibition until the forthcoming report will show only 269, a decrease of 53 from the previous year.

The number of dependent children shows an increase over the figures of the preceding year, 459 in the latest total as against 376, due to the industrial depressions. The total of dependent children in 1919 was 509; in 1917, 472.

The number of active cases receiving Mother's Aid from the state increased by 123 cases, the total being 3407. In 1919, this total was 3743. The number of active cases receiving Mother's Aid in Peabody is reported as 16. In 1920 there were 19 cases in this community, 25 in 1919 and 21 in 1918.

Connery Will Hold 4 Rallies

William P. Connery, Jr., candidate for congress on the Democratic ticket, will hold four rallies in Peabody next week. On Tuesday night he will speak at Swampscott avenue and Washington street at 8 o'clock and at 9 at John's store, Aborn and Sutton streets, now known as Warner square, in honor of the lamentable Delmar J. Warner, the first Peabody soldier to be killed in the World war.

On Friday night of next week Mr. Connery will hold rallies at the Endicott school and at Wilson square. He be accompanied by a 35-piece fife and drum corps that served with him in the Yankee division overseas. Speakers from Lynn and Lawrence will be present. Mr. Connery will be introduced by City Collector Michael J. Sherry.

Lightest of Liquids.

Many experiments here and abroad have shown that liquid hydrogen is by far the lightest of all known liquids. Its density is one-fourteenth that of water, and, curiously enough, this happens to be the same ratio of density that hydrogen in the gaseous state bears to air. For long the lightest liquid known was liquefied marsh gas, which possesses about two-fifths of the density of water.

American Legion

Though the $800,000 expected to be left after the paying of adjusted compensation to New Jersey war veterans cannot be used for a hospital for disabled ex-service men, the American Legion has requested Gov. Edwards to call a special session of the legislature to appropriate a similar amount. The hospital would be state owned and state operated and men disabled overseas or who served and have become disabled since would be eligible for admittance.

A number of Richmond, Va., World war veterans have so far been unable to establish their claims for compensation although all are suffering from wounds or sickness due to war-time military service. The men have been "adopted" by a local unit of the American Legion auxiliary, which is providing them with necessities and medical attention.

Mrs. Emma C. Bergoll, mother of Grover C. Bergoll, America's most famous slacker, has withdrawn her appeal from the finding of a Washington, D. C., judge who dismissed Mrs. Bergoll's petition asking for the return of $1,500,000 worth of property seized by the alien property custodian. No reason was given for the withdrawal. The government seized the property as it was unable to ascertain what belonged to Bergdoll and what belonged to his mother.

To fill the big gap in the wounded veterans' life between the time he leaves the operating room and returns to his home, the American Legion here has opened Blessed Haven, a retreat for convalescent ex-service men. The haven was built and will be maintained by one post of the Legion, Byron Pennington Croker post. The retreat was established primarily to take from the hospitals those veterans who have completed their treatment, but who are still too weak to return to their homes. The Croker post recuperation haven is the only one of its kind in the state. Since its being put on an operating basis, however, other Legion posts are considering similar retreats. These will be placed in the more thickly populated sections in order to bring the wounded men as near their homes as possible.

"Compensated adjustment, back pay, or whatever it may be called," is sure to be as much an issue in the congressional races this year as in 1920, declares the Cincinnati Inquirer in an article about Kentucky. Beer is named as the second subject at issue.

Looking back at their happiest moments while in service, an American Legion post in Washington, D. C., has abolished assembly calls and for the next few months will sound only mess call. Instead of holding regular meetings, the ex-service men will hold field dinners.

* * *

Dr. J. R. Patton, U. S. Veterans' Bureau attache, has been transferred from the bureau's Burlington, Vt., office following charges of the American Legion that Patton used "hard-boiled" tactics in dealing with sick and wounded veterans who applied to him for examination. In announcing Dr. Patton's change of duty, Director Charles R. Forbes, head of the bureau, stated transfer was "for the good of the service."

* * *

So many violations of flag etiquette were brought to the attention of the Hazelton, Pa., American Legion that the organization has appointed a committee to call and instruct the violators in the proper display of the flag.

More than half of the 500 wounded veterans in Walter Reed hospital at Washington, D. C., have undergone blood transfusion. The men who volunteer for the most part are American Legion members who have obtained work around the hospital as ambulance drivers, clerks, special police, etc. The only renumeration these veterans take for giving their blood to their comrades is a tenday leave to recover.

When the Oklahoma American Legion takes over Bartlesville for its annual convention that city will present typical scenes in Paris. The citizens of Bartlesville have arranged to decorate its stores and streets so that the former service men will think themselves on the boulevards and in the shops of the French capitol. Even Bartlesville's river will be renamed the Seine.

The Legion at Fort McPherson, Neb., has 150 bushels of potatoes on hand which it will sell—plus freight—to any member of the 40-8. The potatoes were grown on an acre of land, the work of planting and caring for the plot being done entirely by members of the post.

BESSIE

By AGNES G. BROGAN

(©, 1922, by Western Newspaper Union.)

When Bessie, the black cow, was on her peaceful way to pasture that morning, who could have foreseen that she would have an influence on two young human lives? Professor Laidlow would have scoffed the idea.

When Peggy saw the cow, she made for the highest fence, and perched there in trembling fear. Peggy was unfamiliar with the ways of the cow, having just come on from the city to visit Aunt Felice. She was considering, here in country quiet, a means of future livelihood. Also, Peggy was recovering from a supposed broken heart—recovering nicely.

The young man who had caused this broken heart was dazedly unaware of the cause of his failure to win it. Briefly, Peggy told Aunt Felice that he was a coward. On this particular morning of Bessie's joyous outing, Peggy had been on her way to the brookside to read a magazine, but innocent Bessie blocked the way. The girl, in panic, glanced around the enclosure wherein she was trapped with the cow—and made for the fence top.

Peggy relapsed for a time into forgetfulness of danger, picturing the hero who might come boldly to her relief.

"Great guns!" exclaimed a shaking masculine voice from below, and rapidly a man clambered up beside her.

"I never saw the beast," he chattered, "until I was directly beside him. I was cutting through the meadow, in order to quickly reach the schoolhouse. The animal looks vicious—I beg your pardon. Were you caught in a like predicament?"

"I was," she replied, "and I hoped that some brave person might happen along to release me. It appears the brave person has not happened."

The man was contemptuously oblivious of her disdain.

"I'm no matador," he returned curtly.

Peggy shifted her position to look him over.

"What—are you?" she asked impertinently.

"I am here to apply for the position of school principal," he told her. Peggy almost lost her balance in the excitement of this information, and was obliged to steady herself by the man's unwilling arm.

"Why, I've applied for the school myself," she said.

"You won't get it." His tone was ungracious. "Women are not reliable enough to hold positions of any importance."

"You talk," she suggested spitefully, "like a man who has been disappointed—in love, perhaps."

"I have been disappointed," he surprisingly answered. "The young woman whom I foolishly thought had captured my fancy proved to be impertinent. She was in my classes. I can brook impertinence from no one. It is to me most distasteful."

"Just as cowardice in man is distasteful," remarked Peggy, sadly reminiscent—"and most disappointing."

The professor, for the first time, regarded her with interest. Something in the wistfulness of her tone found an echo in his own heart. "You, too," he questioned gently, "have known disillusionment?"

Peggy nodded. "Of course," she admitted. "Aunt Sophia, with whom I live in the city, is rather disagreeable to young men whom she thinks may be paying me attention. But that was no reason why Ted Thayer should have been afraid to come to the house, and so he asked me to meet him at the home of a mutual friend."

"Certainly not," emphatically agreed the professor.

"I have decided," said Peggy, softened, "to withdraw my school application in your favor. You will undoubtedly be the person for the place."

"I had about decided to relinquish my idea of coming here," the professor confessed, "when I started out this morning. Too deadly monotonous, the place seemed to me, for even the furthering of my true purpose, for the school has been only a means to the end of enabling me, in country seclusion, to complete a certain work on science. But since you and I sat here together I have come to the conclusion that if you remain—do you intend to remain?" The professor's tone was eager.

In strange, happy confusion, Peggy reached for a low hanging red apple. Lightly she swung it to and fro.

"Aunt Felice is anxious to have me stay for the summer; I really think that would be delightful. And—Aunt Felice is not the least bit like Aunt Sophia."

Something softly moist brushed Peggie's palm, and the apple slipped from her grasp. Then, gratefully, Bessie rubbed her black head against the girl's knee.

"Why!" breathed Peggy, "she's not savage at all. Why, I believe she likes me."

"How," asked the professor incoherently, "could she, or anyone, or—or me, help liking you?"

Gallantly he assisted Peggy from her perch.

"I am going your way," he announced, which was surprising, as the professor could not know which way was to be Peggie's.

"It is nice," she said, as his arm protected her against Bessie's calm length, "to meet a brave man."

The professor smiled with satisfaction.

"And how impossible," he remarked, "to think of you in connection with an impertinent saying."

Peabody Tanners Rejoice Over Import of Free Hides

(By ENERGY)

Now that hides are on the free list, tanners can rest easy. Perhaps it should be said they could rest easy if they were built that way. The question whether putting leather and shoes on the free list is to be beneficial, has been discussed with the result that all agree the finished product should be protected.

* * *

But while Germany can produce leather and shoes at a lower labor cost than can we of U. S., the German government taxes the products to the extent that when they arrive here the cost is little lower than is ours. As I look at the situation, quality will tell the story. I do not know why I should assume to criticise leather. But we all have opinions whether worth anything is a question. Pinwheels, paddle wheels, staking machines and numerous others in leather factories tend to separate the grain from the flesh of the skin. Instead of lessening such processes, the tendency has been in the last few years, to add to it. Thus coarse flanks, bellies and often times the whole skin except a portion over the kidneys has been unduly disturbed. by the plating process the finished article can be made to appear right. Even after cut into the shoe the break seems fine. But when the wear comes, deep wrinkles appear, all due to the separation in the manufacturing process.

I have seen leather made in Germany which if made into an accordeon would remain without the break of separation. Leather manufactures by the still process, throughout, would comes nearer to being what the doctor ordered. Do away with pinwheels, staking machines of the present type, and part of the trouble is over. If we are to meet German leather we must produce the quality, or the shoe manufacturer will laugh at us and point to our German competitors as being what is. There is some truth in this all will agree. Let us count up and possibly many will admit that perhaps the extreme processes of making leather could be eliminated.

* * *

I am asked frequently how business is about the city. From what I can gather business is rounding up in a very healthy manner. Not all velvet, but enough to make conditions much smoother than six months ago.

* * *

The Shoe and Leather Reporter has many articles this week which tell far more than I could hope to do, therefore I hand them to you for what they are worth, and that is considerable good unadulterated dope.

* * *

Free Leather and Shoes

The fact that free hides carry with them free shoes and leather will not please many members of the trade who had hoped to see reasonable duties imposed on the finished products while the raw material was admitted free, says the Shoe and Leather Reporter.

* * *

The Underwood tariff under which the country is now operating made shoes and shoe leather free of duty and this system is to continue. There is practically no change. It is only that the efforts of some tanners and shoe manufacturers to obtain protection have failed.

* * *

The situation has advantages as well as disadvantages. In recent years the shoe and leather industry has unjustly been made a target by the public. We have been stigmatized as profiteers despite the appalling losses sustained during the period of liquidation.

* * *

It should be a good thing for us all to be able to say that we receive no protection from the government. Our ports are open to the products of foreign factories, which should argue that we are not charging prices above the world's level of value.

* * *

In recent months many upper leather tanners have been exceedingly anxious to secure protection against the importation of German leather. As matters stand today there does not appear to be cause for apprehension. The exchange situation almost precludes purchase by German tanners of raw material from points beyond their own borders, and there is no tanning country which can operate its plants without importing great quantities of skins and hides. Then again the tax rates are so abnormally high in all the countries of Europe that gains resulting from lower labor cost are swallowed up. The credit situation is also distinctly against any large extension of the export trade of European manufacturers.

* * *

We must expect to import merchandise, or it will be impossible ever to restore the stricken nations to a normal state. If we leave Europe to its fate almost anything may happen, even including the toppling over of civilization. With all the advantages we possess we should be able to compete at least up to the point of preventing such a volume of imports as to be a menace.

IT TAKES A YEAR'S PRACTICE TO DO THIS—SOME STUNT!

For thrills and then some, Carl Fromhagen, national acquaplane champion of trick and fancy riding, supplied the onlookers at Coronado Tent City, Cal. with his latest stunt—standing on his head on a chair while a launch pulled the board thru the water at 30 miles an hour.

EASTERN STATES BIG EXPOSITION

Plans for the junior achievement department at the Eastern States exposition to be held in Springfield from September 17 to 23 have been completed, according to O. H. Benson, director of the junior achievement bureau of the Eastern States League, who is in charge of the boys' and girls' department at the exposition. This year's boys' and girls' department will be largely increased over any previous year and registrations so far received indicate that a number of communities who previously did not participate will have strong representation this year.

AN APPRECIATION

Whereas, The Reverend Francis L. Beal, Ph. D., D. D., LL. D., rector of St. Paul's church, Peabody, Mass., has accepted a call to a larger parish in West Somerville, Mass.:

Resolved: That we, his parishioners, sincerely regret the severance of our relations with him, and realize that our loss is another's great gain.

Resolved: That we deeply appreciate the untiring zeal and vigor of his four years' service, during which time his high ideals have led us to a high standard of loyalty and devotion.

Resolved: That we extend to him our prayers and best wishes for health and success in his new field of labor.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be presented to our rector, also be published in the local papers, and spread upon the records of the parish.

Committee on resolutions: James E. Pray, Phillips Osborn, James C. Orton, George Draper, Arthur Smallman, Michael Jermyn, Vernon C. Duffy, James Tiplady, Harry S. Pyne, John Hockenhull.

DYNAMITE BLAST NEARLY KILLS WARREN ST. WOMAN

minutes. The blast was one of the most severe for many months and neighbors in the vicinity are considerably perturbed.

In their efforts to prevent a repetition of the shower of rocks being hurled among the householders, the Essex Trap Rock Co. will direct its work of blasting on the north side of the ledge on Buxton's Hill with a view to having the shower of rocks fall on their own premises. John Boyle, general manager of the concern, in an interview with the Enterprise, said:

"We are very sorry for the incident which occurred Thursday following the blasting and to prevent a repetition we have decided to confine the blasting on the north side of the ledge on Buxton's Hill so that the shower of rocks in the future will land on our own premises and not in the yards of the residents on Warren street extension.

"The only excuse we can offer for the mishap is the possibility of a parallel seam running in the rock which gave way when the blast was fired. We have reduced the amount of dynamite used in blasting to six pounds. This is the small quantity used by the farmer in ridding his land of rocks. We originally used 12 pounds.

"I have personally counselled the man in charge of the blasts to do all he could to prevent a shower of rocks being lodged among the nearby houses. The former managers of the concern made the mistake of blasting in the direction of Warren street, for had they worked from the north side of the ledge this trouble would not have happened. Under our new arrangement of blasting on the side of the hill facing the Rogers estate it will be impossible for a shower of rocks to leave our own premises.

"I personally called at all of the homes where rocks fell yesterday and have assured the householders that this sort of thing will not happen again."

W. C. Merrill Buried Today

Funeral services for the late Walter C. Merrill were held from his home on Oak St. at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. George Howes, pastor of the Universalist church officiating. Burial was in Cedar Grove.

WALTER C. MERRILL

The sudden death of Walter C. Merrill Wednesday was a severe shock to his family and his large circle of friends. His condition owing to a serious heart trouble was not known even by his family. He was a Peabody product, and his whole life was spent here and until his retirement from business a few years ago, as confidential secretary of the late J. B. Thomas, he was in close touch with the business world. His cordial way of welcoming friends and acquaintances made him popular with all. His sturdy way of doing everything made him recognized as being of the type which all look up to. His retirement from business changed a life of more than ordinary activity to one of comfort and ease. Had he so desired he could have entered political life with success. Few men gain the confidence of all the community, but it can be safely said that Walter C. Merrill had the confidence and good will of all who knew him. His passing removes another of the sturdy men whose example has made our country what it is. We can ill afford to lose them. But the example he set can well be followed and by so doing the world will be better.

FORMER PASTORS AT SOUTH CHURCH

Rev. James J. Goodacre, formerly of this city and now having a parish in Bristol, R. I., will preach at the South church Sunday. The following Sunday Rev. Jason G. Miller, formerly pastor of the South church, will occupy the pulpit and is assured of a large congregation to welcome him. Rev. John Reid, who is at the Isle of Shoals, will resume his pastoral duties on Sept. 3. Sunday school will be resumed on Sept. 10. The vestry of the South church has been repainted by Contractor Fred Jordan and presents a fine appearance. The cost of painting was borne by the Women's Association of the church, who raised the money by a fair last winter.

HOLTEN LODGE OUTING

Holten Lodge of Odd Fellows and the Rebekah Lodge members will unite for their annual outing next week Saturday at Centennial Grove. A fine programme has been arranged for the day and a crowd of over 300 are expected to attend.

Big A. C. L. Game Next Monday

The Japan shop holds first place in the A. C. L. League standing today with a record of .833 against the Sheep's .800, but will be tied if the Sheep defeat the Office team tonight. The race for first place seems to have narrowed down to the Japan, Sheep and Hide teams, with very little odds in favor of either. The Sheep team is not as well equipped with pitchers as the other two teams, and will have to make up for this weakness by fast fielding and heavy hitting.

Myron Dempsey and Ernie Gourley will oppose each other Monday night in what promises to be a battle royal between the Hide and Japan outfits. Both these teams are struggling hard for the championship, and have the united support of their shopmates behind them. The Hide foremen are invariably at the Hide games, and Supt. Reed is a regular rooter for the Patent Leather lads. Gourley and Dempsey are the two best twirlers in Peabody, and it will be interesting to watch the outcome of this match.

This week's games were easy wins for the Hide and Japan teams, and the Sheep boys expect no difficulty in downing Charlie Brown's office men tonight. The office team has upset the dope several times this season, however, and may repeat against the small skin tanners.

Standing to Date

	Won	Lost	%
Japan	5	1	.833
Sheep	4	1	.800
Hide	4	2	.667
Office	3	2	.600
Cutstock	1	5	.167
National	0	6	.000

Speaking of Averages

Bouchard of the Cutstock leads the league in batting, with an average of .800 in five games. He is fielding for .1000 as well. He is the pick of the plant dopesters for first base on the "All-Stars" of the A. C. L.

BOSTON K. C. HERE SUNDAY

One of the best games of the season is carded for Sunday at the Park, when the Peabody town team stacks up against the Shawmut K. of C. of Boston, which has many college and former leaguers. "Buck" O'Brien, Marty O'Toole and Tom Walsh are all ex-big leageurs.

The local boys are now playing a fast brand of ball and will make the best of clubs travel to win.

When it is considered the teams which the locals have been up against, they have fine record, winning their 20th victory of the season last Sunday over Gloucester, in what was the most brilliant game ever seen at the park.

Manager Devaney expects to have Gill or Fitzgerald on the firing line with "Tubber" Holden, the best catcher to ever be put out in Peabody, on the receiving end.

BALL GAME AT SOUTH PEABODY

The Malden Tigers will play the Bosco Club at the South Peabody playground Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

DOLLAR DAY

An advertisement in this issue calls the attention of thrifty Peabody people to a "dollar day" to be held at Parke-Snow's store tomorrow. 83rd BIRTHDAY FOR GEORGE H. ABBOTT

George H. Abbott, Civil war veteran and former city employe, will observe his 83rd birthday anniversary at his home, 151 Lowell street, next Tuesday. He will be glad to receive his friends from 3 to 5 in the afternoon or from 7 to 10 in the evening. Mr. Abbott is enjoying good health for a man of his years. He served four years in the First Mass. Artillery in the Civil war. He was the first municipal employe under the town form of government to be retired on half pay. He had been for many years in the employ of the highway division.

CLOSED SHOP TO AID KIDS

Frank Garano, a World's war veteran, who was badly gassed overseas, was among the number who donated automobiles for the children's outing last Wednesday. To drive his own car he closed up his business at the Peabody Billiard Parlor over Ware's market, and took ten children. He is partner with John McDonald, and the two men conduct a high-class billiard parlor.

ELKS OUTING

A list of sports was arranged last night for the Peabody Lodge of Elks' outing to be held at Monson's Grove, West Peabody, on Sunday, Aug. 27. Chet Bent, manager of the Strand theatre, and former member of Lynn lodge, will be chairman of the sports committee. George Gill will act as starter. The sports will begin at 12.30. At 1.30 a clam chowder will be served and baseball will follow. The lobster dinner will be served after the baseball. Members of the lodge who have automobiles are requested to have their machines at the Elks' home not later than 10 o'clock on the day of the outing to convey the brothers to the outing grounds. There is plenty of room for parking autos at the picnic grove.

LEGION OUTING

Peabody businessmen will unite with the Legion boys Sunday at a clambake to be held on Ellis' field and from the sale of tickets a big crowd will be on hand. The committee having in charge the tickets are requested to make a report tonight to Chairman Leo Sullivan so the committee may provide the necessary. It is planned to have the dinner at 1.30. Chowder will be served all the afternoon and the clambake will be the finale at 4.30. Sports with prizes are arranged. There will be music all the afternoon.

A TRUCK RIDE

A truck ride to Salisbury Beach will be held Sunday under the auspices of the Peabody Young Men's Club. Trucks will leave Hose 4 at 9.30 and Peabody square at 10.15.

FRANK H. SANGER NAMED FUEL ADMINISTRATOR FOR PEABODY

Frank H. Sanger, member of the Nathan H. Poor Co., has accepted the appointment of fuel commissioner for Peabody at the request of Mayor William A. Shea. No salary goes with the position, and it calls for one of great service to the citizens, involving much time.

Mayor Shea sent Mr. Sanger's name to State Administrator James J. Storrow of Boston, who had asked the Peabody chief executive to supply the name of some Peabody citizen who would assist in the important task. Mr. Sanger takes the berth entirely to render a service in true Rotarian spirit. He is a member of the Peabody Rotary Club and is treasurer of the Peabody Lodge of Elks. He is also a director in the Co-operative bank.

In a letter sent by James J. Storrow, chairman of the Massachusetts Emergency Fuel Committee, to the 350 local fuel distributors throughout the state, Mr. Storrow announces there is "plenty of kerosene in Massachusetts" and urges the use of kerosene cooking stoves. He also advises consumers not to burn "a pound of

CITY COUNCIL REFUSES NEW GASOLENE STATION

The Colonial Filling Station which sought to erect an artistic gasolene depot on the corner of Washington and Main streets, by purchase of the Stockwell estate, was given leave to withdraw on its petition before the City Council last night by a vote of 6 to 4. The Councillors voting for the motion were Messrs. Jones, Barry, Sullivan, Eagan, Craig and Duggan, while Councillors Cullen, Poor, Barnes and McKeen were in favor of the permit being granted.

Purchase of the Stockwell estate hinged on the granting of the permit, and it is said that the entire corner will now be sold to a local man who contemplates a line of stores on Washington street and also on the first floor of the Stockwell residence.

Attorney Elmer J. Foley, counsel for Mrs. Catherine T. O'Shea and Mrs. Fannie Armstrong, property owners near the proposed filling station, registered a vigorous protest in behalf of his clients, declaring that the gasolene station would injure property and the noise of the traffic would be objectionable to the people living nearby. He asked the council to respect the wishes of local taxpayers rather than bow to the request of an outside concern.

Councillor Eagan moved leave to withdraw on the petition on the grounds that two entrances to the proposed filling station would prove hazardous for the public.

Councillor Barry, who made the most forceful speech in opposition to the permit, declared that there were enough gasolene stations in Peabody and that he was first in favor of husbanding the business of present dealers rather than to vote to let some outside concern come into Peabody.

Mr. Craig couched his opposition on the grounds that once the permit was granted it was beyond the power of the Council to revoke it. He also thought the plea of Mr. Barry held much merit.

Councillor Poor did not believe it was the province of the Council to restrict new business coming to Peabody. This sentiment was also expressed by Councillor Cullen.

William F. Carlin, the real estate dealer who has the selling of the property, spoke in favor of the permit. Two representatives of the concern also addressed the Council.

BENJ. McKEEN, 93 SUFFERS BROKEN HIP THRU FALL

Benjamin McKeen, father of Councillor Frank E. McKeen, and who will be 90 years old on Sept. 10, fell Monday of this week at his home on Forest street and suffered a broken hip. Because of his advanced age much apprehension is felt as to the effect of the shock he received. The injury will confine him to his bed probably as long as he lives. Much sympathy is expressed for his large family of sons and daughters, many of whom reside in Peabody. The aged citizen has made his home with his son, Wilford McKeen, at 58 Forest street. Everything is being done to lessen the suffering of the patient.

12 Women For Election Duty

Mayor Shea sent in a list of 84 election officers to the City Council last night, including 12 women, who were: Ward 1, Mary Tivnan and Hannah Brown; Ward 2, Rena Ash and Annie Holleran; Ward 3, Elizabeth Doody and Mabel Williams; Ward 4, Elsie Ramsdell and Annie Donovan; Ward 5, Mae O'Connor and Mary E. Meagher; Ward 6, Annie T. Low and Rose Cassidy.

DR. NACHMAN HELLER

J. Ordman, minister of Sons of Israel Congregation, 53 English street, and at the invitation of Frank L. Hershenson, the president of the Synagogue on Park street, he will deliver a series of addresses both at their house of worship and Hebrew school.

Two sermons will be preached at the former place tomorrow at 9 o'clock in the morning, in the course of the divine services, and at 5 in the evening, preceding the vesper prayers; while a lecture will be given by the eminent visitor on Sunday morning, at 10, before a specially called meeting. Spiritualism and Sorcery will make the topics of the Rabbi's discourses, becoming as they are the fetish of innumerous people, their prohibition in the Bible, which constitutes, indeed, part and parcel of the Pentateuchal assignment for this day's Synagogal recital.

Dr. Heller is engaged in circuit preaching, having unloaded his burdens and conveyed his messages of truth and truism to co-religionists of Lynn, Lowell, Haverhill, Lawrence, Fitchburg, Manchester, Nashua, Salem and other places in the neighborhood of Boston, and deems it his duty to have his visions and missions carried, likewise, to Peabody kinsmen.

The Rabbi is a fluent, eloquent and stirring speaker, holding his auditors spellbound for hours, and wants local Jews and Jewesses, to come and receive a mental treat and spiritual entertainment.

Dr. Heller is noted among men of letters and literature, contributing extensively to papers and periodicals and writing books and volumes both in Hebrew and English; his recently published book, under the euphony of Facts and Fiction, a collection of Jewish folklore, midrashic matter and Talmudic tales, makes interesting, instructive and inspiring reading, as well as an ornament for one's bookcase. He comes highly recommended, displaying letters by former Presidents Taft and Wilson, Justice Brandeis, Nathan Strauss, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Dr. J. L. Magnes and many others.

Three More Weeks For A. C. L. Ball

The seventh week of the A. C. L. League witnessed some of the best baseball seen in Peabody for a long time. Monday night's game between the Hide and Japan teams was as good an exhibition of the national game as could be seen on any field, Ernie Gourley and Myron Dempsey both trying their best to win, and each receiving great support. Joe Murphy pulled off one of the best catches ever seen hereabouts, and Gillis and Ray Viles made a great team in the infield for the Hide department. Tuesday the Office trimmed the Cutstock 6-3. To night the league leaders, the Sheep team, will meet the Nationals, who have yet to win a game. These lads are the gamest team in the league, though, and are practicing with the hopes of trimming the leaders.

Standing to Date

	Won	Lost	%
Sheep	5	1	.833
Hide	5	2	.714
Japan	5	2	.714
Office	4	3	.571
Cutstock	1	6	.143
National	0	6	.000

With the Players

Ralph Sawyer has the honor of being the only Hide player to hit Myron Dempsey safely in the two games his team has faced the pitching ace of the Hide outfit. He was the only man to hit him in the first game, and one of the two to connect safely in the second battle.

Joe Murphy is being mentioned for the outfield on the "A. C. L. All-Stars." Joe is a natural born ball player and would make a good candidate for this berth.

The Sheep team have two hard games coming, that against the Japan next Friday and the one with the Hide three weeks from now. They will need to win both of these games in order to retain their position at the top of the ladder.

It would not surprise some of the wise ones to see the National come through with a win tonight. These boys have put up a scrappy game right through the season, and given a few breaks will make it hard traveling for the Sheep team.

Peabody Opens With Lafayette

Peabody's fast going town team will begin a series of games with the strong Lafayettes of Salem at Emerson Park next Sunday afternoon. The Peabody battery will be Fitzgerald and Holden, while Batchelder will twirl for the Witch City aggregation, who are playing wonderful ball. "Batch" allowed but six hits to the Medford town team last Wednesday evening, winning the game.

In Peabody's outfield will be Lawrence, Gourley, and King as usual, and Manager Jack Devaney will strengthen his infield. It ought to be a tight game. The second game of the series is carded for Labor Day at Forest River Park.

Rotary Club Will Inspect Thomas Hospital Tuesday

Leonard Cassidy, a Peabody war veteran, now an assistant superintendent of the South Porto Rico Sugar Co. of Santo Domingo, gave an interesting discourse on the West Indian Island before the members of the Peabody Rotary Club last Tuesday noon. His talk dealt with the people of the Island and the conditions of life. He declared the natives were indolent and failed to earn the 30 cents a day they are paid for their labor in the boiling sun. As a land of Manana, meaning tomorrow, Santo Domingo is almost unrivalled among the Caribbeans.

Sugar is the principle industry of the Island, which is also rich in fruits and minerals, according to the speaker, who said as soon as a stable government is restored to the natives there will be excellent opportunity for capital. A force of 2000 American marines now police the Island, which is under the direction of an American naval governor. Banditry has played havoc with the progress of the Island but the guerilla warfare has now been checked and the withdrawal of the American forces will be ordered once the new government is installed.

On his way home Mr. Cassidy touched at Santiago, Cuba, and took the overland train to Havana, where he saw all the points of interest.

He is the son of Mr. and Charles H. Cassidy of Sutton street. He was refused an enlistment in the war service half dozen times owing to an operation for appendicitis, but finally was drafted only to be sent home as unfit for active service. Still undismayed, he offered his services as a clerk in the commanding officers' headquarters in Boston and was sworn into military service and is consequently a member of the American Legion. He went to Santo Domingo three years ago with a Boston contracting concern and later accepted a position with the company he is now working for. His rise to an assistant superintendent was rapid. He will return to the Island in September.

Thomas H. Mulherin, belt knife manufacturer, was chairman of the meeting this week. He levied an assessment on the members of five dollars each to help pay the expenses of the children's outing last week and conducted the meeting with plenty of pep. "Tom" is a Past Exalted Ruler of Salem Lodge of Elks and so was quite at home in the role of presiding officer. He is one of the most active Rotarians and has done his part to help the local club.

Letters of thanks from various children for the outing were read and several letters with checks from outside citizens in aid of the kiddies fund were reported.

President Joseph E. Noyes has picked Dr. Henry I. Yale as the chairman for the next meeting, August 29, and "Doc" has arranged to have the dinner served to the Rotarians at the J. B. Thomas hospital, where later an exhibition of the X-ray machine will be given by John Sullivan. The purpose of the meeting at the hospital is to give some of the members of the club a closer appreciation of the work at the local hospital.

* * *

Three new members were added to the Rotary Club this week and several other prospects are waiting admittance. Under President Noyes the club is advancing rapidly and the attendance at dinners shows a marked improvement as a result of the two-team contest, which terminates next Tuesday.

Morrill Leather Plant Purchases Land Giving Spur Tracks to Railroad

(By ENERGY)

With hides on the free list, tanners are now getting a better line on prices of hides. As with the rest of the world, prices fluctuate for unknown reasons at times. For instance, calf skins, the sons and daughters of hides, have been rising and falling, as does the tide. It has been a raw material market which caused the tanner to go cautiously, never knowing what the morrow would bring forth. But after all life is that way and no politician has been able to change it in spite of the many promises he makes to bring the workingman on a level with the millionaire. I am wondering whether this fall with the many promises which will be made to make this world brighter and better, whether the ordinary voter will absorb it to the extent of voting for his spokesman.

* * *

It takes more than courage these times for a corporation to purchase additional land. The Morrill Leather Co. having purchased land adjacent to their factory in the rear of Main street have added land which appears valuable for side track and building purposes. It is about the first move in the adding direction for some years. During the World war this little earth of ours was too small for the tanning industry, not to mention other minors, such as steel and the rest which furnished the stuff to kill 100 men as a ball does to pins on a bowling alley. But I remember of some bright fellow figuring out that shoes were the most important part of army equipment, for it has been found impractical to walk on one's hands when the feet give out. So tanners can point with pride to the fact that but for them, walking would have been difficult. On the other hand if the Germans had been troubled with sore feet, they might have staid at home and the mess they made would not have been. Pro and con keeps the courts, lawyers and many more of us going, so if more time was at hand I would render a verdict.

* * *

The toughest time of the year is now when the tax bills are being sent out. Tough for the tax payer and the assessors do not live in clover. It might be better if they did, provided the clover was high enough to hide them. If all survive this ordeal another year may prove better. Death and taxes, this year, but little choice. But think of the beautiful streets, high school and another school, then say it was not all in vain.

* * *

Back 25 years and anybody who made more than two shades of colored leather would be arrested. Today if a tanner does not make at least 10 different colors he will not go to jail but the poor house. Take your choice. When leather years ago was made in blacks and the natural tan color, the black was anything but black, and the tan color was what it happened to be. If one took a black derby hat and compared it with black leather instead of brothers it could be compared to a Chinaman versus a South Sea Islander. New shades today require all the brains of the tanner plus the best expert leather chemist. Special colors are made by one tanner and if it goes with the trade, others copy if they can. I say if they can, for where the tan is different and all vary more or less, to get a color which will shade in the shoe like the original, requires the patience of Job plus relations.

Some one has said leather is a great game if you do not week en-d. There is large truth in this saying, for too many vacations in a leather factory make blots on the quality of manufacture, which mean big losses. Henry Ford made a statement lately in which he said laboring hours should be shorter. What makes a nation big commercially? What has placed the big tanneries in Peabody? Long hours of work and thinking only has made it possible. Get the whole world to work a few hours then all would be well. But with Germany plugging 10 or 12 hours daily, other European countries gradually following suit, I ask you can we afford to cut production? It cannot be done and keep at the head of the procession as we are today.

* * *

The N. H. Poor & Co.'s plant in the rear of Lowell street is a model sheepskin plant. They are busy to overflowing, and the skins produced are the top of the market in quality. This year they completed a new storehouse and sorting room combined, which has added to the capacity. Now they will erect a new two-story building where the tan tubs now are. The office will be moved there, thus giving the whole of the main factory for manufacturing. Cleanliness is one of this concern's big assets.

* * *

I note the Richard Young Co. employes enjoyed an outing recently. Such outings coming as they do on Saturday take away no production. They do serve to stimulate good feeling between employer and employed and such feeling brings the many kicks which come in all organizations to a settlement fair for all concerned. An employer who will not reason cannot expect clear sailing, and his workmen who will not be reasonable had far better seek other jobs. All is not cold that shivers, for one might be cornered by a skunk and shiver a bit. One must in this life give and take, but perhaps you say they do not balance in many cases. True, those who make it balance are the winners in the end, in spite of the fact many play the game with the take side of the balance way down. Vaccination takes, and when in earnest we would swap that arm for smallpox.

* * *

Much interest is apparently being taken among the leather workers in the employe representation plan which has already been adopted in the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. and National Calfskin Co. and Hunt-Rankin Co. plants. The plan is likely to be accepted by other local factories and its adoption is held to presage the end of strikes.

Holten Lodge Outing Sept. 2 At Centennial

Holten Lodge of Odd Fellows, probably the largest fraternal order in Peabody, has an elaborate program for its annual outing to be held at Centennial Grove next week Saturday. Unlike most fraternal outings, this one is not confined strictly to members and a general invitation is out for the citizens to attend. Children under 12 may enter the grounds without charge and a nominal fee of 50 cents will be required of adults.

Trucks will leave Peabody square at 1.30 for the ride to Essex and the return home will be at 7 from the grove. The committee having the sale of tickets consists of Noble Grand Fred Hatt, Joseph Chandler, Edward Redman, George Hallowell, George Abbott, David Coombs, Frank Patterson and J. Sandy McCracken secretary. Those desiring to purchase dinners at the grove should notify the committee before August 30, otherwise take a basket lunch.

The committee has arranged a list of sports and there will be dancing with music by Riddle's orchestra.

Connery Rally Here Tonight

William P. Connery, Jr., Democratic candidate for congress, will hold two rallies in Peabody this evening. The first one will be at the Endicott school at 7 o'clock, to be followed by another at Peabody square at 8 o'clock. The Lynn war veteran candidate will be accompanied by the fife and drum corps band that saw overseas duty with his regiment, the 10st Infantry. City Collector Michael J. Sherry will preside at both rallies.

GRANGE FIELD DAY FOR WEST PEABODY

The first annual field day of the West Peabody Grange will be held at Community playground tomorrow. There will be sports for the boys and girls at 10 o'clock and a pie eating contest will feature the afternoon program.

The West Peabody All Stars will play the Derby A. C. of Salem.

HIDES ON THE FREE LIST

The United States senate has gone on record as being favorable to placing hides on the free list. Peabody with its tanning industry has been vitally interested in this subject, believing that it was necessary to keep hides free from duty which are imported into the country. We must have hides from other countries to supply the demand needed for tanning purposes. South America, Russia, Holland, France and China have been the countries where we have obtained thousands of hides for leather manufacture. The supply during the war was indeed limited from European countries, but even from Russia during that period we obtained many thousands. In the cattle raising states in the west, naturally ranch owners wanted a duty on hides. They believed it would keep the price of hides high enough so that a profit would be realized, as was the case during the World war. With the help of senators from other states who were mostly Republicans, the Democrats naturally opposing Republican tactics, a duty on hides appeared possible. Thanks to the opposition which included both senators from Massachusetts, Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and David I. Walsh, we will have no such duty, and the industry with the many other trials of the last few years or since the war, will at least be satisfied with the efforts of our senators who helped turn the sentiment in its favor.

THE ESSAY CONTEST

The Enterprise has offered prizes for the best essays on "The Value of High School Education." It is our purpose to try and stimulate an interest to have parents keep their boys and girls in school until the high school course is finished, believing that it is the best, that the advantages offered in our public schools will better fit them to fight their way through life to a successful ending. Many parents in the past, through necessity or feeling that what our high school offered would benefit but little, have sent their boys or girls, as the case may have been, to work, when the added education would have served them well. So the Enterprise, by offering prizes, hopes to start an interest in this most important subject which will be helpful to all concerned.

COAL POSSIBILITIES

Not many winters ago we were pinched for the want of sufficient coal to carry us through the winter. Coke, wood and oil burners were enlisted to tide over the difficulty. All of us felt the shortage of this most important commodity, and it served at that time to make us practice economy in fuel if not in any other direction. Again at this time because of the coal and railroad strikes, a similar situation confronts us. James J. Storrow, as state fuel commissioner, warns all to practice economy, for he tells us the supply will not equal the demand, and only by frugal methods will we get through the winter without considerable suffering. When situations of this kind arise, as they have many times in the past, we of Massachusetts have shown we can meet them. We will no doubt live up to our previous reputation. But at this time before winter sets in, it is natural that our thoughts turn in other directions. The supply of hard coal practically all comes from Pennsylvania. Soft coal from many states in the middle west. We have seldom been called upon to burn soft coal in our homes. That it can be done is assured. In England all burn the soft variety. We are asked by Mr. Storrow to keep our houses warm until December by other methods than burning coal. By so doing the saving of this most important article will help much. So we take this way of trying to help and if no good is derived, certainly no harm can come from it.

TRAFFIC POLICEMEN

The new device placed on Peabody square for the guidance of autoists appears to be a move in the right direction. It is certainly an advancement over former methods. But in a location such as we have at the junction of Foster, Lowell and Main streets, where the traffic is the heaviest, it does not suffice. In order to avoid accidents at this point the guidance of a policeman is needed, and we presume one will be stationed there on such occasions. All cities and towns which are so situated as to have congested travel, are doing their utmost for public safety, and we are certainly not lacking in that direction. Keep up the good work Mr. Mayor.

Koreans Refuse Hair-Cuts.

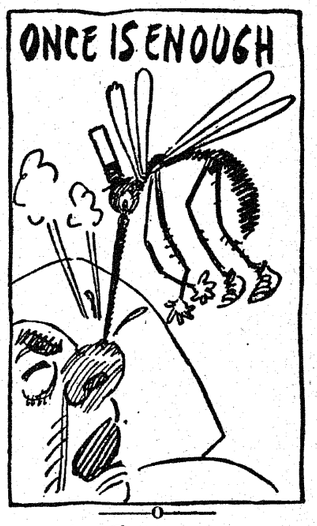
Koreans do not cut their hair or beard, believing that by so doing they would dishonor their parents. Any hair that may happen to fall out is saved, and with finger-nail pairings, put in the coffin, so that a dead man or woman may go back to another earth intact.

THE FRIENDLY PATH

By WALTER I. ROBINSON

"WE ARE not especially concerned about how you feel when you enter our store, but we are exteremely anxious to know how you feel when you leave."

This sign greets the eyes of customers entering one of the big, successful stores in an eastern city. It is an indication of the new attitude many engaged in commercial business are assuming.



There was a period following the armistice when in virtually all big cities many of those engaged in selling found business so brisk that they did not deem it necessary to keep the patrons smiling while they separated them from their money. Too many of the customers, in fact, did find enjoyment in spending, and they may be partially blamed for the indifference of merchants to please. But, with the drop in business and profits, it is encouraging to find a rebirth of the old-fashioned regard for courteous and square dealing. Such sentiment as that expressed in the quotation given above is evidence that, willingly or unwillingly, those engaged in business desire to re-establish old-time friendly relations with those who trade with them.

With the changed attitude there is certain to come a higher regard for principle, upon which in large measure the happiness of business people is dependent. There should, therefore, be no wide regrets among those who have to reduce prices to such an extent that profits decreased reasonably below the peak level. Not alone because of the greater happiness which results from honest principles in business, but also due to the satisfaction of greater volume in business, assured through the law of diminishing returns, should business people be thankful that they and their customers are coming to meet again on more friendly terms.

Let everyone remember these words of Skelton:

"Our principles are the springs of our action; our actions, the springs of our happiness or misery. Too much care, therefore, cannot be taken in forming our principles."

PROMISING.

I introduced a grass widow to a grass widower today.

Will anything come of it?

Can't tell. They exchanged references.

Both Are Rare.

Men are always thinking that they are going to do something grandly wicked to their enemies; but when it comes to the point, really bad men are just as rare as really good ones.—Bernard Shaw.

ROUND ABOUT

So many complaints have been received from careless spilling of crushed stone on the public streets, that the nuisance will be stopped by legal proceedings, if not otherwise. There are many people in this world who care for self only, therefore obstructing rather than helping the ways of life.

* * *

The local lodge of Elks will have a gala time at their outing next Sunday. New games to test the qualities of athletic prowess will keep the interest at fever heat. The grove in West Peabody now called Monson's Grove was formerly Skinner's Grove and was a mecca for picnic lovers.

* * *

City employes are carefully watching in-coming trains for trout which will be shipped by Judge Horace P. Farnham and T. Hadley Sawyer. It is expected that the arrival will be ample for all, including the policemen and firemen. With little to do but fish where they jump out of the water to get the bait, it should be easy.

* * *

The last meeting of the Board of Registrars before the primaries was held Monday and about a hundred names, men and women, were added to the voting list. Interest in politics at this time is at a low ebb, but a good sign as "after a calm a storm" so will this practical game come into its own. We noted some of the candidates for mayor and representatives were on the job. Keeping everlastingly at it often brings home bacon.

* * *

City Hall received a small supply of coal this week to keep Jack Frost away. We wonder if the schools will fare as well. Fuel trouble will be one of the big attractions this winter with the accent on -el.

* * *

George H. Abbott, G. A. R. veteran, received his friends Tuesday of this week and many came to bid him many more years of good health. With four years of service in the Civil war and a faithful servant of the city for years, his life has been a busy one. His health remains good, and we wish him many more years on this earth.

* * *

The electric department will soon have the greater part of West Peabody wired for electricity. The exception will be Russell, Birch and small portions of Lake and Winona streets, where houses are few and far between.

* * *

Wards One and Two have their tax bills and the other wards will have theirs by the first of September. While the tax rate is high, a little consolation is found in the fact that our neighboring leather city, Woburn, is the same figure. Then Salisbury with its unrivaled beach has a rate of $40, and the worst is yet to come from others to be announced later. We must take off our hats to Beverly with a $20 rate. They have good roads also.

* * *

The biggest part of the success of the Rotary Club outing last week to our mind was the community spirit shown by the owners of automobiles and the trouble many of them took to drive their cars that all would be well. Father McGinn has often showed his interest in community spirit by lending his valuable help when required, and on this occasion he took a carload of kiddies.

* * *

Retail stores feel dull business quickly, and when an improvement comes they get one of the first warnings. It cannot be said that the real kick is in the leather business today, but all tends that way. Shoe factories with the many strikes have gone slowly, particularly in Lynn and Haverhill. Factories in smaller towns in New Hampshire and Maine are busy.

* * *

That epidemic of fires we had in the spring and early summer is no more, or at least was no more up to this issue. The faculty of putting out fires promptly is the long suit of our department.

* * *

We note the pond belonging to the Danvers Bleachery covers many acres and holds a large volume of water. A great opportunity to conserve water along that brook for two miles or more.

* * *

Our attention was called this week by one of our readers to an automobile bearing the registration number 54. The car, a Peerless, is owned by Edward E. Jameson of Quincy, vice president of the Premier-Potter Printing Press Co., who has had the same number for twelve years.

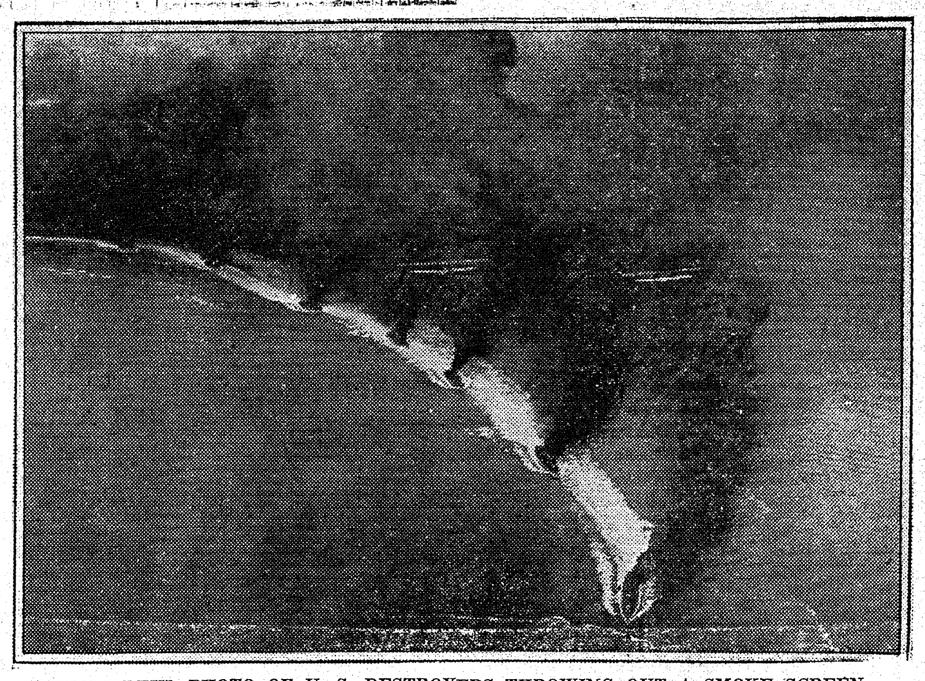
* * *

The purchase of land adjoining the factory of the Morrill Leather Co. gives this concern a spur track and a chance to enlarge their plant. It is evident this corporation has some project of this kind in mind, for purchasing more land is not a sport.

* * *

We know not whether Ernest J. Porter will accept the position of local fuel commissioner, but he to our mind would be the diplomat to do it well. It will not be easy to satisfy all, but tact will help considerably. Ernest has a good supply.

* * *



I understand that "Bob" Colton, formerly in charge of the A. C. L. Co. luncheon service, is making the Middleton Arms a popular Inn for motorists who seek chicken dinners. He formerly had charge of the Yale training table at New Haven. The Middleton Arms is easily reached on the new Andover turnpike.

* * *

Hon. John P. Kane of Lawrence, who is fighting "Billy" Connery, Jr., of Lynn for the Democratic nomination for Congress, was in Peabody last Tuesday evening, and was numbered among the people who witnessed the parade of the Connery campaigners, led by the Yankee Division Fife and Drum Corps through Peabody square. Thomas A. Lyons introduced Mr. Kane to numerous citizens, and it is said will look after the Kane interests in Peabody.

* * *

Former Councillor Cornelius A. Giles returned this week from a motor trip through the White Mountains, accompanied by his wife and son and the latter's family. Concord, N. H., is his birthplace and he renewed many old acquaintances in that city on his visit. He sent souvenir cards to numreous of his friends.

WONDERFUL PHOTO OF U. S. DESTROYERS THROWING OUT A SMOKE SCREEN

This wonderful picture taken from a naval aeroplane, shows eight U. S. Destroyers proceeding in formation throwing out a smoke screen over the battle fleet, which are holding manoeuvres off San Diego, Cal. Above the torpedo boats can be seen two naval hydroplanes.

PAID UP SHARES

ANY PERSON who desires to become an investor and feels that he or she does not care to bother with a monthly payment may buy a "PAID-UP" share at any time by depositing $200 for each share desired up to ten shares or $2,000, on which interest will be paid in the same manner as on matured share certificates.

LORD'S PRAYER ENGRAVED ON HEAD OF PIN

One of the most remarkable pieces of work ever accomplished by the human hand is an engraving of the Lord's prayer on the head of a pin measuring one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter. The pin was engraved by Charles Howard Baker of Spokane, Wash., who was employed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. After Mr. Baker had completed his task he went blind and is now in an insane asylum. Photo on the left shows the head of the pin magnified over a thousand times. Photo on the right shows the actual size of the pin.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sheen spent Sunday at Salisbury Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stanwood of Ipswich spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. White on West street.

Mrs. Lizzie Sheen of Lynn is spending the week with Mrs. William Sheen on Newbury street.

Carl Kiley, West Peabody's "star" ball player, broke his finger Saturday. He will be a great loss to the team and it is hoped that he will be able to be with them by Labor Day.

Mrs. A. J. Phillips is spending a two weeks' visit at Philadelphia.

The Ta-ta-pochon Camp Fire Girls met with their guardian, Miss Audrey MacDonald, Wednesday evening, and discussed work for the future months.

Miss Ruth Small and Miss Evelina Martin spent the week-end with Mrs. Charles Miller at Chelsea.

Many friends of Mrs. Harold Preston spent an enjoyable evening at her camp at Pilling's Pond at a surprise given on her birthday.

Mrs. Mary Nourse is spending a vacation at the home of her sister, Miss Phoebe Sidmour.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bellville are spending a vacation at Newport, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fletcher of New Bedford spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stocker.

Mrs. Lizzie Sheen spent Sunday with Mrs. Lewis Felt on Broad street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Homan of Philadelphia spent Friday and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stocker on Lowell street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Felt sail for Ellsworth, Me., Saturday, where they will spend two weeks with Mrs. Everett E. White.

The funeral services of Harvey Chase were held at the West church Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Chase died after a long illness at the Essex sanitorium. The community extends its deepest sympathy.

Frank Gowan has returned home after staying three weeks at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmatory. He had a cataract removed from his eye.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Phillips of Abington, Pa., spent the week-end with A. J. Phillips. Master Edward Moore returned home with them.

THE CONNERY CAMPAIGN

The candidacy of William P. Connery, Jr., of Lynn who is seeking the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Seventh district is attracting merited attention. He is the first outside candidate to invade Peabody and his opening rallies held here last Tuesday night were very successful. He enjoys an enviable war record, having enlisted in the 101st Infantry when that regiment was mobilized, although entitled to exemption from war service. He was in the trenches, going over the top time and again. He has the solid backing of the Legion boys in both Lynn and Lawrence, many of whom were his "buddies." By education he is fitted and his efforts to succeed in life find him a self-made man at the age of 34. He will do honor to the district he seeks to represent. He is held largely responsible for the election of Mayor Harland McPhetres of Lynn, a war "buddie" in the Yankee Division. He is forceful and is conducting a vigorous campaign without money. He inherits many of his illustrious father's admirable qualities, being thoroughly honest and square in all his dealings. His candidacy is bound to meet with heavy support in Peabody, for he numbers many warm friends here. The Enterprise would like to see him elected as Congressman.

Mae Murray and Valentino Strand Headliners for Tonight

Mae Murray and Rodolph Valentino in "The Delicious Little Devil" will be the extraordinary attraction the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. Miss Murray is cast as a cabaret dancer, a part that offers her the fullest scope for her dancing ability and the way this former Follies star glides across the floor is a show in itself.

Of interest also is the appearance of Rodolph Valentino in the role of a young man about town who is madly in love with the little dancer whom press agents have given a Parisian reputation. The story of "The Delicious Little Devil" tells of the efforts of a fair young colleen to live up to an assumed role of wickedness. She hates the life but her father is wholly dependent upon her for support.

On the strength of her fictitious past she becomes the rage at one of the fast roadhouses around New York and has the men at her feet in droves. Of them all she prefers young Jimmie Calhoun, played by Mr. Valentino, and decides that he is the man for her. She tries to tell him that her reputation is assumed, but fate always interferes to keep him in ignorance. The man is in the same fix. He loves her but fears to entrust his future happiness to such a little vamp. The climax comes in the midst of all these snarls and of course everything is straightened out as it should be. This production has been packing theatres all over the country principally because Mr. Valentino and Miss Murray, both big stars, are to be seen in one picture.

The last chapter of George Walsh's serial "With Stanley in Africa" and a comedy film will be the other numbers on the bill for today. This concluding chapter of the serial is unusually exciting and should be seen by any who have witnessed any of the previous episodes.

Elaine Hammerstein in "Remorseless Love" will head the double feature bill for Sunday evening. Alice Calhoun in "Princess Jones" will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

"Find the Woman," a Cosmopolitan-Paramount special feature, will top the bill for next Monday and Tuesday. One of the outstanding features of this worth-while attraction is the cast which includes Harrison Ford, Alma Rubens, Norman Kerry and George MacQuarrie. It is a mystery story which keeps the spectator guessing up to the last few feet of film. The locale of the story is New York City. It has been excellently directed and acted.

Eugene O'Brien in "Channing of the Northwest" will be the second feature on the bill for Monday and Tuesday. Stories of the far North have always a great appeal. Mr. O'Brien is cast as a member of the Royal Mounted and does highly creditable work.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

AMERICAN SPIRIT

"American industry has discovered that the character of its men and women is of more value than its investment in buildings and machinery."

I don't remember who said that, but even if we do not remember the name of the man who gives us an idea, we cannot forget the truth he speaks. As we look about us in the mill and mine, in factory and shop, in store and ship and bank, wherever men are gathered together to do business,—to make money,—we see a new spirit in industry; a bigger, deeper, stronger American character.

It is business that is building up that character—the "Busy-ness" about which we talked last week. Business is teaching men and women that three things are necessary to success in life — Good Health — Courage—Faith. We do not believe that men are really learning these three things until some big movement brings them to our attention. A movement like our recent war.

We found then that our boys were taller, more rugged, with more endurance, healthier—in the average—than the boys of Europe. They had more initiative, more intelligence. Of their Courage and their Faith the world has given its highest praise.

But the courage we are developing in our daily business is not the courage a soldier shows in a fight. It is the courage of his cheerful endurance. The courage that bears bravely the little daily difficulties, the constant strain upon our patience, the trials of our nervous energy, the doing of work for which we are not paid, the laziness and wastefulness of careless employes, the pride and arrogance of autocratic employers. All these and more are working against a man's courage every day, and that man who faces them with resolution, or overcomes them with forceful purpose, is building up a courage that is not crushed by the discouragements and panics and depressions that always occur in every man's life.

The Faith we are learning in our new business life is first a faith in what we are doing; then faith in the people who are associated with us and who are working with us. Faith in our boss, in our employes, in our customers, in the goods we make; a growing faith in ourselves, our country, our God. We built up our country by such a faith. We won the war through faith and courage, but since then we have lost a good deal of both.

The strain of the fight, the brutal effect of war, the smallness of one single man, has made us slacken our efforts and say to ourselves "What's the use." We lost our faith and the Red, the Radical and Reactionary took advantage of us. We are coming back. Never has there been such a demand for the effort of the individual; just you and me, doing our best every day.

And so we are growing into a more quiet confidence. We know that a few strikes, a few riots and mobs, cannot disturb for very long the character of the American people. We know that a few bombs cannot overturn the law and order of our country. These are the things that have been left over after the war. They will pass. We are coming back. We have seen many problems solved and our industries pass through many storms. We are losing our sense of panic. Our courage and faith are growing stronger.

We learn these things in our daily work. Industry is developing character because a good character is a paying proposition. We are happier and we produce more with less worry and work. The manager of a big group of textile mills said to me,—"I do not go to the superintendent or productive engineer when I visit a mill now-a-days; I go to the factory nurse and ask her how the people are feeling. If they feel all right I know the work is going all right."

There is a lot of thought in these words. Think where we would have found a nurse in a cotton mill twenty years ago. Think of the safety movement, the insurance and "mutual benefit," the shop committee and works council, the employe, representative, the factory schools for foreigners, the training in citizenship, the many different plans and methods of co-operation.

All this is building up and developing the character of the men and women in our industry. Owner, manager, superintendent, foreman, working men and women. It is a wonderful day for the individual, just you,—and me!

Andrew Carnegie once said:—"A good leader of men is one who does things and is sometimes right." American industry is teaching us to do things; sometimes we do them rightly. The doing of them trains the hand and the mind, develops faith, builds courage, brings satisfaction, gives a character to our men and women in industry that the whole world is beginning to recognize as "THE AMERICAN SPIRIT."

Clark Making Great Headway

The candidacy of William G. Clark, present assistant District Attorney, to succeed Hon. S. Howard Donnell, is meeting with pleasing support throughout Essex County. Mr. Clark has proven a highly capable man and his experience qualifies him to assume the full responsibility of the office. He is a Gloucester citizen and Cape Anne voters are appealing to the district to recognize one of her sons for the position of county prosecutor. Mr. Clark is putting up a strong campaign and looks like a sure winner of the Republican nomination.

THE WORLD'S SMALLEST SAW MILL

Photo shows a remarkable little saw mill which a Seattle man has invented and constructed on his back lot. The machine cuts 1,200 board feet of lumber a day with one man and handles logs up to 32 feet in length. Motor power is provided by a 6 H. P. gasoline engine. The saw is adopted from an old cut-off saw, works up and down with a jog motion. The log carriage is power propelled and lumber is cut accurately to any thickness desired.

American Legion

Hope had almost died for them—and then the liason men got busy.

Not a great many perhaps know what the liason men are. That is, not a great many outside the legion of former fighting men, who have watched their work, who have come in contact with their constant activity on behalf of their disabled buddies.

First, here are some examples of their work:

Edgar H. O'Dell was of the 137th Infantry, 35th Division, and his citation refers to "extraordinary heroism in the face of heavy machine gun fire" which Sept. 26, 1918, held up the advance at Varennes. Alone and unaided, with automatic rifle and hand grenades, O'Dell silenced the four German machine guns that harassed his outfit, and capturing their 16 gunners, manned them. That permitted the advanced to continue.

He was taken wounded badly to Base hospital No. 108, A. E. F., but after his discharge his hospital record was lost. The war department could not find it. And in spite of his D. S. C., in spite of that glorious record behind him, O'Dell couldn't get his compensation.

Then the American Legion took it up. That's where the liason men come in. The American Legion maintains one at each of the fourteen district offices of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, and one at Washington, D. C., with a central service department at national headquarters in Indianapolis. O'Dell recently was awarded $95 a month compensation.

There's the case, one of many hundreds already handled, of Chester A. Oldfield of Providence, R. I. He suffered a mental disorder. How was he cared for? Not in one of those plenty "of beds" Brigadier General Sawyer so recently claimed were available to care for the disabled veterans. No government bed was available. Oldfield was sent to a state insane hospital. There he remained for a year. Then the American Legion discovered his plight. The Legion took up his fight after having a guardian appointed for him. It lasted another year. But it finally was won. Oldfield now receives $80 a month.

There's Fred H. Roth, too, of Chicago. He contracted tuberculosis as the result of exposure in the army, and received a surgeon's certificate of disability. Finally he was allowed vocational training—BUT WITHOUT PAY. Roth appealed to the American Legion. After a six months' battle he was granted training WITH PAY, so that he could live in comfort. Fred Roth now has a home for the first time in four years.

The foregoing are only two or three from thousands—interesting at this time to the public in light of the recent controversy of the National rehabilitation committee with Brigadier General Sawyer, who the committee charges with interfering with the Veteran Bureau efforts to care for the boys who fought the big fight and now are in dire need of the government's help.

According to Senator Watson of Indiana the Soldiers' Adjusted Compensation measure will pass the senate in record time as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way. The Indiana senator backs this contention up with an opinion that once it is brought up the Adjusted Compensation bill will pass in four days.

To obtain necessary funds for its Veterans' mountain camp, the New York American Legion will stage the Empire State's largest track and field meet at Syracuse September 22. An innovation in athletic meets is on now. The Legion has divided New York state into districts and is holding tryouts in all. The winners in the district meets will go to the finals at Syracuse, the winners there being awarded medals and the honor of being the state's best athletes.

Thirty hours before the declaration of hostilities which later plunged almost every civilized nation into war, Corp. Andre Peugeot of France was killed. He met death at Jonchery, France, on August 2, 1914, at the hands of a band of Uhlands. France has just dedicated a monument to Corp. Peugeot, the first man killed in the World war.

Aside from the government's own the largest collection of war relics in the country will probably be owned by Henry H. Houston post of the American Legion, Philadelphia, Pa. The Philadelphia Legionnaires have started a collection which has already outgrown two huge rooms. Alterations in the club's quarters are being made to house additional trophies. These will include one of the captured German field pieces which the post will obtain from the government and place on the lawn of its clubhouse.

Use of the American flag as a scare crow in the corn field of a Hezelton, Pa., farmer brought down the wrath of the American Legion. The Legion protested and the scare crow's attire was changed.

Following a "tip" given by American Legion men, the Department of Justice has picked up Arthur A. Starnes, 27, who was decorated with "medals" purporting to represent the French Medaille Militaire and Croix de Guerre and the Italian Iron Cross. Starnes, when spotted by the Legion and arrested by government officials, was dressed in the uniform of a colonel of the United States Army. Though arrested in Washington, D. C., Starnes' home is said to be in Dallas, Texas.

Desiccated Vegetables.

When dehydrated raw vegetables are stored in airtight containers at ordinary temperatures investigations show that their moisture content is an important factor in their preservation. There is a "critical moisture content" below which the distinctive color and taste is retained unimpaired for upward of six months. For cabbage this is from 3 to 3.34 per cent; for onions, from 5.74 to 6.64 per cent. There is more injury from exposure to an atmosphere of comparatively high humidity at lower temperatures than from similar exposure in a dry atmosphere.

Denominations $1000, $500 and $100

The company agrees to refund all Income Taxes assessed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts not in excess of 8% per annum and agrees to pay the Normal Federal Income Tax of 2% and to refund an additional amount not in excess of 2%.

OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY, BOSTON, Trustee

SUMMARY

SECURITY

These bonds are secured by a first mortgage on the land and buildings of the company, located in Albany, N. Y. and Jersey City, N. J., and upon the equipment constituting the company's plants in Springfield, Mass., and Jersey City, N. J.

The Albany real estate is located on Broadway adjacent to the Hudson Navigation Company piers.

The Jersey City real estate is located on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad terminal and wharf lines, and will be within one block of Exit Plaza of the Vehicular Tunnels under the Hudson River connecting Jersey City with New York City.

The Springfield property is in leased buildings located in the center of Springfield, Mass., one block from the Hotel Kimball and four blocks from the Springfield Union Station.

The property securing this issue of $500,000 First Mortgage Bonds has recently been appraised at $875,479.98 by The Samuel M. Green Company, Springfield, Mass., so that the outstanding bonds are issued at the rate of only 57% of the value of the property securing them.

These bonds are a direct obligation of the Eastern States Refrigerating Company, having total tangible assets as of December 31, 1921, giving effect to this financing, of $1,035,475.31. The value of fixed assets has been checked by appraisal, as stated above, showing $48,102.70 over book values here used. Also, giving effect to this financing, total direct liabilities, exclusive of these bonds, were $99,623.26 leaving net tangible assets of $935,852.05.

MANAGEMENT

The management of the company has an excellent record and is very favorably regarded in banking and business circles.

EARNINGS

The business of this company was established in 1897.

A conspicuous feature of the cold storage business and of this company's business in particular is the stability of earnings.

Net earnings available for interest on these bonds for the past five years have averaged $75,690.50, which is equal to over two times the $35,000 which is the first year's interest requirements of this bond issue. Each year the interest charges will be reduced as the bonds are retired by the sinking fund and cancelled. The net earnings for 1921 were $49,903.49, an excellent record for one of the most trying years in the history of the business world.

SINKING FUND

The Deed of Trust provides that the company shall make sinking fund payments to the Trustee as follows:

$10,500 each year for five years, beginning June 1, 1922 and $15,750 each year thereafter, and if additional bonds are issued, correspondingly larger payments must be made.

The sinking fund is to be used solely to buy bonds of this issue if such bonds can be bought in the open market at 105 and accrued interest or less; otherwise the funds are to be invested in securities legal for Savings Banks in Massachusetts having one year or less to run, and approved by the Trustee, or in the bonds of this issue, whichever may yield a higher return to the company.

LEGALITY

Legal details have been approved by Messrs. Mason and Storke, of Boston, Massachusetts, representing the Bankers, and Elisha H. Brewster, Esquire, of Springfield, Massachusetts, representing the Company.

We recommend these bonds for personal and institutional investment as being well secured by valuable, carefully chosen business real estate, and other assets.

These bonds will be listed on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Special circular on application.

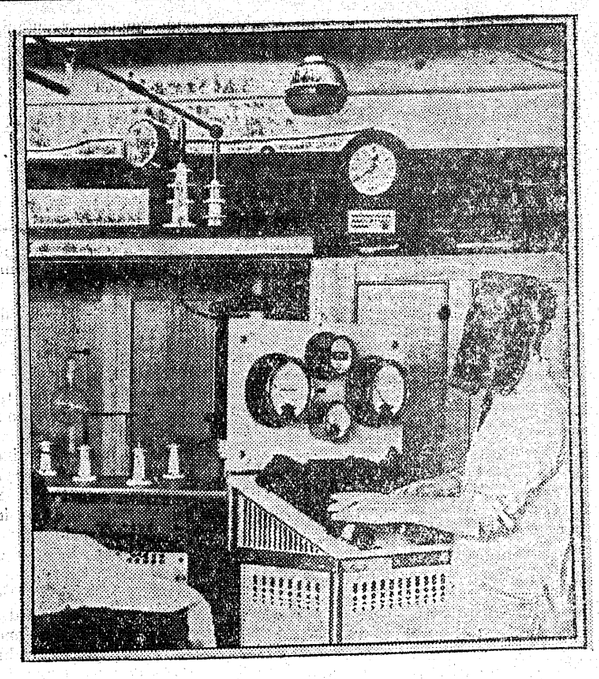
Playgrounds Wind Up Season

After a profitable season of play and work for a period of eight weeks, the playgrounds close Saturday noon. The attendance on the playgrounds during good weather was considerably larger than last year. Many fine pieces of handwork have been completed on all the playgrounds to be retained by the makers, as they supplied most of the material used.



The city was most fortunate to have such an enthusiastic corps of instructors, several of them specialists in certain lines of playground activities. Many of the children have learned much in sewing, basketry, well-being and fair play. There have been very few accidents on the playgrounds, owing to a large extent to the watchful care of the instructors, there was only one accident which required the attention of a doctor.

The annual playground exhibition and parade, which is an expense to the city of about $500, was replaced by the substitution of the Rotary Club outing for the children at Gloucester, in which the playground workers assisted in the care of the children. The outing was a gala event and amply replaced anything the city could afford to give the children. Most of the playgrounds have had field day closing events this week before closing.

The placing of two instructors at the West Peabody playground proved to be worth while for the kiddies in that section, for they had a most enjoyable season under the care of William Jones and Virginia Carten. The Playground League will be decided between the East End and the Emerson Park teams, both teams at present claiming first honors in the race for the cup.

STADIUM WILL BE ENCLOSED BY HIGH IRON FENCE

Work of putting the high school stadium grounds in shape for the coming football season are progressing. Many large bowlders have been removed from the playing field and some grading is being done to make the proper levels. The committee in charge has contracted for a wire fence to enclose the big field. There will be plenty of room for parking autos on the grounds. One or more grandstands will be erected.

EIGHT HOUR X-RAY TREATMENT CURES CANCER

This photograph taken in an English electrical medico laboratory shows how the dreaded disease, Cancer is cured by first subjecting the patient to an eight hour treatment under a new X-Ray apparatus invented by Professor Wintz of Earlange, Germany. The powerful 200,000 volt operated rays provide a "lethal dose" for carcinoma cells, but do not affect healthy tissues.

REGISTER OF DEEDS CONTEST JOHNSON VERSUS KIMBALL

The fight for the Republican nomination for register of deeds for Essex county finds Charles Cabot Johnson and Moody Kimball waging a sharp contest, and friends of the former state senator are looking to see him land a winner. Two years ago when Mr. Johnson ran against Mr. Kimball, Peabody gave the Nahant man a nice majority, as did Lynn and even the town of Newbury close to Newburyport.

The contest this year is for the full five-year term. Mr. Johnson is town treasurer and tax collector of Nahant, and is a deed conveyancer in Lynn, where he has built up a fine clientele. He made the fight against the county commissioner's rule that saddled the million dollar hospital onto the towns and cities and he held Mr. Kimball, then a county commissioner and chairman of the board, largely responsible.

CHARLES CABOT JOHNSON

Mr. Johnson's contest two years ago found him getting over 12,000 votes of the 25,000 odd votes cast and he was defeated by a comparatively small majority. Last time Mr. Kimball was seeking a re-election for the unexpired term of the late Willard Hale, also of Newburyport. This year the contest is man to man. Mr. Kimball left the office of chairman of the county commissioners to become register of deeds. Mr. Johnson has many personal friends in Peabody who are advancing his candidacy.

Lowell Street

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Ingraham, Jr., (nee Marie Linehan) are being congratulated over the advent of a second daughter, born this week at the J. B. Thomas hospital.

Miss Nancy Barnes was a week-end guest of friends at the New Ocean House, Swampscott.

Miss Pauline Lawton is entertaining Miss Mildred Ellis of Swampscott at her Lowell street home.

Dr. J. Harold Powers, who sustained an injury to his thumb while setting off fireworks for the amusement of his young son on July 4, has just discovered through the aid of an X-ray that he will lose the thumb nail.

Henry J. Pushard spent the last week-end with his family, who are located at their summer cottage at Camp Ellis, Me.

John O'Brien of 87 Lowell street and his sister, Miss Frances, left last evening by the Metropolitan boat for New York City, where they will register for a few days at the Pennsylvania hotel, preparatory to Miss O'Brien's departure for Atlantic City, where she will spend a vacation.

T. Hadley Sawyer, sealer of weights and measures, is enjoying a well-deserved vacation, accompanied by Mrs. Sawyer.

Miss Evelyn Hall spent the recent week-enb with friends at Hamilton.

The engagement is announced of Miss Grace Huntington Teel, daughter of the late Frank and Mrs. Grace Thomas Teel, formerly of Peabody, and John Marshall Raymond, only son of the late Judge John M. Raymond of Lafayette street, Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Macalister and two daughters are spending the coming week with the former's parents in Hillsboro, N. H.

Frank H. Sanger, who on Wednesday was appointed to the position of fuel administrator for Peabody, attributes his reluctant acceptance solely to the precept of the Rotary Club, "Service before self." "Deac" in common with all others realizes that the office is no sinecure.

Miss Margaret Macdonald, formerly of Franklin street, is a guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Macdonald of Lowell street.

Mrs. Sylvester Taylor and Miss Marion Taylor, who have been located at Mount Vernon, N. H., for the last three weeks, will return to their Chestnut street home tomorrow by motor.

Miss Mary Mahoney of School street has returned from a vacation of two weeks spent at Old Orchard, Maine.

Mrs. Lily Ferguson of Endicott street left the city last Monday for Bennington, Vt., where she will represent the local Grange as a delegate to the New England convention. She expects to return next Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Ingraham, who is summering at Conomo Point, Essex, with her parents, is spending a few days as the guest of Miss Louise King.

ESSEX COUNTY MEET

The first fall meeting of the Essex County Board of Trade is scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 20, at the Essex Agricultural school.

Master Jack Quinn of Highland Park and sister Mary are enjoying a three weeks' vacation with their grandmother, Mrs. Mary Quinn of Sudbury.

CITY COUNCIL

Supt. King of the electric light plant was subjected to a lot of unnecessary questions when he appeared before the Council in support of his petition to be allowed to set more poles on various highways. The evident dope that he would say his department was nearly "broke" brought the reply that barring the coal situation, his department would pay its own expenses up to Jan. 1. The new poles are to permit of additional customers.

Some comment was made last night that the Council ploughed through its routine business before tackling the big question before its body, that of the petition for the gasolene filling station. A number of interested women had to sit through the routine work before the hearing came. Some Councillor could have moved taking up the petition at the opening of the meeting and let the crowd go home an hour before they did.

On recommendation of the license committee the applications for Sunday licenses for Antonio Taglerio, 62 Lowell street, and Albert Talbot at 49 Lowell street were given leave to withdraw. Both places were recently raided and liquor found. Chief Grady objected to the licenses being issued.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
Essex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of CHARLES A. LITTLEFIELD, late of Peabody in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for probate, by Florence J. Littlefield who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lawrence in said County of Essex, on the eleventh day of September A. D. 1922, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise a newspaper published in Peabody the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of August in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

HORACE H. ATHERTON, JR.,
(A-25-S-1-8) Register.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by LIZZY SHAKTMAN to the WARREN FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK, a corporation established under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, dated March fifth, 1917, and recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2358 Page 145, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at Public Auction at four o'clock P. M. on the nineteenth day of September, A. D. 1022, on the premises to be sold; all and singular the premises described in said mortgage, with the exception therefrom of the land and buildings situate on the corner of Aborn and Pierpont Streets described in a partial release of said mortgage given by the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank to Louis Cohen, dated March 24, 1919, and recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2409 Page 123, and as set forth on a plan recorded in the same book at the same page.

To wit; the land in said Peabody, with the buildings thereon, bounded and described as follows, namely; beginning at the corner of Aborn and Pierpont Streets, and thence running North-Easterly by Aborn Street one hundred and fourteen and 25-100 feet to land now or late of John J. McDonald; then running North-Westerly by said McDonald land on two courses, thirty six and 88-100 feet and fifty four and 48-100 feet respectively; then running Westerly about sixty and 89-100 feet to Pierpont Street; and then running Southerly by Pierpont Street to Aborn Street and point begun at; being part of the premises conveyed to me by deed of John D. Jeffers and Bessie P. Jeffers dated April 6, 1910, recorded with Essex So. Dist. Deeds Book 2014 Page 187, and part of the same conveyed to me by Jacob Schechtman by deed dated April 20, 1916, recorded with said Essex Deeds Book 2328 Page 230.

Terms made known at sale.

"I have just had a meeting of the leading wholesale oil distributors in Massachusetts. They tell me that there is plenty of kerosene in Massachusetts at the present time and they believe the supply can be maintained; that the supply of kerosene cooking stoves is also normal at the present time and can be maintained provided people begin buying now and do not all come in a rush in September or October, as happened during the war in the fall of 1917.

DANCE IN STREET

The garden fete held yesterday afternoon and evening at Mrs. Margaret E. Petraske's home on Chestnut street was a most successful and delightful affair and as a result a neat sum will be added to the Leo Guild treasury, which will help the organization in carrying on its great amount of charity work in this city. Whist was played out of doors and in the evening the grounds were brilliantly illuminated. A number of beautiful prizes were donated and won by the following: In the afternoon: Mrs. Flora B. Donovan, Mrs. Laird, Mrs. Margaret Gallagher, Mrs. Mary Tarr and Mrs. Mary E. Meagher. In the evening gentlemen's prizes were won by Michael F. Mulcahy, Thomas P. Barrett, Frank Whalley and Jere J. Fennessey. Ladies', Mrs. Thelma Flynn, Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, Mrs. Helen Bomer, Mrs. D. J. Cahill of Danvers. Music was furnished by an orchestra and refreshments were served by a group of young ladies. The $5 in gold awarded to the one holding the lucky admission ticket was won by Charles C. Hills. Other awards were: Crochet yoke, Mrs. M. T. Ray; orange layer cake, Mrs. Jere J. Fennessey of Providence; cake, Miss Nellie Dullea; electric lamp, Miss Mary Cassidy; angel cake, Miss Mary Barry.

Elks Graze

Nearly 200 Peabody Elks will take part in the first annual graze of the local Antler Herd on Sunday afternoon at Monson's Grove, West Peabody. A lobster and clam dinner with green corn will be the menu and the sale of tickets insures a big crowd.

A fleet of autos owned by the lodge members will convey the brothers to the picnic grounds, where sports will start shortly after dinner. A fat man's race and a barrel bout will be staged and both should furnish much merriment.

Dr. Henry I. Yale, the dentist, who used to be one of the best ball players to represent Salem high, will captain the married men's baseball team, while George Gill, world series expert, will captain the bachelors.

Albert E. Talbot, the fish dealer, will serve the lobsters and clams. Volunteer cooks will steam the corn and prepare the spread at the grounds. The dinner will be served about 3.30 or following the ball game. A buffet lunch will be served from noontime. There will be plenty of parking space.

Charles P. Cooney, John Callahan, Michael Sweeney, John Ellis, Chet Bent, Dr. Yale, John J. Shea, Charles Caden, Ralph Basford and F. W. Penniman are the committee.

83RD MILESTONE

George H. Abbott, G. A. R. veteran, celebrated his 83rd birthday anniversary on Tuesday when he received about 100 visitors, who came to offer him congratulations and wish him many happy returns of the day. He was the recipient of many gifts, including fruit, candy, money and flowers, among them being a beautiful bouquet of rose buds from Mayor William A. Shea, who also called in person to offer his congratulations. Mr. Abbott had with him on the happy occasion his three children, Warren, Arthur and Mrs. Lucy M. Wilson, with whom he resides, three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

CITY HALL

Some practical joker who probably will be reluctant to admit his handiwork has pasted political cards of several Peabody men onto fliers sent to the local police, asking the arrest of the person whose picture adorned the original on various charges from murder to highway robbery. Doubtless some of the candidates will be quite pleased (?) to see themselves in the rogue's gallery.

Chief Grady's picture will appear in the early edition of the Traffic Magazine, a New York publication, which is being represented in Peabody this week.

Arthur Gavigan, captain of this fall's football eleven at Peabody high school, has sent Mayor Shea a card from Camp Devens, where he is taking the military drill for a month. He says he will be in fine shape to take up football practice. There are several other Peabody boys enrolled at Camp Devens.

Councillor John A. Jones, candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative, announced himself in favor of the old age pension bill, which will be considered by the next legislature, when he addressed the Connery rally at John's store, Aborn and Sutton streets, last Tuesday evening. He declared he knew he was going to be elected and he promised to represent all the citizens honestly and fairly.

The appointment of Edward Cowan as dog constable to succeed John J. O'Brien, announced this week by Mayor Shea, will meet with approval. Many citizens believe him the right man for the job. He will cover the city and woe be to stray canines in the future.

Chief Jesse Barrett and wife are due back from California on Sunday, where they attended the national fire chiefs' convention in San Francisco.

FATHER MATHEW OUTING

The Father Mathew C. T. A. Society will conduct their outing at Russell's field, West Peabody, next Sunday. Members who are planning to attend are requested to be at the hall not later than 10.30, where autos will convey members to the grove. The committee has arranged a number of events in which all members may take part. The committee assures all who attend a real time.

DESIRABLE INVESTMENT

Wm. S. Felton & Co. of Salem are offering Eastern States Refrigerating Co. first mortgage 7% bonds at 99 and interest to yield over 7% free of the normal federal tax and with the Massachusetts income tax refunded.

The amount of the issue is $500,000 secured by the net assets of the company valued at about $1,150,000. The company has a long and successful business record and the net earnings are substantially in excess of the interest charges on this issue. The bonds are followed by $300,000 preferred stock and $200,000 common stock. A strong sinking fund provision retires a block of the bonds each year.

The bonds are in denominations of $1000, $500 and $100, and are a conservative long term, first mortgage investment yielding an excellent return with a desirable tax refund provision. The bonds will be listed on the Boston Stock Exchange.

PERSONAL

Miss Blanche McKeen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford McKeen of Forest street, is on a vacation with relatives in Newton Highlands.

MOOSE TO NANTASKET

Peabody Moose Lodge will conduct a truck ride to Nantasket Beach next Sunday. The start will be made from the lodge home on Central street at 9 o'clock. More than 50 will take in the trip.

The field day held on the Community playgrounds in South Peabody last evening under the auspices of the All Stars Athletic Association was the biggest affair of its kind ever carried out in that section of the city and reflects credit on those who had the arrangements in hand. The field was crowded with people who came from all parts of this city and surrounding places to join in the festivities. The midway did a lively business, and music and dancing were enjoyed. It was the initial event of its kind to be conducted by the All Stars and will be an annual affair.

Peabody Girls Win Prizes In Writing Essays

The two best essays on the subject of the value of a high school education, submitted in the contest recently announced by the Peabody Enterprise, were written by Eleanor C. McKeen, the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar S. McKeen of 46 Prospect street, and Annie R. Clopper, aged 15 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Clopper of 1 Smidt avenue. Both articles were well written.

An award of five dollars in cash will be paid to each of the girls if they will call at the Enterprise office.

The purpose of the contest was to encourage the boys and girls of our city to stay in school. Turn to page three for the prize winning essays.

DESTROY MASH AT TWO RAIDS

In a raid yesterday afternoon in McIntire's court off Wallis street, the police destroyed 300 gallons of mash, seized a half barrel and a keg of moonshine, 350 pounds of corn sugar. Six boxes of raisins and prunes mixed were also taken. The mash was destroyed on the premises.

Later in the afternoon the police visited 24 Dane street where 30 gallons of mash was destroyed and a small collection of "poison fluid" was confiscated. The raiding officers were Patrolmen T. Grady, Murphy, Wiggin and Inspector Pierce.

HITS TRAFFIC BEACON

The new flashing light traffic post at Andover and Prospect streets was knocked down last night by an auto and the mechanism of the beacon light was damaged. A woman resident who witnessed the accident telephoned in the number of the Lynn machine to the police.

CURLEY ASKS DEMOCRATS TO NOMINATE WHIPPLE

State and County Democrats invaded Peabody last night, headed by ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, ex-Governor Foss with Mayor Curley of Boston, one of the leading spell binders. There were four different rallies in quick order. Chester V. Shea, treasurer of the Democratic City Committee, introduced each speaker.

Sherman Whipple, candidate for senator, opened the rallies with Mayor Curley speaking in his behalf. Then came ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, who is seeking the nomination for governor. Mayor Sullivan of Salem was one of the speakers for "Honey Fitz."

John P. Kane, ex-Mayor of Lawrence, who had come to town with a fleet of 70 autos, next took the stump, having first paraded down Main street with a band.

Eugene Noble Foss, candidate for governor, whose slogan is a five-cent fare, closed the rallies.

Ex-Mayor S. Howard Donnell, who is believed the next attorney general of Massachusetts, is on a tour of the cities in the western part of the state today and tomorrow, concluding in Springfield tomorrow night. He opened in Worcester last night. There is no disputing the fact that the district attorney of Essex County has made the voters take notice of his state-wide campaign and Peabody has been getting some splendid advertising out of his campaign. The fact that so many rival candidates are opposing him in Middlesex County presages, say his friends, the Republican nomination for him.

Much interest is being shown in the contest for the Democratic nomination for representative where a good-natured fight is being waged by Councillors James T. Sullivan and John Jones for the honor. Each man is confident that he will come through, for each has proved a good vote getter. Which one of the two city fathers will be pitted against Rep. J. Edward McVann will be answered when the polls close on Sept. 12. Rep. McVann will

A. C. L. Tackers Still on Strike

A conference between the striking tackers and the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. will probably be held early next week in an effort to end the present situation. The 60 strikers quit Wednesday when their demand for 14 cents instead of 11½ cents was taken under a week's advisement by the concern. It is stated the wages netted about $30 a week. Supt. Charles P. Kelley has written the following letter regarding the situation:

Peabody Enterprise,

Referring to the press comments with reference to our hide tackers quitting work, the facts in connection with this condition are as follows:

A demand was made on the management on Friday afternoon, August 25, for an increase in the rates paid for hide tacking, which amounted to a little over 27%. An answer was requested to this demand by Wednesday

BAPTISTS MAY CALL MALVERN

Rev. Louis Malvern, resident of Bartholomew street, and one of the best known Baptist ministers in Essex County, may receive a call as pastor of the Baptist church in this city to succeed Rev. Norman Bartlett, resigned. The parish committee having the pulpit supply in hand are said to be urging Rev. Mr. Malvern to accept the pastorate. He retired some years ago from active pulpit work, but has supplied many of the local churches and is well known. He is a highly capable minister and numbers many warm personal friends among Peabody citizens. The Baptist church will resume its Sunday services on Sept. 10.

DOG OFFICER GETS 'EM

Dog Constable Cowan is ridding the Bleachery district of stray canines. He made his appearance in that vicinity this week and bagged eight wandering dogs. Dogs without licenses shown on their collars are being taken by the new constable, who promises to rid the city of all unlicensed dogs.

ONE RAILROAD IN U. S. NOT AFFECTED BY STRIKE

Cecilwood Vest Pocket Railroad, Fishkill, N. Y., is the only complete miniature railroad ever built on a private estate in the country. It took W. Cecil Gage five years to complete it, all by himself. It is two miles in length, running thru the estate and making it possible to convey anything to the barns, stables and cellar. Photo shows ashes being taken away from the cellar to the outskirts of the estate.

FEDERAL AID TO SAVE FORESTRY

Allotments of $400,000 of federal funds to states co-operating with the government in protecting forest lands from fire have just been completed by the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture. This sum, together with at least an equal amount which must be supplied by the states co-operating, is expended jointly by federal and state agencies in protecting from fire forest lands at the headwaters of navigable streams. The allotment is made on the basis of timbered area and cost of adequate protection. The federal expenditure in any state is restricted to not over $24,000.

Allotments to the New England states are: Maine $24,000, New Hampshire $8425, Vermont $4200, Massachusetts $8400, Rhode Island $625 and Connecticut $3150.

FARMERS GLAD OF FREE POTASH

Farm Bureau members of Masaschusetts are well pleased at the placing of potash on the free list in the tariff schedule now under discussion at Washington. The bill came from the House with a duty of $25 a ton on potash, the amount to be decreased steadily for the next five years. The Senate threw out the $25 a ton tariff and placed potash on the free list, also declining to subsidize the potash interests in this country. This is looked upon as a substantial victory for the Farm Bureaus of the east. The State Federations in New England have been especially active in leading the fight for free potash, which will mean cheaper fertilizer. The Massachusetts Federation executive committee also placed the entire support of the Farm Bureaus back of the Murcle Shoals offer of Henry Ford. The Fed-

AMERICAN LEGION

The United States Navy will participate in the naval show to be held during the American Legion national convention in New Orleans next October, the convention committee has been informed by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt. Representation will consist of at least one battleship or cruiser and a number of destroyers.

Twelve hydroplanes will fly from Pensacola to New Orleans and will remain on the Mississippi river for exhibition flights during the convention period. The order authorizing the New Orleans flight was issued by Admiral William A. Moffet, head of the navy bureau of aeronautics, who a few weeks ago made the first hydroplane flight from Pensacola to New Orleans.

At various informal meetings at the capitol, according to information gathered by the national committee of the American Legion, congressmen who have returned for the reconvening of congress report that the only legislation of national importance discussed in their districts is the adjusted compensation bill for World war veterans. This is declared to be true to the exclusion of all such matters as the tariff and the proposed ship subsidy. Their information bears out the repeated statement that this is the one matter that the whole country is interested in and wants settled definitely without any further delay.

* * *

The national legislative and military policy committees of the American Legion have taken steps to obtain from the house military affairs committee a favorable report on a bill which has been introduced and which provides for the equitable distribution of war trophies to various states. This action has been taken so that the bill can be voted on during this session.

Peabody Girls Write Essays On Value of Higher Education Will Receive Equal Prizes

By Annie R. Clopper, 1 Smidt Ave.

In the early days of our country, when it was just being settled, there were no schools. Children were either taught by their parents or paid someone to teach them. Many could not afford to pay a tutor, so that many children did not have much of an education.

A few years later the public schools were established and boys and girls could at least get a grammar school education.

As time went on people began to talk of establishing free high schools, and after some delay this, too, was done. Why were these high schools established? They were established so that all the boys and girls of the country could at least receive a high school education. By receiving a good education they would be good citizens in later life and be able to carry on the affairs of the government of their country.

The high schools have proved themselves all and even more than the people hoped for.

The value of a high school education is so great now that it cannot be put in a few words. Here is just a few things it does for the pupil: In the first place he learns something about the world, its discovery, inventions, historians, etc. He learns a great deal about his own country, its history, government, possessions, inventions, etc. It makes him want to do something worth while in the world as he studies of great men and women—that did do such things.

High school really gives the pupil an idea of what he wants his life-work to be and how to go about to accomplish it. Take for example: A boy or girl wishing to be a business man or woman in later life has just to take a business course and he will learn most of it at high school. One may wish to become a doctor, lawyer, etc., and to go to college. But he will not be allowed to enter college unless he has had a high school education.

The boys and girls of today are the hope of the future. In a few years they will be the citizens of the United States. They owe it to their country to be educated so as to make good citizens and do their duty by their country. The best way to do this is by getting a high school education.

By Eleanor C. McKeen, 46 Prospect St.

First of all, what do we mean by a high school education? By education we mean knowledge, training, etc. It is the general and formal word for schooling. It is by far the most important thing in the world today. Education also means the imparting or acquiring of knowledge, skill and development of character. Education is everything nowadays and unless you get a good education you are lost in this wide, wide world. A high school education means everything to boys and girls nowadays.

Soon the boys and girls will return to school after several weeks of vacation. Their minds will be fresh and their heads full of ideas. The word vacation will be one of the past. Everything will lead to the roads of Education. The ones who go through high school and get a good education are the ones who will reap the harvest in later years.

One good thing about the Peabody high school is that they offer the best of education and also the schools of Peabody are very, very good. Of course in olden times people did not think so much about education as they do now-a-days. In olden times people would not think of letting their children go through high school, as they needed them at home. Some of the children did not even finish grammar school. But I am glad to say that now-a-days there are more going through high school, as times have changed.

Education is needed no matter what part of the world you go. It is needed a great deal more today than before. Those who want clerical positions must have special training in it or the employer will not listen to applications for work, and it is just the same in any other position, no matter what it is nor where it may be

One good thing about Peabody high school is that it offers a variety of courses, such as classical, Latin scientific, technical, which fit you for colleges or higher institutions than high school. Then there is English and commercial, which fit you for positions following your graduation from high school. Any high school girl or boy who takes any of these courses will get a good position afterwards. So I urge the parents of Peabody boys and girls to encourage their children so that they might be graduates from Peabody high school.

BAILEY WELL QUALIFIED FOR COUNTY TREAS.

Charles O. Bailey of Newbury, candidate for county treasurer on the Republican ticket, was in Peabody this week meeting many of his friends and placarding the city with his candidacy for this important office. The contest is an open one this year and Mr. Bailey has built up a powerful machine by having been in the field for the past few months. He has had experience in large financial matters and believes that Essex County funds should be distributed among Essex County banks.

Mr. Bailey served four years as selectman in Newbury and also on the school committee. He was elected two terms as representative and two terms as senator from the sixth district. He was also elected to the constitutional convention.

He is secretary of the State department of Conservation and has done much in the last several years to protect the forests of this state. He was for many years in the wholesale and retail produce business in Haverhill, where he has hosts of friends. His candidacy in Peabody has won him many supporters.

O'CONNOR TO COLLEGE

Eddie O'Connor, star athlete in football and baseball, has enrolled at the New Hampshire State College and will go to Old Orchard Beach early this month for the fall practice of the Green Mountain college eleven. He is assured of a place on the team. With him will be "Cy" Wentworth of Salem, one of the best baseball and football players in the Witch City.

OPENING OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The youth of the city returns to school next week. After a long vacation they will again acquire knowledge needed for their future being. There are about 3500 pupils in the local schools this fall. To get the best results the parents can add much to a successful education. Co-operation with the teachers does much, and teachers can get much better results with that co-operation. A better understanding between parents and teachers is needed. It is true some parents do get in touch with the teachers, but if more would do so, it would mean much to all concerned. Teachers in public schools have much to contend with. Successful ones have a way of getting results. From all we can glean, those ways differ, and naturally must differ because of the wide difference in children's ages. So believing teachers have no sinecure, we congratulate them on the increase in wages the last few years, and still insist they are not paid enough today in proportion to other lines of labor.

HENRY CABOT LODGE

The greatest figure today in the United States Senate is Henry Cabot Lodge. His long years of service together with his keen conception of all great questions which come before the Senate has made him recognized as being a statesman of sterling worth. As chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate he has had much to do with the many important matters of world prominence particularly the last few years. While many differ in their opinions of what should be, all admit Henry Cabot Lodge has ably defended his opinions and carried them to a successful ending. The history of the United States shows that many men have taken up the burden of public life and but a comparatively few have gone into history as being above the ordinary. All must admit that as history is written, Henry Cabot Lodge will stand out as being a public servant whose efforts has stamped him an extraordinary senator, a senator whose opinions on all public matters are sought, not only by people from the state he represents, but the country over. He is a candidate this fall to succeed himself as senator from Massachusetts. True it is, many of the party he represents believe another should be elected to this important office. True it is that many independent voters will vote for this man, believing his worth and experience in Washington should not be dispensed with. We believe he should be re-elected. We believe he will be re-elected. The voters of Massachusetts recognize that men of such calibre are needed in these times of turmoil, and such recognition will send him back a senator whom the whole country will look up to.

HEARING ON GASOLENE PERMIT

At the meeting of the Council Thursday evening, the permit to erect tanks for the storage of gasolene on the Stockwell property brought out two sides to a question both for and against, having merit. From every reliable source tanks of this kind are not a menace so far as fire is concerned. It is also true that tanks located in other localities are beautified with flowers and shrubbery, making a far more attractive place than business of many other kinds. Again, so many gasolene pumps located on public streets are becoming a nuisance. The number added on Main street detracts from the appearance of the most traveled thoroughfare in the city. But to locate tanks which must be entered over sidewalks so frequently, constitute a menace. Dwelling houses near by naturally object, but Main street will soon be commercialized to the extent that dwelling houses must go elsewhere. The point raised that we should protect home business appears well taken. If we do not welcome others here, however, our growth will be impeded, and large corporations help much to pay the taxes. Peabody must and will have a storage plant for gasolene soon, to keep up with the times. It is a part of the progress which every city must have or go to seed. The Stockwell property according to the judgment of the City Council was not fitted. We are inclined to agree with the Council, but property owners on business streets must eventually agree that living there is out of the question. Any business enterprise we welcome to Peabody, and we will add there are no axes to grind for or against the proposition in question.

PEABODY CONTRACTORS

We note that several of our enterprising Peabody contractors are getting contracts in Lynn, Lawrence and other surrounding cities and towns. We take this time to congratulate such business concerns who go out to get business. It adds strength to the concerns and is an advertisement for Peabody. The Mark E. Kelly Co. have a $20,000 contract in Lynn. The Coombs Herbert Power Co. have two big contracts in Lawrence, and the Porter Co. are doing all they can with the amount of help available. Local carpenters are busy, and about the city building operations are many times more than for several years. Everything points to better times.

LINCOLN SAID

"Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the constitution and the laws, let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor; let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample upon the blood of his fathers and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap. Let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges. Let it be written in primers, spelling books and almanacs. Let it be preached from the pulpits, proclaimed in legislative halls and enforced in courts of justice. In short, let it become the political religion of the nation.

ROUND ABOUT

The big improvements at the Bleachery are fast coming to a finish. This plant, the oldest by far in Peabody, will be modernized with new machinery, and the owners will make it a big asset to Peabody by added employment to men and women, beside paying a largely increased tax.

* * *

Our town baseball team is winning most of its games. With the help of a strong man in the box, the rest of the nine are local young men. Holden, the catcher, of high school baseball and football fame, is called one of the best in this vicinity.

* * *

Prices of automobiles vary so much from the selling to the buying price it keeps the assessors busy to determine values. If there is any bill many people hate to pay more than a tax bill, it must be the undertaker.

* * *

What about that football game with Charleston this fall? We hear of little stirring and another month will soon be gone When the new coach gets on the job the interest will start no doubt. Football will have a busy season in these parts.

* * *

We note a big sign warning autoists to detour at the junction of Andover and Prospect streets. The new signal light on Peabody square is doing good work and with others at Wilson square and in fact all dangerous points, accidents will be fewer. No one can stop a marblehead from running into somebody or something.

* * *

The acceptance of Frank H. Sanger as fuel administrator leaves little to be asked for. His reputation for doing things is well known. A busy man, he takes upon himself the duties of a position which will be anything but pleasant, for distributing coal equitably in times of shortage requires time and attention.

* * *

With desirable tenements scarce, and business on the increase, Peabody must in some way add dwelling houses or its growth will be retarded. It is useless for people to think that tenements can be hired for pre-war prices, for at least twice that figure is only fair to the owners.

* * *

It seems the Rotary Club outing saved the city $500, for without it the annual playgrounds parade would have taken place and cost the city that sum.

* * *

Summer is over this week and the serious business of going to school confronts the children, the routine of housework faces the family woman, and the father must hustle to pay summer bills. Soon Jack Frost will arrive and coal at a dollar a peck will drive us to split wood, which, by the way, will cure dyspepsia.

* * *

To think that an automobile driver could not see the posts situated on Peabody square, reminds that perhaps the head lights on the machine were not according to Hoyle. In fact after the talk of the state authorities, that headlights should be of types approved by the highway commission, there are machines on the road at night, with one light only, two so dim a cat could not see them, and others so bright they blind the eyes. Those who have proper lights get little thanks for them.

* * *

The Connery rally here recently was unique because of the fact a real drum corps led the procession. We say real drum corps for this one played tunes one could understand without a musical education.

* * *

Candidate Connery will make a good run for the Democratic nomination for congress. At least this end of the district will give him a large vote. His father, ex-mayor of Lynn, was a big vote getter.

* * *

We are pleased to note that Chief Grady recovered from the indigestion attack in a short time and is as well as ever.

* * *

Dr. Yale gave an interesting talk illustrating on his X-ray machine at the Thomas hospital Tuesday noon hour. There is little use of having mirrors when one can use an X-ray machine, for seeing one's self inside and out may or may not be entertaining.

* * *

The Salem golf course, one-half of which is in Peabody, one-quarter in Salem and one-quarter in Danvers, presents a lively appearance these days. Tournaments are on every Saturday with many players. This club boasts of a one-arm golfer who can beat many with two or more arms. Keeping in course is the secret of good golf.

* * *

George Sutton with both arms cut off at the elbow claimed the championship of Illinois for some years, at golf. When some of us who are supposed to be normal, physically and mentally, play the game poorly, there appears something wrong.

* * *

Gardner Park is fast getting to be residential. Many attractive houses are being built there. Margin street will soon be built up to the Danvers line.

* * *

I observed Police Inspector Pierce escorting a jail prisoner from the local court house last Monday morning, having for a "body guard" bringing up the rear, another jail prisoner who was lockstepping along with a smile on his face. The "bodyguard" was a well known local figure whose face is very familiar at Salem jail.

* * *

Peabody policemen have the names of a crowd of young boys who are robbing fruit trees about the city and arrests are likely to be made unless parents warn their sons to desist from their acts of vandalism. Branches of the trees have been broken by the miscreants.

Sydney J. Herd, Yankee Division veteran, now on the staff of the Rowe Motor Co. (Ford depot) in this city, leaves tomorrow for an auto trip to Quebec. He will be accompanied by his wife and they will spend a few days at Phillips, Me., enroute to the Canadian city. "Syd" has made many friends since coming to Peabody and he hopes to soon take up his permanent residence in this city, removing here from Beverly.

One of the most interested men in Beverly lodgedom is Joseph G. Dennis of Cabot street, and a member of the Salem Nest of Orioles, who has worked hard and consistently for the institution of the Beverly nest. It was through his untiring efforts that the local nest of Orioles was realized, holding meetings at his home and giving his time to the venture. He was largely instrumental in building up its membership during the preliminary organization of the order. Possessed of a genial temperament and a goodly amount of executive ability, he is known as a live wire, being much interested in the Grange. He has worked hard for the success of the order, having served on many of the committees. He is well known to the newspaper fraternity through his connection with the Peabody Enterprise. Pumping Sta. Employes Have Kick Coming

Some weeks ago the Enterprise called attention to the fact that the employes of the water pumping station of the city were not being granted vacations with pay, the same as other employes of the street and water divisions voted by the City Council. No official word as to vacations has yet been made by City Engineer Emerson in charge of the department. Mr. Emerson returns Tuesday from his two weeks' vacation. Heads of departments have for the most part already had their vacations and the men employed in keeping up the water service of the city would seem to be entitled to similar treatment accorded employes of the street division. There are six men employed at the pumping station and 12 weeks are required to give them their holidays with pay. It is manifestly unfair to these men that they should be denied their vacation. It may be that an extra man would have to be employed, but the citizens would probably favor that expenditure in order that these employes should get their just deserts. How about this, Mr. Emerson? It is not too late now to grant the necessary permission.

Wally Reid In "The Dictator" Strand Feature For Tonight

The big battle is on at the Strand today and Saturday. Wallace Reid, supported by Lila Lee, Walter Long, Alan Hale and Theodore Kosloff, will be there to give the public five reels of delicious fun, excitement, romance and revolution in "The Dictator," based upon the famous story and play by the late Richard Harding Davis.

The story shows how a young American falls in love with the pretty daughter of a South American "liberator," follows her south and there becomes embroiled in a revolution of which her father is the instigator, not knowing that his own father, the banana king, is on the other side for business and political reasons. He wins the revolution, the girl and his father's profound respect after a series of exciting adventures which fairly brim with suspense, mystery, conspiracy, fighting and delightful humor. Mr. Reid has never appeared to better advantage and the same may be said of the other favorites in the cast, especially Lila Lee. A comedy film entitled "The Punch of the Irish" and Harry Myers in "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe" will be the other numbers on the bill for today.

Wanda Hawley in "Her Face Value," an adaption of a Saturday Evening Post story by Earle Derr Biggers, will head the double bill for Sunday evening. T. Roy Barnes, who made such a hit in "Is Matrimony a Failure" plays opposite Miss Hawley. "The Greatest Love" with an all-star cast will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

"The Good Provider," a Paramount special feature, will head the double bill Manager Chet Bent will offer for Labor Day and Tuesday. It features Vera Gordon and Dore Davidson, who play the heads of a Jewish family, who move from a small town to New York that their children may have their chance. Here is a picture that will hand most every person a real laugh, be good for an occasional tear, and as a moral lesson will stand as a land mark for many a day. "The Good Provider" has the distinction of standing third of the National Board of Review's list of "best" pictures for 1922. It is directed by Frank Borzage who was responsible for "Humoresque," and both of the principals were to be seen in Mr. Borzage's previous triumph. The second feature on the bill for the holiday is Conway Tearle in "A Wide Open Town." Mr. Tearle, who is one of the most popular of the male screen stars, is cast as a "square" gambler, who chucks his job because of his love for the mayor's daughter. He starts on his new life and hopes to become something worth while. The mayor plans to raid the gambling den where he was formerly employed, but the gamblers kidnap the daughter so that she will be caught in the den by the raiders. Tearle rescues the girl, but has to kill the boss gambler to do it. The finish is a surprise which is too good to give away.

FOOTBALL RULES FOR THIS FALL SHOULD MAKE GAME FASTER

The new Spalding Football Guide is out, and for the first time the Peabody high school football team has received recognition in the book. The guide has a short note about the team, and proclaims the Peabody boys as contenders for the state title with Haverhill and Newton. The reason for losing the Charleston game is said by the book to have been caused by the change in climate, which was too much for the local boys. A record of the team for the season is also given, with all scores. Peabody Rubber Co. is agent for the book locally.

NEW FOOTBALL RULES

The change in rules this year, while not materially affecting the style of play itself, are important to coaches, officials and captains, as well as to players.

Relating to substitution, a player taken out in one-half cannot return in the same half, but a player who has been taken out in the first half may return to the game in the second half, not necessarily at the beginning of a period.

In scoring, a new feature is introduced, called a "try-for-point." Formerly a place-kick only was allowed for goal after a touchdown. Now the side scoring a touchdown is permitted to bring the ball out to any point not less than five yards from the goal line, or to any greater distance they choose, and there a scrimmage is formed, with the scoring side in possession of the ball. They can make any play which is legal from an ordinary scrimmage and endeavor to score by a place-kick, a drop-kick, a run, or a forward pass. Should they, by any of these means in a single play, put the ball over the goal line and secure a touchdown, or should they kick a field goal, any one of these successes yields them a single point. Immediately that the ball becomes dead without resulting in such a score, play ceases and the ball is taken back for a kick-off, as was done under the old method when the try-for-goal had proven unsuccessful.

As to fouls (on this "try-for-point") by either side, a foul by the side defending the goal gives the attacking side the additional point without further play, and a foul or illegal play by the attacking side vitiates the attempt for score.

The privileges of choice of kick-off or of receiving the kick-off are a little more clearly defined.

Probably the most constructive work done was in making the rule regarding shift plays more clear and simple of enforcement by officials. It provides as formerly regarding the ordinary shifts, and also provides that when a man in motion has left the scrimmage line he must be at least five yards back when the ball is put in play. It also provides that in all shift plays the man who has moved from one position to another before the ball is put in play must come to a full stop so that when he starts again he starts off from a standstill.

Certain alterations were made in the rule regarding taking time out, to clear up any misunderstandings there.

Time taken out after the third request by a captain entails a two-yard penalty; that is, the stakes are not to be moved as formerly.

Interference with the defensive side on a forward pass entails a loss of 15 yards and a down.

Unnecessary roughness has been somewhat more clearly defined and additional power put in the hands of the officials, and it was made more clear that the officials should be stringent in handling it.

Clipping also has a section in the rules.

The declining of penalties has been made clearer.

The referee will in future select the assistants to the linesman, designating the men who are to carry the chains.

Approved rulings, as far as possible, have been incorporated into the rules.

Duty on Strap Leather Criticised By Tanners

(By ENERGY)

Now that hides have been put on the free list, our tanners and shoe manufacturers are wondering why leather shoes are admitted free and a duty placed on bag, strap and case leather, fancy leather such as seal, sheep, goat, calf and pigskin. Then harness leather is protected together with tanning extracts with names which would puzzle a Chinaman.

* * *

It appears peculiar to say the least that shoe leather should be picked on or at as the case may be. It may be senators think shoes are too high. That would not be strange, for it is a part of their job to think somehow. The fact that shoes have cost double since the war over pre-war prices, causes many to think profiteering is going on. May be. But compare the real value of two shoes with other articles of wear, look over the amount of labor required in both shoes and the others. Then think courageously and most all will admit that a shoe which gets more wear than all other clothing put together stands the gaff as well as the rest.

There is one thing that comes to my mind. Shoes could be made for many persons today with a light bottom which would answer all purposes. Why, because some people today do not average to walk over 10 feet a day. The auto is always ready to take them in the open, and it will be but a short time when a conveyance of a similar nature will wheel them about in the factory aided by the elevator. In fact, slippers will come into their own again, having been relegated to the rear for some years. The original family man came home at night, his first stunt being to remove those heavy shoes and put on a comfortable pair of slippers. Taking the evening paper he remained in the bosom of his family seven nights a week. But now: he comes home, stops long enough to eat one-half of a supper, and the club, society, or any other excuse which will go is mumbled to his larger half, and she admits it cannot be helped. But after years of such amusement, the wife wakes up, joins everything in sight, attends all the meetings and if any nights are left goes to the movies. Above all many married people need today is a place to sleep and quarrel over high price footwear. If I was a judge I would admit the evidence that shoes were purchased at $25 a pair, and the shoe dealer was foolish he did not charge more.

Trade Tabloids tell us about the tariff that congress has been pouring out a steady but turbid stream of eloquence about the tariff for more than a year. It has become so clogged up with words that the free and dutiable lists are like the dictionary, good to consult but not to read.

The only thing in Europe analogous to our tariff is the Schleswig-Holstein question which is still debated, although the only man who knew anything about it died 50 years ago. We asked a wise friend the other day and he explained that it had something to do with cows. When the next revision comes up we shall suggest that all the conflicting schedules be thrown into a box and a prize idiot be drafted to draw the lucky numbers.

* * *

The tariff is the greatest safety valve we possess. It is the one and only issue we can carry on for a year without the aid and consent of Sam Gompers or disputes as to who shall call out the marines. There is no telling what folly our congress might have fallen into if the tariff had not kept it occupied. A man was recently put into a padded cell for throwing a big ball of yarn into the monkey cage at the zoo. It was labelled "tariff" which goes to prove that a man was not as crazy as the officers thought.

* * *

With all the jesting in "Tabloids" an underlying truth is there which is food for thought. If one should listen to the opinions of men from the many sections of our country on the tariff, particularly as it relates to leather and hides, he might be able to form an opinion as to the best tariff on these commodities, but no doubt the reasoning of such men from their standpoint would cause much thought as to what is best for all. It is peculiar, that everybody looks out for number one, but what would happen if they did not? They would either land in the poorhouse, jail or asylum, perhaps the graveyard. So as it has always been, the tariff stirs up trouble, trouble and trouble. The only country which gets along without such trouble is England, with its free trade policies. But there are different trade angles in England, thus free trade. If everybody in this world was satisfied there would be little to talk about except fashions, and the men would be out of it, particularly with prohibition in force.

Factories are generally busy. Some increase in the price of men's shoes is noted; brought about by rising leather and raw stock markets. Most manufacturers report an increased fall business with a large volume of early fall merchandise already shipped. Salesmen will start out early next month with spring samples. The labor situation at Cincinnati and Rochester shows gradual improvement while Lynn is again mixed up with labor disputes.

* * *

Sole leather market continues active, prices firmly maintained at previously established levels. Present tendency of the heavy hide market seems to indicate still further advances. Offal active and strong, advances recently effected. Belting butts continue the feature of the market, registering another two cent advance on actual transactions. Curried leather still excitable, prices subject to sudden change. Patent leather demand while less active continues sufficient to keep choice leather cleaned up. Advances of two to three cents per foot noted in one quarter on A, B and C leather. Heavy calf still salable at steady rates. Disposal of light weights still hard problem for tanners to solve. More general use of satins and patent preclude possibility of outlet of a sizable nature in the near future for women's weights. Kid demand still strong for low grades, suitable for linings. Further sheepskin advances probable. Improved call for ooze calf anticipated in the near future.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

FELLOWSHIP

When a man ain't got a cent,
An' he's feeling kind of blue,
An' the clouds hang dark and heavy,
An' work won't let the sunshine through,
It's a great thing, O my brethren,
For a fellow just to lay
His hand upon your shoulder
In a friendly sort of way.
It makes a man feel queerish;
It makes the teardrop start,
An' you sort of feel a flutter
In the region of your heart;
You can't look up and meet his eyes,
You don't know what to say,
When his hand is on your shoulder
In a friendly sort of way.
Oh, the world's a curious compound,
With its honey and its gall,
With its cares and bitter crosses;
But a good world after all.
An' a good God must have made—
Leastwise, that is what I say
When a hand is on your shoulder
In a friendly sort of way.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

WM. G. McADOO IN TUG OF WAR

William G. McAdoo, captaining one of the tug of war teams at the Annual Indian Field Day celebration, held in Yosemite National Park, Cal. The tugging was lively at all times, but more especially after two Indians, near each other on the opposing sides, extended the argument to include their feet. A few seconds after this picture was taken the rope broke and the former Secretary of the Treasurer went down, head over heels, only to come up smiling as he did in the troublous days of the war.

Dakota Ships 1000 Horses to New England

More than 1000 horses direct from North Dakota farms will probably be marketed in New England within a year through the co-operative plan adopted by the farm bureau federations. The Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation is already in communication with the North Dakota farmers, and plans are being made to double the sales of last year, at least. The plan of direct dealing between the farmer of the west and the farmer of New England resulted in the saving of thousands of dollars and in greater satisfaction to both groups of farmers. Through their business organization, the Farm Bureau, they were able to come together to their mutual advantage.

About 500 horses were sold in this way last spring in New England at the horse auctions conducted under the auspices of the county farm bureaus. This direct method of dealing eliminates on the average the commissions of four horse buyers or dealers. There is also a material saving due to the speed with which these horses can be transferred from the western farm to the New England farm. The actual transportation costs must be paid in both cases, but under the direct sales method, the expensive boarding of horses in stables prior to sales is very largely eliminated. The horses come through direct to the farm bureaus, and the auction is held immediately on their arrival. Any unsold animals will be immediately taken to farms and put to work.

The Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation is urging its members to make a greater use of the market news service now being disseminated by radio. The federation has been a staunch backer of this modern form of market reporting service since its start and will do all it can to increase its usefulness. It is working in close touch with the Division of Markets of the State Department of Agriculture in developing the service.

The federation is informing its members that the Medford Hillside station (WGI) is now broadcasting on 485 meters the daily report of conditions on the Boston farmers' produce market, together with the carloads of fruits and vegetables reported at Edgemore, Del., for shipment to Boston. This broadcast will be made daily at 1.30 p. m.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church will omit their meeting next week.

The lawn party of the Lake Shore Park church was held Wednesday afternoon and evening and was well attended. The baby show was the attraction for the afternoon and the judges were Rev. and Mrs. Victor Chicoine of Broadway church and Miss Olive Graves. The following children were awarded prizes: Lawrence Templin, Jacquline Mailhot, Doris Whitten, Raymond Longersia, Jr., Mildred Clark. The grounds were decorated with Japanese lanterns and ice cream, tonic, candy and vegetables were sold. At 5.30 a summer supper was served, consisting of vegetable salad, corn, tomatoes, cucumbers, rolls and pie. At 8 o'clock an entertainment was held in the church vestry with Mrs. Sadie Rainford in charge. A Mother Goose play was given by the children and the characters appeared one by one and centered around Old King Cole. Rev. Ralph Templin gave two fine vocal solos which were well received. Readings were given by talented young Miss Sweet of Lynn. Following a short intermission, a flag drill was given by 12 of the young people of the Sunday school. The program closed with a nursery song by Miss Mildred Jolly.

Dorothy Doyle of South Peabody was the only Peabody child to take part in the playground exhibition at the Salem Common Tuesday. Little Miss Doyle and twenty other children were in a dance entitled "Midsummer Fantasy," a special number on the program.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY
CHARLES H. EGLEE

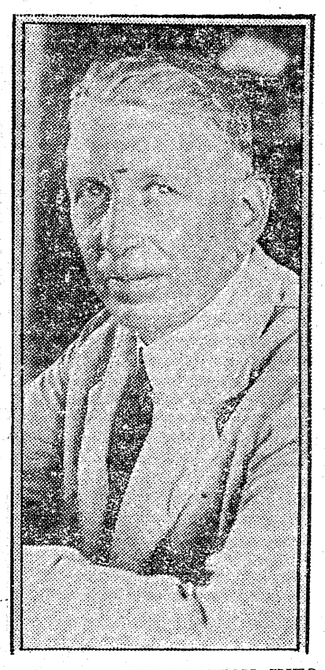
THE GREATEST GOOD FOR THE GREATEST NUMBER

Suppose that a ship carrying one hundred men, women and children was wrecked upon the shore of an island in the middle of the ocean, an island never inhabited until they came. When all the people had been saved from the sea, and knew that they must live together until rescued by some passing ship, what would they do to make their life as comfortable as possible and find the greatest good for the greatest number?

Very naturally each one would do some kind of work. He would work at whatever he thought he could do best. The women would cook and sew and take care of the children. Some men would build huts and houses with any kind of tools they could save from the ship. Some would search the woods for fruit and nuts, others would fish, others hunt the wild game and after a short time each person would find something useful to do in order to produce the greatest good for the greatest number. They would very naturally appoint their best man as a leader to direct and keep in order all these various activities.

Each would be making some sacrifice and enduring some discomfort for the sake of the others. The hunters would tire themselves climbing the hills and wading through the swamps; the cooks would sweat over hot fires that others might eat; the fishermen would face the storms and be wet all day for the benefit of someone else. Every one on that island would cheerfully endure some hardship in order that all might live.

The comfort of the camp would increase from day to day; the conveniences would multiply; life would be easier; there would be more leisure time and the people would become more and more dependent upon each other; no one would be obliged to work so hard. Gradually there would grow a spirit of comfort as everybody felt less of strain and worry because life would not be as hard as it was at the very first.



Now suppose that there was one little crowd of four or five men whose duty it was to cut wood for the cooks and to keep the houses warm. They chose this work themselves and the whole camp of a hundred people depended upon these four or five men for their daily comfort, in fact for their very lives.

Then suppose these four or five men told that camp, "We will not cut any more wood. We don't like fruit and we won't eat fish. We must have meat and we won't work until we get what we want." The leader of the camp naturally would ask what the trouble was and who started it. He could find no one who was responsible. Each man blamed the other fellow, yet the plain fact was no wood was cut and it looked as though the food could not be cooked, or the houses kept warm.

What would happen in that camp of one hundred people about that time? I don't have to tell you. You know very well that the leader of those people would say to those four or five men, "No matter who is to blame, I don't care and the camp doesn't care. You cut wood, or else get out and let some one else cut it, or you will get no food at all." All the people in that camp would back up their leader and the very next day there would be plenty of fuel for everybody.

But one hundred million people do not seem to be able to get hold of such a leader, or to back up such leaders as they have. One hundred millions of people are allowing a few mine owners, mine operators, and mine workers to hold up the whole country while they quarrel among themselves. Who is to blame? No one seems to know, for each is blaming the other fellow. The fact is that coal is not being mined and it looks as though our food will not be cooked or our houses kept warm. It is of no interest to the people of this country at the present time who is to blame. Plenty of time to find out about that bye and bye. Today we must have coal and when some leader comes forward and says we must, he will find that one hundred million people in these United States of America are ready to back him up. We are patient and long suffering. Year after year we have watched this quarrel go on in the coal regions until now the spirit of the people demands that it shall be stopped—that American spirit we talked about last week.

Men who work together must "get together" and work for the greatest good of the greatest number, or, they will find that one hundred million people in this civilized country are not different from one hundred people on a lonely island. Where is our leader? The American people are waiting to back him up.

STARTS INVESTIGATION INTO THE CAUSES OF CANCER

Dr. J. W. morning, August 30th, or the tackers would not go to work. The basis for this demand was given as being due to the increased cost of living and to meet the rates paid in nearby tanneries.

While we have not been able to complete our investigation of the claims made, yet as far as we have gone do not find that they are correct. However, in order to thoroughly investigate the matter, that a fair and just decision might be arrived at, we informed the committee representing the tackers on Wednesday morning, August 30th, that we wished another week in order to thoroughly go into the matter. This decision was not acceptable to the tackers, who then voted to leave their work.

DEMPSEY FANS FOURTEEN

The Hide team of the A. C. L. League won last night from the Cutstock, 7-1, Myron Dempsey having the Cutstock sluggers at his mercy all through the game. He struck out 14 men, boosting his record so that it looks as though he was the chief contender for Mr. White's ten dollar prize to the pitcher fanning the most men for the season Art Jermyn batted well last night, getting three bingles out of four chances. Viles for the Hide and Morreau and Barrett for the Cutstock took the fielding honors.

Tonight the Japan and Sheep teams meet in an important game. The last time these two teams played it was in a downpour of rain, and the excitement was intense all through the game, which the Sheep finally won by a 10-9 score. The Japan hope to win tonight, as a win will mean a tie for first place between the two teams. The Hide will also be in on the tie.

ORDER FOR STATE PRIMARIES

ORDERED:—That meetings of the inhabitants of the City of Peabody, qualified to vote in Primaries, be held in the several ward voting places designated by the City Council, on Tuesday, September 12, 1922 at 5.45 A. M., to give in their votes to the Election Officers for the Nomination of Candidates of Political Parties for the following offices:

Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Treasurer, Auditor of the Commonwealth, Attorney-General, Senator in Congress, Representative in Congress for the Seventh Congressional District, Councillor for the Fifth Councillor District, Senator for the Fourth Senatorial District, Representative in General Court for the Eleventh Essex Representative District, County Commissioner for Essex County, Two Associate County Commissioners for Essex County, District Attorney for Eastern District, Clerk of Courts for Essex County, Register of Deeds for Southern District, Essex County, County Commissioner (to fill vacancy) for Essex County, County Treasurer (to fill vacancy) for Essex County, and for the Election of the following officers:—

District Member of State Committee for each Political Party for Fourth Essex Senatorial District, Members of the Democratic Ward Committees, Members of the Republican Ward Committees, and Delegates to the State Convention of Political Parties.

ORDERED: That the following be and hereby are designated as the polling places for said meetings:

Ward One—Hose House No. Five, Lynn St.
Ward Two—Hose House No. Two, Washington St.
Ward Three—Wallis School, Sewall St.
Ward Four—Endicott School Basement, Tremont St.
Ward Five—High School Basement, Central St.
Ward Six—Police Room, Chestnut St.

And be it further

ORDERED:—That the polls be opened at 5.45 A. M., and closed at 4.15 P. M., and that the City Clerk cause notice to be published as required by law.

Adopted August 24, 1922.

have the G. O. P. label without contest.

An improvised trolley car on a motor truck arrived in Peabody square yesterday afternoon advertising the rally of ex-Governor Foss, who is seeking the Democratic mantle for that office again this fall. His picture and a five-cent fare by public ownership was the outstanding feature. It is a clever campaign ad and "Gene's" backers in Peabody believe the "Old boy" will poll a handsome vote here.

Archie M. Estabrook of Haverhill has been in Peabody several times the past week interviewing Republican voters in the interest of his candidacy for member of the state committee from the senatorial district of which Peabody is a part. He bases his claim for recognition upon his active work for the party for many years, particularly the past four years, during which time he has been chairman of the Republican city committee, resigning when he determined to be a candidate for state committee. He is head of the Estabrook Wood Heel Co. of Haverhill.

LEAVITT—HUTCHINSON

The marriage of Miss Louise Sanger Hutchinson and Raymond Webster Leavitt, both of this city, took place last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ella Barris, 5 Jacobs street. The ceremony was performed by Rev John Reid of the South Congregational church in the company of about 50 guests The bride, an attractive brunette, was gowned in white voile organdie trimmed with embroidered lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. Her attendant, Miss Yvonne Rainville of Salem, wore a dainty dress of pale blue voile organdie and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The house was tastefully decorated with asparagus fern and hydrangeas.

Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt have gone on a short wedding trip and on their return will reside in Lynn.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

The Woman's Relief Corps will hold their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at 2.30. A large attendance is requested. The Corps will visit Mrs. Maria P. Williams at Asbury Grove next Wednesday. Bus will leave at 9.30.

Andrew Elwell of Franklin street is spending the remainder of the summer with relatives in Topsfield.

TREFRY

for

County Commissioner

What the Lynn Item, a strong Republican newspaper, says about county affairs. Editorial, August 4, 1922.

AN ABLE YOUNG MAN

"Citizens and taxpayers of Essex County will do well to favor the candidacy of Raymond H. Trefry for the Republican nomination for county commissioner, for Mr. Trefry is an unusually able young man. His experience in public life as town counsel of his home town, Marblehead, and as senator from his district has proved that he is a young man in whom the public can place much faith.

"Serious minded, studious and energetic, he is at that period of his life when he can attack any problem fearlessly and intelligently. His mind is keyed up to an extremely active pitch and he is physically as well as temperamentally able to tackle the knotty problems of the county at the present moment.

"That these problems are serious to the taxpayers is a fact well known to many public spirited men and organizations who have investigated them. The county faces tremendous expenses, from various causes, notably the palatial county hospital, which would have been unnecessary under proper management. Had the county been served in the past instead of political or personal interests, Mr. Trefry would probably not be in this fight at the present time.

"But the county was not served. "Split" contracts, large expenditures and general inefficiency on the part of the commission have made their appeal to the public spiritedness of a bright young lawyer, and he has taken the field in the face of a strong county ring.

"He has grown up in an atmosphere of public service, and has gained experience in the Legislature. Unfettered, fearless, with no political affiliations or fences, he offers himself as the logical solution of the expensive tangles in which Essex County finds itself."

A Triumph for Value

IN the past two months Firestone has built and marketed more tires than in any similar period in its history.

This steadily increasing public preference is proof of the recognition by car owners of the greater values offered by Firestone. It is a tribute to Firestone men—all stockholders in the company—all actuated by the operating principle of Most Miles per Dollar.

The high average performance of Firestone Cords is without equal in the annals of tire making and is reflected by the general tendency to specify Firestone for hard service. Taxicab and bus lines, buying tires by the mile, are universally equipping with Firestone Cords.

There are many reasons for the high quality of Firestone tires but chief among the special manufacturing processes are double gum-dipping, thus eliminating internal friction by insulating each cord strand, and air-bag cure, insuring a well-balanced and perfectly shaped product.

Don't speculate in tires—you will find the right combination of price and quality in Firestone. Come in and let us tell you about the service these Cords are giving other car-owners whom you know.

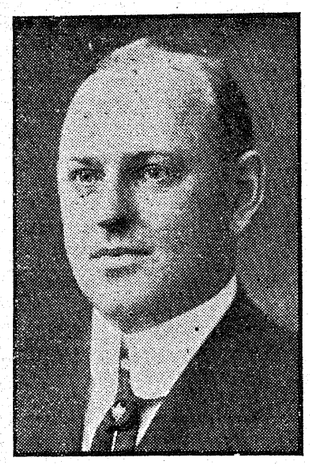
TO ORGANIZE HANDTUB FOR PEABODY

Plans to organize a handtub company to compete with the famous White Angel crew of Salem and the Okos of Marblehead are underway, with a meeting called for next Tuesday evening at Central fire headquarters. Already a membership of 42 has been signed up and a call for at least 60 more men is being made.

The organization will be called the Veteran Firemen's Association, and its principal mission will be to put Peabody into the competitive firemen musters in New England. Both the famous Salem handtub and that of Marblehead have Peabody firemen on their rosters and these would probably gladly join the Peabody organization. For this reason plenty of expert material is available to make the local unit a success from the start.

It is the desire of the backers of the association to enlist prominent Peabody men in the plan and enroll them as members of the proposed unit.



It is years since Peabody had handtub companies to take part in firemen's musters. The old Union, who cleaned up many laurels, and the Torrants are not forgotten by the older firemen, and their records of achievement are still interesting topics of discussion in fire circles whenever some of the "old boys" get their pipes filled on a rainy night.

Mr. and Mrs. James Irving and Mr. and Mrs. William Irving of Margin street enjoyed the week-end and holiday at their camp at Alton Bay, N. H.

POLITICS TOO UNCLEAN SAYS COUNCILLOR JONES

Councillor John A. Jones, who is making his plea for the Democratic nomination for representative on the grounds that he is a working man, told his audience at Aborn and Sutton streets (at Johns store) last night that if elected he did not propose to make his living out of politics and that he should not remain in the legislature. "Politics are not clean enough," he declared. "I've had my experience in the City Council." He did not specify any incident of unclean politics during his three years in the Council. He talked on the old age pension bill, which he said he would favor. Mr. Jones has held a series of rallies and has shaped up like a veteran stump speaker.

Jones has the backing of Councillor Henry Duggan and what is left of the latter's wrecked machine, which is said not to be so much interested in putting Jones over as to defeat Councillor James T. Sullivan, who is conceded by the experts to already have the Democratic nomination. The Duggan opposition has helped to boom the candidacy of Mr. Sullivan.

There is no cleaner young man in Peabody politics than Mr. Jones, and he has many independent friends who would like to see him come through. If he is defeated much of the blame may be laid to his counsellors, who have seen their political interests crushed in the last two elections. Rep. McVann gave Mr. Duggan a terrible beating two years ago. Last year Duggan showed his strength much on

RUSSELLS IN AUTO MISHAP

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O. Russell of Sutton street narrowly escaped serious injury when their Ford sedan turned turtle some miles outside of Portsmouth, N. H., last Monday, when they were returning home from a week's tour of the White Mountains. In some unaccountable manner the steering gear failed to work and a bad rut in the road caused their car to go over an embankment, pinning Mrs. Russell, who was driving, under the wheel.

It required the assistance of several people to extricate her and right the car. No glass was broken and the machine was but slightly damaged. The couple returned to Peabody in the auto after a few minor repairs. Neither was injured.

NEW HOME OF THE PEABODY ENTERPRISE ON FOSTER ST.

Work of completing the new home of the Peabody Enterprise and Peabody Press Co. is likely now to see the new building occupied by Sept. 15. The brick building is 30 by 80 feet and it has been constructed so as to permit of an additional story and also for more floor space on the land purchased. The new plant is modelled after the newest printing plants in this district, permitting of much light. The new building has been necessary to handle the increased volume of business. A Huber press which will permit of a seven or eight-column newspaper is to be installed at the plant next week, having already been shipped to Peabody.

CITY HALL NOTES

City Engineer Frank Emerson just back from his vacation declares that he has never been opposed to employes of the pumping station receiving vacations. Failure on the part of Engineer Patrick Conroy to make request for the vacation is alone responsible for the fact that none of the employes had taken their two weeks' rest. City Engineer Emerson knows what the state law governing the matter of substitute help is probably as well as anyone, and he has refused to be caught napping. Engineer Conroy doesn't like Mr. Emerson, but that's no excuse for him not making the proper request for the vacation in the regular way. The employes have only their chief to blame. There ought to have been enough spare time in his full eight hours for Mr. Conroy to have made the proper request weeks ago.

Miss Annie Driscoll, stenographer in the assessors' office, goes on her annual vacation of two weeks next Monday.

* * *

City Collector Michael J. Sherry has been on the stump for Col. Gaston this week in Boston. He is an able speaker.

* * *

Charles Carr, a former permanent fireman in the Plymouth department, has asked the Enterprise to remember him to Chief Jesse Barrett, who, recently back from his coast to coast trip, is still talking about the national fire chiefs' convention.

* * *

William H. O'Connell has appealed from the decision of City Engineer Frank Emerson relative to his being found guilty of neglect as a fireman at the pumping station. The case will be tried before Judge Manning, the date being postponed by agreement of the lawyers for both parties.

* * *

Never have the Peabody ponds been in better condition for the winter than this year. With the expected increase in the leather business, the receipts of the city will no doubt show a large increase.

* * *

Many local automobile drivers claim the white posts newly placed at the junction of Andover and Prospect streets are liable to be run into because of the limited room. If placed on the western corner nearer Mt. Pleasant there would be less room for comment.

* * *

Sending out the tax bills early brings in considerable money. Thus interest is saved and again all have plenty of time to get adjustments where necessary.

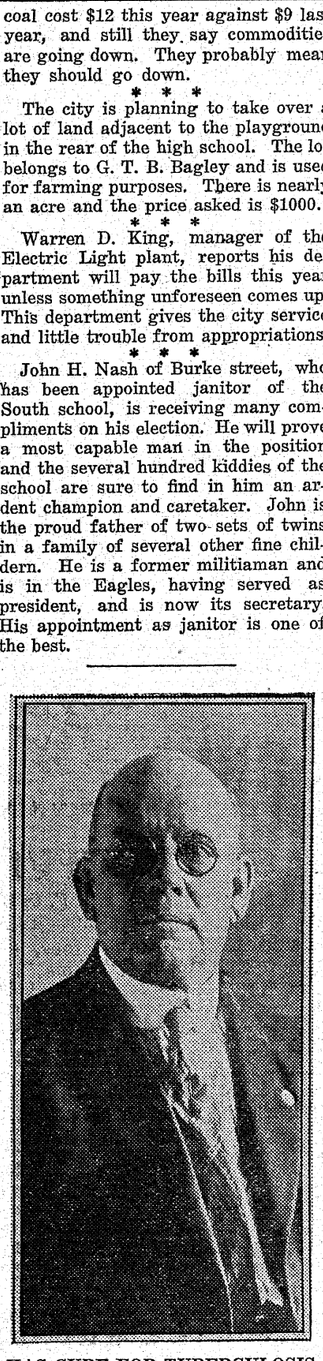
The cell room at the police station presents a conglomeration of hootch, sugar, raisins and prunes, enough to start an old fashion grocery store. Still the work goes on, and offenders pay their fines. A government truck takes away a load frequently or room there would be scarce.

* * *

City Hall has 77 tons of coal in the bins, needing some 30 tons more to complete the winter. There is not room to store the whole amount. This coal cost $12 this year against $9 last year, and still they say commodities are going down. They probably mean they should go down.

* * *

The city is planning to take over a lot of land adjacent to the playground in the rear of the high school. The lot belongs to G. T. B. Bagley and is used for farming purposes. There is nearly an acre and the price asked is $1000.



* * *

Warren D. King, manager of the Electric Light plant, reports his department will pay the bills this year unless something unforeseen comes up. This department gives the city service and little trouble from appropriations.

* * *

John H. Nash of Burke street, who has been appointed janitor of the South school, is receiving many compliments on his election. He will prove a most capable man in the position and the several hundred kiddies of the school are sure to find in him an ardent champion and caretaker. John is the proud father of two sets of twins in a family of several other fine children. He is a former militiaman and is in the Eagles, having served as president, and is now its secretary. His appointment as janitor is one of the best.

FUEL DON'TS

"1. Don't burn a pound of anthracite this month, or next month, or October.

"2. Cook and heat water for your household with a kerosene stove or gas stove.

"3. Buy a portable kerosene heater. It is handy. It is cheap. It can easily be moved from room to room during the chilly autumn mornings. It will save coal; it will save money. It will perhaps keep you out of a coal line next winter. If you live in a city and prefer a gas stove, buy that. At any rate, it is up to you to help and the coal you can get along without will keep either your family or some other family warm next winter.

"4. Get some soft coal immediately. You need not burn much of it now, but burn some now, enough to get acquainted with it. We don't want a lot of wild-eyed people rushing around the first really cold day next winter, saying they can't get soft coal or they can't keep their families from freezing with the soft coal they have. Maybe they won't be able to keep them from freezing unless they have taken time by the forelock and learn how to burn it now.

"5. Get your kerosene stove or your gas stove Monday morning. Get your kerosene heater or your gas heater Monday morning. Get your soft coal Monday morning.

"6. Don't blame anyone, and especially please don't blame me next December if you choose to disregard this advice now and burn any anthracite you have on hand now and find yourself in a wild rush for stoves and heaters and soft coal next December.

"Kerosene can be bought anywhere in the state. Kerosene stoves and heaters can be bought today at any hardware or probably at any house furnishing store or general country store in the state. Gas stoves can be bought in any city where there is a gas company."

HAMELIN BANKS ON HIS RECORD

Fred J. Hamelin, candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of district attorney of Essex County, made a fine impression by his straight-from-the-shoulder talk at an open-air rally in this city on Wednesday night. Hamelin's flying squadron, consisting of 15 machines, buglers, drummers, singers, red fire and all the paraphernalia to make a red hot political fight, gave the people the impression that he is certainly a real fighting candidate.

In his talk before the Peabody voters Hamelin asserted that he was in the fight to the finish and that none other but the Essex County machine men knew of it. "They are doing all in their power to defeat me for my stand against them. They are using all means to kill me with the voters, but I will go through the county and fight the ring which now controls the district attorney's office and when elected on Sept. 12, I say elected, for the nomination is comparatively the election, the door to my office will be open to the most humble. The door to my office will not be open only to a chosen few, as such is the case now," in vociferous tones candidate Hamelin condemned the working of the Essex County machine.

Hamelin, who is a councillor in the city of Lynn, holding that office for the past five years, appealed to the voters of Peabody for their support.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gonyea, Miss Mary Devaney and Fred Young of this city and Samuel Gonyea of Salem spent the week-end and holiday with Mr. Gonyea's parents on their farm in Weathersfield, Vt.

Alonzo Kimball, manager of the A. H. Whidden store, with his wife and son have returned from their summer home at Alton Bay, N. H.

Mrs. Elizabeth McLaughlin and Mrs. Lena Kyle entertained about 25 members of Leo Guild and friends at their summer home at Baker's Island last Friday. They visited the lighthouse and enjoyed luncheon on the lawn surrounding the McLaughlin summer home, served cafeteria style. The party returned on the 7 o'clock boat after a delightful day's outing.

John Fitzpatrick and Lionel Keith of the Warren National bank are on an auto tour of the White Mountains during their annual vacation.

CONNERY MEETS CANDIDATE KANE ON RALLY STUMP

William P. Connery, Jr., candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress from the seventh district, will speak in Peabody tomorrow (Saturday) night in one of his last rallies before primary day next Tuesday, and will also appear Monday night in Peabody. Mr. Connery has been campaigning strenuously through the district and in his opponent's territory, Lawrence, has made a big hit.

Wednesday night Mr. Connery and John P. Kane, the other Democratic candidate, met on the same platform, both receiving an ovation. Mr. Kane referred to his hearing Mr. Connery speak in Peabody a week ago, complimenting the Lynn man on the clean manner in which he has conducted his campaign.

Michael J. Sherry will preside at the Peabody meetings Saturday and Monday nights. Mr. Sherry has been very active in the Connery campaign since the start. The Connery singers will be with the speakers and introduce their new campaign song.

SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of Leo Guild will be held next Monday evening in K. of C. hall at 8 o'clock, to make arrangements for "Presidents' Night" to be held on September 18. All members are requested to attend.

Mrs. Maria Williams has closed her summer camp at Asbury Grove and returned to her home on State street.

Miss Anna V. Carlin spent the week-end at Old Orchard Beach, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hall enjoyed a week-end trip to Alton Bay, N. H.

Sen. Trefry Is Hot on Trail Of Grosvenor

Senator Raymond H. Trefry of Marblehead, speaking in his campaign for county commissioner at Amesbury and Newburyport, this week, challenged John M. Grosvenor, candidate for renomination, to answer a series of questions.

"The rapidly mounting costs of county government in Esesx County and the tremendous debt which has been saddled upon the county by the unbridled capacity for expenditure of county funds by the county commissioners has ficused the attention of many citizens upon what is usually an obscure office. It is the obscurity of the office which give to the county ring its security. They find their strength only in a lack of public interest.

"It is not impossible for the people to cahnge their county officers if they will be deaf to the appeal of county employes and the favored contractors who serve the county commissioners at the present time. Every county employe, so far as I can determine, has had forced in his hand a nomination paper of Mr. Grosvenor to circulate and janitors and jail keepers are now engaged in a wild rampage to coral votes for the present incumbent. I tell the county employes that they are supposed to work for, and are are paid by the county itself, and that they are not the personal employes of Mr. Grosvenor. They are paid for the work which they do, not for being the minute parts of a personal political machine. It is for the people, and not for them to say who shall be the officials who directly supervise them. I tell them simply to attend to their work and no man who does his work well need fear anything from a change in the county administration.

"Mr. Grosvenor has issued a pamphlet which he calls "Facts You Ought to Know About Essex County.' It is a campaign document. He speaks about experience being necessary to hold the office of county commissioner to such an extent that I wonder that he had the temerity to offer himself as a candidate for the first time. He speaks of knowledge being necessary in the financing of large projects. Does he call the Tuberculosis hospital a large project? And I ask him now why the county commissioners contracted for and built a hospital twice as large as the 1916 law called for?

"Why did they build a hospital for 208 beds when a hospital for 100 beds would have been sufficient and was all that the law called for?

Leather Reporter Defends Shoe Jobbing Traders As Benefit To Big Industry

(By ENERGY)

The wholesaler or middleman has come into the limelight and the Shoe and Leather Reporter in a editorial this week says: "There is less talk these days of the elimination of the middleman. It is becoming better understood that the wholesaler is a beneficient economic force. He stands between the manufacturer and the retailer and performs a useful function in the distribution of the necessary commodities. Manufacturing tends to become centralized so that in our country of magnificent distances the wholesaler is the intermediary between the neighborhood dealer and the far away manufacturer. Curiously enough the middleman popularly supposed to be an evil is now seen to be a measure of safety between the congested manufacturing districts and the ultimate consumer.

"This is particularly true of shoes which cannot be handled in bulk like canned or package goods. Shoes must be fitted to feet and the retailer has plenty to occupy his time in properly serving his home town clientage. The wholesaler is close to his custoemrs and has a sympathetic comprehension of their problems and difficulties. One of the healthy signs of the times is the return of many hundreds of retail shoe dealers to the old and tried system of moving goods from the wholesaler to the retailer and the retailer to the consumer. This is the logical sequence. The wholesaler buys great quantities of shoes in advance. He understands the requirements of the trade and may be depended upon to have on hand just the styles and qualities the public demands. In these post war times the wholesaler is to the retailer a very present help in trouble."

I have always contended that the middleman was not needed. I am not going to take back water in the leather and shoe industry, for that is as far as I dare to journey in the discussion. The middleman is an extra overhead expense. In the days of small factories perhaps shoe jobbers, commission houses to sell leather, both were factors. Shoe jobbers today are no doubt a factor. Leather commission houses not a factor. Both either took money from the consignee or the purchaser in order to live. Both added to the cost of production and the consumer paid the bills. It may be handy for the small retailer of shoes to be able to purchase them of a jobber and perhaps it would be the best way in many cases. But the only point I raise is that leather and shoes cost less money without the middleman, and it has been shown conclusively that he is not an essential part of the mechanism of producing shoes.

In the leather business years back most of the more successful concerns sold their output from the factory, or if large enough from a Boston or New York store. The point might be raised that unsalable stuff cannot be cleaned up without putting much time into it. Therefore the odds and ends would be better cared for by the middleman. From all I can glean most so-called salesmen pat themselves on the back when they sell the cream, leaving the skimmed material to sour. One of the best salesmen in the leather business puts his time on the skimmed variety for he says the best leather will sell itself.

The shoe jobber has been an institution since the shoe business became large enough to have him. He sold practically all the shoes. Then time with its changes started the idea of shoe manufacturers selling their own output by means of retail stores. These stores have spread so that today every city and some towns have shoes to purchase from the factory to the consumer. The tendency is away from the middleman as being an antiquated institution, and whether Father Time will turn us backward or see that corners are cut to lessen costs of production remains to be seen.

My only point in this discussion is cost. Overhead in many leather factories is eating the very vitals of the business. Turning to another leather and shoe concern, the overhead is at least one-quarter less. Something is wrong. So with the middleman. Very handy as is the fifth wheel to that automobile. The other four wheels if right do the trick.

The 1919 report of the U. S. census bureau gives Peabody a large increased production over all former years. Remembering the high prices of everything that went into the finishing of leather it might be misleading. What Peabody could produce in the number of skins would give a far better idea of what is what than figures in the millions, which mean Greek to the ordinary reader. It sounds well to say $50,000,000 was the worth of the leather produced in Peabody in 1919. Some rainy Thursday I will attempt to figure up the number of nails used in tacking lofts, and by so doing I should be able to get the number of skins which were perforated. But one thing is sure. We are not going to rot. We are manufacturing leather which must appeal to the shoe manufacturer, for there has been but one case on record when manufacturers of shoes purchased leather they did not want and that was during the war. Those were happy days for the tanner. But since then——?

Sole leather and offal markets continue strong, says the Shoe and Leather Reporter. Following the clean-up of packer hides during the latter part of the week a stronger undertone was noted in finished leather. Belting butts continue strong although less active. Offal while not as brisk continues to be shipped in a fair sized way. Upper leather trading shows no unusual signs of improvement. Side leather tanners are holding firm following reaction of hide prices. Plump weight calf while less active than during previous weeks, is moving in a good sized way against previously booked orders. Some quarters report more activity in light selections from the women's shoe producing centers. Patent leather steady to strong, with some export shipments being made right along.

Officer Clark Forced to Give Up His Patrol

Frank J. Clark, reserve policeman, who has been doing evening patrol work on Lowell and other streets, has requested Chief Grady to relieve him of his duties on October 15, and Reserve Officer Daniel Coakley will be assigned to that beat at that time. Clark went onto the beat in April, 1921, succeeding Timothy Dullea, also of the reserve force, and he has made a good man on the job. He passed the civil service examination for appointment as a reserve police in February, 1921, and was quickly slated for evening work. He is employed as a chauffeur at the Hunt-Rankin Co. factory, and makes a daily trip to Boston, returning early in the evening. He is married and the proud father of three children. At the age of 26 he is the youngest reserve officer on the local force. He is an old militia man, having served as sergeant in Battery D at the Mexican border in 1916. He tried to remain with his battery in the World's war, but the fact that he was married barred him. Clark shapes up as regular police timber. He will probably be called on for Sunday and extra police duty. His home is on Caller street. He is a brother of William Clark, who as chief gunner fired the first American shot that sunk a German submarine in the World's war.

POLITICAL CANDIDATES

Politics has come into its own, and each night from now on, the voters will be told by the candidates that a vote for them will mean everything to their being. Candidates for United States, Governor and other state offices have been heard so early in the campaign. All have their way of presenting claims for votes, and but one can be chosen. Voters will have ample opportunity to get the facts as presented, and it should be a good education for their choice on election day. Locally the AttorneyGeneral contest attracts most attention. District-Attorney S. Howard Donnell is making his presence felt throughout the state, and if publicity counts, he will lead his competitors in the primaries, which means election in the finals. This week the voters of Essex County will have a chance to hear Candidate Donnell, backed by other able spellbinders. That he will carry Essex County by a large majority is assured. His competitors appear to be floundering around the political circle, all claiming only they are competent to carry on the duties of the Attorney-General's office. We are in no position to get the inside of what is being accomplished by all interested. From all we can glean the efforts of several candidates are confined to speeches, with little organization. As organization will count and as Howard Donnell has been a past master in this line of politics, we believe he will lead the field. The local fight for Representative to the General Court is becoming interesting. For the Democratic nomination Councillors Sullivan and Jones are busy showing the voters their qualifications. Representative McVann with no opposition for the Republican nomination has only to wait for the finals. Whoever wins the Democratic nomination will have a merry battle to win, and we make no prediction as to the outcome. We will add, however, that all appear qualified to represent us in the next Legislature.

THE FUEL SITUATION

The fuel situation is problematical. Fuel Administrator Storrow warns all to be careful and conserve fuel to the limit. In Peabody near the sea coast we may be fortunate enough to get some of the coal shipped from England and the amount from that country will be a factor. We of New England have enjoyed anthracite coal for our homes many years. We have accepted the privilege of burning this coal as a matter of fact. England has always burned semi-bituminous coal because it was practically the only coal obtainable. Many sections of this country have little anthracite coal and have depended on bituminous coal and wood to keep comfortable. Massachusetts having been fed with the cream of coals naturally looks on other ways of heating as being a burden. We may not get the hard coal in sufficient quantities to supply all. We may not get enough soft coal. The chances, however, favor Peabody, for with a fuel administrator of the calibre of Frank H. Sanger, it seems to us every way will be devised to get results. Again, oils for heating are common in many communities. When devices appear within the reach of the ordinary man's pocketbook, and they will appear particularly at this time when the want for them is so pronounced, all will be well. We do not know the situation in the factories. A few cases have however come to our attention which lead us to believe all will be taken care of, which means continued employment for the laboring man. Should the shortage be so acute as to throw many out of employment it would be serious. We predict with proper care by consumers, that Peabody will be cared for in fuel this winter, while probabilities and possibilities might make the situation appear otherwise.

LABOR DAY

Another Labor Day has passed and vacationists are coming home to take up their duties for the winter. Labor Day has a double significance in as much as it represents the day of days for labor, and as all labor, it means practically all except this day as their own. Then it also marks the end of the vacation season. A large majority of summer hotels plan to close after this date. Our public schools open after Labor Day. So this day is the transformation from summer with its pleasures to winter with Jack Frost in its element. Our New England climate is such that the radical change from heat to cold changes our mode of living, and Labor Day is the turnstile for this change. It ranks with Fourth of July and Christmas as being the three big holidays of the year.

Almost All.

A little girl had spent the whole morning at the zoo with her father and read all the notices and placards very carefully. As they passed the turnstile to return home the father said: "Well, I think we have seen everything, don't you, dear?" "Everything but the pickpockets they talk about," she replied.

ROUND ABOUT

We note the Mayor has given orders to have policemen watch the traffic posts. There are many drivers of automobiles on the road who care little for the comfort of others just so long as they can appropriate the streets for their pleasure. It must be a careless driver who runs into a traffic post as well lighted as are the new ones at Peabody square and the junction of Andover and Prospect streets. A fine may suffice to stop further damage to these posts, but with the service they render to protect lives, they should not be molested by careless, blind or otherwise incompetent autoists.

Many more stills were stilled this week, but still many are not still and continue to produce "the poison of the gods." What a thirst to drink this stuff, but many will do it. Whoever makes those contrivances has a business which makes him work hard to keep pace with the police.

Elliot L. Macdonald and party returned from the Commodore Club Tuesday. This spot is pronounced the last word for an outing, with fishing and gunning at the front door. A lake 10 miles long and three miles wide allows for motor-boating.

* * *

Earl Jacobs claims our district-attorney plays politics in his office. Friend Jacobs says Howard won his election by those methods of knocking his opponents, so what works once might work again. Our idea is, however, that abuse of opponents gets one but little.

* * *

Now that Labor Day has passed, interest in baseball will slacken and soon football will have the call. Local fans have had a strenuous year to attend all the ball games locally, and particularly the A. C. Lawrence League has been most interesting. There are many promising ball players here and no doubt many will land later in faster company.

* * *

Policemen should keep a better eye on cars not properly lighted. We say this as a reminder that in other cities traffic rules are lived up to by close attention of the police. The new rule of not cutting in, which is somewhat foggy as to what cutting in means, will be or is being followed by the police of Salem, and Peabody may follow suit later. A correct interpretation of what is meant by cutting in means in plain English would help matters.

Jack Devaney, who assumes charge of the bowling alleys, should make good in his new position, if acquaintance with customers counts. The bowling alleys attracts the sports in winter, and continues to be the main winter attraction in this line.

The primaries will be held Tuesday of next week. Then all have a chance to declare themselves Democrats, Republicans or Prohibitionists. At the finals vote as you darn please.

DONNELL DESERVES SUPPORT

District Attorney Donnell of Essex County, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, after completing a second tour of the entire state, returned home more assured of success and victory in the primaries next Tuesday when he was before making the trip.

District Attorney Donnell has been appealing to the employers and employes for their support in the primaries on his record as a public official. He served in several offices in the town of Peabody and was honored at being elected as its first Mayor and was then honored by election to the office of county prosecutor.

As Mayor of Peabody, he succeeded in reducing the tax rate and as district attorney has succeeded in reducing the crowded docket to such an extent that he has been commended several times by presiding justices of the criminal court.

He has been campaigning since July 10th and because of his progressive platform has been offered the support of several Republican city and town committees. While he has been attacking the public records of his opponents he has had nothing to say of a personal nature. He has been asking his opponents, who has served in the legislature, as to their records in the interest of the people. He has asked Jay R. Benton if he could better represent the insurance interest than the people and has been asking former Senator James F. Cavanagh to explain his speculation in stock of the Boston Elevated Railway, while the Public Control Act was pending.

District Attorney Donnell asks former Senator James F. Cavanagh why he speculated in the stock, using the funds of several hundred poor people who had invested their deposits in the closed Fidelity Trust Company. Former Senator Cavanage has also been asked to explain why he desired to conceal the fact that he was dealing in the stock and using the trade names "X Y" and "X Y Z."

District Attorney Donnell has advanced a program of progressive legislation which would protect the people in a crisis like the present coal situation and would prevent profiteers from demanding unjust profits. He would have the legislature enact a law to jail profiteers. He says the present laws to protect the people are farcical and has quoted Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life, "that the present law is inadequate."

District Attorney Donnell also asks that laws be enacted to protect investors in savings banks from dishonest bank officials and also asks for an amendment to the Blue Sky Law to protect the investors over unscrupulous stock salesmen.

The attorneys of Essex County have endorsed District Attorney Donnell for the chief law officer of the state because of his fearless presentation of cases brought in the superior court and they feel that if elected, District Attorney Donnell will serve as attorney general as fearlessly as he has in his county office.

Prepare for the Child's Future by purchasing shares in our new 70th Series. A Cooperative Bank account is an excellent form of endowment insurance.

Peabody Cooperative Bank shares are a parents' protection.

Five shares subscribed for meaning a saving of one dollar and twenty-five cents a week will amount to $1000 in about twelve years. An amount which will give the child great help toward a technical, professional or college training.

TOM MEIGHAN AT STRAND TODAY

The combined talents of the famed American humorist, George Ade, and Thomas Meighan, the film star, and the assistance of a capable supporting cast, have resulted in an unusually entertaining photoplay entitled "Our Leading Citizen," which will head the big program the Strand will offer for today and Saturday.

It is the story of a young lawyer in a small town, who is devoted to fishing and who, at the outbreak of the World war, enlists and returns a hero. While in the service in France he meets a girl from his home town doing Red Cross work. She returns with reports of his bravery and paves the way for a monster reception in his honor. His modesty prompts him to go fishing instead of being at the reception, but finally he is caught and properly received by the populace. He is groomed for congress, but refuses to agree to certain corrupt demands and learning, as he believes, that the girl he admires has urged him to run to further her brother's ends, disappears from the town. Later the true facts of the case are presented to him and he goes into the fight to win. He manages to win out after a great fight. It is wholesome, clean, amusing, with a dash of thrill and a charming love interest. Mr. Meighan is supported by Theodore Roberts, Lois Wilson and Charles Ogle. A Century comedy with the Century Kids and Harry Myers in "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe" will be the other features on the bill for today.

Elaine Hammerstein in "The Way of a Maid" will head the double feature bill for Sunday evening. Miss Hammerstein is supported by Niles Welch. Davis Butler in "The Milky Way" will be the second feature for Sunday evening. The Strand's Sunday programs have been running very good and this bill rather boosts the average.

Ethel Clayton in "For the Defense" will be the main attraction on the double bill for next Monday and Tuesday. Miss Clayton is a great favorite with all women, probably because she is a perfect type of American womanhood. Her sincere acting has won her a host of friends here in Peabody who will enjoy seeing her as the falsely accused criminal. Miss Clayton's story concerns a concert singer who falls into the clutches of a Hindu mystic. Illness had caused her to lose her voice and she is induced to try the Hindu for a cure. While going to see the fakir her voice naturally comes back, but she believes the return was caused by supernatural power. After a chain of melodramatic events she is accused of his murder. In support of the star are to be seen a host of Paramount favorites, including Vernon Steele, Maym Kelso, Bertram Grassby, Zasu Pitts and Sylvia Ashton.

Eugene O'Brien in "The Prophet's Paradise" will also be shown next Monday and Tuesday.

Catherine Reese

Catherine Reese is a new "movie" star who recently made her bow to the American motion picture public in a prominent production. Miss Reese's blonde beauty and sympathetic portrayal are gaining for her a warm place in the hearts of thousands who see her daily.

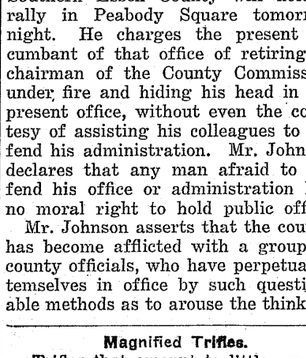
JOHNSON MAKING BIG EIGHT IN REGISTER OF DEEDS CONTEST

Charles Cabot Johnson, of Nahant and candidate for the Republican nomination for Register of Deeds of Southern Essex County will hold a rally in Peabody Square tomorrow night. He charges the present incumbant of that office of retiring as chairman of the County Commission under fire and hiding his head in the present office, without even the courtesy of assisting his colleagues to defend his administration. Mr. Johnson declares that any man afraid to defend his office or administration has no moral right to hold public office.

Mr. Johnson asserts that the county has become afflicted with a group of county officials, who have perpetuated temselves in office by such questionable methods as to arouse the thinking people to demand a change. He believes that the best remedy for effecting the necessary change in county control is to retire the present Register of Deeds from office. His opponent, he characterized as a leader of the dominating county machine who, when clouds of suspicion came his way, successfully evaded the issue, by having himself removed to his present office.

Mr. Johnson quoted his 19 years' experience as Treasurer of Nahant, two years as State Senator, three years as State Representative and a score of years as a successful real estate conveyancer, operator and kindred lines as making him eminently fitted for Register of Deeds.

Gloucester Friday, Salem, Beverly and Peabody Saturday.



Magnified Trifles.

Trifles that amount to little are too frequently magnified and those which really should receive attention are ignored. This is because too many men and women lack ability properly to estimate the value of things. Ability to appraise is at a premium nowadays.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY CHARLES H. EGLEE

THE SUMMER OF 1922

What have we decided during the industrial warfare of the summer of 1922? The country has been disturbed, the prosperity which was ready to our hand has been set back, wages have been stopped and there has been much suffering. In fact, we have been enduring a kind of civil war in which lives have been lost and property destroyed. These lives can never be returned to us; their value to the nation can never be recovered. The property can be replaced and will be, but that means you and I and everybody will have to pay for that destruction because it will be added to the cost of our living. Part of the capital of the nation has been used up, capital that was useful to us all. As it is replaced, the great public of which you and I are a small part will pay the bill.

If all this loss of money, property and lives has accomplished some useful purpose we should not regret it, but what did it accomplish and what great question was decided by this warfare? We were trying to decide how to establish a just scale of wages for working men and women and just profits for the managers and owners of property used to produce something the people needed and for which they had the money to pay. Did we do it? We certainly did not. We stopped people's wages so they didn't have money with which to pay for what they needed, and we stopped production so that owners of property could not get any profits at all. Surely this was a most foolish waste and a most foolish method to be used in a nation which prides itself upon being the foremost nation in the world.

In our coal mining the difficulties have been known for years and years. We know that the mines only work a little more than 200 days in a year, and yet we allow wages to be paid for 200 days that support a man and his family for a whole year. Very poor support, it is true, but enough to attract men to the job. We allow profits to be made in these 200 working days sufficient to cover the investment for a whole year. Worse than all, we allow the owners and workers to fight until over $1,000,000,000 of the peoples' money is wasted and the people pay as much for coal as they did before the trouble began, and perhaps more. Perhaps some of us may go without. Certainly this would seem a strange way of deciding what a fair wage and a fair profit ought to be.

In the railroad and textile troubles we are no nearer a decision. Homes have been broken up and families moved from place to place. Old friends and associations lost to many people. Bitter feelings stirred in many hearts. Positions that were honorable and respectable have been lost. All this in addition to many losses, and to what good? Who has gained any comfort or happiness or easier living? No neo. No one but those who are glad to see strife and loss and trouble and pain.

And we have learned that it is not necessary to learn the truth. We are, all of us, blaming the other fellow. Blaming the government, or the unionist, or the capitalist, any and every one we can lay our hands on. Allowing the Red and the Radical and the Reactionary to do our thinking for us. We'll wake up to this one fine day and when that day arrives then we'll demand the Truth. Today we don't want the Truth. We only want some one we can blame for this trouble.

Yet there are one or two great lessons learned in this summer of 1922. All the people are learning them. The lessons of "the better way." First, that no combination of capitalists, or of working people, or of agitators, is stronger than the Government of the United States of America. We have learned this at a little cost.

Next we have learned that the people have their eyes opened to the cost of things and that this cost can be lessened by a greater production of things. The public is perfectly willing that labor and capital shall each have good wages and good profits, if, by working together they can produce things to sell at a reasonable price. We have learned that this can and must be done. Not by limiting production,—shortening hours,—boosting wages,—profiteering,—but, by getting together,—perfecting methods,—improving quality,—inventing machinery,—stopping waste. In other words, by co-operating instead of foolishly using up both labor and capital in a struggle that always increases the general costs of our living.

The people have learned this. The public is very patient, but will surely show its power when it finds it is being abused. It is beginning to demand a just and wise co-operation in industry. It will have a Sqare Deal. The public has learned quite a lot this summer of 1922.

ARE YOU A JOINER?

Of course a "Joiner" is one who joins, but the term usually applies to the man who rushes to become a member of any organization he hears of. There are persons who would sooner become a member of a new society than receive a legacy from an uncle. After joining all the mystic, ancient, and honorable orders they sigh for new directions in which to indulge their fancy. If they wore all the insigna to which they are entitled they would look like a Christmas tree with the lights turned on.

You can't always tell by observing an ordinary citizen that when the cares of business are set aside he becomes a pusiant potentiate of the petrified gridiron, and is entitled to wear enough gold lace and regalia to make the Sultan of Grossfat pale with envy. difficulty in forcing him to wear a necktie who prances around the lodge room floor dressed like a Chinese man. We know a man whose wife has great darin, with a three-eyed peacock feather.

There is such a thing as being tied up so tight with obligations that one hesitates to make a gesture or draw his breath for fear he will throw a sign or let slip a pass word.

One of life's great mystehies is why a fat man should be insanely anxious to ride the goat, but we can understand why a bald man is eager to be exalted to an office that enables him to wear his hat all the time. We have known individuals whose deportment was greatly improved after joining the lodge. In six months' time they learned how to walk across a floor without getting their swords tangled with their legs.

It is one of life's little ironies that after a fellow has listened to a long lecture delivered in high flown language by the Exalted Senior Mogul that his wife pounces upon him when he gets home and reads him a less ornate, but much more emphatic ritual. —Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Thought Opals Lucky.

Queen Victoria was not superstitious about opals. In striking contrast to her unfortunate contemporary, the Empress Eugenie of France, who had a deep-rooted fear of them, Victoria thought them to be both beautiful and lucky and had a parure of opals and diamonds made for each of her daughters as a wedding gift.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
Essex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law and all other persons interested in the estate of MICHAEL COLLINS, late of Peabody, in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, MICHAEL F. COLLINS, administrator of the estate not already administered of said deceased, has presented to said Court his petition for license to sell at private sale in accordance with the offer named in said petition, or upon such terms as may be adjudged best, the whole of certain parcels of the real estate of said deceased for the payment of debts and charges of administration, and for other reasons set forth in said petition.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Newburyport in said County, on the twenty-fifth day of September, A. D. 1922, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper published in Peabody, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this sixth day of September, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

A BUSINESS PERSON'S HAND

AS SHREWDNESS and caution are necessary to the business man or woman, in order to help in success, the line of life and the line of the head should be joined above the thumb. The line of the head must be strong, as brain power is required in great measure in struggling for success in business. Therefore, the line of the head should be clear and well-marked, and should extend right across the hand.

Of course, good fortune is necessary in business, and this is indicated by a strong line of fortune having its rise in the line of life and running toward or into the finger of Mercury, or little finger. If, in addition, there is a strong, short line on the mount of Mercury, it is also a very good sign of fortune in business.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"BOARD"

THE resources of a language for the expression of thought are frequently increased by attributing to the same word a number of different meanings. Thus we have "post"—from the Latin pono, "I place"—showing up in such words as "postage," "post-haste," "post-office" and the like, while "head" and "court" are others of the same type. But, of all these, the most interesting is "board," originally connected with "broad" and applied to that form of timber which is characterized by its breadth rather than its thickness.

Several boards manifestly go to make up a table but, in the old days, a single plank, rather flimsily supported, was sufficient for this purpose. We, therefore, have the use of the word in the sense of the table itself—the "festive board"—and also the meals, "board and lodging." The significance of the table is also apparent in the use of the word in such titles as Board of Trade, Board of Commerce and the like—all of these bodies meeting around or sitting beside a table. Again, "board" is specifically used to denote the plank covering of a vessel, and in this sense, gives rise to a new group of phrases, of which "aboard" and "above-board" are typical. The paper-maker, too, has his technical uses for the term. To him it signifies the stiffest and thickest—the most board-like—of his products, and "cardboard" is the result.

INTERNATIONAL GLIDER MEET IN FRANCE

Clement de Sardier noted French aviator taking off in his triplane glider, at the recent International Gliding meet, held at Clermont-Ferrand, France, in which he remained in the air for 80 seconds. De Sardier's plane was the only triplane contesting and was a feature of the meet.

American Legion

The American Legion Auxiliary held the first meeting of the fall season on last Tuesday evening. The meeting was a record breaker, both for attendance and enthusiasm. The delegates to the annual state convention to be held at Boston from Sept. 19 to 21st were elected as follows: Mrs. Helen Bomer, Miss Catherine Sullivan; alternates, Mrs. Katherine Cassidy, Mrs. Teresa Broderick.

Plans were formulated for a bazaar to be held in Legion hall on Dec. 12. The committee is starting earlier than usual, as it is the intention to make this affair radically different from anything that has ever been held in this city. There is to be a fancy work booth, tea room, fortune teller, and several novel features that will be in the nature of a surprise and will not be announced. Each member who attended the meeting of last Tuesday pledged herself to give some article of her own handiwork for the fancy work booth. Some of the articles promised are a hand-knitted sweater, bed spread, luncheon set, embroidered towels, sofa pillows and aprons. It is hoped that the members who could not attend the last meeting will plan to donate in the same manner.

While there were not very many calls for the welfare fund during the summer, the committee are just beginning to get reports from the various hospitals and requests for various articles that are needed by the boys.

During the summer the Essex County branch of the Auxiliary held a picnic for disabled boys at Centennial Grove. Six of the Peabody members attended this picnic and helped to care for the boys. They saw, as never before, the wonderful work that is being accomplished in the institutions and hospitals, and also the crying need that still exists for help and personal contact with normal persons, who will help to bring the disordered minds and maimed bodies back as far as possible. There were 96 boys at this outing, and as each bus load left the grove they gave a rousing cheer for the women of Essex County who had done so much for them.

A delegation from the Chelsea hospital waited on the president, Mrs. Bomer, and asked if some of the Peabody unit would not come to visit them. It was from this hospital that most of the boys who were entertained by the Legion and Rotary Club on last Thanksgiving came, and they carried back such glowing reports of the way that they had been cared for, that it has been the desire of every inmate since then to meet what they termed the "Peabody folks." The unit has asked the welfare division to appoint a day when they may visit, and plans will shortly be made.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 19, and every member is requested to attend and if possible bring in the application of a new member.

That the Americanism department of the American Legion, and the 11,000 posts of the Legion have their work cut out for them in an announced program of opposition to radicalism, and the Americanization of foreign born in the country, is indicated by surveys made in various states by officials of the organization. Somewhat typical of reports received at National headquarters is the declaration of William R. McCauley, commander of the Illinois department.

"Our American people feel entirely safe and secure—too much so for their own good," Commander McCauley said. "Some cold facts, bluntly administered, might wake them up to the conditions all about them. It is not generally realized that in Illinois there are more than 175,000 persons above the age of 10 years who cannot read or write the English language. Those who cannot understand our tongue number thousands.

"Is it realized that bolshevik literature, supplied through generous funds from the Russian government, is being circulated among those who are ignorant of our own printed language, our institutions?"

Activities of radicals in many of the states is reported, and in most cases they are said to be of a bolder nature than at any time since the close of the World war. In South Dakota, Kansas and other wheat sections the American Legion during the wheat harvest has engaged itself in fighting the I. W. W. and its work of sabotage and intimidation. In Kansas, Phil Zimmerman, noted nemesis of the Wabblies, organized Legionnaires in combat groups throughout the wheat belt, and succeeded in frustrating the I. W. W. in a campaign designed to increase membership and coerce the farmers, aided with "cow itch," fire-creating chemicals and other of their "terrorism" weapons.

Resolutions against the employment by the government of women whose husbands also are drawing salaries from government agencies were passed at a recent meeting of George Washington post of the American Legion at Washington, D. C. The Legion post named thirteen women, among them Mrs. Caroline Harding Votaw, President Harding's sister. The Legion asserts Mrs. Votaw's husband holds the job of superintendent of prisons, which pays $4000 a year, while she draws $5000 as head of the industrial service section of the Veterans' Bureau. The Legionnaires hold that one job in a family is enough and that the women's places should be filled by former service men.

More than 2200 sailors and 90 officers of the United States navy will come to New Orleans during the American Legion national convention, October 16-20, as the result of a recent order made by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt. The naval men will come with a fleet of one cruiser and six destroyers ordered to New Orleans for the convention.

the wane in the Councillor contests. Mr. Jones will speak tonight in the East End at 7.15 and Monday noon at the Danvers Bleachery. He will make a whirlwind tour Monday from Glue Hill to Beacon Hill.

Interest in the local primaries next Tuesday centers on the candidacy of ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston for the Democratic nomination for governor and the ardent champion of Boston and New England is sure to capture the state nomination. He should go out of Peabody with a handsome majority vote over his rivals. No other man in the state has done more to boom Boston as a port than has Dr. Fitzgerald. His numerous visits to Peabody as a speaker has made him many warm supporters in this city who will do their part to place him on the state ticket for November.

William G. Clark of Gloucester, assistant district attorney, is generally hailed as the logical successor to District Attorney S. Howard Donnell because of his superior qualifications for the important role of county prosecutor. Clark has a host of Peabody friends who have been busy all over the county in his behalf. With two candidates running in Lynn, Clark is most likely to get a majority vote in that city and he is assured of the solid support of Haverhill, Lawrence and the Cape Ann district. Salem is sure to swing heavily for him and his nomination is virtually conceded. He will make an excellent district attorney, and he deserves the election on his record as an assistant prosecutor under Mr. Donnell.

Peabody friends of Senator Trefry of Marblehead are pulling strong for him to defeat John B. Grosvenor for county commissioner. Mr. Trefry is a World war veteran, is a clean, vigorous young man, with a pleasing personality and a punch behind his words. He has brought home the facts about the county ring dominated by Mr. Grosvenor. It is time, Mr. Trefry's friends declare, for a change in the county commissioner's office, and the election of Mr. Trefry, who has never been defeated for public office, will go a long ways toward benefiting the citizens of Essex County.

Peabody Republicans will give Charles O. Bailey of Newbury a pleasing majority vote for county treasurer, for he is no stranger in this city and his candidacy has the backing of the Republican leaders almost to a man.

Mr. Bailey is eminently qualified for the office first because he has long been a successful business man, and also because of his identification with county and state affairs. As secretary of the state board of conservation, he has done much to conserve the forests and as a former state senator his knowledge of finance saved the commonwealth great sums of money. Bailey stands on both feet, has an opinion of his own, and knows what is wrong with county affairs as administered today.

Michael A. O'Leary, mentor of the Democratic party for years, and now a candidate for lieutenant governor on that ticket, will hold noon rallies next Monday at the National Calfskin, A. C. L. plant and Danvers Bleachery. He is one of the best campaigners and is worth hearing. Newspapermen have a high regard for "Mike" O'Leary.

At the meeting of the women's division of the Republican party held in the Council chamber on Tuesday evening, Representative J. E. McVann, Republican candidate for representative, told very interestingly of the work required of a representative.

Angus J. MacDonald of this city spoke briefly and Mrs. Rosa Sturgeon, chairman of the Women's Division, urged a wise choice of candidates before going to the polls. It was voted to open Room 8 in the Herbert Trust building Saturday and Monday, 10 to 12, 2 to 6 and 7 to 9.30, where the public is invited to see a specimen ballot and obtain information regarding Republican candidates.

CHALLENGE FOR ALL STARS TEAM

Editor Enterprise:

The High Street A. C, strongest contenders for the championship of the South Peabody Twilight League, issues a challenge to the All Stars to settle for all time the question of superiority between these two teams, inasmuch as the All Stars consider themselves as good or better ball players than the High Street Athletics. Although this exaggerated opinion of their own ability may appear laughable to the baseball fans, the High Street team think it best to play them in order to stop their crying. So sure is the High Street team of the outcome of the contest that they are anxious to play the All Stars for as much money as they can dig up.

If Manager Richardson of the All Stars does not care to be ridiculed by those who have listened to his many tirades, he will communicate with Manager James Murphy.

Yours in sport,
Signed JAMES MURPHY,
Manager.

P. S. This game will be played Sunday afternoon at Community field, South Peabody, if arangements can be made with the All Stars.

A. C. L. LEAGUE

With both teams weakened by the absence of regular players, a close game was played between the Hide and Office teams in the A. C. L. series last night. The Hide was lucky to get away with a 4-3 win. Billy Walsh of the Office had a great night, starring in the field and turning in a home run at the bat. Murphy and Ryder hit well for the Hide team. Gourley was in the box for the losers, and held the Hide team to six hits, while the Office gathered but four off Dempsey.

Tonight the Sheep and Cutstock meet. If the Sheep win the triple tie will remain unbroken, as the Japan did not play this week owing to weather conditions. The Japan-National game will probably be played Tuesday evening.

Next week is the last week of the season. Monday the Office plays the Japan; Tuesday, National-Japan; Wednesday, National-Cutstock; Friday, the big game, Sheep-Hide.

The winners of the A. C. L. series are planning on challenging the winners of the South Peabody League.

Miss Agnes O'Donnell, teacher in Hunter's college, New York City, who has been attending Prof. Breckinredge's School of Art at East Gloucester, accompanied by her two sisters, Minnie and Helen, were the guests last week of their cousins at the O'Donnell home on Broad street, West Peabody.

TREFRY
For County Commissioner

The City of Peabody must pay as its share of the $1,500,000 loan issue for the building of the Tuberculosis Hospital, a total sum of $172,365. This sum, if paid in one year would jump Peabody's tax rate over $8 per thousand. If paid by a bond issue over a period of 20 years, Peabody must pay, interest charges at 4% of $72,393.30 which would make the total sum to be paid by Peabody, $244,758.30.
The County Commissioners have placed a mortgage on every home in Peabody by their waste and extravagance. The sum of $167,979.03 of your money is now impounded in the Tremont Trust Company.
TREFRY favors state control of the Tuberculosis Hospital which would relieve Peabody of a large share of the burden.

Two Lynn Men Arrested For Theft of Tires

Inspector Edward G. Pierce of the Peabody police returned from Manchester, N. H., yesterday, bringing back nearly $300 in auto shoes and tubes which had been stolen from the Wilson Auto Supply Co. garage at Pike & Whipple's last Monday. Two Lynn men, Sidney Stevens, aged 20, son of a Lynn police officer, and Eldon Taylor, aged 27, also of Lynn, were caught in Manchester when they tried to dispose of the tires at a garage in that city. The pair secured bail and hustled back to Lynn before Inspector Pierce and Inspector Stevens, father of one of the men, could reach the New Hampshire city. The loot was taken in charge and is now at the Peabody police station. The pair declared they had paid $125 for the goods down in Newburyport. Alone they told conflicting stories. The tires were of a certain make and are easily identified by the owner. Young Stevens has never been arrested before. Both men are married. Not all of the loot has been recovered. The pair will be broght before Judge Manning.

The annual business meeting of the Peabody Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Merritt Chichester, 62 Central street, at 230. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Members are requested to be present.

FIRST REGULAR MEETING

The first regular meeting of the Leo Guild for the fall season will be held next Monday evening in K. of C. hall at 8 o'clock, and all members are requested to attend. At a special meeting called last Monday night it was decided to hold "Presidents' night" on October 2, instead of September 18, as was previously announced. Invitations have been sent to the presidents of more than 50 Catholic Women's Clubs in the archdiocese, and it is planned to make this affair one of the most interesting events on the Guild calendar for the year.

PRINTERS MAY BE ASKED TO COMPETE ON COUNTY WORK

Certain Essex County printers are shaking in their boots with the defeat of John P. Grosvenor as county commissioners, for Senator Raymond H. Trefry, who Peabody Republicans so overwhelmingly supported, is determined to see that competitive bids for all county printing is insisted upon. This has not been the custom of the last several years and the tax payers have been made to pay well for the oversight.

The defeat of Mr Grosvenor was no great surprise to those not his certain henchmen, who believed they could put him over again. Mr. Trefry is state senator from Marblehead and is a war veteran. Here was another proof that the Legion boys are coming into their own.

Charge Annis Drunk In Auto

Charles W. Annis, well known in Lynn politics, was arrested by Patrolman James Murphy yesterday, charged with operating an automobile on Lowell street while under the influence of liquor. Michael Riley of Federal street, Salem, was with him at the time. Annis was before Judge Manning today.

COUNCIL WANTS ACTION FOR NEGLECTED CHILDREN

Peabody's City Council passed resolutions last night calling on the police and health departments to correct a growing social evil in this city—that of parents locking their small children in their homes while they labor in the factories. The death of a small child on Fulton street by gas poisoning some days ago was the reason for the Council debating the social evil, and on recommendation of Councillor Nicholas Cullen it finally voted to request the two departments to play a more active hand in stopping the menace to neglected children.

That it is common report in the leather factories that many parents shut their children in the homes was the statement of Councillor George Eagan.

"It is high time that something was done in Peabody to stop this sort of thing," declared Councillor Cullen. "Parents should be hailed into court where it is found that they are leaving their children alone for the whole day. I believe that this body should request the Board of Health to make an investigation of homes where it is known that the parents are employed outside."

Mrs. Palmer To Aid Fuel Head

Mrs. J. Benjamin Palmer has been named as assistant fuel conservator for Peabody. State Administrator James J. Storrow of Boston requested Mayor Shea to name a woman for the office of assistant and His Honor sent in her name. There is little likelihood of any coal being delivered in Peabody inside of the next 30 days. None of the coal dealers can secure any amount and most of them are simply letting their regular patrons know that this is their present plight. There is a bigger demand for wood and owners of wood lots are making a big killing.

Rev. Dr. Beal Hit By Auto

Rev. Dr. Francis L. Beal, former rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church of this city, is confined to his home in Somerville with a fractured shoulder and bad bruises, as a result of being knocked down by a taxicab in Boston last Monday. The accident happened as he was crossing Cornhill street. The taxicab driver was unable to stop his machine in time to avert striking the former Peabody clergyman, who is now holding a pastorate in Somerville. Word received here yesterday stated that Dr. Beal is progressing as well as could be expected and no serious results are anticipated.

CITY HALL NOTES

Chief Engineer Patrick H. Conroy of the pumping station has asked the Enterprise to inform the citizens that he made a formal application for vacations for the employes under him on June 19 last, telephoning the request to the clerk of the water department. He asked that provisions be made for the extra two weeks' pay due one of the employes. When the payroll appeared there was no vacation money included, and Engineer Conroy says he called up the clerks to ascertain why. He was informed, he says, that City Engineer Emerson would make known the reason personally. That was the last he heard about vacations, he declares.

This is another chapter in the loss of vacations for the pumping station employes.

City Engineer Emerson says that the request for the vacations should have been made direct to him and until that is done he cannot see his way clear to act.

According to Engineer Conroy he is compelled to do all of his business through the clerk of the water department. He says the authority for the vacations is included in the acts of 1915, chapter 60?

* * *

Councillor James T Sullivan will be a candidate to succeed himself in the city primaries. Had he been nominated by the Democrats for representative this week he would not have run again for the Council. He does not believe that any man should hold both jobs.

* * *

The success of William P. Connery, Jr., who snatched the Democratic nomination for congress from Hon. John P. Kane of Lawrence, reflects no mean credit on City Collector Michael J. Sherry, who stumped for the Lynn war veteran and plugged hard for his man to win.

* * *

The primaries are over and the winners wear the smile as of yore. But politics must be accepted as a 50-50 chance and it is not all honey.

* * *

There were many surprises. The dopsters had James T. Sullivan and Whipple winners, but the voters, as they have done many times in the past, upset calculations.

* * *

Our ex-Mayor received a flattering vote in the city, but the state thought otherwise. A campaign such as he carried through requires work in plenty, besides the cost which in these days is large.

* * *

The Democratic vote turned out as usual, but the Republicans did not come out. It takes more than drum corps to start the rock ribbed Republicans, particularly with prohibition on. Then the heavy rain in the afternoon caused many to stay at home.

* * *

Michael J. Sherry is happy these days in the thought that every ward in the city went for Gaston, whom he was campaigning for. Mike is there with political oratory, in fact we hear none who excel him.

* * *

Now comes the fight for representative between Jones and McVann. Johnny Jones is fast becoming an orator and evidently carried conviction by the results in the primaries. McVann has many friends in Peabody, so the result of this contest we reckon close.

* * *

We noted a new lot of pols about the polls this year. Is it possible those faces so familiar for many years have cried enough? When the man with the bundle comes around, some of them at least will be there.

* * *

City Engineer Emerson is attending the waterways association in New Bedford today.

* * *

With but one candidate on each side, the orators will now double up, and a solid blast of political dope will be aimed at the voters. We question whether the big majority care to listen to mud throwing which is common with some so-called political orators. We agree with Governor Cox, keep it out of political meetings.

* * *

District Attorney Donnell when retiring from this office will be out of a political job the first time in eight years. It does not mean he will continue out, for his aptitude in that direction is too pronounced. What will it be?

* * *

Charles F. Burns, assistant to City Electrician Vincent P. O'Keefe, is taking his second week's vacation. He started last month on a two weeks' holiday but was called back into harness on the illness of his chief. Burns came back without a whimper, which was loyalty spelled with capital letters.

PARKE SNOW DOLLAR DAY TOMORROW

Attention is called to Parke Snow's Dollar Day advertisement appearing on another page. Dollar Days have proved to be the most popular of all sales organized by Parke Snow's, and Peabody's thrifty shoppers responded in such numbers to the last two events that these sales eclipsed all previous records. The management has carefully planned to make tomorrow's event the biggest one-day sale ever held in Peabody, and with this end in view, Mr. Burns and the Parke Snow buyers have received the co-operation of New York and Boston manufacturers. The special values offered are for one day only, and nothing will be sold at the Dollar Day prices either before or after the sale.

A feature of the sale will be free prizes in the form of high-grade aluminum kitchen utensils. Every purchaser has an equal chance to obtain one.

Another feature will be the opening of a phonograph department, when all styles of high-grade machines will be offered at special prices.

GOING TO SALEM TOMORROW

A large aggregation will go to Salem tomorrow to witness the game between the Peabody team and the Lafayettes of that city. Andrews of North Reading will pitch for Peabody and on Sunday when the Lafayettes again meet the local boys at Emerson Park, Fitzgerald will be on the mound. Both games are sure to be interesting and large crowds are expected.

SHE IS YOUR OFFICIAL "TASTER"

PEABODY HIGH FOOTBALL SQUAD FINDS 83 BOYS EAGER FOR TEAM

Peabody high football for 1922 got under way last Monday when Coach Ed. Brawley called for candidates. When he got through calling, 83 boys surrounded him and he immediately distributed what uniforms he had The boys assembled at the auditorium in the new high school addition, where the coach was assisted by Dr. Francis J. Marrs and Principal Woodman, both members of the new advisory board. The boys are working out in the rear of the high school before the eyes of a small sized crowd who follows them with interest every afternoon.

Coach Brawley dons a uniform himself and goes through the stunts with his boys.

Frank Murphy, assistant manager last year, has been appointed student manager of the team. The schedule is not yet fully completed, but will be ready in the near future.

Of last year's squad, Coach Brawley has Luz, Pappas, Lawrence, Maguire and Buckley for his backfield, and such line men as Captain Gavigan, J. Murphy, Harris, Boyle, Coan, Kildery and Sweeney. Among other experienced men are found Thibodeaux, Beres, Viles, Bodge, Southwick, Dolan and Macione.

More promising new material are Chandler, a colored youth from Ward One, Ed Murphy and Phil Southwick, two boys who have been waiting for a chance to grab the old pigskin, together with many other "will be" stars too numerous to mention. No individual has yet a position "all made," for the coach plays no favorites and the fans are sure to see a new system of football.

ESSEX FAIR

The poultry committee of the Essex Agricultural Society has been active in making preparations for the biggest show ever held by the society. The Norwood Cooping Company has been engaged to coop the birds in steel coops, which will greatly add to the show. Entry blanks and premiums lists may be secured by writing to B. Tomlinson, Hathorne, superintendent of the show; Leon Hanneford, Hathorne, assistant superintendent; R. H. Gaskill, Topsfield, secretary. Entries close September 18th, and all exhibits must be in place by Thursday, September 21st, at 10 a. m.

ENOUGH WOOD

There is plenty of wood available in Massachusetts to make up for any coal shortage next winter, but there are no men available to cut it. This is the summary of the answers received by the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation to the question it asked of its members throughout the state to determine what could be done to relieve the fuel situation, should it become acute.

The question was asked of 250 local leaders in the Farm Bureau movement, covering practically every town in the state. Each was asked to state the amount of wood already cut which is available in the town, the distance it is from the railroad and the possibility of an additional supply being cut this fall. It was the idea of the Federation to make this survey of the wood situation so that it could aid in any general effort to relieve a fuel shortage which might develop later in the fall.

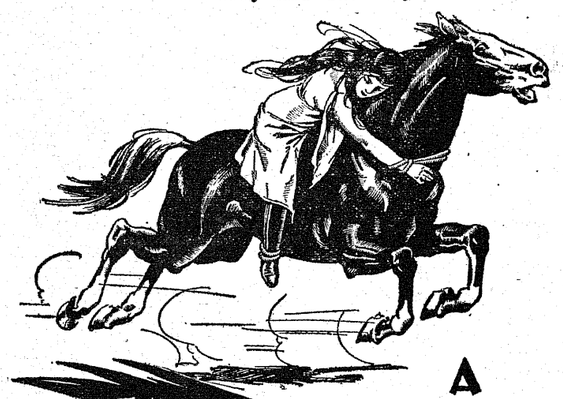
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR INEXPENSIVE ADDITIONS TO HOME COMFORT AND HEALTH —WITHOUT REBUILDING

SAME HOUSE IMPROVED BY SUGGESTED CHANGES — ORIGINAL PLAN

Five-Room Bungalow Plan Improved 100% by Inexpensive Changes

No single improvement can add more comfort into the dwelling than that of arranging separate bath and toilet facilities for each bedroom. Incidentally, no other improvement can proportionately add more to the property value.

Here we have a typical five room bungalow, modernized in this manner, at a cost for alterations that is trivial compared to the benefits secured. No addition to the building is required, nor are any of its original attractions sacrificed.



The space which the original plan allotted to entry way and cellar stair-head is taken for a new complete bathroom, private to the rear bedroom. Yet, with the minimum amount of alteration, every advantage of breakfast nook, roomy kitchen, entry, cellar way, and closet room is just as effectively and conveniently present in the new arrangement. The addition of showers in each bathroom means the finishing touch of usefulness and comfort. Adding a lavatory in the front bedroom and a medicine and toilet cabinet above each of the lavatories would be desirable in every way.

More and more, all the time, authorities on health and hygiene are stressing the importance of ample and convenient bathing and toilet equipment for homes. Having these things is a first requisite to using them; and frequent use of them is a first requisite to health. Being human, we all demand convenience as a part of the price of our observance of things as essential even as personal cleanliness.

Consult your plumbing dealer about how inexpensively and conveniently he could make similar improvements in your dwelling.

FOOTBALL FOR SUNDAYS

Michael F. Conway, popular clerk at George H. Jacob Co., is planning to put a semi-pro football team for the local gridiron this fall for Sunday exhibitions. He has been one of the counsellors for the Peabody town team this season and much of the credit for the success of the players has been due to his support behind Manager Jack Devaney. Local stars of the football field who have helped to make history in Peabody will be seen in the line-up. Mr. Conway is enjoying his annual vacation, putting in his time making up a winning football team.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Roswell E. Hagar and daughter Blanche with Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Mason of Everett, start today for an auto trip to Dover, N. J. They will travel by way of Mohawk Trail to Albany, N. Y., following the Hudson river, returning by southern route through Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Dr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Bugler, who have been enjoying a three months' honeymoon trip in Europe, are expected home the latter part of next week.

Joseph A. Murphy of High street, P. H. S. '22, and William Sullivan of Foster street have entered St. Anslems college, Manchester, N. H.

Mrs. Mortimer B. Sullivan and daughter, Miss Mildred, of Wallis street, have returned from a delightful two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. George Donahue (nee Helen Sullivan) of Washington, D. C.

Wm. Carroll Dean of Fans Behind P. H. S.

One of the oldest alumnus of Peabody high school who will be found on the sidelines at the Charleston-Peabody football game this fall will be William Carroll, who beyond his three score and ten years is believed to be the only living high school graduate of the class 1855. He graduated with the first class from the old high school now on Stevens street. The school was then known as the South Danvers high school.

Mr. Carroll is the father of Drs. Charles Carroll and Harry Carroll, both of Salem. Both of his sons were classed among the best athletes ever turned out by Peabody high. The father has been a life-long resident of Peabody up to last June, when he removed to Federal street, Salem. He has attended most of the high school games for the past several years.

Mrs. Sarah Daniels of Peabody is believed to be the only other living classmate of Mr. Carroll.

PEABODY STUDENTS IN UNIVERSITY EXTENSION

Residents of Peabody and vicinity who have pursued courses of study with the State division of University Extension are among the Massachusetts men and women recently awarded state certificates for their achievements in correspondence and class work. The reports of the division brought up to date show that enrollments in university extension courses passed the 100,000 mark this year with the registration of some 32,000 new students. Large numbers of these students were accommodated in the various classes given in all the cities and many towns of Massachusetts, 458 classes having been organized during the year. Besides class students there were thousands of correspondence students following courses under the supervision of the staff of instructors at the State House.

The ability of the division to meet the increasing demand for up-to-the-minute instruction has been proved by the offering of courses in such subjects as present day economics, methods of making income tax returns, and radio-telephony. A successful class in the last named subject was held in the late spring in one of the buildings of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where six hundred men and women received instruction in the theory of radio operation and the set-up of typical circuits.

A correspondence course in radio transmission and reception was later prepared for those wishing to study radio-phone service in their spare hours. An entirely new course in combustion which treats of fuel economy will be offered this fall.

Increase in the efficiency of the division of university extension is illustrated by the fact that the cost per student per year is continually decreasing. In 1916 when the division was established the cost per student per year was $14, and today it is less than $4. Instruction in the 150 subjects taught by the division is free, but a small enrollment charge is made for all courses to cover the cost of materials, clerical service, and the like. Courses are open to persons residing in the state whether or not they are citizens of Massachusetts.

The average age of the men and women taking work with the division is thirty; the students themselves are persons of varied callings and interests. New citizens have received instruction in civics, the automobile-owner has learned how to manage his car, the home-maker has had an opportunity to study household management and interior and exterior home decoration through courses offered by the division. Accountants, clerks, machinists, engineers, writers of advertisements, persons of foreign birth, draughtsmen, teachers and others interested in the study of college grade courses, employer and employee, are among those included in the personnel of university extension students.

The names of Peabody students to whom certificates have recently been issued upon the satisfactory completion of the course in which they were enrolled are given below.

Certificates have been received by the following students of the Appreciation of English Literature 1 course: Mrs. Ida H. Bushby, 17 Washington street, Frances M. Carroll, 12 Clement avenue; F. P. Gay, 10 Sewall street; Ruth E. Jeffs, 35 Balcomb street, Salem; Bessie L. Kelley, 29 Chestnut street; Winnifred E. McCarthy, 25 Lakeview avenue, Lynn; Emma F. McCauley, 97 Proctor street, Salem; Alice K. McCauley, 97 Proctor street, Salem; A. Bertha Packard, 676 Cabot street; Pauline A. Reily, Farm avenue; Bessie C. Taylor, Lowell street; Laura P. Whitney, 40 Central street; Helen H. Wollahan, 164 Sylvan street, Danvers.

HATS OFF TO JONES

The victory of Councillor John A. Jones, who secured the Democratic nomination for Representative in his contest with Councillor James T. Sullivan, last Tuesday, must be ascribed as a great victory for the American Legion of which he is a member with an overseas experience. It is also true that the young voters lined up their strength for this clean young man. That he owes no little credit to his stump speeches which he held all over the city goes without saying, for he took his message to the voters and the result of the vote showed that he had won by the margin of 126. The success of William P. Connery, Jr., of Lynn, who becomes the Democratic party candidate for Congress, is another proof that this was the year when world war veterans got their innings at the polls. Mr. Jones may be depended on to put up a powerful campaign for election.

HOWARD DONNELL

The defeat of Ex-Mayor S. Howard Donnell of Peabody for the Republican nomination for Attorney General caused much disappointment among his Peabody friends in the state primaries last Tuesday. While Essex County gave him a handsome vote, the odds were against him in the state-wide campaign where the "machine" behind Benton showed its powerful hand. The District Attorney of Essex County, who has given the citizens a splendid regime in office, did much to advertise Peabody, the leather city, as it has not been before for many years, and he deserved to receive the whole Republican endorsement in this district. He conducted a vigorous campaign and his vote is cause for great satisfaction, despite his defeat, which he has taken gracefully. He will do all he can to aid the Republican ticket. He will continue in office as district attorney until January, when his present term expires, and will then turn over that office to his able assistant, William G. Clark of Gloucester, who was so handsomely endorsed by the voters for the party nomination, the equivalent of the election next November.

WEIGHING VEGETABLES

There has always been much trouble between producer and consumer as to the quantity of vegetables in bushels and the smaller denominations. Massachusetts has passed laws to regulate the size of measures, but the standard of Massachusetts varies from that of some other states. Even the National government standards in some cases differed from that of our state. So the farmers from year to year were kept busy changing the size of their bushel boxes and the question often arose as to the proper filling of such boxes. Vegetables varying in size caused trouble in packing. Sealers of weights and measures throughout the state have been kept busy following the changes in the laws, and the farmer and retailer has been put to the trouble frequently of following the allowances in weights and mistakes were bound to occur. A big majority of storekeepers are honest. They cannot thrive without it. With all vegetables sold by weight as now, the complications arising from measuring are over. Without question weight is the proper method. There has been considerable talk as to selling eggs by weight. It has not materialized, but is possible in the future. As time goes on, selling by weight is bound to be recognized as being the right way, and as vegetables have taken the lead, most of the other commodities will follow. It should have been done years ago.

PROPERTY VALUATIONS

Property valuation in all cities and towns has been a bone of contention since the foundation of our government. Experts have given opinions as to what should be, and rarely have any two of them agreed on the same methods. One great trouble has been that no uniform law has been adopted by the states. All have different ways of taxing property and individuals and the Federal government has ways of its own. Valuations in Peabody are no exception to the controversy; property owners and those assessed for personal property in many cases complaining because their assessment is not as is their neighbors. For several years valuations have fluctuated as never before. War values soared far above normalcy, and the question arises what should be the assessments under such conditions, when no one could tell what the future would bring forth. Valuing automobiles could be taken as an example of fluctuation in values. During the latter part of the world war, second hand machines sold at near new value. Later they became a drug on the market. Insurance companies have spent time and money to make re-adjustments of values on automobiles only to repeat that work in a short time. Real estate soared so high that property owners sold at prices never dreamed of. We are now personal and real, is becoming normal. getting on a basis when property, both Not pre-war prices, for such prices are no more, at least for years to come. Conditions today point to higher rather than lower prices for the commodities of life. Wages are on the increase and with it everything will cost more rather than less. So valuations of local property will face few reductions. In fact all points to valuations higher in the years to come and all must accept this raise as the sign of the times.

LOCAL LIQUOR VIOLATIONS

From all we can glean, Peabody has been more active in bringing offenders of liquor laws into court than most of the other municipalities throughout the state. With a large foreign population who are addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors (at least in many cases) it is natural that the want of liquor has led to the making of it. But it is evident our police are keeping down the manufacture of "hootch" to a large extent. Offienders are paying into the city treasury large sums of money for their efforts. It is the same old story. Looking backward many years, there were frequent raids on those taking a chance to sell the contraband, until after many convictions, they retired only to have others take their place. National prohibition has no doubt changed the condition of liquor selling. It being necessary to make it, the brand is far from what most people desire. The effect is such that few care to use the "poison." But it all comes back to the human part of our existence, what cannot be had easily is eagerly sought for. We are in a new existence from a liquor standpoint, and Peabody like the rest has the problem and is successfully solving it. To say that liquor will be completely eliminated here would be foolish. The concerted efforts of the police is serving to make offenders respect the law, and as time goes on, the liquor laws will become more respected.

ROUND ABOUT

District Attorney S. Howard Donnell will round out 20 years a lawyer tomorrow, having opened his office on Sept. 16, 1902, in the Allen block. He removed his law offices to the McDonald block, next door to the Enterprise, four years ago, where he and his partner, Charles J. Powell, have a suite of offices for his law business. His present partner, Attorney Powell, who is clerk of the district court, studied law under the ex-mayor, and also at a Boston law school, from which he received his diploma and later passed the bar examination.

The schools have coal enough in the bins to last until January first. It may seem strange to many that January first was made the date, but the fiscal year ends at that time, and as a result the coal burned after that date must be paid for by next year's budget. There is little cause for worry as to the coal supply, with the strikes in that industry ended.

The new traffic posts are filling the bill. It appeared that policemen would be needed on Peabody square to keep the automobile traffic in line, and we note one is there during the busy hours. But he does not need to go through the physical culture moves as of yore. Some enterprising individual will have a traffic post some day which will do everything but jail offenders.

* * *

At last somebody has solved the question of so much rain this summer. Radio has caused it, and the question arises whether it will continue to do so. Experts agree that there is something in the claim, for our atmosphere which was so quiet before the days of aeroplanes and radio is rebelling, and is about to call for an eight-hour a week schedule.

* * *

Out of the primary campaign which closed Monday have come several amusing stories and one or two somewhat atrocious. One tale going the rounds is dealing with campaign money sent to Peabody that saw scant distribution, and that money from rival candidates went into the same pocket. Some "pols" play both ends and the middle and get away with it for awhile.

* * *

Our city clock is behaving much better recently. It now strikes with regularity, and aside from losing a few minutes a week is a regular clock. People with weak eyes have difficult work to see the face these evenings, for more light is needed there. "Large bodies move slowly," is well illustrated by our clock which has slowly come into its own. Regulate the clock to keep better time, add lights so we can see it, and all will be well.

* * *

Peabody golfers are struggling for the club championship these days. Ray Porter, Clarence Murray and Al Johnson are in the finals and we look to at least one of these three being there to play off for the championship. Al Johnson is the present champion, and Peabody claims at least half the honor, for he labors in Peabody and lives in Danvers. Porter and Johnson are the likely contenders for the honor.

* * *

Main street stores have increased in the last few years to the extent of four times the original number. Naturally rents have advanced with the demand, to the extent that many find it hard sledding to meet the competition.

* * *

Replacing of wornout rails by the Bay State Company on Main, Central and Lowell streets has helped the comfort of passengers. The one man cars cause far less wear on the rails than did those blunderbusses of old, and the commuters now appreciate them.

* * *

When we acquire that land adjacent to the high school grounds, all will be set for a real stadium. This fall will add much to the feeling that a stadium will be, and the game with Charleston will do the trick. Baseball and football has a strangle hold on the public, which will not be pried away with economy talk. In the minds of many today, it is far better to be an athlete than a scholar, no matter what happens afterward.

* * *

The local bowling alleys are shaped for the winter business. Most of us need exercise and the alleys furnish it in winter. Of course we could saw wood with coal short in quantities (not weight for our local dealers are honest). If it could be made competitive there might be a chance for the wood, but working alone does not fit.

Doctors Foster and Kennard resigned from active service at the J. B. Thomas hospital recently, but the trustees could not see it. Consequently they are still on the staff, and Doctor Foster is now serving his two months at that institution. After the many years as a doctor in Peabody, Doctor Foster feels he is entitled to a rest, and rightly so.

* * *

Francis L. Poor was in town election day looking far better than formerly. He has gained 12 pounds and is much encouraged over his betterment. After seeing many more unfortunate than himself at the institution where he now is, it gives him and others courage to keep up the fight for health.

SMILING RALPH BAUER

Sept. 13th, 1922.

Editor Peabody Enterprise,
Peabody, Mass.
Dear Sir:

The defeat of John M. Grosvenor is outstanding notice to County ring politicians all over the state that their control can be destroyed by the voters when public conditions become burdensome and unbearable.

The voice of the people when aroused always rings true.

Very truly yours,
RALPH S. BAUER.

Its English version reads: "Sir: For the case that your electric light should fail, we beg to send you enclosed a postcard, which please send us at once when you find your light out. The company will then send you another postcard."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear mother, Harriet Ellen Larrabee, who passed away September 16, 1921.

I, who loved you, sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year;
In lonely house of thinking
Thoughts of you are ever dear.
Some day I hope to meet you,
Some day, I know not when,
To clasp your hand in a better land,
Never to part again.

Sadly missed by her daughter,
MRS. EDWARD T. JONES.

Coach Carl Prause Will Lead Charleston, Team

Peabody football players and fans who went to Charleston, South Carolina, last fall with the Peabody high eleven will be pleased to know that Coach Carl Prause of the "Bantams" will come to Peabody with the southern team this fall. He has just accepted the appointment of coach for the Citadel Military college in Charleston, but on the condition that he give his usual time to the "Bantams" and accompany them on every game.

Coach Prause was voted a royal good fellow and a gentleman by the Peabody delegation and he is assured of a pleasing reception in Peabody when he leads his gridiron warriors against the Tanners under Coach Ned Brawley this fall.

According to the Enterprise correspondent in Charleston, the Bantams began their practice Wednesday of this week with 40 candidates, including the stars of last season in the lineup. They were taken to the Isle of Palms outside of the city for the practice.

Coach Prause believes he will have an even stronger team this season than he had last year, and Peabody players know they had a formidable aggregation to battle. The Bantams will remain at the Isle of Palms for two weeks, working out under the direction of Assistant Coach Barshay.

Interest in the "on to Peabody" trip is already finding plenty of enthusiasm in Charleston, and it is certain that a large delegation of fans will come north with the team.

Shoe Trade Specialties Keep Peabody On Hum

Now that holidays and vacations are over, business possibilities and probabilities face the tanner. War has left its marks which will take years to erase. All of us wonder why the process of rejuvenation is so slow, but it took Germany 40 years to prepare for the world war, therefore to mend the destruction, a score of years at least appears to be necessary.

Competition is the bane of business today. During the war there was no such animal. But now the business must meet all comers and fight for business. The war got us into a bad way. Business was handed to us begging to take it. Now the begging is on the other foot or is up to the business man.

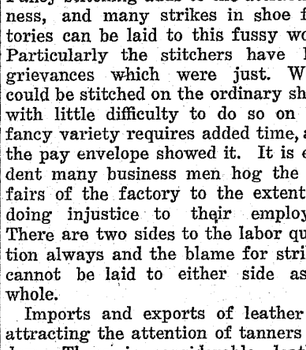
Those of us who in the past have encountered the competition which was always in the leather business, remember when salesmen would give concessions to get business. It was a fight all the time to keep in the running. Shoe manufacturers had a way of returning shipments if better offers were made elsewhere. A return to those conditions is on today and if necessary I could say has been on for many months. Apparently there is no remedy for it. It is a part of business and no different than ever before.

We are evidently facing a new era. The trend of wages in factories has been downward since the war. Within a few weeks that trend has turned and employes of the steel, cotton and woolen industries are offered advances of 20 per cent. or more. It is evident prices of commodities are on the increase. It appears difficult for the masses to realize that they pay the bills in all cases. There is something appealing to us all when we receive high wages even if it all goes for living. There is satisfaction in spending $10 rather than $5, even if the results are the same. So as we enter on the era of better wages, it must be remembered we get little more than before.

What a disappointment it would be if the better business idea which all predict did not materialize? There are so many knotty problems still unsettled, a postponement might happen. It is far from me to dampen the feelings of the hopeful, but what should be now has not arrived and so the train bringing business is belated. I am not pessimistic about business. All have been keyed up to the point that a deluge was about to come suddenly, but come as it will, it will be the makings of a river by its small tributaries, slow but sure.

Inquiry of tanners as to the business brings out the story that the trade is spotty, specialties keeping sales above water. All shoes today run to fads. The more kinds of leather, the more colors that can be injected into a shoe, the better it sells. Fancy stitching adds to the attractiveness, and many strikes in shoe factories can be laid to this fussy work. Particularly the stitchers have had grievances which were just. What could be stitched on the ordinary shoes with little difficulty to do so on the fancy variety requires added time, and the pay envelope showed it. It is evident many business men hog the affairs of the factory to the extent of doing injustice to their employes. There are two sides to the labor question always and the blame for strikes cannot be laid to either side as a whole.

Imports and exports of leather is attracting the attention of tanners today. There is considerable leather coming into the country which is selling at reduced prices. Much of this leather is of a quality which attracts buyers, therefore the home product suffers. But exports are gaining in volume, therefore the balance remains in our favor Canada is making much leather. The English market is such that sending it into U. S. is profitable. Whether they can produce leather cheaper than we can is something I cannot answer. Off hand, I should say they can.



Patent leather continues to have the call. Where so much of it goes continues to be a problem which is difficult to solve. It does not matter We of Peabody are indeed fortunate to have this outlet. Without it the business would indeed be streaky. Sheep leather is selling better. Orders of 500 dozen are now in order, which brings back the war smile. Pickled sheepskins are coming into town in large quantities. Right now this end of the leather business looks brighter than since the war. Side leather is moving fairly well, and hides are coming in much faster. Shoe and Leather Reporter say as follows:

Sole leather and offal markets show but little change from previous weeks. New business of sizable nature is not being received by tanners at the present writing. Early September will in all probability see a resumption of buying in large way. Upper leather markets generally quiet, buyers still slow to pay tanners' asking prices. Strong demand for black side leather at from 18 to 20c. for immediate delivery. Buyers as a general rule are purchasing only for their immediate needs, due to the fact that enough future shoe business is not as yet on their books to warrant heavy operations in leather markets Calf demand continues for plump weight stock, although tanners are still hoping the anticipated popularity for boots will be reflected in improved light calf business. Patent leather looks good for another season. A number of buyers are already placing orders which would seem to indicate that they have sizable business in prospect or on their books at the present writing. Numerous orders being received for black kid, the bulk of demand being on stock from 10 to 40c. for black leather. Top grades are also moving well, but grades from 45 to 50c are not so active. Tanners' floor stocks have been gradually lowered and a slight increase in soaks has been noted.

Pearse Lea. Co., Running 24 Hrs.

Peabody has a 24-hour leather plant in the Pearse Leather Corporation, Wallis and Walnut street, which is having a great run on fancy leathers. The concern has a picked body of employes and the wages paid are as good as the best received at any of the Peabody factories.

The policy of the concern to protect its employes has resulted in the owners of this corporation paying one-half the cost of insurance against sickness among its employes. A double insurance is also in vogue at this plant against accident and death. The regular employers' liability insurance is carried and in addition, the state insurance. By this protection an employe recently on the sick list actually received several dollars more a week than his regular week's wages. The factory space in this plant is entirely utilized with not an inch of lost room.

Famous Red Cross Nurse Star In Strand's Feature Picture

The most popular novel by Zane Grey, the country's most popular living novelist, "Wildfire," has been adapted to pictures and will be shown at the Strand today and Saturday under the title "When Romance Rides." The producer claims for this photoplay that it is a new type of modern western drama, for in it the western flannel shirt alternates with the Tuxedo.

"When Romance Rides" contains all the lively incident, the human, everyday characterizations and the beautiful scenic backgrounds which have proved such a powerful magnet to picture patrons in previous Zane Grey pictures. It contains one of the most thrilling horse races ever staged, and as a climax, the heroine is seen, tied face down on the back of a fear-maddened horse recently reclaimed from a wild state, riding towards a precipice. The photography for this Mazeppa-like ride and for the horse race at the rodeo is a fine example of how emotion stirring motion photography can be.

The cast is a large and capable one and is headed by Claire Adams, who was a famous Red Cross nurse during the war, Carl Cantvoort and Ted Sloan, America's greatest jockey. Horses valued at more than $200,000 appear in "When Romance Rides" and and two of them share in the acting honors—the beautiful stallion which impersonates the Wildfire of the novel and the doped horse Sage Brush. A Belgian police dog, Rin-tin-tin, will also captivate every person who likes dogs. For those who like thrill after thrill in their screen fare, liberally interspersed with comedy, this picture will prove a feast and a delight. A Century comedy and Harry Myers in "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe" will be the other numbers shown today and Saturday.

Alice Calhoun in "The Angel of the Crooked Streets," and Wanda Hawley in "Her First Elopement" will be the feature picture for Sunday evening.

Thomas Meighan in "If You Believe It, It's So," his latest Paramount feature, will head the program for next Monday and Tuesday. This production is called a companion picture to the star's never-to-be-forgotten "Miracle Man." Associated with Mr. Meighan in his new vehicle are a host of favorites, including the incomparable Theodore Roberts, Pauline Starke, Joseph Dowling and Charles Ogle. It is a story of a crook's regeneration. In this type of role Mr. Meighan seems to reign supreme. It is taken from a story by Perley Poore Sheehan and adapted to the screen by Waldamar Young.

Mae McAvoy in "The Top of New York" will be the other feature to be presented on Monday.

WHAT JOE DID AND IS DOING

Marshall E. Vaughn

From the log cabin to the White House is a far cry. Some people will tell you that the period of "Mark Hopkins on one end of a log and a student on the other" is past and that we live in a day of specialization and highly organized education with a paved road from every man's door to the college. But out in the world of facts, where the great majority of folks live, a different tale is told. Out where plain country people, the pride of America, live and have their being the pathway to education is just as rugged as it ever was and the obstacles as difficult to overcome. But they can be overcome as the story of Joe clearly shows.

Joe lived in Adair County, about eighty miles from Berea, Kentucky. He heard of the opportunities that Berea offers to struggling boys, so he made up his mind to make an investigation. He had no money to hire a conveyance to the railroad some thirty miles away, and what was the use of spending money to ride eighty miles when he had so much time on his hands! He got his shoes half-soled and started out on foot. He stopped at a farm house on the way, to spend the night, and nobody charged him for lodging and meals.

Joe reached Berea with $2.35, a pair of sore feet and a WILL that moves mountains. He worked full time until he had earned enough money to enter the Half-Day school. He worked in this school, making good grades in his studies and doing faithful work in his labor assignments until the war began. Joe, being of the draft age, took his turn and was soon on his way to Camp Taylor. The first time he rode on a train was when he went to Richmond to take the physical examination, the next ride was to Camp Taylor, the third one to the battlefields of France.

Joe served in the advance section with the heavy artillery and, although he never entered the firing lines, he would gladly have done so in exchange for the heavy artillery work just back of the lines. Joe had a very interesting experience that is worth relating. He wanted to write a letter to one of his teachers in Berea, but could not find any paper. He left the hut and went to a near-by dump to hunt for paper, and there he found a lot of tomato cans with wrappers still on. He picked up one and, to his amazement, read on the wrapper "Canned by the Berea College Tanning Factory." Now Joe had worked in the college canning factory the summer before and there in that dump in the war-torn fields of France he and the tomato cans from his own college cannery in Kentucky had a reunion.

Joe saved his money instead of "shooting craps" and mailed it to the treasurer of Berea college, and when he returned he had enough to enter school as a full time student.

Last June Joe was graduated from the agricultural course, but instead of going out with a "half-baked" literary education, as he had not completed his high school work, he decided to enter the academy and finish his education.

Friends, will you make it possible for Berea college to help Joe's comrades?

INVITING BOBBY

By MOLLIE MATHER

(©, 1922, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Bliss was tying morning glories on the porch vine, when the letter came. Lizzie brought it over from the post office.

Bliss looked like a human morning glory—if such might be—with her soft pink cheeks and her violet eyes, and the very dancing lightness of her. The letter was from her stepmother, who spent most of the time abroad with her husband, whose business affairs called him there. Bliss and the stepmother were the best of friends, and it was this understanding friendship which left the girl in sole possession of her former home.

Lizzie, her own mother's trusted helper, was also left in charge.

The girl had been given her mother's family name, and those who loved her—and there were oh, so many—thought it the most appropriate name, for surely the bright presence, was as they said, a "blissfully happy one." "Trying, too, to make others as happy."

Bliss seated herself on a lower step to read her letter. It was written in behalf of some new-found friend of her mother's. "A dear woman," the letter said, "from our own home city, who, widowed, had come over here, with her young daughter. I have talked with her about you, of course, Bliss darling, and she was moved to write you—her inclosed letter speaks for itself."

Bliss unfolded the accompanying letter.

"My Dear Miss Carmen: Your mother has told me about you and your pretty home in the country village. I, who am far from home, wish that its hospitality might be extended, through your kindness, to my poor boy, left alone in the hot, dusty city. I know that Bobby is lonely without his mother—for, you see, he is my baby, and I'm afraid my friends are right when they say I have made myself too necessary to him. But that is a way of mothers. My little girl is with me here. I wonder if it is asking too much to suggest that you write him—just a little line, if you are busily occupied with other matters—and perhaps some time you will let him come out to sun himself in your lovely old-fashioned garden; I am seeing it through your mother's eyes. I know it would do my poor lonely Bobby a world of good, and I would be always, Yours most gratefully,

"ESTHER GALE."

Bliss bounced in to Lizzie. "Just think," she cried, in ever-ready sympathy, "of that poor boy left alone in the city, while his mother and little sister are away in Europe. I shall write for him to come, Lizzie, and you shall make him some of your famous cookies. It will really be pleasant to mother the motherless child." So Bliss sat down to her letter.

One evening at sundown Bliss was hanging a rope swing for her anticipated guest, beneath the apple tree, and was looking very young herself, when a man approached through the hedge.

He smiled, as he came near, then stooped to adjust the swing board, which lay at the girl's feet.

"Will you tell me," he inquired, where I may find Miss Bliss Carmen? An elderly lady, I would fancy her, as she is a friend of my mother. A well-meaning friend," added the man, and smiled again.

"I am Miss Carmen," she absently replied.

The man stared—rudely, she thought. "You!" he exclaimed.

Bliss nodded. "You wanted to see me?"

The man laughed. Then instantly he excused himself. "I was certain that a friend of my mother's as you stated you were in Bobbie's letter, must naturally be near my mother's age. Indeed—you are just a little girl in a swing."

Bliss slipped from the swing to stand before him. "What do you know of Bobby?" she asked.

The man stood up. "I am Bobby," he announced astonishingly. "I suppose mother is to blame for your mistake," he said. "She always refers to my sister as her little girl, though Sue has long been married. I, to my confusion, am her 'baby,' because I happen to have been the youngest in the family. But—I did like my invitation, its true hospitality, the real thing all through."

From the open kitchen doorway came a spicy odor; Lizzie stood there curiously regarding the visitor.

Suddenly laughing, Bliss put out her hand to him. "I must keep my promise about the cookies," she said.

"And the hammock afterward?" he smiled into the violet eyes.

"And the hammock," agreed the girl.

And as they walked to the house together, he was thinking jubilantly: "That match-making mother of mine is on the right track at last."

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

ARE YOU WORTHY?

A COMMON and frequent complaint nowadays among self-esteemed young men and women is that they are not making satisfactory progress.

With more or less petulance they declare that their incomes are not sufficient to keep them in the style in which they want to live.

Instead of being compelled to depend on popular shops for their clothes, they yearn to be in position to patronize high-priced tailors and dressmakers, and thus in their false estimation keep step with the rich by making repeated shows of fine feathers.

The plebian atmosphere in which these hapless mortals are surrounded is most displeasing.

Any real effort to improve their mental qualifications is apart from the question, and contrary to their inmost wishes.

Though apostles of laxity, devotees of empty pleasures and devout disciples at the shrine of prodigality, these disgruntled young men and women openly blame the world for their imagined plight, often condemning their employers for holding them down, when as a matter of fact their employers have nothing whatever to do with it.

The man or woman who is really desirous of rising to the surface where he or she can swim with head above water must pull a hard, continuous stroke, quite regardless of what others are doing.

It is the only way to keep at the top and keep moving ahead.

Drifting is perilous to everybody who indulges in it, certain in the end to lead to disaster by wrecking the fondest hopes and highest aspirations.

In spite of our vaunted pride of progress, drifting is becoming a national habit, particularly among the puny-minded who bend their knee to the god of gold rather than to the god of wisdom.

Every good thing in life is measured by such persons with the tape bearing the dollar mark and its decimals, even morality, friendship and love.

Yet alas! these handlers of this iniquitous tape line perversely lament their position in life and condemn the irresponsible for faults and failures that are their own.

To make yourself worthy in any calling it is necessary to prove your worthiness.

And this cannot be done except by honest endeavor, long hours of hard work and a manifest willingness always to put personal industry above personal indulgence.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

BE A GOOO LOSER

IF WE all liked to lose, this would be a shiftless and an ambitionless life.

It is natural to want to win in any competition, business or athletic.

Any self-respecting man would like to feel that he can outstrip the other fellow in any race he enters.

He feels chagrined when he loses. But if he amounts to anything he does not show it.

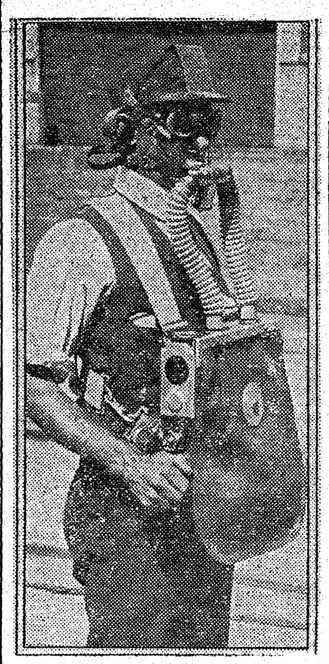
To whine, to lose your temper, to invent excuses, to show jealousy if you lose, is poor sportsmanship and poor judgment.

You may feel badly because you have lost, and you ought to, but remember that you, and no one else, are responsible. For if the competition was one in which you had no chance of winning you shouldn't have entered it. If you did have a chance, it was your fault that you did not improve it.

Be a good loser, therefore, and generous to your opponent. But don't lose too often.

Don't be so little concerned about losing that you never try to win.

Don't feel that it makes no difference how the race goes. When it is over have a quiet little conversation with yourself, and give general instructions not to let the same thing happen again.



There is such a thing as being so good a loser that you like to lose. And there are no competitions run off in this world which you can afford to enter merely for the pleasure of letting some other man win.

You are perfectly justified in feeling bad when you have lost. You are justified in taking yourself into a corner for a lecture on the folly of losing. The continual loser will in the end have to part with his self-respect and his courage, and become a mere cumberer of the earth.

Try to win as hard as you can. If you lose next time make up your mind that you will win the next. Determine that you will win oftener than you lose and that you will win as nearly 100 per cent as possible.

Then when you do lose, you can bear it with a better grace, for you will know that such a thing is not going to happen very frequently.

American Legion

As a "counterblast" to the feminine beauty contests which have swept across France this summer, the Paris post of the American Legion announces a "beauty contest" of its own. Instead of a competition to ascertain the most beautiful woman in the American colony there, the ex-doughboys have started a search for the most handsome American man in Paris.

The Paris Legion post has a membership of more than 1000. As fully as many more Americans are now located in the French capital the contest promises to be one of the most interesting of the many activities the Americans have engaged in this season. The usual photographs of entrants will be displayed and votes by men and women members of the colony will be received and tabulated by a board, the members of which are barred from competing.

A special message to American Legion members attending their national convention in New Orleans, October 16-20, has been sent by President Harding through a New Orleans newspaper.

In a letter addressed to Robert Ewing, publisher of the New Orleans States, President Harding stated:

"Convinced as I am that this autumn's national convention of the American Legion will be for many reasons the most important yet held by that splendid organization, I am writing to tell you of my concern for its success. New Orleans as the municipal host to the convention will, of course, make the utmost contribution to the occasion. The fine hospitality that has made New Orleans and Louisiana famous, will impress upon their guests from other sections a realization of the greatness and variety of our country, its economic unity, and its singleness of purpose in behalf of the national aspirations. It is most desirable that the men of the Legion, who have served so nobly to establish our country's place in the world, shall embrace every opportunity to expand their knowledge of their native land.

"The nation as a result of the war's upheaval, confronts trying times and difficult problems, to whose settlement we must demand all that singleness of effort and willingness of sacrifice, that marked the common effort in the war. No class of our citizens knows so well as these men of the American Legion what such effort and such sacrifice mean; none has proved so splendidly its readiness to respond at the first call. Therefore, in dealing with the problems of today and the possible crises of the future, none will be summoned with more confidence to help sustain the authority of the government.

"It is a satisfaction to know of your plans for special effort, through the 'New Orleans States,' to contribute largely to the truly national character and significance of this gathering. I want to congratulate you upon them, and to hope for your fullest success."

President Harding has tentatively accepted an invitation to attend the Legion convention.

A half dozen years ago baseball box scores were almost unknown outside the American newspaper field, and those magazines devoted to sports. Major league teams visited foreign countries and showed the game off. Like some vaccinations it didn't take. The European and Oriental countries were slow to take up baseball before the war. Now, however, hardly a country but has its baseball teams. The men who went overseas in 1917 and 1918 mixed with the young men of a dozen countries. These allied soldiers saw for the first time real amateur baseball and it did take.

When the war ended three or four million young men took off their army uniforms and started looking for a job. Some of them have gone far, to Turkey, Japan, China, South America and other countries. They got the jobs and for the first time had something in common, these world travelers. They were var veterans and therefore eligible for membership in an organization open to World war men alone, the American Legion.

In virtually every foreign country is a post of the Legion and in each Legion club room are baseballs and bats. For the first time there came into being an American organization of young men and American young men play their country's national game. The result of these foreign units of the American service men's organization has meant a formation of teams and leagues that reaches around the globe.

London, which before the war looked on sourly at American teams playing baseball, presents a changed front today. A full eight-team league has blossomed where not a sprout existed before. Such typically named playing fields as "The Crystal Palace grounds" and "The Stamford bridge field" are utilized by the Americans for their contests.

The league was started by the London post of the Legion, which has spread baseball to the four winds of the island, and wind carries a long way. In speaking of the London league the Paris, France, edition of the New York Herald says: "The American Legion is making every effort to popularize baseball in London and is expending a great deal of time and money in enlisting both American and English interest. At a recent game at Stamford Bridge between the American University Club and the United States Shipping Board, the Legion sent out more than 500 invitations to American families living in England to attend the game."

NEW ENGLAND ROTARY SINGS IN HONOR OF JUDGE ROBT. HILL

Peabody delegates to the New England Conclave of Rotary Clubs arrived home last night from New London, where the big conference was held at the Hotel Griswold on Long Island Sound. It was the biggest affair of its kind in the history of Rotary in this district, and the 800 delegates and wives were given a handsome entertainment by the hosts. The New London Club under President "Jim" Sullivan covered itself with glory in the success that attended the affair.

District Governor, Judge Robert W. Hill of Salem was much in the limelight and was several times honored by the great throng assembled at the banquets and entertainments.

A parody on the song "There was a man named Hill," was written by Dr. Carleton, a member of the Boston Rotary Club, and the conclave joined in singing the song, after Judge Hill had begun to speak. The song was as follows:

Bob Hill

O-O-O, there was a young man named Hill,
And we called him "Bob," not Bill,
And we're glad this job
We gave to Bob,
And we guess that we always will.

Governor Hill was interrupted while directing the big meeting of the delegates Tuesday night while the song was sung.

Joe Turner of Virginia of the international board was the big speaker at the conclave and he extolled Rotary and delivered a powerful message to the membership in which he urged faithful attendance at all club meetings.

Submarine, aeroplane, motorboat rides and a diving exhibition by the oldest diver now in the profession made up a wonderful program of entertainment for the final day.

The Peabody party included President and Mrs. Joseph Noyes, Mayor Shea, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Ames, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Power, Ernest Woelfel, George A. Blaney, Philip C. O'Rourke, Richard O'Rourke and Frank Penniman.

Next Tuesday's meeting of the local Rotary Club will be given over to reports of the conclave.

COUNCIL WANTS ACTION

Councillor Sullivan believed that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children should be asked to cooperate and Councillor Barnes, one of the local directors of the latter society, let it be known that his board would be glad to assist when facts were laid before them.

Councillor Craig made an amendment to the Cullen motion which put it up to the police department to inspect homes under suspicion.

Councillor Duggan took a fling at Mayor Shea when in his debate on the question declared it was up to the chief executive to see that his departmental heads did their duty.

It was brought out in the debate that the conditions in the Fulton street home had been called to the attention of the police some months ago and that their information had been placed with Agent James J. Ray of the Board of Health. That some city official had failed to do his duty was plainly expressed, an echo of many citizens who have known of the Fulton street condition for some time. By order of the court these children, one of whom is now dead, might have been placed in a home where human hands could have cared for them and kept them away from gas poisoning.

Councillor David A. Barry declared it was the function of the City Council to give expression to popular sentiment, and that while the Council could not force action, he believed that the publicity given to the situation would act as a warning to other parents who are neglecting their children. He declared it was his intimate knowledge that many homes in the Eastend had children locked up or alone while the parents worked outside. He believed a crusade by the proper authorities would go a long ways toward correcting this social evil.

Mayor Shea will take a hand in the matter and it is pretty certain that some parents will receive a warning that legal action will be taken to compel many mothers to better safeguard the lives of their children.

Councillor Barry introduced a motion last night which calls on the Mayor and committee on public property to purchase new seats for the large auditorium in City Hall and thereby comply with the law. He declared the present arrangement of movable seats was in violation of the state law, and that until the condition was remedied civil suits for injuries to dresses was bound to result. In time of a disturbance in the hall the movable chairs might cause much havoc, he said. He suggested that sectional seats which could easily be fastened to the floor would eliminate expense and at the same time insure safety.

A detailed report of the financial condition of the city was prepared for the Council last night by City Auditor Goggin. His report showed a cash balance of $73,391.20 among the many appropriations. An overdraft of $4442.30 in water renewals, $83.58 in the sewer department and $18,037.77 in school construction were noted.

It is not so easy to get damage from the city for sundry claims apparently. Chairman Frank E. McKeen of the committee on claims reported no settlement on claims filed by James Murphy, Sutton street, James Parakis, 23 English street, and David T. Jones, Foster street. Rain water had flowed on their property. City Solicitor Farnham declared there was no liability on the part of the city.

The Council voted that the claim of Antonio Magavero, who laid the water main service on Lynn street, should be settled, and referred it back to Mayor Shea to devise the manner in which the city should properly carry out its part of the contract. A balance of $2000 is due the contractor.

Edward Cowan was confirmed as dog constable without opposition, which is a sad blow to unlicensed dogs.

Maurice Hallahan of 16 Endicott street and Chester G. Allen of 39 Aborn street, were drawn for jury duty.

Under suspension of the rules Alvah O. Moore and Cornelius J. Bowen of the Munroe & Arnold express office were confirmed as weighers. The concern has recently installed a new scale. President Ryan requested suspension of the rules.

PASSED AROUND CIGARS

Councillor Sullivan, defeated for the Democratic nomination for representative by Councillor Jones, passed around cigars last night at the Council meeting, and declared he was still smiling. He was a good loser.

A. C. L. LEAGUE LEADERS CLASH TONIGHT

The Standing Today

	Won	Lost	%
Japan	8	2	.800
Sheep	7	2	.777
Hide	7	2	.777
Office	4	6	.400
National	1	8	.111
Cutstock	1	8	.111

The last scheduled game of the A. C. L. series finds two of the three teams tied for the lead opposing each other. The game tonight between the Hide and Sheep departments will eliminate one pennant contender, and the winner will have to play the Japan team to decide the championship. It is likely that Myron Dempsey will oppose Billy Sullivan on the mound, and the game is to be called at 5.30 in order that the full seven innings may be played without darkness spoiling the play.

A wonderful exhibition of baseball was staged by the Japan and National teams last night, the scrappy Nationalites forcing the leading Japanners to travel at high speed in order to pull over a win. Ernie Gourley held the National to three hits and struck out 12 men, while Lang allowed but five hits, two of which were secured by Gourley. Walsh and Coffey starred in the field, accepting many difficult chances. But one error was made on each side. The Japan were lucky to win by the score of 2-0.

The postponed game between the tailend Cutstock and National teams will be played off Monday night.

An Ancient City.

Peking is one of the oldest cities in the world, being known to exist in the Twelfth century before Christ, but although it is of immense size, but 25 miles in circumference, much of the space within the walls is unoccupied.

The World's Antiseptic.

The sun bath establishments of the higher Alps are flourishing as it seems to be established as a fact that the sun's rays have certain curative powers and the persons who go there seem to be improved to a great degree. It has been noticed in England and Wales that there is a relationship between the amount of sunshine and the death rate. One recent year was noted as the sunniest ever experienced and the death rate was the lowest.

TWILIGHT GAMES FOR SOUTH PEABODY

The regular meeting of the South Peabody Twilight League took place last evening at Keith's hall and was well represented by all captains. It was voted upon that games which are still on the schedule will be played Saturdays and Sundays so as to bring the league to a close as soon as possible. Starting Saturday the schedule will be: Boscoe vs. Wash. A. A., 1.30 p. m. All Stars vs. Armistice, 3 p. m. This double-header will give the fans a lot of excitement, as Capt. Hard Murphy of the Wash. A. A. is out with his strongest line-up to defeat the Boscoes. On the same bill the All Stars and the Armistice Club will battle it out for first place, with High Street still in the race.

The remaining schedule is as follows: Sept. 18, Bosco vs. Lake Shore; Sept. 19, All Stars vs. Wash. A. A.; Sept. 20, Wash. vs. Armistice; Sept. 21, Wash. vs. High Street; Sept. 22, Bosco vs. Armistice.

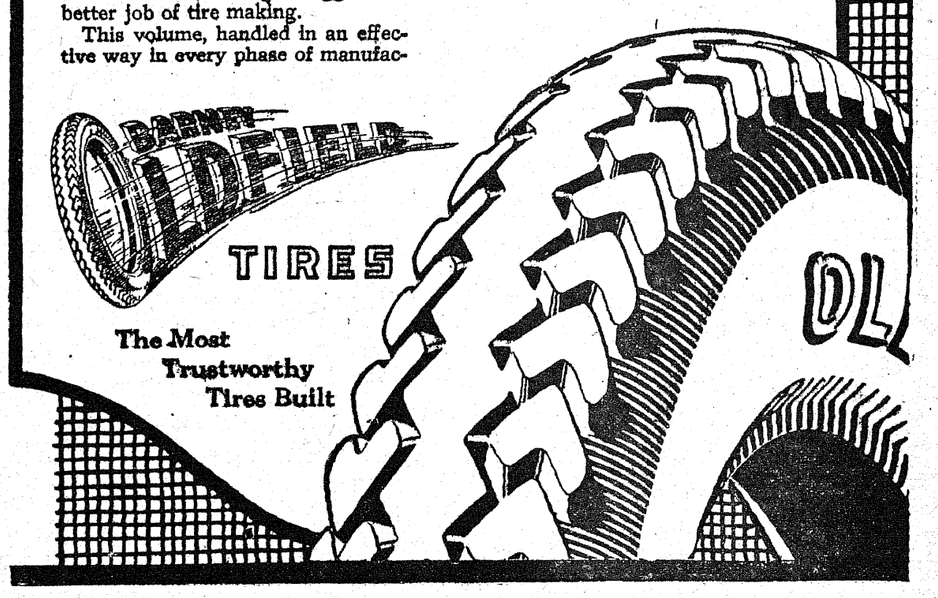
Making 20 Years of Racing Serve Car Owners Today

IN the early days of automobile contests, Barney Oldfield—out to win every race—studied tires. His consistent success led other drivers to ask for tires constructed to his specifications.

Twenty years of road and track victories—with a steady and increasing demand for tires as he built them—convinced Barney Oldfield that these speed tests pointed the way to a better tire for everyday use.



The enthusiastic reception of Oldfield Cords by the public proved he was right. Scores of the most prominent dealers in the country—and many thousands of car owners, experienced in the use of tires—bear witness by their decided preference that Oldfield is doing a bigger and better job of tire making.

This volume, handled in an effective way in every phase of manufacture and distribution, has resulted in price quotations far below what you'd expect on tires known to be better built and more enduring.

Practically every important race event for three years has been won on Oldfields. The Wichita Test Run in which an entire set of Oldfield Cords covered 34,525 miles on rough roads proves the mettle of the Most Trustworthy Tires Built in everyday driving.

The Master Driver and Tire Builder has given the public a new standard of tire wear and tire cost—a true economy that every car owner should know about.

Your Oldfield dealer has these facts—talk to him.

New Brick Industry For City

Peabody's newest industry that of the Palmer Concrete Products Co. off Locust st., West Peabody, is at work turning out concrete blocks hollow tile and bricks and within a few weeks will be running full tilt to meet the demands for its product. The plant is built on the Mansfield estate near Lynnfield and with its spur track facilities occupies a central location for shipping its product to all of the Greater Boston cities and towns.

It is now at work completing curing rooms for its product and is using its own concrete blocks cast from its machines for this purpose. It is equipped to turn out concrete blocks 8x8x16 and 8x12x16 and whole tile 5x8x12. A lease of five acres of land has been acquired by the new concern which includes some of the richest deposits of sand and gravel in this whole district.

The concern was founded by Capt. Osborn Palmer, a world war commissioned officer who saw trench warfare with the engineering corps before the YD boys got up to the front. He has associated with him as President of the corporation Bertram C. Eastman for sometime manager of the Essex Trap Rock Co. of this city. Capt. Palmer is Treasurer of the concern.

Work is under way for a power house to supply steam for the drying process for the concrete blocks. The concern has practically no competition in its line and when fully equiped is bound to do a big business. Its present machinery is capable of turning out 1800 concrete blocks a day.

PARK BOARD MEET TONIGHT

There will be a meeting of the playground commission this evening at 7.30 in the committee room, City Hall. Anyone interested in Sunday football at Emerson Park should appear at this meeting.

STATE FIREMEN ELECT MAHONEY VICE PRESIDENT

WILLIAM C. MAHONEY

William C. Mahoney, postal clerk and secretary of the Peabody firemen's relief association was elected First Vice President of the Mass. State Firemen's Association in Lynn yesterday without opposition. He has long been a call fireman attached to headquarters and as secretary of the relief association has rendered a fine service to his fellow members. He made an effective speech at the convention in Lynn against fake solicitors.

Chief Barrett engineers Arthur Bodge and Thomas Carbrey were among the delegates present. Other Peabody firemen to attend the conclave were James Dee, John Ellis, Chester Carlin, William Costello, J. L. Mulcahy, Ted Foley, James Yelverton, Thomas Mannix, Timothy Roache and James Carr. Daniel Hannon of this city received a complimentary vote for director of the association losing by a few votes.

WINS FORD CAR

A Ford touring car was awarded to J. A. Donovan of Lynnfield at the firemen's convention.

Bonded Debt and Schools Cost Peabody $1300 a Day

It costs Peabody $650 a day to run its public schools and the maturing debt and interest now borne by the city totals a cost of nearly $700 a day. These figures have been arrived at by Chairman Patrick J. Sheehy of the Board of Assessors who has become the financial wizard in City Hall. His figures are based on the appropriations for the present year ending December 31.

Here are Mr. Sheehy's illuminating figures which show the taxpayers what the municipality is doing with its revenue to meet the daily cost of $2,391.02 to maintain the various departments:

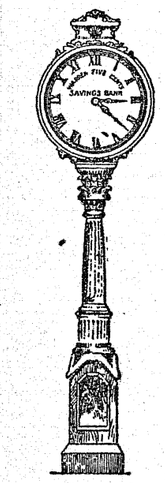
PLYMOUTH HAS CHALLENGE FOR PEABODY TEAM

The Plymouth baseball town team wants to play the Peabody town team in a post-season game some Sunday afternoon in the near future. Park Commissioner P. O. Conley of Plymouth is manager of the Plymouth team and last Sunday took his players to Gloucester where they battled to a 12-inning tie game 5 to 5 with the Fish City outfit. Manager Conley used to be with the telephone company in Peabody and Salem and has asked the Enterprise to challenge the Peabody team to a game.

GIRLS MUST NOT WEAR KNICKERS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Knickers as costumes for girls attending the Peabody high school are under the ban by Principal Woodman who a few days ago sent a young miss home when she appeared in class dressed for the golf links. A boy student who appeared with a wonderful crop of football hair was also taken in hand by Principal Woodman who suggested tonsorial treatment for the gridiron warrior before he appeared again in class-room.



PORTER CO. GET POOR CONTRACT

The Edward H. Porter Co. will start work on building a two story addition to the Nathan H. Poor Co. big leather plant on Sawyer st. and Railroad ave. The new building will be of mill construction and is 48 by 64. The second story will be used for offices and stockroom and the basement floor will permit of an enlargement to the cellar room in which paddles will be installed. This concern has no beam house. The contract was awarded to the Porter Co. as a result of competitive bids.

Peabody High School

The candidates for the football squad have been practicing afternoons under Coach Brawley in the rear of the High School on their new athletic field. Eighty-three men reported on the first day of practice.

Owing to the large number of pupils and the difficulty of serving so great a number at the lunch-room in twenty minutes, the recess program has been changed. There are now two twenty-minute recesses. One-half of the school have their recess, while the other half are having a recitation.

The teachers are now engaged in arranging and listing books for the school library. A committee has been chosen for the library; Miss Willey was chosen chairman. It is expected that the library will be opened for the use of the pupils on Monday.

Miss Ruth Bagley, teacher at the High School has been granted a four months leave of absence. Mrs. Susie Langford of Allston, is substituting for Miss Bagley.

Mr. Brawley, the new athletic coach, is also a teacher of Civics and History.

Mr. Sullivan, graduate of Holy Cross College is now head of the English Department. He was formerly a teacher in New Hampshire.

Mrs. Kenneth Cole of Atlantic and Miss Evelyn Brawley, a teacher at the Winthrop Street School, Boston were visitors at the High School. These two teachers were formerly teachers in the Peabody High School. Miss Brawley is a relative of Mr. Brawley the new coach.

Miss Sullivan the music teacher has been teaching at the Keene Normal School N. H. during the summer.

Miss Bertha Guilmet, P. H. S. '20, leaves Saturday for Middletown, Conn., where she has accepted a position as teacher of bookkeeping at a business college.

Miss Broadbine, teacher of Spanish, returned Monday after a summer in Spain.

Howard Burbeck has returned to Amherst Agricultural College.

Arthur Fielding Luscomb, the noted violinist of Salem, was a visitor at school this week.

Myron Kerwin of Room 4, left last week for Washington D. C. where he started his school term Monday.

Miss Amy Wiggin of the class of '20 is now head of the Bookkeeping Dept. in Saugus High School.

Miss Kathleen Hallahan, High School reporter last year for the Enterprise will enter Salem Normal school.

Walter Vandyke, '22, Manager of the High School Magazine, Pep—will enter Tufts College.

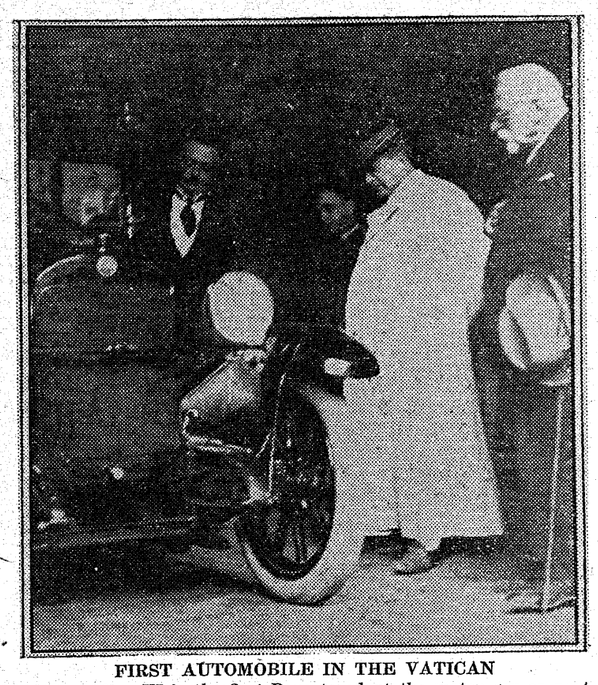
Robert Hayes, '22, began his studies at Holy Cross College Thursday.

Miss Dorothy Wiggin, '22, has entered the Essex Agricultural School.

Miss Louise Burbeck, '20, has entered the New Haven Normal School of gymnastics.

William Crean and John Donahue, '22, football stars are now practicing with the Boston College football squad.

William Duffy and John Connolly, '22, will enter Boston College.



Joseph Powers, '22, will enter Tufts Medical School.

Ralph Holden, president of the class of '22 began his studies at Brown Monday. William Dee, '22, has also entered Brown.

Mansfield Munroe, '22, will enter Andover Academy.

The new gymnasium is now being used by candidates for football.

By all indications we shall be ready to play and entertain our guests from the South on November 4.

TO CORRECT SPEECH

The free Speech Clinic in Boston under the auspices of the Normal School for Speech Education, that gave free expert treatment to children and adults with speech disorder last summer, will be continued this Fall because of the great demand for expert free treatment. The clinics will start in October and will close when the classes are full. It will be opened again only for vacancies. The free patients will be taken as far as possible in the order of application by mail. For those who write and describe their case and apply for free treatment, the clinic will be held at the School for Speech Education, Bay State Road, Boston.

Mr. Tortat Loses Sister In Kansas

William M. Tortat of the firm Jackson and Tortat the bakers has returned from a several weeks sojourn in Kansas where he visited his sister Mrs. J. C. Fox. He was called there on the illness of his sister and several days after he had left for his home in Peabody Mrs. Fox passed away. She leaves five sons and daughters all of whom are married. Mrs. Fox resided in Atchinson. One of her sons is in the wholesale drug business with which the father was identified for many years in Wichita, a city of 90,000 people with 500 miles of concrete streets. The Fox home in Wichita is a few houses away from the palatial residence of Gov. White of Kansas.

Mrs. Emma Folson who spent the summer in Maine has returned to Peabody and is the guest of her daughter Mrs. Frank Lindsey on Clement ave.

TIPLADY---BICKFORD

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Paul's church Wednesday evening when Mildred L. Bickford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bickford of Holten st., became the bride of James Tiplady, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Tiplady of Warren st. The bride was charmingly gowned in white silk crepe and wore a lace veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley. Miss Dorothy Bickford, sister of the bride who was maid of honor, wore silver-blue taffeta with black picture hat and carried orphelia roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Isabelle Tiplady, sister of the groom, who wore silver-rose taffeta with black picture hat and carried pink roses. The groom was attended by Leonard Ives of Salem. Following the ceremony a reception attended by 75 friends and relatives was held at the home of the bride's parents. The gifts, which were numerous and beautiful, were in charge of the Misses Marion and Priscilla Pratt. Miss Anna Anderson presided at the punch bowl and Miss Annie Lee assisted with the guest book. The happy couple left on an extended wedding trip after which they will return to their new home at 13 Jacobs st.

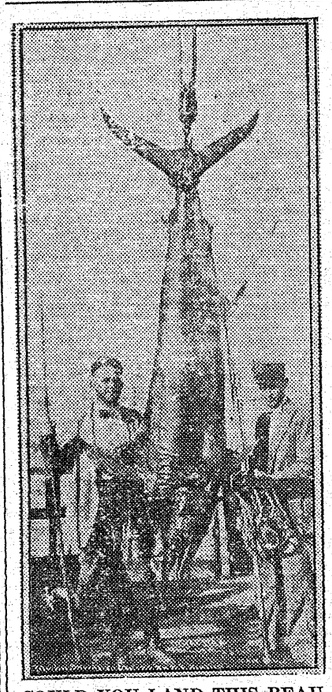
AFTERWHILE

WE ARE going to "cut the mustard,"
Afterwhile.
Likewise be "all to the custard,"
Afterwhile.
But today we're in poor fettle,
So we'll let our feelings settle;
But we're going to show our mettle
Afterwhile.



We will wipe out all injustice
Afterwhile.
We'll do lots of big things—trust us—
Afterwhile.
But today is full of pleasure
And its golden hours we'll treasure;
But we'll start on some great measure
Afterwhile.

It's the greatest country ever—
Afterwhile.
And to reach it's our endeavor,
Afterwhile.
But today we'll spend in dreaming,
Wasting hours of golden gleaming;
And await a glad dawn's beaming
Afterwhile.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR INEXPENSIVE ADDITIONS TO HOME COMFORT AND HEALTH —WITHOUT REBUILDING

Added Comfort and Conveniences Which Cost but Little

ORIGINAL PLAN

Second Floor of a "One Bath Room" House Transformed Into a Truly Modern Home

The observations and investigations of health authorities, all point to the conclusion that the usual "one bathroom" dwelling provides bathing and toilet facilities that are insufficient.

Modern health education calls for frequent bathing—daily if possible. Bathing and toilet facilities, convenient enough to invite their use, are essential to household health.

Here's the second floor of an average dwelling transformed, in matters of comfortable living, by inexpensive changes and additions of plumbing.

The added toilet and bathroom, with a shower for each tub, and the lavatories in each bedroom, have made this house, easily, twice as attractive as it was originally. To fully serve convenience and comfort, each lavatory should have a toilet and medicine cabinet above it.

Comparison of the two plans, immediately shows that no convenience presented by the original is missing. On the contrary, with a minimum of alterations the new bathing and toilet facilities are in position. In this case, the fixtures used provided a practical and comfortable bathroom outfit in a very small space. Some leading manufacturers of such wares are providing complete high grade outfits that require space only five feet square.

The whole trend of living and housing conditions today is in a direction which forces the utmost occupancy of dwelling space. Yet too few of the dwellings, already standing, were built with such conditions in view. The only logical remedy is in the direction of making what is available more "livable:" and more bathing and toilet facilities are consequently needed.

Your plumbing dealer can transform a partially used closet or trunk room into a daily used bathroom.

Peabody Will Have Strong Pro-Eleven

Football is coming into its own and the announcement that Peabody will be represented on the gridiron this fall by a fast semi-pro team under the joint management of Bernie Nangle and Had Wentworth is sure to set the old town on edge. Confident of the support of the local fandom Nangle and Wentworth have ordered new uniforms for twenty players and have booked the Lowell Indians for the first game which will be played Sunday, October 1st.

That the new team will be able to hold its own with the best in the State seems assured when it is known that practically all of last year's eleven will be on hand, together with several new men who have made a name for themselves in college.

Among the new men the fans will want to see in action are Threshie, last year's first string end on the Dartmouth College team and first base on the Hide team of the A. C. L. league, and Norman Crane a former Worcester Tech star. Crane will tip the scales around one hundred and eighty, is fast and strong, and will be played on the line. The backfield will include the following H. Lawrence, O'Connor, Puska, Hay, Wilson, Lynch and O'Keefe. It is probable that Threshie will be groomed for a backfield place. The line will be selected from Reed, Munroe, Holden, Heaphy, Crane, Trask, Lawless, Masterson, Ryder and Meade.

Cats Sense Earthquakes.

Cats and some other animals seem to be endowed with what some investigators regard as a sixth sense in their ability to sense the approach of an earthquake or similar disturbance. In the earthquake countries it is frequently noted that the cats are very restless just before one of these demonstrations. At Valparaiso the family cat of a well-known scientist was noticed to be very restless, its uneasiness increasing up to the point when a "trembler" was experienced and during the disturbance the animal's hair was raised and ears flattened.

Described.

A teacher in English in one of our colleges describes a money-lender as follows: "He serves you in the present tense, lends in the conditional mood, keeps you in the subjective, and ruins you in the future."

PEABODY HIGH OPENS SEASON TOMORROW

Tomorrow morning at 10.15 coach Brawley expects to line up his first string team against the pick of the rest of the squad. It is evident that the regulars will have to fight to win over the best eleven men picked from a group of seventy. A regulation game will take place as the field is already lined off and everything is in readiness.

The squad has put in a most strenuous week of practice.

Dr. J. W. P. Murphy who served as team physician last year and accompanied the team to Charleston S. C. will again serve them as physician.

The boys are in the pink of condition with the exception of Capt. Gavigan who has been bothered the last week with boils and Kildery who sprained a tendon in his right ankle in a scrimmage last Tuesday. Both men are slated to report today ready for action.

Candidates

Arthur Gavigan, Donald McKeen, John Murray, Theodore Manning, John Munroe, Frank Dennis, Leo Buckley, Charles Coan, Joseph Luz, Peter Panageotopoulos, George W. MacDonald, Louis Guilmet, Edward Fennessey, Augustus Macione, Anthony Puska, Walter Gray, James Foster, Wilbur Jackman, Edward Twiss, Philip Southwick, Raymond Viles, Raymond Coombs, Arthur Johnson, William McCarthy, John Reid, Joseph Lee, Daniel Donovan, James Russell, Barnett Weinstein, Bernard Coyle, Edward Murphy, Ray Smithers, Albert Thibodeau, Joseph McHugh, Newell Bodge, Paul MacGregor, John Callahan, Arthur Maguire, Victor Chandler, Daniel Wiggin, Francis Kilderry, John Murphy, John Sweeney, William Little, George Mortis, James Williams, Edward Lynch, John Drislane, Palmer Watkins, Andrew Elwell, Franklin Reed, Roger Doherty, Clayton Pierce, Frank Listchook, Stanley Tocken, Ivan Churchill, James Yelverton, Charles Mogavero, Simon Beres, Lionel McDuff, William Moynihan, Stanley Chiplinsky, Edwin VanDyke, Michael Hallihan, Frank Pitman, Samuel Smidt, George Stewart, Stephen Ellis, George Hodgdon.

The advisory board met Tuesday evening and Henry A. King was re-elected faculty manager of football; Frank Murphy student manager; Thomas Dolan, Stuart Quint and James Mason assistant managers. The Chelsea game scheduled for Sept. 30 at Chelsea may be transferred to a Wednesday date Sept. 27, and a home game will be scheduled on Sept. 30. Miss Alice Lynch secretary to the superintendent was appointed secretary of the new advisory board and W. W. Woodman principal of the High school was appointed as treasurer of the board.

Many former football players have watched with eagerness the last week the workout that the players are put through every afternoon.

On Wednesday afternoon about 200 witnessed the workout and among the spectators was mayor William A. Shea.

The schedule for 1922 is as follows:

LIST OF CHARLESTON PLAYERS WHO MAY COME TO PEABODY

By ANTHONY J. McKEVLIN

Charleston, S. C., September 21—Hardened by exercise, tanned by Old Sol, and glowing with enthusiasm, forty Bantams returned to the city this week from the Isle of Palms, where they had been in training for the coming grid season. Two weeks were spent at the Palms, a resort near Charleston.

Dan Cupid does not hold much favor in the eyes of the Bantams. To him is charged the loss of Eddie Holcombe, who this year is matriculating at the University of South Carolina. Holcombe's departure causes a mean gap at full, which will have to be repaired from the material left over from last season, as no likely candidates for this all important position are among the new faces.

Among the more likely candidates for this job are Holcombe's younger brother, and Moony Brown. However, Coach Prause may shift Dutch Brinker to the rear works again, leaving Paul Read to battle at center. Brinker is showing up well in his fight for the pivot position against Read; but, everything considered, Prause's best bet probably is to change Brinker to full.

The candidates battling for Long's berth at tackle are showing up well; as are the contestants for Schwartz's place at guard. Haley, the Georgia giant, looms up as the wedge to fill the gap caused by Schwartz's departure. In the line, the Bantams will be stronger than last season, if one may judge from indications.

Coach Prause is also directing football activities at The Citadel, the Military College of South Carolina, known throughout the country as "The West Point of the South." He is working out his Bantams on the Citadel campus, and quite frequently the two squads will have opportunities to "mix it". These scrimmages will be beneficial to both aggregations, as it gives them an opportunity to play against an eleven other than their own scrubs. Also, the Cadets are heavier than the Hi athletes, and the preponderance in weight with which they will have to contend in these scrimmages is only what they will meet with in most of their contests this season. This feature also is of benefit to the Bantams.

All interest locally is centered in the coming struggle on October 21 with the Duval High School, of Jacksonville, Florida. Duval was the only eleven last year to overcome the Bantams, trimming them in Jacksonville to the tune of 21 to 3. It was Teddy Weeks' toe that saved the Bantams from a whitewash with a field goal from the 25 yard line. However, this game was played early in the season, and before the Bantams had hit their stride. This is no alibi.

Duval had the greatest aggregation in the country last season in high school circles, judging from comparative scores. Duval trimmed Charleston, champions of South Carolina, who in turn defeated Peabody, the champions of the North Shore League of Massachusetts. Duval also defeated a team from Texas claiming the southwestern honors, and another team from the middle-west who were holders of the honors in their section. This middle-western team had swept before them everything in the neighboring states.

The game with Duval is the first game scheduled for the Bantams. However, it is hoped to arrange perhaps a game or two with the service teams in or near Charleston, thus giving the Bantams an opportunity to stack up against heavier elevens. The Duval team is extremely husky. Their average weight will run somewhere around 170 pounds. The Bantams will average around 140 to 145 pounds.

The Bantams who make up the Charleston High eleven this fall are headed by Teddy Weeks, one of the ablest high school football quarter backs. Weeks will be this year, as he has been in the past, the big gun in the Bantams' offense and defense. His broken field running, his passing, punting and kicking, as well as clean cut direction of the players, sets him out as a stellar athlete.

All of Weeks' 1922 running mates will return, with the exception of Eddie Holcombe, the line ramming full, and "J. C." Long, the hefty tackle. Holcombe, since the close of last season, took unto himself one of Charleston's fair maidens; while Long was graduated in June. They both go to The University of South Carolina.

"Boll Weevil" Kilpatrick, who has demonstrated to the Bantams opponents that there is much in a name, will again be at half. Kilpatrick's ability in running the ends, passing and punting is shaded only by Weeks. Besides, Kilpatrick plunges a mean line.

Foremost among the new faces for the squad is "Henny" Fisher, who returns to High School after trying his hand at the electrical line. He has played for the past several years on local amateur aggregations and his ability is well known.

For the ends, Coach Prause will have several able and fleetfooted candidates. Abe Youngblood, Albion Johnson, and Tom Ferguson, who figured at the end positions last season, will again battle for the wings.

A number of candidates are battling for the honor of filling the gap left at tackle by Long's graduation. The aspirants show pretty fine mettle.

At the other tackle, there is no need for worry. Eddie Doyle, figures there. Doyle made his mark at tackle after a year's hard work with the scrubs, and, despite his comparatively light weight, he proved a troublesome and successful block to the enemy's attempts to gain through his section.

The two biggest men on the squad will hold down the guard positions. Efie Seabrook, Biggest Bantam, will figure at one. Seabrook never missed a game last year, and his ability is known.

CITY COUNCIL A CHECK

When Peabody became a city, its charter was given much attention by the committee who had it to frame. The history of the doings of this committee would make interesting reading. Charters of other cities were studied the best in their judgment used. After all this work, it became necessary to make many changes for the Legislature had passed a law giving a city the choice of one of three forms. In taking form B it was thought this form showed the most capabilities. While the mayor has power to do many things without the consent of the council, the all important item, curbing of spending money, was left to the council. This body has the power at all times to cut appropriations. When the budget is drawn by the mayor, the council is the body to check all expenditures. It appears to us that little stress has been laid on this power of the Council. It appears that the Mayor has been the "goat" when the Council has received little attention from the public. In view of this fact, voters this fall should have this most important matter in mind when casting their ballots. All should recognize the fact that the mayor whoever he is cannot spend public money without the council allowing so to do. It has been said since Peabody became a city, the mayor runs the city. If such is the case it has been only that the Council allowed it. After all is said and done, spending the city's money is the big item in running a city, and the mayor with the power to make his budget, the council to reduce the figures where it appears they are extravagant, makes the proper check to keep expenditures where they should be, somewhere near a successful business enterprise.

NURSERIES FOR CHILDREN

It has been the custom in many large cities for people charitably inclined to provide places for children during the day, so that their parents can follow their means of livelihood. "Slum work" so called has attracted the attention of hundreds of women who have taken themselves to the hovels of the poor, and there labored to help, the unfortunate and bring them out of the filth to decent living. Such deeds command the attention of the public, but those who do these things care little for notoriety. We read of many such cases, ferreted out by reporters, only through those who receive the benefits. It is one of the grand charities of this world. It has done as much to make the right kind of men and women as any other method. Such work could well be done in Peabody. Recent proofs of what is going on in several sections of the city has made it plain that such charity would go a long way to remedy matters. There are several charitable institutions doing good work in our midst. Without them much more suffering would be noted. But their ways are not the ways of the women who personally see to it the unfortunate are cared for by proper nursing. Most of us with business cares, home cares, find little time for the other. There are many however who have the time and money and need only the inclination to help. To these women we appeal and we believe it will be answered. An organization could be affected to deal properly with conditions. Properly managed it would stamp itself as a power for good, and its effectiveness would help to bring the unfortunate from living in want to the plane of other children who are more fortunate.

CHILDREN LEFT ALONE

The tragedy of last week when children left alone and locked in their home while their parents worked in the factory, causes food for thought. It brings out the thought that some way must be improvised to care for such children. The practice of mothers working in factories has grown to the extent that many children are left in this way, and without proper supervision only harm comes to them. It is apparent that only foreigners have this way of doing and no doubt they follow the customs of the land of their birth. It is a well known fact that children of the poorer classes in many parts of Europe bring themselves up as it were. But we of Peabody seek to stop such evils believing that neglected children are a menace to the public. The case, a sad one, has set an example which must not go unheeded. Some way or ways must be devised to care for children so situated, and the Poor Department or others interested in the welfare of our community must act. We do not know whether there are laws to cover such a situation. We presume parents who neglect to properly care for their children are liable under the law. In all charity for such parents we believe custom in most cases has made the trouble. But it matters little why neglect has made it so, something must be done by the city or others to protect the children in our midst. Unfortunately a tragedy has brought the facts to the attention of the public, when somebody in authority should see to it that such things do not occur. We are told many similar cases can be found, and such being the case the time is now ripe to remedy them. If those whose duty it is to care for such cases do not do their duty then something is wrong. Being wrong those in authority must, for the good of the public takes strong measures to alleviate the trouble.

ROUND ABOUT

We regret that Rev. Dr. Francis L. Beal should meet with an accident shortly after he removed to his new home in Somerville. After being in safe hands here for so many years, we trust in the future he will receive the same care there as he received here so long.

* * *

Lightning is not a respecter of persons evidently when it took a notion to break up the family of officer McMahon recently. We do not know where Jim was during the trouble, but it was evident trying to dodge lightning is a difficult proposition. Hard luck unless insurance paid the bill.

* * *

The property on Main street owned by Charles G. Halpert has been sold. Stephen Osborne now deceased carried on a meat market there for years, in the property next to the Savings bank. The building toward Salem next to the Osborne holdings was owned by a Haskell. S. H. Ware purchased both parcels and after some years there moved to his present location across the street. The property today needs paint and repairs and we hope the new owner will improve it, situated as it is on the main thoroughfare of the city.

* * *

It appears now that the Japan department in the A. C. L. baseball league has given the other teams a dose of that dope which this department uses so skillfully. This league should develop some able baseball generals who some day may be guiding the destinies of a big league team. However you managers do not tell all you know about that inside stuff.

* * *

That was quick work by the police in locating the tires stolen from the Andover street store. It should be a lesson to the young men to ply such trade in other cities where the police are more used to napping. Our police force is much alive, and the unbelievers can look up the records to become satisfied.

* * *

Edward Cowan the new dog constable probably knows every dog in the city. In fact what he does not know about real estate, dogs and the general doings of the community is worthless. We expect big doings from our new constable, and owners of dogs without licenses are facing trouble. This might serve as a warning.

There has been so much clothing torn by the chairs in the large city hall, that new chairs will make the city money. Let's have them.

From what can be gleaned for the financial report of the city by Auditor Goggin, the several departments will end the year with small overdrafts if any. Much of the work of caring for the figures in the Mayor's office has been done by Patrick J. Sheehy chairman of the Assessors. His experience as selectman under the town form of government has served him well. No doubt time will prove he has made figures which will stand the test. If departments overrun their appropriations after presenting their wants for the year, it cannot be laid at Sheehy's door. We simply wish to commend a public servant who has made good.

When Councillor Nichols Cullen spoke his mind in the recent council meeting to the effect that children left locked in their homes should receive attention, he showed a proper regard for the general feelings of the community. He showed a capability for his work as councillor, alive to situations of this kind which from time to time come before this body.

No doubt most people consider the Board of Health and Poor Department as under one head, and naturally so for one man has represented both many times in the past. It became necessary for Chairman Murray to issue a statement recently to the effect that the departments in question are entirely separate. Such being the case it is far easier to place the blame where it belongs, and those of the public who did not know conditions, can now praise or blame the proper authorities. Passing the "buck" to the other fellow is one of the tricks of the trade, but it cannot always be done successfully.

The stage is being set for the Charleston-Peabody football game, and all points to a merry battle for supremacy. There is no doubt our boys were handicapped more or less by the climate in the southern city. It would appear to us to be poor sportmanship to try and detract anything from the victory achieved by our southern boys. It is a poor sport who gives an alibi when defeated in any line of sport. The southern boys showed good sportsmanship in the game last year, and without doubt the same sportsmanship will be shown this fall by all interested.

Daniel J. Manning, owner of Manning's lunch quietly observed his birthday anniversary last Monday, having first seen the light of day on September 18, 1861. This made him a war baby. By a coincidence his nephew Harold G. Dunney, Esquire of Peabody lodge of Elks also observed his natal day that same date. Boniface Manning carries his years lightly and his million dollar smile is not the least of his worldly assets. He is the father of Judge Daniel C. Manning.

Peabody has been well represented at the Essex Fair at Topsfield this week and the Peabody Grange exhibit has been coming in for many compliments on its scope and high class. Charles E. Holden has charge of the exhibit.

John Boyle general manager of the Essex Trap Rock Co. has two alligators at his home on Aborn st. which he brought back from Florida last winter. One of the exhibits is particularly good natured and the other somewhat annoyed. Visitors to the Boyle home always get a thrill in watching the specimens of the everglades.

Mrs. Irving Forrest has qualified as a farmerette this season and has achieved an enviable record in getting two and three crops at her place on Andover st. She is now picking her third crop of corn. Mrs. Forrest was formerly President of the Peabody Woman's Club and is one of its foremost workers. She is the wife of Irving Forrest agent for the Boston and Maine railroad in this city.

I observe that Gardner C. Viles, foreman at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. plant is enjoying his vacation the first in sometime. As one of the leading members in the Peabody Grange he has given some of his time this week to assisting in arranging the Grange exhibit at the Topsfield fair. "Gardy" as he is popularly hailed among a large number of friends, is a diligent worker and sets a hard pace to follow for any committeeman. He was largely responsible for the success of the Moose lodge in this city, having served as its Past Dictator and secretary.

The Alhambra.

The Alhambra, most beautiful of all the palaces in Spain, was built by a Moorish king in about 1250, but has been enlarged by several successors of this ruler. It is a marvel of lovely arches and mosaics, halls and corridors and courts, of which the court of Lions is the most known and admired. The hall of the Ambassadors is, supposedly, the square apartment in which Columbus presented his project to Ferdinand and Isabella.

BAY STATE USED MUCH ELECTRICITY

Massachusetts produced 1,739,946,000 K.W.H. of electric power in 1920, according to the Geological Survey, this being 3.99% of the total in the United States. Of this 1,381,645,000, or 79.4%, was produced by fuel and 358,301,000, or 20.6%, was produced by water power. In the same year the Massachusetts electric light and power utilities consumed 1,576,286 tons of coal and 152,629 barrels of fuel oil.

In 1921 Massachusetts produced 1,603,959,000 K.W.H. of electric power, of 3.91% of the total n the United States. Of this 1,286,408,000 or 80.2%, was produced by fuel and 317,551,000 K.W.H. or 19.8%, was produced by water power. During the same year 1,306,141 tons of coal and 361,635 barrels of fuel oil were consumed by electric power utilities.

The report shows that the ten leading states in the production of electricity by public utility power plants in 1921 in the order of their rank were: New York, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Massachusetts, Washington, West Virginia, and New Jersey.

OWEN MOORE IN REPORTED MISSING STRAND FEATURE FILM TONIGHT

Hailed as a hurricane of melodramatic comedy, the showing of "Reported Missing", at the Strand today and Saturday is eagerly anticipated by local picture fans who like their pictures full of thrills, romance and laughter. Owen Moore is starred in this production which deals with the attempt of a Far Eastern capitalist to obtain possession of a huge fleet of ships owned by an American shipping company.

The high lights of the picture are a race between a hydroplane and a hydroaeroplane, a shipwreck, a rough and tumble fight in the villain's house, and a series of comedy scenes produced by Henry Lehrman. The United States government cooperated in the making of the production, permitting the use of airships and scout chasers used in the stirring water scenes.

"Reported Missing" is a picture that moves every minute. It is crowded with action and excitement. It is good for at least one hearty laugh a minute. It played New York City for four weeks steady, being booked for one week and held over three because of its popularity. Tom Wilson, as Mr. Moore's valet, gives a comedy performance that brings down the house. The scenes in which he attempts to wreak vengeance upon a group of Chinese schemers operating against his master are masterpieces of comedy. He could trim the Three Musketeers single handed by just shaking his weapon, a common every-day razor, in front of their faces. Nita Naldi, who has recently achieved fame as Rodolph Valentino's picture "Blood and Sand", plays opposite the star and her gowns are worthy of mention. A comedy film and Harry Myers in his serial play "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe" will be the other attractions on the big program for today.

Betty Blythe and Mahlon Hamilton in "The Truant Husband" will head the double bill for Sunday evening. Betty Blythe will be remembered as the star of the "Queen of Sheba." "Judgment," with an all-star cast will be the second feature on the program for Sunday evening.

Gloria Swanson in her new picture "The Gilded Cage" will head the bill for Monday and Tuesday Miss Swanson always attracts big crowds wherever she appears. In her new picture she is cast as a carabet dancer whose reputation suffers because of the publicity given her by a press agent. It is a new type of role for Glorious Gloria but one that permits her to appear in the most gorgeous gowns of her career. The settings are in keeping with the production and one, showing a hotel suite in New York, is the last word in lavishness. Appearing in the cast with Miss Swanson are to be seen Walter Hiers, Harrison Ford, David Powell and Ann Cornwell. "Kid Love," a comedy featuring the Century Comedy Kids, and the News Weekly will be the other attractions for today.

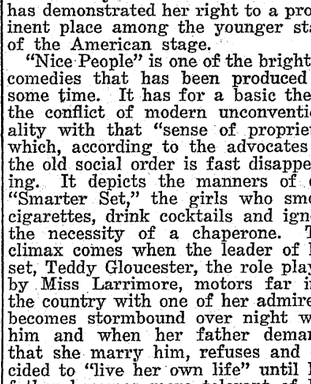
Rodolph Valentino in "Blood and Sand" will be shown next week Friday and Saturday.

"NICE PEOPLE" AT HOLLIS THEATRE

Next Monday evening the Hollis St. Theatre will open its doors for the season. As the initial attraction the management has secured from Sam H. Harris the sparkling comedy, "Nice People," by Rachel Crothers, which delighted the theatregoers of New York for more than a year and then ran for six months in Chicago to capacity audiences.

In the performance of "Nice People" Mr. Harris will present as a star the clever young comedienne, Francine Larrimore, an artist of unusual ability and charm. Miss Larrimore has not acquired her fame over night. Schooled in stock dramatic companies and then matured by several seasons work in prominent productions, her art has been rounded and finished by experience and intelligent endeavor. In this comedy of Rachel Crothers she has demonstrated her right to a prominent place among the younger stars of the American stage.



"Nice People" is one of the brightest comedies that has been produced in some time. It has for a basic theme the conflict of modern unconventionality with that "sense of propriety" which, according to the advocates of the old social order is fast disappearing. It depicts the manners of our "Smarter Set," the girls who smoke cigarettes, drink cocktails and ignore the necessity of a chaperone. The climax comes when the leader of her set, Teddy Gloucester, the role played by Miss Larrimore, motors far into the country with one of her admirers, becomes stormbound over night with him and when her father demands that she marry him, refuses and decided to "live her own life" until her father becomes more tolerant of her new social customs.

Miss Larrimore is charmingly cast as the spoiled and willful little rich girl, who smokes and swears as nonchalantly as a boy until her eyes are opened by a sincere young man who stakes his all on winning her love.

Peabody Dog Takes 5 Firsts At Canobie Lake

Monte, the nine months old Boston terrier, owned by William Hingston of the Peabody police force captured five first prizes in as many classes at the Canobie Lake, N. H. dog show on Labor Day and bids fair to repeat his winnings at the big Boston dog show in November. He was pitted against the best New Hampshire dogs.

Monte is the premier show dog of Peabody and probably the most valuable, his owner putting the price at $1200 with several offers of nearly that figure.

Monte is the grandson of Tiny Ring Master and his father is McCarthy's Master owned by William McCarthy of Hamilton who refused $1000 for his prized two years ago. His mother was raised by Patrolman Hingston.

Pickled Sheep Prices Show Trend To Jump--- No Worry Over Fuel

(By ENERGY)

A great increase in our import trade and a decrease in our export trade for July of this year as compared with July of last year, causes food for thought. The United States can manufacture far more than it can consume. Trade with foreign countries in years back has taken care of the surplus. Our exports go to all countries, but Europe at this time is taking comparatively little. Imports added to our own manufacture only clogs the wheels and should the ratio continue as in July of this year, it must mean after a time that factories will be idle for want of orders.

Few laboring men appear to understand the selling end of business. They have little chance to learn and take it as a matter of course that the output is sold without much trouble. In the last few years, that has been the case. Manufacture and the selling required no thought, for there were customers at the door ready and waiting. We are getting away from that condition. Salesmen scratch their heads today and wonder where the next sales are coming from. In the leather business, a salesman visits his trade only to find imported leather on the benches which is admitted to be the best ever. The price is lower than he can sell for, and the world looks dark and dreary. As more foreign leather comes in other shoe manufacturers purchase it and there is nothing to do but cut the prices to meet such competition. Where cut? A beautiful proposition to face for there is little that can be cut but the throat.

* * *

The coal and railroad strike situation appears to be on the mend. Soft coal production has returned to normal and we have many ships in Boston today waiting to get a chance to unload their cargo of coal. Hard coal this winter will no doubt be scarce but that is little to worry about. Local tanners have had trouble getting supplies by rail, but this trouble is lessening daily and will soon be normal. So at present we are healing our strike troubles, but like boils they often keep coming.

* * *

The Shoe and Leather Reporter tells us "With the ending of vacation season the temporary halt in the progress toward prosperity is forgotten. In all parts of the country there is optimism despite the limited coal supply and the continuance of the railroad shopmen's strike. Business has improved in the face of discouragement for the reason that it is based on facts rather than arguments. In the leather business raw stock quotations are strong and leather and shoe prices are stiffening. There is strong opposition to higher markets, but the situation has inherent strength. The mid-summer sloth failed to force reductions and now that consumer buying has been resumed there is a feeling that the operation of the law of supply and demand will force higher prices regardless of any and all opposition".

* * *

If the present tariff bill becomes a law, there will be business dissatisfaction in many quarters. Trade papers are saying such unkind things about the new tariff and the ones who fathered it, that it should not appear in print. It is evident the framers of this tariff and congressmen in general have little idea of protection and free trade as it affects the country as a whole. Playing to keep in with their constituents is their game and naturally so. To attempt to please the many lines of business with a tariff has been tried time and again and it cannot be done. But at this time and that is the real meat of the argument, no tariff can be right for what is right today is wrong tomorrow. Sometimes it appears the world is turning the wrong way on its axis and radio has taken the wind out of the sales of the weather profits. It rains as easily with a west wind as at south-east. Oh—you tariff.

* * *

Pickled sheepskins are bringing more per foot than is the finished article. Such being the case with sheepskins, so follows calfskins and hides. There is little need of an answer to this condition for leather must advance. But I hear manufacturers complain they cannot get prices to meet the advance in raw material. It must mean that many are selling leather based on the costs rather than on replacement. Such a condition is not good business.

* * *

Says the Shoe and Leather Reporter: Bolsheviki idea boiled down is that everybody eats but no one cooks.

* * *

Wanted—a gas mask to wear on the ears during a political campaign.

* * *

It is just important in peace as in war to "keep the home fires burning".

* * *

Shipments of early fall footwear are practically completed says the Shoe and Leather Reporter. Staples and shoes designed for wear later in the season are being made by manufacturers who cater to the wholesale trade. Makers of "in stock" numbers are inaugurating advertising campaigns and traveling men who cover large territories are now on the road. Traveling men are carrying spring lines, but hope to book immediate business of sufficient volume to keep the factories running until it is time to cut the spring orders.

Leather Market

Union sole leather business fair in Boston. Tanners expect greater call and are making no strenuous efforts to book business on heavy and medium weights at present prices. Indications are that prices will advance. In the Philadelphia union sole market prices have been advanced 1c. Chicago union sole tanners well supplied with orders. Prices fairly well maintained. Boston and Philadelphia tanners have had a quiet week on oak sole. Old orders are keeping the majority busy. In the New York market shoe manufacturers are placing orders for their requirements while finders' trade is also improving. In Chicago oak sole has been moving in fairly large lots. Boston and Philadelphia offal markets steady. Prices unchanged. New York reports good call for oak offal. In Philadelphia and Boston belting butts are fairly active. New York tanners report difficulty in filling orders because of the railroad strike. In Boston side upper leather is fairly active. New York tanners have advanced prices on various grades 2c. per foot. Calfskins unchanged. Little better call for suede. New business on patent leather not so brisk. Old orders keep tanners quite busy. In New York patent sides advanced. Glazed kid markets more active. Large operators not inclined to book business for future delivery at present prices. Floor stocks greatly lowered and some increase in soaks noted.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

OF DEEP-PILE FABRIC

For all-round wear there is no better or handsomer coat than one made of a lustrous, deep-pile fabric like the model illustrated. Bishop sleeves and a long scarf collar are among its distinguishing features, the scarf ending in silk and chenille fringe. The lining is of soft figured silk, and there are small pockets at the sides that will help keep the fingers warm in zero weather.

MOVIE GOSSIP

Mary Pickford has just completed her new version of "Tess of Storm Country". This is the second time Miss Pickford has made this picture and the production shows much advancement in the art of motion pictures.

Alla Nazimova, the great Russian star, is at work on "Salome" which will be released soon. The settings for this picture are among the most elaborate of the newer productions.

Douglas Fairbanks' latest picture is Robin Hood, in which he has plenty of opportunity to display his athletic ability. Playing opposite him is Enid Bennett who returns to the screen the proud mother of a little Enid.

Charlie Chaplin takes the part of a minister in his new picture which is to be named and released soon. Charlie has been reported engaged to Lila Lee recently but the report is denied by both.

OH, WHAT IS LOVE!

By MARY J. HITCHCOCK

(©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"What did the doctor say, Sally?"

Sighing heavily, Jim looked at his wife's pale face among the pillows. Under the softened light of the sickroom she looked so frail—the girlish slenderness which was really one of her chief charms seemed just skinniness. Sick for several days, she had failed to get up to prepare his breakfast as usual, and he had hurried home from work, anxiously wondering what the doctor had said.

"He hasn't been here—yet," Sally answered. "Josie phoned for him first thing this morning, but he said it would be late before he could get around."

"Well, how do you feel?" Jim sat down heavily on the edge of the bed.

"Oh, no worse than I've been feeling." It was the best that Sally could think to say in an attempt at cheerfulness. "You haven't been worrying about me?"

"How can I help it?" Jim reached for Sally's hand, and noted with growing concern how hot and dry it seemed. "If anything should happen to you, Sally—"

"You would go looking for Number Two in a little while." Sally's playfulness did not irritate Jim. It seemed to make him sad.

"I'd look a long time before I found anyone like you." Again he reached for her hand, and tried to hold it, when Sally would have pulled it away. "I haven't been a very good husband to you, have I, Sally?"

"Don't be silly!" Sally told him. "You've never heard me say so!"

"Of course you wouldn't—"

"Because I couldn't."

"Well, in a way I haven't been so bad," Jim admitted slowly. "I haven't beat you, and I don't remember that I ever got drunk—even since prohibition—but, I haven't done as much as I might—as much as I ought to have done for you!"

Sally pulled her aching bones to the far side of the bed. She had never discovered this crazy streak in Jim. Alarmed, even more than a little frightened, she surveyed him incredulously.

"I don't blame you"—Jim was speaking again—"I've been a brute to you—"

"You've been nothing of the sort, but you talk like a fool!" Sally snapped. Then, as the buzzer sounded, "Thank goodness! The doctor! Let him in, and stay out till he goes—do!"

Jim recalled the day when he had married her. It had been a double wedding, Sally's girl chum marrying a chap with whom the girls had both gone to school. And it had ended in the divorce court—that other marriage.

He walked into the hall as the doctor came downstairs.

"Anything serious?" His concern was real, at least.

"Nothing worse than one of these spring colds that everybody seems to be taking a turn at. I'll leave a prescription that ought to get her out of bed in a couple of days."

The doctor's cheerfulness, perhaps, was the reason for Jim's haste to get upstairs. He took them two at a time.

"I believe I feel better already," was Sally's greeting as he pushed open her door.

"Huh! Doctor said you weren't sick at all." Sally's husband stood eyeing her scornfully now. "Such a fuss you made over nothing—getting me all worked up over your sly insinuations about dying, and all those things! Had to take it out telling me what a hard time you've had of it with me. Anyone might think I was really the meanest—"

"Hurry, if you're going to get that prescription filled tonight." Sally yawned and turned her pillow to find a cool spot. "It's after 10 now—"

Jim shrugged himself into a coat and rubbed his hat with his sleeve.

"You might bring me a little ice cream. The doctor said I could eat it—"

"Bring you nothing!" Jim growled. "You'll be costing me enough with druggist charges and doctor's bills."

But he took the stairs very softly, and Sally did not catch even an echo of the closing door as he went into the street.

In 15 minutes he was back, the much-wanted ice cream in a paper box, and Sally's favorite magazine, flanked by a basket of selected fruit, was under his arm.

"Thought you'd be too lazy to even try to get up tomorrow," he grunted, "so, to keep you from setting me crazy I got you something to read. And, just so you won't have me running my legs off waiting on you I called Josie on the drug store phone—she's sending her girl over tomorrow to get something done in this house."

"Fine!" Sally sat up in bed and pecked daintly at the ice. "Your sister is a real comfort—thinks of everything, doesn't she? You are, too!" as an afterthought.

Jim paused, hung up his coat, then, standing at the foot of the bed, he scowled down at Sally's smiling face—

"Taffy! Well, it won't get you anything!"

Then, when she had finished the cream, he patted the pillows and straightened the bed-clothes, tucking them in around her neck.

"Think I'm doing all this because I like to make a nurse-maid of myself?" he wheezed. "Well, somebody has to look out for you, and it gets wished onto me."

Church Notes

South Church

St. John's Church

Rev. T. P. McGinn, Pastor.

Sunday—Masses at 7, 8.30, 9.45. High mass at 11. Children's mass at 8.30 (lower church).

Universalist Church

George H. Howes minister. Morning service at 10.30. Sunday School at 11.45. The Sunday School will observe Rally Day. Every scholar, who can do so, is urged to be present at the session.

Methodist Church

Rev. J. West Thompson, pastor. Morning worship and sermon at 10.30. Mixed quartet. Sunday School at 12. Popular evening service at 7. Mozart Ladies' Quartet of Boston will present "The Shepherd Psalm in Song and Story". Hearty congregational singing, excellent spirit, good fellowship. Service in the auditorium. The public is invited. First Fall meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary Tuesday evening at 7.45 in the church. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7.45.

Good congregations and a most excellent spirit have characterized the opening of the fall work at the Methodist Episcopal Church. A rather complete program of activities engaging every department of church work and intended to touch the entire constituency of the church has been adopted.

The first of a series of attractive Sunday evening services will be held next Sunday at 7 o'clock. The Mozart Ladies' Quartet of Boston will be present and will present "The Shepherd Psalm in Song and Story". This will afford an unusually attractive Sunday evening and will be the first of a series of Sunday evenings by the same quartet. Beginning with this service the evening worship will be held in the auditorium of the church.

The second Sunday in October, which is Rally Day throughout Methodism, will be combined as Rally Day in the Sunday School and Enlistment Day in the church. An effort will then be made to enlist the people of the church and parish in the various activities which center in the church. Some new lines of activity will be introduced at that time. During the month a series of cottage prayer meetings will be held in the homes of the people and an official board visitation throughout the parish will be conducted. These and other things together with the Win-My-Chum-Week in November, the Ladies' Aid Society Fair, the various social interests and the Christmas activities will all culminate in a Church Night and Roll Call to be held the first of January. Some changes in the church and vestry and some new equipment which is to be added will better adapt the church to the needs of the Sunday School and the young people.

The Wesley Class of the Methodist Church will entertain the men young and old of the parish at a corn roast with hot dogs as desert at the Ballentine Wood lot in Middleton Thursday evening.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twentieth day of September in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

HORACE H. ATHERTON, JR.,
(S-22-29-O-6) Register.

Mother's Cook Book

This world's need is men and women great enough to be small enough to be used.

DURING the mid-summer sultry days a cool drink, ice, or frozen cream is always acceptable.

Date Sandwich Cookies.

Take one package of dates, stone and chop; mix with one cupful of orange marmalade, one cupful of chopped nuts. Prepare a white cookie mixture, roll out very thin, place a spoonful of the mixture in the center and cover with another cookie; sprinkle with sugar and bake in a moderate oven. These cookies may be cut in fancy shapes, baked and then be put together with the filling, if one so desires.

Lemon Cake.

Take three-fourths of a cupful of butter, cream it, adding two cupfuls of sugar gradually. Beat the whites of seven eggs and add to the creamed butter and sugar a spoonful at a time. Beat well, add three cupfuls of sifted flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, the grated peel of one lemon alternately with one cupful of milk. Fold in the whites at the last. Bake in three layer pans.

Baked Apples.

Core and peel good flavored apples. Place on a round of bread that has been buttered. Fill the cavity of the apple with sugar and butter creamed together, adding a bit of ginger, pineapple or other fruit if desired. Bake in a slow oven, basting the apples often with melted butter and sugar and with the juice from the apple. Serve hot on the rounds of bread which by this time are well soaked with the luscious syrup.

Pears and peaches may be prepared in this same manner.

Green Peas Francaise.

Wash the peas before shelling, then shell the peas and put the pods on to cook for fifteen minutes or longer in enough cold water to just keep from scorching. Use this water, hot, to put the freshly shelled peas on to cook, add two green onions, a sprig of parsley, and a head of lettuce well washed and dry; there should be added two tablespoonfuls of butter and cover the kettle closely. Cook slowly one hour. This is a delicious dish and one which will be often served after once testing.

Fathers? Nix!

In the holiday seasons, when the toy shop windows are glittering with all sorts of splendors, nothing is more pathetic than a group of middle-aged and white-headed folk who elbow the children aside to obtain a glimpse of the railways, the dolls, the boats, and all the other delights of the world in miniature. The sentimentalist remarks: "Poor things, they are wishing they had enough money to buy that doll for little Annie or that pony cart for little Alec." Bosh! They are wishing they had had enough courage to buy them for themselves and play with them brazenly before the whole family of amateur alienists!—Harper's Magazine.

DAD

By EDNA S. KNAPP.

(©, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mr. Beebe was excited. I saw that the instant I let him in, but he only waved a pebble at me and dashed down the hall to Dad's refuge. I groaned inwardly, because Dad's so tired that he barks worse than ever. He's trying to earn enough overtime to buy us all new summer togs, so he keeps bringing home work from the office.

I went back to the sitting room where Ed and Gabe were studying, and little Ada petting her kitten. We could hear Mr. Beebe roaring about something, and Dad's barked replies. Ada began to cry with fright, so I had to take her right to bed.

Both men went to the sitting room and had a scene with the boys before Mr. Beebe slammed out.

"He said we broke his parlor window," cried Ed, choking with wrath.

"After we'd promised Dad to stop using our slingshots! Mr. Beebe would not believe us, but Dad did, and Dad wouldn't pay for his old window," declared Gabriel.

The window got broken Tuesday afternoon, and Monday night the boys were forbidden slingshots. Mr. Beebe's own sons were in their parlor at the time. Excitable Mr. Beebe hated like poison to part with a dollar, and his sick wife was in Colorado, so could not calm him down. Somebody broke the window; the shot came from our direction; hence the rumpus.

"He said his boys shouldn't speak to us nor we to them until we confessed," groaned Ed.

"And we live next door and play together always and go to school together," lamented Gabriel.

"Dad said speak to 'em at school; the whole town needn't know about this one-sided squabble," said Ed.

"Jimminy," exclaimed Gabriel, his face clearing, "I know how we can communicate."

"No written notes," I began. "Dad—"

"Whistled ones," interrupted Gabe. "There's the list of words, 60 of 'em, we made at Flo's party; words formed with letters used on the musical staff."

"Hurrah!" cried Ed, "we've all got nicknames that fit, and we can whistle at each other. Let's type some more copies of that list."

That night I had stockings to mend and bread to set, and Ada to look after. Besides, I couldn't tell one note from another by ear, though I've learned to play some by note. (The little ones had another mother who went when Ada came.) But I noticed my brothers began right off to whistle queer little snatches to each other. They understood, and Ada could tell what they said, though I couldn't. The new amusement seemed to entertain Ada at first, and I was so glad. She's always poorly in the spring.

Our boys went out in the back yard behind an evergreen Wednesday afternoon with their lists. Ed whistled something over and over. Gage and Abram Beebe, on the other side of the fence, began looking for the new bird. Gabriel whistled, but giggled, and our neighbors spotted him.

"What are those Dee chaps up to?" through the open window I heard Gage say.

"I don't know," returned Abram. Then an obliging breeze wafted copies of the list over the fence. All four boys laughed, and they whistled a lot back and forth.

Well, the boys kept up their funny snatches of whistling and took great comfort in "communicating." Dad understood, and sometimes he grinned and sometimes he looked suddenly old and worried. That look came when Gage (who had chanced to witness the accident) whistled something that always made Ada tremble and fly at me. Over and over Gage whistled that when Ada was in sight, and she fled to me and cried and cried! Nobody told me then what he said, but he was pleading, "Ada, Ada, face Dad Dee."

By Friday noon I decided to take Ada out of school. Saturday she lay on the lounge while I worked, and we watched Mr. Beebe gardening with his boys. He gives them everything that costs no money. Gage looked up, saw us, and whistled that queer message. Ada shut the window and trembled and cried so that I called our doctor. He said she had something on her mind and wouldn't give her any medicine.

I coaxed and coaxed, and then the truth came out. She'd wanted to try a slingshot; while the boys' lay on the table before being destroyed she had tried "just once" and hit the Beebe window. She dared not tell at first. Now Dad would whip her if she told; he hated deception.

I insisted Dad liked us despite his bark. Then I heard a quer little snort and there he stood. "I'll take a hand in this," he barked, but he gathered her up gently. So I went to get his dinner.

That night he took Ada over to tell Mr. Beebe, then he paid for the window. It hurt Dad that Ada was less afraid of Mr. Beebe than of him. Dad was thoughtful for days. Finally he announced that we couldn't have so many togs if he worked less time; but could we be satisfied if he didn't?

"We'd a sight rather have you, sir," flashed Ed.

"All right," barked Dad. "I'll take time to get acquainted with my family."

The SANDMAN STORY

THE RAIN CLOUDS

ALL the Rain Clouds, big and small, were hiding on top of a mountain and in the big hollows in its side.

Down on the ground every flower and plant and growing thing was crying for water, and old Mother Earth was beside herself with grief over the suffering of her children.

"They all will die," she moaned, "and I cannot do a thing to help them. Even the tall trees are heavy with dust. Oh, where are the Rain Clouds, and why do they not do their work and save my children?"

The Fast-Falling Tears Made Puddles.

The little brooks and streams had done all they could to help, but even they were almost dry, and in her despair Mother Earth caught a Warm Breeze floating by and asked it if it knew where the Rain Clouds were and why they did not come where they were so much needed.

Warm Breeze said he did not know, but that he would ask Tree Top if he could get high enough, but that he had little strength left himself, the earth was so warm.

Somehow Warm Breeze did manage to get a message to Tree Tops and they sent back word that the Rain Clouds were hiding on the mountain and around it.

Then along came Brisk Breeze, who was passing on his way home, and Mother Earth begged him to tell the Rain Clouds to hurry or her children would perish.

But the bad Rain Clouds, when Brisk Breeze gave them Mother Earth's message, just ran off high up in the sky saying they were not going to work; they were going sailing.

Brisk Breeze was a friend to Mother Earth, however, and he flew straight to old Mr. Thunder and his sister, Miss Lightning, and told them what was going on.

Oh, how Mr. Thunder did scold. He could be heard for miles around. He caught those runaway rain clouds, every one, big and small, and carried them right to his quick-tempered sister, and how she did spank them while all the time Mr. Thunder scolded.

Rain Clouds began to cry, the big ones as well as the little ones, and down rolled their tears on the thirsty Mother Earth and her parched children.

My, how those rain clouds did cry! They cried so hard and so long that their fast falling tears made puddles and pools all over the ground, but Mother Earth did not care; she just made places to catch the falling drops, and when the little brooks and streams ran over she told them, "Never mind, my dears, we can use it all. I am so thirsty I can drink every bit of it before morning."

And she did, for the next morning everything was bright and fresh and Mother Earth and all her children were no longer thirsty.

The Rain Clouds were all afraid of Mr. Thunder and his sister, hot tempered Miss Lightning, after that, and now when they hear him scolding they are pretty sure to come running and begin their work, for they know how angry he can be when they fail to give Mother Earth and her children water when they are thirsty.

A. C. L. Cup To Be Won This P. M.

By defeating their rivals (the Hide department) on Wednesday, the Sheepskin team of the A. C. L. League goes against the Japan shop tonight in the final game of the season. These two teams are tied for first place, and the winner of tonight's game wins two handsome cups, one offered by President George H. Swift of the National Leather Co., and the other by The Peabody Rubber Company.

Handsome Cup Offered by President Swift to the A. C. L. League

It is probable that all the various prizes offered to individual players in the league will be awarded at the close of tonight's game, and this feature, coupled with the interest in the game should draw a goodsized crowd.

The Standing

	Won	Lost	%
Japan	8	2	.800
Sheep	8	2	.800
Hide	7	3	.700
Office	4	6	.400
National	2	8	.200
Cutstock	1	9	.100

The Japan and Sheep teams have met twice before this season, and both games have been close. The first was won by the Sheep 10-9, and the second by the Japan 5-3. It is hard to pick the probable winner of the league championship, and this fact makes the game of red-hot interest among the fans.

The game will be called at 5.15 sharp.

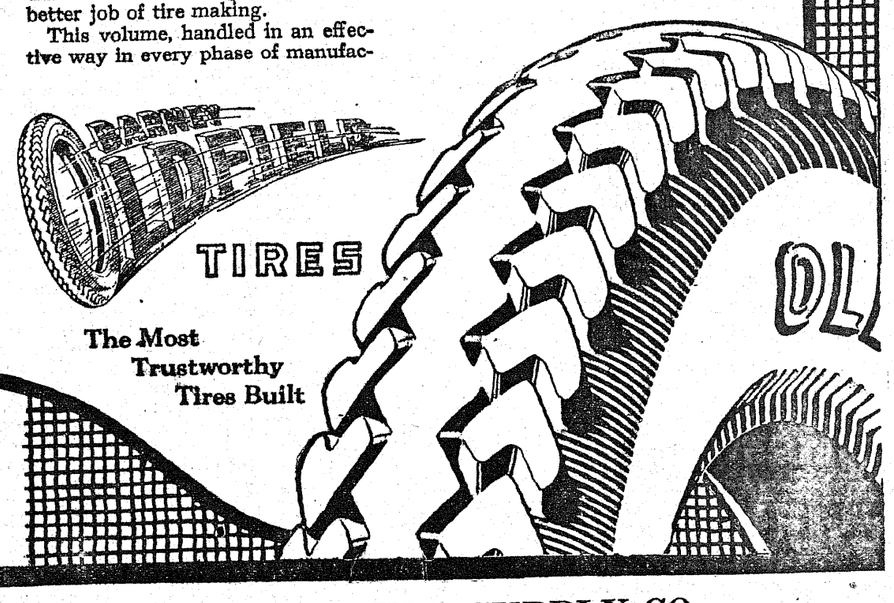
Treasury Notes Will Be Higher

Postmaster William F. Searle announces an advance in price of treasury savings certificates, effective Oct. 2, by order of the secretary of the treasury. The sale of the present issue of certificates of the $1000, 100 and $25 denominations at the present prices of $800, $80 and $20 respectively, will be discontinued at the close of business on Sept. 30 and a new issue placed on sale Oct. 2. The new ones will sell for $820, $82, and $20.50 respectively, and at these prices will yield approximately four per cent interest if held until the date of maturity, five years from date of issue, or about three per cent simple interest, No. $1 treasury savings stamps will be sold after Sept. 30.

Making 20 Years of Racing Serve Car Owners Today

IN the early days of automobile contests, Barney Oldfield—out to win every race—studied tires. His consistent success led other drivers to ask for tires constructed to his specifications.

Twenty years of road and track victories—with a steady and increasing demand for tires as he built them—convinced Barney Oldfield that these speed tests pointed the way to a better tire for everyday use.



The enthusiastic reception of Oldfield Cords by the public proved he was right. Scores of the most prominent dealers in the country—and many thousands of car owners, experienced in the use of tires—bear witness by their decided preference that Oldfield is doing a bigger and better job of tire making.

This volume, handled in an effective way in every phase of manufacture and distribution, has resulted in price quotations far below what you'd expect on tires known to be better built and more enduring.

Practically every important race event for three years has been won on Oldfields. The Wichita Test Run in which an entire set of Oldfield Cords covered 34,525 miles on rough roads proves the mettle of the Most Trustworthy Tires Built in everyday driving.

The Master Driver and Tire Builder has given the public a new standard of tire wear and tire cost—a true economy that every car owner should know about.

Your Oldfield dealer has these facts—talk to him.

CITY HALL NOTES

The "hat in the ring" appears to be settled with three candidates in the field for mayor, Mayor William A. Shea, Councillor Henry F. Duggan and Rev. Robert A. Bakeman as avowed candidates. There has been whisperings of another announcing his candidacy but so far as we can glean there will be but these three, representing faith, hope and charity. Faith in his election, hope he will be, and charity for the defeated.

* * *

Camouflage will probably be a large part of the municipal campaign for Mayor. This camouflage deals with the city's high taxrate which every intelligent citizen knows is due to the burden of bonded indebtedness for school house construction and new street work which Mayor Shea inherited. There is no just criticism for the big taxrate regardless of who might be Mayor for "we can't eat the cake and have it too," and we needed the school houses and must pay for them. That opposition to Mayor Shea were betting plugged nickles to doughnuts that the taxrate would be $45 this year and would have won had not the business head of Mayor Shea kept down the budgets.

* * *

Patrick J. Sheehy Chairman of the Assessors has figured the cost of running the several departments down to days, yes to seconds. It is an interesting study, with the interest on bonds costing the city more than all others.

* * *

With Councillor Duggan not a candidate for the position again it means at least one new face in the council chamber. It is a poor talking point for candidates to claim the mayor is responsible for the high tax rate, when only as a matter of custom which should not be so, the Council pass appropriations with the power to cut them at any time.

* * *

One item in the budget will be more than was figured, and that is the coal bill. With such an opportunity to raise coal prices, nothing but rigid enforcement of the law will prevent us from paying increased prices.

* * *

The school committee is showing a tendency to spend money beyond their appropriation and with the new law passed by the Legislature this year such procedure is liable to cause trouble. Once it was school committees could spend money without a check, but not so under this law.

* * *

The Bagley property in the rear of the High school has not passed into the hands of the city as yet, but is needed to complete the stadium. Next year will give us a stadium worth having.

* * *

Receipts from court fees exceed those of 1921 already, with three or more months to go. Water receipts have also increased and will show rising $50,000.00 more than last year. Everything points to a decreased tax rate in 1923 no matter who drives the coach. Mayor Shea's administration has laid the foundation for the decrease. The talk of new school houses would however put a dent in the tax rate.

* * *

Former Councillor Cornelius A. Giles who opposed Mayor Shea for election two years ago has yet to say if he will enter the mayoralty lists this fall.

Meanwhile, Mayor Shea is receiving many expressions of support from citizens who were not with him two years ago. His 40 years a business man in Peabody stands out in bold comparison and his campaign this year will again be, "short on oratory and long on votes."

* * *

Charles G. Crump water meter inspector whose department is a big revenue for the city spent last week in New Bedford attending the convention of the water works association. He gave over his week's vacation to learning something that would make him even more efficient in his department.

* * *

Distillers of moonshine are using milk bottles and even ammonia bottles as receptacles for their dream making liquids. A raid on a house on Union st. Wednesday netted an array of bottles filled with the poison. Putnam Bros., Lovelace and Hood milk bottles were among the collection. An additional charge may be filed against the man who used the milk bottles, if the Board of health takes a hand.

* * *

There are a dozen cases of whooping cough on Fulton st. and the afflicted children are running about at will. The Lynn Board of health tags houses where this disease is prevalent among children. It would be a fine idea for Peabody to do likewise.

* * *

Night patrolman John J. McBride will resume his police labors Sunday night after a two weeks vacation.

A CORRECTION

The deficit in the water renewals service on Sept. 14, as reported by the city auditor, was $442.30 and not $4,442.30 as announced in our issue of last week. A profit of over $50,000 is said to be in sight in the water department for this year.

He will entertain a party of six or eight friends and as the law is now off ducks and will be lifted on partridge on Oct. 1st it would seem that the table will be amply supplied with game.

HUBBY SAVES SUNDAY GAME

Hubby Lawrence saved Peabody's bacon in the game with the Lafayettes of Salem last Sunday by going into the crowd in deep right and spearing a hard fly. There were three men on and two when the popular Peabody player got his chance to be a hero.

The Lafayettes team wrangled over decisions and appeared to be poor losers. They protested a decision on a balk ball when their pitcher in delivering to the batter lost control and the ball rolled toward the plate. The catcher fielded and threw to second to catch the runner who of course was entitled to the bag because of the balk. The umpire on bases called the runner out but umpire Johnson naturally called the ball a balk. The Peabody team won easily 5 to 2 tieing up the series.

FOULKES STOPS RUNAWAY CAR

Adams Foulkes, former wire chief for the telephone company here stopped a runaway Ford sedan on Main st. last Monday under heroic circumstances. He was passing when he heard a woman scream and saw the sedan coasting across Main st. He managed to get a hold of the emergency brake before the machine crashed into Trask's Market windows. The woman had been left alone by the driver.

Greek Bride Enroute Here Escaped Turks

Stephen Vangel of 22 Warren street, an employe at the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co., is waiting the arrival of his fiancee, Athenia Dadenas, a pretty Greek maiden, who fled from Smyrna before the capture of that city by the Turkish Nationalist army. She was held up at Athens in her effort to secure passage from Pawaeus, the port of the illustrious city where the Greek army commandeered all of the steamships in the port. She was aided in getting passage on the S. S. Constantinople which sailed from the Grecian seaport on Sept. 13, and is due to reach New York today or tomorrow.

The Peabody man will be waiting at the dock to receive her and their marriage will be solemnized with dispatch. Vangel is a property owner in this city and is prepared to give his fiancee a fine home.

Attorney Charles R. O'Connell, counsel for Mr. Vangel, enlisted the aid of Congressman Robert Maloney of this district and the latter asked the co-operation of the state department in obtaining passage for Miss Dadenas. A letter received this week from the congressman informed Attorney O'Connell that Miss Dadenas was due to arrive in New York on the steamer Constantinople. Attorney O'Connell has been trying for the last six months to smooth the way for the Greek girl to leave her homeland and come to Peabody to marry her old sweetheart.

WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Wallace P. Hood will speak on "Federation Affairs and Plans" before the Peabody Women's Club next Friday afternoon at the Institute. Miss Annie L. Lane will be the other speaker and her topic will be "A Federation Message." The Huntington Trio, composed of Miss Frances Merrick, violin, Miss Priscilla Warren, 'cello, and Miss Mabel Derry at the piano, have also been secured. This is the first meeting of the year and every member is urged to attend.

QUIRK ASKS FOR INFORMATION ON CITY FINANCES

Peabody, Mass., Sept. 26, 1922

Peabody Enterprise,
Peabody, Mass.

Gentlemen:—

Having read with considerable interest and enlightment the table of figures published in your last issue relative to the daily cost of running some of our City departments, might I suggest that Mr. Sheehy or whoever compiled the figures in question go a little farther and, for the benefit of the ordinary citizen, give a little information upon the following:

1. The chief reason for the increase in the tax rate of 1921 over that of 1920.

2. The chief reason for the increase in the tax rate of 1922 over 1921.

3. By what system of financial figuring or assessment the Assessors recently allowed an abatement of $1000 upon a piece of property then assessed for $24,000 and shortly afterwards sold for $36,000.

In the opinion of the writer, information relative to the foregoing is of far more importance to the average citizen and tax-payer than the daily cost of running any department or the hourly earnings of any official.

JEREMIAH J. QUIRK.

LITTLEFIELDS OPEN FACTORY

Peabody leather manufacturers and citizens as well will hail with no little satisfaction the announcement today that the long time honored name of the Littlefield Leather Co. is to be revived in Peabody with Arthur G. Littlefield son of the late Stephen S. Littlefield as the senior member of the concern.

Associated with Mr. Littlefield will be his brother-in-law Chapin Legal and his uncle Frank A. Littlefield for years associated with his lamented brother in the Littlefield Leather Co.

Woolley Hopes To See Mother Alive Overseas

Jesse Woolley, general manager of the Richard Young Leather Co. of this city, is on the Atlantic ocean on board the steamship Cynthia bound for Liverpool in his haste to reach the bedside of his aged mother whom he has not seen for nearly 30 years. He received word last week that Mrs. Woolley was near death's door and that her end was only a matter of a few weeks at the best. He secured passports and passage on the Cunard liner which sailed out of New York yesterday.

From Liverpool he will go direct to Blackpool, England, where his mother is at the home of one of his sisters. One brother and a sister reside in England and another sister in Canada. There were fourteen children in the family. Two of the sons gave their lives in the World war and two of the sisters who have passed on were also in the war service.

Mr. Woolley has a host of friends in this city and he carries with him the best of wishes that he will arrive at the bedside of his mother now passed 80 years old before she passes on. She has constantly called for her boy Jesse in her present illness

Council Votes Cash

Peabody's City Council had for its principal business last night the adoption of an order appropriating $18,039.51 to pay interest on maturing debt, the money to be taken from the revenue of the current year. Mayor Shea sent in a communication asking the Council to take this action. Councillor Frank A. McKeen of South Peabody amended the motion of Councillor Barry to adopt by referring the order to the committee on finance.

Councillor Barry said he had no objections to the amendment, but he couldn't see where it was necessary, since he knew all of the facts. He is chairman of the finance committee. He explained the order and said that the assessors had figured in having the bonded debt interest taken are of in this manner. Councillor Sullivan, also a member of the finance committee, agreed with Mr. Barry. The amendment was lost 6 to 3, Councillors Poor, Duggan and McKeen being on the short end.

The next important item of business for the city fathers was an order also from the Mayor asking to have a transfer of about $6000 taken from the maturing debt and soldiers' relief appropriations and assigned to various other departments where it was needed.

On motion of Councillor Duggan

CITY HALL NOTES

Reserve officer Cokeley who has been subbing in Peabody Square for the past several weeks proved himself on the job Monday of this week when he witnessed the driver of an automobile crash into a team owned by Alberghini the fruit dealer. He investigated and asked the chauffeur for his license. The driver could not produce one. Cokeley had the driver take him to the police station where all the facts were obtained. Some bystanders thought Cokeley over zealous. As a matter of fact he was doing his duty that and nothing more.

White paint used in other cities to mark off safety zones stands the wear but probably costs a bit more than that used in Peabody. We might save money by buying the best and incidentally save somebody's life. "Oh, Front, page City Engineer Frank Emerson."

Michcael F. Conway, prominent Ward 2 citizen will be a candidate for the school board. He came near being elected a Councillor at large two years ago and is to be a big vote getter. He has helped to give Peabody a great baseball team this summer.

* * *

Rep. James E. McVann has been asked by the civil service commission to enlist applicants to take the coming examination for instructor in the shoe shop of the state prison. The exam is to be held on October 13 and the man appointed will receive a salary of $1650.

The duties of this position are to lay out the work and supervise the work of each man in the lasting room. Applicants should have a general knowledge of each machine under his care and be able to keep them in working condition. The instructor will have about forty men under his supervision.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience (1); special question on the duties of the position (1); total (2). Applicants will be required to obtain at least 65% in training and experience. Successful applicants will be required to file a certificate from a reputable physician as to their physical fitness for the position.

The "man about town" in Salem hasn't made a note yet to the effect that the Peabody not only has better streets but also has some of the flashing lights traffic posts, of which Salem has none.

City Engineer Frank Emerson is recognized as an authority on water supply judging from the convention of that craft held recently in New Bedford when he was chosen as a member of the nominating committee for the annual election. His committee returned the name of Frank A. Barber for President. Mr. Barber is the man who perfected Peabody's water supply some years ago and also supervised the construction of the municipal sewerage system. Mr. Emerson then a Boston Tech student worked under Mr. Barber in Peabody.

G. O. P. Ladies Will Instruct Women Voters

The women's division of the Republican party of Peabody will meet in the Council Chamber Tuesday evening, October 3, at 8 o'clock. This meeting which is open to the public will be addressed by State Senator Albert Wadleigh of Merrimac, who has worked so faithfully and untiringly during his term of office, and by Mrs. Robina F. Richardson of Lynn, past grand chaplain of Massachusetts, New England Order of Protection.

At the Republican State Convention held in Boston last Saturday, Peabody was well represented by the following delegates: Angus MacDonald, Chairman of the Republican party of Peabody; Mrs. Rosa Sturgeon, Chairman of the Women's Division; Mrs. Maria Palmer, Mrs. Grace M. Low, Mrs. Jessie Felt, Mrs. Susan Rainford, Mrs. Louisa Newhall, Mrs. Adelaide Blaney, Mrs. Kate Hartwell, Miss Elsie Ramsdell and Miss Helen Hagar. Mrs. Ellen Beckett and Miss Alice Berry also accompanied the party.

The Women's Division of the Republican party of Peabody are planning frequent meetings this fall, the dates of which will be announced in the local papers.

The six referendums which are to be on the ballot will be discussed in the near future. A series of lectures instructing the women in political affairs will be announced shortly.

DOWNING—McCULLY

Miss Grace McCully, sister of Mrs. Chester A. Bent of Lowell street, was united in marriage to Earle N. Downing, an engineer at the General Electric Co., last Monday night in Lynn. The ceremony was by Rev. Boynton Merrill, associate pastor of the New Old South church, Boston, a classmate of the groom at Dartmouth college. The bride was attended by Mrs. Bent, her sister, as matron of honor, and Carol Bent, daughter of Mrs. Bent, was one of the flower girls. Chester Bent, manager at the Strand theatre, was one of the ushers. The bride was employed in the office of the Boston & Albany railroad. A number of Peabody people were among the invited guests at the wedding.

Shoe Reporter Says Leather Shows Mend

General conditions in leather markets improved. Sole leather in heavy weights selling at strong prices. Offal in better demand. Some selections sold up. A large Philadelphia tanner rejected sizable business in oak bellies for shipment west at 2c. under list prices. Medium to good grade cut stock moving in good volume. General better feeling in side upper leather market. Large users of stock feeling the market out. Tanners have obtained advances in limited way. Although calfskin buyers have figured on large blocks of leather during the week, trading is still spotty. Slightly improved call for patent with stronger undertone noted. Active demand for low grade kid continues. Large operators more interested in these selections. Some floor stocks cleaned up and advances asked.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Charter List Of Members To Boom Handtub

Peabody's proposed handtub company is being organized with much enthusiasm according to Charles J. Caden one of the veteran call firemen attached to headquarters company who is rallying the new members. Before the next meeting it is expected that the charter list will total nearly 75 citizens who are interested in giving the city a handtub that can compete with the prize turnouts of Salem and Marblehead and thus bring additional fame to the world's largest leather city.

The roster of firemen and other citizens who have pledged their efforts to promote the handtub company are Joseph Mulcahy, Charles Caden, John Nelson, Joseph Poor, Patrick Nolan, M. Brown, William Brophy, Albert Green, J. Green, Roger Smith, William F. Carlin, Frank Sherry, Charles Lawrence, Ralph Skinner, Joseph Connell, Arthur Flynn, T. Will Hayes To Purify All Films

Will Hays, who resigned as postmaster general to raise the moral and artistic standard of motion pictures, has already obtained gratifying results. This may not be apparent as yet to the six or seven million who daily go to the movies, for the reason that there is necessarily a period of several months from the time production is started until release. But Mr. Hays has been doing the work where it counts most, as the films to be released in the near future will testify.

There is but one place to effectively control production, and that is at the source—where the pictures are made. Many feel that state political censorship of the motion picture provides a sane means of eliminating that which is objectionable. It is impractical and dangerous and as Mr. Hays says, "the people of this country are against censorship fundamentally—against censorship of press, against censorship of pulpit, against censorship of pictures."

In the November election, Referendum Question No. 3 submits state political censorship of the motion picture to the voters Those who sincerely want good pictures, who believe that the logical point to clean up is at the source, will vote NO upon this question.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Poor are on a trip through the White Mountains.

800 Students Enter Amherst

Amherst, September 26.—Massachusetts Agricultural college opens with assembly tomorrow noon, when approximately 800 four-year and two-year students will gather in Stockbridge hall to hear President Buterworth's opening address. Although the correction of fall examinations for college entrance has not yet been completed, college officials are estimating that the freshman class will run between 175 and 190 for the four-year course and between 160 and 170 in the two-year course. The status of 88 candidates for admission as freshmen who came up for fall examination is not yet determined, and this estimated size of the freshman class is based on the theory that about one-half of the candidates passed their examinations. The enrollment in both the four-year and the two-year freshman classes seems likely to be larger than in any year since the war.

Student activities are already well under way. A large squad of football candidates has been practicing for nearly two weeks in preparation for the opening game with Connecticut Agricultural college a week from Saturday. The fraternities are making preparations for the very short rushing season which the faculty ruling has established for this fall. The open season for securing new members from the freshman class closes Sunday night. Both the stock-judging and dairy teams have been back for more than a week, and have brought back highest honors from their contests at the Eastern States exposition As a result the $500 Guernsey trophy offered to the highest scoring team at the exposition will be displayed in the animal husbandry office throughout this college year.

Happy is the little girl who is destined to own a coat of duvetine like the one pictured. It bears a strong resemblance to the garments of her elders, with its full collar and wide cuff bands of fur. It has a strap belt of the material and ties for the neck, also finished with fascinating balls of fur at the ends.

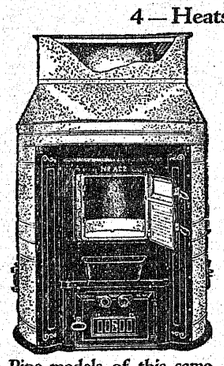
If you want to save fuel this winter, come in and see us today

YOU cannot afford to waste fuel this winter. It is the public duty of every householder to make the most of every log in his woodpile and every pound of coal in his bin.

That is the purpose of the Glenwood Single-Pipe Heating System. Not only will it burn any kind of fuel—wood, coal, soft coal or coke — but it will cut down considerably the amount of fuel you generally use.

Glenwood Single-Pipe Economies



1 — Heats the house, not the cellar.

2 — Heats cool air drawn down from inside the house, not the cold air from outdoors.

3 — Does not waste heat in walls and floors and up the chimney.

4 — Heats the rooms themselves, not a long system of pipes.

5 — Regulated as easily as a clock — by the Glenwood Regulating Damper.

Pipe models of this same furnace may be had in several sizes for coal or wood.

Easily and Quickly Installed

We shall be glad to show you how this Modern system will save fuel for you this winter. Estimates will be furnished free if you wish advice on installation.

FOR WEAR ANYWHERE

One of those charming, always-ready suits, which can be worn anywhere, helps to strengthen the belief that this fall's suits are the most attractive presented for many seasons. It is made of suede-finished cloth and has a straight-line, loose coat of medium length to be worn over a simple one-piece dress of the material, with a square neck and a stitched inverted plait down the front. A novel braid embroidery adorns the coat, and a collar of dyed fox completes it.

Nothing is more disappointing than a reunion of the "old gang you used to know." A good many of them are no longer the fellows they used to be, and the ones that still are don't come.

Miss Ella Reed and Miss Gertrude Holden are spending a week with Mrs. Edwin Bergstrom, Rutland, Vt.

Mrs. May Ellen Brown, who has been at the Thomas hospital for the past three weeks, returned to her home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker and children enjoyed an auto ride to Nantasket last Sunday.

Miss Florence Osgood acted as organist at the Second Congregational church last Sunday in the absence of Miss Ella Reed.

Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Joy, Broadway, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank Newhall of Lynn street has been sick for the past week.

Mrs Catherine Walsh and daughter of Bartholomew street will move to Haverhill tomorrow.

Mrs. William C. Brown of Lynn street is at the Lynn hospital, where she was operated on for appendicitis Wednesday.

Charles King of Dexter street entertained his mother and sister of Somerville for a few days this week.

Howard Batchelder is gaining steadily after a nose and throat operation performed at the Thomas hospital last Friday.

Mrs. Sadie Rainford and Mrs. Louise Newhall attended the Republican convention held in Boston last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swan and Harold Legro and family visited relatives at Hyde Park and Braintree last Sunday.

The Sewso Club met with Miss Agnes Jordan Monday night. One of the members surprised her friends by displaying a diamond ring. Next week the members will meet with Miss Beatrice Keith and a full attendance is requested. All members are asked to bring some article beginning with "o." The committees for the year will be announced at this meeting.

The Twilight league of baseball started this summer has created a great deal of community spirit. Activities for the winter months have already started, as plans are being made for entertainments and dances to keep up this same spirit until next season.

The candy table committee for the coming fair with Mrs. Annie Annis chairman, will hold a box party at the church this evening. The ladies are asked to bring a lunch for two, but will have their preference of companion. An entertainment has been provided, including games with suitable prizes. A small admission will be charged.

Miss Georgia Coombs of Lynnfield street is sick with an attack of tonsilitis.

Harold Hovey is building a house on Bartholomew street for his own occupancy.

Rev. Ralph Templin and family spent a few days with his brother at Hingham.

The South Peabody Dramatic Club will present a rural comedy drama next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at the Second Congregational church under the direction of W. E. Weld. "Squire Tompkins' Daughter" is a play in five acts and a number of thrills are promised.

Children are requested to attend Tuesday evening in order to provide seats for the adults Wednesday. The cast of characters follow: Squire Tompkins, a farmer, Wright Gregon; Charley Wallace, Tompkins' friend, Moffet Glencross; P. J. Bluestone, a banker, Edward Larrabee; Lidgerwood Flynn, Tompkins' nephew, Robert MacGregor; Bunny Wayne, in love with Millie, Arthur Tedford; Mrs. Tompkins, Gertrude Holden; Millie Tompkins, a willful daughter, Lottie Brown.

A business meeting of the Epworth League was held at Lake Shore Park church Wednesday evening to make plans for the winter work.

Mrs J. B. Maynard of Dorchester spent Monday with Mrs. Fred Batchelder.

The Neighborhood Culb and B. I. A. held a union meeting and supper Tuesday night at Davis hall. The following committee had charge of the supper: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parson, Mr. and Mrs. Henniker Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Pearson.

Next Sunday will be rally Sunday at the Second Congregational church, and the Sunday school will combine with the morning service at 10.30. All members of the Sunday school are urged to come at this time and also the parents. Special sermon for the young people. Let every one make an extra effort to make this a real rally Sunday.

A very pleasant evening was spent Friday at the home of Miss Ethel Paquette, Lynn, when a shower was tendered to Miss Myra Beede of Bartholomew street. Her co-workers in the general office of the United Shoe Workers of Boston were gathered there and showered her with many beautiful gifts, including linen, cut glass and aluminum ware. The house was prettily decorated with pink and white and a collation was served. Miss Beede is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Long and will be married to Albert Hardy of Lynn street next month.

Mrs. June Bakeman, wife of our local pastor, made a few calls last Wednesday afternoon. When she returned home she found a number of friends had taken possession and had decorated the dining room with pink and white crepe paper in honor of her birthday. A birthday cake graced the table, adorned with candles, and a dainty lunch was enjoyed.

Mrs. Cora Griffin, formerly a resident of this section and now residing in Sacramento, Cal, is pleasantly situated in her new home and likes the Pacific coast. She has a position with an awning concern which has state contracts. Her daughter Louise has a position as a stenographer. Mrs. Griffin writes in a letter received this week that she often thinks of her Peabody friends. Last week was the hottest since 1888 in Sacramento. Last winter was the coldest for years, snow having fallen for the first time in seven years. It only lasted through the night. Mrs. Griffin resides at 2604 Twenty-first street and will be glad to hear from her friends. She receives the Peabody Enterprise each week.

TOWN FOOTBALL TEAM OPENS SEASON SUNDAY

The Peabody Town football team will open their season Sunday at the high school field against the Buffaloes of Lawrence. The Buffaloes are a fast, heavy team, as the fans who saw their ball team at the park this season will recall.

The Buffaloes line up will include Robertson, a former Boston college quarter, and Red Baker, the old Yale star end, who will probably be pitted against Threshie, the Dartmouth college first string end of last season, who has been signed up by Nangle and Wentworth of the local team.

Al Munroe and Bill Reid, last year's ends, are a combination hard to beat. They will be in there Sunday breaking up interference and grabbing forward passes out of the air as usual. Monty Lawless looks as big as a house this year and will hold down a guard position with all of his last year's aggressiveness Trask and Fennessey will also be seen at the guard positions, with Crane, Holden, Masterson and McDonald on the job holding down the tackle assignments.

In the backfield Puska, Meade, Hubby Lawrence, Dick Lynch and Wilson will do the work under the able direction of Chet Hay, the quarter. There is also a possibility that Dick Sexton, the star of stars of P. H. S., will be seen in action.

The management of the local team announces that as soon as Donovan is through with baseball in Salem, Joe O'Connor will report.

Peabody High School

The high school football squad will open their season on tomorrow with a game against Danvers high. The game will be played on the new athletic field in the rear of the high school. Danvers high has a strong squad, which defeated the Boston Grade Trade school last week by a score of 6 to 0.

* * *

The football manager and his assistants are having steady work chalking and keeping the gridiron in condition.

* * *

A six-foot iron and wire fence is being built around the new field and when seats have been erected Peabody will have a fine enclosed field, which has been needed for some time for football and baseball.

* * *

A dozen new football uniforms were distributed to the squad on Tuesday. These suits were badly needed and many of the candidates are still without equipment. The suits were given to regular players

* * *

Edward Brawley, athletic coach and teacher, was entertained Tuesday by the Peabody Rotary Club. Mr. Brawley gave a short talk on high school athletics.

* * *

Arthur E. Luscomb, the noted violinist of Salem, is this year in charge of the high school orchestra.

* * *

Miss Cody, teacher of typewriting and shorthand, was suddenly called to Nashua, N. H., last week by the death of an uncle.

* * *

Daniel Keegan, '17, is attending the Salem Normal school.

Margaret Monahan and Elizabeth Newhall, graduates of the class of 1922, are attending Salem Commercial school.

Louis Bettencourt, Donald McCharles, Thomas Lillis and Nicholas Murphy of last year's graduating class are attending Salem Commercial school

The music room is to be used from 4 to 5 p. m. on alternate Fridays beginning Sept. 30, for the University Extension Course in Appreciation of Literature given by Dr. Percy Long. This class is under the auspices of the literature class of the Woman's Club.

* * *

Harry Thomas of the class of '20 has resumed his studies at Tufts

* * *

Francis Dineen, '21, and graduate of Salem Commercial school, is now in the office of J. F. Ingraham & Co.

* * *

Mary O'Neil, Elbridge A. Tarbox, Eleanor Long, Timothy McCarthy and Evelyn Hall of '22 are now attending the Salem Normal school.

* * *

Thomas McLaughlin has entered the Northeastern Technical school.

* * *

Miss Ailsa Sinclair, vice president of the class of '20, has returned to her studies at Boston university.

* * *

John Donahue, P. H. S. football star, is working out on the Boston college football squad.

* * *

In a meeting of the athletic advisory board, Henry A. King was elected faculty manager of football and Mr. Sullivan, head of the English department at high school, faculty manager of baseball. Principal W. W. Woodman was elected treasurer.

* * *

All students are anxiously waiting for Nov. 4, and the arrival of the southern team. P. H. S. is anxious to return the hospitality given to the players and fans last year.

* * *

J. Henry Lyons, the local druggist, kindly donated the schedules for this year's football season, which were given to all students last Monday.

* * *

Harold Sparks of South Peabody, a former high school student, has entered a college preparatory school in Liberty, Mo.

* * *

Plans are being made at the high school for a drive for one hundred per cent. in the Peabody High School Athletic Association.

NO CENSORSHIP FOR MOVIES

Censorship of moving pictures will lead inevitably to the censorship of the press, of art and of literature. The people should bear this in mind when they go to the polls in November to pass on the question of whether the censorship law shall become effective in Massachusetts Aside from the evils of the law itself, which gives autocratic power to one man who may or may not be capable of exercising his functions impartially and in a rational manner, it establishes a principle that the American people have long since repudiated. Abuses far more serious than those which exist in the moving pictures of today will follow in the wake of a censorship law, for the door is opened to religious and political bigotry, to intolerance and to graft

The same reasons which make a press censorship a violation of the contsitutional rights of the people, apply with equal force to moving pictures. There is law sufficient for the punishment of those who publish obscene books. There is also law which is sufficient, if invoked, to punish the producers of indecent films. To invoke the law is not difficult. The trouble is that the most vociferous advocates of censorship wish to eliminate not only what is unclean but what offends their particular idea of what the public should have. Others, undoubtedly sincere, would bring the moving picture as they would bring literature and the stage down to the level of a book to be read and understood by children only. That there are many pictures, many works of art, many books which should not be placed indiscriminately before the immature boy or girl, will readily be admitted, but this does not constitute a valid reason for depriving others of the real benefits which may often be derived from a picture or a play.—Waltham News.

COST OF CITY GOVERNMENT

When the costs per day of the city government appeared in the Enterprise recently it appealed to the people for the reason that few stop to realize where the expense is charged. The big majority of tax payers know little of the cost of government and apparently care less Only when they receive their tax bills do they wake up to the fact that it costs money to keep the machinery of government running. It was always so. By dividing this cost among the several departments a general idea can be obtained where the money is spent. In the list recently published, no intention was made to include the smaller departments. Such departments were included as general government, and figures are at hand to show such costs. The idea of getting figures down to simplicity of cost per day shows at a glance costs, and by the many who have referred to these figures, our efforts have been appreciated. In publishing this list, it was for the benefit of our readers. No doubt some may say there was politics in the move, but we assure the public such is not the case. It was a "meaty" article, we believe news out of the ordinary We have at hand figures which would deal with the subject much more comprehensively, and it makes a good lesson in political economy. Our city government has been criticised for good and bad since we obtained our charter. It will continue to be criticised without doubt, but the why's and wherefore's can be dealt with far better when a general idea of costs are placed before the public.

DELIVERY OF MAIL

On January first, 1923, mail will be deliveerd by carriers only to houses where proper receptacles are provided. For a long time postoffice officials have made efforts to have the public provide places for the mail delivered to their houses. It appears to have been without avail in many cases. Now when the new year is ushered in, all must have slots cut in the front door or a mail box. The business of the postoffice has increased to the extent that the public must help the carriers. They have not the time to give for extra steps, for the routes are mapped out with a time allowance. The public demand attention. The more attention the more it is demanded. Human nature. Once it was, all travelled miles or yards for their mail, Many today have boxes at the postoffice preferring that process over the delivery by carriers. It appears to us that residents within a certain limit, or near the postoffice, could spare the time to get their mail and the walk would do no harm. However the fact remains the United States government evidently believes the public are overfed with attention, and the time is ripe for them to help in a small way the delivery of mail and the penalty will be non-delivery without proper receptacles in the homes.

HAND FIRE ENGINES

Efforts are being made to again have a hand tub organization in the city. The original engine for fighting fires, it still has a warm place in the hearts of the firemen, and the pleasure of winning a prize at a muster exceeds that of the victory of the home football or baseball team. Peabody in years gone by had two organizations of this kind. The Torrents and Union tubs, with much rivalry, fought many a battle to see which could throw the longest stream. Both brought home the "bacon" many times. But it seemed the interest in the sport was waning. It did wane to a certain extent, but not to the extent of going out. Salem, Marblehead, Brockton and many others continued to attend musters—which have been held year after year. A hand tub here would be a success. The old spirit of the firemen still exists and that means an efficient crew who would make a respectable showing at the musters. Such an organization serves to keep the spirit which all firemen have, where it should be. Peabody in the future will have a paid fire department. The time is not yet ripe, however. The call men with the spirit of old help to keep the department where it is, and that spirit it increased by interest in musters. There is something attractive about fire fighting and only advanced years stop many from keeping in the game.

LABOR CHANGES IN LOCAL FACTORIES

Labor in the Peabody factories has changed much since the war. This change can be particularly applied to the Turks who at one time numbered over 5000 in the city. Today with no figures at hand this number has been reduced to the hundreds and growing less from day to day. The war with Greece has caused part of the change, and the strike at A. C. Lawrence and National Calfskin Co.'s lowered the total perceptably. There are more American born young men entering the local factories today than ever before. It is a sign which speaks well for the future of the industry and the individuals. Clerkships in Boston and elsewhere appear the best to the young man, but results as a rule have not shown as well as local factory positions. Young men with the right "stuff" 'succeed in the leather factories

ROUND ABOUT

A June rose picked on Sept. 27 at the home of Alonzo Raddin, on Lynn street, probably is another record for the fall. Mr. Raddin, Peabody's oldest shoe merchant, has also let it be known that he has had three crops of corn at his garden this season.

* * *

Peabody women were prominent in the Woman's Auxiliary of the State Firemen's Association held in Lynn last week and I observe that Mrs. Jesse Barrett was elected third vice president and Mrs. George Emerson was made the financial secretary of the state association. Both Peabody women have given freely of their time to promote the welfare of the firemen's auxiliary, and their election is a tribute to their efforts.

* * *

Clerk of the Peabody District Court, Charles J. Powell, who has been visiting his sister in Detroit, says the trolley car is still a popular convenience in the automobile city, where everybody is supposed to own his own taxi The city operates the trolleys and the fare is a nickel with a cent charge for transfers.

* * *

George H. King, gentleman farmer of Forest street, found his thermometer registering 32 degrees last Monday morning, with the season's heaviest and earliest frost. "Stub," as he is hailed among his many friends, has had banner crops again this year, so I am informed, and there may be a husking bee in his barn ere long.

* * *

There are many new dwelling houses being built about the city. It is evident building costs will be more rather than less for carpenters are asking for higher wages and materials have not reduced in price to any extent. Ordinary houses of six rooms cost at least $5000, and a better class runs up to $15,000, according to size.

* * *

Alonzo W. Tyler, who recently passed away, was one of the oldest newspaper workers in this section. His specialty was Linotype machines which he learned to run in the Boston Globe office. His 35 years there equipped him for the business he started in the same line some three years ago. He made many friends by his genial manner and will be severely missed by his scores of friends and acquaintances.

* * *

With the number of autos increasing each year, the parking question looms up here as in other growing localities. Local conditions must govern parking rules, and Peabody is fast coming to the point when provisions must be made to care for machines parked in the center of the city.

* * *

If the sale of the Halpert property at 26 and 28 Main street is any criterion of what property is worth in this section, values are low as compared with the assessors' books. To pay $36,000 for the Halpert property established values as exceeding those of previous sales. Personally, we think this sum excessive, taking the condition of the buildings. The land is valuable.

* * *

Greeks and Turks are leaving Peabody for their native countries, presumably to participate in the war now on between these fighting countries. History tells us in verse of "The Turks dreaming of the hour when Greece her knees in suppliance bent should tremble at his power" We read of the fighting, but it has occurred for 25 centuries.

* * *

The cattle show at Topsfield brings back the memory of the fairs held here. Peabodyites took in the fair this year and pronounced it the best ever. A half mile trotting park added much to the attractions It was the regular thing, however, with the side shows doing a big business. One enterprising man made many hundreds of dollars taking care of parked autos at 50 cents each.

* * *

The Farley property on Glue hill is on the market. There are eight houses and over seven acres of land. There is talk of building a storeage warehouse on the land parallel to the South Reading tracks. Peabody needs a place for storage purposes, so let's have it.

* * *

The Carrs of the Carr Leather Co. have purchased the land known as the Rand lot on Andover street from the Rogers estate, and will erect two houses to cost $17,000 each.

* * *

We wonder who looks after the city clock, if any one. Just now no one is looking after it and we are a hour early to bed, the same to rise and eat. What is worth having is surely worth taking care of.

The baseball fever has struck the National Leather employes so hard as to plan for another year, when if present plans do not miscarry there will be double the number of games.

Peabody friends of Mrs. Charles H. Brooks, the caterer, sent her many felicitations on her 79th birthday anniversary last Wednesday. Aside from her business interests, Mrs. Brooks finds time to be perpetual president of the Woman's Aid Association and has been a pillar of strength in the Woman's Relief Corps which does so much to aid the Civil war veterans

There is no time in the year when there are so many colds as now. Trying to save fuel will not save doctors' bills, and coal should be plenty enough later. The schools in particular need heat.

* * *

The serious accident on Central street near the high school shows the need of care by autoists in that section. Signs of sufficient size should be posted as a warning, and probably will be after this accident. When the high school lets out, the sidewalks not to mention the streets are full of young America.

* * *

With the prices of real estate on Main street, rents cannot be lower. Merchants must figure to pay the advanced rents or go elsewhere. It may be Peabody will not support so many stores, for there is a limit.

* * *

The motor-cycle business is legal. No one objects until such time as the noise as from machine guns keep awake residents late in the night. Such is the case on Foster street.

* * *

Car service to Putnamville from Peabody is poor. A wait of half hour in Danvers tells the story.

ROMANCE OF WORDS

"O. K."

WHILE this abbreviation, as a laconic method of writing "correct," is undoubtedly traceable to the Indian "okeh," a number of other extremely interesting legends have gathered around it, dating all the way from the early colonial days down to the time of Andrew Jackson.

There are some that claim that it originated from the fact that the best rum and tobacco were formerly imported from Aux Cayes, in San Domingo, and that the casks containing them were always marked with the name of the town which was later phonetically rendered by the two letters "o. k."

Others maintain that the abbreviation came into vogue during the presidential campaign of 1828, when Andrew Jackson was alleged to have marked a number of documents with the letters "o. k." under the impression that they stood for "Oll Korrect." While "Old Hickory" was far from being a learned man, it is doubtful whether he would have been guilty of this error—particularly as there exists today certain legal papers on which the letters "O. R.", meaning "order recorded," may be seen in his handwriting. The hurried manner in which the initials were appended makes some of the "r's" look like "k's," which probably gave rise to the tradition connecting him with "Oll Korrect." The abbreviation was brought into prominence again when President Wilson endorsed the majority of his correspondence with the proper Indian term "Okeh."

REVENUE PATROL BOAT, CAPTURES TWO PRIZES SAME DAY

While the U. S. Patrol boat Hohn, under the command of Geo. V. Tawes, was cruising 8 miles off Long Branch, N. J. recently, it came upon the Schooner Buema and after a search discovered 946 cases of whiskey aboard—all Scotch. The Hohn towed the schooner toward shore and when it reached a point three miles off South Rockaway it hailed another schooner crossing its path. The boat happened to be the "Etta B.", under command of Capt. C. A. Peters of Boston. Some of the revenue men scented booze aboard and after a search discovered a lifeboat jammed full of whiskey —548 cases in all.

With the two booze ships in tow, the victorious Hohn docked at the battery with its prizes.

HOLLIS ST. THEATRE

Francine Larrimore in "Nice People" scored a big success this week. When Sam H. Harris sends out an attraction from New York, he generally makes it one well worth seeing. "Nice People," the comedy in which he presented his young star, Francine Larrimore, at the Hollis St. Theatre last Monday night was no exception to that rule. It was one of the most delightful comedies that has been presented in Boston for some time. Miss Larrimore is a second Billy Burke.

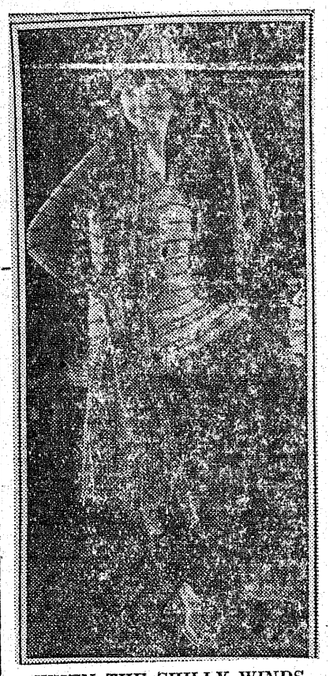
"Nice People" is a product of the pen of that clever playwright, Rachcel Crothers, whose "Old Lady 31," "39 East," "The Heart of Paddy Whack" and other plays have already made famous. It is written in her best vein and is an arraignment of the carelessness of Nice People, who allow their daughters to smoke, drink cocktails and dance all night in cabarets without chaperones. It depicts the adventures of one Teddy Gloucester, the daughter of a rich man, who is the leader of her set and deems herself quite powerful enough to defy all the old rules of propriety. She, with a male companion, takes a night ride into the country and reaches the country home of the Gloucesters in time to escape a terrific storm which compels them to remain in the house all night. Scandal becomes active, Teddy sees her blunder, but finally triumphs with the aid of a good friend. Miss Larrimore's supporting company is an excellent one, every member of it being selected with reference to his or her fitness for the character assigned.

KIDDIES SIX

By Will M. Maupin

WRITING IT AT HOME

A BUNCH of four—four happy kids
Chock full of fun and pleasure.
All four a mighty big expense,
But ev'ry one a treasure.
And when I want it quiet like
So I can do my writing,
The noise that bunch begins to make
Sounds like two armies fighting.



One clambers over my machine;
One asks for help with "numbers";
One for my pencil makes demand;
One my tired knee encumbers.
"A dozen eggs cost forty cents,
What will three dozen cost?"
And by the time I work it out
My thread of thought is lost.

One sticky hand is reaching out
To grasp my thinning locks.
One piercing voice makes loud demand
For help with building blocks.
"My pencil's broke; please sharpen it
So I can write the rest—"
And then the thoughts I've garnered in
Are all knocked gally west.

But when, at last, the sandman comes
And all four little heads
Are resting on the pillows white
Of two soft, downy beds;
And all is quiet 'round the house
Where once the noise did ring,
I start to write—and then can't think
Of a dodgasted thing!

TANNERS MUST COMBAT EUROPEAN COMPETITION

(By ENERGY)

Now that the tariff has been fixed by congress, and fixed is right, so far as tanners are concerned, trouble faces the industry. Not only has the tariff been fixed, but also the tanner. With no duty on leather, German and French tanners with wages far below ours can and will send their output here and sell at prices which our tanners cannot meet. Tanners of calf leather in particular are protesting against free leather, but it is now like the fellow who protested against allowing a certain tree to stand after he had run into it with his automobile and broken both legs

There is a flexible clause in the tariff bill giving the president power to charge duties, but like all bills of the kind it means only such articles as are dutiable and not for those which are on the free list. As leather is on the free list, it must stay there with no coal to keep warm. From the Shoe and Leather Reporter—"There is no question that in the very near future producers of calf leather, side and upper leather will suffer severely from German, French and other foreign tanners' competition, it is declared by one prominent tanner in a protest to a member of congress. Foreign tanners will naturally send their leather to this market on a large scale and as such leather can be produced at a much lower price, shoe manufacturers will buy the foreign leather and our American tanning labor will be out of work."

* * *

I cannot believe such a state of affairs will be allowed to exist for any length of time. No doubt it is well to make it appear on paper as strong as possible, for some people cannot be awoke by an alarm clock. Should it prove to be as fatal as it is made to appear, Peabody might well scrap their plants and the employes enlist to fight the Turks.

* * *

If the duty remains free on leather, only by making a better article can a tanner go on. We have in Peabody some in that class I contend. There are others close enough to become specialists, but those who make a leather like the ordinary kind will indeed strive for a living. No one wants to see wages reduced. But when we are actually up against the facts, when leather can be manufactured in Germany for a cent a foot less than here, the outlook is far from good Let us hope a way will be found to keep Peabody in right, but the idea is to find it.

* * *

Labor disputes are fast being settled. The coal and railroad strikes being practically settled, smaller ones naturally follow. Since the war it has been one darn thing after another, all affecting business and keeping it from coming back. At the present time war conditions in Europe disturb the equilibium. Here, all looks to a speedy return to prosperity. We may get mixed up again in European affairs, but it is hardly possible, to the extent of war. The Turks at the present time are drunk with victory. It is hardly to be expected they will overrun Europe. But we need trade with Europe to keep us where we should be. Just so long as war continues there we will suffer commercially more or less.

Raw material has advanced to the point that an advance in leather must come, and soon. Whether it will come until stocks made from cheaper raw material are closed up, is doubtful. It has been a long time since replacement has been taken into account. Ordinarily, not to replace means losses. For some years such a way could not be taken into account

* * *

The coal situation is growing better every day. Soft coal is coming not only from U. S. mines, but from England. I know of no maunfacturers here who have been pinched for want want of soft coal. True the price has stiffened but with the efforts being made by the government, coal prices will return to those before the strike. Oil burning apparatus is coming before the public and many even in the factories are planning to use oil. So it can be seen that the strike started efforts for new ways of heating and for power, and such ways will be improved to the extent that coal consumption will be lowered. Some one suggested to burn German marks. Cheaper than coal.

Specialties are ruling the leather market. Fancy colored ooze, called a variety of names by those who make it, has a big hold on the shoe manufacturer. Our wives and sweethearts, together with the other fellows, are in the state of mind to want shoes to match dresses and stockings. Where the poor boob has the price which he either makes or borrows, the tragedy goes on. Floor space in the closet is used to the limit and father puts his shoes under the kitchen stove, which is not bad on a cold morning. He needs only room for one pair.

It is all right to keep your eye on the ball, but don't forget to keep both eyes on your business, particularly if leather—S and L. Reporter.

ENGLISH CLASSES IN STATE COURSE

A meeting of those interested in a course in English literature offered by the State Division of university extension, Massachusetts department of education will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Council Chamber, City Hall. After a general lecture on English literature, the lecturer will discuss with the class topics to be taken up during the remainder of the course. By this method the Division plans to keep the course material varied so that persons who have taken work of this type previously will find the course a continuation rather than a repetition of work which they have already done.

Percy W. Long, Ph.D. formerly senior instructor of one of the large English classes at Harvard and during the last four years, full time lecturer for the division of university extensoin has been designated by the State to conduct the course. This course will be open to residents of Peabody and vicinity. A small charge will be made for enrollment and cost of materials. Enrollment may be made at the first meeting, to which all interested persons are invited.

VALENTINO IN BLOOD AND SAND BIG FEATURE FILM AT STRAND

Rodolph Valentino's reputation as a love-maker is well sustained in "Blood and Sand," his new sensational success which will be presented at the Strand today and Saturday. Well differentiated, but equally alluring are his scenes with Lila Lee and Nita Naldi, respectively, one a quiet demure type, the other vivid, exotic and passionate. Mr. Valentino himself is colorful in a variety of costumes showing his rise from a poor boy to a place as a successful bull-fighter and idol of all Spain.

The story of "Blood and Sand" is from the gifted pen of Vincente Blasco Ibanez, known to millions as the author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." "Blood and Sand" is the story of a hot, impestuous love against a background of the most dangerous sport known to man—bull fighting. The scenes in the Madrid bull-ring are the very peak of sensationalism. From the impressive opening pageant to the final work of killing the bull the scenes keep the spectator constantly on edge.

Associated with Mr. Valentino are Lila Lee and Nita Naldi as the rivals for his affection. Nita Naldi has been made a star and given a five-year contract with the Paramount company because of her great work as the vamp in this production. Other lesser lights who contribute towards the general excellence are Walter Long, Leo White and George Field. Walter Long plays the part of a Spanish bandit and if you don't think Spanish bandits are about the meanest bandits what is, it's no fault of Walter's. Owing to the length of "Blood and Sand" the first evening performance is to start at 6.30 p. m.

A Century comedy entitled "The Radio Hound," with Brownie, the wonder dog, starred, and Harry Myers in "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe" will be the other attractions on this big bargain bill for today and Saturday.

Alice Calhoun in "The Rainbow," a Vitagraph picture, will head the program for Sunday evening Herbert Rawlinson in "You'll Find It Everywhere" will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

"The Valley of Silent Men," a James Oliver Curwood story, with Lew Cody and Alma Rubens starred, will be the main attraction next Monday and Tuesday. "The Valley of Silent Men" is Mr. Curwood's most successful novel since "The River's End." Frank Borzage, the man who made "Humoresque," has given the story colorful treatment and it is hailed by the critics as the best northwestern picture of the year. The story deals with Sergeant Kent, of the Northwestern Mounted, who, when he thinks he is dying, confesses to a murder and lets the guilty man go free. Then he recovers and becomes the hunted instead of the hunter. A big company of Paramount players spent many weeks in the North amid colorful and picturesque scenes while filming the picture. Over a million and a half copies of Mr. Curwood's novel has been sold, which would indicate that the story is exceptionally fine.

RUDOLPH VALENTINO

STATE OFFERS FINE COURSES IN FREE STUDY

Rapid expansion of university extension work is expected to follow the issue of 15,000 bulletins on state correspondence courses which is now being made by the state division of univerity extension, Massachusetts department of education. The division is already serving 30,000 adult students in its courses, but it is paving the way for increased registration in the correspondence courses by bringing them to the attention of such residents of Massachusetts as are likely to be particularly interested in this type of instruction. It is the purpose of the bulletin to show what has been accomplished by correspondence instruction in the past two years, and the experiences of former students are given in their own words to show what correspondence training can accomplish.

Wide Range of Subjects

The prospective student has a wide range of subjects from which to select a course of study. The 150 different courses offered are included under the headings of English, foreign languages, history and government, economics, education, mathematics, commerce and management, drawing, engines and boilers, heating and ventilating, electricity, structural and highway engineering, textile processes and calculations, home-making, civil service, natural sciences and special industrial courses

Employers Advance Students

The favorable attitude of employers toward employees who have taken these courses is also shown in this bulletin through letters of commendation which they have written about such employees. In certain cases employers have suggested that those working for them take a course with the division in order to advance themselves In other cases advancement has followed when the achievement of one of his employees has been brought to the attention of an employer by a letter from the director of the division.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR INEXPENSIVE ADDITIONS TO HOME COMFORT AND HEALTH —WITHOUT REBUILDING

PLAN AS REARRANGED AT MINIMUM EXPENSE — ORIGINAL PLAN

Six-Room Bungalow With Property Value and "Liveableness" Greatly Increased

Because of today's conditions, many households are much interested in the problem of how to expand bathing and toilet facilities without new building.

By way of suggestion this paper will print a series of plans, (of which that above is the first) to indicate how practical improvements of the sort referred to can be made at moderate expense.

These plans are all designed to avoid undue interference with regular house-keeping activities, and can be put into effect with but little mess or fuss. In detail, none of the plans may exactly fit your house; but among them there is sure to be found some practical, usable suggestion.

This six room bungalow has been made into a home much more convenient and healthful by the added bath room shown.

Reference to the original plan, in comparison to the new one, shows that the change has been made with remarkably little added or altered construction. No feature of real advantage in the original plan has been sacrificed. The added showers, the baths, and lavatories in two bedrooms are a comfortable convenience out of all proportion to the added cost.

Added medicine or toilet cabinets over each lavatory would be enormously convenient too.

By such changes, many otherwise inadequate dwellings could be made infinitely more desirable, at a moderate expense which would disappear entirely in added property value.

Your plumbing dealer would be glad to confer with you about such a change. Very often a small closet can be converted into a beautifully inviting bathroom.

SCHOOL DAYS

American Legion

Startling reports concerning conditions at the Irene Byron Hospital, near Ft. Wayne, where the government has "farmed out" a number of World War Veterans suffering with tuberculosis, have stirred the American Legion to action, it became known today. The reports have caused an investigation by representatives of National Headquarters, the Indiana Department, and the Rehabilitation Committee of the American Legion, who visited the hospital following complaints from former service men who are patients there.

The Irene Byron institution is a county hospital, where those with sufficient means are allowed to pay for treatment, and those without means are cared for free. The government, with 33 patients there at the time the investigation was made, pays the county $3.25 a day for each patient. The hospital, the investigators reported, is ideally located, and constructed along the lines of the latest thought for effective treatment.

Forty typewriters will be provided for newspaper men "covering" the American Legion national convention, October 16-20, by the Remington Typewriter Company, the convention publicity committee has been advised. Twenty-five machines will be placed in convention hall for use of scribes filing their articles by telegraph during convention proceedings; ten typewriters will go to the press room at the Grunewald Hotel, to be used by journalists for morning newspapers and by magazine writers. American Legion Auxiliary convention headquarters at the Knights of Columbus hall will be equipped with five typewriters for correspondents attending that convention.

A railroad rate of one fare for the round trip will prevail for delegates and visitors to the American Legion national convention in New Orleans, October 16-20, the local convention committee has been advised by E. A. Simmon, chairman of the Legion's national transportation committee. The rate has been accepted as offficial by Hanford MacNider, Legion national commander. The reduced fare, which will be effective on all railroads, will apply to members of the American Legion and its Auxiliary, widows of deceased members of the Legion and to delegates to the convention of the Interallied Veterans' Federation which will be held the week before the Legion gathering.

Louis Mohr, 711 Tenth street, Sioux City, Ia., requested the American Legion to help find his brother, Walter Mohr, an ex-service man. Mohr was working on a county road crew in North Dakota in the fall of 1921 and was last heard from in September 1921. He has dark red hair, blue eyes, is five feet, six inches tall, weighs 155 pounds, one finger of right hand is deformed, and he is 34 years old. His mother, who lives at McLain, Neb., is worried over his long absence.

Mrs. H. E. Wrights, of Lake Samish, Wash., the sister of John Albert Boggs, has requested the American Legion to help find him. Property is involved the letter states. Boggs enlisted in 1918 and was in Company C, replacement troop at Camp Grant, being discharged at Portland, Oregon.

American Education Week has been set for Dec. 3 to 9, inclusive it was announced today by Garland W. Powell, assistant national director of Americanism for the American Legion, which inaugurated the movement last year and is receiving the cooperation of the United States Bureau of Education and the National Education Association. The announcement followed a conference between President Harding, Powell and John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education. Mr. Harding, in promising his full support, said he will issue a presidential proclamation which is to be followed by similar ones from governors and mayors.

Dogs Foretell the Weather.

Prairie dogs seem to have some kind of knowledge of the weather, if observers at the New York zoological park are right. Now and then the large members of the colony loosen the earth round their mounds with their forefeet, then shovel the soil upward with their hind feet. Other members work inside the borrow, throwing out earth to aid in the building. When a dyke has been built, the animals stamp the earth down with their heads—an amusing sight. As those operations invariably take place before a storm, the obvious purpose is to build a dam that will keep the water from running into the burrow.

Where Extra Service is Demanded
Firestone Cords Predominate

WHEREVER the exactions and tests of tires are most severe—there you will find Firestone Cords in universal use.

The hard jobs seek Firestone. And so well has Firestone responded under difficult conditions—so consistently has mileage mounted to totals impossible to obtain from ordinary tires that today Most Miles per Dollar is the buying slogan of thinking motorists everywhere.

The blending and tempering of rubber, gum-dipped cord construction, air-bag cure—all these mileage methods have been developed by men whose life work is the production of constantly increasing tire values for the public.

Users in this vicinity verify Firestone reputation, and report almost daily some new Firestone record of extra distance travelled.

Don't be satisfied to buy tires—buy values—the longest mileage at the lowest price consistent with such reliable performance.

Make Most Miles per Dollar your principle of tire economy — choose your next tire on that basis.

RESCUED

By GERTRUDE CUSHING

(©, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

A swift, silent scuffle, the odds all on one side—then two men go dumbly to the corner, the one in blue with brass buttons stepping with all the stolid decision his dragging charge permits. A word whispered into a police patrol box. A quick-drawn, staring crowd, men and boys, women and girls, thrusting heads forward, peering with sickening curiosity, some almost fingering the shrinking victim. The clangor of a rapidly approaching gong.

As it comes nearer the boy pulls out a decent handkerchief and covers his face from the disgusting audience. He had been drunk before—he didn't mind that so much—or the corrective hand of the law; but those staring faces!

At the first sound of the gong on the patrol three girls in an office high above the street gave interested attention.

"Here comes Mr. Volstead!" cried one.

The tableau being enacted below was getting to be an ordinary occurrence to the girls.

"Oh, dear! Isn't it too bad!"

"He looks so ashamed—"

"Yes, and he's well dressed—and clean. It makes me want to do something."

All the afternoon the last speaker tried in vain to forget the scene.

By closing time the desire to "do something," obsessed her. She ceased combating it. She let it lead her. . . .

Scant of breath and weak of voice, but resolute, she entered the nearest police station. Question and answer followed, short and direct. Her description was exact. The man was there.

"But what do you want with him? Do you know him?"

The girl's cheeks flamed. "Oh, no! I couldn't come, you know, if I did. I thought—I am sure it must be the first time. Perhaps he'd like to send for someone."

"No, ma'am, it's not the first time. It's the third time in two months."

The girl had done war work—many kinds of war work.

"You ought to see that I'm not like most girls. I'm older," she told the officer, "and I understand things. I know how to talk to them."

"Oh, well," thought the officer, "I might as well let her do something. She'll go quicker." So: "He's a queer duck. Always wants paper and pencil. Bring him some, if you want to."

* * * * * * * *

It was not easy to make the object of her solicitude talk. He took the paper, thanked her indifferently, waited for her to go. "If you'll write quickly," she coaxed him, "I'll mail it."

"I can't," he faltered. "My head—it's all mixed up—aches horribly . . . what did you come here for?" This last with sudden interest.

"To help you. I'll write it for you. You tell me what to say. Do you want to send for someone?"

This roused him. "For heaven's sake, no! Don't you tell her!" he cried.

Then he began to sob, weakly. After that he talked. For sympathy, perhaps, or perhaps he yielded to the girl's stronger will. As he talked she wrote, adroit questioning giving her what she needed to know.

"I was always no good," he told her, "until the war. I'm not a coward. I volunteered. Went to France, 1914. I was a lieutenant when it finished—by promotion. She knows that. I tell her all the good things.

Still following impulse, the girl countered: "You said you were not a coward. Prove it. Make a fight for her sake—and mine."

"For yours? You mean that?"

Frightened at the thrill in the man's voice—at the thrill in herself—she turned to go. He dropped to his knees. His lips pressed the hem of her dress. "You'll come again?" he entreated.

"Perhaps."

* * * * * * *

The next day the city police boat collided with a ferry boat while crossing the harbor. Above the dull thud of the impact, the splintering of wood and women's screams, came the cry of "Woman overboard!"

On the police boat a man, madly cursing, fought his keepers, flung them aside and plunged into the churning water. But a few hours before a girl had summoned him to new life—to prove his manhood, and now—

"O, God, let me save her!" he prayed.

* * * * * * *

They were both conscious when lifted into the lifeboat.

"You," she whispered, in wonder.

"Oh, I'm glad—I'm glad!"

"Quick, your name," he urged. "Where shall I find you—after three months?"

She answered, then closed her eyes in a happy stupor. Gently, with infinite respect, they led him away.

Hold 'Em, Men!

It was moonlight on the river.

"Isn't it wonderful!" she sighed, lifting her paddle gently. "How lovely the moonpath is, reaching from the very throne of God to earth! See how silver the drops falling from my paddle! Ah, the very night itself is perfumed with sentiment, and everywhere—"

"Say," he interrupted, "cut that out, will yuh? I come mighty near getting myself engaged to a girl that talked that way in a canoe!"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

"USING HIS HEAD" TO GOOD PURPOSES

Photo shows an interesting incident during the play between the "Spurs" and the Cardiff City representatives, two popular soccer teams. This acrobatic stunt in mid-field helped the victors win the game.

Peabody Baseball Team Plays Cornets On Sunday

Manager Jack Devaney of the Town Team has secured one of the biggest attractions of the season for Sunday, when the Cornets of Lynn appear at Emerson Park to battle Peabody in what should prove the banner game of the year

The Cornets need no introduction to the baseball public of this city, as they defeated Peabody early in the season, but on next Sunday they will face the best team to ever represent Peabody.

Casey on first base for Peabody has been playing in the Canadian State League the past summer, and has already won the hearts of the local fans by his clever playing. McIntyre on second is a Wakefield boy, who many claim after seeing him perform last Sunday is one of the best second basemen in the business.

Walter Waite at short is a former pupil of Coach Leander McDonald and is one of the star players who brought Cambridge Latin the championship of the state two years ago.

"Con" O'Daughty on third base is a Woburn product, and Jack Slattery of the Boston Post has picked him as one of the best third basemen in independent baseball.

The outfield will be taken care of by "Ernie" Gourley, one of Peabody's own, and Hubby Lawrence, another Peabody boy. These young men are at present playing the best ball of their career and are hitting the old pill hard, as the last two games have shown.

"Percy" Young, a Wakefield boy, at present, but who lived in Peabody for a number of years, will take care of the other outfield position. Young made the most sensational catch ever seen at the park grounds last Sunday and is also a hard batter.

A big league pitcher may take the mound of Peabody in the person of "Mulrenon" of the Chicago "White Sox," whom Manager Devaney has wired for his terms, and also has strings out for "Jim" Fitzgerald, who has beaten the Cornets of Lynn only last week. With this combinatic on the field, Peabody can hold their own with the best teams in the state.

Charleston Comes Here November 4

By Anthony J. McKevlin

Charleston, S. C., Sept. 28.—With a line as strong as in 1921, and with a backfield as good in actual, and perhaps better in reserve, strength, the Bantams will this season present a high school gridiron team that most probably will be without a peer.

No chain is stronger than its weakest link, and it was feared for a time that the loss of Long, at tackle, and Holcombe, at full, would mean perhaps a weaker team. But, that fear has been swept away and in its place joy has been spread This joy can be easily counted for, mainly for the following reasons:

1. Dutch Brinker, a regular halfback last year, and Frank Drowota, who figured in the line, are having a merry struggle for the full back honors, with Dutch probably sharing the edge However, this brace of huskies assure the Bantams of two first-class high school fulls, either of whom would be capable of filling Holcombe's new vacant boots

2 Every man on the team is showing up from twenty-five to fifty per cent. better than last season. They are a bit heavier, and the fortnight spent on the Isle of Palms has made them virtually men of iron—they are impervious to hard knocks, bumps, jolts and the other small things so prevalent in the life of a grid player.

3. Long was a great tackle. That must be admitted. He was unusually good, and therefore it would take an unusually good man to fill his boots.

Anthony Beattie, last year a sub, and Harold Moye, who didn't raise much noise in 1921, are now two dangerous candidates for the job. Indeed, they are throwing a scare into Irish Eddie Doyle, Long's balancing mate.

Tennesese Lad Out

4. The real joy giver is that one "C. B." Coleman, a lad hailing from Tennessee, but now living in Charleston with his brother, has come out for a place at tackle. Coleman tips 170 pounds stripped. Last season he was captain of the Knoxville high school, and was selected by Tennessee scribes as all-state tackle.

The Bantams open the season here on October 6 with Darlington high school.

Peabody's First Gridiron Game

Coach Brawley's high school pigskin players get started tomorrow afternoon, when they line up against Danvers high school. Coach Barry of Danvers has developed a good eleven from the inexperienced material he had to start with. He has already played two games while Peabody will be lined up for the first time Saturday.

The Danvers team is especially strong on the defence and has some husky boys in their line Coach Brawley is no doubt all set for the fray, having put the team through a number of scrimmages the last week A number of new uniforms arrived this week, and the team is completely outfitted ready for action Tomorrow's lineup will probably look like this:

Harris or Beres, centre; J. Murphy and Thibeedau, guards; Gavigan and Kildery, tackles; Coan and Sweeney or Boyle, ends; Buckley, quarterback; Luz, righ halfback; Pappas, left halfback; Lawrence or Maguire, fullback.

The game will be played on the gridiron in the rear of the high school and is scheduled for 3.15 p. m.

RANDALL AT VICTOR ALLEYS

Charles "(Pat") Randall, champion bowler, will be at the Victor alleys next Tuesday evening. Last Wednesday evening H. L. D'Entremont, manager of the Victor alleys, bowled six strings with Randall at the Reading alleys with the following scores:

Randall—121, 125, 117, 130, 117, 105—715.

D'Entremont—100, 113, 114, 105, 99, 115—646.

The Oxygen We Breathe.

It has been found by scientific experiment that the average adult consumes about 30 ounces of oxygen in 24 hours, and during that period inhales and exhales 1,440 gallons of air.

C. H. S. Schedule

Following is the Bantam's schedule:

LITTLEFIELDS

plant on Railroad ave.

The concern has leased the factory formerly owned by the Kromene Leather Co. near the George Vaughan Leather concern on Foster st. and hopes to be doing business by October 15. The plant is being overhauled and fitted up with new machinery for the manufacture of sheepskins of which the old Littlefield Leather Co. had an enviable reputation. Blacks will be the leading output.

Arthur Littlefield who heads the concern is a graduate of Peabody high school where he was business manager of one of the most successful baseball teams and later graduated from Mass. Institute of Technology with the class of 1920. He returned to the college for a postgraduate course given over mostly to personal touch with some of the largest manufacturing plants in the country. He has been identified with the stock and bond business in Boston.

Mr. Legal his brother-in-law is a graduate of the University of Maine with the class of 1918 and comes into the concern with a broad experience in the business world. The two men will have the best wishes of many friends in this city for their success.

CITY COUNCIL

the Council voted to lay this over until the next meeting on October 11. The appropriations in need of the funds as reported last night are the city pensions, assessvors, sewer construction, military aid, police, city hall and plumbing inspector.

Chief Grady requested revoking of Sunday licenses at 30 Warren street and Washington street and Clement avenue. A still was found on the premises at the Washington street store Sept. 21. The Council voted to revoke.

Edward Sexton of 9 Sherman street and Everett Southwick of 208 Lowell street were drawn for civil court jury duty on Oct. 16 at Salem.

On motion of Councillor Craig of Ward 5, the electric light department was requested to place another light on Jacobs street.

The Council voted to have the building inspector renumber Margin street.

HOSPITAL AID

There will be a dance this evening at the Nurses' home under the auspices of the ladies of the Hospital Aid Association. Blaney's orchestra will furnish the music. The public is invited.

Miss Annie Slattery and Mrs. Agnes Garby, two trained nurses, will complete their course at the J. B. Thomas hospital Monday night when they will receive their diplomas. They qualify as two of the best nurses ever to get the cap at the local institution. A party in their honor will be held and the 20 nurses who make up the personnel of the staff will join in wishing their colleagues the best of good fortune. Both of the graduating nurses are from Salem.

Supt. Feckler in charge of the hospital has made arrangements whereby six of the nurses now at the local hospital will report at the Bellevue hospital, New York, Jan. 1, for a nine months' special course. The fact that New York's biggest hospital has consented to this arrangement reflects no mean credit on the Peabody hospital. The local institution has become vastly improved under the new superintendent.

BOARD OF ASSESSORS
CITY OF PEABODY
Peabody Sept. 29, 1922.

HOLTEN LODGE ODD FELLOWS

Holten Lodge of Odd Fellows held a roll call last Tuesday evening and 125 members responded in person and a large number sent in letters, some coming from a long distance. Three charter members who responded in person were William F. Sawyer and Charles A. Teague of this city and George Bancroft of Salem. George E. Parker of South Peabody, also a charter member, sent in a letter to be read when his name was called.

AMERICAN LEGION

Post 153, A. L., will hold a special meeting at 11 a. m. Sunday, October 1. Business of importance to every member will come before the meeting, and it is hoped that each and every member will attend.

OLD ROCKDALES

The royal rooters of South Peabody will turn out to see their old favorites, the "Rockdales," trim the "All Stars" on the ball field Saturday afternoon. Practically all the stars of the team that once was the class of the Peabody amateurs will be seen. The line-up will be: LeCain, p.; Millberry, c.; Frank McKeen, 1st b.; Billy Welch, 2 b.; Con. Giles, Jr., ss.; Billy Woods, 3 b.; F. Smith, l.f.; H. Tucker, c.f.; F. Welch, r.f. It has been some time since the native sons of So Peabody played together and they are out to show the aspirants that they are as good as ever. Gus Daum, old New England league catcher, will umpire

ALL STARS AT SALEM

The All Stars of South Peabody will go to Rowell's field in Salem Sunday for the rubber game with the Derby A. C. The series is one and one now, and the Peabody team is out for the deciding game. A truck will leave Lynn and Lynnfield streets at 1 o'clock Sunday to take down a crowd of fans. The game will get away at 2.30.

A meeting of the Ladies' Circle of the Universalist church will be held Wednesday, Oct. 4, at 3 o'clock. Salad supper served at 6.30.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Pursuant to and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by BENJAMIN N. MOORE & SONS COMPANY, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to JOHN N. EATON and WILLIAM LE FAVRE, of Boston, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, and LEONARD B. PICKERING of DANVERS, Essex County in said Commonwealth, Trustees, dated February 14, 1921 and recorded with Essex County (South District) Deeds, Book 2475, page 350, for the purpose of foreclosing the said mortgage for breach of the conditions thereof, will be sold at public auction on lot numbered one (1) of the premises hereinafter described on the twenty-third day of October, 1922 at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular, the land in Peabody in said County of Essex and Commonwealth with the buildings thereon described in said mortgage, a more particular description of which is as follows:

PARCEL NUMBER ONE, is situate on Pierpont Street in said Peabody and bounded as follows:—Southeasterly by Pierpont Street, sixty-eight (68) feet; Southwesterly by Sewall Street eighty (80) feet; Northwesterly by land of Shaw and Wilkins, now or formerly, sixty-eight (68) feet; and Northeasterly by land formerly of William Fornis, eighty (80) feet. Being lot numbered ten (10) on a "Plan of the Estate of the late Ward Poole", recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, at the end of Book 810. Being the same premises conveyed to said grantor by deed recorded with said Registry Book 1849 Page 38.

PARCEL NUMBER TWO, is situated on Pierpont Street in said Peabody, bounded thus:—Beginning at land of Jeffers on Pierpont Street, thence running Northerly and Northeasterly by said street following the curve of said street, about two hundred and ninety-nine and one-half (299½) feet to other land now or formerly of the grantor; thence Southeasterly by said other land now or formerly of grantor about forty-six and 6/10 (46.6) feet to the Northwesterly side of the brook; thence Northeasterly along the said side of said brook by land now or formerly of grantor about forty-five and one-half (45½) feet to a corner; thence Southeasterly by said land of grantor, Sutton Place, and other land, about one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet to a corner; thence in a Southwesterly direction, about seventy-two (72) feet; thence more Southwesterly about one hundred (100) feet; thence in about a Southwesterly direction thirty-two and one-half (32½) feet, more or less to land of said Jeffers; and thence in a Northeasterly direction by said land of Jeffers about seventy-eight (78) feet to Pierpont Street and the point begun at. Together with a right of way from the portion of the granted premises lying Southerly of said brook to Main Street as conveyed in a deed from William Sutton to William Sutton, Junior, dated May 1, 1880, recorded with said Deeds, Book 1044 Page 118. Being the same premises described in deed recorded with said Registry, Book 2141, page 52.

PARCEL NUMBER THREE, is a parcel of land situate in Peabody near the Salem line as the same set forth on a "Plan of part of Sutton Property, Peabody, Mass., Metcalf & Ashton, surveyors," dated May, 1902, recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book of Plans 13 Plan 17; to wit:—Beginning at the Northeasterly corner of the granted premises at a point on the brook as shown on said plan one hundred (100) feet distant Westerly from lot No. 5 as shown on said plan; thence running Westerly by said brook about one hundred seventeen (117) feet; thence turning and running Southerly as shown on said plan fifty-seven and five-tenths (57.5) feet to a way twenty feet wide, shown on said plan, and known as Sutton Place; thence turning and running Easterly by said way about one hundred eighteen (118) feet to land of Eagan; being the remaining portion of lot 6; thence turning and running Northerly by land of Eagan to the point begun at. Being the same premises described in deed recorded in said Registry in Book 2138, page 211.

PARCEL NUMBER FOUR, is lot numbered sixteen (16) as marked and laid down on a "plan of the Estate of Joshua H. Poole," recorded as plan 63 in plan Book No. One in Essex South District Registry of Deeds, bounded thus:—Northwesterly by Pierpont Street in Peabody, Essex County, one hundred twenty-five (125) feet; Northeasterly by factory lot formerly of Joshua H. Poole, about seventy-eight (78) feet; Southeasterly by land now or formerly of Sutton about one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; and Southwesterly by lot No. 15 on said plan about forty-six and six-tenths (46.6) feet. Being the same premises described in deed recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 1854, page 157.

PARCEL NUMBER FIVE, is situated on Pierpont Street in said Peabody and bounded thus:—Northwesterly by said Pierpont Street about one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; Northeasterly by land now or formerly of O'Connell about ninety feet to the brook; Southeasterly by the westerly side of the brook and land now or formerly of the Heirs of William Sutton, about one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; Southwesterly by land formerly of Joshua H. Poole. Being the same premises described in deed recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2358, page 409.

Being a portion of the premises described in the above mentioned mortgage and situated in said Peabody.

Said premises will be sold subject to and with the benefit of all restrictions, easements, improvements, outstanding tax titles, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, liens or claims in the nature of liens and existing encumbrances of record.

Elks To Hear Noted Surgeon

Dr. Edward M. Plumer of Charlestown, one of the state's leading oral surgeons, who numbers many Peabody friends, will be the guest of the Peabody Lodge of Elks next Monday night. He won't talk on ears but will give a highly instructive entertainment on "Ancient Greek Games." Dr. Plumer in other days was a fine athlete, and boxing and wrestling were two of his favorite pastimes. His discourse is bound to go over big.

Exalted Ruler Dr. Lawrence K. Kelley has set an innovation for the local Elkdom by mapping out an attractive program for the winter meetings. He proposes to hold sort of a forum for the members and speakers of note will be secured to give talks following the regular lodge business. A collation will be served Monday night.

A smoker and luncheon for roll call night is announced for October 23 and an Oct. 31 the women committee of the Elks will put over a fine Halloween night.

Woman's Club Opens Season

The first meeting of the fall season of the Peabody Woman's Club will be held at Peabody Institute hall this afternoon at 3.30, when an unusually attractive program will be presented. Mrs. Wallace P. Hood will address the members regarding "Federation Affairs and Plans" and a "Federation Message" will be given by Miss Annie L. Lane. The Huntington Trio, composed of Miss Frances Merrick, violinist; Miss Priscilla Warren, cellist, and Miss Mabel Berry, pianist, will delight their hearers with several selections. The year book of the club issued today contains the following list of interesting events for the season:

JEWS OBSERVED ATONEMENT DAY

The Jewish month of Tishrey—which is equivalent to the month of October, was this year noted in Peafor great Jewish religious activities. The beginning of it was ushered in with the blowing of the ram's horn, the Jewish New Year. On Monday last was celebrated the feast of Atonement, where all the pious Jews fasted for 24 hours—from Sunday sunset till the sunset of Monday.

It was a grand sight to behold the cantor, Rev. M. Ordman, with a choir of ten, singing hymns beseeching the Lord to grant the Hebrews of Peabody a year of happiness and prosperity; and the good Jewish citizens of Peabody, many of them men of big affairs here and in Boston politically and financially, were standing alongside their poorer brethren—their employes probably, chanting silent prayers from sunrise to sunset.

Tonight being the 15th day of Tishrey, the feast of Tabernacle is observed with great ceremony by the congregation Sons of Israel at their temple on Park street.

The officers of the congregation are Ephraim Hershenson, president; S. Rosen, vice president; Mr. Goldberg, treasurer, and Rev. M. Ordman, cantor.

The feast of the Tabernacle is celebrated for eight days, terminating with "Simchath Torah," meaning the Fear O'Connor Cannot Live

Cornelius M. O'Connor, a veteran of the World war, and the eldest son of Mrs. Margaret O'Connor of Highland Park, who was so seriously injured when struck by a train on September 4, is in a critical condition. He was removed two weeks ago from the J. B. Thomas hospital to the Massachusetts General hospital, Boston, where he was operated on by Dr. Mixter, the noted surgeon, in an effort to alleviate his sufferings. But little hope is entertained for his recovery.

A. C. LAWRENCE DIES IN BOSTON

Arthur C. Lawrence, dean of the leather manufacturers, and founder of the big firm which bears his name in Peabody, passed away at his home in Boston yesterday in his 74th year. He made his last visit to the Peabody plant two months ago. For the past two years he had been in poor health. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Marion Higgins of Boston. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon from Emanuel church, Newbury street, Boston.

His death casts a gloom over the 2500 employes of the allied concerns in this city and especially among the numerous executive officers and plant foremen who held him in fond esteem and hailed him as the "Daddy" of the big A. C. Lawrence Leather Co.'s family.

It was his custom to visit the Peabody plant several times during the year and on each of his visits he would spend a few hours in consultation with General Superintendent Charles P. Kelley and other executives, and it was his delight to walk around among the departments and recall his earlier days when more of his time was given to production.

Up to quite recently he was a daily visitor at the Boston offices of the big leather concern.

Superintendent Charles P. Kelley and other executives of the Peabody plants will head a large delegation of Peabody friends to attend the funeral.

Proposed Packing Plant To Cost $35,000; To Employ 25

There is every indication that the Board of Health will grant a permit to Frank W. Osborn and others to erect a packing or slaughtering house near the old degreasing works off Lowell street, West Peabody. At a meeting in Mayor Shea's office yesterday attended by the Board of Health officials, Agent Ray, City Solicitor Farnham and Edward F. O'Dowd, special representatives of the state commission on necessaries of life, Chairman Percy Murray of the Board of Health said that the decision of his board would be announced in a few days.

The proposed plant got a hearing before the Board of Health last Wednesday night when ex-Mayor Donnell appeared as counsel for the petition.

Mr. Osborn, a former resident of this city, now of Lynn, stated yesterday that his concern if granted the permit would erect a $35,000 plant, 100 by 40, with outside boiler house, and would give employment to 20 or 25 men to start. He declared the sewer and water problems were solved and that no expense to the city would be involved in either of these particulars. He guaranteed also that no obnoxious odors would come from the plant.

Mr. O'Dowd said his department urged the opening of more independent packing houses to encourage raising of more livestock in this state.

The Young Men's Social Club of West Peabody voted their approval of the proposed packing plant in their vicinity. Only one objector has been found in West Peabody.

Mayor Shea said yesterday that he would be opposed to the petition if West Peabody citizens had so expressed themselves.

The proposed site is over 800 feet from Lowell street on the west side of the railroad tracks.

THOMAS HOSPITAL

When the Belleview hospital authorities allow six nurses from the Josiah B. Thomas Hospital to take a special course at their hospital in New York city, it recognized the local institution as being worthy to say the least, and placed it on the same plane as other leading hospitals. The Belleview hospital is known throughout the country as being one of the leading hospitals. It carries its work to the extent of spreading its knowledge that others may benefit. The six nurses who are fortunate enough to take this course will receive benefits that the local institutions cannot give them. This equipment will be a benefit from many angles and will introduce new methods for the care of the sick. Hospital methods are ever changing, as is all science. One can look backward 10 years only to realize what has been accomplished in surgery, and the many changes for the better which are made come from the bigger hospitals where noted surgeons and specialists, the top of the profession, congregate. The local hospital cannot do many things to progress for lack of funds. But for the noble work of the women from all walks of life, it would be difficult to carry on. But when such times arise, when funds are needed, the answer has been help in plenty. We are indeed fortunate to have a hospital. In its years of existence it has become a factor in the life of our city, and as increased patronage will call for increased facilities, the answer will be aid, financially and otherwise. The new superintendent, Mrs. Feckler, a graduate of this hospital, has injected new life into the management, and all points to a successful outcome in these years to come.

P. H. S. FOOTBALL

Coach Edward Brawley has started his work well. From all we can glean he has injected the proper spirit into the boys who aspire for a position on the eleven. Football spirit is the same spirit which leads all to success, and without it, without the ambition to surmount all obstacles, little is accomplished in this line. Mr. Brawley in his recent talk before the Rotary Club emphasized the need of boys progressing in their studies as well as in athletics. He insists that to keep up in studies means a keener athlete. Therefore with that in mind, he has given out that boys who lag will not hope to make the baseball or football team. This statement made a deep impression on the Rotary Club members, and stamped the new coach as being the right kind. The big game with Charleston will soon be here. All realize that it will take every effort to win from the southern boys. The committee in charge of the entertainment of the visitors are well equipped to get the best results, and we confidently expect the citizens will do their part by contributing, and the committee and participants are sure to do their part. Local football enthusiasts would indeed be disappointed if the home team again loses. But win or lose, the get together of the North and South is the all important event, for it will serve to bury the feeling of the 60's, and bring together the descendants of those who fought for what they considered right. It means a country where all work for the same idea, "My Country' tis of thee, sweet land of liberty."

COAL CONDITIONS

The way hard coal has been coming here recently gives out hopes that all will be supplied with this or other fuel during winter months. From a local dealer the information comes that he cannot hope to supply all his customers with hard coal at least before the spring months. But the fact remains we are getting hard coal in fair quantities, at least weekly. It is surprising how many peopde have not put in their winter's supply of coal. Among the number are a large percentage who could afford so to do. It appears that such users of coal figured that prices would drop during the summer. It was a gamble and they lost. There is a large demand for wood, kerosene heaters, and burning kerosene in furnaces and steam boilers is attracting attention. The coal strike will no doubt help to bring out devices for heating which otherwise would not have appeared on the market.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB

On Friday of this week, the Woman's Club starts another year. The usual entertainments will be given and all points to another successful season of this most important organization. A woman's club has its own field of work. Its purpose is one of socialibility. It serves to promote a better feeling in the community, and with it all, binds the women together in a spirit of helpfulness. We of Massachusetts have a different way in social life than in other parts of the country, a differenece which serves to impress people from other sections as being far from cordial Only organizations like the Woman's Club can help to eradicate this objectionable feature of Masachusetts living. It does not mean that diffidence is more than on the surface. But the fact remains we should try and overcome this apparent coldness, take in the new comers, and make them feel at home. Those who have traveled in other sections of the country can testify to the hospitality shown them. The Woman's Club can help.

MOVIE CENSORSHIP

A referendum will be attached to the ballot at the fall election in favor of a state censorship of moving pictures. A bill for this was passed by the legislature. Now the voters are asked to decide the matter.

Since the bill was passed conditions have changed in the movie world. Will Hays, former postmaster general, has been employed by the movie producers to take charge of the business, and it is his announced intention to devote his time to the securing of better pictures. If the movie producers themselves will attend to the housecleaning necessary, it will be much better than having the states do it. Any state censorship is bound to be a failure for the reason that they will only pass upon films coming into the state and can have no jurisdiction over their production. The place to censor films is at the place of their production, and the censorship should be uniform for the whole country. Any censorship commission is bound to be a political one and dangerous to the freedom of the press.

It will be a good plan to wait and see what success Mr. Hays meets with before hampering such a big industry by political action. There has already been a noticeable improvement in the films and more can confidently be expected under Mr. Hays' supervision.—Wareham Courier.

ROUND ABOUT

As a tribute to the service Commissioner Andrew Fyfe of military aid and soldiers' relief has been giving the city, it is significant that $4100 of his appropriation is now available for other city obligations, and this amount is recommended taken from his office and transferred to departments needing the money. There was a lot of snarling talk some months ago that Fyfe was not capable of filling the job. He has demonstrated himself a "better man" evidently than some of his critics gave him credit of being.

* * *

The stills are still working, even if the police keep everlastingly at it to put them out of commission Last week a haul was made and an outfit brought to the station which would find a place in a distillery The fines are serving the city well, but it does not serve to stop the evil.

* * *

We happened on Andover street one night recently after dark. That new signal was on the job and filling the bill. Such lights are the best yet for service.

* * *

The high school stadium is fast shaping into a regular field for athletics. A long felt want is finally filled, and baseball together with football can be played there and real money collected to pay expenses which have incerased with the rest of living. It may come to the point when it will cost too much to live.

* * *

Ray Porter and Al Johnson, the former of Peabody, the latter of Peabody and Danvers, will battle soon for the championship of the Homestead Golf Club. They play 36 holes and the betting starts even. The winner will know he has been in a golf match.

* * *

The promise of fireworks in the fall campaign for mayor will be delivered. We trust the candidates will keep within bounds and not tell all they know of the other fellow's life. Facts and figures if properly vouched for will give the voters an idea of what is what, and hot air will amount to little. Meanwhile the political pot is filling but the candidates must not boil over.

* * *

I observe that William F. Carlin, the real estate man, was named one of the vice presidents at the Democratic state convention in Springfield last week. Mr. Carlin had much to do in getting out the handsome vote for ex-Mayor Fitzgerald for governor.

* * *

The Boston & Maine railroad sold the Walnut street property to Morse because they needed the money. Now it is whispered they are sorry, for freight facilities are needed in that section.

* * *

Every day it becomes more evident that the street railroad should be on Washington street instead of Foster street. Spring, Oak and Lowe streets offer all kinds of danger of accidents, and little travel is gathered except coming from Washington street section. The turn on Main and Washington streets has been taken up, so that it appears no change back will come. When, however, a serious accident occurs on the present location, and come it will, somebody in authority will demand a change.

Do not worry further about coal. It will be here and enough to burn. The coal trade at one dollar a peck will not hit us at present.

The original potato grows wild in Peru, So. America. No one has come forward to claim they brought them here, so the traveler is not listed. Our farmers do not claim the honor, in fact many of them are mad with this vegetable because it will not grow freely. The original wild potato was small, and now the experts are trying a combination of the wild and local variety hoping to produce something better.

* * *

The warm weather has served to keep baseball on the map. A little frost and then football comes, and evidently in bunches. P. H. S. started well in its game with Danvers, and appears to have a strong bucking combination. Every day, practice adds to the team's strength, so look out for Peabody high.

* * *

The idea of an abbattoir in West Peabody has started something. Residents in that section used to pure air and plenty of it, object to foreign smells that could be "heard" for miles.

* * *

We congratulate somebody for placing the city clock in condition. All dolled up with new lights, striking evenly, keeping better time, there is no reason why time should further hang on our hands. In fact, some of us do not have the time to look at the clock.

Rev. W. A. Smith, who recently passed away at his home on Mount Pleasant, won fame as a preacher and publisher. His health has been poor of late far worse than his friends realized. He passed his winters in New York.

We have noted several automobiles being driven about the center of the city with only one light burning. This is pronounced one of the worst things to meet on the road, and such being the case something should be done to make all use both lights. Who is it up to?

That patent paint may hold, but for how long? So far as we can see it is no improvement over the other kinds tried out. Some highways have a paint that is white, but how often it is painted we know not. A chance to dry might help.

Senator Frederick Butler of Lawrence, Republican candidate for congress from this district, was in Peabody this week making numerous acquaintances of leading party workers who are forming a local committee to boost his candidacy. Mr. Butler has been in the legislature for the past eight years, five of which he was representative, and for the past three years has been state senator. He stands high in the esteem of party leaders and his work in the legislature has found him aggressive and an able law maker He has a fine personality and his popualrity in his home city assures him a tremendous support.

WOMAN'S DIVISION

At the meeting of the Woman's Division of the Republican party held Tuesday evening in Council chamber, Mrs. Rosa Sturgeon, city chairman, asked for co-operation among the men and women voters in order to maintain good government. Mrs. Robina F. Richardson of Lynn addressed those present upon loyalty to our country and its laws and explained the six referendums to be on the ballot the coming election, Nov. 7.

Room 8 in Herbert Trust building is open daily, afternoon and evening, from 3 to 5.30 and 7 to 9.30. Any voter wishing information upon the referendums and an opportunity to discuss them is welcome.

Senator Wadleigh, who was unable to be present Tuesday evening, will speak here in the near future.

TURKISH INFANTRY ON THE MARCH

Today such troops as these, fighting under the banner of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, are moving steadily toward the Dardanelles and toward the British base at Chanak. Meantime, Great Britain is rushing reinforcements to Turkey and the Allied Cabinets are discussing peace terms to be offered to Kemal.

Mrs. Ernest Porter will be hostess over the week-end at Ocean Park, Me., for the following Peabody members of the King's Daughters: Mrs. S. Chase Tucker, Mrs. Cephas Madison, Mrs. G. F. Woodbury, Mrs. J. Murray Wilson, Mrs. Willis Knowlton and Miss Edythe Porter.

MORTGAGEES' SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Pursuant to and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by BENJAMIN N. MOORE & SONS COMPANY, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to JOHN N. EATON and WILLIAM LE FAVRE, of Boston, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, and LEONARD B. PICKERING of DANVERS, Essex County in said Commonwealth, Trustees, dated February 14, 1921 and recorded with Essex County (South District) Deeds, Book 2475, page 350, for the purpose of foreclosing the said mortgage for breach of the conditions thereof, will be sold at public auction on lot numbered one (1) of the premises hereinafter described on the twenty-third day of October, 1922 at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular, the land in Peabody in said County of Essex and Commonwealth with the buildings thereon described in said mortgage, a more particular description of which is as follows:

PARCEL NUMBER ONE, is situate on Pierpont Street in said Peabody and bounded as follows:—Southeasterly by Pierpont Street, sixty-eight (68) feet; Southwesterly by Sewall Street eighty (80) feet; Northwesterly by land of Shaw and Wilkins, now or formerly, sixty-eight (68) feet; and Northeasterly by land formerly of William Fornis, eighty (80) feet. Being lot numbered ten (10) on a "Plan of the Estate of the late Ward Poole", recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, at the end of Book 810. Being the same premises conveyed to said grantor by deed recorded with said Registry Book 1849 Page 88.

PARCEL NUMBER TWO, is situated on Pierpont Street in said Peabody, bounded thus:—Beginning at land of Jeffers on Pierpont Street, thence running Northerly and Northeasterly by said street following the curve of said street, about two hundred and ninety-nine and one-half (299½) feet to other land now or formerly of the grantor; thence Southeasterly by said other land now or formerly of grantor about forty-six and 6/10 (46.6) feet to the Northwesterly side of the brook; thence Northeasterly along the said side of said brook by land now or formerly of grantor about forty-five and one-half (45½) feet to a corner; thence Southeasterly by said land of grantor, Sutton Place, and other land, about one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet to a corner; thence in a Southwesterly direction, about seventy-two (72) feet; thence more Southwesterly about one hundred (100) feet; thence in about a Southwesterly direction thirty-two and one-half (32½) feet, more or less to land of said Jeffers; and thence in a Northeasterly direction by said land of Jeffers about seventy-eight (78) feet to Pierpont Street and the point begun at. Together with a right of way from the portion of the granted premises lying Southerly of said brook to Main Street as conveyed in a deed from William Sutton to William Sutton, Junior, dated May 1, 1880, recorded with said Deeds, Book 1044 Page 113. Being the same premises described in deed recorded with said Registry, Book 2141, page 52.

PARCEL NUMBER THREE, is a parcel of land situate in Peabody near the Salem line as the same set forth on a "Plan of part of Sutton Property, Peabody, Mass., Metcalf & Ashton, surveyors," dated May, 1902, recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book of Plans 13 Plan 17; to wit:—Beginning at the Northeasterly corner of the granted premises at a point on the brook as shown on said plan one hundred (100) feet distant Westerly from lot No. 5 as shown on said plan; thence running Westerly by said brook about one hundred seventeen (117) feet; thence turning and running Southerly as shown on said plan fifty-seven and five-tenths (57.5) feet to a way twenty feet wide, shown on said plan, and known as Sutton Place; thence turning and running Easterly by said way about one hundred eighteen (118) feet to land of Eagan; being the remaining portion of lot 6; thence turning and running Northerly by land of Eagan to the point begun at. Being the same premises described in deed recorded in said Registry in Book 2138, page 211.

PARCEL NUMBER FOUR, is lot numbered sixteen (16) as marked and laid down on a "plan of the Estate of Joshua H. Poole," recorded as plan 63 in plan Book No. One in Essex South District Registry of Deeds, bounded thus:—Northwesterly by Pierpont Street in Peabody, Essex County, one hundred twenty-five (125) feet; Northeasterly by factory lot formerly of Joshua H. Poole, about seventy-eight (78) feet; Southeasterly by land now or formerly of Sutton about one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; and Southwesterly by lot No. 15 on said plan about forty-six and six-tenths (46.6) feet. Being the same premises described in deed recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 1854, page 157.

PARCEL NUMBER FIVE, is situated on Pierpont Street in said Peabody and bounded thus:—Northwesterly by said Pierpont Street, about one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; Northeasterly by land now or formerly of O'Connell about ninety feet to the brook; Southeasterly by the westerly side of the brook and land now or formerly of the Heirs of William Sutton, about one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; Southwesterly by land formerly of Joshua H. Poole. Being the same premises described in deed recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2358, page 409.

Being a portion of the premises described in the above mentioned mortgage and situated in said Peabody.

Said premises will be sold subject to and with the benefit of all restrictions, easements, improvements, outstanding tax titles, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, liens or claims in the nature of liens and existing encumbrances of record.

Terms of sale $1000.00 at time and place of sale and balance in ten days thereafter.

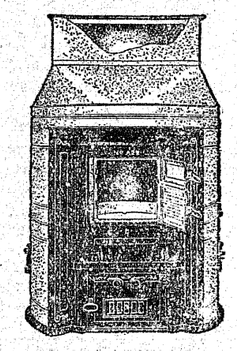
Quick and easy to install, burns anything. The Glenwood Single-Pipe makes heating easy



IF you phoned to us today you could have a Glenwood Single-Pipe Heating System completely installed the day after tomorrow. In most cases two men can put it in complete in a single day.

That would put an end to your fuel troubles for the rest of the winter. For you can burn any kind of fuel in this modern heater—wood, coal, soft coal, coke and even rubbish.

The feed doors of the Glenwood Single-Pipe are made extra wide. You can use large logs. The new wood grate will keep them burning night and day—just like a coal fire.

A Glenwood makes the most of every ounce of fuel. It sends the heat where you want it—not down cellar, through the walls and up the chimney.

Ask us for particulars. We can save fuel for you this winter.

Pipe models of this same furnace may be had in several sizes for coal or wood.

New England Produces Bulk of Shoe Output

(By ENERGY)

There has appeared from time to time in trade and other daily papers articles on the shoe and leather industry of New England. Practically all of them told us the industry was waning and the business gradually going west with Horace Greeley. Now the Shoe and Leather Reporter comes out this week telling us we of New England manufacture 49 per cent. of the shoes and leather in the country.

* * *

A school boy knows or ought to know that St. Louis has become a great shoe center. Naturally it would be said that the business came from New England, for at one time it was all done here. But it is not taken into account that the tremendous increase in output cuts a figure in the controversy and puts us all at sea.

* * *

Taking the figures of 49 per cent., which is claimed for New England, of the remaining 51 per cent. Endicott Johnson and one other make 37 per cent. This refers to shoes, however, and again a loophole. Thus 14 per cent. remains for all other concerns outside of New England. It is evident that we may hold well on the shoes and leather combined, but how about shoes alone? Lynn and Haverhill have dropped their output tremendously. I have no figures, but let us call it 40 per cent. The loss in these cities has gone to other places in New Engalnd at least to a large extent. Then New England does not lose.

* * *

The leather industry in New England can be laid at the door of Peabody. Perhaps Salem could put in a claim for something, but that would not be out of the ordinary, for so far as Peabody is concerned Salem claims we are filthy and proud of it. So I will again say that if anybody wants to see the big and real leather city, do not visit Salem. It is evident the increase in leather manufacture comes from Peabody, and that the National Leather Co. must be found guilty to a large extent. The Southwick family may claim the first pioneer, but his volume was necessarily small, for powder was scarce and most of the pioneers were poor shots. Therefore the animals kept their skins much longer than in these days.

* * *

So in a gneral way it appears to me that the leather industry has more than held its own in New England, and the shoe end has fallen off. Labor troubles no doubt has something to do with it, but naturally with the west growing so fast, they carry industries with them and compete in all lines of business.

* * *

We of New England where business has led the country so many years cannot hope to continue in the lead with the great middle west whose limits have been extended from year to year. We will always be a factor in the trade of the country, and particularly in the manufacture of shoes and leather. The punch still remains, therefore the fact that figures show better elsewhere amounts to figures, our volume will no doubt be held and increased, but not to the extent of the centers where the population is greater. To quote Shakespeare, "we should worry."

* * *

The leather situation is optimistic to the fellows who are making leather the trade demands, pessimistic to those who insist their line is better than the other fellows. It is not only a question today of manufacturing leather properly, but selling is a big item, in fact the big item in these days of specialties. Trade Tabloids in a discourse on salesmanship says: "The industrial world bows in submission to the genius who can sell goods. He may be careless in itemizing his expense account, and disposed at times to give the sacred truth a severe strain, but he brings back the bacon. Genius has always defied analysis. Some salesmen extol their wares to the sky, others dam with faint praise the very numbers they are most anxious to sell. Some are eager and anxious, others nonchalant and indifferent, but all get orders in their peculiar way. The man whose attainments only fit him for selling clams or driving a mule should not attempt to sell anything. It may be that orders like kisses go by favor, but salesmen and lovers develop consideration and co-operation. The salesman who feels better to receive an order than he does later to receive his commission, is a born salesman who can buy an automobile when he wants one."

* * *

So today salesmanship in the leather business is a bigger factor than ever. With so many fighting for business, some get left even if right. The salesman has his chance to shine today and those who excel will get the berries.

* * *

The new Littlefield corporation who will occupy the former Kromene factory in the rear of Foster street are equipped to succeed.

* * *

Men must be as inconsistent as women are said to be or they would not swear at $15 coal and smile when paying $15 a bottle for Scotch whiskey.—S. and L. Reporter.

* * *

Now that capital finds it needs labor, and labor wants capital, the strikes are coming to an end.—S. and L. Reporter.

* * *

If it were put up to the political economist, he would have to admit the country needs coal more than flivvers.—S. and L. Reporter.

Tanners To Tackle 'Head Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon Coach Brawley and his band of pigskin chasers will invade Marblehead and clash with Ray Pendleton's red-jerseyed warriors. This game will be the headliner of all the North Shore League games scheduled for tomorrow.

The "Headers" have already played three games and have won all of them, while Coach Brawley has played only one game, which was a win over Danvers last Saturday. The two teams are on edge and a record crowd is expected.

"Joe" Tansey, star backfield man on the Marblehead eleven, plays his farewell game for his alma mater tomorrow, and expects to have a big day. The game is scheduled at Seaside Park for 3.15 p. m.

A fair-sized crowd saw the Peabody team play their first game of the season last Saturday, considering the other sport attractions.

Coach Brawley was very much impressed by the way his team came through and much credit is due to his powerful linemen, such as J. Murphy, Gavigan, Kilderry and Thibodeau. Coan played his first game of football at end and with a little more experience should make a fast man. Sweeney, the other end, was in practically every play and got many tackles, and already shows an improvement over last year.

Leo Buckley, the lightest quarterback that Peabody high ever possessed, showed that he was there by displaying good headwork at his position and certainly is a fine broken-field runner.

Luz, Pappas and Maguire were all working their hardest when they made gain after gain through Danvers' line. Bodge replaced Maguire at the last few minutes of the last quarter, and broke up a forward pass.

The fans are anxiously waiting until Lawrence, Boyle and Harris get into the line-up, which will no doubt strengthen the Peabody outfit a great deal.

BOWLING NOTES

The City Inter-Society Bowling League gets under way on Oct. 16 at Manning's alleys. The league comprises eight societies, including Mats, A. O. H., Moose, K. of C., Legion, Elks, Forresters and Y. M. H. A. The best bowlers in the city will be seen in these matches.

CITY HALL NOTES

From all we can glean the departments will not overrun their appropriations but little The figures to date show sane expenditures. The garage this year will spend about $7000, as against $24,000 last year. Lay that to Mayor Shea, who has handled that muddled problem the best ever. Chief Grady has put the garage on the map by efficient handling.

* * *

So some one tried to put Inspector Pierce's car out of commission while resting in its stall on Chestnut street. Why take it out of the flivver when the inspector would not dodge a collision with any ambitious individual looking for trouble.

* * *

By the way, the pols are gathering in the poll books, voters will be asked to help the many candidates in the state and city elections, and by saying yes, a white lie, it will save much trouble.

* * *

Patrolman James Murphy is taking his vacation. His smile will be missed, for rain or shine the smile remains. He is an efficient officer.

* * *

The $36 tax rate has caused many a heart ache, but another year may tell a different story, as promised by the candidates for mayor. Salem and Danvers with higher valuations costs the tax payer more than in Peabody, even with a lower rate. But with the rates double over pre-war times, it makes a dent in the pocketbook which does not come out. When the Turks get through fighting the Greeks, and the other nations look smiling, tax rates and all that goes with living will be better.

* * *

We note our new dog constable carries a cane these days, no doubt to keep the unruly dogs in their place. All will be thankful if the curs which roam the streets are corralled. Like people there are good and bad dogs.

* * *

With wood selling at gold prices, Had Sawyer, sealer of weights and measures, is watching that people get one stick for a dollar by measurement.

* * *

What is the matter with the sewer these days? Are we doing so well that Salem cannot kick about North River? We believe our tanners behave far better than Salemites would have it.

* * *

Political ties like neckties wear out, either needing gasolene or consigned to the ragbag. If gasolene, look out for explosions. In the coming fall campaign please gentleman call each other by the real names and tell the voters your qualifications and not the faults of the other fellow, for as Bob Dunbar in the Boston Herald says, every knock is a boost. Demagogues have made politics objectionable to a majority of men and women, so let us this fall show that a campaign can be run on sane ideas and let the men who receives the most votes become the mayor of us all.

* * *

There are several men who are thinking of shying their hat in the ring for councillor-at-large. If there was a paragraph in the city charter which required candidates for these important positions to pass a successful examination on city affairs in general, it would help the city. Too much politics and too little care for the tax payers' interests is the answer.

* * *

We understand there is a sore spot left by the defeat of Councillor Sullivan for representative. It apparently comes from the friends of the defeated candidate rather than from the Councillor himself. Any one who gives up cigars after a defeat shows something that most cigars are not acquainted with.

* * *

We need new chairs in the large hall but there is no money available this year. So let us stand up this year with the hope of a seat as in an electric car, hoping some one will get out. However, Councillor Barry's motion was in the proper spirit if not 100 proof.

* * *

We do not know where anybody can bet better practice in chemistry than in the cell room at City Hall. Testing the choice brands of hootch stored, would keep one contented, according to his capacity. Not knowing, we presume that stuff would kill at 1000 yards and make a fellow feel like leaving home.

* * *

The traffic police men have lost their jobs and must get exercise now bringing in the unfortunates who insist hootch is all right. Those brought in this week were not of the doubtful variety, but blue ribbon winners.

WOODWARD—GRIFFIN

The wedding of Miss Mildred A. Griffin, clerk at the Warren Five Cents Savings bank, and Alton S. Woodward of Harwood street, Lynn, took place in Boston eSpt. 19 last. Rev. Boynton Merrill, assistant pastor of the new Old South church, officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Griffin of 72 Washington street, and sister of Orwin A. Griffin, author and teacher. The bride wore white crepe de chine with hat to match and carried bridal bouquet of white carnations. Mrs. Flora R. Phinney of Wareham was matron of honor. The couple will reside in Boston.

Amherst Has 188 Freshmen

Completed registration at the Massachusetts Agricultural College shows an entering class of 188 four-year freshmen with 20 girls in the class. This is the largest freshman class since the fall of 1915, and the third largest in the history of the college. No previous class had as many young women students. The total four-year enrolment is 480, and in the two-year course, 253.

Announcement of the college football schedule, includes a Thanksgiving Day game with Michigan Aggies at East Lansing, Michigan. The Aggie varsity hopes to have conquered Amherst, New Hampshire and Tufts before their western trip. The Amherst and New Hampshire ames are both at home, and in both the Aggie team is out for revenge for defeat in 1921.

The schedule: October 7, Connecticut Agriculture College at Storrs; October 14, Worcester Tech at Worcester; October 21, Amherst at M. A. C.; October 28, New Hampshire State at M. A. C.; November 4, Stevens at Hoboken; November 11, Tufts at Medford; November 25, Michigan Aggies at East Lansing, Michigan.

Donald S. Whidden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Whidden, who is enrolled at Amherst, has been initiated into the Chi Phi fraternity.

SPANISH WOMEN AND CHILDREN SURVIVORS OF HAMMONIA SINKING

Rescued passengers and some of the sailors to whom they owe their lives, on the deck of the Union Castle liner, "Kinfans" the first boat to reach the scene of the disaster in which the Hammonia foundered in a gale off the Spanish coast, thirty women and children being drowned when the small boats in which they were riding to safety capsized.

CONVICT SHIP

No exhibit placed before the Boston public has ever attracted such vast crowds and created so great a sensation as the famous old British felon ship "Success," now anchored at Warren Bridge. Thousands of persons are visiting her daily. She is open to the public from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Sundays as well as week adys.

The ancient, romantic-looking yellow hulk, decorated with the black broad arows of the British penal system, was viewed last Sunday by more than 10,000 men, women and children.

The "Suceess," now the oldest ship afloat, began her long career as an East India merchantman. Later she was the flagship of the infamous felon fleet which carried more than 165,000 men and women from the British Isles to penal servitude in the Antipodes. Still later, she was used as a receiving prison off the Australian coast, first for men, then for women. Finally, she was sunk in Sydney harbor by patriotic Australians, who wished to wipe the last reminder of the brutal and inhuman convict system from the face of the earth.

The ship was raised, passed into the hands of an American, Capt. D. H. Smith, a native of Indiana, and came to America under her own sail, crossing the Atlantic after 96 days.

The SANDMAN STORY

FOX GETS WORST OF IT

MR. FOX was not very fond of cherries, but he thought such fine ones as he saw on the tree under which he stood were too nice to be passed by, but Mr. Fox was not nimble at climbing; in fact, he did not know how to climb.

While he stood looking up at the cherries along came Mr. Coon, who would as soon travel through the wood by jumping from tree to tree as to walk on the ground.

"What are you looking at, Mr. Fox, sour grapes?" he asked.

Mr. Fox is somewhat touchy on that subject, but he knew if he got those nice cherries he would need the help of Mr. Coon, so he smothered his anger and said smilingly: "No, not grapes this time, Mr. Coon, but fine big cherries.

He Threw Down the Cherries.

"I, of course, cannot climb, but you are such an expert that it will be no trouble for you to run up and pick some for me."

Mr. Coon, being a good-natured fellow, said he would, and thinking also that he might find a nest of bees or wasps at the same time, for though he did not mind eating cherries he was very fond of the other things.

He threw down the cherries, and when Mr. Fox had enough he decided that he would punish Mr. Coon for mentioning those sour grapes.

The fact that Mr. Coon had been obliging and picked the cherries for him did not matter at all to ungrateful Mr. Fox.

He saw a limb that was very slender and at the end hung two very large red cherries. By asking Mr. Coon to get those cherries he was sure he would fall to the ground, for the limb would be certain to snap.

Under the tree was a big flat stone, and, while Mr. Coon wears a thick coat, if he struck on a rock he would be sure to feel it, and then he will know how it hurts me when he mentions those sour grapes," he mused to himself, "for when he lands I will just mention the fact to him before I run off home."

Mr. Fox pointed to the big cherries, but what he did not see was a nest of wasps just over them. Mr. Coon did, however, and he had no intention of picking the cherries. It was the nest he was after as he crept along.

He was so quick about getting it that before Mr. Fox saw what was happening and could run the nest was on the ground and the angry wasps were flying about.

Mr. Coon came down the tree, but it was Mr. Fox the wasps blamed for destroying their home, and after him they went.

He ran for the river to get rid of his tormentors, and had to swim under water part of the way, for angry wasps will chase an enemy a long distance.

"Now, I wonder if he did that on purpose," thought Mr. Fox. "Did he think I was trying to get him on that little limb of the tree so he would fall and knock down the wasp nest to pay me for trying to play that trick, or did he really want the nest?"

Mr. Fox's thoughts were so tangled up thinking about it that he finally gave it up and decided that the sour grape story did not hurt him nearly as much as did the sting of those angry wasps. But still he did wonder about Mr. Coon, if he really did want that wasp nest, but he never found out.

GAS TRAIL

Gossip of Automotive Field

There are more people arrested in New York every day for breaking traffic ordinances than there was population in that city 150 years ago.

Only nine per cent. of the nation's 11,000,000 motor vehicles are in cities with over 500,000 population. Thirty-three per cent. are in towns with less than 1000 people.

London is planning to do away with all railways above ground. The trackways may be converted into highways or speedways for motor traffic.

It may be wondered at whether tooting the horn might not awake up his majesty the baby and what he will have to say respecting traffic regulations.

Mrs. Eula Janson of England has broken all records by riding a 2½-horse power motorcycle for two consecutive 12-hour periods at the fastest speed ever known.

Under certain conditions motorists through Canada, from the states may now use their cars across the line for a period of five months under U. S. registration.

In Spain motors still are regarded as more or less of a luxury. With exception of the cities and adjacent territories there are few roads good enough even for trucks.

Several French motorists are reported to be plannning to cross the Sahara desert at its greatest width. Where will they carry the gasoline needed for such a trip?

An automatic traffic control system is now under trial by a large American city. The "stop" and "go" signs are changed mechanically at definite periods.

Spare tires should be protected from sunlight. Also, use them occasionally before putting into permanent service, if you want them to keep all their "life" and action.

A River of Mystery.

From its source to its mouth the Colorado river drops almost two miles. At some points along its course, particularly in the Grand Canyon, it has cut its channel more than one mile below the level of the surrounding plateaus. The Colorado is the least-known stream in the western hemisphere. It is the tomb of civilizations that flourished in ages past. The stark cliffs, chiseled by the river, are furrowed with the deserted dwellings of peoples of mystery. Centuries ago these early races constructed irrigation systems which are still visible in part and which command the respect of engineers even today.

Haverhill Pro Football Team Here on Sunday

The Peabody football team will take on the Seminoles of Haverhill at the high school stadium next Sunday afternoon, the game starting at 3.15 p. m. The Seminoles have a number of old Haverhill high players in their line-up, together with several college stars. With the baseball season all over they are bound to draw a record breaking crowd.

For years there has been an intense rivalry between Peabody and Haverhill in football. For this reason the crowd will root hard for the home team to win out. The Haverhill boys have promised to bring along a big delegation of rooters.

The Peabody line-up will be practically the same as last week, when they romped away with the Lawrence team. Hubby Lawrence and Everett Wilson looked especially good in the first game and with a week's practice under their belt will be hard nuts for the Haverhill lads to crack. Dick Lynch, Puska, Chet Hay and Hank Keefe will also be used in the backfield. The line looks good this year with its added weight. Joe O'Connor will probably play in the backfield next week.

The new stands are being erected and will be all set up in time for the game on Sunday. They will take care of eight thousand comfortably, so that every one will be able to enjoy the game without standing, which has been one of the sad features of football here in town.

LOW COST OF WOOD

Ten dollars a cord is the lowest price at which Massachusetts farmers can sell cordwood and come out whole on the transaction, according to a statement given the State Fuel Adminintrator by the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation. This is for good quality hardwood. Dead chestnut and small trash wood is worth somewhat less.

The federation gave this opinion as the result of a study of conditions which it made at the request of the fuel administrator. Many farmers who have been selling cordwood for years were interviewed, and the opinion represents the average of their judgment as to the total of the various costs which enter into the price of a cord of wood delivered at the railroad station.

EVERY DAY GOOD THINGS

THERE always will be in most families some waste bread. Not a small bit should be wasted for there are countless ways of using it.

Nut Loaf.

Take one cupful of chopped nuts, two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one-half cupful of hot water, the same of melted butter, one egg well beaten, one teaspoonful of mushroom catsup, one-half teaspoonful of onion juice, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper. Mix the ingredients in the order given, form in a roll and bake in a moderate oven one hour, basting occasionally with butter. Serve hot with brown sauce.

Sweet Carrots.

Cut carrots in dice and boil them in salted water uncovered. When they are nearly cooked, pour off a quarter of a cupful of the water and return to the heat. Sprinkle with two or three tablespoonfuls of sugar and cook until all of the water is boiled away, stirring the carrots occasionally so that they may all come in contact with the sugar. When the carrots are quite dry add a tablespoonful of butter and pour over a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Serve at once.

Madeira Cake.

Put the yolks of two eggs into a mixing bowl, then with a wooden spoon beat in one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of butter. Add two cupfuls of sifted flour, with a teaspoonful of baking powder, then one-half cupful of cream and a grating of nutmeg, beating all the time. Last of all, fold in the well-beaten whites of the eggs. Line a round cake tin with greased paper and pour in the batter. Place a large slice of candied citron on top. Bake an hour and a quarter in a moderate oven, lowering the heat after the cake is well risen.

Sergeant Samuel Woodfill, chosen by General Perhsing as the greatest hero of the world war, will attend the American Legion national convention here, despite the fact that financial difficulties have forced him to obtain a furlough from the army and go to work as a carpenter. "We are coming unless sickness prevents," the wife of the world war hero wrote T. Semmes Walmsley, convention chairman. "At first my husband said he could not afford to lose seven days at $6 a day, but after your telegram arrived we decided we had better try to make the trip and possibly we could make up for what he lost in some other way." Sergeant Woodfill is now working on the government dam at Silver Grove, Ky., to make enough money to meet payments on his home, coming due soon.

Using an electrical device and phonograph record starters at the American Legion national athletic championships to be held October 16-20, hope to time runners in the various track events with an accuracy never before achieved.

Across the mouth of the starter's pistol which will make a connection, when discharged, with a needle which in turn will drop on a phonograph record divided into 100 parts and revolving at the rate of 60 revolutions a minute. The connection will be broken and the needle automatically picked up when the winner breaks the tape in crossing the finishing line. The time will be recorded to the one hundredth part of a second. Officials of the A. A. U. will watch the operation of the device with a view of adopting it at their meets.

Another innovation at the meet will be a magnavox to be installed at close intervals in the grandstand to "tell" spectators about the races as they are watching them. The confusion and doubt in regard to relative positions of runners will not happen at the Legion meet since men stationed at intervals around the track will report to the grandstands through the magnavox the position of contestants as they pass.

The government paid 43.8 cents a pound for roast beef which was later sold to Philadelphia brokers for 1.6 cents; once in private hands, this beef went on the market at 9.1 cents a pound wholesale; but for the short time that the army was in the retail store business, it sold this same beef direct to the consumer for more than 31 cents a pound. Such was only one minor item in one sale.

This charge was made public here today by American Legion officials in announcing that the American Legion Weekly next Friday, in an expose of war and postwar profiteering in meat, sugar and mosquito bars, will declare that official Washington is considering the replacement of incompetent men and the punishment of the dishonest.

D'ENTREMONT WRITES SONGS

Henry L. D'Entremont, who manages the Victor bowling alleys, utilizes his spare time in writing songs and poems and stories, and he contemplates the publication of a volume of his work within the next year.

He was born in West Pubnico, N. S., on October 22, 1862. Pubnico, by the way, was settled in 1651 by Sieur Philip Muis D'Entremont, who was of the royal blood of France, and he was afterward king's attorney in Acadia for many years, and the D'Entremont family, who are very numerous in Pubnico, have lived there ever since. He is a descendant of those Acadians who were expelled from Acadia in 1755-57, and whose history has been so well portrayed in Longfellow's "Evangeline."

His schooling was very much restricted, for in 1874, when only eleven years old, he was going to sea as a cabin boy, and he was on the Grand Banks of Newfoundland during the big gale of 1879 when twenty-one vessels were lost. He came to this country in 1881, was naturalized, and he has written several patriotic articles since then.

Mr. D'Entremont has quite a collection of old family documents dating as far back as 1653. This earliest one is the marriage contract between Charles Amador de La Tour, who was governor of Acadia at that time, and Madame Jeame de Motin, widow of the former Governor D'Aulnay. A daughter, from this marriage, married Jacques Muis, son of Sieur Philip Muis D'Entremont, founder of Pubnico, and from this union comes the American branch of the D'Entremont family. Mr. D'Entremont has also many old books that are very rare.

Dorothy Dalton Here Tonight In 'Woman Who Walked Alone'

A big production in every sense of the word is "The Woman Who Walked Alone," a Paramount picture starring Dorothy Dalton and Milton Sills, which will be the headliner on the program the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. It is big in cast, in story, in settings.

Miss Dalton is cast as an English girl who is forced into a marriage of convenience with an old earl. Later in protecting her husband's only sister she is forced into a compromising position. Rather than face the publicity of the courts she goes to South Africa, where she buys a tavern in the mines. From this chance meeting fate weaves a strange chain of circumstances which build to a smashing climax.

The production is an ambitious one. It has been lavishly mounted and its cast reads like the Blue Book of Filmdom. There's Milton Sills, Miss Dalton, Charles Ogle, Wanda Hawley, Mabel Van Buren, John Davidson, Mayme Kelso, Maurice B. "Lefty" Flynn and others of note. A Lloyd Hamilton comedy entitled "The Rainmaker" and Harry Myers in "Robinson Crusoe" will be the other features on the bill for today.

David Butler in "The Milky Way" will head the double bill for Sunday evening. This picture was booked to play the Strand a few weeks ago, but did not arrive on time. Jane Novak and Jerome Patrick in "The Other Woman" will be the second picture for Sunday evening.

The demand for mystery pictures is steadily increasing. They offer motion picture fans delicious thrills and expectancy, and in these respects "The Young Diana," starring Marion Davies, which will top the bill for Monday and Tuesday, ranks high among the films of its kind. In this production Miss Davies is seen as a young girl whose romance is shattered. Life loses interest for her and she develops into a spinster whose future is dreary and hopeless. While in Switzerland she meets a mysterious alchemist who induces her to subject herself to a deadly experiment with the result that she emerges from the ordeal a wonderful beauty and soon becomes the rage of Europe. The story is taken from the book of the same name by Marie Corelli. It charms the spectator from start to finish. Forrest Stanley, Macklyn Arbuckle and Pedro De Cordaba support the star.

MARION DAVIES

Frank Mayo in "Out of the North" will be the companion picture for Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Mayo has built up a big following through his work in roles of this type. In his new production he is cast as a hardy prospector of the Canadian wilds, a part which fits him perfectly. Barbara Bedford is Mr. Mayo's leading woman.

Referendum On Censorship For Pictures

In November before voting on the proposed state censorship of motion pictures, voters should satisfy themselves that censorship really accomplishes its ends. The states which have tried it have found that it has not worked out well in practice.

One does not have to go far to be certain of this. A film, made before Mr. Hays took charge of the industry and which he withdrew, was notoriously immoral. Yet it had been passed by the censors in every state. When Dumas' "Camille" was screened under the name of the "Red Peacock," the censors in a certain state permitted the picture, but required sub-titles to state that Violette's relations with Count Girgy were that of ward to guardian This of course did not alter the apparent fact, that she was his mistress.

These are typical instances of what we may expect of a state censor in Massachusetts. It is unfortunate, but true, that the ideal censor, whose rulings would be broad, just and intelligent, does not exist. The actual censor, on whom autocratic powers are cheerfully conferred, is a political appointee, little better than the rest of us.

The motion picture has brought constant entertainment into the reach of the many. And pretty good amusement, too. No doubt far better than that which the street or dance hall affords. It is fashionable these days to decry the evils of pictures, but it is not constructive Will H. Hays strikes a refreshing note when he pledges education to higher standards. Hays should be supported by a NO vote on motion picture censorship in this fall's elections.

It is easy to demonstrate that censorship is impractical. You and your friends assume the role of censor when you are next at the movies. We will wager that you cannot agree on that which should be eliminated as "immoral", or "indecent." Censorship is drastic business. It should be defeated by voting NO on the question, which is submitted to the voters this fall.

When voting in November on whether or not Massachusetts should have motion picture censorship, consider this: "It is the opinion of my wife, a motion picture censor in Illinois, as well as myself, that it is doubtful if censorship of the movies will ever be effective." From an address by Allen D. Albert from a Chautauqua platform.

What is or is not injurious to a child is capable of no universal rule. It is a problem which must be met as best suits the individual youngster. Political censorship of motion pictures cannot relieve parents of this duty. In considering the matter, which goes before the voters this fall in Referendum Question No. 3, it would be well to give thought to this fact.

Peabody High School

The first game on the new athletic field, rear of the high school, was played last Saturday between Danvers and Peabody football teams, which resulted in a victory for Peabody by the score of 19 to 6. The Peabody squad showed the making of a strong team. About 1500 spectators were present.

The portable seats which were hired for the football season arrived at the grounds Tuesday and lie in piles on the new field. These seats will soon be erected, and they are said to seat 7000 people.

The first game was a great success. Tickets were sold at the gates, the price being 15 cents for children and 35 cents for adults. About $400 was collected.

The Peabody football squad will go to Marblehead tomorrow for the second game of the season. Marblehead seems to have a strong team, having defeated Lynn English high on Saturday by a large score.

The next football game to be played in Peabody will be with the Lynn English squad on Oct. 14, a week from tomorrow.

It is expected that a great number of students as well as other fans will follow the squad to Marblehead tomorrow. It is an important game for Peabody.

New football schedules in book form have been issued by the business men of the city.

Coach Keefe of the Revere football team refereed the football game last Saturday.

Coach Brawley is pleased at the result of the Danvers game, but believes that by further practice improvements can be made.

The squad was given a rest Monday, no practice being held.

The new gridiron was used by the Peabody town football team last Sunday in a game with a Lawrence team.

Arthur Barry, president of the class of 1918, and former high school athlete, scored a touchdown for Princeton college last Saturday.

Theodore R. Jeffers, president of the class of 1919, who is this year a senior at Brown university, underwent an operation for appendicitis last Saturday.

Miss Gertrude Leach, a graduate of the class of 1920, died very suddenly in New Hampshire last week while spending a vacation there. Miss Leach was a popular member of her class and her classmates were shocked to hear of her untimely death.

Rev. R. A. Bakeman, a member of the school committee, and Mr. Robinson, superintendent of schools, were visitors at school last week.

A short time ago Miss Anna Sullivan, supervisor of music, tested the voices of all the boys and girls at school. Last Thursday the students were given their seats in the assembly hall for the music session The students are divided into four sections, bass, tenor, alto and soprano singers. There are more students at the high school this year and it is necessary to use the balcony of the assembly hall. On Friday, the entire student body assembled and singing was held.

A drive is now being held at the high school for 100 per cent. in the P. H. S. Athletic Association. Papers are being passed to each room to be signed by the students. A member is required to pay 25 cents for a year's membership, and is entiteld to one-half price at the football games.

The drive is making fine progress. Already home rooms 1, 3, 4, 6, 8, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 28 have registered their full quota. A large poster will soon be placed in the main hall, near the front entrance, showing the rooms starred, which have reached the 100 per cent. mark.

Elizabeth Moore and Mary Mularkey, '22, are attending Burdett college.

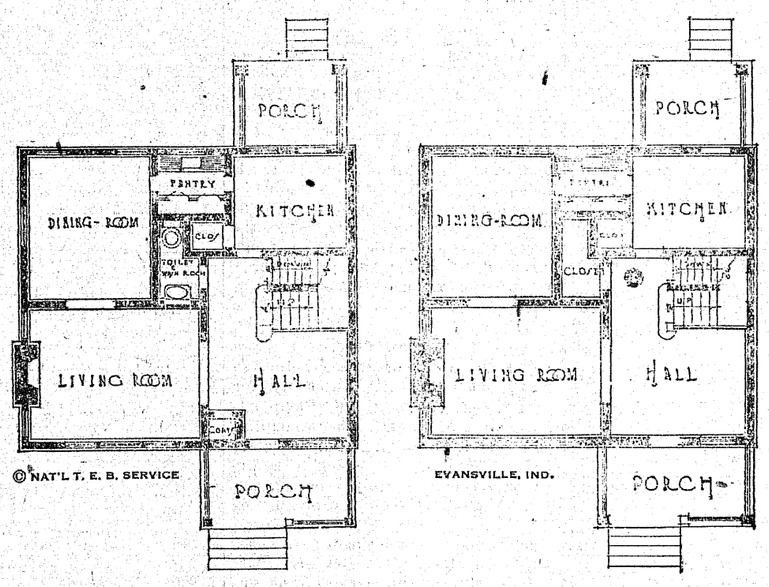
Richard Lynch, class of '21, is attending B. U. Law school.

Last Friday many students met in the assembly hall to form a football cheering qsuad.

Four weeks from today the southern team will arrive in Peabody. Plans have been made for their entertainment, and it is the hope of all that they will be entertained as our team was entertained in the south.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE



What is regarded as one of the most delightful and entertaining comedies seen in Boston for many seasons is "Nice People," starring Francine Larrimore, which is now in its third week at the Hollis Street theatre, Boston, where it is repeating the phenomenal success it enjoyed in New York and later in Chicago.

This delightful comedy from the pen of Rachel Crothers is written in her best vein, and is an arrangement of the carelessness of the so-called "smart set," who allow their daughters to smoke, drink cocktails, and dance all night at cabaret without chaperons. It depicts the adventures of one "Teddy" Gloucester, the leader of a coterie of these "nice people," who deems herself quite powerful enough to defy all the old rules of propriety. This spoiled, high-spirited, self-willed daughter of wealth continues on her jazzy downward path and plunges into an escapade that threatens to cut her off from her family and friends forever. Her eyes are finally opened by a sincere young man who stakes his all on winning her love. How she extricates herself from this dilemma and finds love and happiness in her regeneration, is told in a succession of scenes never flagging in humor.

Miss Larrimore has proved one of the daintiest, brightest little comediennes that Boston has seen in a generation. What is more, the young lady can act. She is an artist, finished to the tips of her dainty fingers. Her impersonation of "Teddy" is a piece of artistry that has placed this young actress in the front rank of our American stars and is as splendid as it is rare. Miss Larrimore's supporting company is an excellent one, every member of it being selected with reference to his or her fitness for the character assigned.

Ralph H. Kelley has purchased the estate of Frank Randall on Sutton street for occupancy.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR INEXPENSIVE ADDITIONS TO HOME COMFORT AND HEALTH —WITHOUT REBUILDING

Same Plan With Added Lavatory and Toilet Room — ORIGINAL PLAN

First Floor Plan of a Two Story House Changed to Save Many Hours of Stair Climbing

Years ago a bowl and a pitcher on a "wash stand" was the limit of facility offered for domestic ablutions.

Later on came the old time bathroom, with its carefully boxed in zinc or copper lined tub and other fixtures; which were next to impossible to keep looking clean, and were a sort of heaven for water bugs and roaches.

Nowadays, we consider a dwelling hardly modern with a bathroom that does not include a sanitary, labor-saving, built-in bath tub, with other modern fixtures, easy to clean and keep clean.

All along the road of progress in these matters, the doctors and experience have been teaching us that comfort and health both depend largely upon bathing, washing, and toilet facilities that are ample and so conveniently placed as to invite use. Thus it is that lots of us, in two-story dwellings with but one bathroom, would add such improvements as that shown here, if we could see how.

Here we have a plan of a typical first floor of a two-story "one bathroom" dwelling. By slight remodeling a convenient toilet and wash room has been added, with a medicine or toilet cabinet above the lavatory, without sacrificing a single advantage shown by the original plan; making this house many times more "liveable."

In the olden days, increased bath and toilet fixtures increased the housewife's cares. Now, however, we enjoy things of the sort that are practically self-cleansing.

In some such way your plumbing dealer might help out with your home comfort problem.

JEWISH FOLK SCHOOL WILL HAVE BANQUET

Sponsors for the Jewish Folk school of Peabody in the Levine block will hold their first annual banquet in Moose hall Sunday evening with covers laid for 100 The supporters of the school which was opened 18 months ago feel elated at the success the venture has met with and the banquet is to add new impetus to the work.

Only the Jewish history is taught in the school, there being no attempt to teach religious principles of the faith. There are 40 boys and girls enrolled in the school, ranging from six years to 17.

The officers of the school are N. Maron, chairman; Dr. Henry Halpern, treasurer; A. Wilson, financial secretary; D. Gass, B. Smidt, Charles Smidt, D. Riback, J. Sklarck, directors. The Woman's Club members and the Sholom Aleichem lend their aid in every possible way.

South Peabody

Friends of Mrs. Marion Reid of Lynnfield street will be pleased to know that she has improved in health and is now able to go out on the piazza.

Ladies' Aid Society of the Second Congregational church will hold their meeting and supper next Wednesday at the usual time. The committee who served on the previous supper will have charge of the social part of the evening.

Sewso Club met with Miss Beatrice Keith Monday evening. The members who have charge of the October meeting are Miss Hilma Hobbs and Mrs. Stella Newhall. Next week Miss Marion Newhall will entertain the club.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Whitteredge of Lynn street have a baby girl born Monday at the Thomas hospital.

Mrs. Martha Brown and Mrs. Phoebie Brown of Danvers spent Monday with Mrs. Hannah Brown.

The Epworth League will serve a supper at the Lake Shore Park church next Wednesday from 5.30 to 7.30. Miss Eunice Hetherington will be chairman and American chop souey will be the bill of fare.

The Ladies' Aid Society will omit the meeting of this week. Next Thursday the members will meet with Mrs. Elizabeth Hetherington.

Mrs. Katherine Cross held her weekly whist Tuesday evening. The winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. Dora Foster; second, Mrs. Hannah Parker; men's first, Charles Brown; second, Mr. Cullen.

Mrs. Sargent of Lake Shore Park is very ill. She had a shock Saturday afternoon and her condition is regarded as serious.

W. W. Moulton, the produce dealer, took in the Brockton fair yesterday.

The Neighborhood Club met Tuesday evening at Davis hall. A covered dish party was enjoyed. Mrs. Cora Woods, Mrs. Ruby Samuelson and Miss Gladys Kennedy had charge.

Miss Myra Beedy was tendered another shower Thursday evening, in honor of her marriage to Albert Hardy, which takes place this evening. A number of friends gathered at the grove pavilion and presented Miss Beedy with numerous gifts for her future home. A lunch was served. Miss Rachel Nottingham and Miss Gladys Kennedy had charge of the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles King attended the Brockton fair Wednesday.

Friends of Mrs. Hattie Giles MacNeill of Haverhill will be sorry to hear of her illness. She was a former South Peabody girl, being the daughter of Mrs. Jennie Giles of Lynn street.

Mrs. Abbie Nichols, widow of George H. Nichols, died at her home on Brown street, as the result of a shock. As the result of a previous shock, she had been in poor health for some time. She was 76 years old and had lived on Brown street for a number of years. She leaves no near relatives. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. R. A. Bakeman officiating.

Plans for the annual harvest fair and supper are progressing. The supper committee held a meeting at the church Wednesday afternoon. The committee for the entertainment is also working to have something worth while.

Mrs. Euphemia Putnam of County street is able to be out again after a sickness of two months.

Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins of Lake Shore Park motored to Manchester, N. H., last Sunday.

A letter received from Miss Irene Skinner tells of some wonderful scenery which she is enjoying at the present time at Madison, Silver Lake, N. H. There are several deer which go to the lake every day for water and go right by the bungalow where she is staying. There are also plenty of ducks there. She reports that the trees have changed their colors to the bright-hued foliage and she is planning on staying through the month of October and perhaps later.

"Squire Tompkins' Daughter" is back with her country parents and all is forgiven. That was the climax of the five-act drama given at the Second Congregational church Tuesday and Wednesday. It was really more than an amateur drama and lasted over two hours. The emotional part was played by Wright Gregson, who did it wonderfully well. Miss Florence Osgood played between the acts and ice cream was sold. The stage has been transferred to the north side of the church, thus giving better seating capacity.

The funeral of Miss Gertrude Leach, who was drowned at Guiliford, N. H., last Friday, was held at the home of her brother, Reginald Leach, Brown street, Monday afternoon. Rev. Herbert Walker of Holbrook, Mass., a former pastor and friend of the family, officiated. Mrs. Marion Wilkinson sang appropriate selections. The house was filled with friends of the deceased and the floral tributes were beautiful. The burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Miss Leach was a South Peabody girl and graduated from Peabody high school. She was making plans to be married next month and her untimely death comes as a severe blow to her family and many friends.

CHARLESTON FANS ARE TALKING PEABODY TRIP

By Anthony J. McKevlin

Charleston, S C., October 5.—The now obsolete corkscrew will be brought into play here Friday when the stopper is jerked out of the football schedule, and things get under way with Charleston high school battling the athletes of Darlington high on the grid.

Coach Prause has not as yet announced "Who's who" on the varsity, and the line-up he will put on the field tomorrow is still in doubt. However, his material is excellent, and, with only a few gaps to be filled by new men, he ought to be able to hang out the "Excuse my dust" sign to the Darlingtonians.

A scrimmage between two of the Bantam elevens during the past week, supposedly the "first" and "second" string teams, resulted in a clever exhibition of the game de pigskin, the "firsts" emerging conquerors with thirteen points to the losers' zero.

The scrimmage was in the nature of a regular game—regular periods, all officials, etc.

Several hundred grid fans watched the workout, and their hearts were glad at the showing of the Bantams.

Lovers of the game were glad to note the report that the Peabody Tanners had trimmed Danvers last Saturday by a two-touchdown margin.

Also, they were sorry Peabody's goal line was crossed because they had hoped to be the first to do that stunt.

The Citadel, the Military academy of South Carolina, is launching a drive this week for the raising of sufficient funds to put athletics at the Citadel on a par with its other activities, and also for the hiring of an all-year instructor in athletics.

Coach Carl Prause of the Bantams, who is now also handling the Citadel varsity, is the man whom they have chosen as the ideal all-year men. Great was the praise showered on Prause's work by the various speakers at a recent pep meeting to inaugurate the campaign.

The Bantams are not the only football team claiming Charleston as its home, but it is the aggregation in which the ENTIRE interest of the community seems to center. And, it should be so. The team is composed of boys whose homes are in Charleston—of boys who put Charleston and its high school on the gridiron map of these United States.

As a result of this keen interest in the affairs of Prause's charges, the dope has it that the Bantams will never be entirely 'mongst strangers during this season. A number of local bugs plan to accompany them on all of their trips, especially the November 4 trip to Peabody, the Thanksgiving Day trip to Columbia, and the post-season trip to Columbia when the state championship is played off, and on all of which trips the delegation is expected to be large enough to secure special trains.

It is already taken for granted in Charleston that the Bantams will win the lower-section championship of the state.

Decked in their new uniforms, the Bantams present a kippy appearance.

The new jerseys, instead of being as of old, solid garent with thin gold stripes in the sleeve, have a gold band across the chest, and the remainder is garnet.

A likely looking bunch of championship material are the Charlestonians, and their looks are not deceiving.

The scrimmage last week showed what they could do, showed that Prause had at his command twenty-two regulars, showed that they have the same old fighting spirit—and, judging from this showing, the grid fans are already counting their chickens, feeling sure that they will be hatched.

Essex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

On the petition of RUTH M. REARDON of Peabody in the County of Essex, the wife of JOSEPH H. REARDON of unknown residence representing that she has been deserted by and is living apart from her said husband for justifiable cause, and praying that said Court will make a decree establishing the fact of such desertion and that she is so living apart from her said husband.

It is ordered that the petitioner give notice to the said Joseph H. Reardon to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem in the County of Essex, on the sixteenth day of October, A. D. 1922, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, by delivering to him a copy of this order fourteen days at least before said Court, if he may be found within this Commonwealth, that he may then and there show cause, if any he has, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted; or if he shall not be so found, by either leaving such copy at his usual place of abode, or by mailing such copy to him at his last known post-office address; and also, unless it shall be made to appear to the Court by affidavit that he has had actual notice of the proceedings, by publishing the same once in each of three successive weeks in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper published in Peabody, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-second day of September in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

Connery To Wage Strong Campaign

The campaign of William P Connery, Jr., Democratic candidate for congress from the seventh district, has been taken up with a zest that leaves no doubt that, although the Lynn candidate feels sure of winning, his campaigners are not going to lose any time, but will give the Republican candidate as good a time as they did the Democratic opponent in the primaries.

A tribute was paid to Mr. Connery at the Democratic State convention in Springfield Tuesday, when the so called bonus plank was referred to him for inspection before it was recommended by the committee on resolutions for adoption. The plank is what is known as the four-fold plan of the American Legion for adjusted compensation, which Mr. Connery has been advocating during his primary campaign and which he still advocates as the most feasible solution of the service men's difficulties.

Tonight the Connery campaign committee in Lynn will entertain the women workers in Father Mathew hall. A prominent organizer will talk to the ardent women who were of valuable assistance in the campaign just passed.

Active work for the Nov 7 election will start within a few weeks when a series of rallies will be arranged. Many prominent speakers, known throughout the state, will tour the seventh district in Mr. Connery's behalf.

GREEK GIRL FLED TURKS IN SMYRNA

Mrs Stephen Vangel, the pretty Greek girl who fled from Smyrna the day before the Turkish Nationalist army captured the doomed city, arrived in Peabody last Sunday and is at the nome of her husband at 22 Warren street. The couple were united in marriage by a civil ceremony at Ellis Island, New York, on the arrival of the bride, and they lost no time getting to Peabody. A religious ceremony will be held in the near future.

The pretty bride, who is but 19 years old, tells a harrowing tale of the thousands of Greek refugees who fled with the retreating Greek army from Smyrna before the Turks entered the city. She declares the American residents in the doomed city were doing the brunt of the relief work and making the escape of the refugees much easier, especially among the children. For two days she witnessed the hurrying from the city of whole families fleeing before the approach of the Turkish army, who later set fire to the city.

Mrs. Vangel had her passports to sail for America, but when she got aboard the steamer she was told no passengers could be taken, as the ships were commandeered by the Greek army for the removal of their troops. She was sent back to Smyrna. Through the efforts of the American consul in her home city she was taken in charge and given transportation to the nearest seaport and given her passage on a steamer sailing for New York.

She is a well educated girl.

Attorney Charles R. O'Connell of this city had much to do in arranging for the passports for the girl.

LOWELL STREET

Several hundred men and women filled A. O. H. hall last night to greet Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the Irish martyr. She was entertained at dinner at the home of Patrick J. Woods, former president of Division 11, preceding the mass meeting. She gave a stirring talk on affairs in Ireland.

Ralph E. Kelley has purchased the homestead of D. Frank Randall on Sutton street and will remove thereto from his present home on Chestnut street within the next 30 days. Mr. Randall and his daughter plan to sail for a winter in Florida early in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Poor have returned from a two weeks' visit at Kingfield, Me.

Miss Bertha Johnson of Thorndike street will spend the next two weeks as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Coffin (nee Amy Poor) at New York.

Mansfield Monroe is home over the week-end from Exeter academy.

Mrs. Mary Basford of School street has been confined to her home the past week with a severe cold.

Mrs. E. E. Murray of Foxboro spent the last week-end with her sister, Mrs. Albert Roome.

John O'Brien of Lowell street met with a painful though not serious accident last Tuesday when the covering of a tan pit at the L. B. Southwick plant broke beneath him, resulting in strained ligaments and a bruised hip.

Letters received from the party of local sportsmen enjoying life at Elliott L. Macdonald's Camp Commo-Elliott L. Macdonald's Camp Commo-would indicate that game is plentiful in that region, 13 black duck, 15 partridges and three land-locked salmon having fallen prey to their prowess up to last Monday, with every prospect of the larder being added to further. The edict of Geo Baxter prohibiting gunning in the state owing to prevailing forest fires is the only reason to prevent the party from handsomely remembering their friends upon their return early next week.

The graduation party given at the Nurses' home last Monday evening in honor of Mrs. Agnes C. Garvey and Miss Anna L. Slattery, who received their diplomas from the J. B. Thomas hospital on Sunday, was a delightful affair and was enjoyed by a large number of friends of the two ladies who were kept busy acknowledging congratulations. The parlors of the home were daintily decorated in yellow and white crepe paper and potted palms. Blaney's orchestra furnished music for dancing joy of the scripture. It is mainly a holiday for Jewish children. When the scrolls are being removed from the holy ark, the children are marching around the altar, and when men with the scrolls on their arms are approaching them the children with great reverence are kissing the scrolls and at the same time chanting prayers and singing joyful songs.

Just at present, the Hebrew school, which exists already for a great number of years and over which M. M. Minkowitz presides, and F. Hershenson is treasurer, is being reorganized. With great effort Mr. Minkowitz succeeded in securing the services of the well-known pedagogue, M. Berman, a graduate of the New York Heberw Teachers' College, and recently connected with the Temple Petach Tickvah of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Under his guidance the 150 Jewish children of our city will be instructed in the Hebrew language, religion and Jewish ancient history. New teachers will be appointed for bible classes and Sunday school work. In a word, our worthy Jewish citizens are sparing no effort to bring up their children in such a way as to be a pride for the Jewish nation and a great asset to the American people in general, and the slogan is: One who is a good Jew is a good American citizen.

O'HARA—WALSH

The marriage of Miss Mary E. Walsh and Maurice T. O'Hara, both of this city, was solemnized at St. John's church on Wedneday evening at 7 o'clock, Rev. P. J. Sullivan performing the ceremony in the presence of a large company of friends. The bride, gowned in brown canton crepe, and carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses, was attended by her sister, Miss Julia A. Walsh, who wore a gown of blue canton crepe and carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses. The best man was James E. Halloran of this city and Miss Margaret Griffin presided at the organ. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellen Walsh, 17 Collins street, at which about 100 guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts, among them an electric lamp from the bride's associates at the Donn Sargent Shoe Company.

CENTER SCHOOL

The eighth grade boys of the Center school had a real treat last Tuesday afternoon, when they had a radio talk and demonstration. While the girls were at the Wallis school for sewing, Thomas F. Greene of 3 Tremont street, this city, addressed the boys on possibilities of radio, functions of the different parts of a receiving set, and some freaks that radio will play. The boys then asked all kinds of questions from "how the sound gets in" to the best methods of winding a vario-coupler

After these questions were satisfactorily answered, Mr. Greene tuned into several stations and gave the boys an opportunity of hearing lectures, news flashes and musical selections.

Mr. Greene used a set that he has assembled himself and with which he has had great success in receiving clearly from long distances some of the farthest of which are Atlanta, Ga., Pensacola, Fla., and Forth Worth, Texas, the last named being about 1600 miles in distance.

Fall Calendar Of Leo Guild

The first event on the Leo Guild social calendar for the fall season was held in K. of C. hall last Monday evening. It was called "Presidents' Night" and was a reception to the presidents of the various Catholic Women's clubs of the archdiocese. It was an unusually successful affair and was attended by more than 300 women. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Charles H. Cassidy, president of the Guild. The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with autumn foliage and garden flowers, and an entertainment given by Misses Mary Sullivan, Mary L. McCarthy, Helen M. Brodbine, sopranos; Catherine N. McBride, Mary McLaughlin, Margaret M. McCarthy and Elene Masterson, pianists, and Mrs. D. J. Donovan, reader, added greatly to the delightfulness of the evening. A dainty buffet lunch was served. It was such an enjoyable affair that the next social of the Guild is being eagerly looked forward to by the members and their friends.

LEO COUNCIL OFFICERS

The newly elected officers of Leo Council, K. of C., will be installed by District Deputy M. J. Reardon and staff of Salem, on Tuesday evening, October 10th, at 8 o'clock. Jesse Woolley Found Mother Much Better

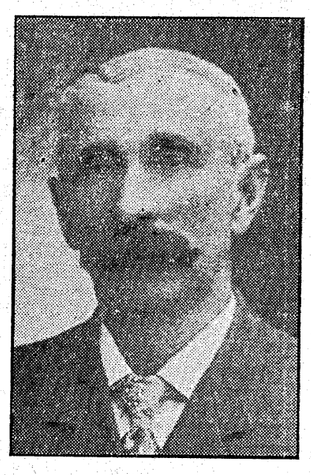
Word has been received of the arrival in Blackpool, England, of Jesse Woolley, superintendent of the Richard Young Co., called to his old home at the illness of his aged mother. He found his mother alive although quite ill, and as this was his first visit in 29 years to his home, the scene of their reunion can well be imagined.

Mr. Woolley sent no word of his coming to make the surprise the happier. According to the word received here he found his mother much better than he expected. A married sister who lives in Canada had preceded Mr. Woolley to the old home in England, and she had departed for her home. The two passed each other on the broad Atlantic. Mr. Woolley will return to Peabody the last of this month His mother is in her 80th year.

Fire Drills at Endicott and Wallis Schools

The Wallis school is a greater fire hazard than the Endicott school. This fact was demonstrated last Wednesday afternoon when fire drills were called at both schools. The 375 boys and girls all under ten years in the Endicott school were marched out of the building in one minute and 12 seconds.



It required one minute and 25 seconds to march out the the same number of pupils at the Wallis school. Three floors are given over to classrooms at the Wallis and only two floors are available at the Endicott.

The fire drills were called without advance notice by Mayor Shea and School Committeeman Dr. Francis J. Marrs in the presence of a reporter from the Enterprise.

At the Endicott school only little children of the first three grades are schooled, while all eight grades are represented at the Wallis school.

CITY COUNCIL STARTS MACHINERY FOR TAKING MORE STADIUM LAND

Peabody's City Council in session last Wednesday night authorized City Solicitor Farnham to begin negotiations with Gustavus T. Bagley for the ultimate purchase of a strip of land adjoining the high school stadium. Only preliminary steps will be taken at this time for a later taking of the land and the price to be agreed on and voted by the Council will not exceed $1000.

This action followed a communication from Supt. Robinson of the schools requesting the Council to concur in the vote of the school board which voted to acquire the land in question.

Councillor David A. Barry, real estate dealer and chairman of the finance committee, said he had viewed the land and that the price of $1000 was fair.

Mayor Shea in a communication to the Council advised against the city buying coal and selling it to the public on the ground that no such need existed, and also that it was contrary to the wishes of the fuel administrator of this state.

Two Sunday licenses were revoked, one at 44 Liberty street and the other at 82 Central street, on request of Chief Grady, who said convictions for liquor selling had been recorded at both places.

City Clerk Dowd admitted he had made a mistake in the matter of a recent application for a garage and that it called for four motor vehicles instead of one. Had it been but one auto to be housed no public hearing would have been necessary. The Council made provisions for the error. Two weeks ago Councillor Craig had an error of the City Clerk's corrected on the records.

The Danvers Bleachery was given permission to install two tanks at its new power plant now being constructed. Acting Manager Harry Cotchin appeared in person when the hearing was called. One of the tanks will have a storage capacity of 150,000 of fuel oil and the other 25,000. Oil is to be burned instead of coal.

Mayor Shea was allowed to transfer several sums from various appropriations to take care of overdrafts.

By motion of Councillor Craig the Council recommended laying extending sewer pipe on Hancock street to accommodate the Hamel Leather Co. when the funds were available. The concern is willing to pay the cost for immediate installation and the Council's vote places the work under the

THE COMMUNITY HOUSE

Again the Community House appeals to the public for funds to carry on the work of this organization. There is no doubt much benefit has been derived by the young people who attended the sessions of this institution. The arts and crafts taught there has given all an insight into many branches of work which they could not obtain elsewhere. It is a charity for the young which will stand them well in years to come. The fact that the children who attend the Community house, are those who could not hope for instruction elsewhere emphasizes the need of continuing the work. As matters now stand the future of this institution is in doubt. But if forthcoming, it will but tide over for a time only. This institution rests on a slender foundation, and it will take a substantial sum to continue for any length of time. We believe it should continue.

WEIGHT OF FUEL

The importance of receiving full weight or measure of fuel for homes today is recognized by all. With coal, wood and coke furnishing heat for the winter, with prices abnormally high, sealers of weights and measures in the cities and towns of the state have their work cut out for them. It has been the custom of many dealers in fuel to be careless to say the least in coaling out the precious stuff. When prices were as before the war, more than one-half of today, there was less cause for being particular. Without entering into a controversy as to why prices have fluctuated, the fact remains that all should see to it that full weight and measure is received. The local sealer cannot follow every delivery. All have a chance to get what belongs to them by notifying the sealer if doubt exists. We do not believe local dealers intend to give short weight or measure. We do believe carelessness exists in many cases where proper weighing of coal and measuring of wood is neglected. The public are entitled to what they pay for, and with the prices today they should bestir themselves to get it.

FOOTBALL

The latest advices tell us the Charleston, S. C., football team will arrive in Peabody November third. There has been some doubt in the minds of many citizens whether the game would materialize this year. Now it appears all is set and citizens will be called on to make a success of the undertaking. While there are many who did not believe a trip to Charleston was well advised, all went well, and the feeling between the cities cemented a friendship which must be helpful. There is no question but Peabody will reciprocate for the open-hearted entertainment given our boys and their friends. It is probable that most of the southern boys have never visited the north, therefore new conditions await them in climate and general surroundings. As was the trip south to our boys, so will it be to our southern friends. Peabody is thoroughly awakened to this visit and there cannot but be a hearty welcome awaiting the Charleston delegation. Fair weather will do the rest. It matters not who wins so far as success to the reception goes. We want to win, but win or lose, the friendship which is bound to follow, cements a union which speaks volumes for the future.

DANGERS OF CENSORSHIP

Prohibition of thought, in the form of censorship, has worked immeasurable harm to many a great nation. Russia, and Germany are conspicuous examples.

The American people, in the past, have possessed a very full liberty of thought and action. Nor has the trust been misplaced. America owes much of her greatness to this very fact.

Today there are amongst us those who would revert to the Russian system; who state that a group or individual may better judge what is best for the people; who assert that morals can be improved through restrictive legislation, common experience to the contrary.

Censorship is dangerous business. Though it may not at first appear so, it is but a short easy step from censorship of moving pictures to censorship of press, pulpit and political thought. We should have none of it. We should zealously guard our inalienable right to think for ourselves.

In voting on the proposed motion picture censorship in the November election, Massachusetts voters should bear these facts in mind. Rather than censorship, Mr. Hays should be given fair opportunity to work out his avowed purpose of insuring better films by co-operation between producer, exhibitor and the public.

Voters who desire to go on record against censorship will vote NO to Question No. 3 of the Referendum.

Carrot Leaves as Headdress.

There was a time when ladies adorned their headdresses with carrot leaves, the light feathery verdure of which, it is said, "caused them to be no contemptible substitute for the plumage of birds."

ROUND ABOUT

A recent issue of the Country Gentleman contained a photograph of the land which the school committee voted this week to purchase from Gustavus Bagley. A growing crop of onions was shown abloom.

* * *

I have heard some complaint at the Mass. Electric Railway service given on the South Peabody cars late at night. This car is supposed to accommodate the theatre patrons, and frequently it goes ahead of time. Last Saturday night it remained waiting on Lynnfield street 15 minutes for its return trip to Salem. Supt. McCormick will probably straighten this out.

* * *

Apropos of the trolley concern which caters to Peabody, it is announced that the work of repaving the tracks torn up to remedy the rails will begin in a few days and that all of the open sores will be repaired at the same time.

* * *

City Engineer Emerson tells me that he is going to erect new signs in honor of deceased soldiers at streets named in their honor by the City Council. The new signs will have a gold star commonly used by other cities and towns.

* * *

There are two concerns at least who wish to locate in Peabody. One at the corner of Main and Washington streets and an abattoir in West Peabody. It is a good sign to have new enterprises seek locations here. The question of being objectionable is left to the judgment of others, and right or wrong their decision must be abided by. Once located they become a fixture, so the decision must be weighed carefully. We do not take sides in the controversy, but a small minority for or against is entitled to consideration.

* * *

Look out you get proper weight and measurement in fuel for wood at $20.00 a cord and coal at $15.00 or better means much to us who are struggling to live on this earth.

* * *

Drivers of autos who neglect to notice the guide posts placed there for the protection of life and property should receive a reminder which will make them careful in the future. There are too many careless drivers who care little for others, and if they awoke to the situation it would mean they are courting danger themselves. An accident occurred recently which has been laid at the door of a machine which had but one light. We have frequently hammered at the one light menace and it must be eliminated for safety.

* * *

The valuation of automobiles is a problem which is difficult to work out. The cost price, then the second hand price as made by the dealers in trade, then the insurance figures as set by the companies. Two people purchase machines at the same time. One takes proper care of one, drives it carefully, and the mileage shows one half of the other fellow. The other machine receives little or no care, is driven carelessly and the mileage climbs to four figures in a short time. Both are given the same value in trade and insurance. It is certain one car is worth twice the other. Should the values be the same? If so why does not the trader make horses the same in trade? The trouble is that money enters into the proposition only to a limited extent. Drunken sailors and many auto buyers come under the same class, money to blow.

* * *

The former Peabody Press Co. building has a history which Charles E. Teague of truant fame is the sponsor. This gentleman has more of the history of old buildings in Peabody than any one we know. Therefore he should be classed as the official historian here and something added to his salary. Who can remember that this building was a shoe factory once upon a time? Some of us can remember Charles Howard bossed the newspaper printed there and called the Wizard. However, with its long age of usefulness the framework is solid today which speaks volumes for the builders of those days. John Meagher it is said will build over this historical edifice, and stores will grace the ground floor, and other good things above.

* * *

A. C. Lawrence who recently passed away, was athletically inclined in his younger days. He was an active member of the Boston Athletic Club and bowled on the representative team. Weekly in the '90's he bowled with Ulick Brophy on Thomas' alleys, where the grain store on Walnut st. now is. It was a blood game with Brophy (a star bowler) in the lead by a small margin. No one in the leather trade was known better than was the founder of the largest tannery in this section and some claim the world.

* * *

Registration closes Wednesday October 18, so all who wish to vote or scratch Henry Cabot Lodge will have the opportunity. The Boston Herald had a cartoon recently which showed Lodge and Gaston as baseball pitchers. Gaston was telling his followers that Lodge had been hard to hit for 24 years and still effective. So we say.

* * *

Miss Helen P. Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor, who has been spending part of her vacation with her parents at 132 Andover street, is attending the convention of the American Dietetic Association in Washington, D. C. Miss Taylor was recently appointed dietitian of the new Jane Brown Memorial hospital at Providence, R. I., and had formerly been assistant dietitian at the Rhode Island hospital. She is a graduate of the Peabody high school and of Maine university, and during the war enlisted as a nurse, but was never called to active service.

* * *

One of my readers called my attention this week to the fact that he saw a five foot snake crossing Lowell st. near Perkins st. last Sunday. The spectacle of a snake in the settled sections of Peabody is most rare.

* * *

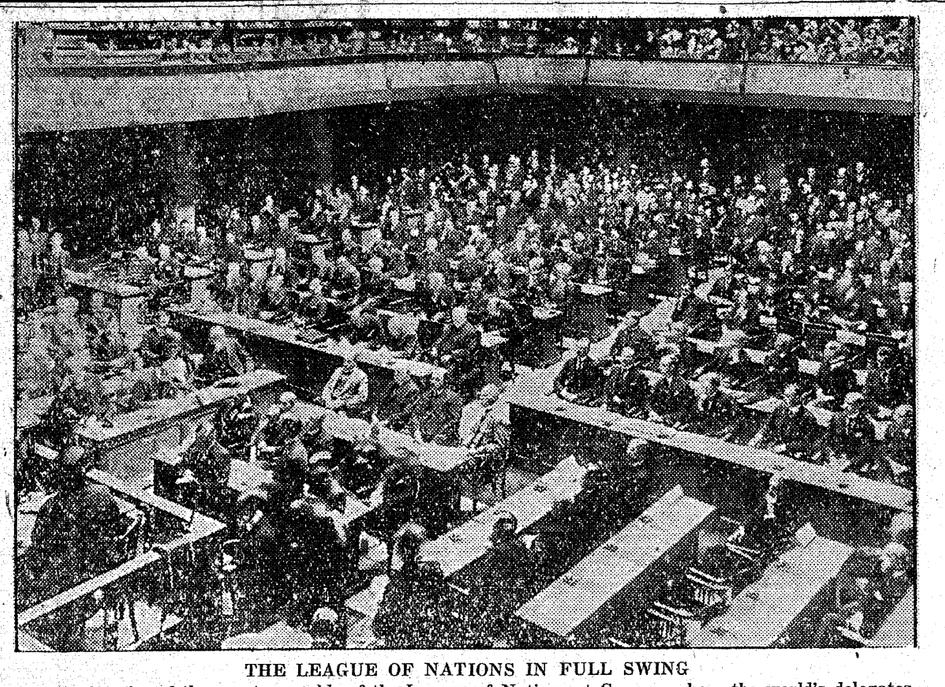
With 65 members of the proposed new handtub organization all set for business, everything points to having a local machine which will compete with the Okos' of Marblehead and the White Angel of Salem. It goes without saying that the rivalry between the owners of the sewer will vote to disagree and a merry battle will result. Purchase a winner, boys, for the bacon is worth bringing home.

SMILES

If there is one important thing that men of great ability neglect it is personality. Because a man happens to have been in business many years and has accumulated a fund of information about hides or leather or shoes or what not, is no reason why he should use his knowledge as a club to hit people over the head with.

There are men who can eat up mathematics and could even take a chance upon the Einstein theory, but are unable to smile although they probably learned the trick while in the cradle. On the other hand we know individuals who wear a perpetual smile, but never got any further than the multiplication table. Smiling is the cheapest asset in business and an ingrowing grouch is a worse liability than the income tax.

The fellow who coined the clever slogan "say it with flowers" might just as well have told us to say it with smiles. We have met successful salesmen who had only enough sense to keep from being run over on the street, but they had such infectious smiles that your name was on the dotted line before you realized what was going on. Theatrical managers teach their chorus girls to smile and then wear a poker player's face themselves.



Perhaps one of the reasons why business men do not smile is because there is no expense attached. They have acquired the obsession that anything that costs nothing must be worthless. Babies and children and pretty girls smile just as flowers bloom, but the average business man thinks it is dignified to wear a face that looks like a frozen potato.

Smiles, however, must be more than mechanical. A mere contraction of the facial muscles without mirth or good feeling behind it deceives no one. The smile that wins has good nature and a pleasing, winning personality for a background. There is the loud laugh that speaks the vacant mind and also the grin which indicates imbecility.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

You have a personal interest in the proposed law, to be voted on Nov. 7, to censor motion pictures—to allow one man's personal and inspired views to dictate what you can see and read in your local theatre. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

BOARD OF ENGINEERS,
T. F. Hutchinson, Clerk.

Peabody, Oct. 4, 1922.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Essex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of S. ABBIE NICHOLS, late of Peabody, in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for probate, by ELLA H. SMITH, who prays that letters of administration with the will annexed may be issued to her, without giving a surety on her official bond, no executor being named in said will.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Haverhill, in said County of Essex, on the twenty-third day of October, A. D. 1922, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper published in Peabody, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifth day of October, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

HORACE H. ATHERTON, JR.,
Register.

MORTGAGEES' SALE OF REAL ESTATE

Pursuant to and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by BENJAMIN N. MOORE & SONS COMPANY, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to JOHN N. EATON and WILLIAM LE FAVRE, of Boston, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, and LEONARD B. PICKERING of DANVERS, Essex County in said Commonwealth, Trustees, dated February 14, 1921 and recorded with Essex County (South District) Deeds, Book 2476, page 301, for the purpose of foreclosing the said mortgage for breach of the conditions thereof, will be sold at public auction on lot numbered one (1) of the premises hereinafter described on the twenty-third day of October, 1922 at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular, the land in Peabody in said County of Essex and Commonwealth with the buildings thereon described in said mortgage, a more particular description of which is as follows:

PARCEL NUMBER ONE, is situate on Pierpont Street in said Peabody and bounded as follows:—Southeasterly by Pierpont Street, sixty-eight (68) feet; Southwesterly by Sewall Street eighty (80) feet; Northwesterly by land of Shaw and Wilkins, now or formerly, sixty-eight (68) feet; and Northeasterly by land formerly of William Forns, eighty (80) feet. Being lot numbered ten (10) on a "Plan of the Estate of the late Ward Poole", recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, at the end of Book 810. Being the same premises conveyed to said grantor by deed recorded with said Registry Book 1849 Page 38.

PARCEL NUMBER TWO, is situated on Pierpont Street in said Peabody, bounded thus:—Beginning at land of Jeffers on Pierpont Street, thence running Northerly and Northeasterly by said street following the curve of said street, about two hundred and ninety-nine and one-half (299½) feet to other land now or formerly of the grantor; thence Southeasterly by said other land now or formerly of grantor about forty-six and 6/10 (46.6) feet to the Northwesterly side of the brook; thence Northeasterly along the said side of said brook by land now or formerly of grantor about forty-five and one-half (45½) feet to a corner; thence Southeasterly by said land of grantor, Sutton Place, and other land, about one hundred and twenty-five (125) feet to a corner; thence in a Southwesterly direction, about seventy-two (72) feet; thence more Southwesterly about one hundred (100) feet; thence in about a Southwesterly direction thirty-two and one-half (32½) feet, more or less to land of said Jeffers; and thence in a Northeasterly direction by said land of Jeffers about seventy-eight (78) feet to Pierpont Street and the point begun at. Together with a right of way from the portion of the granted premises lying Southerly of said brook to Main Street as conveyed in a deed from William Sutton to William Sutton, Junior, dated May 1, 1880, recorded with said Deeds, Book 1044 Page 113. Being the same premises described in deed recorded with said Registry, Book 2141, page 62.

PARCEL NUMBER THREE, is a parcel of land situate in Peabody near the Salem line as the same set forth on a "Plan of part of Sutton Property, Peabody, Mass., Metcalf & Ashton, surveyors," dated May, 1902, recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book of Plans 13 Plan 17; to wit:—Beginning at the Northeasterly corner of the granted premises at a point on the brook as shown on said plan one hundred (100) feet distant Westerly from lot No. 5 as shown on said plan; thence running Westerly by said brook about one hundred seventeen (117) feet; thence turning and running Southerly as shown on said plan fifty-seven and five-tenths (57.5) feet to a way twenty feet wide, shown on said plan, and known as Sutton Place; thence turning and running Easterly by said way about one hundred eighteen (118) feet to land of Eagan; being the remaining portion of lot 6; thence turning and running Northerly by land of Eagan to the point begun at. Being the same premises described in deed recorded in said Registry in Book 2138, page 211.

PARCEL NUMBER FOUR, is lot numbered sixteen (16) as marked and laid down on a "plan of the Estate of Joshua H. Poole," recorded as plan 63 in plan Book No. One in Essex South District Registry of Deeds, bounded thus:—Northwesterly by Pierpont Street in Peabody, Essex County, one hundred twenty-five (125) feet; Northeasterly by factory lot formerly of Joshua H. Poole, about seventy-eight (78) feet; Southeasterly by land now or formerly of Sutton about one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; and Southwesterly by lot No. 15 on said plan about forty-six and six-tenths (46.6) feet. Being the same premises described in deed recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 1854, page 157.

PARCEL NUMBER FIVE, is situated on Pierpont Street in said Peabody and bounded thus:—Northwesterly by said Pierpont Street, about one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; Northeasterly by land now or formerly of O'Connell about ninety feet to the brook; Southeasterly by the westerly side of the brook and land now or formerly of the Heirs of William Sutton, about one hundred twenty-four (124) feet; Southwesterly by land formerly of Joshua H. Poole. Being the same premises described in deed recorded with Essex South District Registry of Deeds, Book 2358, page 409.

Being a portion of the premises described in the above mentioned mortgage and situated in said Peabody.

Said premises will be sold subject to and with the benefit of all restrictions, easements, improvements, outstanding tax titles, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, liens or claims in the nature of liens and existing encumbrances of record.

Terms of sale $1000.00 at time and place of sale and balance in ten days thereafter.

Firestone
GUM-DIPPED CORDS

Everywhere You Hear It ~
Firestone Builds the Finest Cords

HARDLY a day goes by but some one goes out of his way to tell us that Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are the best tires built.

Cords—as only Firestone builds them—will give you many extra thousands of miles of wear. And for fall and winter driving there's nothing like them. The strong, resilient Firestone carcass of gum-dipped cords, can stand the hardest punishment.

With the reputation Firestone Cords hold, it is not surprising that so many motorists in this community have made them standard equipment. The demand for Firestone Cords in the last few months has broken all records.

Prices were never so low as they are now. Perhaps never again can mileage be sold so cheaply.

Decide now that you will get Most Miles per Dollar. Drop in any time and let's talk tires.

KEROSENE STOVES

Nurtured in the days of war stress, receiving their impetus in the historic winter of 1917-18, these substitutes are extremely dangerous. In the last few years insurance companies have paid large sums in losses sustained from their unfortunate use. Whatever the make—and there are several on the market—it should be kept away from the woodwork, curtains, or other light inflammable furnishings. Portability in itself is a hazard, since not being secured, overturning is easy. Serious injury by burning has resulted from weak spring catches designed to hold together the upper and lower sections of the burner; the catch should be examined frequently and repaired when not functioning properly. A leaky stove very nearly has reached the limit of its usefulness, since it is seldom successfully repaired.

The stove never should be carried or moved while lighted. Numerous fires have been caused by filling the reservoir when the wick was lighted. All filling should be done by daylight only, and away from open fires or lights. Explosions have been caused by defective wicks which do not completely fill the tube, thus leaving free communication between the flame and the space above the oil in the reservoir; the vapor, ascending and coming in contact with the burning wick, causes a flash-back in the reservoir. The wick and burner should be boiled occasionally in a strong solution of soda or lye and carefully dried before again being placed in service, this cleansing giving not only better light and heat, but increasing the safety of operation.

AN EXERCISE TO REDUCE THE WAIST-LINE

How many of us would be able to pull ourselves into a knot such as this and then have enough strength left to pose for the photographer as our fair contortionist does? We can safely state, with sufficient testimonials for proof that doing this stunt ten times before each meal, will surely reduce the waist-line, and remove all excess avoirdupois.

SOME STUNTS TO DO AT YOUR HALLOWEEN PARTY

It is more fun to have a party at Halloween than at any other time during the year, and the hostess herself certainly gets more enjoyment planning and putting up the decorations than her guests do just seeing them at the party.

Planning and arranging the decorations will be endless amusement, for the more startling and grotesque the effects, the better.

Funny-faced gnomes with long arms and legs of wire make a new decorative note. The chandelier and side lights should have features which are printed on a pumpkin design crepe paper cut out and pasted directly on the glass shades. Curls made of black serpentine paper and bangs of slashed crepe paper complete this feature of the decoration.

You have no idea until you have tried it the variety of ludicrous arrangements which can be made.

The individual favors have for foundations the five-cent boxes of raisins. To them are added faces painted on cardboard, wire arms and legs, and whatever in the way of clothing one wishes. If each one can be different so much the better. They may be made to sit on the edge of the table in all sorts of funny poses.

If you wish the raisins may be taken out of the boxes and replaced with an assortment of colored candies, raisins and nuts with which the fortunes of the guests may be told. The tiny gum drops which come in a variety of colors are very good for this purpose.

Make four the unit of perfection, for instance, four red candies indicate that the future mate will have a very quick temper, three not as excitable a disposition, and so on, while one indicates a very mild temperament. Yellow denotes wealth, white the number of times married, raisins a gay life, almonds travel, and walnuts will show the length of life. Other fortunes may be easily made up. The hostess of course holds the "key".

Another scheme of fortune telling, particularly well suited to a larger group, is to have twelve different fortunes arranged ready to read. All whose birthdays are in January are asked to say so. Their fate is then read, the fortunes of the other months follow in succession. These fortunes if preferred may be folded up and placed in the kettle centerpiece from which they are drawn and read.

Sole Leather Shortage — Good Sign of Busines

(By ENERGY)

One sign of the leather business as being better is the small supply of sole leather, particularly heavy grades. All of us prefer a sole not reinforced with other leather. It will wear longer. But animals differ as people. Some of both have thick hides (possibly heads) while others produce a hide which will not yield the heavy grades after tanning. Such being the case, we must accept lighter soles or pay a much larger sum for the heavy variety. It is a simple problem, supply and demand.

* * *

The Shoe and Leather Reporter says: "Shoe manufacturers who make for the extreme fine trade particularly in men's shoes have a partiality for fine grade heavy outer soles, and it is hard to convince them that a slip tap can be used to advantage. The shoes are sold because of the fact that they are heavy single soles and wearers have become convinced of the wear and flexibility of such shoes that it would be difficult for the retail merchant to convince them that lighter sole with a slip tap would be equally as good. No doubt the eight iron sole with a high grade slip tap and a good quality welt would produce a shoe equal in every way to the single sole, but most merchants are inclined to work on the lines of least resistance. The element of price will settle the problem. Heavy sole leather is scarce and it is impossible to increase the proportionate supply. Light weight would enable manufacturers and retailers to offer shoes to the public at moderate prices. It is a question of ordinary common sense. Buyers of sole leather by continuing the present inordinate demand for heavy stock and refusing to consider the lighter weights, are running the industry into an impasse."

* * *

As with sole leather, upper leather follows. It has always been the story of shoe manufacturers running on a certain line of leather and letting other lines go to the dogs. But the tanner cannot live with the other lines neglected. Something must be done to sell the neglected, and like a child of this kind only a few care what happens. Salesmanship counts when this neglected stock is sold. So as the business is today, there is a larger percentage of left-overs than is normally the case. Until business is brisk this condition will continue. I hear so many tanners complaining of specialties only, it tells the story of the leather business today.

* * *

Cuba has been a mecca for shoe manufacturers. It is quoted by trade papers that this country purchases more shoes than all others. But by our placing 100 per cent. duty on sugar the Cubans rise in their might and threaten a heavy duty on our shoes. Natural. As congress has given President Harding authority to regulate duties in such cases there is hope our shoe trade with that country will not be interrupted by the darn old tariff.

* * *

We must have foreign trade for our leather and shoes. We make more than we consume in U. S., therefore the 50 per cent. surplus must go elsewhere. I often wonder what happens when a tariff is framed. For a body of men to make duties with so many conflicting interests is worse than umpiring a world series ball game. The difference is the umpire gets his quickly, while the tariff framer has a lingering death, politically. England with its free trade policies has no tariff to contend with, but at present she has plenty on her mind. Our moral help will not kill Turks but soon we will be busy killing turkeys of another variety.

* * *

The first thought regarding longer skirts for women would be a smile. But a second thought brings us to the fact that longer skirts will affect shoes worn by the former short-skirt variety. If these skirts are going to cover the fancy shoes, why wear them? I cannot believe this change will come about. Us men have had such a variety of skirts, limbs and shoes shown us the past few years, that our eyes are trained for it. To take it away now would indeed be sad and the occulists will suffer. I am told that the principal reason for so many spectacles being worn by the sterner sex can be laid at the door of short skirts. I hope such is not the case, for I refrain from believing men are so feeble. But as affecting the shoe business, it is food for thought and plenty of it. Specialties the life of the business will have a quietus of the Jack Dempsey variety. Too bad for the business, too bad for the men and occulists, who are also men.

* * *

The Danvers bleachery are completing a powerhouse which is modern itself. I am told the only help needed there will be a janitor to keep the brass shining. You cannot see the engine moving, and the only sign of anything doing is to watch the chimney for smoke, or a warmer temperature noticeable in winter only. Peabody is to be congratulated in having a concern which will have such a plant, for it means much.

* * *

A. C. Lawrence has passed away. I have met this gentleman and his loss in what he has done in the past will be felt. To his energy the present A. C. L. Co. grew to its present dimensions, and without him it is difficult to say what would have happened. It is sufficient, however, to say he helped Peabody by his corporation paying one-third of the taxes at one time, and such help is appreciated by those who have the good of the city at heart.

* * *

More general demand for various leathers developed during the week, says the Shoe and Leather Reporter. Further advances in sole leather, offal, cut soles, welting and belting butts recorded. Heavy sole leather advanced 3-5c. per pound on best tannages. Cut soles are up 2-6c. per pair over prices in effect a week ago. Belting butts nominally 3c. higher. Offal 2-3c. higher as to selection and tanner. Upper leathers generally stronger. Advances have been recorded in some lines. Improved call for chrome side upper leather one of the features. Sizable movement effected at steady levels. Some of the lower priced lines have been marked up 1c. Calfskins have moved in a much better manner during the week. Prices are strong with an advancing tendency. While the bulk of upper leather business received has been for immediate delivery buyers are more inclined to cover than formerly. Brisk demand for glazed kid. Market being in an advancing tendency tanners are not inclined to book ahead at present quotations.

Lloyd Plans New Tannery Near Tampa

Walter J. Lloyd, well known leather man and formerly in the tanning business in this city is having some shark skins tanned at the Hunt-Rankin plant. He is planning to erect a large tannery near Fort Myers, Florida where Mexican raw hides may be tanned and shipped north to the Peabody plants for finishing. The use of Florida tanning extract will greatly reduce the cost of tanning the skins, so declares Mr. Lloyd.

Mr. Lloyd believes that shark skins will revolutionize the shoe industry by giving a toecap for boys' school shoes that will wear much better than those with the ordinary leather cap. He has patented a device for catching sharks which abound off the Florida coast and his experiments in producing shark skins for the use in the shoe trade has the interest of many producers waiting the outcome.

He is a great believer in this tanning extract available in Florida and his contention has found the warm backing of northern capitalists. The war put a crimp in his plans to foster the industry in Florida but with settled conditions he believes that a start can now be made. Arrangement with the Mexican Chamber of Commerce will guarantee the shipping of Mexican hides in the raw state to Fort Myers.

Mr. Lloyd is receiving congratulations on the fact that he is now a grandfather, a baby girl having been born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Lloyd Jr. of Kansas City last week.

FINN PRAISES PEABODY FOR OUTPUT OF LEATHER

By John H. Finn in Shoe Topics

Peabody, which is the greatest leather city of the world, is not only growing every day at present, but it is also making different lines of leather not to be found in such great and diverse quantities elsewhere.

This varied product is one of the main features of the leather industry of Peabody today, and it means that there will be a better and stronger foundation for the industry in that city in the future. It is better to make many different kinds of leather than to concentrate on any one particular line.

One is really surprised to note the great variety made by leading firms of Peabody, and leather which cannot be bought elsewhere, in most cases. Take the ivory sole leather made by Geo. C. Vaughn, for instance, and it is the only thing of its kind made in America. As such it has come to be used by all the leading shoe manufacturers of the country, and especially where they make white shoes for women. And it may be said that white is to be worn still more in the future, for women want it, and they want a perfect white sole to go with the finest white upper, which is also made in this city. The A. C. Lawrence concern leads them all on white, and this company also has the greatest output of all kinds of leather to be found in any single plant of the country.

Another firm which led the way for others to follow is the Carr Leather Co. The Carrs are a regular family of leather men, and they were the first to put the now well-known suede leather on the market. They have been making that leather for more than twenty years, and their product is seen today in boots and shoes in all the various cities and towns of this country.

Among the longest established concerns of Peabody may be mentioned that of the C. P. Osborne Co., which company has been doing business for more than a half century. A specialty of this firm is their well-known split for welt insoles, and which is used now to the exclusion of everything else by some of the leading makers of fine welt shoes. The Osborne plant also turns out many different kinds of bag and strap leather. And they also make sheep leather, which may be said to be the main output of Peabody, and made in most of the shops.

That the city is a great place for the industrious newcomer to make good may be seen in the case of quite a few of our new citizens. A good example of this is seen in the rise and rapid progress of the Verza Leather Co. Mr. Verza started like many others at the bottom and worked up to his present position. He makes many different kinds of fine upper leather, and a shoe manufacturer can generally get just what he wants from him. He is busy all the time and growing.

How many shoe and leather workers understand it was a Peabody concern that first made pigskin for the shoe trade? This is a fact, and it goes to show how advanced the leather men of this town happen to be. The U. S. Pigskin Co. made pigskins for the shoemakers as far back as twenty years ago. They are making it today, and the time is fast coming when it will be used to a still greater extent in counters, insoles, and the like. Shoe manufacturers will yet be standing in a line waiting for it, and they are sure of getting the best, and cut from the back of the hog, right here in Peabody.

There is something better than anything else for the stranger to note in this city. I refer to the many plants that are now being enlarged. The new company that has taken over the big factory of the Armstrong concern is putting on a great addition. Evidently this new concern means to do some business, and as they are all expert leather men at the head, they will get their share in a very short time, and then they will expand on an ever growing scale.

That big plant of the Armstrong Co. was devoted to the production of calf to quite an extent, but there are other plants that make a specialty of calf also in this city. The Chain Leather Co. has been making calf for a long time, and its output has grown to such an extent that they should have twice as much floor space. They put on quite an addition lately, but they could not keep up with orders at that. Their calf is popular and growing more so every day in all parts of the country where calf is used in shoes.

Hospital Aid Theatre Night

The Strand theatre night to be held next Tuesday evening, October 17, under the direction of the J. B. Thomas Hospital Aid Association should prove most successful, for in addition to a specially attractive program those who attend this affair must realize that they are at the same time aiding in the work of the Hospital Aid Association, which although yet in its infancy, is already proving its worth.

"The Man From Home," starring Anna Q. Neillson and James Kirkwood, is the feature picture for the evening, and the following well-known local artists will provide the entertainment: Helen T. Kehoe, solo dancer; Philip Hopkins, tenor; Bessie Hickey, solo dancer; Alicia B. McNiff, soprano; Charles Enos, whistling soloist; the Callahan sisters, Irish step dancers.

Parke Snow Will Re-open Ladies' Shop

The Parke Snow Co. woman's shop announces a week's clearance sale, starting tomorrow and lasting until next week Saturday night, when their big store will be closed for several days during which time an inventory will be taken of the stock.

The owners plan to reopen the store on new and improved lines as a ladies' shop with many high grade specialties, such as ladies' coats and suits, millinery, domestic, hosiery, smallwares and a department given over to phonographs.

Manager Burns, who recently took the local management, has made many friends for the concern during his service here, and the clearance sale with the intention of opening a ladies' emporium such as Peabody has never had ought to be well appreciated.

The concern carries a large advertisement elsewhere in this issue setting forth many choice bargains for the women of Peabody.

ROTARY CLUB

Peabody Rotarians greeted Sir Harry Lauder at the Boston Rotary Club dinner Wednesday noon with a delegation of 16 members headed by President Joseph E. Noyes. In the party were Mayor William A. Hills, Philip C. O'Rourke, Raymond L. Cummings and Frank W. Penniman. Rotarian Lauder is a member of the Glasgow, Scotland, Club.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH CO. BELL SYSTEM AMERICAN TELEPHONE & TELEGRAPH CO.

Some Things We Can Do

Our desire is to see how much — not how little — we can give our customers for their money.

Don't interpret this as a burst of philanthropy. It isn't. It's plain, common-sense business, because a satisfied customer is the best possible advertisement.

Every telephone becomes a part of the universal Bell System the moment it is installed. The service that may be afforded a patron, however, is largely dependent upon his knowledge of the telephone's varied possibilities. We can suggest some of these, leaving to him the privilege of availing himself of them.

Does he know how to make an Emergency Fire or Police Call?

Does he know what we are glad to do in the way of emergency installations in cases of quarantined illness?

Does he know the economics of Station-to-Station Calls as distinguished from other toll calls?

Does he know what we will do to help forward an urgent message relative to sickness or death?

Does he know we will try to get a message to a subscriber whose full address is unknown to him?

Does he know what our Public Station service can do in reaching non-subscribers by messenger?

If, perchance, the reader does not know of these and other possibilities, I wish he would pay me a visit. I may be able to make the telephone much more valuable to him, and perhaps without one cent of additional cost.

Manager.

"You can do it Better With Gas"

WHILE other merchants may not care what you do with an article after you buy it—whether you put it to a wasteful use or not—we are greatly interested. We want you to get the most for your money out of the gas you use. We want you to make your gas bills thrift bills.

The reason we desire this is because we know from business experience that waste of gas means big bills, complaints, investigations, rechecking, letter writing, delayed payments and other expenses, which, when taken together, mean dissatisfied customers.

Satisfied customers are worth more to us than any revenue derived from wasted gas. We want no money we do not earn.

We live up to this policy every day and are glad to aid you in choosing the most economical gas appliances and tell you how to avoid waste by using them intelligently.

Charleston Fans Start Drive To Meet Expenses to Peabody

By Anthony J. McKevlin

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 12, 1922.—Football fans of the Bantams got behind the drive this week for $5000 to boom the local high team. One of the objects of the campaign is to defray the cost of sending more players to Peabody next month for the big game. Harry F. Barkerding is general chairman of the drive and he paid the Bantams a warm compliment as he called on the citizens of Charleston to get behind their football warriors.

The Bantams opened their 1922 grid season by walking into and all over the Darlington high school eleven here last Saturday. When the storm had cleared, and the adding machines put to work, the score stood: Charleston 44, Darlington 0.

The Bantams were not in their usual form. They had plenty of pep, displayed the old fighting spirit. But their playing ability was off—decidedly off. Time and time again they allowed the pigskin to slip from their hands for fumbles that might have been costly had they been stacking up against a team their equal. However, fortunately, they recovered all the fumbles.

Teddy Weeks was out of the game, due to an injury to his knee. His knee has been placed in a cast, and he may not get back into the fray for a while. While he is able to play even tomorrow, yet Coach Prause is taking no chances with his best bet, saving him for the big games with Duval high of Jacksonville, Fla.) and Peabody.

Charleston's touchdowns were made through the playing of GOOD football. It was not luck, but their constant plugging that kept them in the front and kept the ball almost constantly in the visitors' territory.

Dutch Brinker, last year a halfback, figured at full in Holcombe's place and scored two of the touchdowns. Frank Drowota, who alternates at full with Brinker, and who played at half, ran eighty-five yards through the entire Darlington team for a touchdown on the first kickoff of the second half.

Buster Holcombe, younger brother of the famous Eddie of 1921, was the dark horse of the game. He ripped off nineteen, seventeen, fifteen and eleven-yard runs in the short time he was in the game. He is a beautiful broken-field runner, and, despite his apparent lightness, is able to make a line weaken before his onslaught.

Frankie Taylor, who directed the team in the absence of Weeks, proved that Charleston fans need not worry while Teddy is out of the game. Taylor veritably was a second Weeks. He time and time again skidded through a broken field for a long gain, piloted successful forwards, ran his team like an old timer, and punted well He averaged 45 yards in runbacks of punts—which is clippin' off some runbacks. Buster Holcombe, who called the signals for the second team, also showed that Prause was well fortified at the quarter position.

Coach Carl Prause is ill. A fever, technically known as the dengue, but locally as the "broken-bone fever," has been going the rounds in Charleston—in all the southern cities and states—for probably a month or more. Coach Prause fell a victim to it, and is now confined to his home.

Assistant Coach Sidney Barshay is in charge of the squad, and is whipping his athletes into shape for their battle here on Friday with Benedictine college, of Savannah, Ga., their only game before the great battle with Duval on the 21st.

A campaign is now in progress in Charleston for the raising of $5000 for athletics at the Charleston high school. Every old high man will be asked to contribute $5.

AMHERST "AGGIE" IS WELL LOCATED

Members of the Massachusetts Press Association inspected the plant of the Massachusetts Agricultural college Monday, discussed the work and the needs of the college with President Butterfield and officers of the college farm and orchard.

The newspaper men were surprised to find one of the most beautiful of colleges wonderfully located on a six hundred acre campus, and admirably equipped with agricultural and science laboratories, where 800 students of Massachusetts are studying, tuition free, and a large proportion are working their way through college.

They found the college badly in need of student dormitories, library space and gymnasium facilities, but otherwise generously endowed for its task. Its principal need, the editors asserted, was to be better known in the state.

The old adage, "Under the lighthouse walls the darkest shadow falls," does not hold true in Sunderland, the beautiful and prosperous agricultural community just north of the Massachusetts Agricultural college.

"RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD SOON"

MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE

That the Bible teaches a resurrection of the dead there can be no doubt. But these questions arise:

Does the moment of death mean an instantaneous resurrection? Is there any sleep in the grave? Is there any intermediary conscious state? With what bodies will they come forth, and shall we know one another, and how, when, and where?

These questions and many others which have disturbed us all our lives will be given a scriptural answer.

...en Silence" Wonder Film At Strand Theatre This Evening

people who cry for "better ... would see "The Broken Si... screen version of James ...wood's story which will be ...attraction on the bill the ...l offer for today and Satur...day, it is certain that they would leave the theatre feeling that the movement for wholesome productions had accomplished its purpose. "The Broken Silence" is as clean as the wind that blows over the silent places that James Oliver Curwood knows so well and writes about so entertainingly.

The story tells of the love of Cameron Bruce, an officer of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, for Jeanne Marat. Jeanne, by the way, is more than ably portrayed by Zena Keefe, while the role of Bruce is in the capable hands of Robert Elliot. The balance of the cast includes J. Barney Sherry, known for his work in many Marshall Neilan productions, Gypsy O'Brien and Master Joseph DePew, a truly remarkable child player.

"The Broken Silence" moves from one dramatic episode to another, culminating in a tremendous climax that comes as forcefully as a thunderbolt. The action is laid in the heart of the snow country and many beautiful shots are in evidence. Much of the action circles around a dog team and a great white wolf. The leader of the dog team is the only surviving dog that was with Rear Admiral Peary on his famous dash to the North Pole. The white wolf is Kolkarre, another celebrated personage of the animal world. He is said to be the only white Siberian wolf in captivity. He is the property of Jacques Suzanne, millionaire artist and sportsman. At one time Mr. Suzanne had several of these animals but all died when removed from their native haunts with the exception of Kolkarre. All of these things combine to make "The Broken Silence" a really extraordinary production. A Sennett comedy entitled "Ma and Pa" and Harry Myers in "Robinson Crusoe" will be the other attractions for today.

Bessie Barriscale in "The Breaking Point" will head the double bill for Sunday evening. Miss Barriscale is supported by a cast that includes Walter McGrail, Pat O'Malley and Joseph Dowling. Mrs. Walace Reid (Dorothy Davenport) in "Every Woman's Problem" will be the second feature for Sunday evening.

"The Man From Home," with James Kirkwood, Anna Neillson and Norman Kerry featured, will be the Paramount attraction for next Monday and Tuesday. "The Man From Home" is an adaption of the big stage hit by Booth Tarkington and Henry Leon Wilson. Buster Keaton in his new comedy hit, "The Cops," will be an added feature for Monday and Tuesday.

The Hospital Aid Association have taken over the Strand for next Tuesday evening and will put on a fine program consisting of five acts of vaudeville and two pictures.

General Cole Gives Views On Censorship

Declaring his emphatic opposition to allowing one-man censorship in any form to gain a foothold in this state, Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole, as chairman of the committee of Massachusetts citizens against censorship, has issued an appeal to the men and women of the state to contribute to a fund to pay the expenses of making a fight against the motion picture censorship law at the November election.

"This is a fight of the whole people against the efforts of a few to bring censorship into Massachusetts," says General Cole.

"The question of motion pictures is only incidental. If there is anything wrong with the manner of conducting picture theatres in this state, I will be one of the first to sit down with any group of citizens to devise ways and means of correcting the situation.

"It seems to me that there is plenty of law in Massachusetts at present to fine or imprison any theatre owner or film producer who is responsible for the production of immoral or otherwise improper pictures.

"But let's keep the censor out of this state. This is not the place for such a creature. The men and women of Massachusetts will resent this attempt to have one man, a political appointee, tell them they must see only certain pictures and that they can't see others. They will rebel against any proposal which would give to any individual, with the partisan viewpoint of any one political, social or other organization, power to dictate to them in matters which are purely personal.

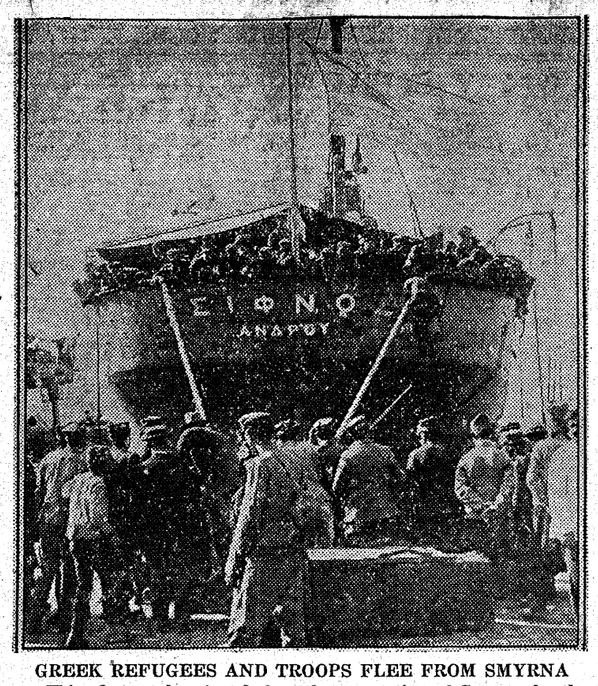
"I had a lot of experience with the censorship during the war, but there is no place for it in a free country in time of peace."

TOM THUMB WEDDING AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

One of the most unique entertainments of the fall season will be the Tom Thumb wedding to be given by children of the city in the Methodist church next Tuesday evening. Over fifty little folks under ten years of age will participate in the "wedding" and furnish an hour and a half of continuous laughter.

With the boys in full dress, low cut vests and long trousers, and the girls in low necks, short sleeves and train, the affair will have the aspect of a real social event. The dress of the little bride will be of silk. She will wear the usual veil and carry flowers. Beside the "bride and groom" the wedding party will include the best man, maid of honor, four bridesmaids, two ushers, parents of the bride and groom, grandparents, aunts and uncles, two sisters of the bride, a bachelor friend of the groom, flower girls, the little minister and his wife, and various other guests.

The wedding will be interspersed throughout with songs by the little people. Grandma Thumb will sing a solo, "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs" and Grandpa will follow with "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." Grandpa Midget will sing "Silver Threads Among the Gold." At different parts of the evening cousins of the bride will sing "O Promise Me," "When I Look in the Heart of a Rose" and "I Love You Truly." "I'd Love to Live in Loveland" is sung at the last. The little minister has a catchy little ceremony—not in any sense like the real one—but a funny little piece made up for the occasion. On the whole the entertainment will be one continuous round of that clean and wholesome fun which only children can furnish.



Peabody High Tackles Crack Lynn English

Tomorrow afternoon Peabody high will face Lynn English high at the high school field. Coach Sexton's English team has not been up to the standard of years past and has met defeat twice this season. They were however without the services of their star, "Buck" Burke. Burke is likely to start against Peabody tomorrow.

Coach Brawley and his team were up against an aggregation of amateur officials at Marblehead last Saturday. Peabody just could not win with those officials working against them at all times. A few of the "Head" players were doing the officiating and the referee would do the stepping in, penalizing them. If these two teams happen to come together again later in the season the "Headers" no doubt will be on the losing end.

Three prominent athletes of years past are getting together a cheering squad and will get started at tomorrow's game with Lynn English. It is to be called the "H. M. and H." cheering squad.

Is Salem worrying over the outcome of the game on Oct. 21? It looks as though some of them are when they want the eligibility list made out two or three weeks ahead of the game. They will probably receive the official list just before the game on that date.

GREEK REFUGEES AND TROOPS FLEE FROM SMYRNA

This photo, taken just before the occupation of Smyrna by the victorious Kemalist army, and breaking out of the disastrous fire which practically leveled this important commercial town to the ground, shows remnants of the shattered Greek army and panic-stricken refugees crowding the wharf, awaiting transportation back to the homeland.

Peabody High School

One of the best, if not the best, games contested in this district was played in Marbelhead last Saturday, when Peabody and Marbleehad played a scoreless tie. Although the rain prevented many fans from attending the game, there were in attendance about 3500. This is said to be one of the largest crowds that ever attended a game in Marblehead. The wet field proved disastrous for both teams, making it impossible to accomplish their fast plays and passes.

Many high school students attended, and although there was some cheering, it was difficult to obtain a cheering squad from among the Peabody fans.

Two jitney busses conveyed the Peabody football squad from their dressing quarters at the high school to Marblehead and waited to bring them back.

The bleachers which have been brought from Lawrence to the grounds in the rear of the high school are nearly all in place. These bleachers extend the length of the field and are said to seat six thousand. Along the center of the field have been constructed some grandstand seats which are more comfortable than the ordinary bleachers. Pupils of the school are strictly forbidden to climb over these bleachers, as they have not yet been properly braced.

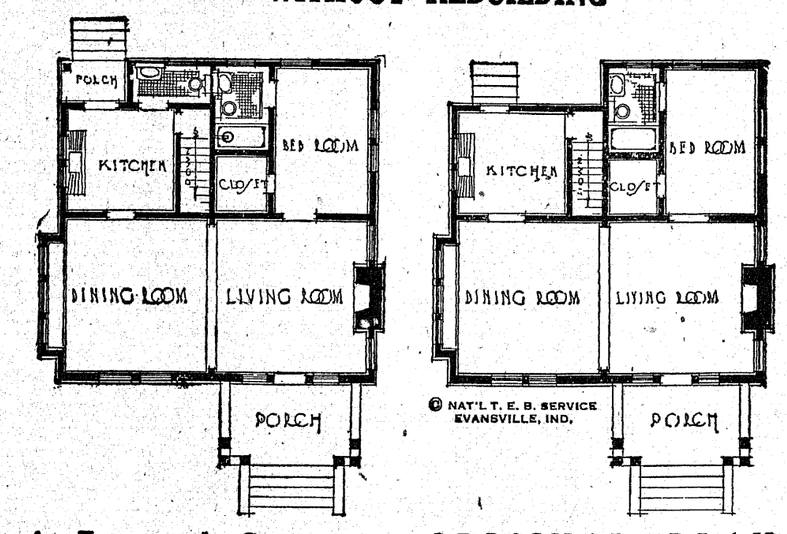
It is probable that these bleachers will be entirely constructed for the game which is to be played tomorrow.

The football team will meet Lynn English in their third game of the season tomorrow in the rear of the high school. A large crowd is expected, for a great number of fans are accustomed to follow the Lynn football teams. The fans say it will be an easy game for Peabody.

No football practice was held last Monday, as this was the afternoon for Coach Brawley's return to classes.

Peabody plays Salem high school a week from tomorrow on the home grounds in the rear of the high school. A large crowd will be present at the game because strong rivalry exists between the two teams during the football season.

On Thursday of every week a recitation period is omitted and the entire school assemble in the new assembly hall for singing. The music period is the first period of the day, from 8.15 to 9.



Home rooms 2, 28, 33 and 39 have reached the one hundred per cent. mark in membership in the P. H. S. A. A., making twelve rooms, so far, to have been starred on the large poster showing the progress of the drive for members.

Leo Masterson of Washington street has entered the P. H. S. this week. He has been attending St. John's Prep. school.

Joseph Kowalski, '27, has left P. H. S. to enter Essex Agricultural school.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR INEXPENSIVE ADDITIONS TO HOME COMFORT AND HEALTH —WITHOUT REBUILDING

An Enormously Convenient Toilet and Wash Room Added — ORIGINAL PLAN

Four-Room Bungalow Made Far More Comfortable by Very Slight Changes

How often it is provokingly apparent that a "one bathroom" dwelling is short of comfort and convenience.

There can be no questioning the fact that a wealth of added comfort and convenience has been brought to this four-room bungalow by adding to it a toilet and washroom. In fact, the advantages far outweigh the small cost of the improvement, which has added far more than its price to the property value.

For the household every day, and for the occasional visitor too, this extra toilet and lavatory will spare many an embarrassing moment and save many an extra step. The shower for the bath tub is a necessity for bathing comfortably.

The usual one bathroom bungalow is incomplete without the addition of such facilities as were so easily added here.

Medicine or toilet cabinets over each lavatory would soon prove indispensible. No feature of a dwelling approaches giving as much in return for the money expended as good plumbing. Wall and floor coverings require frequent renewals; furniture wears out and requires replacement; outside and inside, the house requires frequent painting; while the plumbing, with a minimum of upkeep expense and a maximum of use and abuse, in most dwellings, is not improved, or added to, after the first installation.

Yet every dollar invested in good plumbing, by comparison with other improvements, is a dollar invested in multiplied comfort.

Your plumbing dealer will be glad to confer with you about a similar change in your home. The cost of it will undoubtedly fall short of your ideas on that subject.

OUR 11th YEAR

THRIFT

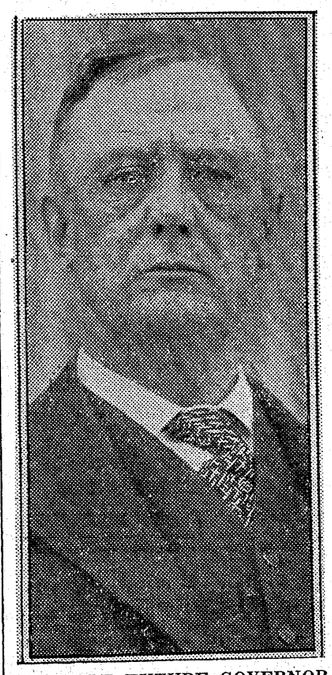
Our "Little Talks" have been missing from this column for the past month. I have been waiting to hear from some of our readers as to whether enough people were interested in having them continued. There seems to be an opinion that enough people are interested. They will be continued.

One young man, a cellar worker in a leather factory, said to me that he thought every young man and woman ought to read these little lessons in economic truth. He had been benefited by having his ideas broadened, his vision quickened, and in consequence he was beginning to think more and he believed, to think straighter. He wished I would talk more directly to the young men.

I am glad of this expression of opinion from one of the younger generation. It is to the young element in the community that we must look for our future prosperity in industry. The older men get "set in their ways;" they are not apt to be so active; they grow into habits that will not yield to the changing conditions of the business world; they will not take chances.

All these are admirable qualities, but the exuberance of youth, which the older generation is so apt to condemn, is the very quality we need for our advancement. We need the young man who dares to "take a chance;" who finds every day of his business life an adventure; who has the courage to try the unknown paths; who "doesn't know when he's licked;" who sets his face toward the sunrise and pushes on without fear of danger. We need these strong, virile, young men. Never before in business history have we needed them so greatly.

But we need them as men of principle. We need real, two-fisted, he-men. Not weaklings who are swayed by every wind that blows and who yield to every temptation; not men who are willing to sell their soul for a little ready money. The business world is demanding honesty and loyalty and straight dealing and integrity and truth and courage to do the right. We are sick and tired of this profiteering and graft.



There never was a greater opportunity for young men and women than there is right now, never for the right kind of young women. The lounge lizard, fighter, the jazz jumper, the the grouser, the anvil beater, soon be in the discard. We are g ually getting tired of such wasters time and money. The young man of woman who takes care of his health and cares more for eight hours' sleep than he does for a good time, has a good time all of the time. The young man or woman who cares more for his honor than he does for his money and knows how to work steadily and study, study the job he is on, will be rich at fifty no matter what that job is.

He must not only study and work, but must learn to save, to save a little every week no matter how small his income may be. We are called a nation of spenders, an extravagant people. The Bankers Conference which just ended in New York City shows that we are a nation of careful savers; the most thrifty people in the world. Listen to a few figures.

The president of Columbia College told the Savings Bank representatives that there were 40,000,000 life insurance policies in the United States. It doesn't seem possible that there can be so many. Dr. Butler says: "I was astounded. I knew the number was very large, but I was not prepared and perhaps you are not, for so huge a figure as 40,000,000." These policy holders are paying in premiums over $1,500,000,000 every year.

One-half of all the deposits in banks and trust companies in the United States are savings deposits, and their total amount is over $16,500,000,000. There are 26,000,000 different savings bank accounts. Think of it. One person in every four in this country has a savings bank account and the average amount of each account is $634.62. These figures are appalling. No one ever heard of such savings anywhere in the world among the common people.

Where is all this money invested? In the railroads, the telegraphs and telephones, the ships and docks and trolleys. One quarter of the people in the United States are capitalists, owning some part of their own property Think it over boys and girls. How much of a capitalist are you? Think it over, when some one tells you that we must get rid of the capitalist because the power of his money is enslaving the people and making them poorer. Think it over. Let's talk it over among ourselves. You, too, girls.

PROBABLE FUTURE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF PHILLIPINES

According to the latest reports, important changes seem under way, in that the President is said to have in mind the appointment of Senator Harry S. New, of Indiana, to replace Major-General Leonard Wood, the present Governor, who will vacate his post on January first.

Notre Dame To Banquet Oct. 18

The annual banquet of the Notre Dame Alumnae of St. John's high school will take place next Wednesday evening, October 18, in K of C. hall. Schlehuber of Lynn will cater and an attractive program is being arranged which will make the affair one of the most enjoyable ever conducted by the alumnae. Rev. T. P. McGinn, pastor of St. John's church, and Revs. Frs. Sullivan, Shaughnessey and McInnis will be the guests of the evening. Mrs. Marguerite Norton, president of the alumnae, will preside. Assisting Mrs. Norton in the arrangements for the banquet are the officers of the alumnae—Miss Alice McCann, vice president; Mrs. Alicia McNiff, recording secretary; Miss Theresa McGrath, corresponding secretary; and Miss Katherine Gilroy, treasurer.

A copy of the protest was sent to the Enterprise for publication, and is as follows:

October 9, 1922.

Chairman Peabody Board of Health,
Peabody, Mass.

My dear Mr. Chairman:

Mr. William E. Sheen has conferred with me in regard to the proposed location of the slaughter house near Lowell street in West Peabody, which matter I understand that you now have before you for consideration.

Mr. Sheen fully appreciates the importance of the arguments urged by the promoters in favor of the establishment somewhere of such a slaughter house, though he realizes that the gentlemen interested in this, as in practically every other business proposition, are primarily prompted by hope for private gain; but if the plan (which these gentlemen are urging for a hope for profit) is of such paramount public importance, it hardly seems fair that Mr. Sheen and a very few others living near should bear all the burdens of something that is claimed will benefit so many of the city. Some consideration should be given to equalizing the burdens of such a plan, and if the benefits can be obtained without putting the costs on a few, this would be done.

He further stated that it is not his purpose to oppose anything that might make it a little easier to meet the high cost of living, if such be the case as claimed, but that such result can just as well be accomplished by locating the slaughter house elsewhere. In other words, another place, practically as advantageous to the promoters and the people of the city, can be found without the inconveniences and hardships to anyone such as those which he and others will necessarily have to suffer if the proposed site is selected. He justly feels that the contemplated location would seriously interfere with the quiet enjoyment of his home and also depreciate the value of his property. The best and most productive years of his life have been spent in acquiring and building this home, and he cannot be blamed if he objects to having the product of those years destroyed by the establishment of this slaughter house.

The statement has been made that only one person is known to oppose the present plan, but I am reliably informed that there are more, and that some who signed the petition did so without being fully advised, and further that at least one such person has requested his signature be withdrawn.

The interests of the residents of West Peabody in the matter are neither equal nor alike, so in determining the wishes of these residents there are several and varied interests which should be considered. One whose property adjoins and who lives near has far more at stake than one who perhaps owns no property, or if he does, is too far away to suffer any conveniences or hardships. In other words, this is a matter that cannot be decided fairly by simply a show of hands. Some inquiry should be made as to whose hands these are and what their interests are, and it would seem that such an inquiry cannot properly be made before a public hearing has been had.

I assume that on such an important matter you will give those so vitally interested an opportunity to appear before you to state their views. Mr. Sheen is particularly anxious to be present at such a hearing, and I understand that there are others.

May I, in behalf of Mr. Sheen, request that a notice be given of such a public hearing in order to give all interested a reasonable chance to be heard.

Very truly yours,
ATTY. CLAUDE B. CROSS.

PERSONALS

Senator Frederick Butler of Lawrence, Republican nominee for congress, conferred last night with the Republican City committee, outlining a campaign in his behalf in this city.

A daughter was born this week to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Young of Hampton, N. H. Mrs. Young is the daughter of Elbridge G. Kelley of this city.

Harold Chapman of Cincinnati paid a flying visit to relatives in Peabody this week while on a business trip east.

Mr. and Mrs. James McQueeny of Fountain st. are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a baby boy born last Sunday.

Albert P. Ames has purchased a Ford sedan.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bodge have returned from a two-weeks vacation.

CITY HALL NOTES

The state law requires 40 evening sessions of night school as the minimum and Peabody will have that number starting in January unless the school committee make other arrangements at its next meeting this month. The city of Fitchburg has postponed its evening schools until after Jan. 1, owing to low finances of the department for the balance of the fiscal year. Fitchburg is twice the size of Peabody.

* * *

School Committeeman Rev. Robert A. Bakeman can't make political ammunition out of the delay in opening evening schools not with a bankrupt city on our hands.

* * *

The business before the school committee last Tuesday evening could have been transacted in 20 minutes. Instead it took nearly two hours. There seemed to be a needless amount of debate, some of which showed painful ignorance on the subject matter.

* * *

If the taxpayers are to pay the cost of the new fence at the stadium, then Rev. Mr. Bakeman is right when he said bids should have been asked in the way to conform with the charter. The cost of the fence, $4700, will be borne from the receipts at the games and sale of tickets and the city will not be called on to pay a red cent.

* * *

Passing the buck has become the custom in city politics. The pol who stands in his own boots looks good to the majority of voters. We have had many examples of it in the past, and such men were elected year after year in spite of the prediction that a certain few would get them.

* * *

Another holiday this week, the last until Thanksgiving. Then comes Christmas and the presents, perhaps from the voters. There will be many consolation presents, perhaps.

* * *

There are many young men aspiring for positions in the Council. It is regretted that those with more experience would not run for these offices. "Old men for council, young men for war" means much if not taken literally.

* * *

Councillor Barnes returning from a trip to the Commodore Club in search of big game, reports results. He brought photos back showing lions, bears and other small animals going to their death by the unerring aim of the sportsmen. But for the forest fires many more would have succumbed. All gained 10 pounds or more, which proves that wild meat has the call.

* * *

That baseball team in City Hall won all their games. Why not try out football, for there are several good kickers.

Had Sawyer is a busy man these days caring for weights of coal and wood together with his own work. There appears to be no limit of the sealer of weights and measures duties. The city gets the benefit.

There is something doing along the line of politics, the several candidates getting in quiet work for their cause. There was a rumor of another candidate appearing in the field for mayor. One must not believe all the stories which will appear from now on. The truth will be stretched without doubt.

* * *

Taxes are coming in as in former years, even with the high rate. About the only consolation is the fact other cities and towns are in the same class. Next year should tell a different story.

CITY COUNCIL

direction of the City Engineer. Councillors Cullen and Jones believed the city should co-operate with the petitioner.

The Council voted to abate the poll taxes as usual to the members of the fire department. Councillor Craig voted against it on the ground that it was small chips. The custom was in vogue before the permanent firemen were added to the salary list.

Councillors Barnes and Poor were absent from the meeting.

When the question of the Bagley land purchase came up Councillor McKeen took a fling at the school board, charging them with having no right to go ahead and construct a fence at the stadium until the Council had viewed the premises and appropriated money.

The fence is nearly completed and as a result of its being up last Saturday the sum of $400 was turned into the treasury to be applied to the cost of the fence The school board is confident of defraying the whole cost of the fence and so there probably will be no need of the Council to worry

The Council voted to renumber Walnut street.

PATRICK WALLACE

The funeral of Patrick Wallace, who passed away Tuesday evening after a long and painful illness, was held this morning from his late home, 16 Clarendon road, followed by high mass of requiem at St. John's church at 9 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, and the profusion of beautiful floral pieces and the many spiritual bouquets attested the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Explain Ballot To Parent-Teachers

At the meeting of the Mother-Teacher Association of the South school held last Wednesday evening, (at the South school) Miss Julia Callahan, one of the state directors of the Massachusetts Parent-Teacher Association, gave an interesting account of the Parent-Teacher Association connected with the Lincoln school, Lynn, of which Miss Callahan is principal, and she offered many helpful suggestions

Those present were also grateful to Mrs Rosa Sturgeon, who gave a very clear explanation of the five referendums which are to appear on the ballot at the state election on Tuesday, Nov. 7.

As these referendums will be printed on the ballot, they will be understood by only those who have studied civic affairs closely and every voter needs to be enlightened concerning their meaning before going to the polls.

At the close, Miss Wilma Mattiesen, a former pupil of the South school, entertained with mandolin selections.

Next Tuesday afternoon, Miss Alice J. Bunce, Essex County home demonstration agent, will speak on "The Lunch Box." This meeting, under the auspices of the Mother-Teacher Association, is to be at the home of Mrs. Robert A. Bakeman, 12 Maple street, at 2 o'clock, and all women who are interested in this subject will be very welcome.

MRS. ANN NOONAN

Mrs. Ann M., widow of the late Hugh Noonan, and a resident of Peabody for more than 50 years, died at an early hour today at her home, 44 Franklin street. She was a woman beloved by a large circle of friends and her bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community. She leaves three daughters, Misses Bridget F., Margaret M. and Katherine A., the latter the well-known nurse, and four sons, John J., Michael H., Patrick M. and William F., all of this city, and nine grandchildren. Funeral Sunday at 1.30 at St. John's church.

Joseph Clothey of the A. C. L. accounting office is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

Charleston Will Bring 30 Men In Squad For November 4 Game

By Anthony J. McKevlin

Charleston, S. C., October 20.—The chances of a large delegation making the trip to Peabody loomed brighter with the announcement that one may make the round trip for $95. This also includes pullman and dining car service. This arrangement, of course, only holds good provided 125 persons make the trip, which is the number necessary in order that a special train may be chartered.

The trip will be made over the Atlantic Coast Line, and the schedule of the trip, as now arranged, will give the Charlestonians Thursday night, Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the Tannery town. The schedule is as follows:

Leave Charleston Wednesday, Nov. 1, at 4.30 p. m.; arrive Washington, Thursday, Nov. 2, at 7 a. m.

Leave Washington Thursday, Nov. 2, at 8.30 a. m.; arrive Boston, Thursday, Nov. 2, at 8.15 p. m.

Leave Boston Thursday, Nov. 2, at 8.45 p. m.; arrive Peabody, Thursday, Nov. 2, at 9.30 p. m.

Returning: Leave Peabody, Sunday, Nov. 5, at 11 p. m.; arrive Boston, Sunday, Nov. 5, at 11.45 p. m.

Leave Boston, Monday, Nov. 6, at 12.30 a. m.; arrive New York, Monday, Nov. 6, at 6 a. m.

Leave New York, Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 12.30 a. m.; arrive Washington, Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 6.25 a. m.

Leave Washington, Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 6 a. m.; arrive Charleston, Wednesday, Nov. 8, at 8 a. m.

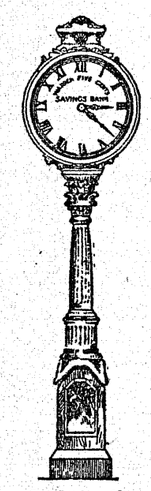
Peabody Boy Aids Greeks Flee Smyrna

Thomas Edward McDonald, a Peabody boy, was an eye-witness to the horrors in Smyrna when the Turkish army recently ravaged the city. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick H. McDonald of 5 Nichols lane, and has been in the army for the past six years. He is chief machinist mate on board the U. S. S. Edsall, now in Greek waters. In a letter received this week he described some of the heartrending scenes and rescue work. His letter:

U. S. S. Edsall No. 219,
Smyrna, Turkey,
Sept. 25, 1922.

Dear Ma and Pa:

Just a few lines in answer to your letter and I was certainly glad to hear that all are well.



Well, no doubt you have read all about the Turks' victory over the Greeks here in Smyrna and also I suppose of the slaughter and burning of the inhabitants. It was certainly a horrible sight here after the Turks came, as most of the inhabitants here are Greeks and Armenians, and of course both being Christians the Turks do not like them. The city had a population of about 250,000 and half of the city is now in ruins.

It was a beautiful city before the fire but now it looks worse than Salem during her fire. The refugees here are without aid and are slowly starving to death. The American, English, French and Italians are doing all they can, but it is little to the number of people here. There are boats taking the people out and already there are 90000 on one island and about 150 miles from here. We took about 790 refugees to Salonica,

PEABODY CONFIDENT OF WHIPPING SALEM IN GRIDIRON GAME

Peabody's high school stadium is all set for the big gridiron battle tomorrow with Salem high and a record crowd of nearly 10,000 fans is likely to be counted. Coach Edward Brawley has his Tanners on edge for the big fray and a blood game is anticipated from the signal which will send the game on its way.

Work on erecting the temporary bleachers is being pushed along today and there will be plenty of room for what is believed will be the biggest football crowd ever to witness a local match.

Salem hasn't defeated Peabody in football for so long that the Witch City aggregation have put their best effort into their work this season with the one object, that of administering a severe punishment to the Peabody eleven, and their players will come here with everything at stake. That they will be met by the same spirit of do or die goes without saying, and the local fans are confident that the Brawley team will come out the victors.

A band concert on Peabody square will precede the game at 1.30. The new cheering section under the leadership of Duck Hennessey will pull off some novel stunts and there should be plenty of pep all through the game. Play will be called at 3..

Coach Brawley will probably start the following line-up: Coan and Sweeney, ends; Kilderry and Capt. Gavigan, tackles; J. Murphy and Thibodeau, guards; S. Beres, center; Buckley, quarterback; Maguire and Pappas, halfbacks; Luz, fullback.

Salem's line-up will include: Deschamps and Jennings, ends; Connors and Wyman, tackles; Durkin, center; Belanger, quarterback; Gorman and Chaurette, halfbacks; Ulrich, fullback.

Rev. Mr. Reid Says Churches For Censorship

To the Editor of the Peabody Enterprise:

Dear Sir:

The articles which have appeared recently in the Enterprise on the subject of the proposed state regulation of motion picture films have been so one-sided and so misleading that it is time that an emphatic protest was registered and something said of the real situation.

One would judge for example from the article which appeared prominently on your editorial page in last week's issue that the people responsible for this proposed legislation were either Bolshevik or Czarist reactionaries. What else does this sentence mean, "Today there are those among us who would revert to the Russian system?" Who are these people?

The people who are urging state regulation of motion picture films are the representatives of every church, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish.

...ge of Beavers ... National Officer ... Henry Hay 1st Master

...dge of Beavers, the ... this new benefit order ...chusetts, has had a signal ... paid its degree team by ...supreme secretary, R. F. Webber of Philadelphia, who recently witnessed the work of the team in this city. His story of Peabody's lodge was printed in the national magazine of the order and is reproduced in this article because of its tribute to the efforts of the local Beavers.

In Henry H. Hay, formerly Master Beaver of the local lodge, Peabody has its only citizen who represents Peabody on the national board of any fraternal organization. He is supreme junior constructor and bids fair to be the next supreme constructor. The headquarters of the organization are in Philadelphia. A new lodge is soon to be instituted in Dorchester which will give this state its second lodge of Beavers.

HENRY H. HAY

There are 200 members now within the fold of the local lodge which has opened its charter for a new drive for members. The lodge meetings each week in Red Men's hall on Foster street. The Beavers were organized two years ago in this city.

Supreme Secretary Webster extolled the Peabody degree team and lodge in the following article:

Supreme Secretary's Visit to Peabody Lodge, No. 73

It is quite a far cry from Philadelphia to Massachusetts and the distance unfortunately makes official visits infrequent, but this, my third visit to Peabody, Mass., was, like others, an outstanding event in my fraternal history.

My previous visit was exactly fifteen months before to a day. At that time I told the readers of The Beaver Magazine that Peabody was our "livest" and most up-to-date lodge.

They used no ritual then. All the officers had their parts memorized. This is still the situation, although on this occasion I did see one ritual handy, in case reference to same should be necessary.

I will say, in passing, that my reception was most cordial. This was prior to the opening of the lodge session.

The meeting itself was snappy from the first rap of the Master Beaver's gavel.

Peabody's Degree Work

When the order of business of initiation was reached, the regular officers vacated their stations for the degree team. This consisted of four chair officers, a guard of twelve members, with two other brothers playing violin and piano.

The degree team lined up in military order, first by fours, then in single file, and executed an intricate march to music, amid applause on retiring to "robe."

The candidate was meanwhile supplied with a special suit over his regular clothing.

Soon the degree team was back, and each member was now busy placing the various fixtures necessary for "the Beaver trail," which the candidate had to travel to reach the Master Beaver. I cannot tell everything I saw, even in the Magazine; that would hardly be proper, but there was brushwood to press through, crevices to jump over, inclines to climb and even a tunnel to creep through.

The Candidate was Game

Brother Flynn, the candidate, was certainly fearless and unconcerned until he reached the tunnel. He started in slowly, but midway through his speed accelerated, when he encountered first a (stuffed) beaver then a "live" turtle (fact). Remember, he was blindfolded.

I wish I might tell you more. However, the candidate survived the ordeal. It was highly instructive and amusing.

The degree team now performed some further military movements in perfect formation and retired to disrobe before the candidate was given the closing lessons of the initiatory work.

Now for the benefit of all other lodges, I have this to say: Here is a lodge practically isolated, with no Beaver lodge within a hundred miles of them, although we hope to remedy this soon; yet no other lodge in the Order has shown the practical interest shown by the brothers of Peabody. That is a real lodge.

The degree team was organized last winter and has held together. Its work must have required constant practice. No doubt the fellows got much enjoyment from the practices but I know the "audience" certainly enjoyed seeing the result of the practice.

The uniforms were simple, yet effective. There was quite a good bit of paraphernalia, all homemade, and altogether the performance was such as to increase interest in the lodge meetings. I know other lodges that have "talked" of having degree teams. In most cases they have more members to select from; but Peabody followed talk by action.

My great regret is that Peabody is so far away from Pennsylvania. It would be worth all it would cost to get that team here to visit the Philadelphia and other lodges.

Several interesting talks were made under the good of the Order, followed by an excellent repast of clam chowder and other "goodies."

My personal hope is that that meeting will be as great an inspiration to others present as it was to

Yours fraternally,

R. F. WEBSTER.

The members of the Peabody lodge degree team: Master Beaver, Harry H. Hay; Senior Constructor, Kenneth McKinnon; Advocate, J. Kyle; Junior Constructor, Frank Langdell; Ceremonial Guide, Joseph Sabean; Assistant Ceremonial Guide, H. Sabean; Sentinel, William Cook; Captain of the Guards, Thomas Mansell; Guards, Joseph Foster, F. D'Entremont, Thomas Hallihan, George Brooks, Charles Stack, E. Funchion, William Twiss and George Hockenhull. The music for the ceremony is furnished by John H. Thomas, Edward C. Spence and John Connors. The degree team was drilled and perfected by Alfred Balknaves who arranged the stage settings in a most artistic manner.

The lodge officers are: Master Beaver, Kenneth McKinnon; Senior Constructor, Frank Langdell; Junior Constructor, Thomas Mansell; Recording Secretary, John H. Thomas; Financial Secretary, Roger A. Goodwin; Treasurer, Leland Page; Ceremonial Guide, Joseph Sabean, Inside Guard, William Cook; Sentinel, John Foster.

Roxbury Team Here Sunday To Meet Tanners

The Roxbury Cardinals will oppose the Town Football team at the high school grounds next Sunday afternoon. The Roxbury team is one of the most successful in the state, having played a scoreless tie against the St. Alphonsus A. A., which beat the Revere Elks last Sunday. If Peabody can put over a win against this aggregation, it will entitle them to claim a right to meet any team in the state for the championship.

An innovation which will please the fans is the numbering of the players. Each man will have his own number and they will be listed on the tags. The local players are all in good shape and have been out for practice several nights this week.

The attendance last Sunday proved to the management that Sunday football is wanted. Peabody has received offers from the Pere Marquette Council, K. of C., to play at their grounds and from several other teams of similar character, including the Providence Steam Rollers. However, the local management intends to make them come here and play in Peabody, so that the fans will have a chance to see the games.

MOZART LADIES' QUARTET

The Mozart Ladies' Quartet of Boston will present a musical program at the evening service at the Methodist church next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Ancient Greeks Took Gymnastics.

In every Greek city was established a gymnasium where crowds of young men exercised themselves naked. This institution was originally intended for those only who were in training for the Olympic games, but afterward it became part of the daily life. The Greeks went to the gymnasium with the same regularity as the Romans went to the bath.—Winwood Reade in "The Martyrdom of Man."

The Friendly Path

By WALTER I. ROBINSON

OTHER FELLOW'S JOB

DON'T covet the other fellow's job.

One of the weaknesses of humanity frequently seems to be dissatisfaction with the work men and women are called upon to perform. Time and again we hear complaints concerning the duties devolving upon individuals. From the wail that goes up one would imagine that the world would be a happy, contented place if nearly everyone could swap his job with someone else.

Every job seems attractive to some person who is engaged in some other job. No matter how poor or rich men and women may be, they frequently are dissatisfied and covet the privilege of treading the pathways which others walk.

This is pure folly and not only causes continuous unhappiness and discontent, but keeps men and women from winning material success in the important work to which they devote their time.

Unfortunately men often imagine women have easy tasks and women covet the jobs of men. This is one of the chief causes of domestic discord and often leads to the divorce courts.

In this connection we recently heard an interesting yarn. A woman orator, who was decrying the hard life of the fair sex, demanded what her audience knew of women's work. She asked if there was a man present who had "day after day gone quietly downstairs, made the fire, cooked his own breakfast, sewed missing buttons on children's clothes, cleaned the pots and kettles and swept the kitchen." In the rear of the hall a timid, spectacled man arose bashfully and yet with a twinkle in his eye. He was the husband of the orator and had never before had a chance to assert himself.

This parable—for such we suppose it is—drives home two valuable lessons. First, it teaches that very often those who complain the loudest often are little hurt; second, that no one can judge the desirability of others' jobs.

One's tasks are pleasant or distasteful to the extent he would make them such.

Many Needed to Save State.

To be a voice outside the state, speaking to mankind or to the future, perhaps shaking the actual state to pieces in doing so, one man will suffice. But to reform the state in order to save it, to preserve it by changing it, a body of workers is needed as well as a leader—a considerable body of workers, placed at many points, and operating in many directions.—Matthew Arnold.

Alice Cram Is Aspirant For State Auditor

Declaring that unless women unite on candidates of their sex, they can never expect to have representation, Alice E. Cram, candidate for state auditor, sounded the key-note of her campaign in several Boston clubs before starting on her state-wide trip opening Monday at Westfield.

In her addresses throughout the state, Mrs. Cram will charge that her fight is, in reality, to be a test of the strength of the women's vote. She will charge that men are seeking to exploit the women's vote and keep it split by enhancing the importance of party lines, and that unless women use their own discretion they will be relegated into stations that will be of no benefit to their sex. This, she says, will militate against their putting into effect the reform so needed in the economic field of women's endeavor.

Mrs. Alice E. Cram was born in Boston May 16, 1861; educated in the Boston public schools, graduating from the Girls' high school. Married in 1885 to D. Henry Cram, a railroad contractor, direct descendant of one of New England's earliest settlers, i. e., his American ancestry dating back to 1635. After the death of her first and only child, Mrs. Cram found solace in the exacting and tremendous work of her husband's office. In but a short time what concentration and energy she expended as a means of forgetting her sorrow, opened the road for her future success, and her fame as the pioneer woman contractor of America.

You know there's a Glenwood in the cellar

So much depends on proper heating in a modern home. A poor heating system leaves chilly corners in one room and hot, stagnant air in the next. But in a house that has a Glenwood in the cellar you will notice a difference almost as soon as you are inside the front door.

The modern Glenwood is the Single-Pipe Heating System. From its one big radiator it keeps a steady flow of warm air circulating through the house. It does not heat the cellar, which is a great advantage in country homes where a cool cellar is essential for the storage of fruit and vegetables. You can burn any kind of fuel in this modern heater — wood, coal, soft coal, coke and even rubbish.

The feed doors are wide enough to admit large logs, and the new wood grate will keep them burning night and day as steadily as a coal fire.

The low cost of a Glenwood Single-Pipe Heating System will surprise you. We shall be glad to have you come in and ask us for particulars. We can save fuel for you this winter.

Pipe models of this same furnace may be had in several sizes for coal or wood.

FIRST WOMAN SENATOR

Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Cartersville, Ga. the first woman U. S. Senator, who was appointed this week to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Senator T. E. Watson of Georgia. She is 87 years of age, but very active for a woman of those years.

West Peabody

The candidacy of Cyrus W. Tenney for Councillor at Large will have the solid backing of West Peabody voters many of whom are working in his behalf among the voters of the city. As president of the Young Men's Club in this district he has been instrumental in furnishing West Peabody with a good ball team and has materially assisted in getting improved playgrounds. Tenney formerly resided near Perkins Park and numbers many friends. West Peabody believes it should have a representative in the City Council.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Raymond and son Kendall of Gardner street, Peabody, are spending two weeks with Mrs. Raymond's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Durkee on Goodale street.

Mrs. Richard Stocker spent Tuesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Moulton in Swampscott.

B. P. Danforth is enjoying a two weeks' vacation at his home on Lowell street. He is expected to return today from Duxbury, where he has been spending a few days.

Willard Tenney of Newbury street spent the week-end touring the White Mountains.

Mrs. George Sargent of Merrimac and Mrs. Fred Parker of Merrimacport spent Wednesday with Mrs. E. N. Snow of Lowell street.

A meeting of the Chebacco Pomona Grange No. 26 was held Wednesday in the West school hall. A talk on the "History of the Grange" was given by Worthy Lady Assistant Steward of Massachusetts State Grange, Mrs. Margaret A. Saire. Current Events were given by Brother George W. Taylor and Sister Lulu A. Preston. At 7.30 a lecture on "Some of Our Feathered Friends" was given by Joseph N. Dummer.

The date of the fair to be given by the Ladies' Aid has been changed to Tuesday, October 24.

Chester Raymond featured the Young Men's Association gun shoot last week when he scored a 17 out of a possible 25, accomplishing the record on his first attempt to hit the bullseye, Ernest Leach 7, Walter White 4, M. Fiendle 10.

The Christian Endeavor will meet Sunday evening, October 27, at 6.30. Subject, "Reverence and Worship." Leader, Mrs. Roy Condon. There was a large attendance last week. Let's keep it up.

There will be a dance and whist party in schoolhouse hall tomorrow evening at 8, under the auspices of the Boys' Social Club.

BAND TAGS

High school students have been on the streets this week selling band tags for the big Salem-Peabody game here tomorrow at the stadium. When it was announced that the Witch City warriors would enter Peabody behind a band the local leaders determined to compete and hired a band. To bear the expense of the musical program the tags were ordered and the public has loyally supported the movement.

MANCHESTER UNITY

General Sutton Lodge, I. O. O. F., Manchester Unity, will hold a roll call meeting on Monday evening and every member is requested to be present. The lodge will be represented in Lynn early in December when the initiatory degree will be put on by the crack New Bedford degree team.

Mrs. Della Schofield of 304 Essex street, Salem, who numbers many Peabody friends, is engaged as a trained nurse in South Boston.

HUNTERS TAK... TODAY FOR P...

At sunrise today the law "went off" on most game birds and animals, and large numbers of gunners from this vicinity were out at daybreak in hopes of bringing back a pheasant or two, or perhaps a quail, partridge or rabbit.

The season on ruffed grouse, partridge, pheasants (male only), and gray squirrels is for one month only. The season has been open on ducks, geese and barn since Cept. 16, and will continue until December 31. It will be lawful to shoot hares and rabbits until February 28. So it will be seen there is plenty of sport in store for the lover of hunting, and it is said there is plenty of game within a very short distance of Peabody.

There are certain restrictions imposed by the Fish and Game Commissioners which the hunter must observe. These restrictions refer principally to the ... may be taken in a... example: But three... partridge may be ta... or 15 in the season; fou... taken in one day, or 2... season; but two pheasant... taken in a day or six in the ... each hunter, and he must rep... killings within 24 hours to the ... and Game Commissioners. He ... also shoot only the male pheasant, f... there is no open season on the female pheasant. The daily bag limit on rabbits is five, and the same number is effective on gray squirrels, though there is a season limit of 15 on the latter animal.

A license must be carried by the huntsman, which costs $1.50 for a resident citizen and $2 for a non-resident citizen; the license may be obtained from the city clerk.

Popular House Peters Star In Mammoth "Storm" Film

"The Storm," which has won widespread commendation as one of the outstanding film spectacles of the year, will be the special feature the Strand will offer for today and Saturday. An all-star cast headed by House Peters, makes the screen version of this world famous play an artistic triumph which holds the spectator spellbound. Virginia Valli and Matt Moore play the chief supporting roles. In fact, this stellar trio carry the burden of the majority of the scenes.

TOM MEIGHAN

A column or more could be written about the storm and fire scenes of this production. Imagine two men, deadly enemies, and the girl both men love, trapped in a mountain pass with the woods on all sides a roaring furnace, a flaming death trap. Could any more vital test be planned to prove the mettle of each man, to show which was the real man, and which was the coward. So realistic is the scene that one can almost feel the sizzling heat.

Matt Moore's interpretation of the tricky, sly and cowardly English lawyer is an admirable foil for the simple honesty and courageousness of House Peter's character of woodsman and hero. After seeing the picture the spectator ceases to be surprised that attendance records have been broken where ever it has been shown. It is one of the most thoroughly satisfying pictures ever screened and is the type of photoplay that will appeal to all classes of people. A Christie comedy and Harry Myers in "Robinson Crusoe" will be the other attractions on the bill for today.

Norma Talmadge in "The Forbidden City" will head the double feature bill for Sunday evening. "The Journey's End," with Wyndham Standing and Mabel Ballin starred, will be the second picture for Sunday night. "The Journey's End" is unique because it is the first full length feature ever made without the use of a single subtitle.

"Manslaughter," Cecil B. DeMille's new super-feature with Thomas Meighan, Leatrice Joy and a host of Paramount favorites will be the extraordinary attraction for next Monday and Tuesday. "Manslaughter" carries with it more local interest than the ordinary run of pictures, owing to the fact that Miss Leatrice Joy, one of its principals, is at present in Salem making a picture. Aside from this fact, however, "Manslaughter" is the biggest picture to be released by the Paramount company this year.

It tells the story of a young district attorney who is in love with the leader of the social set in a big city. The girl living in luxury, accustomed to having her own way in everything, refuses to stop when hailed by a traffic cop and in the ensuing chase accidently kills the officer. The district attorney convicts her of manslaughter and she is sent to jail. This bare outline does not do the story justice, but nearly every one knows that it was one of the most popular serials of the Saturday Evening Post. "Manslaughter" will be shown for two days only and if it draws in Peabody as it has in other cities the tip to start early is in order.

PERSONALS

George E. Hayes has been confined to his home on Sutton street this week with a threatened attack of pneumonia.

Frank W. Pickering of the Charlotte Fairfield Coal Co. and Arthur Crandall of Beverly, both well known in Peabody motored to Providence last Sunday.

The many friends of Miss Loretto Thomas of Washington street will be pleased to know that she is convalescing from blood poisoning after being confined to her home for the past eight weeks.

Harry Hayes of the Hershey Manufacturing Co. of South Boston won the F. C. B. P. watch drawn last week.

Censorship Not Practical

The censor in a certain state ordered eliminated from a biblical film practically the entire episode of Cain and Abel, apparently on the grounds that it incited to "violence" or "crime." This is absurd but not uncommon in censorship rulings. The censor, merely an average individual immersed in the details of office, loses his perspective.

State censorship of motion pictures has not proved practical, but it has shown itself to be dangerous. First censorship of dramatic films, then news reels and recently censorship of political thought are steps that have already been taken in some states. In this stealthy encroachment the press is but another step. From unsuspected beginnings we find the door to political and religious intolerance opened and the door to freedom of thought closed.

In Referendum Question No. 3 a serious principle is at stake. The voter in the coming election should bear this in mind. He who desires to see our fundamental liberties preserved will vote NO on this question, secure in the knowledge that in Mr. Hays' capable hands has been left the completion of a purpose, already in the way of accomplishment, Better Movies.

...CENSORSHIP

...pulpit in the South church ...y Rev. John Reid, the pas- ...cised the press and the En- ... specifically for their expres- ... in opposition to a censorship ... moving pictures in this state. The ...itor and twin sons were present, as generally. We grant the privilege of a difference of opinion on this great subject, and we respect the reverend gentleman's opinion as being sincere. If immoral and indecent pictures are to be shown despite the protest of the present censors both in state and municipal employ, the Enterprise in common with the clean newspapers of this state will gladly open their columns to a demand that the movie film business be banished. Obviously, no decent newspaper countenances immoral films and the files of the Peabody Enterprise in its ten years of existence in this city will produce ample proof that we have always endeavored to keep our editorial and news columns free from matter which could possibly be offensive to any of our readers and we have in mind the mothers and children when we say this. The "electrotype" editorial quoted in part by Rev. Mr. Reid in his criticism of the Enterprise is reproduced on this page again this week, because it expresses our views and because we have faith in Will Hays, former Postmaster General, a deacon in his home church and now zealously at work to purge the movie business of indecent and immoral matter. Where history of moving pictures has recorded the instance of a so-called objectionable film, hundreds of educational and entertaining pictures have helped to interest and amuse the great American public. The Enterprise has the same faith in Will Hays that hundreds of editors have in his ability to improve the pictures both in tone and quality, and he should be given this opportunity with the support of every clean thinking individual until such time as his efforts prove futile and the films become general in evil influence. Because one bad film slips by is no reason why the whole business must be held as a sinister influence on the millions of persons who make the production of films the mammoth industry it is today in America. President Harding, Secretary Hughes and other cabinet officials are opposed to censorship by law for the pictures. The movies are not perfect, but the Enterprise in common with other newspapers, sincerely believes that an honest effort is being successfully made to improve the tone of all films. We believe emphatically in the concluding paragraph of the referred to electrotype (there was no effort to conceal its being different from our type used in our editorial column) in that the people who patronize the movies can be depended on to protest off color films and continue to applaud and support perfectly moral pictures. Our only criticism of Rev. Mr. Reid's caustic criticism of "the local paper" was that he failed to quote this concluding paragraph which epitomizes the position of the Peabody Enterprise on the proposed censorship for moving pictures. Will Hays is a moral man and a Christian gentleman and we believe with him at the helm the future course of the movies will be constant in the successful effort to kill the bad pictures and amplify the service the movies can give as a force for good in this country.

DANGERS OF CENSORSHIP

Prohibition of thought, in the form of censorship, has worked immeasurable harm to many a great nation. Russia and Germany are conspicuous examples.

The American people, in the past, have possessed a very full liberty of thought and action. Nor has the trust been misplaced. America owes much of her greatness to this very fact.

Today there are amongst us those who would revert to the Russian system; who state that a group or individual may better judge what is best for the people; who assert that morals can be improved through restrictive legislation, common experience to the contrary.

Censorship is dangerous business. Though it may not at first appear so, it is but a short easy step from censorship of moving pictures to censorship of press, pulpit and political thought. We should have none of it. We should zealously guard our inalienable right to think for ourselves.

In voting on the proposed motion picture censorship, in the November election, Massachusetts voters should bear these facts in mind. Rather than censorship, Mr. Hays should be given fair opportunity to work out his avowed purpose of insuring better films by co-operation between producer, exhibitor and the public.

Voters who desire to go on record against censorship will vote NO to Question No. 3 of the Referendum.

TAXES VERSUS VOTING

When people receive tax bills, only then do they realize that those in power at City Hall have made the rate possible. Peabody with a $36.00 tax rate brings to the minds of the tax ...ers that this rate was made pos- ...ble by excessive spending of money. Many citizens and towns have high rates with little to show why they have climbed so high. Peabody with its many miles of good roads, two new school houses, surely has been given a run for the money expended. A reduction must come soon in our tax rate, and we confidently predict that next year the rate will be materially decreased. The fall election will soon be here. If the tax payers would pay more attention to electing men qualified for the offices they seek instead of voting for the good fellows, when the time came to receive their tax bills there would be less cause for complaint. Plan B, under which Peabody works, has plenty of "teeth" to curb extravagance. The Mayor cannot push through appropriations without the consent of the council, therefore if extravagance appears to exist in the budget the councillors have the power to check it. That they have not done so in many instances in the past does not mean with a council of the right calibre it cannot be done in the future. Therefore it behooves the voters at the coming municipal election to elect candidates who openly stand for retrenchment and by doing so tax bills will show a reduction.

THE CHARLESTON GAME

On November fourth the football game between Charleston S. C. High and Peabody High takes place. We have a stadium and accommodations for 10,000 fans who will attend this game and the setting will be perfect. With a new coach, new stadium, Peabody football enthusiasts will be treated to conditions which have never been offered before. It is the beginning of an era which places the local boys on the plane of larger cities and gives them the spirit which those conditions only can give them. That the space of the stadium will be taxed to the limit goes without saying. With pleasant weather November fourth will be the banner day of football, a day the players and spectators will look back to as being the commencement of football on a basis where all give their mite to make it a financial success. Other games there this year will interest, but all quail into insignificance as compared to the Charleston game when we welcome our friends from the South.

ROUND ABOUT

This week there has been at least two cases where drivers of autos have been hailed into court for breaking the traffic rules. The complaints were made by citizens and both offenders were fined. If the news is spread of what is happening in Peabody, as it will be, others who have taken little notice of these regulations will have an eye out.

The coal dealers inform us that hard coal is coming into the city slowly. It is evident those without coal will get it in small lots and there will be little suffering from any shortage because of the coal strike.

Registration closed Wednesday night for the state election. There will be more meetings of the registrars for the city election which follows.

The Danvers Bleachery is fast completing the big improvements planned. The power plant is the last word in electricity, and oil burning is another innovation which will be watched with interest. Many old machines which have been in service many years have been replaced by new ones, and with these improvements the plant will be modernized to a large extent. The taxable value will add to the city treasury a sum in the hundred thousands in valuation.

Added objection to the location of the abattoir creates a doubt as to building on the spot planned. There must be other locations in West Peabody available, for Peabody needs the industry. Get together gentlemen and find the proper place, provided the one planned is objected to.

Some farmers are complaining of poor crops and poor prices which are prevailing in the markets. There are squashes galore and in fact many farmers report big crops. It appears to us some farmers have better luck or whatever it may be called, than others. That crop of squashes raised at the Reynolds farm is a sight worth seeing.

Hyman Isenburg, who has occupied the store at 26 Main street for many years, will occupy the store formerly used by the E. E. Gray Co. The Gray Co. have an attractive store in the Whidden block.

The game with Salem Saturday will be a blood game, but we hope not literally. It seems some of the Salem school committee want to bring their own referee, but Lewis was chosen and is acknowledged as being the best, so why change? Evidently a nigger in the woodpile. Peabody officials stand firm for Lewis and Salm should in all fairness.

The Palmer Concrete Products Co. have established a plant which will add to Peabody's industries. Concrete bricks are fast coming into use and the possibilities are unlimited.

The Rogers estate is not sold, according to the last reports. There has been at least a dozen prospective purchapters, most of whom would plan to cut the property into house lots, but it is a pity to do so. However, progress cares for no man.

Charley Caden, the new president of the Veteran Fireman's Association, will fill the bill. He has the push and enthusiasm and this organization will be felt in future musters. The rivalry between Marblehead, Salem and Peabody will keep things moving.

The annual minstrel show of the Father Mathews will be staged in City Hall as usual on Thanksgiving eve. New talent is promised with the ever good hits of minstrelsy.

The Hamel Leather Co will have a sewer to be paid for by the city another year. Without funds and the law stopping overdrawing appropriations there was seemed nothing left for Engineer Emerson to do but wait. The concern should be assisted in every way possible by the city.

The investment committee of one of our local banking institutions figured in this amusing incident one day this week. Their limousine had stopped at their door with the chauffeur in waiting when another limousine drove up with a Salem leather manufacturer as the occupant together with his chauffeur. When the investment committee reached the autos they mistook their car in waiting and their spokesman stepped up to the chauffur of the out-of-town car and gave him instructions where to take the party. A smile went the rounds when the Salem chauffeur allowed a slight mistake had ben made in picking the right limousine.

The night operators at the telephone office occasionally listen in on radio concerts, and the other night they heard one of their best ones announced as from Pittsburg. It was extra good because it was so easily heard and the girls were much pleased. What actually happened was the placing of a phonograph record before the transmitter of the telephone, for the radio operator was called into action satisfying an eager customer.

The Peabody Rubber Co. has an unusually attractive "hunting" window at its store on Walnut street with a handsome pheasant mounted with a background of foliage and the army of hunters' equipment. I have heard numerous compliments for John W. Donovan, the proprietor, who has established a fine business in this city. The window should be seen to be best appreciated.

Peabody has two zealous disciples of the radio in Eben Upton and Thomas H. Green, both well-known citizens. Each has a high-powered radio set in his home and has long since become an ardent advocate of the entertaining qualities of the latest electrical craze. I hear many compliments for the service being rendered by Peabody's radio store, of which Everett Wilson is the owner.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for probate, by ELLA H. SMITH, who prays that letters of administration with the will annexed may be issued to her, without giving a surety on her official bond, no executor being named in said will.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Haverhill, in said County of Essex, on the twenty-third day of October, A. D. 1922, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper published in Peabody, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, HARRY R. DOW, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifth day of October, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

On Friday evening, also, from 5.30 to 7, a supper will be served by two committees of the coming fair. All are welcome who have the price.

Next Wednesday, October 25, the church entertains the Essex South Association of Congregational Churches. It is expected that a large gathering from about forty churches will be present for the afternoon and evening sessions. The speakers have a national reputation and Peabody is unusually fortunate in the opportunity to hear these men. A large chorus has been organized under the leadership of Miss Bessie Cleaveland. Those who are interested will be welcome at all services.

Peabody Aid For Near East

Answering the plea to send relief to the thousands of Greeks and Armenians now at the mercy of the Turkish invaders in Smyrna and Thrace, a local committee has been formed to raise funds in this city and also clothing. The contributions have been generous so far and the Greek church on English street has its basement filled with clothing which is to be sent to the refugees.

The committee which has charge of the campaign to secure local assistance is headed by Arthur Papacostas, owner of the Central pharmacy, Prokos P. Kutrubes, treasurer, Rev. K. Kyriakon, Attorney James Liacos, George Sakaliotis, A. Argyros, W. Kosmitis and George Tsaltas.

This committee in co-operation with His Honor Mayor W. A. Shea appeals to the generous hearted citizens of Peabody asking their hearty co-operation and assistance in this very worthy cause. Money donations will be highly appreciated and clothing of any description new or used will also be very acceptable. If those having such donations will kindly call Peabody No. 680, Peabody No. 15 or Peabody No. 776 W., the committee in charge will gladly send a truck to collect. Those making money donations will please make out checks or money orders to C. C. Hills, care of Salem News, or Frank Penniman, care of the Peabody Enterprise, for the Christian Refugee Relief.

HUNT-RANKIN CO. EMPLOYES OPEN BOWLING LEAGUE

The Hunt-Rankin Leather Co. Bowling League opened its season last Wednesday night at the Victor alleys with the Specials, making the highest score. A schedule of 20 weeks will be followed and nearly 40 employes of the big South Peabody plant are enrolled as players. The teams have taken their names from the colors of skins turned out at the plant. Ten of the games will be rolled in Peabody and ten in Salem. Prizes amounting to $100 will be awarded. Here are the opening scores:

It is probable that many of the prominent men in every circle of in Charleston will make the trip with the Bantams to Peabody. It is a team in which the entire city is interested;
a team that has brought gridiron fame to this city; a team which has great things before it; and a team by which Charleston will stick "until death do us part."

Thirty men will be in the squad which Praue intends taking to Peabody. The weather in Charleston now-a-days is far from football weather. There is plenty of sun and plenty of warmth, and quite often rain, the latter only serving to make the ground of an affectionate nature, causing it to stick to the physiognomy of the athletes.

Last Friday the Bantams trimmed Benedictine College (of Savannah, Ga.,) 24 to 0. Teddy Weeks, Boll Weevil Kilpatrick and Abe Youngblood, three of the mainstays, were out of the game suffering with injuries.

All of the regulars are now in shape for action, and preparations are being made for the big game of the local season scheduled for Saturday with Duval high school of Jacksonville, Florida, last year styled "High School Champions of America." To defeat Duval is the ambition of all Charleston. Duval was the only team to conquer the Bantams in 1921, winning in Jacksonville 21 to 3.

The Floridians are much heavier than our athletes, and much more experienced. But it is expected that the Bantam fighting spirit will carry them over.

Last week a drive for funds netted the Bantams a little over $5000 with which to carry on their athletic activities.

No tickets were sold, nor was anything given in turn for the money—it was purely and solely a campaign wherein the giver gave from his heart to help the Bantams, asking nothing in return but that they continue their good work.

The Bantams draw larger crowds even in their games with their "small fry" opposition than the colleges here do in their intercollegiate games. This alone is a sign of the friends the high athletes have.

A picture of John Donahue, last year's football star, appeared in one of the papers last week in a Boston College football uniform. Donahue seems to be making good on this football squad. Principal W. W. Woodman posted the picture on the school bulletin Wednesday.

The high school is trying to get one hundred per cent. membership for the Peabody High School Athletic Association. Many rooms are placed on the one hundred per cent. column, but there are still some rooms which have a few pupils who have not joined the association. To be a member a student is charged but twenty-five cents a year and this enables the member to buy student tickets at the school for football games at one-half the regular price. Although it is positive that the drive will not be a failure, that is that every student will eventually become a member of the P. H. S. A. A., it is causing much work and time, and students who have not already joined should do so at once. This week pins were given to members.

The football squad had no practice last Monday. All this week the high school team has been preparing for the game with Salem tomorrow. They have had secret practice. The gates to the new field were locked and there were few people within the gates.

Tomorrow the high school football team will meet Salem high on the new gridiron, in the rear of the high school. This is considered an important game for both Peabody and Salem, because for many years more rivalry has existed between these two cities than between any other two cities in the state. It seems that the blue is again this year the favorite. Salem will most likely follow Peabody's plan and enter Peabody in a parade led by the Salem Cadet band. A crowd in the vicinity of 7000 will probably attend the game. Tags are being sold to pay for a band to accompany the football squad tomorrow. It would not do for Peabody to be without a band, for Salem, as usual, will be accompanied by one.

The high school cheering squad if not bettered will not show up very well against the crowd of fans who cheer together for the Salem team.

Peabody has many important games to play. Among them the Salem game tomorrow, the game with Charleston, S. C., two weeks from tomorrow, and the Haverhill game at Haverhill on Thanksgiving.

This week home rooms 16, 18 and 26 have been added to the one hundred per cent. list, in the P. H. S. A. A. membership drive.

A class in pose drawing has been started which meets in room 15 the first and third Monday afternoon of each month, from 3 to 4 o'clock.

Peabody Teachers' Association met in the music room Tuesday afternoon. Principal J. Asbury Pitman of Salem Normal school spoke. Refreshments under supervision of Miss Kathryn R. Duggan were served at the close.

The new school library will be open for the use of students Monday.

There was no usual music period last week, there being no school on Thursday.

Little Talks Among Ourselves

BY
CHARLES H. EGLEE

LITTLE HINTS FOR LEATHER HELPERS

These "little hints" are offered with a sincere desire to help those who do not know and others who sometimes forget. Especially the young men and women.

The leather business is one of the leading industries in New England. It began with the earliest settlers. It is necessary, interesting, profitable, steady, dignified and has splendid opportunities for advancement. Get that into your system.

In the leather business it is up to every man (you) to stand for "A Square Deal." To play the game with cards face up on the table; with nothing concealed, no secret commission, no mental reservations. "This is the first and great Commandment."

The policy of every successful firm is that the best work will in the long run produce the best profits, the greatest success, the highest satisfaction.

The habit of getting packed and ready for a quick "scoot" when the whistle blows does not mean a raise for you. Work as if you owned the firm,—you may some day.

Are you working too hard? (Rats!) Cold feet, lame back, skins coming bad? (Come off!) Graft, knockers, lies, pull, cheap competition? (Forget it!) We are making leather, boys. That's the point. No one can beat our record. We are making good leather.

Be different,—when you come to work, go to work. This habit shows the contrast between the man who is going to be a manager and others who have no luck.

Do not run down rival concerns,—do not run down other methods of manufacture. Your firm is one of the best. That is sufficient. If you do not know what to say,—say nothing.

Frequent meetings of foremen and department heads are good things. You cannot afford to do without them.

To repeat an unkind or vicious remark is as bad as lying.

The sanitary condition of your factory is of extreme importance. A lack of simple cleanliness often induces an epidemic. Daily inspection is often necessary—weekly inspection an absolute necessity.

Avoid cliques; do not gossip or listen to gossip about your fellows; you are all working together to produce good leather.

Enthusiasm is the best oil to make the business wheels go round. A grouch is like sand in the bearings. Enthusiasm is catching.

The savings bank habit is a good habit. It is cheaper than the booze habit or the cigarette habit. The man with a bank account can get along without the firm, but the firm cannot get along without him. The savings bank habit means sound sleep, good digestion, cool judgment, manly independence. It is the most healthy thing you know.

Be cautious and courteous. Bear the faults of some, the impoliteness of others and find some excuse for everybody except your own self.

The habit of borrowing money in advance of pay day is bad practice. It breaks many friendships. You show no kindness in loaning money to one who is always borrowing.

The owner's interest requires that the work be done in the shortest possible time, at the lowest possible cost, of the very best quality. The owner's interest is your interest. Look out for very possible waste.

Do not join the Knocker's Club. Beware of the Anvil Chorus. You cannot make leather by talk and perhaps the other fellow is a better man than you are anyway.

Keep away from gambling rooms, pool parlors, booze dens and places where you would not care to have your employer see you,—or to have you see him.

Date all your estimates, memorandums, calculations. The dating habit is a good one.

Do not work for any individual. Work for Leather. Never try to gain favor with one who "has a pull." Work for Leather. Don't make "grand stand plays" to advance your own record. Work for Leather. Your record will take care of itself and your advance will be sure and certain.

The most precious possession in life is good health. Eat moderately, breathe freely, exercise constantly, get eight hours' sleep.

Learn from your mistakes, but don't cry over them. Every one makes mistakes. We redeem the past best by forgetting its troubles and profiting by its lessons.

To jolly visitors or give short, sharp answers even to stupid people is a great mistake. Make all the friends you can; they are helpful.

Fall in love with your work and keep in love with your wife. This means progress and a happy home.

Responsibilities gravitate to the man who can shoulder them and power comes to those who know how. There are valuable positions opening up in every progressive concern. Study your job.

Be ready for a promotion. Expect it. Work for it. Promotions always go to the cheerful and intelligent worker.

Those who never do more than they are paid for, never get paid for any more than they do.

Remember the "Value of Time." The past is gone. "We take no note of Time but by its loss" Today is the accepted time. Today is all there is. Put it to its best use.

THE BATTLE

THE battle may be hard, my friend,
With complications without end,
But there's no joy in victories
Won from a field of pillowed ease,

Hath come from overcoming strife,
And hewing to the line until
We've wrested peace from pressing ill.

The Advantages of Matrimony.

"I'm a believer in women getting married. It doesn't matter so much for men, but for women it's the correct thing. Does 'em good and improves their characters. Unless they've a man to be unselfish to and coddle a bit they grow selfish themselves."—From the Great Husband Hunt, by Mabel Barnes Grundy.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Allen of Lynn street are spending two weeks at Wolfboro, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Swan and children spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Swan. They left for Springfield on Monday.

Miss Eileen Tucker of Beverly visited her grandparents on Friday and Saturday. Incidentally Miss Eileen was celebrating her eighth birthday.

Mrs. Charles Hobbs picked a cluster of 12 beautiful yellow tea roses Tuesday morning. They all grew on one stalk on which there were four more buds.

Neighborhood Club met at Davis hall Tuesday evening. The members will have a supper and theatre party next Tuesday at Lynn, when they will attend the auditorium. Members who wish to go are requested to take the 5.50 car from Bartholomew street.

Camp Fire Girls will have a Hallowe'en party at Lake Shore Park church next Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith went to Portsmouth, N. H., Sunday. They were accompanied by Mrs. William Voss, who has been spending a week with her sister.

Mrs. Wright Gregson of County street has been visiting in Lawrence for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pyburn who were married in Lynn last week are living on Brown street.

George Evans of Portland, Me., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Carl Newhall, Lynn street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Rust and son of Gloucester are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred Savage, County street.

Mrs. Vose of Malden spent Wednesday with Mrs. Charles Hobbs.

Miss Marjorie Parker has been ill with tonsilitis for the past ten days.

Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Gould yesterday afternoon. The ladies are to have a boiled supper on November 1, to be followed by a Halloween party.

The Lake Shore Park church is having two coats of white paint on the exterior. The work is being done by the men of the parish, including the pastor.

Miss Alice Bunce talked to 18 mothers Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Robert Bakeman. Her talk on "Pack Lunches" was well received, and she will be here to speak again on Nov. 21.

Some 15 members of the Sewso Club met with Miss Hilma Hobbs Monday evening and enjoyed a Halloween party. The house had been tastefully decorated with corn stalks and pumpkins and five ghosts emerged from every corner. The Halloween games were played and the surprise of the evening came when a shower was given to Mrs. Edith Currier Warner, who was married in the summer. She received many beautiful pieces of linen, cut glass, aluminum and pictures. A bountiful lunch was served by the hostess and every one pronounced the meeting the best of the season.

The All Stars Club are pleased with their new club house on Granite street. They have taken Doyle's barn and fixed it up, making a fine place for the boys.

The South Peabody Dramatic Club is getting ready for another evening's entertainment some time in November. Two comedy dramas will be given.

Ward One Twilight League has made arrangements to hold their social affairs at the Daniel Francis Keefe school. The program has not yet been arranged.

Men's Club held the first meeting of the season at the Second Congregational church Wednesday evening. Supper was served at 7 o'clock with the following committee in charge: Carl Newhall, Russell Walker, Frank Tucker, Wright Gregson and Joseph Annis. Officers were elected for the year as follows: President, Russell Walker; vice president, William Reed; treasurer, Henry Shaw; secretary, Fred Batchelder.

The annual fair and harvest supper will be held at the Second Congregational church next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. A fine entertainment has been provided for every evening, including a sketch by W. E. Weld, reader, and entertainers from Salem. At the supper Thursday night the menu will consist of roast meat, vegetables, pies and cake, and the past reputation of these suppers is all that is needed. A speaker has been obtained for that evening.

Patent Leathe... Meeting Hea...

(By ENERGY)

Speaking of the leather business, which shows every... a talk with one of the officials of for many months. ... the A. C. Lawrence Leather Co. reveals the fact that a marked change has taken place in this the biggest of our factories. Some months ago patent leather was the bread winner. The plant was practically run on this shiny stuff. Sheep, sides, book leather, was apparently a thing of the past. Pig skins were ashamed to boast of their lineage. The pig was eat but the skin was beat, instead of the boy.

* * *

Patent leather continues to be favored. What a peculiar state of affairs. Without detracting from the value and attractiveness of this leather, to think it should have the call at a time when the earth was turning around on its ear instead of its axis, is too much for me. But it matters not why it has been so. The fact remains it is so, and if all of us would stop trying to figure why things were instead of is, there would be more automobiles and less room for them.

* * *

So patent leather is still smiling, but other varieties are coming into their own. Sheep leather is better. To be sure the sheep are eaten as are the pigs, and the wool and pelts they produce gives us clothes to wear and line our shoes for comfort. Henry Cabot Lodge tells us because of the tariff our clothes will cost 62 cents more, and Jim Cox who also ran in the last presidential campaign says Lodge is mistaken and puts the addition at $6.20 or thereabouts. When politicians give us figures it is just as well to take them all and strike an average.

* * *

Side leather, book leather, are perking up, so that the whole list today shows a decided change for the better. Such being the case winter will have less cause for dejection and all goes well. As for the other plants about the city, A. C. L. is the barometer as pertaining to the kinds of leather they manufacture. Calf leather the premier of them all is healthy. It has been a long season of specialties and those in that part of the industry have kept up with the procession by making them. We do not make but little kid leather in Peabody. Philadelphia has been the home of this brand, but of late years other leather localities have made inroads which will no doubt be permanent.

So going down the list, there is one answer, a better leather business which shows every... for many months. ... mark in sight is a... leather into the counti... answer might be that the... get the benefit by cheaper ... cause of cheaper leather. Ti... well in Halifax, but now abou... bodyites? It is the same old ... everybody looking out for number ... and has always been so since Adam ... was married.

* * *

Some one has asked if shoes will be cheaper. No sir. We will continue to pay money for shoes the amount according to the quality or one's knowledge of shoes. I saw a pair of hunting boots this week sold for $7.50. They came to the knee and all earmarks showed they were the real article. Oil grain was the leather, and the soles looked like the money. Such shoes purchased in stores where the rents are one dollar a minute would cost at least $15.00 which included a good profit to the seller and landlord. This long chain which extends around the globe and gives and takes from all of us evidently is not understood by those who want to place all on one plane. It would be better to make it an airoplane with the lucky one getting by.

* * *

Prices of raw stock are high. Prices of finished leather today are too low to compare with the advance in raw skins. This condition is looked on by conservative manufacturers as an evil. It must be adjusted and will be when the higher priced leather is marketed. But this condition is unhealthy. The change in prices will be gradual which means many lots when figured will show a loss.

* * *

Years ago there was little need of figuring. Taking from nine to twelve months to finish leather, it was just a gamble. Today with seven months nearer to the market something can be gained by figures. After all is said and done the average only tells the story.

* * *

Cost of making leather is entering into the subject deeply today. Recently I heard of a case where one manufacturer claimed he could not make leather at a certain price, and another said he would be glad to finish for the price named and would make money. Evidently that overhead made the difference. The past history of the leather business in Peabody would conclusively show that some tanners became well to do making leather at the same price as the other fellow who either failed or quit the business. Since the war there has been more thought put into decreasing costs than ever before. Cutting corners has done the trick many times and the leather was satisfactory when finished. There are many new ideas brewing, (if I may be allowed to use this term) that sooner or later will do away with several costly processes of leather making. All admit there are too many crude methods in practice today, but few try and better them. Let the other fellow do it is the war cry.

Kill Turkey Buzzard.

The green fly and the turkey buzzard are two of mankind's worst enemies, because they help spread infantile paralysis germs and other malignant forms of disease. The buzzard was in large measure responsible for the spread of rinderpest in South Africa, cholera in India and the epidemic that killed off the water buffalo in the Philippines. The green fly and the turkey buzzard should be killed on sight.—Thrift Magazine.

Royal Road to Success.

Whatever your occupation in life may be apply yourself to it seriously and diligently. Let it be the subject which dominates your thoughts, because your success will be measured by the interest you take in what you are doing. Intense interest will mean close application and hard work and it is only along that road that success and contentment are to be found.—Exchange.

Your Telephone World

"Why, I couldn't find his name in the telephone directory."

This is the reply I get occasionally, when I ask a subscriber why he didn't send a toll message, and thus quickly settle some important matter.

As it would be practically impossible to include in one book all subscribers to the Bell System, each book is designed to include a given territory within which there are numbers frequently called.

If a Bell subscriber who lives outside this territory is wanted, you can reach him quickly and easily even if his name and number do not appear in your telephone directory. Just ask for the Toll Operator and give her the name and address of the person you want to reach. If you make your call on a station-to-station basis you will save both time and money. It really makes no difference whether he is in Bangor, Sioux City or San Francisco—wherever he is, if within range of a telephone, he can be reached if he is connected to the Bell System.

The next time you want to reach some distant friend whose name you can not find in the telephone directory, just call the Toll Operator and tell her what you want. She will try to help you, and may be able to get a message to your friend, even though he has no telephone, and get him to a Public Telephone Station to talk to you.

...ederation of Wo... State League of ...e League of Catho... ...ey are the State Fed... Teachers, the Parent ...sociation, the Massachu... ...e Grange. They are the ... Charitable Bureau, the Flor... ...rittenden League of Compas... the Society for Social Hygiene. ...y are the Massachusetts Federa... ...on of Churches, the Massachusetts Christian Endeavor Union, the Massachusetts Women's Christian Temperance Union. There are many other organizations of like standing in close contact with social problems and public welfare and only too conversant with the dangers which threaten our youth in our unregulated movies. In addition to these, many local organizations throughout the state to the number of several hundred have endorsed the proposed legislation. They are Rotary Clubs, as at Malden and Springfield, civic organizations, local women's clubs as in Peabody, charitable organization, local boards of censorship in many towns.

Not a hint of the character and standing of these organizations appears in the article I have referred to. There is not a suggestion that they represent the very best citizenship of the state and that they are in close touch with the moral, social, civic and religious problems of the movies as they are at present. It is suggested instead that "they would revert to the Russian system," that they are interested in procuring "prohibition of thought" and would bring about a situation of which "Russia amples." Is not th... unfair?

Now as to the merits of the question before the voters of the state, it should be said that the word censorship does not appear in the bill. It has been imported into the campaign against the measure for the purpose of prejudicing the minds of those who remember unpleasantly the necessary rigor and arbitrariness of military censorship during the war. This legislation proposes to license and regulate the films which may be shown in the state. There is no new principle of law or tradition involved. As a matter of fact some sort of regulation of motion pictures now exists in the state but it is distinctly local in its operation through officers in each separate town and city. But regulation of a sort, "censorship" if you insist in calling it such, already exists and has existed for a number of years. This is no new principle of law.

But local regulation is inevitably spasmodic and ineffective. There is no uniformity in standards and one town will permit what a neighboring town has proscribed. In addition to this well-known fact, is the mechanical difficulty of going through a film before the regular time for exhibition. Often the film arrives only an hour or two before and there is only time to get it ready for the machine. Moreover, the local manager is helpless. He is a subscriber for a film service, but he does not always have a chance to see the films in advance of receiving them. Local censorship is ineffective, notoriously so, but the fact remains that it exists at least in theory and spasmodically in every place throughout the state.

State regulation will be a great advance upon local regulation because it can be more effective. Representatives of the people will have a chance to review the films before licensing them for exhibition in the state. Such representatives will be answerable to the state and not to the industry for the conduct of their office. But state regulation will also be an advantage to the industry and will promote its best interests. State regulation of our water supply is an accepted fact. State license of boilers in factories, hotels, schools, apartment houses goes on without a question from anyone. The state board of health prescribes the general rules of quarantine and has authority to step in at any time in the case of a serious outbreak of any epidemic. We regard state license of automobiles and of motorists as absolutely essential and infinitely better than local license would be. Regulation is not an infringement upon personal liberty. It makes for a higher liberty. We can no more trust the motion picture industry to regulate itself than we can trust motorists to regulate traffic for themselves in a rush hour in Peabody square. Moreover, we ban obscene and scurrilous literature from the mails and from circulating libraries. The best sense of the nation insists upon asserting itself against the worst sense.

To repeat: The movement for state regulation of the movies is backed and endorsed by religious, educational and sociological leaders and innumerable high-grade organizations throughout the state. Regulation of the movies is no new thing in this state, but it has been ineffective when left to the local communities. State regulation is accepted where the interests of the entire state are involved in the matter of health, safety, etc. State regulation of the movies will be a great improvement over local regulation.

The very best interests of the community demand that we vote YES on the question of this referendum.

THE WAR CLOUD IN THE EAST

Men of the R. M. A. and R. M. L. I. today left Southampton for the East on board the "Kinfauns Castle", the boat which did such gallant rescue work on the occasion of the German Liner "Hammonia" sinking. The Castle boat is making her first trip as a troop-ship, Captain Day being in command.

Greece: and then returned and have been here since.

The main street here is along the water front and when the fire broke out the people trying to get away from the fire jumped into the water and the Turks thinking they were trying to escape shot them while in the water. It is nothing to see bodies of men, women and children floating by the ship all hours of the day and every night after dark there are shots and screams from the shore.

We have a patrol ashore every day and I have been over twice and you would be surprised the way the Turks treat the Americans. They think there is nothing like the Americans, but they certainly hate the English and French, and are always fighting.

The Turks are now enroute to Constantinople, where they expect to take it, and I think there will be a big battle there as the English will not give it up and the Turks are bound to have it.

This has been one swell trip. Talk about excitement, something doing all the time. Well, so much of that—I could tell you more but what I would tell you would be hard to believe and also the letter may go astray, so will save it.

CITY HALL NOTES

Some one has suggested that the pol be taken out of politics. It can't be done. It would leave only tic and no pol can live on tick for long.

* * *

The large registration shows somebody will get votes. If elected that somebody need not wonder why. Leave that to the others who will have little else to do for a while. It is far better to enter a muster, for there are more prizes.

* * *

Fence building is a big job, but candidates must be careful how and whom they nail. Telling the qualifications of yourself is far better than nailing the faults of the other fellow. An ounce of qualification is worth a pound of knocking. It is often better to let the other fellow judge of the fitness rather than try and stretch it. Many articles will not stretch without breaking, which spills the lesson.

So when the voters this fall walk into the coop prepared for them and mark their cross, those on the outside will have hard work to figure what has happened until the count is announced. Past history will have much to do with the result, and tried and found wanting will dig many a political grave. There "was" many a slip between the cup and the lip.

* * *

It is evident the primaries will show what is what in the municipal election. We are not leaning toward any candidate at this writing, for we are up to now able to stand straight. Later we may have samething to say, for all must have a preference.

* * *

All candidates can safely predict a reduction in the tax rate, for only fool management will make it otherwise. Any candidate for mayor in whom the people have confidence that economy will be practiced, will poll many votes. Saying so and doing it is another matter. The size of the tax bills proves this statement.

* * *

The coal controversy cannot be laid to any one in Peabody. The rainy weather is a dead issue. Prohibition is out of it. No one has been openly accused of grafting. The farmers cannot knock off the block of any candidate for good reason. Then what is the issue? Fitness.

* * *

If a man has been in any office for years there is little use for him to tell only what has happened. What might have been never is read in history.

Want Law To Curb Moonshine

Every chairman of every Woman's Republican Committee in Essex County will be approached by Miss Martha N. Brooks, chairman of the Gloucester branch of the Citizens' Alliance, and well known in Essex County, in behalf of prohibition referendum No. 4, on the ballot, November 7.

"It is very discouraging," said Miss Brooks, "for our policemen to do their duty and then have the courts throw out their cases, for which they have worked so hard, for lack of a state law behind the police action as regards prohibition. Forty-five states," says Miss Brooks, "in the Union have seen the necessity for a state code and have second one. The only three that are without it are Maryland, California and our own state of Massachusetts. It really is a disgrace for the Republican women to let Massachusetts remain longer without a proper state enforcement code."

WILL HOLD DANCE TO AID FULLERTON

A benefit dance and entertainment is to be given in City Hall on November 24 and the proceeds will be given to Louis Fullerton, the cripple who is endeavoring to complete his business education at a commercial school. REPLIES TO REV. JOHN REID ON CENSORSHIP OF MOVIES

Boston, Oct. 25, 1922.

Editor Peabody Enterprise:

In your issue of October 20 you printed at considerable length a letter from the Rev. John Reid, in which he advocated motion picture censorship in Massachusetts. As a matter of fairness to the committee whose names appear on this letter head and to the many others who differ with Mr. Reid, may we ask that you publish in your next issue the enclosed copies of letters exchanges between Gen. Cole, chairman of this committee, and Will H. Hays. In these the attitude of those opposing censorship are set forth, fairly and without offense.

Thanking you for this courtesy,

Very truly yours,

LLOYD WILLIS.

Boston, Mass.,

October 6, 1922.

Mr. Will H. Hays, President,
Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of Am., Inc.,
522 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

My dear sir:

The legislature of Massachusetts at the 1921 session passed a law providing for a one-man censor of motion pictures to be exhibited in this state. The legislature had passed a similar law which had been vetoed by Vice President Coolidge, then governor.

Taking advantage of the power vested in them by the state constitution, a large body of public-minded citizens, impressed by the evil consequences certain to arise from enforcement of the said law, united in a petition which insures a vote by the people of the state upon the question of whether or not this law shall go into effect.

The referendum known as Refedendum No. 3 will be voted on at election to be held November 7th.

Men and women well known in Massachusetts who have made a careful study of censorship have organized themselves into a committee known as the Massachusetts citizens against censorship. This committee bases its opposition to the censorship law upon the following specific grounds:

1. Censorship means further invasion

BAKEMAN TO RESIGN PULPIT

Rev. Robert A. Bakeman, pastor of the Second Congregational church, South Peabody, will, it is reported, resign his pulpit next Sunday, reading his resignation at the morning service. He does this to give his whole time to his campaign for the nomination for Mayor. He is at present a member of the school board.

S. P. C. E. Drive Starts Monday

October 30 to November 4 will be membership drive week for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. This organization is about to start its third year in Peabody. During the past twelve months it has been successfully dealing with about six or eight cases a month. These have been ones of brutality, physical neglect, and incorrect moral environments. The society upon notification of the above conditions existing where children are concerned will investigate immediately and fearlessly follow up until things are rectified.

In next week's membership campaign Councillor Barnes is the general chairman, with the following ward chairmen: Miss Eva Raddin 1, Mrs. Ralph E. Foss 2, Mrs. Rosa Sturgeon 3, Miss Mary Poole 4, Mrs. S. Howard Donnell 5, Mrs. W. N. Lambert 6. Each ward chairman has a hustling committee and will endeavor to make this society known to the largest possible number of citizens. It is earnestly hoped the public will help to support this worthy organization that is helping to make better conditions for children and whose good influence is sure to be felt in the future.

STOP TRUCKS MINUS BRAKES

Twenty or more automobile trucks were held up on Foster street yesterday by Inspector William R. Nagle, representing motor vehicle registrar Goodwin, and as a result a number of Peabody concerns will receive notice that their registrations have been revoked. In some instances brakes were found useless and two trucks ordered to stop succeeding in stopping almost 100 yards away.

Revocation of the registrations will be automatically recorded in the office of the registrar and the owner of the truck involved must not only remedy the defect but also pay for a new registration, in some instances as high as $50.

According to Inspector Nagle, who is a resident of Lynn, and a former war veteran, Registrar Goodwin is determined to push his campaign to compel truck owners to have first-class brakes. It is the truck that is killing men, women and children in this state and much of the reason is because of the faulty brakes.

Inspector Nagle informed the Enterprise that he found a surprising large number of trucks minus good working brakes and in some cases without proper lights. Some of the drivers lay the blame to their employers and say that their calling attention to the faulty brakes has failed to have any remedy applied. Registrar Goodwin says that this kind of negligence is responsible for many of the fatal and other collisions and the general inspection of trucks is now being carried on throughout the state.

Train ... Peterso...

Edward W. Peterson, aged 19, son of John F. Peterson of Birch street, West Peabody, died at 3 o'clock this morning at the Thomas hospital as a result of a fractured skull received when his auto truck was struck by a train on the Locust street crossing early last evening. The train was said to have been late and Peterson, who was a milkman, supposed he had a clear road. An operation was performed on his skull in a vain effort to save his life.

Edward Blaney For Councillor

Edward A. Blaney member of the public works division under the town form of government, will be a candidate for Councillor-at-large. His papers met with ready signatures this week and his friends believe he will come through with a victory at the polls. There is no better informed Peabody man on the water supply of this city and his knowledge of city finances makes him a highly desirable candidate.

Councillor Francis L. Poor says he is undecided as to whether he will again be a candidate or not. Much depends on where he is assigned to a government hospital. He is now at Parker Hill hospital. He appears to be rapidly gaining in strength.

...Du- ... school ...re Satur- ... by Teddy ...taker, and com- ...nty-three Bantams ... work. Not only did ... the former king, but ...letely trounced him and then ...m on his way unheralded and ...ding except for his past prowess. ...nd, what's more, these Bantams pro-ceeded to get the feel of the throne, and to know how it feels to occupy the commanding position of the teams this side of the Mason and Dixon line.

The score? Oh, that was 27 to 0. A mere trivial matter. I almost overlooked it.

Duval was the only team to trim Charleston last year. Charleston was the only team to trim Duval so far this season. Charleston was the only team to score on Duval last year.

Duval last year made three touchdowns and as many goals from touchdowns, while the Bantams could garner only a field goal, in the game last year.

Charleston 47, Darlington 0.

Charleston 24, Benedictine College 0.

Charleston 27, Duval (of Jacksonville) 0.

This record so far this season gives the Bantams an uncrossed goal line, while they have amassed some 98 points, or an average of 33 a game.

Not so bad.

To beat Duval had been the ambition of the Bantams. Now, it is to trim Peabody. Then, the state championship finals will loom up.

Charleston has a hard game here this Friday when Florence high comes. Florence always has a good team, and, according to the dope, the 1922 aggregation is the best yet and the Florence coach (Lee Rhame, of the Furman Hurricane) is counting on his charges wrecking the Bantam record.

From the standpoint of an exhibition of football, the game last Saturday was the cleverest ever enacted on a local grid. However, due to the one-sidedness of the score, it did not carry with it the uncertainty of the contest in 1921 with Peabody—an uncertainty which can furnish the greatest thrill of all.

However, thrills were plentifully provided.

A 35-yard pass, Teddy Weeks to Albion Johnson, started the Bantams on their way to the first touchdown, and was the body blow that started the downfall of the proud Tiger.

The constant and successful hammering of the far-famed Duval line by Clarence "Dutch" Brinker was the knockout punch that laid the Tiger low. Brinker's work was almost superhuman.

He made, in all, nine first downs. Also, two touchdowns.

Brinker was good last year—very good. But, this year at full he is spreading joy in the hearts of Charleston fandom by his work. He charges into the line, keeps going, and no one man can pull him down. Whenever a plunge will put the ball over for a "first in ten," Dutch is there. In the three games the Bantams have played this season, he has not once been thrown for a loss, while he has been worked more than any other man in the rear works.

A pass for thirty yards, fired over the goal line to Tommy Ferguson for a touchdown, was also a bit of a hair-raiser.

Weeks made one touchdown. With the ball on the three-yard line, Weeks slipped over.

Both teams worked mainly through the line. End runs didn't prove very lucrative. As a matter of fact, no kind of run produced much gain for the Tigers.

The longest run of the game was an eighteen-yard get-a-way through tackle on a fake by Lowenstein, the Tiger full-back. Frankie Taylor, while playing at quarter for the Bantam second team, ripped off fifteen.

With five more minutes to play, Coach Prause sent in his entire second eleven, who on the next play were penalized half the distance to the goal, giving them the ball on their own ten-yard line.

From here they punted, but it was a weak one, and a Duval back got away in returning it and was on the four-yard line before he was halted by Buster Holcombe. Two plays could gain but one yard. Remember—the Bantam second team is in there all this time.

The second team took the ball from the visitors, and commenced a charge up the field that brought them to middlefield before the final whistle blew, and they were well on their way to a touchdown.

The fact that Peabody didn't score on Salem while the Bantams were trouncing Duval has raised high the hopes of Charlestonians that on November 4 the Tanners will be downed.

Football has this city by the neck. However, it is not choking it, but filling it with a love for good red-blooded sport that bides well.

The Bantam squad are now in tip-top shape. None are sufficiently injured to be placed on the "keep out" list; and things in the Prause camp all have a rosy complexion.

Duval has a good football team, a well coached machine; a team that deserves great honors. However, the Bantams are a better team. That is the story.

Connery Favors Congress Review Of Court Decrees

Editor Enterprise,

I send you herewith copy of announcement by the league on what we regard to be one of the most dangerously destructive proposals ever made in this country, together with copy of reply received to our letter mentioned therein from William P. Connery, Jr., Democratic candidate for congress in your district.

Mr. Butler replied that he "had not made up his mind as yet what he would do on this proposed constitutional amendment."

Yours very truly,
E. L. HARVEY,
Executive Secretary.

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 9, 1922.

Mr. S. Stanwood Menken,
National Security League, Inc.,
17 East 49th Street,
New York City.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter of October 7th, 1922, in reference to a movement for the presentation in the next congress, of a resolution calling upon the states to ratify an amendment to the Constitution of the United States to permit congress to review all decisions of the supreme court of the United States, I wish to say that I am emphatically in favor of such an amendment to the constitution, and I have repeatedly so stated in my campaign, on the stump, for congress, and will continue to state the same in my campaign. If I am elected to congress, I will vote in favor of such a resolution.

Very truly yours,

(Signed)

Revere Elks Here Sunday In Football

There has been some comment around town regarding the calibre of the elevens the Peabody Town Team has been playing, many of the fans claiming they were merely set-ups. This reached the ears of Managers Nangle and Wentworth, who decided to stop this kind of talk by bringing the Revere Elks here for Sunday. Any one with the slightest knowledge of football knows that the Revere team is one of the heaviest and fastest in the state. The Elks carry twenty-one men in the flashiest uniforms imaginable and each man is a star.

The Elks are headed by Herb Kelly, the "human battering-ram," the hardest line plunging back in semi-pro ranks. With him in the backfield will be Wallis and Blaine Kehoe, the biggest stars ever turned out at Swampscott high. Harrington and McDonough are the other regular backs. And what a line they have. The Clark brothers and Gunderson are men weighing considerable over two hundred, and all the rest of them come close to this figure.

Peabody will stand pat on its regular line up with twenty men on deck. The game will start promptly at 3.15 p. m.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

THE GARDEN INVISIBLE

SINCE the first memorable day in which you ventured forth with a fluttering consciousness of your wonderful capabilities, to show the old world that it could never hope to make permanent progress without your help, you have, let it be said, with due allowances, been digging, planting, raking and watering in the garden invisible.

And this is your garden, your very own.

Everybody in this storm-troubled sphere has one, so you are no exception. The sunbeams play hide and seek, and the storms beat at regular intervals, as the gods will. And strange to say, you carry this garden with you wherever you go.

Yours is not a coward soul, yet it lacks courage to take your friends into this particular garden and show them the result of your achievements.

You are a little abashed at the noxious plants that spring up in the night, and often left standing to gather strength to crowd out the good and the beautiful.

Failing in this you begin to fail in yourself.

So here is where your sorrows take root and overwhelm you with fear in the season of ripening fruit.

Year after year you have been carelessly sowing and reaping only a handful. Time has flown by on silent wings. You failed to take note of its swift flight, and instead of giving attention to your own work, you meddled with the work of others.

You yielded to temptation, indulgence, idleness and made a frightful picture on the face of the soil intrusted to you to cultivate.

As autumn comes you gaze on the scene with an overpressing sense of neglect and a sickening humility.

The sun and the showers were faithful to their trust; the soil was rich, capable of bringing forth the choicest fruits of wealth and happiness.

Beside your forsaken garden is your neighbor's, radiant with flowers and golden fruits. While he was doing his duty, working faithfully at his given task, and later giving work to others, you were faithless, grumbling and negligent, as is evidenced by your garden, filled now with worthless, withered weeds, taunting and mocking you in the evening of your given day.

Peabody High Plays Revere Tomorrow P. M.

Peabody high is all set to battle Revere tomorrow at the stadium. Coach Brawley will start his strongest line-up against Coach Keefe's boys from the beach city. Revere got a poor start this season, but the team has been going better and upset the dope the last two games, showing plenty of fight.

Peabody emerged from last week's battle without an injury and is set to give the remaining teams on its schedule tough opposition.

On Wednesday two teams from Lynn English journeyed to Peabody and scrimages were in session at the high school field. Coach Brawley's boys got the better of these encounters. Lawrence, Boyle and Harris were back in harness and played their old-time game. They will make their first appearance against the Charleston team on November 4.

Cost Accounting Course In Salem Free To Peabody

A university extension class in cost accounting will open on Thursday evening October 26, at 7.30 p. m. in the school administration building, Salem. The course will consist of 16 lessons and is open to those who have completed the university extension course in principles of accounting or its equivalent. The course is offered under the auspices of the Massachusetts Department of Education. John T. Drury, who conducted the accounting courses here last year, will again be the instructor of the class. Instruction deals with the essentials of cost and stores accounting. The purpose of the course is to cover the cost of finding unit, distribution of departmental burden, installation of cost systems, and the use of cost findings in business policies.

The division of university extension is also planning to offer courses in elementary and advanced Spanish in Salem. The classes will meet for the first time on Wednesday evening, October 25, at the school administration building. The advanced class will meet at 7 p. m. and the elementary class will meet at 8 p. m. Enrollments for these courses, as well as for the accounting course, will be received at the office of George M. Bemis, superintendent of schools, or at the first meetings of the class. Only the usual small charge will be made for enrollment.

Sole Leather Is In Demand

Sole leather markets strong and active, says the Shoe and Leather Reporter. Scarcity of heavy leather causing buyers to purchase medium and light weights in better volume. Offal strong. Tanners not inclined to book beyond first of the year delivery in some instances. Belting butts established 75c. level on actual transactions. Demand is shifting from heavy to lights and extra lights. Side upper leather more active. Western buyers buying in eastern market. Tanners not disposed to book too far ahead and are asking strong prices. Calfskin business being effected at steady levels. Slight improvement in demand for lighter stock. Patent leather still having call. Glazed kid movement assuming good sized proportions.

Uphold the Constitution!

By overwhelming votes in House and Senate, Massachusetts ratified the 18th Amendment.

In his address to the Legislature, on January 2, 1922, Gov. Channing H. Cox said:

"Officials especially charged with the duty of law enforcement report the difficulty of preventing traffic in intoxicating liquors since there is a variance between the Federal and State Laws.... Considerations of impelling force require that the laws of Massachusetts be made to conform to the laws of the United States in this respect."

The House passed such a bill by a vote of 134 to 68.

The Senate approved it by a vote of 28 to 9.

The Governor signed it without delay.

The liquor element filed a referendum petition and the operation of the law is suspended pending the approval of the voters on Nov. 7th.

The question is NOT that of legalizing beer and wine.

The question is NOT that of prohibition as a policy.

The question is: SHALL MASSACHUSETTS ENFORCE OR NULLIFY THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES?

Give the Kiddies Real Comfort This Winter

You'll be amazed to see how much Radiantfire heat will mean to your entire family in comfort, health and convenience.

When the youngsters come in chilled and shivering or with wet feet, it will warm and dry them in one minute.

On bleak winter mornings, they can dress in comfort before its cheery glow. And think of the enjoyment you will get from this beautiful open fire on chilly fall and winter evenings!

Radiantfire gives you instant warmth and leaves the air of the room fresh and cool for breathing. It means fewer colds—no more fussing to build fires and remove ashes. It burns gas at a cost of only three to four cents an hour and will at least save two tons of coal each winter.

See for yourself what a wonderful improvement this is over any heating device you have ever seen before. Priced from $15 up.

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

HOT WEATHER HABITS

IS IT not true that our civilized manners are tested in warm weather, and that there is a strong temptation to forget some of the little refinements of life that we possess just because we are civilized?

But the truth of the matter is that the very thing that makes warm weather endurable in office, store or home is the exertion on the part of the individuals to keep up their standard of good manners, and to remember that though the thermometer stands at ninety, more or less, they are civilized none the less.

Considerable self-control needs to be exerted. In the first place don't tell people just how warm you feel. Having exchanged a perfunctory comment or so anent the state of the weather let it go at that. To tell your associates just how the thermometer stood in your bedroom last night, how many baths you took between office closing yesterday and office opening this morining, how little you ate as a result of the heat and how much iced tea you have had to consume, just makes other people think all the more about the heat and it doesn't help you at all.

You may not be able to help looking hot, but you don't have to look untidy as a result of the heat. It is better to wear a thin suit than to wear a heavier one in various stages of removal; better for the young woman in the office to wear a short-sleeved open-necked blouse than another sort of blouse with the collar and sleeves tucked away.

A great deal more leniency is allowed men nowadays in warm weather. There are still some business offices where the men are not allowed to remove their coats in office hours, but these are the exceptions. If we do have to pass through periods of almost tropical heat we should be allowed to adopt somewhat the costume of other civilized folk in tropical climes. Hence the palm beach suit for men, soft comfortable collars and lightweight suits are no longer looked upon as unsuitable or freakish in most of our cities.

But whatever else you do, remember that the chances are that you are made no more uncomfortable than the others with whom you associate. If you grumble more it means that you have less self-control; it means that you are not playing the game as well as you should and also, moreover, that you are making the task of getting through the warm weather, which at worst is of short duration, all the harder for yourself and for those around you.

—O—

Substantial enough for racing, a bicycle has been invented that folds compactly for carrying.

Doc's Mind Wandered.

"Just think! When old Doc Snodgrass was examining my heart action with a stethoscope yesterday he all of a sudden calls out, 'Hello! Hello! Is this central?'"—Exchange.

All reports of the leather industry [illegible] point to better business. With this betterment there are spotty conditions which takes a part of the sugar from the plum. There may have been a time when tanners could say that all leathers sold well. That time was during the war. But in normal times some lines would not sell to be followed later by those same lines having the call. It is useless to try and explain all that is going on in this world. It would indeed be difficult to tell why fashions change from hoop skirts to nothing, or from whole dresses to one-quarter the size. It simply is and the originator cannot be found or will not.

So today heavy sole leather, heavy skins, are wanted and the light runs neglected. When the spring trade or perhaps the summer trade is under way another story may be told. There are many cattle with thin skins. There are many persons whose skin would not be fit for leather because of the same condition. We cannot help it. Nobody can be blamed for thin skins and some claim for a thin pocketbook. A big railroad magnate differs with this statement, for he says those who save get there. The trouble with his statement is we all cannot build railroads and some of us if we saved what we had left over after rent and coal bills were paid for would take 250 years to save $1000. What is the use?

* * *

Hides and skins are not plentiful. We are importing few calfskins from Europe for Germany will not allow the stock shipped away, and is purchasing other skins from surrounding nations. The alarm felt because of German leather shipped to this country, has not arrived as yet. It will take some time for these countries to sell leather other than at home. So raw material is going with the skirts, higher and higher. Finished leather will soon follow, then shoes and finally he purchaser with little breath left in him will wear out the soles, then the uppers and finally rely on heavy stockings to protect his feet. It is hard telling what we are coming to, but outside of Henry Ford and his side kick, John D., and a few others, we are on the ark waiting for dry times.

* * *

Did you ever stop to think that but for Ford and Rockefeller the leather business would be better? We will say for example there are 30,000,000 men in U. S. All walked before they had the price. Most of them walked after that period until these two gentlemen got their heads together and voted to furnish machines and oil for those who were tired of walking. 20,000,000 voted they were tired, therefore the wear on that many shoes was eliminated.

* * *

Tabloids tell us that pacifists have nothing to do with leather except to keep tanners and shoe manufacturers from fighting. It is a fad. It flourishes best several miles away from the seat of action and its trademark should be an ostrich with his head buried in the sand. Even the most savage tribes would refuse to masticate a pacifist; they must draw the line somewhere.

* * *

It is so long since I purchased a pair of shoes, so long since I visited a tannery, all is blank. I have heard of considerable going on in some tanneries and that measuring machines are perking up. About so often the measuring machine proposition comes to the front. It should come to the [illegible] lars [illegible] appu[illegible] will w[illegible] have man[illegible] to the point [illegible] go wrong. Some [illegible] defects quickly, others [illegible] thousands of sides have [illegible] shoe manufacturer. At this [illegible] is a sad tale. Measuring leathe[illegible] 'ast process in manufacture. It often appeared that after the nerve racking process was completed to this point the rest was forgotten. The Turner Tanning Machinery Co. are working on that German made machine which has been talked about of 'ate. To look at it is a dandy. It appears to measure leather correctly. There are some parts of the construction which must stand the test before I should be committed to its being right. Telling may be believing, but the proof is the results after constant using for a year at least. One must be skeptical because the ifs and ands of machinery are a dictionary in themselves. I hope all will be well. I hope there will be improvements on other machines which will prove right. The tanners need them. Measuring leather from the solid to the stretchy kind is a problem which might better be worked out by a chess master or his equal in brains.

* * *

There are many popular fallacies besides the leather business. One is that Europe can pay her debts when we have the gold and the delusion that we can show the world how to prosper without working. James G. Hill was a high kicker in the railroad game. He came, saw and conquered that game by saving much of the money he made, and the only thing which kept him from encircling the globe with railroad tracks was his life was not long enough. In our own business, A. C. Lawrence could well be copied for his 50 years in the leather business stamped him of the type who will succeed.

LADDIE BOY'S ONLY RIVAL

Secretary of Navy Denby, is making friends with Pete, the pet squirrel at the Executive Mansion in Washington, D. C.; Pete is causing Laddie Boy, the President's terrier to look to his laurels. When members of the cabinet are called to regular meetings, they always remember him by bringing him a few nuts.

State Will Aid Blind To Earn

There is, perhaps, no activity of the Massachusetts Department of Education which appeals more to public interest than that carried on by the Division of the Blind.

The exhibition of the work of the blind, to be given at Ames Memorial hall, Salem, next Wednesday and Thursday, will give the people their first chance to receive first-hand knowledge of the wide vista of opportunity which is opening up before the minds of those deprived of sight. Out of the darkness of despair and discouragement, into which many a person has found himself plunged by accident, which has taken from him his eyesight, there now gleams for him the light of opportunity—the chance to use the powers which are left to him to make his life broad and useful.

The aim of the division's work is to prepare the blind to take up again the occupation in which they were engaged before losing sight; in the case of the younger to assist them in deciding their life work. Few of the blind have the added misfortune of being deaf, as Helen Keller is. Education through other senses than that of vision is fast becoming a commonplace. The unknown blind are making it so, as one by one they are learning a way to take their place in the social and economic world. They bid not for pity. They want not charity. They command our respect and admiration. They are making the most of a chance for success that has opened before them.

Last Sunday an aged killed on Andover street omobile. The cause no doubt ue to a combination of circumstances, but was only one of many such accidents which are frequently occurring throughout the state. Peabody square and the main streets that feed it are much travelled. Without question the increase in traffic on these streets has increased ten fold in a few years. With our new roads, crossings are where the pedestrians makes them. We have many careless drivers of automobiles. We have many men and women, yes children who use little discretion when crossing streets. Accidents will occur and the blame laid at somebody's door. Proper care will eliminate many accidents of this kind.
Wait, look and listen is the watchword. Every indication points to an increase in street traffic rather than a decrease. Illuminated signs and traffic posts do their part, but care must do the rest. Andover street in particular on a Sunday is literally lined with automobiles. The accident of last Sunday tells the story of conditions, so all should heed the warning.

CHARLESTON

On November 4 the Charleston High football team will meet our Peabody High team and the struggle for supremacy will be witnessed by 7000 people. From the latest advices 125 residents of this southern city will journey here and the day will be an eventful one in the annals of the city. The stage is set. The committee has worked out the details and all points to success. The new stadium is pronounced fit for the game, and the seating capacity will care for the number who journey there. The game with Salem High last week stamped the local team as being fit to meet all comers in their class. Judging from the game with Charleston last year, that city will send a team able to hold its own, so a hard battle is the answer. The spirit of fair play which existed last year will no doubt be repeated, and our southern friends will return home satisfied with their reception, win or lose.

WILL HAYS

Will Hays for some time kept the army of government employes in the postoffices on the move. Some moved to keep the mail delivered, others moved because their term expired. He did such good work in moving and removing that the movie picture officials chose him to improve the movie films. Whether his hand is now felt in the selection of pictures is too early to determine. But this week a picture came to Peabody called Manslaughter. It appeared to be a play which attempted to show the public what we are coming to. It compared the orgies of the Roman period with the jazz efforts of today. It showed the roman appetite for liquor to equal the deep thirst acquired by many jazz artists of today. Such scenes may not appeal to the good thinking person, but there can be no better way to conquer the evil than by showing it up. It is true the Romans drank more liquor according to the picture than today's quota of "jazzists." The fact remains this picture places before the public something to think about. Something for parents to lay before their children as an object lesson. It is probably true that Will Hays had a hand in directing this picture, and that it is only the beginning of an era in the movie industry which will make it a benefit to the nation.

VISITING NURSE ASSOCIATION

At the annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse Association this week the report of the secretary shows this worthy association to be well equipped financially and otherwise. During its years of work, it has been a great help to the afflicted as testified to by the hundreds who have had occasion for its help. For some years nurses have been scarce. When at times with disease prevalent, many were without nurses and it was then that the District Nurse filled the breach. It can be said without the services of this nurse serious trouble would have followed. Therefore, the report of the association this week is gratifying and we take this time to commend all who have so faithfully carried on the work. The future will show the same effort, and all who give their dollar a year have the satisfaction of knowing that the District Nurse Association stands for much in the community and without it would impose on the public a service most difficult to duplicate.

REGISTRATION FOR 1922

The total registration this year is 16 less than two years ago at the city election. This decrease is small, but when the scores who have registered for the first time are taken into account it shows a considerable loss. No doubt this loss can be laid to the door of dull business. Most of the unemployed have sought work elsewhere. Again the last city election was the means of placing every available name on the voting lists. There will be meetings of the Board of Registrars after the state election which will no doubt bring the total more than two years ago. With candidates for mayor together with those running for the council, the total vote should be a record breaker. It is better so. Let all register their preference and the majority will name the winners.

ROUND ABOUT

George W. Batchelder, water commissioner of the city of Worcester, was a visitor at City Hall this week renewing his acquaintances with City Engineer Frank Emerson. Mr. Batchelder claims kinship to Peabody as his father, George E. Batchelder, was born in this city in 1836. Mr. Batchelder believes he has some relatives in Peabody and proposes to pay the city another visit in the near future.

We have a good football team and a stadium which meets all requirements. Our football team refuses to be beaten even with two tie games. Some of the stars of last year are missed in the line-up, but this year's team measures up well, and each game adds to its efficiency. The championship flag floats in the breezes and all points for it to continue in the same spot. Keep up the good work, Mr. Brawley.

There were a few people who walked to the game last Saturday, but judging by the machines parked on all the space within a quarter of a mile of the stadium most everybody had a Lizzie or her rich relations. Who said the times were dull? West Peabody has plenty of room for parking purposes, even with a walk which does most of us plenty of good.

* * *

We note house costs remain at the figure of $800 a room for ordinary quarters. Houses of a better type cost $1500 a room, and if one is looking for marble halls he had better build in Vermont, where the marble is cheap during the night. The fellow who talks profiteering should build one house to get his lesson.

There are 87 trappers and hunters who gave up their money at City Hall for licenses up to Tuesday of this week. This number includes trappers, not flappers. The old books tell us trappers caught their game in traps and they varied in size from the bear to the rabbit. There may be many animals willing to be trapped, in fact it amounts to the same thing. Of this 87 sportsmen we have an idea a large majority hie themselves to the woods with a gun and ammunition and return the same way. Some bird may be careless enough to get in their way, others are curious. However, it will not do to monkey with the real gunners and we have some in Peabody.

An effort to raise money for the Greeks across the water is meeting with success. It is evident somebody blundered in Asia Minor, perhaps because of its name. Turks and Greeks have not loved each other since Caesar was a baby. When talking to stop war leave out the section where these people live.

C. C. Hills has frequently criticised the binding of the local directory. We second the motion and call for a directory which will stand the wear.

The state election is November 7, the primaries of the city election November 14. There will be many questions on the state ballot to vote on, all requiring thought. Remember what is good for the goose is not good for the gander.

The Women's Club at its last meeting drew the largest number for many entertainments. The attraction was dresses and several comely matrons, together with the young ones, were dressed in the latest fashions furnished by a Boston department store. It was evident the choosers had good taste, for we are informed they all looked the money. Women are partial to fashion, which is no crime. The toast of old fits the case, "here's to the women, God bless 'em and dress 'em."

* * *

A bill for pumping the sewer was received recently at City Hall. It would appear from a Salem standpoint we neglected to pay the bill, but the fact remains a bill cannot be paid without rendering the amount. So as ever, Salem and Peabody reminds one of the Arabian tribes who fight frequently for the fun of it. We are a bit jealous of Salem at this time because the movie pictures representative did not visit us to shoot the North river. It is said the actors could not keep a natural face because of the tannery smell. It would give them an appetite, however.

The marriage in City Hall Monday was attended by a fashionable audience, including the pretty girls of City Hall. Clerk Dowd did the tieing with a square knot. The happy couple went their way satisfied with life, not thinking of the hereafter. Such is life.

West Peabody farmers have raised more turkeys this year than ever before. We are told it requires a knowledge of how to raise the critters, and all goes well. There is plenty of room for the birds in West Peabody.

A pleasing program for Halloween is planned at the Peabody Lodge of Elks' hall on Monday evening when the women of the order, wives, sisters and sweethearts of the Antler herd will have charge. Mrs. Chet Bent is chairlady, and she has the co-operation of a large committee. The party will be informal as to dress. An entertainment will be given and dancing and a buffet lunch will be in order.

Dana Harding and Clarence Long, two popular employes at the National Calfskin Co., have been spending the week at Ipswich getting a fine bag of wild ducks, so I am informed, and "coot" soup may be one of the courses offered at an informal dinner in the near future with these two hunters as hosts.

Chief Jesse Barrett of the fire department is exhibiting a photograph taken in Denver, Colorado, last summer with a policeman measuring seven feet, three and one-half inches standing in between Chief Barrett and Mrs. Barrett, his wife. The bluecoat weighs 304 pounds. The picture was taken at a stop-over while the chief and Mrs. Barrett were enroute to San Francisco to attend the fire chiefs' convention.

U. S. GOVERNMENT SEEKS TO PREVENT FOREST FIRES

Forest exploitation on private timber lands; wasteful methods of lumbering and forest fires have so depleted our virgin forests that without public sentiment urged for the need of forest preservation, the U. S. would soon be facing a timber famine. Members of the U. S. Forestry service are giving every possible assistance to make this preservation.

Farm Bureau Would Extend Cow Inspection

More money for the continuation of the bovine tuberculosis eradication work is being asked for by the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation, acting in common with other organizations interested in progressive agriculture. The appropriation which was made when the bill was passed by the last legislature was very inadequate, and all available funds for the work ran out October 1st. The Federation has asked the governor's council to make a special appropriation out of emergency funds, so that the good work can go on.

The bovine tuberculosis eradication act passed by the last legislature provides that the state shall partially reimburse cattle owners for losses when their cattle are condemned after being subjected to the tubeuculosis test. Federal funds are also available for a partial reimbursement, thus giving the farmers of the state for the first time an opportunity to free their herds from tuberculosis and receive some reasonable compensation for the condemned animals. Previously the possibility of suffering a ruinous loss made them slow to have their herds tested, and the state was much behind other states in the tuberculosis eradication work.

Why the Moon Is Arid.

The moon is a smaller globe than the earth. Its gravity is only one-sixth of that of ours. As a consequence the atmospheric pressure normal to the moon is far too low to condense water. Steam issuing from a vent remains steam. The internal forces of the steam's molecules are greater than the attractive force of the moon. Steam flew away as it emerged, leaving the moon arid and waterless. —Chicago Tribune.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS

Essex, ss. Superior Court. In Equity.

Samuel I. Goldberg, of Peabody, in the County of Essex, plaintiff, against Charles G. Halpert of Detroit, Michigan and James E. McVann, Horace P. Farnham and Morris Goldstein all of said Peabody, in the County of Essex, defendants.

This is a bill of complaint wherein the complainant alleges that Charles G. Halpert, acting by his agent, James E. McVann, did on or about September 29, 1922, agree to sell to Samuel I. Goldberg the premises on Main Street, Peabody, Mass. fully described in the said bill of complaint, for [illegible] five thousand five hundred dollars ($35,500), subject to a mortgage held by the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank of Peabody, and the taxes for 1922; that said Goldberg was ready and willing to perform his part of the agreement, but, owing to said McVann's absence on a vacation was delayed in securing a transfer of title until McVann's intended return on October 10, 1922; that on October 10, 1922, while McVann was still absent, said Halpert came to Peabody and refused to transfer title unless a price of forty thousand dollars ($40,000) was paid by Goldberg, and later on the same day did make a transfer of said premises to one Morris Goldstein; that said Halpert and Horace P. Farnham did conspire together with said Morris Goldstein to defraud said Goldberg of said property.

The prayer of the bill is for an injunction for specific performance and for damages.

Now it appearing that said defendant Charles G. Halpert resides out of this Commonwealth and in a part of the United States east of the Mississippi River, it is ORDERED: —That notice be given to said defendant to appear and answer the plaintiff's bill within one month from the first Monday of December next, by causing him to be served with an attested copy of this order, as soon as may be, or by publishing such copy in the Peabody Enterprise, a newspaper printed in Peabody, in our County of Essex, three times in different weeks, within thirty days from the date hereof, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the time of appearance.

Attest:—
A. N. FROST,
Clerk.

The foregoing is a true copy of order.
Attest:—
GEO. R. LORD, Ass't. Clerk.

Photo shows John Nash, known as the "Brother John, the Miracle Man", at Prayer Cross in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, which marks the spot where the first Christian services were held on the North American continent by Sir Francis Drake. Brother John walked 3,000 miles across the continent to say a prayer at the cross. He now contemplates walking on the water thru the Golden Gate Straits—the entrance to San Francisco Bay—which, he says, he can do as easily as he survives the rattlesnake bites to which he submits to prove himself a true healer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Foste... Lynnfield street will celebra... 25th wedding anniversary tom... evening, when they will be pleased ... see their friends.

Mrs. John Swanton and daughter Ruth of Lynn street are ill with diphtheria.

Miss Irene Skinner has returned after spending the past three months at Madison, N.H.

Mrs. Frederick Carpenter of Brown street returned from the Thomas hospital Wednesday, where she underwent an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Byron of Mahaffey, Pa., are visiting Mrs. Byron's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Watkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Osgood and son Fred of Lake Shore Park motored to Gloucester last Saturday to see the International boat race.

Mrs. Georgia Day and son Joseph of Lynn are spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Newhall.

There are two cases of diphtheria in the family of Winn Broughton, Cedar Grove avenue. Helen Broughton is quite ill and David is improving at the present writing.

Miss Lillias Stewart of Lynnfield street is at the Thomas hospital, where she was operated on for appendicitis.

Miss Marjorie Ricker has returned to school after a long illness.

Rev. Robert Bakeman will speak at Overlea this evening.

Fred Curtis of Lynn street is still at the Thomas hospital, where he has been for the past three weeks.

Ladies' Aid Society of the Lake Shore Park church met with Mrs. Gould yesterday afternoon. The members are making plans for their boiled dinner and Halloween party to be held next Thursday. Mrs. Hattie Evans is chairman of the supper, with Mrs. Ralph Templin and Mrs. Oscar Joy in charge of the games for the evening.

The corner of Lynn and County streets will be the scene of more automobile accidents unless the drivers are more careful in keeping to the right and going to the right of the fountain, when entering County street. This is a blind corner on the Lynn side and "safety first" should be the watch word.

Mrs. Emily Cowan of Belgrade, Me., visited Mrs. Josephine Ricker Tuesday.

Mrs. Lou Wright of New York is visiting her sister, Mrs. Nellie Annis, for a few days.

Sewso Club will meet with Mrs. Agnes Ripley, Tucker's court, next Monday evening.

There will be a union meeting of the B. I. A. and Neighborhood Club at Davis hall next Tuesday evening. Rev. R. A. Bakeman, candidate for mayor, will speak.

The South Peabody Dramatic Club will give another evening's entertainment next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. Mr. Weld is preparing two comedy sketches with vaudeville acts between. The stage has been enlarged four feet and gives ample room for the plays which will be given during the winter.

Mrs. Josephine Ricker, Mrs. Elizabeth Eade and Mrs. Alma Curtis went to Nashua, N. H., Monday evening with the Pythian Sisters of Lynn, who put on their degree work.

The annual harvest fair and supper at the Second Congregational church was well patronized. The booths were decorated with paper chrysanthemums of all shades and autumn leaves. Mrs. Nellie Annis had charge of the decorating. The following members were chairman of the respective tables: Cake, Mrs. June Bakeman; vegetable, Henry Shaw; fancy work, Mrs. Ray Newhall; handkerchiefs, Mrs. Rose Holden; candy, Mrs. Annie Annis; variety, Mrs. Nellie Julian; aprons, Mrs. Stella Newhall; ice cream, Henry Cawley; mystery, Mrs. Emily Gregson; dolls, Mrs. Marion Parker; punch, Mrs. Sarah Swett. Each table had a corp of assistants. The entertainment was in charge of Wallace McGreggor. Tuesday evening Messrs. Leach and Osgood of Salem furnished the entertainment and they were fine entertainers, giving piano solos, vocal selections, impersonations, stories and ending with an imaginary trip to New York. The violin selections and imitations were exceptionally clever. Allan Anderson of Lynn gave some good readings also. On Wednesday evening W. E. Weld gave two short sketches which were well received, Mr. Weld taking the part of a colored gentleman in each one. The last sketch ended with a dog, (known by the name of Pep) after the intruder. Miss Ethel Hiscox of Lynn gave readings. Three little girls had been soliciting for large "mamma dolls" and these were awarded in the order named: Rhoda Whitworth, Helen Broughton and Helen Coombs. Thursday evening a supper was served to a large number, with Mrs. Emma Barnaid as general chairman. Horace Atherton was the speaker of the evening.

There were 17 women in the theatre party of the Neighborhood Club Tuesday night and an enjoyable evening was spent.

The pupils have been very enthusiastic from the beginning and much rivalry was in evidence between the different rooms during the paper collecting. The room which brought in the most papers was promised a set of games for their own use. The sixth grade was able to beat out the eighth at the last moment, through the kindness of one of the members of the Peabody Club, who gave to one of the boys all of the old magazines which had accumulated at the club.

Even the little ones helped with their contribution of papers and now the older ones are feeling that a great responsibility rests upon them to see that this project is carried out sucessfully.

KALT—ROSSLEY

The marriage on Monday of Miss M. Elizabeth Rossley of this city and Andrew J. Kalt of Detroit, Mich., was one of the prettiest of the fall weddings. The ceremony was performed at St. John' church in the presence of a large company of friends by Rev. P. J Sullivan, who also celebrated the nuptial mass which followed. The church was tastefully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, smilax and palms. Miss Margaret M. McCarthy presided at the organ and during the mass Dana's "Salve Regina" was sung by Miss Mary L. McCarthy. The bride's gown was of white crepe satin. Her tulle veil was caught coronet fashion with a band of silver and she carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Katherine F. Rossley, sister of the bride, wore a gown of American Beauty pussy willow taffeta, with a hat of silver cloth and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. The best man was Thomas J. Brown of Salem.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast attended only by the immediate families and intimate friends was served at Wardhurst, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kalt left on a trip to Canada and the Middle West. They will reside in Detroit where the groom is production manager of the Studebaker Motor Car Company.

Lowell Street

Miss Pauline Lawton has been confined to her home the past week with a severe cold.

Mrs. Alfred Phillips (nee Mae Flynn) and her infant daughter are visiting her parents on Franklin street.

Miss Mary Boettner spent the last week-end with her sister in Lynn.

Edward Billings, janitor of the Wallis school, is confined to his home on Franklin street with illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John Donovan and family have removed from Basford's court to Clement avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Macdonald and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Dodge arrived home today from an auto tour which took them through the Adirondacks and as far north as Montreal and Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. Cross (nee Jeanette Macdonald) of Belmont, formerly of Peabody, have removed to Cambridge. Mr. Cross is associated in business with the law firm of Sherman Whipple.

Daniel J. Manning and William F. Carlin returned Wednesday night from New Orleans where they attended the Legion convention. They visited several cities in the south.

...AN
...a habit to answer ...column some ques... ...al interest asked in the ... Two questions were asked ...ing the past week which prob...ly have been in the minds of quite a number of persons. One I shall try to answer today; the other will be answered next week.

Today's question is this: "What are the necessary qualifications of a good foreman?" Asked by a man in charge of a tacking loft. About a year ago there was a "Little Talk" on this subject, describing an experiment in the Simonds Saw Manufacturing Company where fifty-six foremen were asked by the general manager to describe to him what they considered the qualities of a "100% foreman." The replies spoke of 137 desirable qualities, the most prominent being shown in the following list which also gives the number of replies where these qualities were mentioned.

Secure the greatest production	29
Understand all parts of the work in his department	26
Treat the men fairly	25
Have the good-will of the men	17
Be friendly, yet dignified, with the men	16
Be loyal to the company	14
Listen to suggestions from the men	13
Have the ability to instruct the men	11
Understand human nature	11
Honesty to the men and to the company	11
Always be on time	10
Should study the men	10
Accept suggestions from the superintendent	8
Be tactful	8
Have the confidence and co-operation of the superintendent	7

These are some of the ideas of some of the foremen in one manufacturing establishment.

Let us look a little deeper into the reasons of these different qualities and endeavor to understand why they the desirable.

We cannot exhibit a desirable quality until and unless we want to do so, and that want must be so strong that we are willing to study and practice until we reflect or radiate that quality as part of our very nature. Some men are good-natured, some men are narrow, some men are kindly, others selfish and careless. We say such men have such and such a "character." We mean that they radiate from the life they are living some certain characteristics that have grown to be a life habit. Now a man's character can change and he can grow a habit that he will radiate. What then are the real basic habits that will form a strong character. Let me tell you the three big habits that are helpful. I think every man can be a success if he can form these habits. All my life I have watched the character of young men and women grow and broaden and strengthen when they cultivated and practiced three things. The habit of Good Health in body and mind; clean bodies, deep breathing of pure air, simple food, eight hours' sleep, all the exercise possible; at the same time clean thoughts, deep convictions of the right, simple pleasures, all the cheerfulness possible. The habit of Health.

Then,—the habit of Courage; keeping steadfast; never knowing when he is licked; if he fails, springing upright at once; his face toward his purpose. The habit of Courage.

And last and greatest, the habit of Faith. Faith in himself, in his work, in his fellow workers, in the men who give him orders, in the men to whom he gives orders. Faith that the right will win. This is a very difficult habit to learn. The habit of Faith.

The man who can study and can practice these three great habits will be a man of character. He cannot help but reflect and radiate from his life a splendid influence. He simply cannot help doing so. Without any seeming effort he will be kind to all who come near him and this is a great quality. "To do your work and be kind." He will be sincere and this is another wonderful quality, for when a man is known to be honest and dependable, when he doesn't camouflage his meaning or trim his words to suit the occasion, when he is true and straightforward everybody knows it. He radiates it. He will also be fair. He will give a "Square Deal" to others and expect a "Square Deal" from them and they will give it without a question.

So here we have the deep qualities of a successful life whether it be the life of a foreman or a life spent in some other occupation; the life of any man or woman who is willing to give earnest study and a lot of time to the forming of these habits. Such a life will gradually grow into Health, Courage, Faith, Kindness, Sincerity, Fair Dealing. Such a life will surely be a success. It will build up strong men and women around it.

And if that life be spent in directing the work of others, it will little by little acquire all the qualities mentioned by those fifty-six foremen, because, they will naturally branch out from the truths he has put at the foundation of his belief. His men will grow with him.

Three triangles. One at the top of this page. One,—Health, Courage, Faith. One,—Kindness, Sincerity, Fair Dealing.

PILGRIMAGE TO ROOSEVELT GRAVE

The third annual pilgrimage to Roosevelt's grave at Oyster Bay will again be one of the chief features of the observance of the chief scout citizen's birthday. As in previous years, the expedition will be under the leadership of the national scout commissioner, Daniel Carter Beard, and will include scouts and scout leaders for a considerable radius around Greater New York. Probably nearly a thousand scouts and officials will participate in the pilgrimage, which will take place tomorrow, in order that school duties may not be interfered with.

As in previous years it is expected that a group of "Buckskin Men," all old friends of the late Colonel, will be among the pilgrims to the well loved shrine, clad in the picturesque garb which seems to bring America's pioneer past to life again. There will be a brief ceremony at the grave, during which the commissioner will place a memorial wreath and the scouts will recite their oath and law. This annual pilgrimage is becoming more of an event each year and is characterized by a dignity and reverence which leaves an indelible impression upon the minds of all participating, particularly upon those youngsters in khaki, to whom Roosevelt is still the ideal hero as well as the ideal citizen.

MODERN 5 AND 10-CENT STORE

Announcement is made elsewhere in these columns of the opening tomorrow of the Modern Five and Ten Cent store in its new location in the O'Shea block. The moving of the store merchandise from its old location next to the Savings bank started today. Hymen Isenberg, the proprietor, has been established in the business in Peabody for the past 11 years and has built up a fine trade. He has taken the store formerly occupied by E. E. Gray.

Why Censorship?

To assume the need of motion picture censorship in Massachusetts is to assume that the public is indecent. Which we don't. Let us not forget that the salacious and the vulgar is but a phase and that, left to itself, public conscience always comes into operation effectively.

This conscience has undoubtedly made itself felt in the last year. Pictures have improved and the appointment of Will H. Hays to carry out further reforms within the industry is another healthy sign. Of Mr. Hays' sincerity there can be no question and he has already given tangible evidence that he can carry the work to a successful conclusion.

Why the need, then, of censorship by a single political appointee? It is a form of control that has proved utterly impracticable in those states which have tried it. Without being helpful to public morality it may well prove harmful to public interest. Censorship establishes a bureaucratic control of a form of expression of opinion. This is perilous business. Once instituted its extension to the press and pulpit is but inevitable.

The question comes up before the voters for decision in the November elections. A serious issue is involved—that of freedom of expression—and Referendum Question No. 3 should have a NO vote.

How Aluminum Occurs.

Aluminum is not found in a pure form, but in combination, chiefly as an oxide in the mineral corundum (ruby, sapphire and emery); hydrated oxide in bauxite, hydrargillite and diaspore; hydrated phosphate in wavellite; hydrous sulphate in combination with potash in alunite and in combination with oxygen and metals as aluminates, as in spinel, chrysoberyl and gahnite. It also is found as a silicate in various clays. Its chief ore is bauxite.

PRINCESS HERMINE OF REUSS AND HER DAUGHTER

On Nov. 5th, the Princess is to become the bride of former Emperor William, who says that, "I shall soon be the happiest man in the world, and no longer will I be called the solitary exile of Doorn". The Princess will receive the title of "Queen Wilhelmina of Prussia".

Peabody High School

The largest crowd ever present on the new athletic field in the rear of the high school was attracted by the Salem-Peabody football game last Saturday. Between five and six thousand people were within the gates and several hundred watched the game from the outside. Autos were parked on both sides of Central street up as far as the Andover street bridge. Many of the side streets were also lined with cars and others were parked in yards near the high school.

* * *

The Peabody cheering squad was accompanied by Lee's band from Lynn and seats were reserved for both the Peabody and Salem cheering squads.

Between the halves Ralph Holden, captain of Peabody's last year championship team, dedicated the new athletic field by raising a flag while the bands played the national anthem. Holden is now attending Brown university.

* * *

As a result of Saturday's Marblehead and Lynn Classical game, Peabody must defeat Lynn Classical to win the North Shore League.

* * *

Peabody will meet the Revere team tomororw.

* * *

Now that the Salem-Peabody game is over, the Charleston, S. C., game is the main topic of conversation. Word has been received that the southerners will arrive in Peabody at 9.30 p. m. next Friday. Peabody's guests will probably be welcomed on their arrival by a large group of people at the station.

* * *

After the game on Nov. 4, plans have been made to have a banquet and dance and on Sunday the guests will be taken on an auto trip along the North Shore.

* * *

According to the present plans the Charleston party will leave Peabody on Sunday at 11 p. m., arriving in Charleston on Wednesday at 8 p. m.

* * *

It is not known in Charleston just now how many will make the trip to Peabody, but it is expected that at least one hundred fans will accompany the team.

* * *

The school will publish a school magazine this year. It will be under the supervision of John W. Sullivan, head of the English department. The magazine was a great success last year due to the co-operation of the Peabody merchants having their advertisements inserted in the magazine. The staff will strive to make the magazine this year as great a success, if not greater, than that of last year. Following is the staff: Editor-in-chief, William Ratcliff; assistant editors, Margaret Batchelder, Cyril Meagher; literary editors, Nellie Aldrich, Michael Flynn, Elizabeth Ingraham, Willis Moore; manager, Ralph Nash; assistant managers, William Eagan, Arthur Johnson, James Mason; athletic editors, John Monroe, Ralph Drinkwater; alumni editors, Elizabeth Lummus, Paul Graves; exchanges, Raymond Burlingham, Mildred McKenzie; art editors, Irene Kelley, Blanche Hayward, Cecelia Hanley, Elizabeth Fogg. Miss Grace Loud will supervise the art department of the magazine and Miss Alice Teague will be financial adviser.

* * *

Last Friday the student body assembled in the assembly hall and football songs were rehearsed under the direction of Miss Sullivan, and cheers were rehearsed under Frank Hennessey and Elizabeth Lillis, the school cheer leaders. Coach Brawley and Faculty Manager King gave short talks on athletics. Principal Woodman also gave a short talk and showed the necessity of a larger cheering squad to compete with that of Salem.

* * *

Blue arm-bands and pennants are being sold to the students through Frank Murphy, manager of the football team, by the Peabody Rubber Co.

* * *

The high school library is now open for use, but the students have not yet begun to use it to any great extent.

* * *

Programs have been received for the meeting of the Essex County Teachers' Association in Boston, Nov. 3rd. Mr. Woodman is vice president of the association this year.

KIDDIES SIX

NOD-A-VILLE

TO THE quaint old town of Nod-a-Ville,
Out there in the Sundown West;
Just over the crest of Slumber Hill,
Where the evening shades lie cool and still,
And the birds have gone to rest—
To a quaint old house on Quiet Street,
Deep shaded by Sleepy Tree,
While the sighing breeze sings low and sweet
My babies three—with me.

Dick-e-Dum marches with air sedate,
And Margy-ree—half-past two—
Waddles along with a queer-toed gait,
Worried for fear that she may be late,
And the dark blot out the view.
But Charlotte May—brand-new you know—
She couldn't climb Slumber Hill—
So she rides a knee the journey through,
And the only comment she makes is "goo-goo,"
On the way to Nod-a-Ville.

In the quaint old house they softly creep
As the sun sinks in the west;
And kneeling there in the silence deep
They whisper their "lay me down to sleep,"
And in God's strong arms rest.
O, Nod-a-Ville! Through all the night
May angels watch o'er thee;
And when the morning has dawned clear, bright
Send back their faces rosy alight
My babies three—to me.

BOWLING

"Pat" Randall's bowling team invaded the Victor alleys Wednesday evening and went home with the scalps of the Victor bowlers. It was a good game all through and the scores made by the local bowlers, who were a picked up team, shows that the aggregation from Peabody will give a good account of themselves when they visit Wakefield next Tuesday evening to play the second game. Captain D'Entremont with 322 was high man for the Victor team, while Tuell, with 342, was high man for Randall's team.

Co-operation

Every person who reads the following paragraph and gives it a moment's consideration will, I think, accept it as true:

Our operators are desirous of giving good service and are anxious to avoid errors. Error calls simply make additional work for them; therefore, every instinct of self-interest suggests that they answer calls promptly and correctly.

Mistakes occasionally will occur, some unquestionably resulting from operating errors, others from the calling of wrong numbers by subscribers. Not infrequently some defect in the delicate equipment of the central office is found to be responsible for a fault which the subscriber attributes to the operator.

It is our duty and our desire to strengthen these weak points in our service, whether the weakness be human or mechanical, and we can do it if subscribers do not wait until criticisms become complaints.

May I suggest this form of co-operation:

If there is reasonable doubt of the accuracy of our reports, such as "don't answer", "telephone disconnected", etc., I recommend that the chief operator be called at once. She is directly in charge of the operating room and responsible for its discipline. Therefore service criticisms should be discussed with her because in the great majority of instances, she is in a position to make prompt investigation and adjustment.

If the trouble is persistent, I want to hear of it and I will be especially grateful to those whose criticisms give dates and facts upon which to base a definite inquiry.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rankin spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George MacKay of Somerville.

David Mosher of Broad street is at the J. B. Thomas hospital for a minor operation. He expects to be there about a week.

Lewis Felt has purchased a Ford touring car.

The many friends of Edward L. Pease of Lowell street will be sorry to hear that he is at the Lynn hospital undergoing a critical operation.

Benjamin P. Danforth has returned to his work as rural carrier after a two weeks' vacation.

West Peabody's Christian Endeavor has sent one delegate to the state convention being held at Springfield October 26, 28, 28 and 29. This is their president, Raymond Burlingham. We believe that he will come back with many new ideas for the progress of his society.

There will be a Halloween party at the camp fire room tomorrow evening (Saturday) at 7.30 o'clock. The room is very prettily decorated and much work and time has been spent in making this party a success.

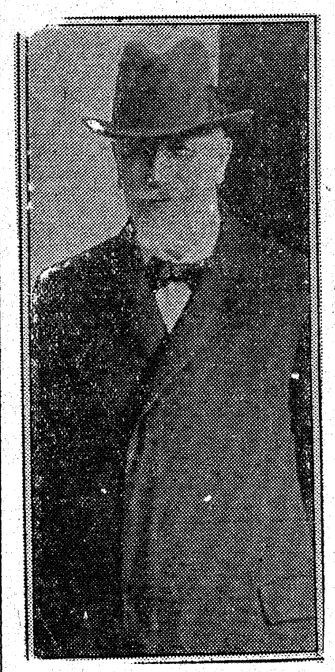
Harold Preston of Newbury street is making preparations to open a supply station on Turnpike.

Mr. and Mrs. John Trodella are receiving congratulations over the birth of a daughter, Helen Rose, born October 17 at J. B. Thomas hospital; weight 8¾ lbs.

Arno Mackie has accepted a position with the Hamblet Hardware Co., Peabody.

A few C. E. members met at the Ladies' parlor last Friday afternoon and helped to clean their room. Much improvement was made on its appearance and other improvements are now underway.

Miss Bertha Lame is confined to her home on Lake street with a sprained ankle which she received while playing at school.



Miss Louise Hunt of Boston Creet, Lynn, was the guest of Miss Susan Danforth Tuesday.

of the features of interest is that the cast consists of seven intelligent police dog in the entire world, whose performance in this production will doubtless make him the most beloved animal of the stage or screen.

"The Silent Call" is a film adaption of the Saturday Evening Post story, "The Cross Pull," by Hal G. Evarts, one of the leading authorities on American animals and forestry. John Bowers and Katherine McGuire head the cast.

Several claims have been made with entire justification for "The Silent Call." It brings as never before to the silver sheet the beauty of the Sierras. The picture is resplendent in out-door scenery and visualizes the old west. The plot centers around the rivalry of two men for leadership in their settlement and favor at the hands of the girl both covet. The dog, Strongheart, is a cross between dog and wolf, with the development of the picture showing the two strains in him struggling for mastery. Here is a picture quite different in every respect from any of the ordinary run. Howerever, while different, it is none the less entertaining.

Ben Turpin in his screamingly funny comedy, "Home Made Movies," will be an added feature on the bill for today. Mr. Turpin has never had a comedy with so many laughs. Harry Myers in an exciting chapter of "Robinson Crusoe" will be the other feature for today.

attraction on the bill for Monday and Tuesday. In addition to the starring players are to be seen Casson Ferguson and Sylvia Ashton.

Frank Mayo in "The Man Who Married His Own Wife" will be the second feature for Monday. The title of this picture is a misnomer in that it is not a so-called sex-story at all as the title would indicate. Instead it is a thrilling melodrama with Mr. Mayo in a new kind of role. The first two reels of this picture are the last word in excitement and action.

YOUR HAND

How to Read Your Characteristics and Tendencies—the Capabilities or Weaknesses That Make for Success or Failure as Shown in Your Palm

ILLNESS SHOWN IN THE HAND.

TROUBLES with the throat are indicated in the hand by nails that are moderately long, but are thin and brittle. Typhoid fever may be dreaded if there is a small square on the line of life, with a St. Andrew's cross inside, and generally with a bluish dent. Wounds are shown by spots on the line of the heart, and the line of the head will be seen to be broken under the line of Saturn, in both hands, with the two fragments overlaying each other. A wound inflicted in a fight has its mark or sign in a spot on the upper mount of Mars, and if there are fine lines on the mount of Jupiter (at the base of the forefinger), with a star at the line of the head, we may foretell or read a wound in the head.

It must be remodeled, of course, that while the hand affords many valuable indications of illness, past, present, or to come, these signs should never be used to supersede or supplant diagnosis by medical experience. Palmistry is not a science sufficiently exact for that.

FORD MACHINES SLASHED IN PRICE

According to Edsel B. Ford, pr dent of the Ford Motor Company, troit, a general reduction of $50
car has been made in the prices o
Ford model "T" cars and the For one-ton truck.

"The revision in prices," said Mr Ford, "is the result of the increase volume of business which our com

...of free expression by ...ople and for the people. ...ans further restriction of the ...vities of the people and regulation of those activities.

3. It means the vesting of power in one man to dictate what people shall see and read. It does not mean better pictures; it means that pictures must suit the ideas of one man whatever those ideas may be.

4. The present duties of the commissioner of public safety include the supervision of fire prevention, the state police and the division of explosives. An official selected for these functions would scarcely be likely ipso facto to be highly competent to form the judgment of Massachusetts as to what pictures might not be seen by the state.

5. It means hundreds of thousands of dollars added to the burden of taxation under which the people are staggering. It means the passing on of these taxes to the public in the form of higher prices of admission to the theatre.

Obviously censorship strikes at the roots of the principles upon which this government was founded and which are set forth so succinctly in Article 1 of the first amendment to the constitution, that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press . . ."

Massachusetts has now a law on the statute books which specifically provides for the imprisonment and fine of any owner, manager, director, agent or other who prepares, advertises, gives, presents, or participates in any lewd, obscene, indecent, immoral or impure show or entertainment, or in any show or entertainment suggestive of lewdness, obscenity, indecency, immorality or impurity, or any show or entertainment manifestly tending to corrupt the morals of youth.

There are like laws in other states, and there is a federal statute which covers the transportation of objectionable films in interstate commerce.

It is impossible to conceive of laws more drastic or far-reaching or providing an easier or quicker remedy for evil films.

I call your attention to these matters, which doubtless are familiar to you, merely for the purpose of explaining to you the views which are entertained by this committee. We recognize that the pictures which for a long time have been shown in Massachusetts have passed censorship boards in other states and that if censorship would help, it is already in operation. We know that better pictures come only from the co-operation of those who make them and the great American public.

Opposed, as we are, to the principle of censorship as applied to motion pictures to literature, to the press, art and other forms of expression, we urge you to inform us what has been done in the better pictures movement.

CHARLES H. COLE,
Chairman of the Massachusetts Citizen Committee Against Censorship.

October 17th, 1922.

General Charles H. Cole,
120 Boylston St.,
Boston, Mass.

My dear General Cole:

I appreciate your inquiry as to what is being done for better pictures. I am interested, of course, in the censorship referendum in Massachusetts, not only because of my concern for better pictures, but because, as you say, the principle involved is far broader than that of a political film control. It is very important indeed that we distinguish between better pictures and political censorship of pictures. The problems of the industry, incident to its relation to the public, its youth, its unpredented quick growth and its far-reaching influence, are indeed very great, but I am convinced that in their intelligent solution political censorshp has and can have no part.

There are three great groups that have certain definite rights in the creation and enjoyment of motion pictures. There are those who in any way have to do with the making of pictures or their distribution; there are those who exhibit them; but, first, and with rights far above those of the other groups, is the public. The people of the country have the absolute right to require that motion pictures shall be clean, of course, and that they shall also be of the highest standards of art and entertainment. No solution of what has been called the motion picture problem is possible and no great plan for the future can be successful without recognition of this fundamental matter, and this fact is realized and accepted by the industry.

Beginning a new drive this year for the best possible pictures, measuring up toward what the standards should be and which many pictures already had achieved, earnestly asking the public's co-operation and hoping, of course, from every possible standpoint, selfish and unselfish, to move in the right direction, they have brought out, and are bringing out, a series of pictures to which they ask the public's attention, as the evidence ...good faith and their ability to accomplish, and as augury for better things to which their every effort shall be directed. These pictures are being received in appreciation.

The whole matter of developing the full usefulness of motion pictures needs the sympathetic help of every well-wisher for better things in this nation. Be assured that what you are doing against Referendum No. 3 is a distinct contribution to a constructive program toward the only ultimately successful solution of the whole situation.

Sincerely yours,
WILL HAYS.

CITY HALL

Associate Justice William H. Fay and Councillor Nicholas Cullen furnished the only pep at the City Council meeting last night, when the former appeared in behalf of Henry Abrahams, storekeeper at the corner of Clement avenue and Washington street, asking that a Sunday license be restored to his client. In his remarks to the Council Judge Fay laid stress on the fact that Chief Grady was virtually the man who issued the victual lers' licenses, since his recommendations were accepted by the committee, he argued that it was a farce to come before the Council.

This brought from the Ward 4 Councillor a sharp rebuke, who said if men seeking Sunday licenses were not afraid of a hearing they would take the committee's suggestion and appear before the Council.' Councillor Cullen is chairman of the committee on licenses.

Judge Fay withdrew his request for another license to be issued to his client. A raid was made recently on the property of Mr. Abrahams and a still was found in the house. A tenant went to court and paid a fine of $50 on a plea of guilty of violating the liquor laws.

Franklin Larrabee, Civil war veteran and former janitor of the South school asked the Council to grant him a pension under the veterans' retirement act. He is now in the Soldiers' home in California.

Councillor Poor drew the name of Charles A. Wiggin for civil jury duty at Newburyport on Nov. 13.

On motion of Councillor Duggan, City Engineer Emerson will be before the next Council meeting to explain why a sewer is not extended on Hancock street to a small factory.

* * *

There is a report going the rounds that the official heads of Commissioner of Military Aid Andrew J. Fyfe in charge of the war veterans' bureau in this city and City Engineer Emerson will be decapitated, providing Henry Duggan takes office as Mayor.

* * *

City Collector Michael J. Sherry was one of the speakers for Col. Gaston in Lowell this week. The former representative is in much demand as a public speaker and always scores a pleasing reception. He has the voice, the vocabulary and the vim. He had much to do in the success of William P. Connery, Jr., of Lynn, who won the Democratic nomination for congress.

Interest on unpaid taxes goes into effect Nov. 1 and there is bound to be a rush at the city collector's office tomorrow and Monday in the effort to save the interest money.

There are eight cases of diphtheria in Peabody, all of which are widely scattered, and each case appears to be a mild one. The Board of Health officials are giving the closest attention to each of the cases and no alarm is felt. The newest case reported is that of Velma Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker, 47 Sutton street. The little girl is a pupil in the third grade at the Wallis school. Some weeks ago Ruth Cox, a girl in the same room, was stricken with the disease, but has completely recovered.

Final arguments in the William H. O'Connell case will be made before Judge Manning Monday. Atty. William H. McSweeney of Salem represents Mr. O'Connell and Atty. Richard Sisk of Lynn is counsel retained by City Engineer Emerson. The latter removed O'Connell from his job as fireman at the pumping station some weeks ago and the latter took his case to the court for final hearing.

morning almost in front of the Peabody Enterprise new home on Foster street showed two of the three with very poor brakes and a revocation of the registration will be reported. Seven days are allowed the owner of the truck to appear at the office of the registrar and have his brakes inspected again. Lynn, Swampscott, Salem, Marblehead and other Essex County cities and towns have been visited by the inspectors.

AMERICAN LEGION

Mrs. Helen Bomer, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, visited the Chelsea Naval hospital on Thursday as a member of the welfare committee of the Auxiliary. She carried with her cigarettes, magazines and through the kindness of N. W. Hunter, of Ward's greenhouses, an unusually beautiful collection of flowers.

Ward D was assigned to Peabody, and contained twenty-five patients. Three of these were confined to their beds and the others were in the various stages of recovery. They greeted their visitor with a whoop, as the Peabody Unit is a great favorite with the boys. After distributing her gifts, Mrs. Bomer spent some time with the boys, and found that all but three in that ward had received compensation, and were being properly cared for by the government. Some of the boys that she met were of the number that were entertained in Peabody last Thanksgiving, but all had heard of the wonderful time that these boys had, and they wanted to be remembered to their friends in Peabody. This is but the beginning of the welfare work for the winter, and it is hoped that every woman who is eligible to join this auxiliary will help to swell its ranks and carry on the good work.

An audit of the treasurer's books was made on last Tuesday evening by the executive board. It was found that the treasury was greatly depleted, and all present bound themselves to work for the success of the bazaar to be held on Dec. 12th, so that the welfare work might be carried on.

The state committee is to hold a mammoth bazaar, early in November, in the Unity House, Park square, Boston. Each county is to represent one of the European countries. Essex County has selected France, and Madam Clausel, the great French war nurse, who is in the United States on a diplomatic mission for her government, will have charge of a number of French novelties that will be introduced. Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards is honorary president of the bazaar committee, and also has charge of the rehabilitation table, at which articles made by disabled service men will be sold. Tickets can be secured from any member of the Peabody Unit, or from Mrs. Helen Bomer. A number of Peabody people have already signified their intention of going, as in addition to the tables, there will be whist and dancing each evening.

The executive board and the officers of the Peabody Unit will attend the county meeting at Andover on Saturday, Oct. 28th, at which time the reports of the state and national conventions will be read.

Relics of Confederacy.

The cell table used by Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederate States of America, while confined as a prisoner in Fortress Monroe, following the close of the war, is in the collection of interesting relics in the Confederate museum in Richmond.

PERSONALS

Calvin Kennard, older son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry D. Kennard, is a drummin the Harvard College band.

Mrs. S. Everett Knapp and daughter Miriam returned this week from a two months' visit in Cincinnati, where they visited Mrs. Harold Chapman.

Miss Estelle D'Entremont of 43 Holten street is back home after spending her vacation in Bartlett, N. H.

There will be a costume Halloween party at the South (Congregational) church vestry on Monday evening, October 30.

PEABODY GRANGE

Peabody Grange observed its ninth anniversary last night with a supper in the Universalist church vestry and entertainment. Past Masters William Watkins, George LeCain and Edward Hall, Mrs. Hooper, master of the Danvers Grange, and Perley Clark, also of Danvers, were speakers. The entertainment was furnished by the Grange quartet, and solos were rendered by Miss Marion Crofts, Clyde Oliver and Karl Glines, the latter of Beverly. Dancing was enjoyed until 11 o'clock. A large crowd was in attendance.
